...ODES IN WINTER WRAPS.

White Surah Silk Is Very Chic—New Leather Trimmings.

A delightful new evening wrap for smart occasions has just made its appearance in the sartorial world. It is of white tussore silk embroidered all over in the style known as English and lined with the palest shade of pink, mauve or blue, but seldom with white, which color is not effective with this kind of garment. This wrap is a loose three-quarter length, and pretty examples are made with triple capes and triple cuffs. As a further trimming handsome lace or a knotted silk fringe is used.

Surah silk, and more particularly white surah, is returning to favor for evening and theater capes and coats.

Soft leather, in several pastel shades, lines some of the new jackets and

A narrow insertion of colored leather in the collar of a dark cloth coat is a pretty touch, especially when the small revers are made of the material proper, plainly stitched.

The picture displays a mantle of pale biscuit cloth. The long wing sleeves are cut toward the back, and the fronts are loose. Cream lace and wide silk fringe matching in color form the trimming. The passementerie bordering the mantle is of green velvet embroidered with gold spots.

CHANGES OF FASHION.

What Mme. La Mode Decrees Shall Be Worn This Season.

In Paris the sleeve fullness has been transferred to the top at one bound, but American women adopt their modes in a more gradual fashion; consequently the fluffiness at the wrist is still seen. Before the winter is over the leg of mutton sleeve will attain favor, and a novelty is a leg of mutton model quite large above the elbow, with the lower fullness formed into tucks or stitched plaits.

Gowns with long trains look old fashioned now, and during the winter the ankle length skirt will be in decided evidence.

Many of the new skirts are made with deep flounces, but the models most liked have long lines produced by plaits, tucks or folds. Tiny flounces hardly more than ruches put close together and forming a band six or seven inches deep are favorite trimmings for taffeta and velvet frocks.

Closely fitted waists have taken the place of comfortable bloused effects.

A PEACOCK BLUE BLOUSE.

and the smartest bodices are close fitting, made over a tight lining. The material is put on in folds or gathers across the figure. The bodices usually finish in a point below the waist with tiny yokes of lace and embroidery or are merely gathered in corselet effect.

Very full blouses are no longer worn by women who affect the latest style, but the waist that blouses all around over a deep girdle is quite the thing.

The present straight front corselet will have to be remodeled to meet the requirements of the new mode, which demands the round waist lines, a point the straight front entirely ignores.

The picture represents a shirt waist of the latest cut, which may be carried out successfully in any of the challies, voiles or soft silks of the season. The model pictured is made from peau de soie of the new peacock blue shade and hangs in plaits from a round yoke trimmed with satin bias strips of silk and small bronze buttons.

The Mississippi Bubble

By EMERSON HOUGH

(Copyright, 1902, by Emerson Hough.)

Catharine Knollys made no answer to him, though she looked straight and calmly into his face, seeming not in the least to see the woman near him. Her eyes were wide and shining. "Sir," said she, "keep fast to Hope! This was for Faith, and for Love!"

The jailer with one quick gesture swung wide the gate. "Haste, haste!" he cried. "Quick and begone! This night may mean my ruin! Get ye gone, all of ye, and give me time to think. Out with ye all, for I must lock the gate!"

John Law passed as one stupefied, the slender form of Mary Connynge still upon his arm. Hands of men hurried them. "Quick! Into the carriage!" one cried.

And now the sounds of feet and voices approaching along the corridor were heard. The jailer swiftly swung the heavy gate to and locked it. Catharine Knollys caught his last gesture, which bade her begone as fast as might be. Her feet were strangely heavy, in spite of her. She reached the curb in time to hear only the whir of wheels as a carriage sped away over the stones of the street. She stood alone, irresolute for half an instant as the crunch of wheels spun up to the curb again. A hand reached out and beckoned; involuntarily she obeyed the summons. Her wrist was seized, and she was half pulled through the door of the carriage.

"What!" cried a voice. "You, Lady Catharine! Why, how is this?"

It was the voice of Will Law, whom she knew, but who certainly was not the one who had brought her hither. The Lady Catharine accepted this last situation as one no longer able to reason. She sank down in the carriage seat, shivering.

"Is all well?" asked Will Law, eagerly.

"He is safe," said Lady Catharine Knollys. "It is done. It is finished."

"What does this mean?" exclaimed Will.

"His carriage—there it is. It goes to the ship—to the Pool. He and Mary Connynge are only just ahead of us. You may hear the wheels. Do you not hear them?" She spoke with leaden voice, and her head sank heavily.

"What! My brother—Mary Connynge—in that carriage—what can you mean? My God! Lady Catharine, tell me, what do you mean?"

"I do not know," said Catharine Knollys. All things now seemed very far way from her. Her head sank gently forward, and she heard not the words of the man who frantically sought to awaken her to speech.

From the prison to London Pool was a journey of some distance across the streets of London. Will Law called out to the driver with savagery in his voice. He shouted, cursed, implored, promised, and betimes held one hand under the soft, heavy tresses of the head now sunk so humbly forward.

The mad ride ended at the quay on Thames side, where the shadows of the tall buildings lay rank and thick upon the earth, where tarry smells and evil odors filled the heavy air, penetrated none the less by the savor of the keen salt air. More than one giant form was outlined in the broad stream, vessels tall and ghost-like in the gloom, shadowy, suggestive, bearing imprint and promise of far lands across the sea.

"To the brigantine beyond!" cried Will Law to the wherryman who came up. "We want Capt. McMasters, of the Polly Perkins. For God's sake, quick! There's that afoot must be caught up within the moment, do you hear!"

The wherryman touched his cap and quickly made ready his boat. Will Law, understanding naught of this swift coil of events, and not daring to leave Lady Catharine behind him at the carriage, made down the stairway, half carrying the drooping figure which now leaned weakly upon his shoulder.

"Pull now, man! Pull as you never did before!" cried he, and the wherryman bent hard to his oars.

Yet great as was the haste of those who put forth into the foggy Thames, it was more than equalled by that of one who appeared upon the dock, even as the creak of the oars grew fainter in the gloom. There came the rattle of wheels upon the quay, and the sound of a driver lashing his horses. A carriage rolled up, and there sprang from the box a muffled figure which resolved itself into the very embodiment of haste.

"Hold the horses, man!" he cried to the nearest bystander, and sprang swiftly to the head of the stairs, where a loiterer or two stood idly gazing out into the mist which overhung the water.

"Saw you aught of a man," he demanded hastily, "a man and a woman, a tall young woman—you could not mistake her? 'Twas the Polly Greenway they should have found. Tell me, for God's sake, has any boat put out from this stair?"

"Why, sir," replied one of the wherrymen who stood near by, pipe in mouth and hand in pocket, "since you mention it, there was a boat started but this instant for midstream. They sought McMaster's brigantine, the Polly Perkins, that lies waiting for the tide. 'Twas, as you say, a young gentleman, and with him was a young woman. I misdoubt the lady was ill."

"Get me a boat!" cried the newcomer. "A sovereign, five sovereigns, ten sovereigns, a hundred—but that ship must not weigh anchor until I board her, do you hear!"

The ring of the imperative voice, and moreover the ring of good English coin, set all the dock astir. Straightway there came up another wherry with two lusty fellows, who laid her at the stair where stood the impatient stranger.

"Hurry, men!" he cried. "'Tis life and death—'tis more than life and death!"

And such fortune attended Sir Arthur Pembroke that forsooth he went over the side of the Polly Perkins, even as the gray dawn began to break over the narrow Thames, and even as the anchor-song of the crew struck up.

CHAPTER XVI.

WHITHER.

A few hours later a coppery sun slowly dispersed the morning mists above the Thames. The same sun warmed the court yards of the London jail, which lately had confined John Law, convicted of the murder of Beau Wilson, gentleman. It was discovered that the said John Law had, in some superhuman fashion, climbed the spiked walls of the inner yard. The jailer pointed out the very spot where this act had been done. It was not so plain how he had passed the outer gates of the prison, yet those were not wanting who said that he had overpowered the turnkey at the gate, taken from him his keys, and so forced his way out into London city.

Far and wide went forth the proclamation of reward for the apprehension of this escaped convict.

Yet though the authorities of the law made full search in London, and indeed in other of the principal cities of England, they got no word of the escaped prisoner.

The clouded dawn which broke over the Thames below the Pool might have told its own story. There sat upon the deck of the good ship Polly Greenway, outbound from Thames' mouth, this same John Law. He regarded idly the busy scenes of the shipping about him. His gaze, dull and listless, looked without joy upon the dawn, without inquiry upon the far horizon. For the first time in all his life John Law dropped his head between his hands.

Not so Mary Connynge. "Good sir," cried she, merrily, "'tis morning. Let's break our fast, and so set forth on our voyage."

"So now we are free," said Law, dully. "I could swear there were shackles on me."

"Yes, we are free," said Mary Connynge, "and all the world is before us. But saw you ever in all your life a man so dumbfounded as was Sir Arthur when he discovered 'twas I, and not the Lady Catharine, had stepped into the carriage? That confusion of the carriages was like to have cost us everything. I know not how your brother made such mistake. He said he would fetch me home the night. Gemini! It sure seems a long way about! And where may be your brother now, or Sir Arthur, or the Lady Catharine—why, 'tis as much confused as though 'twere all in a play!"

"But Sir Arthur cried that my ship was for France. Yet here they tell me that this brigantine is bound for the mouth of the St. Lawrence, in America! What then of this other, and what of my brother—what of us—what of—?"

"Why, I think this," said Mary Connynge, calmly. "That you do very well to be rid of London jail; and for my own part, 'tis a rare appetite the salt air ever gives me!"

Upon the same morning tide there was at this very moment just setting aloft her sails for the first high airs of dawn the ship of McMasters, the Polly Perkins, bound for the port of Brest.

She came down scarce a half-dozen cable lengths behind the craft which bore the fugitives now beginning their journey toward another land. Upon the deck of this ship, even as upon the other, there were those who waited eagerly for the dawn. There were two men here, Will Law and Sir Arthur Pembroke, and whether their conversation had been more eager or more angry, were hard to tell. Will Law, broken and dejected, his heart torn by a thousand doubts and a thousand pains, sat listening, though but half comprehending.

"Every plan gone wrong!" cried Sir Arthur. "Every plan gone wrong, and out of it all we can only say that he has escaped from prison for whom no prison could be enough of hell! Though he be your brother, I tell it to your face, the gallows had been too good for John Law! Look you below. See that girl, pure as an angel, as noble and generous a soul as ever breathed—what hath she done to deserve this fate? You have brought her from her home, and to that home she cannot now return unsmirched. And all this for a man who is at this moment fleeing with the woman she deemed her friend! What is there left in life for her?"

Will Law groaned and buried his own head deeper in his hands. "What is there left for any of us?" said he. "What is there left for me?"

"For you?" said Sir Arthur, questioningly. "Why, the next ship back from Brest, or from any other port of France. 'Tis somewhat different with a woman."

"You do not understand," said Will Law. "The separation means somewhat for me."

"Surely you do not mean—you have no reference to Mary Connynge?" cried Sir Arthur.

Will bowed his head abjectly and left the other to guess that which sat upon his mind. Sir Arthur drew a long breath and stopped his angry pacing up and down.

"It ran on for weeks," said Will Law. "We were to have been married. I had no thought of this. 'Twas I who took her to and from the prison regularly, and 'twas thus that we met. She told me she was but the messenger of the Lady Catharine."

Sir Arthur drew a long, slow breath. "Then I may say to you," said he, "that your brother, John Law, is a hundred times more traitor and felon than even now I thought him. Yonder he goes"—and he shook his fist into the enveloping mist which hung above the waters. "Yonder he goes, somewhere, I give you warning, where he deems no trail shall be left behind him. But I promise you, whatever be your own wish, I shall follow him into the last corner of the earth, but he shall see me and give account for this! There is none of us he has not deceived utterly, and like a black-hearted villain. He shall account for it, though it be years from now."

CHAPTER XVII.

THE DOOR OF THE WEST.

"Nearly a league farther, Du Mesne, and the sun but an hour high. Come, let us hasten!"

"You are right, Monsieur L'as," replied the one addressed, as the first speaker seated himself on the thwart of the boat in whose bow he had been standing. "Bend to it, mes amis!"

John Law turned about on the seat, gazing back over the length of the little ship which had brought him and his comrades thus far on the wildest journey he had ever undertaken. Six paddlers there were for this great canot du Nord, and steadily enough they sent the thin-shelled craft along over the curling blue waves of the great inland sea. And now their voices in one accord fell into the cadences of an ancient boat-song of New France:

"En roulant ma boule, roulant, Roulant, rouler, ma boule roulant."

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

PLENTY OF TIME LEFT.

End of the World, Predicted Many Times, Said to Be 3,000,000,000 Years Off.

One of the earliest recorded failures to bring all creation to an ending crash was that of the old bishop of Hippo. When his scheme of annihilation did not connect in 395 A. D., the bishop went over his figures once more, and declared that he had been a century out of the way. This restored his standing as a prophet, and made it sure that he, at least, would not live for a second disappointment. His courage in readjusting dates has come down the ages without his discretion in setting the end far enough ahead to dodge the issue, says the New York World.

In the year 1000 all Christendom went into terror, and many persons died of fright because that year had been set as "the time appointed" by a Scripture-crazed seer. In 1212 great populations crowded the Italian shores of the Mediterranean waiting for the sea to dry up, as had been promised by some crank, so that they might walk to Jerusalem for the general perishing. In 1335 an Italian priest scared half of Europe out its wits by issuing a general warning to put on the last bridal robes. And so the direful foretellings went on until there came the plunge of Steiffel in the sixteenth century.

Steiffel was amathematician and a friend of Luther. For 20 years, or some such matter, congregations had listened to him, believing him to be "the seventh angel named in the Apocalypse." When he fixed upon Monday, October 3, 1533, as the day and eight o'clock in the morning as the hour, for the earth to go out of business, he was able to set a great crowd of people to moaning and groaning. Previously, at his urging, these people had separated themselves from most of their worldly goods. As the hour passed and destruction came not, the lamentations turned to denunciations. Herr Steiffel then got such a mobbing as has not yet come even to a fashionable wedding party in a New York church.

It would take a tremendous book to follow up the later prophets of the world's end. There are few decades which have not contained one or more dates for the catastrophe. The Adventists have learned caution. They wait now hopefully, ready for the finish at "any old time." Yet in July 1880, Mr. Henry A. Chittenden, a former New York dry goods merchant, one of the believers of '42-44, sent out bulletins of belief that the very year was then upon us.

An Indiana farmer-prophet says the years 2000 is to be that of fate. Rev. A. B. Simpson, noted for his ability to life church debts, favor 1934 A. D.. Other choice dates are 1915 and 1941. The prophets have a large variety of calculations on hand, and their motto is "We try to please."

As a rule predictions of a final catastrophe in matter are based on individual readings of the Scriptures. Real scientists first occasionally—and usually by request—with the possibilities of planetary collisions, consuming solar fires and exhaustion of atmosphere. M. Flammarion weaves awful contingencies into delightfully shivery romances. But there are always waiting groups of unfortunates ready to take everything seriously. Even the new North Abingdon circular writer may catch some of these.

Pending other arrangements for their personal comfort in the premises, all who have an uncertain faith in the stability of the earth are urged to consider the view presented not long ago to the American Association for the Advancement of Science. This gives 3,000,000,000 years before the end. So may we all have time to eat, drink and be merry, and yet preserve a proper diligence.

OLD BELIEFS ABOUT HONEY

It Was Supposed to Be of Celestial Origin and a Specific for Human Ills.

Many quaint delusions prevailed in olden times about everything relating to the bee and honey. The source and composition of honey were subjects for many ingenuous speculations.

Belief in the celestial origin of honey runs through all the old treatises on apiculture, from Virgil down. It was supposed to be a kind of manna from Heaven, and its quality depended greatly on the favorable or unfavorable juxtaposition of the stars at the time of its descent.

The existence in each hive of one bee much larger than all the others was generally recognized, but it was believed to be merely a ruler or king over the rest. That this large bee was actually the queen of the whole colony never seemed to have occurred to any one until recent times.

The situation of the bee hive was in old times a matter of importance. It was placed always on the south side of a stream of water and never in a place where there were echoes, as an echo was held to be injurious to bees.

Honey appears to have been held in extraordinary favor as a universal specific for human ills. It was largely recommended as a hair restorer.

If dead bees were dried, pounded and worked up into a thick paste with the hone, its hair producing capabilities were much enhanced. For weak eyes it was recommended to take a handful of the heads of bees, burn them and mingle with the honey gathered

A prize will be given at clock golf for women at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club on Saturday afternoon.

The first round match play, eighteen holes, for the club championship of the Westfield Golf Club, will be the attraction on Saturday, and play will be continued on Saturdays, October 22 and and 29, with the finals on Election Day at thirty-six holes.

DIAMOND DUST.

J. Hervey Doane, of Park avenue, recently took excellent photographs of the Elizabeth Stars and the Plainfield A. C. baseball teams.

The New York Nationals, who will play the Plainfield A. C. here on Saturday, number fifteen men on the present exhibition trip and that many men will come to Plainfield. It has been arranged to have Mathewson and Warner for the battery, while in the infield will be McGann at first base, Billy Gilbert at second, Dahlen at short and Devlin at third. In the field will be Mertes, Donlin and Brown.

Donlin is one of the best players in the country, many clubs having tried to get him. During the season he was traded by Pittsburg to New York for McCormack and since then put up a star game. Every man on the New York team is fast and will try to win Saturday's contest.

It will be like old times to Keeler on the local diamond and as it will be the first time that he has faced Mathewson, being in a different league, it will be a matter of great interest to see him meet "Christy's" twisters. It will also be the first time that several of the players have batted against the great Matty, but they have hopes of touching him for a few hits.

It is certain that Louis Wiltse will pitch and Farmer will catch, while the infield will undoubtedly be comprised of Robertson at first, Cusick at second, Elberfield at short and Conroy on third, while in the field will be Dougherty, Cregan and Keeler. The expense of arranging this game being large, the management has increased the admission price.

FOOTBALL.

Manager George Bentley, of the Plainfild High School football team, has been trying to arrange a game with the Rahway High School for next Saturday. As yet no game has been planned for, and the date is open. There will be a practice of the team this afternoon.

LODGE NOTES.

Miantonomo Tribe of Red Men will hold its fifteenth anniversary exercises in its rooms Friday evening. The programme will include vocal and instrumental music and a dance. Delegations will be present from local and out-of-town tribes.

At the conclusion of its regular meeting tomorrow evening, Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., will begin a series of euchre contest. Prizes will be offered for the winners. The entertainment committee is to have charge, with Wm. Schorb as chairman.

Plainfield aerie, F. O. E., which was instituted Tuesday evening, will hold its regular meetings Tuesday evenings in Eagle Hall on West Second street. A large number of applications are already in and it is thought the membership will soon reach the 200 mark.

Young Woman Dead.

Miss Estelle Blazier, a nurse at the hospital, died yesterday afternoon after an illness of two weeks with typhoid fever. Miss Blazier was twenty-two years old. She is the daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. Stephen Blaizer, of West Front street. The family has been in this city for about one year, coming from Chatham, N. J. The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon from the parents' home on West Front street.

Funeral of Mrs. Pierce.

The funeral of Mrs. Evelina Barnard Pierce, who died at her home on Grove street, will be held from her late residence tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. A. C. Nickerson, pastor of All Souls' church, will officiate. Mrs. Pierce was born in Canandaqua, N. Y., and was in the eighty-second year of her age when she died. She was a member of All Souls' church.

The Thirtieth's Reunion.

The annual reunion of the Thirtieth New Jersey Regiment was held at Flemington yesterday with the following local members in attendance: Captain J. F. Hubbard, Peter and David Weaver, Nelson Runyon and Charles Freeman. Captain Hubbard was re-elected president of the association.

Mrs. J. K. VanArsdale, of New York, formerly of Grove street, is visiting at the home of her sisters, the Misses Elliott, of Madison avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Salkeld, who were recently married, are at present living with the bride's mother on West Front street. On Nov. 1 they will begin housekeeping on Linden avenue, Jersey City.

C. H. Schermerhorn, of Prospect place, was taken ill with chills and fever today while attending to his duties as manager of the Western Union Telegraph office, and was taken home.

—The fire alarm box at the corner of North avenue and Berckman street is to be removed to East Second and Berckman streets.

The Best Security.

Real Estate is the best security in the world. It cannot run away, be stolen or destroyed. It is the best, safest, surest money maker in the universe. It is the basis of all value—the foundation of wealth.

Woodland Park Lots

Irving Hoagland, of Franklin township, Somerset county, Republican candidate for the Assembly, was in North Plainfield yesterday meeting the Republican voters.

George H. Embree.
A Republican Candidate for Assembly in Union.

When asked his opinion of the political outlook Governor Murphy said the other day: "So far as I can see, this is one of the quietest campaigns I have ever known. The trouble seems to be to find the enemy. It is as though there was only one army in the field and that one is ours. There is some little talk among our opponents in Hudson county, but that is diminishing every day. The outlook for Republican success could not be better."

In answer to a question by a correspondent, Thomas Taggart, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, said this week: "The conditions in New Jersey are very encouraging for the Democratic party. The Democrats are united and harmonious in New Jersey. The nomination of Black is very popular, and there is no question in the world that New Jersey will go Democratic. It is absolutely safe for both the National and State tickets, if the good work continues in the State across the river as it is now going on."

—Miss F. May Grant, of East Seventh street, sang several very pleasing songs at the luncheon, Tuesday afternoon, given by the women of the Women's Exchange at Hillside Golf and Tennis Club.

The afternoon's session opened with a prayer service led by Rev. L. R. Howard and the reports of the various committees and election of officers.

LAST RESPECTS PAID TO SAMUEL A. WALLACE

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD AT HOME OF HIS BROTHER-IN-LAW.

Many friends gained by long personal contact as a resident and others made in the business world, gathered at the home of H. Mulford Estil on Grove street, yesterday afternoon, when funeral services were held over the remains of his brother-in-law, Samuel A. Wallace. They were in charge of Rev. A. E. Finn, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, and were very simple in character. The floral tributes were profuse and included many large set pieces, one of them being from Amity lodge, F. and A. M., of Lambertville, which he joined in November, 1854.

The body was afterward interred in Hillside cemetery, the pall bearers being Theodore Runyon, M. C. Dobbins, Fred Pope and J. Hervey Doane, of this city; Judson Voorhees, of Cranford, and Robert Gale, of Baltimore, the latter having been his business partner for many years.

A Trip Beautiful.

Fall vacations have a peculiar charm that is rapidly making them more popular than the July or August sojourns. The Hudson River Day Line has been carrying hundreds of passengers daily to points along the beautiful river where connection is made by rail to all the Adirondack retreats, and carrying them back again after they have enjoyed nature in all its crispness. The Day Line's excursions have become so popular that the daily trips will be continued through October, last up trip October 29; last down trip October 31. Boats leave the Desbrosses street pier, New York, daily except Sunday at 8:40 a. m.

Borough Democrats Alert.

William H. Page, of Far Hills, N. J., a New York lawyer, will address the North Plainfield Democrats at a mass meeting to be held next week. At this meeting a reception to the Congressional, Assembly and shrievalty candidates will be given. The affair will take place in the Democratic headquarters, No. 79 Somerset street.

—The Acme Club will conduct a dance in Democratic Hall on Friday evening, October 28. Music will be furnished by O'Reilly.

SIDE LIGHTS ON TIMELY TOPICS NOTED IN PASSING.

Editorially the Newark Evening News has this to say of "the color line in Union:

"Probably the most interesting local question that is vexing any county in this State at the present time is that which has suddenly risen into prominence in Union County. It is, in effect, the race question, and while some local politicians affect to believe it will amount to nothing, there are others who are quite certain that it will prove a highly important, if not a deciding, factor in the coming election in that county.

"Last year, it will be recalled, the Republicans nominated for coroner a highly respectable, educated negro, a practising physician in Plainfield. He was fully competent to fill the position, a gentlemanly, courteous, conscientious man of good character, and as the office is practically useless and the last one on the ticket, it was thought that this nomination would please the colored voters and not offend the white ones.

"The result was astounding. It brought about the complete, overwhelming defeat of the whole Republican ticket. In 1901 the Republicans carried the county by 1,427 plurality; in 1902 by an average of 1,354 on the Assembly vote. Last year the county elected three Democratic Assemblymen by an average plurality of 760, but the negro nominee for coroner was defeated by 3,924 votes. The election of Democratic assemblymen was accounted for in large part by factional fights and the bolting of the Plainfield Republicans, but the defeat of the colored man by more than five times the majority against the Assemblymen was the undoubted result of the race question.

"What's going to happen this year? Already there are intimations on the part of some of the colored voters that this is the time to square accounts. Not by voting against Roosevelt, for he is their ideal of a President. His treatment of Booker T. Washington is to them eminently satisfactory, and the brutal, anarchistic sentiment recently uttered by Representative Heflin, of Alabama, has intensified their appreciation of the President. But the rest of the Republican ticket may or may not be safe in the hands of the colored voters of Union. They remember what the State committee did in the Robinson-Casey controversy, and they are still bitter over the race antipathy manifested last year, but just what they have made up their minds to do has not yet been publicly announced.

"Union County has about 20,000 voters, all told, and its Republican majorities run, as already indicated, from 1,200 to 1,800, though it has on special occasions given as high as 2,500. If only 1,000 negro voters retaliated this year by voting the Democratic ticket, they would wipe out the Republican majority in great part, if not in its entirety, and there is said to be some anxiety lest this may be done. Whether the 'long green' will prove a salve to the lesions and bruises of last year is a question that the campaign managers are earnestly discussing; but that quite a number of colored voters are whispering 'Remember Dr. Anderson' is beyond question. The race issue in Union County is no insignificant matter."

SUNDAY-SCHOOL CONVENTION CLOSES

Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass is Chosen President of Union's Association.

LIST OF APPOINTMENTS

Reports and Addresses Made by Men and Women Prominent in Sunday-School Work.

The afternoon programme of the Union County Sunday-school Association, held yesterday in the First Baptist church, proved to be of peculiar interest and benefit to the large army of superintendents and teachers present. The election of officers was laid over until the evening session, owing to the absence of the chairman of the nominating committee, George Hall, and after the notice of the New Jersey State Sunday-school Association convention, to be held at Burlington, November 15-17, was given, there were brief remarks from the State officers present. These were of a congratulatory nature.

Then there was the presentation of diplomas by the president to all the schools contributing three cents per member to the State and county work. After a short session of general business, Miss J. L. Baldwin, of Newark, presented the many advantages of music as a factor in Sunday-school work. She gave many valuable hints as to the use of music at sessions of the school.

Perhaps one of the most interesting numbers on the afternoon programme was the address on "Good Citizenship and the Sunday-school," by Rev. Minot C. Morgan, of Summit. He gave a strong and forcible talk along the line of citizenship and what it should consist of to be of benefit to a community. He spoke of the multitude that do not live in Christian homes and of those who do, yet fail to profit thereby, and said that here is where the Sunday-school steps in. He referred to the great influx of foreign population and said that between 1890-1900 one tenth of those coming to this country as foreigners located in New Jersey. It is only through the church and Sunday-school that these people can be reached, said Mr. Morgan. He spoke of the many nationalities that are settling in New Jersey and he thought that it is specially the duty of the Sunday-school to look after the boys, who will some day become voters and the girls, who some day will become factors for good or evil. He believed that teachers and officers in Sunday-school work are engaged in a patriotic mission, when they labor with the children, and that one cannot measure the influence thus exerted.

The rest of the afternoon programme was devoted to a presentation of the various departments of Sunday-school work and then the school as a whole. Mrs. J. M. Dudley, of Elizabeth, spoke concerning the cradle roll, and told what a factor it has become in the Sunday-school, being the stepping-stone to the higher grades. Miss Helen Beebe, of Westfield, told of the beginners' department for children from three to six years of age. She gave helpful hints as to the simple exercises used to interest the little ones.

The primary department was ably presented by Mrs. J. A. Powlison, superintendent of that deparment in the First Baptist church Sunday-school. She took the place of Miss Elizabeth Chandler, of Summit, who could not attend. She told of her successful methods in conducting the primary department. Miss Edith Cairns, also of the First Baptist church, being superintendent of the junior department, gave a helpful talk on her work among children between the ages of nine and thirteen years. The boys and girls are in separate classes, each one has his or her Bible and a systematic course is followed.

In the secondary division, Rev. E. M. Fergusson spoke for the intermediate department, for pupils between the ages of twelve and thirteen years. In this department there is a four years' course and teachers are allowed to remain there at the discretion of the officers of the school, thus a rivalry results among the teachers to stay in the department.

Mrs. Alonzo Pettit, of Elizabeth, held the close attention of all while she told of the senior department where the teacher is prepared for greater work. Her remarks were full of interest and deep thought.

Stephen Cahoone, of this city, spoke

MAYOR'S FATHER CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

William L. Smalley, one of the most respected citizens of the borough, observed the eighty-sixth anniversary of his birthday on Wednesday and throughout the day he received many callers who congratulated him. Despite Mr. Smalley's advanced age he is enjoying excellent health. Being born on the Smalley farm in Basking Ridge, Mr. Smalley has spent all his life in Somerset county. He has lived in Craig place for a great many years.

Several years ago he was one of the best known butchers in this part of the State. He has always been active and greatly interested in current events. In politics he is a strong Republican. Mr. Smalley's family consists of his wife, who like himself enjoys good health for one of her years, and seven children, Mayor Newton B. Smalley, David C. Smalley, William L. Smalley, Jr., Jedediah Smalley, Miss Lizzie Smalley, Albert Smalley and Mrs. David King.

NOMINEES TO TOUR SOMERSET IN AN AUTO

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES TO MAKE A FLYING TRIP.

Charles C. Black, the Democratic candidate for Governor, with Congressional candidate Robert L. Stevens and the county nominees, Daniel H. Beekman, who is a candidate for the Assembly, and Frank Talmadge Ross, the shrievalty candidate will make a tour of Somerset County on Thursday, Oct. 25, in an automobile. The itinerary is as follows:

Bernardsville, 9 a. m.; Bedminister, 10 a. m.; North Branch, 11 a. m.; Neshanic, 12 noon; Harlingen, 1 p. m.; Millstone, 2 p. m.; Bound Brook, 3 p. m.; Raritan, 5 p. m. At Somerville in the evening a large mass meeting will be held.

The stopping places have been chosen as being the most populous sections in the county and their location is such that the voters may assemble with as little convenience as possible, thereby enabling Candidate Black to personally meet a large number of Somerset's citizens. Newspaper correspondents will also be among the party. Four automobiles will carry the party over the county. Senator Childs will also accompany the leaders and everything is being done to have the party meet at the different points by large numbers of voters. This will be the first flying political tour that Somerset has been treated to. Mr. Black cannot devote more than one day to the county, so the leaders will adopt the autos to make the trip in.

The mass meeting to be held in Somerville will draw a large crowd. The North Plainfield Democratic Club will probably attend the meeting in the evening at Somerville. They will make the trip on special trolleys.

BADLY SCALDED.

William Schorb, Jr., Knocks Over Pail of Boiling Water on His Lower Limbs.

William Schorb, Jr., of East Front street, met with an accident at Wilson's stone crusher in the "Notch" yesterday afternoon, in which his lower limbs were badly scalded. He was playing about the engine room waiting for his father to quit work when he knocked over a pail of boiling water that had just been drawn from the engine boiler. The contents fell upon him, most of it running down the right leg which was stripped of skin from the knee to the ankle. The leg was also scalded.

As no remedies were at hand, the boy was picked up by his father and hurried home by trolley, Dr. Lufburrow being summoned in the meantime. The physician found the burns of a very painful nature but declared the young patient was in no danger.

Church Society's Committees.

These committees have been appointed for the coming year by the president of the Woman's Society for Christian Work, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church: Refreshments, Mrs. William C. Hubbard, Mrs. Frank H. Smith, Mrs. Charles H. Dunham; entertainment, Miss Ernestine C. Smith, Mrs. Asa F. Randolph, Dr. Martha Stillman; chairman of the directoresses, Mrs. T. C. Smith.

CLINTON RANDOLPH DEAD

SIXTY YEARS OLD

The many friends of Clinton F. Randolph were shocked today to hear of his death which occurred at 320 Central avenue, Trueli Court, at 4:45 this morning, after an illness of less than three days. He was in his sixty-first year and is survived by his wife.

Mr. Randolph was the son of the late Isaac F. and Isabella Randolph, and was born in Piscataway township on his father's farm. The family moved to this city in the early sixties, to the homestead at 514 Madison avenue, where Mr. and Mrs. Randolph lived until three years ago. Mr. Randolph had two sisters Mrs. Louise F. R Gilbert (wife of former Mayor Gilbert) who died four years ago last March, and Miss Alice F. Randolph, of 170 Crescent avenue. In July, 1876, he married Miss Emma Huyler, of North Plainfield, who survives him.

Mr. Randolph had been for many years New York manager for C. Rogers & Bro., and was widely known as one of the best posted and most successful men in his line of business. He had secured a large clientele by his honest, straightforward business methods. In social life he had a large circle of friends, whom he had won by his kindly ways and genial disposition.

The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the First Baptist church.

WEDDED QUIETLY IN ST. MARY'S CHURCH

MICHAEL J. HIGGINS AND MRS. CARRIE CARBONE MADE MAN AND WIFE.

In the presence of only relatives and near friends, Mrs. Carrie Carbone, of Park avenue, and Michael J. Higgins, of Plainfield avenue, were married in St. Mary's church yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Egan. Mr. and Mrs. David Ramozetti, of Park avenue, the former a brother to the bride, were the only attendants.

Following the ceremony a reception took place at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. Thomas Roddy, of Plainfield avenue. It was attended by a large number of guests and Mr. and Mrs. Higgins were continually in receipt of congratulations. They left today for Vineland to spend a short time and will afterward make their home on Park avenue. Both bride and groom are widely known throughout the city.

A Pleasant House-Warming.

Surprised by about twenty of his friends from the Odd Felows and the Daughterss of Rebekah, John Kriney, of Clinton avenue, was given a delightful time last evening at the occasion of the house-warming in his new home. The time was pleasantly spent with music and games, refreshments being served in the latter part of the evening. The committee in charge of the surprise party consisted of the following members of the Daughters of Rebekah: Mrs. Peter VanFleet, Mrs. Ludgate, Mrs. Kettlering.

Ready for Finals.

The preliminary and second rounds have been played in the Plainfield High School girls' tennis tournament, and the deciding matches will take place this afternoon on the Albert street courts. The results so far are as follows: Miss Cogan defeated Miss May Hallett, 6-2, 6-1; Miss Emily Hallett defeated Miss Pierson, 6-2, 6-2; Miss Taylor defeated Miss Gardner, 6-4, 7-5; Miss Ostrom defeated Miss Serrell, 6-3, 2-1, unfinished. The semi-finals and concluding seats will take place this afternoon.

Democratic City Convention.

The local Democrats have fixed upon Wednesday evening, October 19, as the date for their city convention. A full ticket is to be named, including mayor and city judge. A. H. Atterbury is likely to be named for mayor and the Democrats will devote more than the usual energy in seeking his election.

FIRED THE FIRST GUN

THREE SPEAKERS

Addresses by Former Mayor Gilbert, Hon. Clark E. Carr and Hon. Oscar F. Huntly.

Practically the first Republican gun in the local campaign, was fired at Reform Hall last evening, when the initial of several mass meetings was held. Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert presided as chairman and gave one of the addresses, the others coming from Hon. Clark E. Carr, of Illinois, former minister to Denmark and Hon. Oscar F. Huntly, of Alabama, a former senator. Previous to the gathering, the Independent Fife and Drum Corps marched through the streets and worked up considerable enthusiasm. The hall was well filled and the attendance included a large number of women, most of whom looked wise and nodded approval when the orators touched on the questions of the day.

Mr. Gilbert was the first speaker and devoted most of his time to telling of the character of Theodore Roosevelt, the Republican's nominee. He declared it to be clean and above reproach. The President is a commanding figure, a statesman, a soldier and a man of affairs. His policy and that of the Republican party, he said, is one that reaches to the roots of the people and stimulates prosperity, making the good times that the Democrats ascribe to Providence.

"We've had depression every time the Democrats have been in," said Mr. Gilbert, "but they always declare it to be 'luck.' It's a crime for a party to be habitually unlucky and they have as much right to be as they have to be incapacitated. They say Roosevelt is a good man but they are afraid of him because he is unsafe, he lacks deliberation and something might happen. Nothing has so far and he has been president for three years. He has been criticised but happily his critics are among the Democrats."

In conclusion he spoke of the administration under the Roosevelt regime and financially, he declared, it was never better. The two per cent. bonds are selling at a premium and the treasury is coming out good.

"Our party is not without a blemish," he said, "but it has always advocated principals for the welfare and happiness of the people."

At the end the spoke of his personal knowledge of Edward C. Stokes, the gubernatorial candidate, who he said was a man of character, modest, unassuming and a man to be trusted.

At the outset of his address, Mr. Carr paid a pleasing tribute to W. G. Besler, of the borough, the New Jersey Central's vice president and manager, who he said had been brought up in the same town that he had, Galesburg, Ill. The former minister devoted most of his time to speaking of Judge Parker in a sarcastic vein, alluding to him as "a vendered Democrat." "The famous gold telegram," he said, "was a tribute to McKinley but outside of that nobody knows of anything he has done. He does not represent Democratic ideas," Mr. Carr said, "and in his very few utterances he has not dared to take an issue against the Republican party."

The address given by the former Alabama Assemblyman was filled with oratorical flights and frequently aroused much enthusiasm. Nobody, he said, knows what Parker means in his letter of acceptance and the same thing might be said of the whole Democratic platform. He referred to the Indianola postoffice trouble and the incident of the President dining with Booker T. Washington, both of which are being used as campaign material by the Democrats in the South. He defended Roosevelt's action in each and showed where in his estimation he was right. He also dwelt on the negro problem which he said was no problem at all but a strife kept up by politicians who want it for fictitious representation. He deplored the personal attacks on Roosevelt and declared the Democrats to be conducting a villainous campaign.

Church Society's Sale.

Under the auspices of the women of the Seventh-Day Baptist church a tea will be held in the church parlors tomorrow afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock. There will be a sale of fancy articles and home-made candy. The proceeds will be for the college expenses of Miss Wilson, of the denomination.

LINEUP FOR BIG GAME

Positions of New York Giants in Tomorrow's Contest.

ADMISSION FEE LOWER

Manager Johnston Decides Against High Prices—Notes on the Game.

There is every indication of favorable weather for the great ball game on Crescent Oval tomorrow afternoon, between the New York Nationals and the Plainfield A. C., and besides the great number of local fans who will be at the oval, there are assurances that there will be many from the various nearby towns along the New Jersey Central. Arrangements are about complete for handling the big crowd and every convenience will be afforded.

Yesterday the Giants had a narrow escape in a contest against the Tri-States team at York, Pa., winning out in ten innings by a score of 4 to 3. Ames and Marshall formed the battery for the New Yorkers

The champions of the National League will play in Harrisburg, Pa., today, leaving there tomorrow morning and arriving here about noon.

The entire team with the exception of Bresnahan, Bowerman and Devlin is on the trip and will appear at the oval tomorrow in uniform.

The Palinfield A. C., baseball management has fixed the prices for the game at fifty and seventy-five cents. The general admission will be fifty cents and to the grandstand seventy-five cents. It has been decided not charge $1 for grandstand seats as previously advertised.

FRESH AIR HOME OBJECT OF MEETING

REV. MR. RODMAN TO PRESIDE AT THE GATHERING.

Interesting addresses and a fine musical programme will be given Tuesday night at the Y. M. C. A. Hall under the auspices of the Netherwood Fresh Air Association. Rev. E. M. Rodman will preside at the meeting and there will be several eminent speakers.

The musical programme will be presented by Dr. Waldo, 'cello; Miss Grace Carroll, contralto; Miss Etta Raybert, soprano; William N. Runyon, bass and Miss Jessie Utter, pianist.

The work of the association during the past year will be fully presented and plans for the coming year will be considered. As there are many local societies and individuals contributing toward the support of this charity, there should be a large attendance.

ATTACKED CYCLIST.

Fritz Suhrden's Adventure on the Road Last Night.

While riding his wheel from New Brunswick to this city last night, Fritz Suhrden was attacked by three men but escaped serious injury. While Suhrden was riding just this side of Oak Tree, a stick was thrown between the front wheel of his bicycle.

Before the three men could follow up their attack, Suhrden pulled a revolver and fired several shots. The supposed robbers were not prepared for this mode of attack, and fled into the woods, from the shelter of which they hurled stones at their victim, whose wheel was too badly damaged to permit him to ride on. Suhrden managed to keep the three men at a distance until he arrived at Campbell's road house, where he left the wheel and returned to this city without further adventure.

In City Court.

Noticing a young man on a New Jersey Central coal train, yesterday, with something concealed beneath his coat, Detective Leveratt placed him under arrest. At police headquarters he described himself as George Everhart, twenty-one years old, no home. The "something" proved to be a silver picher which he admitted stealing from a house in Ashley, Pa. City Judge Runyon sent him to jail for forty days and the Ashley authorities have been informed of the arrest.

STATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL CONVENTION NEXT MONTH

ANNUAL SESSIONS TO BE HELD AT BURLINGTON NOV. 15 TO 17.

The annual State Sunday-school convention will be held in the Broad Street M. E. church, Burlington, N. J., on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, November 15 to 17. The executive committee of the New Jersey Sunday-school Association hereby invites all Sunday-schools and all county associations to elect and send representative delegates to the convention.

No pains have been spared to arrange a series of meetings without parallel for interest, scope, and prospect of practical and spiritual power. Among the speakers are Mrs. Mary Foster Bryner, of Illinois, the brilliant and versatile field worker of the International Sunday-school convention; the Rev. Dr. John T. McFarland, the new corresponding secretary of the Sunday-school Union of the Methodist Episcopal church; Dr. C. R. Blackall, Dr. George W. Bailey and C. G. Trumbull, of the Pennsylvania workers; the Rev. Frederick H. Jacobs, of Brooklyn, the world-famous leader in Christian song; and others from New Jersey equally noted and helpful, including Mrs. J. Woodbridge Barnes, International Primary and Junior Secretary.

CONCERT AT CASINO CHARMING PERFORMANCE

MISS M'REA AND MISS EMERSON DELIGHT AUDIENCE.

Good music, combined with perfect rendition, and artistic style characterized Miss Aeolia McRea's piano recital last evening at the Casino. Miss McRea was assisted by Miss Josephine Emerson, violinist. From the opening number till the last selection the audience was captivated by the remarkable musical ability of the artists.

Miss McRea's playing was wonderful, such exhibitions being rarely heard in this vicinity. The pianist has a firmness of touch, together with a fine poetic nature, which marks her as an artist at once. Her interpretations of the Grand Caprice from Haydn, and of Mendelssohn's Song Without Words, were beautiful beyond description.

Miss Emerson, with her violin held the audience spellbound. She possesses a magnetic personality, and a strong musical temperment; qualities, which combined with a tone of wonderful strength, and a flawless technique, pronounce her an artist in the highest conception of the term. She was encored many times, her selections from Beach and Rehfelt and her rendition of Schubert's Serenade, being enthusiastically applauded. The violin solo by Hauser, entitled Rhapsodi Hongroise, No. 2, was a feature of the evening's entertainment.

The programme in full was as follows: Concerto Stuck, op. 7, Weber; Larghetto, Allegro, Passionato, Adagio, Assai, Presto; La Captive, Beach, B. Spanish Dance, Rehfelt, Miss Emerson; Grand Caprice, Joseph Haydn; Rhapsodie Hongroise, No. 2, Hauser, Miss Emerson; Fantaisie, Joseph Haydn, Song Without Words, Mendelssohn; Serenade, Schubert Renenje, Miss Emerson; Impromptu, Schubert, Etude, Helier; Hejre Kati, Hubay, Miss Emerson; Polocco Brillante, Weber.

LITTLE GIRL'S FUNERAL.

Marguerite Bennett's Obsequies Held Yesterday.

In the sorrowing home of the parents on Duer street, last evening, funeral services were held over the remains of Marguerite Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Bennett. They were in charge of Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, and were attended by many relatives and friends, including the members of her class in the public school and also Miss Mabel Leek's class in Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school. The pastor spoke sympathetically and tenderly to those gathered about. A solo, "Nearer My God to Thee," was rendered feelingly by Mrs. F. H. Woodruff, accompanied by Miss VanFleet. The floral tributes were very numerous and included set pieces from the classes.

The body was placed in a receiving vault at Hillside cemetery, this morning.

FIGHTS HIS EXTRADITION

Clairvoyant Waite Has So Far Baffled Local Police.

HIS UNLIMITED FUNDS

Governor of Illinois Will Hear Chief Kiely's Evidence Monday Morning.

Backed by unlimited funds and the support of clever men who know every crook and turn of the law, Harry Waite, the swindling clairvoyant who operated in Plainfield as Professor Le Roy, is making desperate efforts to avoid extradition from Chicago to this city. As soon as Chief Kiely and Roundsman Flynn identified him positively as the man who had defrauded Mrs. Abbie Drake of $500, his friends rallied about him and he has succeeded in preventing his removal east.

In a letter to Councilman Frank Randolph, chairman of the police committee, Chief Kiely yesterday stated that he will have the fight of his life in getting Waite to Union county for trial. The man seems to have an inexhaustible supply of money and he has engaged the services of the best known criminal lawyers in the western metropolis. In addition his friends are on every side and what he is unable to do because of confinement in jail, they are taking care of. He has already been brought into court to answer the New Jersey charge but his defense was so cunningly planned that no progress was made. Realizing the resources of the fellow, Chief Kiely at once made direct appeal to the Governor of Illinois and he has consented to hear the evidence Monday morning. In the meantime the Chief and Roundsman Flynn with the help of the Chicago police will have their plans in better shape.

Although in custody on numerous occasions, the extent of Waite's influence is just beginning to get known. He has jumped cash bail in amounts as high as $5,000 and in two cities while Chief Kiely was after him, he was "tipped" off by the police. He has been swindling people for years and yet has served but very little time in jail, most of it being while courts were fixing his bail. In the event of his conviction on the Plainfield charge it will be something that the biggest cities in the country have failed to do.

Receiver for Somerville Mills.

A bill for foreclosure has been in the Court of Chancery by Bacon & Co., of New York, against the Somerville Woolen Mills. The bills states that the company is enjoying the mortgaged premises in Somerville and asks that the company be enjoined from receiving the rents. A receiver also is asked for. The mortgage in question is for $75,000. The woollen mill company on April 21 last made an assignment for the benefit of its creditors. The concern was later declared to be bankrupt and George M. Bowlby was appointed trustee.

Rev. Mr. Shaw to Attend Convention.

Rev. George B. Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, will leave next week for Crowley's Ridge, Ark., to attend the sessions of the Southwestern Association of the Seventh-Day Baptist denomination, as the joint delegate of the Eastern, Central and Western Associations. This will necessitate his absence from the church a week from tomorrow and Rev. Everett T. Tomlinson, pastor of the Central Baptist church, of Elizabeth, will occupy the pulpit in his stead.

P. S. C. Settles With Dencklau.

A settlement has been made in the suit brought against the Public Service Corporation by Frank Dencklau for injuries sustained by his running into a ditch on the corner of Watchung avenue and Front street. Mr. Dencklau was riding his wheel on Front street after dark, and it was claimed that the lights about the ditch made by the P. S. C. were not properly located.

Miantonomo's Anniversary.

The anniversary of the Miantonomo Tribe of Red Men will be one of the most elaborate affairs which has ever been conducted by the lodge. An entertainment will be provided during the first part of the evening, which will be followed by a dance and refreshments. A feature of the evening will be the presence of the entire board of grand chiefs.

Next Republican Meeting.

The next Republican mass meeting in this city will be held in Reform Hall next Thursday evening. The affair is in charge of William Newcorn, and will be similar to the one which was conducted last evening. John S. Gibson, Controller of the city of Newark, will speak on "State Issues."

Last Sunday Excursion to Mauch Chunk.

There is no more popular resort for a Sunday than Mauch Chunk, and to reach it entails a delightful rail journey, and at Mauch Chunk there is a diversity of amusement, the chief of which is a ride over the Switchback. This journey occupies more than one hour, and leads over and around the mountains with widely changing scenes at every turn. The Switchback is a gravity road, and the speed attained is close to a mile per minute. Another feature is Flagstaff, the summit of which is reached by trolley, and from its pinnacle point there is a view extending over miles and miles of beautiful county. An interesting spot close at hand is Glen Onoko, a short distance above Mauch Chunk, and, as its name implies, is a beautiful glen, with falls, cataracts, mountain paths leading to cool and delightful places. On October 16, 1904, the New Jersey Central is to run a popular excursion to Mauch Chunk from Plainfield by special train, leaving at 9:20 a. m. Returning train will leave Mauch Chunk at 5:40 p. m., and the round trip will cost but $1.50. Frequent train service will be in effect between Mauch Chunk and Glen Onoko, and the trains on the Switchback run every few minutes. 10 11 5 o

MORE COMMENT ON MARTINE'S CANDIDACY

WHAT THE PRESS HAS TO SAY OF "FARMER-ORATOR."

The Democrats are expecting James E. Martine will cut down the Republican majority in Plainfield because of his personal popularity in that city, and on the hope of Republican dissension. These are vain expectations, however, for just two reasons, first, because there is no man who is more popular in Plainfield than Congressman Fowler, and second because the Republicans of Plainfield will be unanimous in their loyalty to the party's nominations, and the election returns will show an overwhelming Republican majority.—Elizabeth Journal.

We learn that candidate Martine is doing the Absalom act, and going about quizzing men to find if they are dissatisfied about anything, and if so suggesting that a vote for him might in some way remedy the matter. This is characteristic of the man, for he has always been a rabid supporter of all the heresies advanced by his party, and ever read to shift his ground to secure success. Compared with a man of ability like Mr. Fowler he certainly make a very poor showing. This district has a commanding position in Congress because of its representative and will not sacrifice it at the solicitation of a shifty politician like his opponent.—Morristown Chronicle.

AMUSEMENTS.

The fourth week of George Ade's pictorial comedy, "The College Widow," began Monday night. Since the opening, the capacity of the Garden Theatre has been tested at every performance and Henry W. Savage's tenancy of the house has opened under the most auspicious circumstances. In the quaint characters of interest—types that we all know—Mr. Ade has struck the keynote of popular approval and "The College Widow" will probably continue her uninterrupted sway all season. Dorothy Tennant as the "widow", Frederick Truesdell as Billy, Gertrude Quinlan as the "popular waitress," Edwin Holt as Hiram Bolton and Frederick Burton as "Bub" Hicks and others have scored individual hits.

At the American Theatre Monday evening M. F. Cazelles' company of French actors opened an engagement, previous to a winter season in New Orleans, in Anicet Bourgeis' and Paul Feval's drama "LeBossu," well known to old theatregoers as "The Duke's Motto," and in which the late Charles Fechter, as Lagadere, and Charlotta Leclerq scored great triumphs years ago. The production piece was like a voice of the past. It was a well pleased audience, and one warm in its welcome, that greeted the players. The applause was frequent. The most interest centred in the performance of M. Jean Duisc, who comes to America with the reputation of a success in prominent Paris theatres. He played Lagadere. Interest attached, too, to Mme. Delphine Renor, who was chosen by Sardou to play in "Thermidor," and who took the leading feminine role last evening, that of Blanche Caysius. Mme. Renor gave an excellent, strong and dignified portrayal of Blanche and won deserved plaudits. Of the remaining players, MM. Breant, Cosset and Raymond, and especially M. Dorban, were the best. The company is a capable and a great one. It is so well trained as to make the performance a smooth and finished one.

A well constructed and delightful study of human nature close to the soil is "The Harvester," in which Otis Skinner made his first appearance at the Lyric Theatre Monday evening. It is a play that will give much pleasure to other thankful and educated theatregoers. Whether it has the elements necessary for what is known as a popular success is a question. The play was adapted by Charles M. Skinner for his brother's use from the successful French play, "Le Chemineau," by Jean Richepin. The adaptation has been cleverly made. Mr. Skinner has admirably preserved the atmosphere of the harvest time and the farm. The dialogue is remarkable for its crispness and forcibleness. As the gypsy "Harvesters," Mr. Skinner, finished actor that he is, added still another laurel to his already well filled wreath. He caught the spirit of the part perfectly, was debonair, care free, reckless and big hearted, without once striking a false note. Fortunately, Mr. Skinner was supported by a company uniformly excellent. Miss Lizzie Hudson Collier was an effective and capable Toinette, and J. M. Colville gave a remarkably good impersonation of the difficult role of the palsied Francois—not a pleasant character to watch on the stage, by the way, but still necessary to the story. Barring an inclination to drawl, Miss Maud Durbin made a charming love-sick girl.

O. F. C. vs. Westfield Eleven.

The Orange Field Club, which has up to this time been the representative team of this city, has a game with the Westfield team tomorrow. The game will be played on Orange Oval, and is expected to be an exciting contest. The Westfield eleven was one of the strongest teams in this vicinity last year, and they will line up about the same this season. They are a little heavier in the line than the local team, though the backs are about evenly matched in weight.

Concert to be Repeated.

The concert of the Y. M. U. A. orchestra, which was rendered Monday night, will be repeated next Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium. It is expected that the same programme will be given.

SPORTING NEWS.

FOOTBALL.

The Leal's football team will open its league schedule Saturday afternoon with a game with the Carteret eleven at the latter's gridiron. This is the first game for both schools in the State scholastic league, and it is anticipated with considerable interest by all the league schools. Leal's boys have been practicing hard this week, in preparation for this game, and their team is in the best form.

The football team of the North Plainfield High School will meet the Westfield High School eleven on the latter's grounds tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The game is the first of the season for the North Plainfield boys, and Captain Webster wishes to give all the candidates a trial. There are about twenty trying for the team, but the probable line-up according to Webster will be as follows: Hamilton, right half; Mundy, left half; Steiner, full-back; Webster, right end; Conover, left end; Mueck, right tackle; Ward, left tackle; VanArsdale, quarter back; Fisher, right guard; Amerman, left guard; Kipsey, center. The city and borough schools will meet on October 26. This will be the first time in several years, as the North Plainfield school has not had a team in three years. The city school is about ten pounds per man heavier than the borough aggregation, and has the advantage of more practice.

BASKET BALL.

The game of basket ball, which was to have been played at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon between the Y. M. C. A. Juniors and the Whittier School players, has been postponed to Saturday morning. This is to be the first game in the Junior basket ball league of the city. Yesterday afternoon was devoted to the practice of the various teams at the association.

There is every possibility that there will be a basket ball game at the Y. M. C. A. Monday evening. According to the time schedule at the association, Monday evenings are to be reserved for inter-association basket ball teams, and Manager Henckel is expecting to open the season next week. There will be several basket ball teams under the auspices of the association, though the evening class five will be the representative team of the Y. M. C. A. A series of games will be played with the Business Men's team and with the Hope chapel team. There has been some thought of forming an inter-association league, but nothing has materialized in this line.

DIAMOND DUST.

D. D. Bastian, formerly with the local U. S. Express office, but now with the Trenton office, has arranged to play the Philadelphia Athletics against Paterson in the latter place on Sunday, and he may stop at the Hotel Kensington with the team on Saturday night. It is said that the team, having heard of the game on here between the New York Nationals and the Plainfield A. C., when New York American League players will appear, are arranging to get here in time to see the contest.

concerning the adult Bible class and urged the adoption of methods that would bring more young men into the Sunday-school. He said that in these days there is an indifference among some persons, even teachers to ignore a strict observance of Sunday. He spoke in favor of better quality among teachers, though admitting that in this respect there had been a decided improvement during the past ten years.

W. S. Webb, of Westfield, county superintendent of the Home Department, presented strong arguments in favor of a continuation of this work and the extension of it, claiming that the greatest need of the age is a closer study of the Bible.

Then Miss J. L. Baldwin spoke briefly of the work of the Sunday-school as a whole, touching on the various phases of it. This was followed with a short address on "Teacher Training," by Rev. J. L. Coote, of Keyport, who impressed on all the necessity of giving this matter closer attention.

The afternoon session closed with a few five minute talks on the excellent results of Institute work and an open parliament by township secretaries. Among those who spoke at the parliament were Charles M. Dolliver, of district number one, and A. V. Searing, of district number two.

An adjournment was then taken until 7:30, in the meantime supper being served to the delegates.

After the song service, which opened the evening service and which was led by Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Wilson, of Providence, R. I., a short business session was held to receive the report of the nominating and other committees. In accordance with the recommendation of the nominating committee, of which C. L. C. Reeve, of Summit, was the chairman, it being impossible for George E. Hall to serve, these officers were chosen for the coming year:

President, Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, of Plainfield; first vice president, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of Plainfield; second vice president, E. L. Taylor, of Westfield; third vice president, Rev. J. B. J. Rhodes, of Cranford; secretary and treasurer, Richard P. Greaves, of Westfield; recording secretary, Rev. W. B. Hamilton, of Elizabeth; home department superintendent, William B. Webb, of Westfield; primary and junior superintendent, Miss Edith Cairns, of Plainfield; State executive committee, George E. Hall, of Plainfield; executive committee, Elias D. Smith, of Elizabeth; William Dodge Porter, of Summit; Mrs. Alonzo Pettit and Rev. H. H. Sleeper, of Elizabeth; George H. Krause, of Cranford; Miss Florence G. Hawkins, of Plainfield; Wellington Morehouse, of Westfield; O. B. Leonard, of Plainfield.

Township and district secretaries: Clark—Mrs. George W. Baker, of Westfield; Cranford—Frederick Hamilton, of Cranford; Elizabeth first district, Rev. W. B. Hamilton; Elizabeth second district, B. F. Midgley; Elizabeth third district, Rev. B. H. Rankin, of Elizabeth; Fanwood—Charles E. Wade, of Scotch Plains; New Providence—L. B. Ceddington, of Murray Hill; Plainfield first district, Charles M. Dolliver; second district, A. V. Searing, Jr., of Plainfield; Rahway—George T. Budgen, of Rahway; Roselle—Miss Florence Begart, Roselle Park; Springfield—Erdman Cain, of Springfield; Summit,—O. L. C. Reeve, of Summit; Union—George H. Headley, of Union; Westfield—W. O. Wheeler, of Westfield.

The committee on enrollment reported 251 delegates to the convention, including sixteen pastors, fourteen superintendents, thirty-eight primary workers, twelve junior workers, seventy-eight teachers, five secretaries and other officers, eight home department superintendents, thirty-six pupils, nine home department members and five undenominational persons.

A resolution was presented by Rev. G. M. Shott for the schools of Westfield and Mountainside, asking the association to adopt measures looking toward the lessening of the temptation toward the legalized liquor traffic especially for the young people of the county. Another resolution adopted by the convention extended a vote of thanks to the members of the First Baptist church, its pastor, Dr. Chambliss, and members of the other churches assisting in the entertainment of the association.

Dr. Snodgrass, the new president, made a short address in which he said that although his election was a total surprise to him, he would accept the honor and assured all that he would do the best he could this year.

The convention closed with an especially interesting illustrated lecture by W. B. Wilson, general Sunday-school secretary of Rhode Island, on the subject "Echoes from Jerusalem." Views taken by Mr. Wilson while on a trip to the Holy Land were shown and explained in an entertaining manner.

The women who had charge of the serving of the dinner and supper at the Union County Sunday-school Association convention held in the First Baptist church, yesterday, are as follows:

Mrs. Harold Serrell, Miss Florence Serrell, Mrs. Frederick Pierce, Miss Florence Marsh, Miss Ada Fountain, Mrs. J. B. Probasco, Mrs. Frank Jones, Mrs. Walter C. Dobbins, Miss Whitney, Mrs. Hannah Flanders, Miss Laura J. Runyon, Miss Pauline Denton, Mrs. George White, Mrs. Samuel Dunning, Mrs. Elvaine VanName, Mrs. L. L. Manning, Miss Anna Conant, Miss Lawrence, Miss Helen Robins, Miss Moffett, of the First Baptist church; Miss Beekman, Miss Randolph and Miss Haff, Monroe Avenue M. E. church; Mrs. L. R. Howard, Mrs. A. B. Lewis, of Hope chapel; Mrs. Harry F. Crawford, Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, Miss Mabel Wilson, of Trinity Reformed church; Mrs. Nelson Runyon, Mrs. Charles VanWinkle, Mrs. W. S. Fowler's Alleged Record.

During all of last year's session of Congress, Mr. Fowler was present but four times. His salary is $5,000 per annum, so that received $1,250 for each day's attendance to his duties. Excellent returns, it seems to us, even for a politician.—Elizabeth Times.

CANTEEN NECESSARY

General Burton Claims That Soldiers Need It.

PREVENTS CRIME AND SICKNESS.

Canteen Feature, Says Officer, Is Not Only a Moral Benefit, but Contributes to Men's Comfort and Contentment.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—That the canteen is of great moral benefit to the army is the claim made by Brigadier General G. H. Burton in his annual report to the secretary of war made public during the day.

"It seems to be almost the unanimous sentiment of the army," he says, "that the one thing lacking to meet the soldiers' wants and tastes is the canteen feature.

"The absence of this leads to sickness, the commission of military offenses, desertion and other crimes, as well as impaired discipline, by driving men to resort to the low dives and groggeries that have sprung up like mushrooms around military reservations since the prohibition law was enacted.

"In fact, the canteen feature is not only a benefit morally, but the profits derived from the sale of beer and light wines are used to improve the mess as well as for the purchase of periodicals, publications, etc., all of which add to the soldiers' comfort and contentment."

General Burton then quotes the inspector general of the Philippine division as saying regarding the canteen:

"Its absence is seriously felt. The effect, especially in the provinces, is to encourage men in the use of the various native drinks and in some instances of opium."

Chronic absenteeism of officers from their companies and their continued service on detached duty is criticised by General Burton as detrimental to the service.

Regarding desertion, he says it is a crime against patriotism, honor and oath bound obligations. He recommends the offering of rewards for the apprehension of deserters, suitable punishment for those who harbor them and punishment for the crime by confinement at hard labor for not less than three years and not more than five years.

CONNAUGHT HURT.

King Edward's Brother, the Soldier Prince, Thrown From Automobile.

EDINBURGH, Oct. 14.—The Duke of Connaught, brother of King Edward, while driving in a motor car from Edinburgh to Gosford house, the seat of the Earl of Wemyss, had a narrow escape from death and suffered painful injuries, from which he was for a time unconscious.

The automobile, in which the duke was riding with his aid-de-camp, Major Murray, in passing a street car, collided with a cart. The overhanging portion of the cart struck the rear seat of the automobile and literally carried away that section of the vehicle.

The duke was thrown out with great force. As soon as the automobile could be stopped Major Murray went to the aid of the duke, whom he found unconscious and bleeding from wounds about the head. A second automobile, carrying members of the duke's suit, came up, and the duke was taken back to Edinburgh in it. By the time the automobile reached Edinburgh the duke had recovered and was able to walk into his hotel

Robbers Set Fire to Warehouse.

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 14.—The big factory of William Scull & Co., wholesale dealers in coffee, tea and spices, has been completely gutted by fire. Two large buildings adjoining the factory, one of which was used as a storage warehouse and the other for sales rooms, were badly damaged by fire and water. An investigation resulted in establishing the fact that the fire was caused by robbers. Their purpose was evidently to secure some of the numerous articles which the company gives as prizes with its products and which were stored in one of the buildings. Loss, $100,000.

Youthful Lovers Died Together.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 14.—Bessie Stone and Robert Gill, who eloped from Ashland on Tuesday, were found dead, with their hands clasped, near a pond in that vicinity by a searching party. A bullet hole was in the head of each. Miss Stone had been shot behind the ear and Gill in the forehead. The latter had taken off his coat and vest. It is believed that Gill killed the girl and then committed suicide.

Jersey Cotton Oil Mill Burned.

COVINGTON, Ga., Oct. 14.—The Jersey cotton oil mill at Jersey, Walton county, ten miles north of Covington, together with 100 tons of cottonseed and 1,500 cords of wood, has been destroyed by fire. The ginnery and oil tanks were saved. The origin and exact loss are not yet known.

Substitute Brakeman Killed.

RUTLAND, Mass., Oct. 14.—Harry F. Bradley, twenty-four years old, a freight brakeman substituting for a regular man on a Central Massachusetts train, fell between cars near Coldbrook Station and was killed. He leaves a wife in Dover, N. H.

The Daily Press will be published at 1:30 tomorrow.

Several papers in the Fifth district are savagely attacking Congressman Fowler, charging that he was only present three or four times during the last session of Congress. We do not believe their allegation to be true, but whether it is or not, one fact is certain and that is if Congressman Fowler was not actually present he had his eye on the proceedings of that body and would have been on the spot whenever needed.

A prominent dealer in real estate writes: "For three months I advertised in the newspapers four houses without getting a reply, and was tempted to discontinue the ads, as the cost had been great. But it finally came to an extension of the campaign through a fourth month, when I got an inquiry from an out-of-town buyer, who paid more for the property than we had hoped to realize. It doesn't do to be afraid of the cost of newspaper advertising. Keep at it."—Ex.

Should Mr. Parker come out with a statement that in the event of his election he would offer John Hay the exalted position of Secretary of State in the Cabinet, his chances would be much better than they are today. On first consideration the appointment of one of the opposite party would appear to be strange, but stranger things than that have happened. Horace Greeley, the Democratic choice for President in 1872, was a Republican. W. T. Gresham, Cleveland's Secretary of State, had been previously a strong Republican. Numerous instances might be cited to show that the selection of Mr. Hay for the premiership would be perfectly proper. But why Mr. Hay for the position? Simply because the American people have great confidence in him and the utmost admiration for him. They recognize in him an aggressive and resourceful statesman of profound knowledge. In many quarters it is feared that Mr. Parker might appoint a man of Hill's stripe and because of that suspicion he is going to lose a large vote in many States. This secretaryship is too important an office to be filled by any one but a statesman of the highest type and John Hay is just such a man. Whether John Hay would accept is another question.

HAPPENINGS OF THE LOCAL FRATERNAL ORDERS.

Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M., held a convocation last night and considered routine business only.

There will be a meeting of Somerset Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., this evening in the lodge rooms. Several new members will be initiated, and a number of propositions will be received.

Candy That is Pure.

Physicians all agree that confection made from pure sugar and other ingredients is harmless, and all lovers of this kind will be interested in the announcement that Reynolds & Co. will open a confectionery store in the Babcock building tomorrow. The firm advertises to sell pure candy made from good sugar, and as the firm is considered one of the largest in this kind of business, the public is assured of having fresh goods at all times. At present the firm is operating confectionery stores in the following places: Wilmington, Del.; Chester, Pa.; Trenton, N. J.; Reading, Pa.; Elizabeth, N. J.; Norristown, Pa.; Pottstown, Pa.; Easton, Pa.; Bethlehem, Pa.; Allentown, Pa.; Brooklyn, N. Y.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Bristol, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Coddington, of Mountain avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Allan Coddington, of Somerset place, leave tomorrow for St. Louis, where they will attend the Exposition.

SEEN AND HEARD IN PLAINFIELD'S INDUSTRIAL PLANTS.

The Campbell Company, which recently moved to Taunton, Mass., is sending to Plainfield for more of its old employes. Several will leave for the down east city next week.

In order to bring its education advantages to the attention of local mechanics, the Y. M. C. A. is conducting noon-day meetings in the city shops. The programme consists mainly of a presentation of the value of education to the mechanics with illustrations of men who have obtained better and more remunerative positions through the improvement they attained by attending evening classes. The Scott, Potter and Pederick-Ayer shops have already been visited and in some instances several hundred men have been in attendance.

JERSEY A WINNER.

Prizes Taken by State at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

New Jersey has won many honors in her exhibits at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, the school exhibit as a whole being awarded a grand prize, the highest honor. In addition to the grand prize, fourteen gold medals have been awarded for school exhibits. A number of schools will also receive bronze medals.

The school for the deaf at Trenton gets a gold medal for an exhibit of manual and industrial arts. Another grand prize has been awarded to the New Jersey exhibit of salt water fish. This is one of the most popular exhibits of the fair. It is located in a tank in the center of the forestry, fish and game building, and is filled with salt water brought in tanks and taken from the Atlantic off the New Jersey coast. In it are live specimens of salt water fish from New Jersey waters and around it all day is a crowd of sightseers, who seem to take great interest in the tank and its contents.

The exhibit of the experimental station, including the mosquitoes and means for their extermination, receives a grand prize. The exhibit of insects injurious to forestry receives a gold medal and another gold medal goes to the New Jersey State museum's exhibit of birds and animals. Another exhibit which attracts much attention is the New Jersey road exhibit and that has captured a gold medal, too. So has the exhibit of the State Board of Health. Another gold medal is awarded to the bureau of labor and statistics, while the exhibit of the school for feeble-minded children at Vineland receives a silver medal.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

A meeting of the Young People's Social Christian Endeavor was held at the home of Rev. W. W. Castleberry Wednesday evening, and the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. W. W. Castleberry; vice president, R. T. Bogardus, Jr.; recording secretary, C. B. Carman; treasurer, Robert Lowrie; corresponding secretary, Miss Nellie Dodwell.

The Republican Club met in its room and organized last night. The following officers were elected: President, W. H. Sanford; vice president, John Fenner; secretary and treasurer, Wilson Fredricks. After the elections some necessary business was transacted, and then they sang some of the songs that they will sing on election day.

Word has been received from Miss Maud S. A. Law, who went to Johannesburg, South Africa, to meet her fiancee, that she has reached her destination, was married, and is now happily situated.

Dr. T. H. Baldwin, of Dunellen avenue, is getting ready to open an office at his home. He is not a retired physician as has been announced but has come here to do business.

Frank Buffa, who has for the past two years kept a fruit store in the Kretzel building, has sold out his business to two Frenchmen who have taken possession of the store.

Football practice was held on the Madison avenue grounds last evening. The men are improving in team work and the outlook for a strong team for Saturday is hopeful.

The condition of Mrs. C. T. Rogers, of New Market, who was injured by a fall in Plainfield, is not improved and some internal injury is feared.

A sale of home-made bread, cake and pastry will be held in the Guild room of the Holy Innocents' church tomorrow afternoon.

Miss Eva Vliet, of Bloomsbury, who has been spending the summer with Walter Vliet, returned to her home yesterday morning.

The Rev. and Mrs. Harvey F. Castleberry, of Ocean City, have been spending a few days with Rev. W. W. Castleberry.

Mrs. J. W. VanHouten, of Manasquan, has returned home after a week's visit at Mrs. Charles Dodwell's.

The Fisher house was vacated yesterday by Lewis J. Randall. J. C. Young will take possession next week.

Miss Alice Pierce is entertaining Miss Alice Spencer, of New York, for two weeks.

J. V. Hoffman, of Jersey City, has taken possession of the W. V. Dunham farm.

William Danz has accepted a position in the L. & G. iron works.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

One of the most enjoyable affairs the K. O. G. Club has ever held was the first of the series of club dances held last night in the Borough Fire House. The hall was crowded until a late hour with the merry dancers enjoying the strains of the two-step and waltz played by Suhr's orchestra. Friends were present from Westfield, Plainfield and the village. The club holds the second of the series at an early date in November.

A large crowd of enthusiastic Republican members of the club and their friends attended the Republican mass meeting held last night at Reform Hall, Plainfield. A special car was filled with one of the liveliest crowds that has left town since the campaign of four years ago.

The Suburban Club held a meeting last night in the club rooms. A number of new members were added to the roll and other routine business transacted.

A number of the local Sunday-school workers attended the Union County Sunday-school convention held yesterday at the First Baptist church, Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. George Schick, former residents of the village, but now residing at Bordentown, N. J., have been visiting friends in town.

The local fans will be found at Crescent Oval tomorrow afternoon, when the P. A. C. team meets the New York National League team.

Mr. and Mrs. Orbie Price, of Plainfield, have been visiting at the home of Mrs. Price's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hull.

Augustus Sheelen, of the borough, is the local member of the October Grand Jury now sesting at Elizabeth.

Adam Gray, who has been visiting his brother, Joseph Gray, has returned to his home in Newark.

The weekly prayer and teachers' meeting will be held tonight in the parlors of the Baptist church.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., held its weekly session last night in the Library rooms.

Roy Cook, of New York, has been spending a few days with friends in town.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

James H. Jones, who is building a new roof on the kitchen part of his house, had his house somewhat drenched by the late rain storm.

The township supervisor of schools visited the local school yesterday and examined some classes by questions on studies gone over.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. John H. Ross, of this city, has been visiting relatives at Somerville.

Miss Helen Pfaff, of North Branch, has been visiting relatives in Plainfield.

Miss Anna McCormick, of Brooklyn, N. Y., is visiting friends and relatives at Netherwood.

H. B. Reed, of Newark, a brother of Charles A. Reed, of the borough, was the guest of the latter, last night. Mr. Reed has been engaged in the practice of law in Newark during the past seven years.

Salibura Held a Grudge.

Wishing to settle an old grudge against John Segebiniski, of East Third street, William Salibura worked himself into a frenzy last night and savagely attacked the former. Things were pretty warm when Patrolman Kelley arrived and arrested both men. In court this morning it was shown that Salibura was solely to blame and he paid a $5 fine.

MARX ON THE STAND.

Accused of Murdering Rodecki, Prisoner Testified In Own Behalf.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Oct. 14.—Gershon Marx, the Colchester farmer who is on trial for his life accused of killing his farmhand, Pavol Rodecki, faced the jury in his own behalf here, the state closing its case after producing evidence for four days. Michael Levinee, the neighbor who found Marx in New York city, was the last government witness, and his testimony had little bearing on the murder itself, although he exhibited anxiety to get the $1,000 reward offered for the detection of the murderer.

Marx, when called, walked from the prisoners' cage to the stand with a firm step, but pale face. At times he appeared to understand the questions put to him with great difficulty. His words were spoken in a soft accent in somewhat broken English.

He testified that he knew Rodecki and had employed him on his farm. Rodecki was to work for six months for $50 if he remained good. A few days before Rodecki's time was up he (Marx) was sitting in his kitchen suffering from a headache. Joseph Strange entered the house and, with an ax over his shoulder, said:

"Master, you said that Pavol had gone to the factory to work, and he lies out in the yard dead."

Marx said that he then went to the place with Strange. Later he gathered some clothes from his home and started away from the place because he said he was afraid of Joe Strange, who, he said, had threatened to kill him. He fled to a swamp and later went to New York by the way of Hartford.

BURGLARS AT OYSTER BAY.

Gang of Professionals Have Operated at Summer Homes.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Oct. 14.—Two successful burglaries and one attempted robbery near President Roosevelt's home at Sagamore Hill has further added to the local burglary record. The burglary epidemic is charged to a gang of professionals, and it is believed by the local authorities that a woman is one of the number.

The homes of John A. Weekes, Jr., and E. Morgan Griffin, cashier of the Oyster Bay bank, were entered. In both cases entrance was gained through the dining room windows. Silver heirlooms and plate valued at more than $500 were taken from the Weekes residence.

In the Weekes house the burglars rejected pieces of plated silver on the buffet.

The only trace of the burglars was a number of footprints on the lawn and roadway. Some of these indicated that a woman took part in the burglary. The burglars also visited the home of Rev. Dr. Irwin, but were frightened away by some pedestrians returning home late.

In the Griffin home most of the family valuables were locked in a safe, but silver and gold ornaments and dishes valued at $300 were secured.

It is probable that a vigilance committee will be organized by local residents to end the reign of the housebreakers.

The Mississippi Bubble

By EMERSON HOUGH

(Copyright, 1902, by Emerson Hough.)

The ictus of the measure marked time for the sweeping paddles, and under the added impetus the paper shell, reinforced as it was by close-laid splints of cedar, and braced by the fiber-fastened thwarts, fairly yielded to the rush of the waves as the stalwart paddlers sent it flying forward. A tiny blur of white showed about the bows, and now and then a splash of spray came inboard, or some little curling white cap was divided by the rush of the swiftly moving prow.

"We shall not arrive too soon, my friend," rejoined the captain of the voyageurs, casting an eye back across the great lake, which lay black and ominous against a threatening sky, the sweep and swirl of its white caps ever racing hard after the frail craft, as though eager to break through its paper sides and tear away the human beings who thus fled on so lightly.

This boat, mysteriously appearing as though it were some spirit craft called from the ancient deeps, was far from the beginning of its wild journey. Wide as the eye might reach, there arose no fleck of snowy canvas, nor showed the dark line of any similar craft propelled by oar or paddle. They were alone, these travelers. Before them, at the entrance of the wide arm of the great lake Michiganon, lay the point even at that early day known as the Door of the West, the beginning of the winding water-way which led on into the interior of that West, then so alluring and so unknown. The eyes of all were fixed on the low, white-fronted bluffs, crowned by dark forest growth, which guarded the bay at either hand. This spot, so wild, so remote, so significant—it was home for these voyageurs as much as any; as much, too, for Law and the woman who lay back, pale-faced and wild-eyed, among the bales in the great canoe.

In time the graceful craft approached the beach, on which the long waves rolled and curled, now gently, now with imposing force. With the water yet half-leg deep, Du Mesne and two of the paddlers sprang bodily overboard and held the boat back from the pebbles, so that its tender shell might not be damaged. Law himself was as soon as they in the water, and he waded back along the gunwale until he reached the stern, the water nearly up to his hips. Reaching out his arms, he picked up Mary Connynge from her seat and carried her dryshod ashore, bending down to catch some whispered word. Not so gallant was Du Mesne, the leader of the voyageurs. He uttered a few sharp words of semi-command to the Indian woman, who had been seated on the floor of the canoe, and she, without protest, crawled forward over the thwarts and the heaped bundles until she reached the bow, and then went ankle deep into the creaming flood. The great canoe, left empty and anchored safe from the pebbles of the beach, tossed light as a cork on the incoming waves.

A little open space was quickly found at the edge of the cove in which the disembarkation was made, and here Du Mesne and his followers soon kicked away the twigs and leveled out a smooth place upon the grass. Each man produced from his belt a broad-bladed knife, and for the moment disappeared in the deep fringe of evergreens which lined the shore. Fairly in the twinkling of an eye a frame of bent poles was made, above which were spread strips of unrolled birch bark from the cargo of the canoe. Over the spaces left uncovered by the supply of bark sheets there were laid down long mats made by Indian hands from dried reeds and bulrushes, affording no inconsiderable protection against the weather. Inside the lodge, bales of goods and packages of provisions were quickly arranged in comfortable fashion. Gaudy blankets were spread upon layers of soft skins of the buffalo. The Indian woman had meantime struck a fire, whose faint blue smoke curled lakeward in the soft evening air. Quickly, and with the system of experienced campaigners, the evening bivouac had been prepared; and wildly picturesque it must have seemed to a bystander, had there been indeed any possible spectator within many leagues.

Far enough was this from the turmoil of London, which Law and his companion had left nearly a year before; far enough still from the wild capital of New France, where they had spent the winter, after landing, as much by chance as through any plan, at the port of the St. Lawrence. Ever a demon of unrest drove Law forward; ever there beckoned to him that irresistible West, of which he was one of the earliest to feel the charm. Farther and farther westward, swift and swifter than ever the boats of the fur traders had made the journey before, he and his party, led by Du Mesne, the ex-galley-slave and wanderer whom Law had by chance met again, and gladly, at Montreal, had made the long and dangerous run up the lakes, past Michilimackinac, down the lake of Michiganon, headed toward the interior of a new continent which was then, as for generations after then, the land of wondrous distances, of grand enterprises, of magnificent promises and immense fulfillments. The bales and bundles of this bivouac belonged to John Law, bought by gold from the gaming tables of Montreal and Quebec, and ventured in the one great hazard which appealed to him most irresistibly, the hazard of life and fortune in a far land, where he might live unneighbored, and where he might forget. Gambler in England, gambler again in New France, now trading fur-merchant and voyageur, he was, as always, an adventurer. Du Mesne and his hardy crew hailed him already as a new captain of the trails, a new coureur, won from the Old World by the savage witchery of the New. He was their brother; and had he indeed owned longer years of training, his keenness of eye, his strength of arm, his tirelessness of limb could hardly have been greater than they seemed in his first voyage to the West.

"Tous les printemps,
Tant des nouvelles"

hummed Du Mesne, as he busied himself about the camp, casting the while a cautious eye to note the progress of the threatening storm.

"Tous les amants
Changent des maitresses.
Jamais le bon vin n'endort—
L'amour me reveille!"

"The best is before us now, Monsieur L'as," said Du Mesne, joining Law, at length. "Assuredly the best is always that which is ahead and which is unknown; but in point of fact the hardest of our journey is over, for henceforth we may stretch our legs ashore, and hunt and fish, and make good camps for madame, who, as we both perceive, is much in need of ease and care. We shall make all safe and and comfortable for this night, doubt not.

"Meantime," continued he, "let us all see that all is well with our men and arms, for henceforth we must put out guards. Attention, comrades! Present your pieces and answer the roll-call! Pierre Berthier!"

"Ici! Monsieur," replied the one better known as Pierre Noir, a tall and dark-visaged Canadian, clad in the common costume, half-Indian and half-civilized, which marked his class. A shirt of soft dressed buckskin fell about his thighs; his legs were encased in moose-skin leggings, deeply fringed at the seams. About his middle was a broad sash, once red, and upon his head a scanty cap of similar color was pushed back. At his belt hung the great hunting knife of the voyageur, balanced by a keen steel tomahawk such as was in common use among the Indians. In his hand he supported a long-barreled musket, which he now examined carefully in the presence of the captain of the voyageurs.

"Robert Challon!" next commanded Du Mesne, and in turn the one addressed looked over his piece, the captain also scrutinizing the flint and priming with careful eye.

"Naturally, mes enfants," said he, "your weapons are perfect, as ever. Kataikini, and you, Kabayan, my brothers, let me see," said he to the two Indians, the former a Huron, and the latter an Ojibway, both from the shores of Superior. The Indians arose silently, and without protest submitted to the scrutiny which ever seemed to them unnecessary.

"Jean Breboeuf!" called Du Mesne; and in response there arose from the shadows a wiry little Frenchman, who might have been of any age from 20 to 45, so sun-burnt and wrinkled, yet so active and vigourous did he seem.

"Mon ami," said Du Mesne to him, chidingly, "see now, here is your flint all but out of its engagement. Pray you, have better care of your piece. For this you shall stand the long watch of the night. And now let us all to bed."

One by one the little party was lost to view within the dark interior of the hut which they had arranged for themselves. Du Mesne retired a distance from the fire and seated himself upon a fallen log, his pipe glowing like a coal in the enveloping darkness.

Law himself did not so soon leave the outer air. He remained gazing out at the wild scene about him, at the roll-waves dashing on the shore, their crests whitening in the glare of the lightning, now approaching more closely. He harkened to the roll of the far-off thunder reenforced by the thunder of the waves upon the shore, and noted the sweep of the black forest about, of the black sky overhead, unlit save for one far-off, faint and feeble star.

It was a new world, this that lay around him, a new and savage world. If there were a world behind him, a world which once held sunlight and flowers, and love and hope—why then, it was a world lost and gone forever, and it was very well that this new world should be so different and so stern.

In the darkness John Law heard a voice, the voice of a woman in terror. Swiftly he stepped to the door of the rude lodge.

"Don't let them sing it again—never any more—that song."

"And what, Madam?"

"That one—'Tous les amants changent des maitresses!'"

A moment later she whispered, "I am afraid."

LADY GOLF PLAYERS

National Tournament at Haverford Links.

FOUR TO CONTEST CHAMPIONSHIP.

Semifinalists Are Mrs. Sanford, the Misses Mackay, Harley and Bishop. Miss Curtis Won Prize For Long Drive.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14.—The women's national golf championship tournament on the links of the Merion Cricket club at Haverford has reached the semifinal round with Miss Pauline Mackay of the Oakley County club, Mrs. H. S. Sanford, Orange, N. J.; Miss K. C. Harley, Fall River, and Miss Georgeanna Bishop, Brooklawn, as contestants. Miss Mackay is to play Mrs. Sanford, while Miss Harley meets Miss Bishop.

While the semifinalists were entitled to their victories, the results were in the main surprising. Miss Louise Vanderhoef of Ardsley, who had tied for the qualifying prize and who had disposed of Miss Maud K. Whetmore and Miss J. A. Carpenter in turn, succumbed to Mrs. Sanford. Miss Margaret Curtis, who had been looked upon as the probable title holder this year, went down to defeat before Miss Harley. In each of the matches brilliancy opposed steadiness, and the latter won. Miss Florence Ayres of Riverton was eliminated from the tournament by Miss Mackay, and Miss Frances C. Grascom, the former champion, yielded to Miss Bishop's superiority, thus taking from Philadelphia all chances of winning the championship.

Miss Mackay in her match with Miss Ayres secured a lead of two after four holes had been played and increased this to three in the fifth. Miss Ayres improved her game and was only 1 down at the turn. The pair tied at the seventeenth hole. Miss Mackay ran down to the eighteenth and deciding hole for 5, while Miss Ayres finished in 6.

The defeat of Miss Griscom was entirely unexpected. She started out with a lead, but at the sixth hole she missed an easy putt and thereafter played a close game. At the ninth hole she was 1 down. From this point Miss Bishop forged ahead and won on the fifteenth green by 4 up and 3 to play.

In defeating Miss Vonderhoef a splendid exhibition of the short game was given by Mrs. Sanford. The Orange player was 1 up at the turn, and Miss Vanderhoef made a plucky effort to retrieve her laurels; but, missing an approach on the home green, she lost the hole and the match.

Miss Curtis was responsible for her own defeat. Her long game was terrific as usual, but erratic in the extreme. Miss Harley, on the other hand, was very steady and soon had her opponent apparently in a hopeless condition. Miss Curtis recovered herself and was 1 down at the seventeenth hole, but could only secure a half on the eighteenth hole and lost the match.

Miss Harriot Curtis of Essex county won the trophy offered for driving, she making 175 yards. Miss Ayres was second, with 173, and Miss Vanderhoef third, with 165. Miss Dod was fourteenth on the list, with 135.

Hill Injected a New Argument.

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 14.—David B. Hill injected a new argument into the Democratic campaign here last night, a straightforward condemnation of "government by injunction" and the demand for a law granting a jury trial to persons held in contempt of court for the violation of a restraining order of a federal judge. The Democratic national platform sustains this position, although in guarded terms. Wheeling was selected by the New York politician as the place to emphasize and make a national issue of this point because its varied industries give employment to artisans of many vocations.

Murder at Richmond.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 14.—James Boyle, about thirty years old, was shot and killed by T. H. Moore, his brother-in-law, aged twenty-two years, at the home of the latter here. Boyle had been drinking and annoying his relatives for some days. Moore alleges he feared that Boyle would kill everybody in the Moore home when he (Boyle) came there tonight and that after some words the shooting followed.

Murderer Surrounded.

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., Oct. 14.—Edward Donahue, alleged to be the murderer of A. Northrop of Benton Harbor, whose mutilated body was found in a ditch near Miller's Station, Ind., last Sunday, was surrounded last night in the woods between Kalamazoo and Grand Junction by Sheriff Collins and a posse of deputies. His capture is thought to be a matter of only a few hours.

Largest Hotel In the World.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—Chicago is to have the largest hotel in the world. It will cost $10,000,000, be twenty-two stories high and dwarf in size and magnificence any structure of the kind ever erected. The builders and owners will be a syndicate of Chicago and eastern capitalists headed by Otto Young.

Bowles Got Two Years.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14. — John E. Bowles, colored, assistant postmaster at Bladensburg, Md., pleaded guilty before Judge Morris in the United States district court to the embezzlement of money order funds and was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

McKane Made a Mistake.

William McKane, worse for intoxicants, made the mistake this morning of fixing himself for a nap on the porch of a house next to Chief Kiely's residence. Mr. Kiely telephoned for the patrol wagon. McKane is sleeping himself into condition for appearance in court. Mrs. Robert Hart is also awaiting trial, having been picked up helplessly drunk on Monroe avenue this noon.

—T. U. Dudley and W. S. Converse, both of the borough, reported the loss of valuable dogs to local police headquarters today. Patrolman Higgins has been detailed to look them up.

Miss May Voorhees, of Carlton avenue, presided at the organ, at the Union County Sunday-school convention, held in the First Baptist church, yesterday.

Back, Back to Summit.

"Back to Summit as quick as you can" was the command given to James Hall, of that politically neglected town, in the city court this morning. Patrolman McKeon kicked him up on Grant avenue, Wednesday night, after watching him look around for an imaginery "Gregory," supposed to be a detective. He started to tell Judge Runyon all about himself and "Gregory" but as it was a very much disconnected story and "Gregory" could not be found to tell his own story, the injunction was given to get over to Summit. The police say Hall is "nutty."

Congressional Candidate's Visit.

Congressional Nominee Ira Wood and the Somerset county candidates were at the U. S. Grant Club headquarters in the borough, last evening. The voters were out in large numbers and introductions were in order. When the newness of things wore off, several impromptu speeches were made.

Entertained Stere Employes.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Salkeld, of West Front street, who were recently married at Greenville, entertained the employes of I. H. Boehm's store at their home last night. Mrs. Salkeld was formerly employed at Mr. Boehm's store as a saleswoman.

A. V. D. Honeyman, of Grove street, returned today after a stay at the St. Louis Exposition.

Slap at Fowler.

Charles N. Fowler has represented the districts of which Union County has been a part in Congress for ten years and during all of that time his attention has been devoted almost exclusively to schemes and plans having for their object his own benefit and enrichment. Boomed for office originally as a very poor man he had reached the goal of Representative only a few years when we find him classed as among New Jersey's wealthiest inhabitants. He has earned recogoition throughout the country as one of the representatives of the Standard Oil Company in the House of Representatives and has been more than zealous in attempting to foist on the nation a financial scheme emanating from that concern and from its branch, the City Bank of New York.

We do not believe the voters of this district care to have the finger of scorn pointed in their direction as a section that sends a recognized representative of such a corporation to look after their interests in Congress. Fowler has succeeded, through the enormous campaign funds he has thus been able to command, in securing election year after year and he has grown to believe like so many other public men similarly situated that money can accomplish anything in politics. During the last two years his Standard Oil and other affiliations seemed of so much importance to him that he devoted his time exclusively to them and was present in Congress only three or four days during the entire session. The voters of this district have an opportunity now to secure capable and faithful representatives and if they elect James E. Martine they will be certain that their interests and not his own selfish aims or the affairs of the Standard Oil Company will have his undivided attention.—Summit Record.

SPITE HOUSE AND LICENSES

Two Important Subjects at Council's Special Meeting.

LIQUOR DEALERS QUIET

Not Believed That Organized Effort Will be Made Against Mr. Tyler's Ordinance.

When the adjourned meeting of the Common Council is held on Thursday night, October 20, it is possible that there may be a report on the matter laid before that body by Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph regarding the "spite" house. At the last meeting, when this communication was received, President Tolles, of the Common Council referred it to the fire and building committee and the members were instructed to confer with the Corporation Counsel for the purpose of ascertaining just what can be done about remedying the trouble of which Mr. Randolph complains.

The committee is now waiting for Mr. Marsh's report and as soon as this is received the members will act accordingly. It is the intention of the Common Council to accord Mr. Randolph all the protection he is entitled to and the same would be accorded every other citizen of Plainfield. The members are anxious to prevent any action that will tend to depreciate the value of property and realizing that perhaps the same question may arise at some future time, desire to find out at present just what rights they have.

It is also quite likely that the amendment to the ordinance providing for the licensing of inns and taverns, which provides for increasing the liquor license fee here to $1,000 will be brought up for the third reading. This can be done at the adjourned meeting as fourteen days will have elapsed since its introduction at the regular October meeting. Councilman W. S. Tyler is especially interested in this ordinance as chairman of the license committee and he has no fears but that the same seven votes will be cast for it on the final reading as were cast on the first and second readings. So far as can be learned there has been no effort made on the part of the liquor dealers or their friends to prevent the final adoption of the ordinance as amended.

BUILDING INSPECTOR WILL BE EXONERATED

PERMIT FOR "SPITE" HOUSE IN ACCORDANCE WITH LAW.

While no official information has been given out concerning the investigation that the fire and building committee of the Common Council has been making regarding the charges made against Chief T. O. Doane by Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, in which he alleges violations of the building ordinance in the permit for the erection of the so-called "spite" house on East Front street, it is reasonably certain to believe that Chief Doane will be exonerated.

A person who has some knowledge of the matter ventured the opinion today that the building inspector did not violate the ordinance, that he did exactly what his duties call for.

It is quite likely that a report on the charges will be made at a future Common Council meeting.

Minor Football Games.

There will be no game at the High School football field this afternoon. Manager Bentley was expecting to get a game with the Rahway High School, but was disappointed the last minute. The Westfield school will meet the North Plainfield High School this morning, and the Leal's School will contend with the Carteret Academy eleven at Cartaret. The latter game is an interscholastic league game. The only local football game today will be between the Orange Field Club and the Westfield team. The game will take place on Orange Oval, at 3:30

Y. M. C. A. Men's Meeting.

Rev. John A. Gray, of Orient, N. Y., will address the Y. M. C. A. meeting tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mrs. John Manley, and Master Alfred Manley will sing. Robert W. Davis will be the cornetist.

City Committee Meeting.

The Democratic city committee will meet at headquarters tonight, when matters of importance will be considered. A full attendance is desired.

Y. M. C. A. BOWLERS DEFEAT SCOTT'S FIVE

THE FIRST GAME OF THE SEASON ROLLED LAST NIGHT.

On the alleys of the local Y. M. C. A. the first game of the Association season was rolled last night, the home five defeating the team representing the Scott Printing Machine Works two games out of three by these scores:

Y. M. C. A.
Jeffery	129	122	108
French	104	...	119
Neal	...	102	...
Menzenbach	112	150	151
M. Sutphen	122	128	171
Koons	139	133	197
	606	635	746
SCOTT'S.
Whitley	128	171	122
Montross	118	126	121
VanHorn	133	79	99
G. Sutphen	92	121	143
Aitkins	180	101	122
	651	598	607

Same of the Y. M. C. A. bowlers were below their game according to their practice averages, but they show plenty of promise and are expected to round into good form for the game with Westfield, which will probably visit them Friday night.

"SPITE HOUSE" OWNER AGAIN HALED TO COURT

FURTHER CHARGES AGAIN PREFERRED AGAINST MARRA BY HEALTH BOARD.

For the second time since the "spite" house was erected on East Front street, opposite former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph's residence, Antonio Marra, the owner, was haled to court this morning, on charges of maintaining nuisances on the place. This time the complaint was preferred by Health Inspector Leon R. Thurlow who alleges that Marra built without permission a cesspool and privy vault and which are now in use. A separate charge is made in each instance.

The case was called by Judge Runyon today but at the request of Marra's counsel, Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., it was put over until Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock. When Marra appeared in court last month, it was to answer four charges and he was convicted on each, the aggregate of fines being $125.

James N. Steele's Wedding.

A coming wedding of interest to a large circle of friends is that of Miss Elizabeth Arnold Congdon, daughter of Mrs. John S. Hapkins Congdon, of Providence, R. I., to James Nevett Steele, Jr., son of Rev. Dr. Steele, of Old Trinity, New York. The wedding will take place in Grace church. Miss Ruth Steele, a sister of the groom, will be one of the four bridesmaids, and L. Spender Steele, a brother, will be best man. Mr. Steele is a brother of Mrs. Theodore Morris, of Myrtle avenue, and Mrs. Leon Moran, of Grove street.

O. F. C. Lineup Today.

The line up for the game between the Orange Field Club and the Westfield team this afternoon will be as follows: Tobin, full-back; Todd and Sherwin, right ends; Smoth, left end; McVoy, quarter-back; Heilyer, center; Emmons, left end; W. McCullough, left tackle; J. McCullough, left guard; Giddes, right guard; Banks and Day, right tackles; Shepard, right end.

Boys' Outing.

The boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. will leave on another outing this afternoon similar to the one which they took last week. It is the intention of the boys' secretary to hold these outings every week, and the boys will make Moldenke castle the object of their tramp this afternoon.

Commissioners of Appeal Meeting.

The Commissioners of Appeal in cases of taxation will meet in the Common Council rooms on Tuesday afternoon, October 25, at 2 o'clock, to hear and determine all appeals that may be presented to them in writing by taxpayers.

KINSMAN'S SIGNAL TESTED

Plainfielder's Block System Has Successful Trial.

COLLISIONS IMPOSSIBLE

Loss of Life on New York's Underground Road Will be Prevented.

Thorough tests made within the last few days prove that the block signal system, invented by F. E. Kinsman, of Sandford avenue, and installed in New York's subway will render collisions absolutely impossible. The wonderful device has attracted attention among mechanical experts all over the world and the fact that it will be used exclusively in New York's twenty-two mile subway is taken as a great tribute to the genius of the Plainfield inventor. An illustration of the block system is to be seen on page 8. In reporting tests made in the subway, the New York World said the other day:

"Officials of the subway say there can never be a collision on the underground road so long as the present block system is maintained. Experiments have proved this.

"Trains fully equipped have been ordered to run into each other and in each instance have come to a dead stop after passing the ends of the blocks with signals set against them. Trains thus stopped are perfectly dead, with all electric and air power shut off.

"The success of these tests was admitted by the officials of the subway today. The experiments have been carried on for several days and in each instance, in addition to stopping the train dead, the system by a signal notified the despatcher's office that the train had attempted to run past the signals.

"Motormen who have attempted to run past the blocks on their own hook have discovered this to their sorrow, being relieved of their trains for so doing.

"The rule has been made that for a motorman to have his car stopped by the safety device means instant dismissal. This is to make the men watch the signals and stop their trains and cars themselves.

"In case of the motorman going suddenly insane or blind, or falling at his post from any reason, the block system will protect the passengers and prevent either rear or fore-end collisions.

"The signal posts are set so close together in the tunnel that trains can be stopped instantly, even when the subway is running at its utmost capacity of a minute headway."

ATTRACTIONS LISTED AT THE PARK CLUB

RECEPTION TO MR. AND MRS. M'CUTCHEN THE FIRST EVENT.

An attractive list of entertainments has been arranged by the entertainment committee of the Park Club, and approved by the Board of Governors. On Thursday night, October 27, there will be a reception in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, who have been absent during the past year. On Tuesday night, November 15, cards will be the attraction and on Thursday night, November 24, there will be the Thanksgiving dance. The Christmas dance will be held Thursday night, December 29, and on Saturday night, December 31, there will be a junior dance. The Easter dance will be held on April 27.

On January 2, New Year's Day, there will be the usual afternoon reception from 3 to 6, when friends of members will be admitted without cards. In the evening there will be bridge whist and hearts.

This resolution has been adopted by the Board of Governors: Resolved, That it is the sense of this Board that for the Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter dances, invitation for guests be limited to non-residents of Plainfield or North Plainfield, while for the informal dances the standing rules of the club relative to the introduction of guests be enforced. Invitations for non-resident guests may be had upon application to the chairman of the entertainment committee, Mrs. Charles A. Reed, 27 Myrtle avenue.

Ex-Prisoners of War to Meet.

The eighteenth annual re-union of the New Jersey Association of ex-Prisoners of War will be held at Orange on Thursday of next week. Colonel A. G. Perry and others from this city will be in attendance and relate their experiences.

POLICE PURSUE TRAMPS

First Have An Encounter With Detective Laveratt.

FUSILADE OF SHOTS

New Jersey Central Officer Narrowly Escapes Being Felled by a Bullet.

In a fusilade of bullets exchanged between himself and a gang of seven tramps which he came upon in the swamp between Fanwood and Graceland, early yesterday afternoon, Michael Laverati, a New Jersey Central detective, was all but felled by one of the shots. It came from a pistol in the hands of Frank Ides, of Elizabeth, lately released from the State Reformatory, and skipped across his chest, then passed through his coat sleeve, barely grazing the skin. Although two of the gang continued to fire at him his narrow escape had no deterrent effect upon Laverati and he continued pursuing the men until his own supply of cartridges gave out.

He then hurried to Fanwood and telephoned to this city and Westfield for assistance. Acting Chief Frederickson hurriedly responded and Patrolmen O'Keefe and Saffron, the reserves, quickly followed. Although they were on the scene in a very short time, the gang had scattered and escaped separately, evidently getting on passing trains. Four west bound freights were stopped at the North Avenue station but the hoboes upon them were not the ones wanted. The local police were joined by Chief O'Neil, of Westfield, and Constables Charles and Augustus Sheelen, of Scotch Plains, and they scoured the woods in the vicinity all the afternoon but without success.

Laverati is an Italian who wanders up and down the New Jersey Central line and by mingling with tramps learns the plans of different gangs. He has been at it so long that most of them can recognize him at great distance and this was the case yesterday when he noticed a crowd about a fire in the Graceland swamp. He sauntered toward them when a man he saw was Ides, jumped up suddenly and with a oath discharged it at him point blank. The bullet went wide of its mark but another which followed was the one which all but laid him low. Laverati drew his own weapon and charged the crowd but though they all fled, Ides and a companion continued shooting at him over their shoulders. He noticed that Ides held on to a new dress suit case that seemed to be heavy and at once realized that he had committed a robbery.

Finding that pursuit was useless, he retraced his steps to the abandoned camp and there found a quantity of new clothing, evidently taken recently from a store. Inferentially the gang had been dividing it between them when they were surprised by Laverati and the fact that they had stolen goods in their possession led to their hurrying away. The leader Ides is well known to police throughout the county and is said to be a desperate character.

LEAL'S, 12; CARTARET, 11

Local Boys Win Inter-Scholastic League Game at Orange This Morning.

Fighting for every inch of the ground, the Leal's School football team defeated the Carteret School eleven, at Orange, in the first game in the New Jersey Inter-scholastic League series, this morning, by the score of 12 to 11. Wilcox was the star of the local players, his work winning the game.

Leal's drew first blood, Wilcox through tackle for a touchdown. He kicked the goal. Then Carteret made a touchdown. Each side scored six points in the second half, Wilcox repeating his score. The lineup of the local team was as follows:

GIANTS ARE IN TOWN

National League Champions Ready for Today's Game.

LINEUP OF P. A. C.'S

Wiltse and Farmer Battery for Local Team and Mathewson and Warner for New York.

Manager Johnston, of the Plainfield A. C., has completed his lineup for today's contest against the New York Nationals, and while it is not what he expected, it is a formidable one and will give the Giants a hustle. After Kibertield, Dougherty, Conroy and Keeler had personally given their word that they would play on the local team, Manager Griffith arranged an exhibition game for the Highlanders against the Skelleys, of Brooklyn, and upset Manager Johnston's plans.

Louis Wiltse and Farmer will be the battery and much is expected of them. The new men on the team include Donovan, of the Cleveland Americans, who will cover third base. He is fast as a fielder and a heavy hitter. Another new man will be Charles Malay, who has been drafted by the Brooklyn Nationals for next season. His work has attracted the attention of big league managers who have been after him.

Robinson will cover first base, Cusick second base, Hartman shortstop, Donovan third, while in the field will be "Pete" Cregan, "Pop" Dietrich and Malay, the latter in right garden.

As stated yesterday this will be the lineup for the Giants:

Today marks the closing of the local baseball season, much to the regret of all lovers of the National game. In bringing the New York Giants here for the last contest, the management is giving the fans an opportunity to see a stellar attraction.

It is the first time that the New York Nationals have ever played in Plainfield and no doubt they will attract a record-breaking crowd. Every member of the team who will appear on the diamond today, as well as the extra pitchers, McGinnity, Ames and Wiltse, have made excellent records in the baseball world and those who have read of their work, will have an opportunity of seeing them just as they appeared at th Polo Grounds in New York.

Great interest will center in the pitching of Mathewson, one of the greatest slab artists in the business, who is now a resident of this city. He will be opposed by Louis Wiltse, who will undoubtedly be in the National League next season. The relative strength of these twirlers will be closely watched.

As the season closes there are some regrets and much to commend the baseball management. One thing is certain much stronger than has ever appeared in Plainfield have been here this season and that the locals were able to win about half of the contests played is creditable in view of the unfortunate happenings to handicap the management. From Plainfield's standpoint the series with Westfield was not as satisfactory as it might have been and it was not played without a feeling of bitter rivalry. The contests have since been played over many times and the wise ones can now tell you just how Plainfield lost and won.

Manager Johnston has given a good article of ball and many fast players have been seen on the team. In the pitching department there has been Jack Cronin and Virgil Garvin, of the Brooklyn Nationals; O'Neil, of the St. Louis Nationals; "Chick" Fraser, of the Philadelphia Nationals; "Lefty" Davis, Griffen, Badgley and "Larry" Battam. In many of the contests the fans have seen clever work in the pitching of these leaguers, while the performance of Badgley in the twelve-inning contest against Aeolian will be recorded as one of the best of the season. Plainfield won by a score of 1 to 0.

Of the present team Peter Cregan, the left fielder, and "Al." Farmer, the catcher, are the only two originals left. They have both played consistent ball and they have made many warm friends. Cregan has played in every game, while Farmer has only missed one. It is hoped that the management, whoever it may be another year, will secure these popular players for the team.

There is no doubt but that all the players have worked hard for the success of the team and their manager and in this respect their services have been appreciated. At times they have been criticized, perhaps unjustly, but as one fan remarked today, in regard to the so-called "knocking" Plainfield is not unlike many other towns.

MARRIED IN MAY, SECRET OUT TODAY

HARRY HANN TOOK UNTO HIMSELF A WIFE MONTHS AGO.

After keeping the fact a secret between themselves for five months, Miss Nettie Happeney, daughter of Phillip Happeney, of Pearl street, and Harry Hann, of Somerset place, today announced that they are man and wife. They were married in May last by Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass at his home. The only witnesses were the groom's mother, Mrs. Clara Hann, and her sister, Mrs. Juillard, both of the borough.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hann are young people widely known in the city and borough. The groom was formerly in the employ of the Watchung Silk Company and is an expert weaver. They are now residing at the home of the groom's mother.

USE OF VOTING MACHINES ILLEGAL?

DEMOCRATIC STATE COMMITTEE REFERS QUESTION TO R. V. LINDABURY.

If the Democratic State Committee can find any legal reason to justify their action, they will instruct the various county chairmen to instruct the Democratic election officers not to consent to the use of the voting machine. The State Committee has referred the question of the legality of the machines to R. V. Landabury, of Newark.

Over the telephone a member of Mr. Lindabury's family at Bernardsville told a reporter for The Daily Press today that Mr. Lindabury has the matter under consideration and is expected to express an opinion for the benefit of the State Committee within a few days. Many complications are likely to result if the Democratic election officers decline to use the machines. Whether any proceedings will be instituted before election day to have the courts pass upon the question is not known.

MIANTONOMOH TRIBE HAS AN ANNIVERSARY

LOCAL RED MEN COMPLETE THE FIFTEENTH YEAR OF ORGANIZATION.

Miantonomoh tribe, I. O. R. M., celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of its organization, last evening, by giving an entertainment and dance in its rooms. The programme in the former part was as follows: Music by Eugene O'Reilly's orchestra, speeches by members of the Great Council, piano selections by Miss May Ardern, recitations by Miss Josephine Murphy; soprano solos by Mrs. A. J. Stiglitz and violin selections by David Dreier.

A sketch of the tribe's career was given by Past Sachem Newcorn in which he stated that it began with 44 members and now has 198. Its first great sachem was the late Norman C. Magee and at present the office is held by Samuel Montross. Two years ago it absorbed Panghoughnaughsinque tribe, of this city, which brought thirty members.

Whittier, 10; Y. M. C. A., Jr.'s, 9.

The Whittier School basket ball team defeated the Y. M. C. A. junior five by the score of 10 to 9, this morning. The following is the lineup: Whittier—Laughlin and Martin, forwards; Alpaugh, center; Fountain and Woodhull, guards. Y. M. C. A.—Caldwell and Doane, forwards; Freeman, center; Steiner and Sterns, guards. Goals from the field, Caldwell, Doane, Steiner, Laughlin, Martin, Alpaugh, 2. Goals from fouls, Caldwell, Doane, Freeman, Woodhull, 2. Referee, Collier; umpire, Henckel.

N. J. BAPTISTS' CONVENTION

Local Churches to be Represented at Diamond Jubilee.

OCTOBER 25, 26 AND 27

Big Meeting at Trenton Representing 57,000 Members of Denomination.

Representatives from the First and Park Avenue Baptist churches will attend the seventy-fifth annual session of the New Jersey Baptist convention to be held in the Central Baptist church, Trenton, October 25, 26 and 27. More than usual interest is attached to this convention because it will be the diamond jubilee of the association. "Enlargement" will be the keynote of the convention, and delegates, representing the 57,000 Baptists in the State, will listen to reports and addresses on the scope, as well as the methods employed, of the missionary work carried on by the denomination in New Jersey among the people of varying nationalities whom the society's workers reach.

On Monday, October 24, there will be a conference of the clergymen and that night there will be a mass meeting under the auspices of the Baptist Young People's Union, when Rev. Dr. Madison C. Peters, of Baltimore, will make an address.

The business will be taken up Tuesday morning, when the president, Edward Brockett, of East Orange, will deliver his ninth annual address. Then will follow reports of the various departments, including a detailed report of the board of governors. Several strong addresses are scheduled for the afternoon.

Rev. T. B. Thames, of Elizabeth, will preach the annual sermon and there will be time given for the consideration of the work of the State Educational Society. Judge E. A. Armstrong, of Camden, a relative of T. S. Armstrong, of the borough, will preside at the convention.

HOPE BASKET BALL TEAM WINS A GAME

EDWARD CLARK CLUB OF ELIZABETH IS DEFEATED HERE.

Rough play characterized the game at the Hope chapel gymnasium last evening, between the Hope five and the Edward Clark Club, of Elizabeth, in which the local team won by the score of 26 to 9. A second game was played which was won by the visitors.

Dilts, of Hope chapel, played his usual game in shooting goals, and much of the score is due to his work. Duckworth was another strong point for the local team, his guarding being close, and his shooting very creditable. There was a decided tendency to rough-house during the entire game, and fouls were numerous, eleven being recorded for the Hope team, and nine for the visitors.

As the Elizabeth club brought down both a first and a second team, two games were played last night, a scrub team being composed of several of the regular players entering the lists with the Clark seconds. Only ten minute halves were played in this contest, the score being 7 to 4 in favor of the visiting team.

The line up for the games was as follows: First game, Hope—Blimm, center; Roseberry, Emmons and Porter, guards; Dilts and Duckworth, forwards. Edward Clark Club—Bonner, center; Bradford and Itzen, forwards; Winchester and Husbands, guards.

Referee, V. W. Nash, Jr.; umpire, Pender; timekeepers, Wilcox and Browning; time of halves, first game—15 minutes; second game—10 minutes.

LITERARY.

Collier's for October 8 discusses the possible outcome of the conflict in Wisconsin. The writer declares that the worst thing that could happen to the Republican National ticket in that State would be for the National Committee to send their speakers into Wisconsin.

The October "American Boy," with its football cover and ninety illustrations, ought to make a boy's heart jump with pleasure. This number is especially attractive. Its stories are: Part one of "Jimmyboy's Commission"—a war story; chapter eight of the editor's "Three Yankee Boys in Ireland"—a travel story; "A Boy Canvasser"—a business story; "The K. O. D.'s and the P. A. C.'s"—a football story; "Why the Flinn-Egan Stock Company Failed"—a humorous story; chapter two of "My Four Years at West Point," by a graduate; "Bob's Self-Sacrifice"—a business story; and "How General Morgan Won His First Shoulder-Straps"—an Indian story.

All the magazines seem to be growing! We notice, for one thing, that a change is going on in the editorial policy of The Metropolitan Magazine. It has greatly increased in circulation; the older periodicals had best look to their laurels. Those who have watched it recently have noticed an improvement in its general character and tone, and, with the November number, two new department have been added. One of these, "The World at Large," dealing with noteworthy men, women and events of the day, will be conducted, in the future, by Alfred Henry Lewis, who is widely known as a writer of great strength and virility. Mr. Lewis' ability to see things clearly is rivalled only by his knack of stating, in the simplest and most direction fashion, the conclusions he draws from them. This department is fully illustrated. Another department, to which added attention seems to have been paid, deals with things in theatrical and dramatic. In this part of the magazine the personality and opinions of James Huneker will predominate. There are also a great number of full-page and smaller pictures of players. It seems to be the editor's ambition to give The Metropolitan Magazine a stronger theatrical interest than that attached to any other high-class monthly. The other features and departments of The Metropolitan go on as before.

A Huge Magnet.

Lakewood attracts visitors out of season as well as in season, and is getting to be one of the first points of interest in this county which foreign tourists inquire about. Averaging from ten to fifteen degrees warmer than New York, its healthfulness and accessibility from the Metropolis combine to make it an ideal winter resort. It owes much to the sports for the widespread extent of its fame, particularly to golf and pony polo, the golf links which are usually open all winter and the polo grounds at Georgian Court being unsurpassed. The hotels which have an aggregate capacity for more than three thousand guests afford accommodations equal to those in the big cities both in point of view of comfort and attractiveness. Although known as a society resort par excellence, the attractions of Lakewood are so diversified that it appeals to all tastes, and offers as much to those who seek relaxation and rest as it does in the way of recreation and social pleasures. Full information concerning Lakewood including rates at the hotels and boarding houses is given in the Lakewood Booklet, published by the Central Railroad of New Jersey, which is to be had upon application to C. M. Burt, G. P. A., 143 Liberty street, New York city.

Last Sunday Excursion to Manch Chunk.

There is no more popular resort for a Sunday than Manch Chunk, and to reach it entails a delightful rail journey, and at Manch Chunk there is a diversity of amusement, the chief of which is a ride over the Switchback. This journey occupies more than one hour, and leads over and around the mountains with widely changing scenes at every turn. The Switchback is a gravity road, and the speed attained is close to a mile per minute. Another feature is Flagstaff, the summit of which is reached by trolley, and from its pinnacle point there is a view extending over miles and miles of beautiful county. An interesting spot close at hand is Glen Onoko, a short distance above Manch Chunk, and, as its name implies, is a beautiful glen, with falls, cataracts, mountain paths leading to cool and delightful places. On October 16, 1904, the New Jersey Central is to run a popular excursion to Manch Chunk from Plainfield by special train, leaving at 9:20 a. m. Returning train will leave Manch Chunk at 5:40 p. m., and the round trip will cost but $1.50. Frequent train service will be in effect between Manch Chunk and Glen Onoko, and the trains on the Switchback run every few minutes. 10 11 5 c

WRECK AT CHATHAM

Nova Scotian Ship Wentworth Dashed to Pieces.

STRUCK SAND BAR IN FIERCE GALE

Life Savers Shot a Line, but It Was Not Secured by Victims, Who Showed No Sign of Life. Bodies Come Ashore.

CHATHAM, Mass., Oct. 15.—The Nova Scotian schooner Wentworth, driven down the coast by a northeastern gale, was thrown upon Chatham bar and smashed to pieces in the terrific surf. It is believed that not a soul on board survived.

The Wentworth was a three masted schooner owned in Windsor, N. S., and was bound from Hillsboro, N. B., to New York. When seen by the keeper of the Nauset lights she was flying south before the gale, with her foresail set. She was about three miles offshore at the time, and it was believed that she would be able to find the entrance of Pollock Rip slue and thread her way through that narrow channel into safety behind the Handkerchief shoal. But the south patrol of the Old Harbor life saving station, ten miles below Nauset, suddenly discovered the schooner on the outer bar, head on to the beach.

Within half an hour Captain Doane had mustered his crew opposite the wreck and a line from the gun was fired. As the little line tightened after being sent toward the wreck it was believed that the crew had caught it and would soon pull aboard the big hawser and reach shore in the breeches buoy. There came no sign from the vessel, however, although lights were shining in the cabin. Several of the surfmen went down as near the breakers as possible and hailed the schooner through megaphones, but there was no answer. Others burned signal torches.

In the meantime Captain Doane's crew had been re-enforced by Captain Charles and his crew from the Orleans station, and several times lines were shot out to the vessel, all of which either fell short or, if reaching the vessel, were useless in the helpless hands of the exhausted crew.

When later it was seen that two of the masts, the main and the mizzen, had fallen by the washing away of the stern of the vessel the life savers gave up all hope of rescuing any of the crew. The name was ascertained from her quarterboard and part of the stern which came ashore.

A patrol was at once begun along the beach. The body of a woman was discovered and dragged ashore, and an hour afterward the body of a man was also washed ashore. The woman was about thirty-two years old. She was fully dressed and had on an outside cloak. On one finger was a heavy plain gold ring. Her face was considerably disfigured, probably from contact with the wreckage. The man was about thirty-five years old and was fully clad, except that he wore no coat.

Captain Doane and Captain Charles unite in the statement that their experience was the hardest battle with the sea they have ever had.

Wreckage continues to come ashore, and the beach for a long space is strewn with debris. Among other articles was a group picture of two children, apparently from the captain's cabin. A small hood, with the strings tied together, as if it had been from the child's head, and a knit frock belonging to a child were brought in by the waves.

The wreck presents a distressing sight. The hull can be seen at low tide, but at high water it is entirely submerged. The wreck lies about 550 yards offshore. The life savers are prevented from going out to it by the rough sea.

Of the twelve persons who were on board the stranded vessel not one reached the shore alive, although two bodies were snatched from the surf, one of them that of a woman, believed to be the wife of the captain. With her three children she was accompanying her husband on a trip from Hillsboro, N. B., to Newark, N. J.

A small part of the forward section of the hull and a slanting foremast stood as mute reminders of the ocean tragedy enacted here when the schooner Wentworth of Moncton, N. B., struck a raging northerly gale, and all on board perished in the terrific seas. With the exception of the loss of the steamer Portland in November, 1898, the wreck of the Wentworth is the most appalling disaster that has occurred on the Cape Cod coast during the last decade.

Horse Throws Attorney General.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Attorney General William H. Moody, who had returned from a campaign trip in New Jersey, met with what might have been a serious accident not long after his arrival. While he was taking a horseback ride a team of runaway mules collided with his horse near the treasury department. The attorney general was thrown to the pavement, but sustained no injury beyond a shaking up.

Dr. White Dead at Baltimore.

ROANOKE, Va., Oct. 15.—Dr. William White of Abingdon, Va., is dead in a hospital in Baltimore, where he underwent an operation. He was a brother of Judge John P. White, chief justice of the supreme court of Texas. He fought a duel several years ago with Judge Ward, editor of a southwest Virginia newspaper.

Millionaire Found Dead In Bed.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 15.—Edwin P. Welles, the millionaire treasurer of the Brainerd Lumber company, was found dead in bed. His death was due to an affection of the heart. Mr. Welles was sixty-five years of age.

SPECIAL RACING DEATH.

H. L. Cooper's Son Lies Dead, Father Speeding Homeward.

STAMFORD, Conn., Oct. 15.—While his father is racing from Mexico as fast as a special train with the most powerful engines and skilled trainmen can carry him, Hugh Cooper lies dead at his home here in South street. The boy was the seven-year-old son of Hugh L. Cooper, an engineer who has amassed a great fortune in the bridge contracting business.

Mr. Cooper's New York offices are at 29 Broadway. For several weeks past he has been in Mexico supervising a large bridge building contract. Monday of this week his only son, Hugh, was taken ill of diphtheria.

The case was a bad one and, despite the efforts of local physicians, a specialist from New York and the family physician, Dr. McCann from Dayton, O., the lad sank rapidly.

When his condition became alarming Monday night a telegram was sent Mr. Cooper in the City of Mexico. He made arrangements at once to get to Stamford by special train. The race has resulted in victory for death.

The boy died Wednesday afternoon. His father continues the wild run to Stamford, all unconscious of the fact. He is due to arrive here Sunday night. The boy was an only son and was one of three children.

MISSED BAD WRECK.

Empire State Express Hit Freight Train at Albany.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 15.—The Empire State express train on the New York Central missed a serious wreck in the Rensselaer yards, across the river from here, last night, largely because she was not yet under full speed in her journey to New York. As it was, one man, a fireman, was killed, one engineer slightly injured, and two locomotives were badly wrecked.

The Empire State, just out of Albany at 7 p. m., collided with a light engine which was standing on the main line track. A. W. Parsons of Peekskill, fireman of the light engine, was almost instantly killed, and Engineer Collard of Albany was slightly injured. No one on the express train was hurt, but her engine was badly damaged and derailed.

After a delay of more than an hour another engine was secured, and the Empire State proceeded to New York.

It is said the accident was due to a towerman's error in passing one of two light engines from the main line into the roundhouse and inadvertently locking out the other until too late to pass her out of the way of the express.

"SWEET KITTY BELLAIRS."

David Belasco and Miss Crossman Shut Out of Trenton Theater.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 15.—David Belasco, the playwright, and Henrietta Crossman and her company went to Trenton with the purpose of presenting "Sweet Kitty Bellairs" at the State Street theater. They were refused admission to the house, and as a result suit will be brought against L. C. Mishler, manager of the house, for violation of contract. The contract was cancelled a few days ago by Mishler, but Belasco and Miss Crossman, ignoring this, came to Trenton with their company and went through the formalities of presenting themselves at the theater only to be refused admission.

Belasco said that the cancelling of the contract by Mishler was the result of the State Street theater ceasing to be an independent house. He charges that the theater is now under the direction of Klaw & Erlanger, the head of the theatrical syndicate, and that Mishler was simply carrying out the directions of the syndicate.

Mr. Belasco stated that suit for damages would be instituted at once in the United States courts.

Fire Escape Failed; Two Dead.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 15.—P. M. Scannon and wife of Minneapolis fell from the third story window of the Germania Life building to the stone sidewalk here last night. The woman was killed, and Scannon is not expected to live. The woman's neck was said to have been broken. They both struck on their heads. Scannon is the inventor of a fire escape, and it was during a test of the apparatus that the accident occurred. He had swung himself down from the eighth floor of the building to the third, where his wife was awaiting him in a window. The rope which sustained them was light, and when the woman's weight was added to that of her husband the stone window ledge above cut the strands of the rope, letting both fall.

Cuban Workmen Oppose Immigration

HAVANA, Oct. 15.—Cuban workmen are holding meetings to express opposition to the pending immigration bill on the ground that the importation of foreign labor is adverse to the interest of Cubans. The planters insist that considerable of the coming sugar crop will be lost unless there is a material increase in the supply of laborers. American Minister Squiers, accompanied by his daughters, has sailed for New York for a month's vacation.

Killed by Fall of Elevator.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Oct. 15.—Francis Totell, employed on the new building of the Norwich Parmachal company at Norwich, stopped the elevator at the fifth floor to remove a wheelbarrow of bricks, when the elevator dropped to the ground, carrying him with it. He was instantly killed.

Cotton Plant Burned.

LAUREL, Miss., Oct. 15.—Fire destroyed the cotton compress at Tillyville. Loss, $75,000, covered by insurance. Seven hundred bales of cotton were destroyed.

WOMAN'S GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP.

Mrs. Sanford and Miss Bishop In Final Match Today.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—Miss Georgeanna Bishop of the Brooklawn Country club, Bridgeport, Conn., and Mrs. E. S. Sanford of the Essex Country club, Orange, N. J., will meet today on the links of the Merion Cricket club at Haverford to decide the women's golf championship of the United States. Miss Bishop has on several occasions figured prominently in the championship contests, but Mrs. Sanford occupies the honor of a semi-finalist for the first time. Mrs. Sanford's victories have been attributable to her splendid approaching and deadly putting.

Miss Bishop, who defeated Miss Harley in the semifinal, has played a splendid long game, while her putting has shown considerable raggedness. Miss Bishop's experience in championship tournaments is expected to help her considerably against Mrs. Sanford in the final for the championship.

Mrs. Sanford won her way into the final round by defeating Miss Pauline Mackay of the Oakley Country club, who had disposed of the British champion, Miss Charlotte Dod, in the first match play round.

Cleveland Downed Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 15.—By winning the game here the Cleveland Americans took the post-season series from the Pittsburg Nationals. Five games were played, two were tied, and of the other three Cleveland captured two. The game was a fine contest up to the seventh inning. Cleveland then found Robertaille for five hits and two runs and in the eighth scored two more on three hits. Flaherty was put in in the ninth, but it was too late. Pittsburg's only run was scored on Wagner's two bagger and two outs. Score: Pittsburg, 1; Cleveland, 4.

Old Roman Roads For Automobiles.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—"As a result of the great agitation caused by the injury and in some cases killing of persons by automobiles," says Consul Hamm, at Hull, England, in a report to the state department, "a proposition has been made by members of the Roads Improvement association to repair and adapt the old Roman roads for motor cars and motor cycle traffic." Mr. Hamm says that many of the public roads can no longer be used by pedestrians, by riders and drivers of horses or by bicyclists without incurring serious risk.

Lexington Meet Closed.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 15. — The trotting meeting has closed here. Nearly $75,000 was distributed in stakes and purse races. Six world's records were broken, and several state records were lowered. The favorites won the three races on the card in three straight heats. Snyder McGregor captured the Stoll stake, for four-year-old trotters. Nancy H. won the 2:20 class pacing, and Tom Axworthy won the 2:20 class trotting.

Felix Mozzes at Delmar.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 15.—Felix Mozzes, the favorite, won the first race of a programme made up of six selling races at Delmar park. Trogan, an outsider, was best in the second; Colonel White, favorite, was ridden out to win the third; Ingolthrift, third choice, beat the favorite, King Rose, in the fourth. The fifth went to Lurrando, at 17 to 1, and the sixth went to Oudenarde. W. Dugan won four out of five mounts.

Lady Uncas at Morris Park.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Lady Uncas, at 3 to 1, won the Fordham handicap, seven furlongs, at Morris park. Lady Uncas broke in front and, making all the pace, won easily by five lengths. Oiseau, who beat Tradition Wednesday in the Champagne stakes, was sold to James Brady for the reported price of $25,000.

Frontenac at Worth.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Fontenac, the favorite, captured the feature event at Worth. J. W. O'Neill was second, two lengths in front of Nannie Hodge. Frontenac was the only winning favorite. The other five events were captured by second choices and one outsider.

Potter Estate About $3,000,000.

BOSTON, Oct. 15.—Public bequests in the will of the late Mrs. Sarah E. Potter, widow of Warren B. Potter of this city, will aggregate about $3,000,000 instead of $3,145,000, as published when the instrument was filed at the probate court. Under the terms of the will the city of New Bedford receives $250,000, and the Massachusetts Medical library $150,000. Nearly all of the institutions benefiting under the will are in Boston and vicinity.

Saw "The Yankee Consul."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt occupied a box at the Columbia theater last night and witnessed the comic opera "The Yankee Consul," in which Raymond Hitchcock takes the leading role. Accompanying them were Theodore Roosevelt, Jr.; Mr. Hale, a guest at the White House, and Miss Hagner.

Moe to Be Consul at Dublin.

New Boat For Great Lakes.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 15. — The Cleveland Cliffs Iron company have placed an order with the Great Lakes Engineering company of Detroit for a large freight boat, to cost probably $350,000.

DAVIS IN OWN STATE

Continuous Performance Tour of Candidate.

MAKING DOZENS OF SPEECHES DAILY

Visits New Martinsville, Sisterville, Friendly, St. Marys, Williamstown and Parkersburg In West Virginia.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 15.—Four days of continuous speechmaking is beginning to tell on the vocal powers of Henry G. Davis, Democratic vice presidential candidate. Aside from hoarseness, however, Mr. Davis seems as fit as when he began his continuous performance tour of his own state.

"I am sure that if Alton B. Parker shall be elected president he will endeavor to have the department of commerce and labor divided and see to it that a practical man, a genuine and intelligent representative of labor interests will have the place devoted to labor interests, as has been originally intended, and a man devoted to the interests of commerce at the head of the commerce department."

This is David B. Hill's contribution to the campaign arguments. To this he added:

"Our candidate for president, while always impartially enforcing the laws, has always been friendly to the interests of those who work." The condition in Colorado was described as a reign of terror, with the militia running the state government. The adjutant general, Mr. Hill said, was one of the rough riders, or perhaps one of the tough riders, of Roosevelts. With a continuance of Republican rule Mr. Hill predicted that militarism would pervade the United States.

The red fire of enthusiasm lit up Parkersburg. Rockets, tin horns, megaphones, marching clubs, brass bands and the small boy had complete control of the town.

The Davis special arrived shortly after 5 o'clock and was met at the station by a large reception committee and marching club. The campaigners were escorted to a hotel, where an impromptu reception was tendered the candidate and his lieutenants. The two theaters of the town were packed long before the hour of the meeting. The meetings along the road were largely attended. At New Martinsville, where a stop of one hour and a half had been planned, the speechmaking continued for nearly double that time. Sistersville, the next stop, furnished even a larger audience, while at Friendly, St. Marys and Williamstown the proportionate crowds appeared. The work of the day was divided among the speakers, including Messrs. Davis, Hill, Bailey, Daniel, Whyte and McGraw. Today Mr. Davis will make a side trip to Ripley, rejoining his party in the afternoon at Point Pleasant.

RUSSIANS OPENED MAIL POUCH.

Strong Protest Will Likely Go to St. Petersburg.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—It has developed that a pouch containing mail for the United States cruiser Cincinnati, then at Nagasaki, Japan, which was aboard the British steamer Calchas when that vessel was seized by the Russian Vladivostok squadron, had been opened while in the possession of the Russian officials, subsequently resealed and sent on to its destination. This information came to the postoffice department in a communication from the Japanese postal administration. The matter will be referred to the state department for action.

This latest phase of the seizure of the Calchas' mails has caused a painful surprise in official circles, and if the act of opening the pouch addressed to the Cincinnati was wittingly done the probability is a strong protest will be lodged with the Russian government.

Bandits Held Up Hotel Guests.

LAKOTA, N. D., Oct. 15.—An attempt has been made to blow the safe of the People's State bank here, two explosions of dynamite awakening the citizens, who turned out with shotguns. Several hundred shots were fired, and the bandits forced the guests of the Grace hotel, nearby, to keep inside the building on penalty of being shot. Among the guests was E. Y. Sarles, the Republican candidate for governor. The bank safe was wrecked, but the robbers escaped without securing the money when the alarm was given.

Divorce Amendment Defeated.

BOSTON, Oct. 15. — The proposed amendment to the divorce canon was defeated in the house of deputies of the Episcopal general convention here. Fifty-five dioceses voted in favor, forty-five against and sixteen divided upon the question of its adoption, and as the sixteen divided dioceses are counted in the negative the amendment failed of a majority and was lost.

Freshmen Will Carry Canes.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Oct. 15.—The annual cane rush between the freshmen and the sophomores of Colgate university was held on Whithall field here. The freshmen won by the score of 25 to 9 and will carry canes this year. No one was hurt.

Standard Oil Ship Disabled.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The Standard Oil company's steamer Atlas, from Port Arthur, Tex., was towed into port last night totally disabled, a steel hawser being entangled in her propeller.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair; north winds.

Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 15, 1904.

If it wasn't for the political banners, no one would suspect that a Presidential campaign is on.

Yes, Maude, the Philadelphia lecturer who said yesterday that "woman is responsible for war," is a married man.

Some more men have broken out of the Middlesex County jail. Wonder if Judge Strong classes their escape as contempt of court?

The New York police are after the men who sell "bad" whiskey in Gotham. Bad whiskey is the kind that kills people quickly. Good whiskey makes a wreck out of them first.

Advertising, like vaccination, is dependatory upon the value of the "point," and the skill with which it is handled. In each case a good point skillfully impressed will "take," and the desired result be obtained.—Anco Special.

PERSONAL.

—The tickets issued for the Y. M. C. A. orchestral concert of Oct. 10, will be received at the door for the concert of Oct. 17. Tickets may be obtained at drug stores.

—An excellent illustration of the strength of the commuter element in Plainfield is shown in the fact that one morning last week there were 840 commuters, nearly all from this city, on the 7:55 train to New York.

SEEN AND HEARD IN PLAINFIELD'S INDUSTRIAL PLANTS.

William Mosher, of the Potter Press Works, is in Toronto, Ont., on a combined business and pleasure trip. He expects to be away a couple of weeks in all.

Martin Cronce, of Essex street, who was in the Potter blacksmithing department for many years, has taken a similar position at the Pond shop.

Shipments of lathes and planers from Pond's have been heavy this week. In addition orders are coming in and the prospects for the winter are of the best.

State Factory Inspector Andrew MacCardell is keeping busy in his territory and has been lately devoting considerable time to the Elizabeth plants. This week he has been studying several of the largest shops at the county seat with a view to having fire escapes where there are none at present. He was received by the Mayor and Council and held a lengthy discussion.

To Sing at Fresh Air Home Meeting.

Miss Grace Carroll, contralto; Miss Etta Raybert, soprano; William Taliamy, bass, and Louis Taliamy, tenor, will comprise the quartette that will sing at the third anniversary of the Netherwood Fresh Air Association in the Y. M. C. A. Hall on Tuesday night. Miss Jessie Utter will be the accompanist. City Judge William N. Runyon will sing Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," and Dr. Waldo will give 'cello solos. Tickets of admission can be secured free at all of the drug stores and from any member of the executive committee of the association. There will also be piano selections by Miss Frances Underhill Weir and Miss Roxie Love. C. Simis will accompany Wm. N. Runyon on the piano.

Mrs. Chambliss Presided.

A delegation of twenty members of the Women's Foreign Missionary Societies of the First Baptist and Park Avenue churches attended the meeting of the East Association of the State Society held yesterday at Roselle. In the absence of the president, Mrss. G. W. Fennell, of Newark, Mrs. Chambliss, wife of Rev. Dr. Chambliss, of this place, presided at the meetings.

Barney Siriski is rapidly recovering from the effects of an abscess on his left cheek.

Mrs. A. A. Lake entertained her Sunday-school class at her home last night.

The Republican banner will be raised on either Monday or Tuesday night.

Special services were held in the St. John's Catholic church last evening.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

An exciting fight between two railroad detectives and two bobos, in which one of the detectives had a narrow escape from being shot, took place yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock, in the swamp between Fanwood station and Graceland. The two detectives, who were out on another case, accidentally came upon the hobos' layout in the swamp. The place proved to be a veritable fence, complete suits of clothes and other valuable merchandise being piled ready for a trip to some fence, probably in New York, when the detectives came upon the men they palmed themselves off as tramps out for anything that was doing. This seemed to meet with the approval of the two robbers and they were told to help themselves to some of the clothes. This was done and when the four had been together a little while the hobos began to grow suspicious of their new found friends and pulling a gun, one of them opened fire on the detectives who beat a hasty retreat. A telephone message was sent to the Plainfield police and Officer Frederickson was soon on the spot. A hasty consultation was held and another message was sent to Plainfield for reinforcements. When they arrived, Collector Charles Sheelen and Constable Augustus Sheelen were called in and the posse started to make a search of the swamp for the robbers, but the birds had flown.

If the person signing himself "An Old Fashioned Democrat" who tells why he intends to vote the Republican ticket will send his name to this office, his communication will be published. The name is not for the purpose of publication, but because no letters are published by The Daily Press except when received from a responsible person.

The new schoolhouse in district No. 2 is about ready for occupancy. Miss Little, who has been teaching in the district for several years, has been granted an assistant by the Board of Education, when the new building is opened.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be as usual: Sunday-school, 9:30 a. m.; morning preaching, 10:45; B. Y. P. U. meeting, 7 p. m.; evening service, 7:45.

The recently organized Republican Club will meet tonight in the club rooms in Meyers' Hall. The club has placed a neat transparency in one of the windows.

The subject of the evening sermon: "The Future Life; Is it Fact or Fiction?" The topic for the Christian Endeavor meeting at 7 p. m. will be: "The Power of Personal Influence." Leader, H. J. Manning.

Delegates from the Baptist Sunday-school will attend the fifty-fourth annual convention of the East New Jersey Baptist Sunday-school Association to be held at the Clinton Avenue Baptist church, Newark, next Tuesday.

Miss Gladys Thorn and Miss Marjorie Cubberley spent the day with Mrs. Theodore VanPelt at her home.

BEHIND CLOSED PORTALS

DOINGS OF THE LOCAL FRATERNAL ORDERS.

While most of the fraternal orders throughout the State are resuming active operations this month, the Royal Arcanum grand officers are asserting that the summer months had very little depressing effect upon the work started in May last to reach a membership of 25,000 by March 31, 1905. During the warm weather the majority of the councils kept at work and midsummer class initiations were features in many sections.

Seventy-five delegates representing the forty-four lodges of the Knights of Honor in New Jersey, attended recently the Grand Lodge session in Arcanum Hall, Montclair. The proposition of some of the delegates to change the annual session to biennial was defeated by a large majority. The order has a membership in the State of 1,600, which is a slight gain over a year ago. At the session were representatives of the Grand Lodge of New York, including the Grand Dictator.

Tea and Sale.

The tea and sale of fancy articles will be held in the parlors of the Seventh-Day Baptist church tomorrow afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock, and not this afternoon, as announced in error, yesterday.

—The New Jersey Central pay-car will make its trip through this section of the State on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward White left today for Daytona, Fla., where they will spend the winter. Their son will remain in Plainfield.

A Card of Thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Bennett desire to thank their many friends for the kindness and sympathy extended to them in their sorrow affliction. The calls and messages of comfort and sympathy; the beautiful floral offerings; the tender ministrations at the home; the many little acts of personal kindness, were gratefully received and can never be forgotten.

THE LADIES favor painting their churches, and therefore we urge every Minister to remember we give a liberal quantity of the Longman & Martinez Paint toward the painting.

Wears and covers like gold.

Don't pay $1.50 a gallon for Linseed Oil (worth 60 cents) which you do when you buy other paints in a can with a paint label on it.

8 and 6 make 14, therefore when you want fourteen gallons of paint, buy only eight of L. & M., and mix 6 gallons pure Linseed Oil with it, and thus get paint at less than $1.20 per gallon.

Many houses are well painted with four gallons of L. & M. and three gallons of Linseed Oil mixed therewith.

RETREAT ON MUKDEN

Russians, Driven Back on Base, Fighting Desperately.

WHOLE BATTLE LINE DEFEATED.

Kuropatkin's Loss Placed at Over Fifteen Thousand—His Great Advance a Boomerang—Wounded Creeping to Rear.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—A dispatch from Mukden says the Japanese have gained a great victory and that the Russian lines are withdrawing slowly northward, having suffered heavy losses, but still resisting. The battle continues, and dispatches are strictly censored. The losses on both sides are enormous. The Russians have 15,000 wounded, hundreds of whom are streaming back from all directions.

The latest word direct from the field of battle is a Mukden dispatch, in which the Russian loss is estimated at 15,000, which, together with former casualties, would make the total probably exceed the figures of Liaoyang and make the fight rank as one of the bloodiest battles in history. A pitiable feature is the coming of thousands of wounded to Mukden. The roads and fields are covered with crippled men dragging themselves to the shelter of the hospitals, the wounded helping each other, as few ablebodied men are being spared from the fighting line.

It must be borne in mind in reading the descriptions by correspondents at the front that some of the guns have been captured and recaptured in fierce hand to hand fights, while a pitiless downpour of rain, the inevitable accompaniment of a great battle, has flooded the trenches and drenched both armies without allaying the desperate conflict.

It seems unquestionable that the Russian advance upon the main Japanese position has been checked.

Marshal Oyama reports that the Russians are falling back along the whole line, but still resisting as they retreat.

The dispatches relate entirely to the developments of the fighting. They make it plain that the battle is of the most desperate character, the fighting exceeding in fierceness the terrific combat at Liaoyang.

The losses on both sides are undoubtedly heavy, but no figures have as yet been received.

Kuropatkin officially confirms the loss of a large number of guns on his right flank, which was forced from its position by a night attack of the Japanese. He was also compelled to withdraw some distance on his left, as the position was found to be too far advanced.

The dispatches show that the operations are unfavorable for the Russians. The Russian losses are reported as especially heavy on their left and center, where it appears that the hottest fighting occurred.

Marshal Oyama sends the following report:

"In the direction of Bensihu the enemy have made repeated counter attacks, but were repulsed. The enemy showed a sign of retreat toward the evening, and our forces have assumed the offensive since daybreak on Thursday. The flanking movement of our strong force of cavalry on the Kanlen largely contributed to the favorable development of the situation in that quarter.

"The central and left columns of the right army both occupied important eminences, continuing attacks. Operations of the central army are progressing favorably, dislodging the enemy there from several strategical positions. Our re-enforcements are arriving continually at Yental."

St. Petersburg dispatches say that General Kuropatkin has reported as follows:

"Two regiments of the Russian right on Oct. 12 suffered heavy losses. The commander of one was killed, and the brigade commander was wounded.

"Both regiments were compelled to withdraw, abandoning their artillery, but subsequently, under Colonel Vannovsky, who temporarily assumed command of the brigade, they, after a desperate assault, regained possession of the guns, with the exception of sixteen, which remained in the hands of the Japanese.

"The final issue of the battle on this flank was unsuccessful for us. On account of a night attack of the Japanese, who executed a turning movement, our troops were forced not only to abandon their positions, but again lost the guns previously recovered from the Japanese.

"Our forces retired to the position previously prepared on the Shakhe river."

Baltic Fleet at Libau.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 15.—It is reported from Libau that the Baltic fleet only left for the purpose of trials and that the vessels have already returned to the port.

French Ambassador From Havre.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—M. Jusserand, French ambassador to the United States, and Mme. Jusserand arrived in New York last night on the French line steamer La Lorraine, from Havre. Mme. Rejane and thirty members of her company and Mr. Thery, the well known automobile driver and winner of the international cup of 1904, were also passengers on the ship.

Must Not Receive Gifts.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The attention of the acting secretary of war, General Oliver, has been directed for some time to a practice which has sprung up for presenting gifts purchased by civilian contributions to army officers changing stations, and as a result a circular has just been issued forbidding the practice.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

R. G. Dun & Co. Report a Satisfactory Outlook.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Progress is slow, but sure, in the leading branches of manufacture, contracts being more readily placed for distant delivery, while the percentage of idle machinery steadily decreases. Satisfactory news from leading iron and steel centers tends to strengthen confidence elsewhere, as the consumption of iron has been found a good barometer of business conditions. Jobbing and wholesale trade in fall and winter wearing apparel expands gradually, and such spring lines as are opened meet with a fairly satisfactory reception, considering the recent indisposition to provide for future requirements. At many points the return of warm weather checked the revival of retail trade in heavy goods; but, as that movement had begun much earlier than usual, the net result thus far is better than last year. Building operations have expanded, at some cities establishing a noteworthy record for the month of September, and the permits recently issued promise well for the future.

Labor is fairly well employed, according to the latest official trades union reports, although the Fall River struggle has lasted longer than expected.

All divisions of the iron and steel industry are making progress, tardy orders coming forward in greater number, and, while few large contracts are recorded, the aggregate tonnage is encouraging.

Little recovery has occurred as yet in the domestic demand for cotton goods, orders being confined to deliveries within the next thirty days, but export contracts cover shipments up to next May. Prices are firmly maintained, the lower position of the raw material having no influence on sellers, while increasing the conservatism of home buyers.

Commercial failures this week in the United States, as reported by R. G. Dun & Co., are 208 against 222 last week, 223 the preceding week and 208 the corresponding week last year. Failures in Canada number 24 against 25 last week, 18 the preceding week and 28 last year. Of failures this week in the United States 94 were in the east, 44 south, 45 west and 25 in the Pacific states, and 81 report liabilities of $5,000 or more. Liabilities of commercial failures in the United States reported for October to date are $2,-181,120 against $7,781,915 for the month last year.

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark, 14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad
Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors
BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.
BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.
LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW
BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.
BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.
BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

MILLINERY MATTERS.

Shaded Velvet Is One of the Late Parisian Novelties.

Some of the most stunning of the new hats are made of a combination of braid and velvet ribbon cunningly woven, and when of the turban or boat shaped toque a flat plaque formed of velvet ribbon or an owl's head is the only adornment.

Shaded velvet and shaded ostrich feathers are often used on the same hat in Paris.

Panne finished belts and beavers come in all the new fashionable shades, and they make much more comfortable headgear than a hat constructed of cloth matching the gown, which is apt to be very heavy.

White yedda braid makes a natty little boat shaped model. The brim is slashed and turned up in an original manner immediately in front and trimmed with narrow kilted black velvet ribbon. On one side is a black wing.

Tricorne toques in all the short haired pelts are to be popular, especially in chinchilla and ermine, which latter promises to be more in evidence for day wear than it was last season. The pretty little tricorne illustrated is an up to date chinchilla example.

FASHION'S FANCIES.

New Trimmings and Fabrics—The Continued Vogue of Silk.

The rage for silk and for exquisite woolen materials, velvets and satins will continue through the winter.

The old fashioned peau de soie and moire antique silks will be revived, and old rose of the most vivid shade is to be a favorite color for evening wear.

Many of the imported gowns show the short shoulder and tight sleeves, with full graceful skirts. The Louis XVI. modes are daily gaining favor, and whether la mode will take kindly to this nipped in appearance of the short shoulder remains to be seen.

When the short shouldered effects are carried out by an artist who is able to make the modifications suited to the individual woman without apparent alterations they are without doubt extremely effective.

Pipings of velvet are very much used as trimming in conjunction with velvet buttons.

Another charming fabric included among the season's novelties is a corduroy embroidery in different spots and figures.

Crochet passementerie is a fashionable trimming just now. It is made of buttonhole silk or gold thread generally fashioned into large wheel motifs. Crochet buttons, too, are included in the modistic scheme.

A dainty little autumn gown is seen in the picture. It is carried out in cheviot of a bronze green shade. The skirt is particularly novel with its wealth of small gores fitted with a plaited panel effect. The blouse jacket is gathered into epaulets on the shoulders and trimmed with embroidered soutache and narrow braid formed into a design. The girdle is of braid, and the buttons are tiny examples of "nouveau art." The attractive toque is a creation of shaded red velvet flowers.

CHAPTER XVIII.

THE STORM.

Marshaling to the imperious orders of the tempest, and crowding close upon the flaming standards of the lightning, the armies of the clouds came on. The sea-wide surface of the lake went dull, and above it bent a sky appalling in its blackness. The wind at first was light, then fitful and gusty, like the rising choler of a man affronted and nursing his own anger. It gained in volume and swept on across the tops of the forest trees, as though with a hand contemptuous in its strength, forbearing only by reason of its own whimsy. Now and again the cohorts of the clouds just hinted at parting, letting through a pale radiance from the western sky, where lingered the departing day. This light, as did the illuminating glare of the forked flames above, disclosed the white helmets of the trooping waters, rushing on with thunderous unison of tread; and the rattling thunder-shocks, intermittent, though coming steadily nearer, served but to emphasize these foot strokes of the waves. The heavens above and the waters under the earth—these conspired, these marched together, to assail, to overwhelm, to utterly destroy.

To destroy what? Why this wild protest of the wilderness? Was it this wide-blown, scattered fire, whose sparks and ashes were sown broadcast, till but stubborn remnants clung under the sheltering back-log of the bivouac hearth? Was it this frail lodge, built upon pliant, yielding poles, covered cunningly with mats and bark, carpeted with robe of elk and buffalo? Yet why should the elements rage at a tiny fire, and why should they tear at a little house of nomad man, since these things were old upon the earth? Was it somewhat else that incited this elemental rage? This might have been; for surely, builder of this hearth-fire which would not quench, master of this house which would not yield, there was now come up to the door of the wilderness the white man, risen from the sea, heralding the day which the tribes had for generations blindly prophesied! The white man, stern, stubborn, fruitful, had come to despoil the west of its secrets!

Let all the elements therefore join in riotous revolt! Let earth and sea and sky make common cause! Rage, waves, and blaze, ye fiery tongues, and threaten, forests, with all your ominous voices! Smite, destroy, or terrify into swift retreat this little band! Crush out their tenement! Loosen and brush off this feeble finger-grasp at the ancient threshold! With banners of flame, with armies of darkness, with shoutings of the captains of the storms, assail, denude, destroy, if even by the agony of their horrors, these feeble folk now come hither! And by this more especially, since they would set the seal of fruitfulness upon the land, and bring upon the earth a generation yet to follow. Hover about this bed in the frail and swaying lodge of bark and boughs, all ye most terrifying spirits! Let not this thing be!

"Mother of God!" cried Jean Breboeuf, bending low and pulling his tunic tighter by the belt, as he came gasping into the faint circle of light which still remained at the fire log. "'Tis murderous, this storm! Ah, Monsieur du Mesne, we are dead men! But what matter? 'Tis as well now as later. Said I not so to you all the way down Michiganon from the straits? A rabbit crossed my path at the last camp before Michillimackinac, and when we took our boat to leave the mission at the straits, three crows flew directly across our way. Did I not beseech you to turn back? Did I not tell you, most of all, that we had no right, honest voyageurs that we are, to leave for the woods without confessing to the good father? 'Tis two years now since I have been proper shriven, and two years is too long for a voyageur to remain unabsolved. Mother of God! When I see the lightnings and listen to that wind, I bethink me of my sins —my sins! I vow a bale of beaver—"

"Fish! Jean," responded Du Mesne, who had come in from the cover of the wood and was casting about in the darkness as best he might to see that all was made secure. "Thou'lt feel better when the sun shines again. Call Pierre Noir, and hurry, or our canoe will pound to bits upon the beach. Come!"

All three went now knee-deep in the surf, and Du Mesne, clinging to the gunwale as he passed out, was soon waist deep, and time and again lost his footing in the flood.

"Pull!" he cried at last. "Now, en avant!" He had flung himself over the stern, and with his knife cut the hide rope of the anchor-stone. Overboard again in an instant, he joined the others in their rush up the beach, and the three bore their ship upon their shoulders above the reach of the waves.

"Myself," said Pierre Noir, "shall sleep beneath the boat to-night, for since she sheds water from below, she may do as well from above."

"Even so, Pierre Noir," said Du Mesne, "but get you the boat farther toward your own camp to-night. Do you not see that Monsieur L'as is not with us?"

"Eh bien?"

"And were he not surely with us at such time, unless—"

"Oh, assurement!" replied Pierre Noir. "Jean Breboeuf, aid me in taking the boat back to our camp in the woods."

Now came the rain. Not in steady and even downpour, not with intermittent showers, but in a sidelong, terrifying torrent, drenching, biting, cutting in its violence. The swift weight of the rain gave to the trees more burden than they could bear. As before the storm, when all was still, there had come time and again the warning boom of a falling tree, stricken with mysterious mortal dread of that which was to come, so now, in the riot of that arrived danger, first one and then another wide-armed monarch of the wood crashed down, adding with its downfall to the testimony of the assailing tempest's strength and fury. The lightning now came not only in ragged blazes and long ripping lines of light, but in bursts and shocks, and in bomb-like balls, exploding with elemental detonations. Balls of this tense surcharged essence rolled out over the comb of the bluff, fell upon the shadows of the water, and seemed to bound from crest to white-capped crest, till at last they split and burst asunder like some ominous missiles from engines of wrath and destruction.

And now, suddenly, all grew still again. The sky took on a lighter, livid tone, one of pure venom. There came a whisper, a murmur, a rush as of mighty waters, a sighing as of an army of legions of the lost, a roaring as of all the soul-felt tortures of a world. From the forest rose a continuous rending crash. The whiplash of the tempest cracked the tree trunks as a child beheads a row of daisies. Piled up, falling, riven asunder, torn out by the wind, the giant trees joined the toys which the cynic storm gathered in its hands and bore along until such time as it should please to crush and drop them.

There passed out over the black sea of Michiganon a vast black wraith; a thing horrible, tremendous, titanic in organic power. It howled, execrated, menaced; missed its aim, and passed. The little swaying house still stood! Under the sheltered log some tiny sparks of fire still burned, omen of the unquenchable hearthstones which the land was yet to know!

"Holy God! what was it? What was that which passed?" cried Jean Breboeuf, crawling out from beneath his shelter. "Saint Mary defend us all this night! 'Twas the great Canoe of the Damned, running au large across the sky! Mary, Mother of God, hear my vow! From this time Jean Breboeuf shall lead a better life!"

The storm, baffled, passed on. The rain, unsatisfied, sullenly ceased its attack. The waves, hopeless but still vindictive, began to call back their legions from the narrow shore. The lightnings, unsated in their wrath, flared and flickered on and out across the eastward sea. With wild laughter and shrieks and imprecations, the spirit of the tempest wailed on its furious way. The red west had raised its hand to smite, but it had not smitten sure.

In the silence of the night, in the hush following the uproar of the storm, there came a little wailing cry; so faint, so feeble, yet so mighty, so conquering, this sign of the coming generation, the voice of the new-born babe. At this little human voice, born of sorrow and sin, born to suffering and to knowledge, born to life in all its wonders and to death in all its mystery—the elements perchance relented and averted their fury. Not yet was there to be punished sin, or wrong, or doubt, or weakness. Not at once would justice punish the parents of this babe and blot out at once the record of their fault. Storm and lightning, darkness and the night yielded to the voice of the infant and allowed the old story of humanity and sin, and hope and mercy to run on.

The babe wailed faintly in the silence of the night. Under the hearth-log there still endured the fire. And then the red west, seeing itself conquered, smiled and flung wide its arms, and greeted them with the burgeoning dawn, and the voices of birds, with a sky blue and repentant, a sun smiling and not unkind.

CHAPTER XIX.

AU LARGE.

It was weeks after the night of the great storm, and the camp of the voyageurs still held its place on the shore of the great Green bay. The wild game and the abundant fishes of the lake gave ample provender for the party, and the little bivouac had been rendered more comfortable in many ways best known to those dwellers of the forest. The light jest, the burst of laughter, the careless ease of attitude showed the light-hearted voyageurs content with this, their last abode, nor for the time did any word issue which threatened to end their tarrying.

Law one morning strolled out from the lodge and seated himself on a bit of driftwood at the edge of the forest's fringe of cedars, where, seemingly half forgetting himself in the witchery of the scene, he gazed out idly over the wide prospect which lay before him. He was the same young man as ever. Surely, this increased gauntness was but the result of long hours at the paddle, the hollow cheeks but betokened hard fare and the defining winds of the outdoor air. If the eye were a trace more dim, that could be due but to the reflectiveness induced by the quiet scene and hour. Yet why should John Law, young and refreshed, drop chin in hand and sit there moodily looking ahead of him, comprehending not at all that which he beheld?

ELECTION RETURNS.

Arrangements have been made by The Daily Press to display by stereotipcan views the returns of the election on November 8. The results of the National elections in the pivotal States, including New York, New Jersey, West Virgina and Indiana, as well as the complete returns of the gubernatorial and congressional fights in the various counties and districts in this State will be displayed. Returns from the election in the various parts of Union county and Plainfield and North Plainfield will be shown. J. Hervey Doane and John Neagle will operate the camera, and the returns will be received by telegraph and telephone.

SPORTS AND ATHLETICS

A trick that has not been turned many times in the history of baseball was turned by three veterans the other day in a game between the St. Louis and Washington teams in the American League. This was a triple steal, engineered by Padden, captain of the former team, Burkett and Sugden. Padden was on third, and by stealing home he scored the run that tied up the game, saving the Browns from defeat by the Senators. The contest stretched over 11 innings, and was finally called on account of darkness. For daring base running the Browns have some of the best and brainiest ball players in the country. High chief among these is that old-timer, Dick Padden. The tricks he can turn in a ball game to the advantage of the team he is playing with are innumerable. He is a source of constant worry when on base to the opposing nine, and especially the pitcher and catcher. Not only in base running is this wily old leader a terror to opposing teams, for he can turn just a few more tricks in fielding than almost any other man in the game to-day. Padden's brightest effort was probably the achievement in which three men stole bases at the same time, he himself stealing home, Sugden third, and Burkett second. Practically the only way such a feat could be engineered was for Padden to slide to the plate when the pitcher delivered the ball to the catcher, the other base-runners stealing while the backstop was muddled up at the plate with the Brown's captain. One of Padden's greatest plays, and one that might be developed to a greater degree than is generally seen in games of to-day, is stealing third base. In the art of purloining that bag he is a past master. As soon as he reaches second he leads far off the base in an effort to draw the throw of the catcher in an effort to nip him when he tries to slide back. Such a throw is just what he is looking and prepared for, and as soon as the catcher cuts loose, away he goes for third. With the lead he has acquired he nearly always gets away with the play. If, on the other hand, the backstop whips the ball to third to get him sliding in there, the wise old ball player slips back to second, instead, and the throw has been useless, except in so far as it prevented his getting a notch nearer the home plate than he would otherwise.

Richard Padden.

The first Olympic golf tournament has been held, and Canada has the honor of capturing the first championship, George S. Lyon, the veteran Toronto cricketer and representative of the Lambton Golf and Country club, won the title on the Glen Echo links, at St. Louis, by defeating H. Chandler Egan, of the Exmoor Country club, of Chicago, holder of the American national and western amateur titles, by 3 up, 2 to play. Lyon is 46 years of age, and probably the best all-around sportsman in Canada. Not only does he excel in golf and cricket, but he is also a good football, baseball and tennis player. He is of Scotch-Irish parentage, and was born near Ottawa. He first played golf in 1896, and two years later won the championship of Canada. This title he won also in 1900 and 1903. He holds the championship bowling record at cricket, 241 runs, not out, and he also is regarded as the best at bowling on the green in Canada. He has played in innumerable international cricket matches, and in the three matches between Canadian and American golfers. His first golf match of consequence he played in 1897 with Vere Brown, of Rosedale, and Harry Vardon, ex-champion of the world. This was played on the Rosedale links, twice over the course of 18 holes. Vardon won by 3 up and 2 to play. Lyon is admittedly the best golfer in the dominion. He won the Lambton Golf club championship last year, as well as the Toronto Golf club championship and the championship of Canada. He was defeated this year by T. Percy Taylor, of Montreal, by one hole, but he was not at his best at that time, suffering considerable discomfort from hay fever. His victory of the Olympic championship was enthusiastically received at Toronto.

DIAMOND DUST

Conroy, the third baseman of the New York Americans, lives at Camden and he expects to spend most of the winter there.

Virgil Garvin will oppose Chesbro in pitching against the Highlanders for the Ridgewoods at Ridgewood Park, tomorrow.

Billy Gilbert, who plays second base for the New York Giants today on Crescent Oval, is a resident of Trenton, and has relatives in this city.

Jack Chesbro, the star twirler of the New York Americans, says that he intends keeping himself in condition throughout the winter so that he will be prepared to pitch when the season opens next spring.

The baseball season is closed at Westfield and within a short time there will be a meeting of the association to determine upon next season's work. It is strongly intimated that Manager Denman will resign.

BASKET BALL.

Paul R. Collier, manager of the Plainfield High School basket ball team, has recently received a reply from the South Orange team to the effect that they will play in this city on March 1. This is a great opportunity for the local players. The South Orange boys have been the interscholastic champions for the last three years, and their schedule contains the names of many collegiate fives. The game will be played in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

GOLF.

The members of the Westfield Golf Club are wide-awake these days and they are going to wind the season up in grand fashion. Tonight there will be an informal dance with many attractive features. On Saturday afternoon, October 22, there will be a euchre for women members and friends and on Saturday night, October 22, there will be a harvest dance and those attending are requested to wear field clothes.

SIDE LIGHTS ON TIMELY TOPICS NOTED IN PASSING.

The Newark Evening News says editorially:

"A serious question has arisen in this State, and one that may call for expert testimony and very careful observation before it is definitely settled. Put in its simplest form this question is: Can good roads be properly maintained if automobiles are allowed on them? This has no reference to such execrable use as was recently made of thirty miles of Long Island road by racing automobilists, but to the common, ordinary, everyday use of the two thousand miles of telford and macadam roads in this State.

"An aggravated form of this question has arisen in Somerset County, where a number of automobiles have been equipped with what are known as armored tires. These consist of steel spikes driven into heavy leather bands and fastened to the faces of the rubber tires. The spikes catch in the road metal and prevent the wheels from slipping, but they tear up the roads. In the vicinity of Bernardsville, where hundreds of automobiles are in use, the damage to the county roads is so great that the Somerset Board of Freeholders will probably make an effort to have armored tires legislated out of use.

"But the objection would not end with the abolition of armored tires, though it might subside for a time if they were abandoned. Every one has noticed the cloud of dust raised or the quantity of dirt thrown by a passing automobile, particularly if it is a heavy one and is traveling at a high rate of speed. No wagon, however heavily weighted or rapidly run, equals an auto in this respect. The reason is, because the surfaces of the revolving wheels clutch the earth and pull the machine along, and in such clutching and pulling they tear the road metal and throw it out of its place. A wagon packs the macadam, an automobile displaces it. A careful observer has given it as his opinion that the heavy wooden planks of a bridge will be splintered up and worn out much more quickly by automobiles than by heavily loaded carts, wagons and carriages.

"It may easily be seen from these facts that the question of the relation of automobiles to State and county roads is one that may cause considerable discussion, some legislation and possibly a little litigation. The first suggestion likely to be advanced is that the owners of automobiles should be taxed and the money thus raised be expended in keeping the roads in repair. But a better one will probably provide that automobiles shall be driven only at such speed as will cause no damage to the roads. For the most part the fast drivers are the ones that do the injury complained of, and these are the ones who cannot make speed enough with ordinary tires but must have them armored. The automobilist who runs his machine at an easy gait not only spares the lives of men, women, children, hogs, dogs and chickens, but he also spares the roadway and is objectionable to nobody. Furthermore, he gives himself and those with him the reasonable enjoyment of seeing the country through which they are riding. Barring armored tires, the question is really not so much one of automobiles as of the speed at which they are run."

TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP GOES TO MISS COGAN

Winning a close match with Miss Charlotte Taylor, Miss May Cogan for the second time won the girls' championship in tennis of the Plainfield High School. The set was played this morning on the Albert street court, the score being 8-6, 5-7, 7-5. Miss Cogan and Miss Taylor were very evenly matched and the set was the closest which has been fought in either the boys or the girls tournament.

The semi-final matches were played off yesterday afternoon, resulting as follows: Miss Cogan defeated Miss Ostrom, 6-1, 6-0; and Miss Taylor defeated Miss Pierson, 6-2, 6-3. As the winner of this tournament, Miss Cogan becomes the owner of the silver cup offered by the Girls' Athletic Association.

MISSION BAND'S WORK.

Interesting Meeting of Trinity Reformed Church Society.

Reports of the past year's work and items from the Arabian mission field helped to make the first fall meeting of the Young Women's Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church, a successful one, last night. Mrs. Frank E Woodruff, president of the band, was in charge of the meeting during the reading of the usual reports, after which Miss Mabel Wilson, treasurer, took charge of the evening's programme. Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor, offered prayer. Then a number of the members read clippings from mission papers which gave accounts of the progress of the mission work in the hospitals and educational institutions in Arabia, toward which the band contributes regularly.

It has been the custom of the band to hold its first fall meeting and the last one in the spring in the evening, but the other meetings are held in the afternoon. There were about twenty members present last night.

"MATTY'S" GREAT WORK

Though Lacking American Leaguers P. A. C. Makes a Good Showing.

Despite the fact that the New York American League players failed to appear with the Plainfield A. C. team on Saturday against the New York Nationals, as they promised to do, the locals gave the Giants one of the best contests in the exhibition series, although losing by a score of seven to five. There are many fans who say that the champions did not half try and that they just fooled with the Plainfield team. However, a good single in the ninth inning, when Plainfield had two men on base, would have tied the score.

Louis Wiltse pitched a clever game for the locals, allowing but one hit up to the fifth inning, and shutting the Giants out until the seventh. In the latter inning, the New Yorks made six hits, including two two baggers. Plainfield had a couple of chances to shut off this hitting, but errors spoiled them.

Several changes were necessary on the Plainfield team. Onslok failed to show up, and Maisy after arriving in town, never put in an appearance until after the game was started and then he did not come prepared to play. Alberts played right field and "Pop" Dietrich covered second base, while Bassford was in center field. Donovon, drafted this year by the Cleveland Americans, played third. All things considered the team played creditably.

Mathewson gave a good exhibition of pitching, although at times he simply tossed the ball up. He was touched for fourteen hits, but struck out fourteen men. His opponents had little trouble hitting him, yet at critical times, when it looked like runs, he quickly retired the side.

Wiltse and Robinson led in batting, each making three hits, while Alberts, Oregan and Farmer each made two hits. Dietrich and Hartman were the only two who failed to get a hit. Dietrich and Hartman were the only two who failed to get a hit. The home team made two pretty double plays, one in the second and one in the ninth inning.

It was the first appearance of the Giants here and the large crowd enjoyed the exhibition, even though there was a feeling that the home team could not win from the big leaguers. A notable feature of the contest was the presence of many old-time cranks who were active in 1892, when Somerville and Plainfield were great rivals. With Saturday's contest the local baseball season closed.

GEORGE B. SMITH'S LECTURE ON INDIA

TELLS OF THE PEOPLE AND OF THE WORK IN THAT COUNTRY.

George Benton Smith, who has been supported by the Y. M. C. A. at Madras, India, for the last year, delivered an interesting lecture on the subject of his work in India, at the Y. M. C. A. Hall Saturday evening. The lecture was illustrated by stereopticon views taken by the speaker, in and around Madras.

Mr. Smith spoke more of the people of India, than of the country, referring to the cast nature of the inhabitants, and citing incidents of the work done by the Y. M. C. A. in India. Being the largest Christian organization in India, the Y. M. C. A. does the greatest amount of good among the heathen there, and the work though involving peril, is decidedly gratifying on account of the splendid results.

MISS LILLIAN HOPE THE BRIDE OF A. F. OSMUN

PLAINFIELD GIRL BECOMES THE WIFE OF A DUNELLENITE.

Mrs. C. R. Hope, of this city, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Lillian Catherine Hope, to Alfred F. Osmun, of Dunellen. The ceremony was performed yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the groom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Nelson, of Dunellen.

The couple was unattended and only the immediate relatives were present. The groom is an employe of Smith, Worthington & Co., wholesale harness and saddlery firm of New York. Mr. and Mrs. Osmun will shortly make their home in New York.

The bride was employed for some time as bookkeeper and cashier at F. W. Dunn's grocery store, corner of Park and North avenues, and both she and her husband are well-known here.

P. H. S. Tennis Trophies Presented.

Repeating the ceremony which took place a year ago, the winners of the Plainfield High School tennis tournament were presented with cups this morning by Principal Travell. Howard H. Craig and Chester H. Briggs took the prizes, the former winning the contest in singles, while each received a cup for winning the doubles. Briggs, who won the singles in 1902 and 1903, did not enter the event this year.

Talked on Insecticides.

North Plainfield sent a good-sized delegation to the meeting of the Somerset County Board of Agriculture, held Saturday afternoon at Somerville. The gathering was addressed by Professor John C. Smith, State entomologist, who spoke on insecticides, dwelling on the methods used for killing off the San Jose scale. Afterwards he answered many queries relating to the subject.

Democratic Club's Trip.

The North Plainfield Democratic Club will make a trip to Somerville on the 25th inst., where the gubernatorial candidate, Charles C. Black, is to speak. Those who desire to visit the county seat on that evening, must leave their names at headquarters, or with Robert Trewin, next door to the club rooms, any evening this week. Passes will be issued to all those who desire to attend.

Death of Mary Kline.

Miss Mary E. Kline, daughter of William A. and Frances L. Kline, died yesterday in the twenty-second year of her age. The funeral services will be held from the Mt. Olive Baptist church on Wednesday at 3 o'clock. The burial will be at Hillside cemetery.

A November Wedding.

William De La Anderson, of New York, whose summer home is near Washington Rock, will be married to Miss Amy Gordon Olyphant, November 19. His brother, Alfred Fitzroy Anderson, will be one of the seven ushers.

Death of Mrs. Thomas.

Mrs. Mary L. Thomas, widow of Henry Thomas, died at her home yesterday. The funeral services will be held at the Filmore Baptist church on Thursday at 2:30. Interment will be at Hillside.

Committee on Class Pins.

Miss Anna Runyon, Miss Inez Tolles and Howard Lapslay have been appointed as the committee to choose the class pins for the class of 1905 at the Plainfield High School.

STAMPED AS CRIMINALS

Association Helps the Deserving Ones Promptly and Others Get Nothing.

Miss Sarah VanBoskerck, agent of the Organized Aid Society, declares that people who give money and clothing to tramps make a grave mistake. She recommends that the beggars be directed to the Society's office where the deserving ones will receive all necessary aid. Miss VanBoskerck has sent the following letter to The Daily Press:

Editor, The Daily Press:

Apropos of the articles in your Saturday's issue on the escape of five prisoners from the New Brunswick jail, and the shooting of Detective Lovelen by a gang of tramps in the Fanwood cut, caught while dividing the spoils of a robbery, I wish to relate the following story, as being typical of many similar ones.

On Saturday morning, a tramp entered the office of the Organized Aid Association. He was well dressed, had new shoes, a good coat and blue flannel shirt, a nice black silk muffler, etc. All this elegance failed to disguise the utter ruffianliness of the man. He told the writer that ladies at four different residences had given him his outfit. One of them had sent him to our office to add the finishing touches to his wardrobe. After looking him over carefully, I asked what he still desired, as he seemed to have been already presented with all things necessary. He replied that he yet desired a vest and a pair of new suspenders. He was then told that he could earn these things by a few hours' work in the wood yard, the terms being one third of a cord of wood sawed and split up for the value of $1. He looked distinctly injured and protested. I did not understand his case at all. He had a job promised him in Dunellen on Monday, he would not be able to chop wood, and get there on time. Besides sawing wood was only for those who were used to it. He again begged for the suspenders and a trolley ticket to Dunellen, but in vain. He then stormed out the office, calling down maledections on organized charity with a wood yard and was last seen slouching down Front street, not toward Dunellen.

Moral—Don't give to tramps or beggars at your doors. The great majority of vagrants are criminals and dangerous to society. Begging is against the law of our city and it is the duty of a good citizen to see that the law is enforced. If beggars and tramps are referred to the office of the Organized Aid Association, work is provided for the able-bodied, to earn what they need. If ill, they are cared for through the charitable resources of our city, and not allowed to wander sick and miserable from door to door.

Yours very truly,
Sarah M. VanBoskerck.

Wheelmen Hold Century Run.

Fully 150 members of the New Jersey division of the Century Road Club of America took part in the annual fall run yesterday. This city was reached at noon with half the distance completed and the riders had dinner at a local restaurant. All but few of the participants finished the run and received their medals at Jersey City.

Teacher Finds Ballplayer's Watch.

Louis Wiltse, the baseball pitcher, who lost his gold watch a week ago Saturday when he pitched for Plainfield A. C. against Elizabeth, had the timepiece returned to him on Saturday. It was found by Miss Angell, the kindergarten teacher, and given to B. A. Mumford for Mr. Wiltse. She refused to take any reward.

Rev. Mr. Gray at Men's Meeting.

Rev. John A. Gray, the speaker at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon, took for his topic, "A Study in Character." The address was interesting and instructive, in so much as it was largely an outline of Mr. Gray's experiences in New York and Paterson. The singers were Mrs. John Manley and Master Alfred Manley.

Miss Charlotte Lowe to Wed.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Charlotte F. Lowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Lowe, of Park avenue, and Fred M. Shepard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus D. Shepard, of "The Gables," Scotch Plains, was made Saturday.

STRENUOUS CAMPAIGN OF JAMES E. MARTINE

FARMER-ORATOR HAS SEVERE SCHEDULE BEFORE ELECTION DAY.

The honor of conducting a strenuous campaign does not belong alone to President Roosevelt. James E. Martine has partaken of the cup of strenuousness and is making a twenty-four-hour-a-day hustle for votes. In the language of the street, he is "right there with bells on," and what is more, he is fulfilling the first promise he made on the platform of the Lyceum theatre, the day he was nominated, of "giving Charles N. Fowler the biggest run of his life." Almost daily he receives hundreds of letters of congratulation from Democrats and Republicans alike, who have promised him their votes and support.

Mr. Martine will be at Phillipsburg on October 19; Dover on the evening of October 19; Boonton on the evening of October 20, with Charles C. Black, the gubernatorial candidate; at Madison on the afternoon of October 24, with Mr. Black, and in the evening of the same day he will speak at Morristown with Mr. Black. He will be at Washington, N. J., on the evening of October 26, again with Mr. Black.

He will be in Elizabeth on the evening of October 27, with other prominent speakers, probably including Mr. Black, and will speak at Reform Hall, this city, on the following evening, October 28. On the evening of October 29 he will speak at Cranford.

No arrangements have as yet been made for a meeting in Rahway, but it is understood that he will speak there shortly, as well as at Belvidere, Warren county, and many other places throughout the district. Between these dates Mr. Martine is to go about the three counties making friends with the people and preaching to them the doctrine of Equal Taxation and the danger of Republican usurpation of power in the State and Nation.

DINNER IN HONOR OF MR. AND MRS. HAWKINS

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM E. LOWE, OF PARK AVENUE, AS HOSTS.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ebbet Lowe, of Park avenue, gave a dinner at their home, Saturday evening, for the purpose of introducing Mr. and Mrs. G. Frederick Hawkins, of East Front street. Eighteen guests were in attendance. Mrs. Hawkins was formerly Miss Ely, of New York, and is a niece of Mrs. Lowe.

During the dinner, Henry Lowe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowe, formally announced the engagement of his sister, Miss Charlotte Frances, to Frederick M. Shepard, of New York, nephew of E. F. Shepard. Mr. Shepard is connected with the New York offices of the General Electric Company.

Those who were present at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Waring, the Misses May and Florence Waring, Charles Dupee, Thomas VanBoskerck, Miss Lulu Holly, Miss Laura Post, of Summit; Harold Woodruff and Miss Woodruff, of New York; Augustus D. Shepard, Jr., Henry Lowe, Miss Charlotte Frances Lowe and Frederick E. Shepard.

Contesting Eccentric Woman's Will.

In the Somerset County Orphans' Court at Somerville, Saturday, the matter of caveat filed against the will of the late Miss Alleine Lord, the eccentric woman who pleaded poverty when alive and who left a fortune aggregating $50,000, was taken up. D. Porter Lord, her only near relative, who claims she was of unsound mind when she made the document leaving all her property to the town, churches and charitable institutions, is represented by Major Dungan. H. K. Gaston, the executor, is the proponent. James L. Griggs appears for the Somerville Board of Commissioners, which is interested to the extent of the $1,200 left for the public drinking fountain. Judge Schenck took a little unimportant evidence and adjourned the hearing until November 15.

Valuable Pearl in a Clam.

In one of fifteen cents worth of clams which Edward L. Smith, of Park avenue, purchased from Fred Ivamy's market, Saturday, he found a pearl of unusual size and brilliancy. He took it to a local jeweler's and quickly exchange it for a twenty dollar bill. Pearls are frequently found in oysters but it is only at rare intervals that clams yield such treasure.

ESCAPE FROM CO. JAIL

Three Prisoners Walk Out of Somerset County's Lockup.

TWO ARE RECAPTURED

"Geese" Niles and His Two Pals Leave the County "Boarding House" Without Permission.

Three prisoners ran away from the Somerset County Jail at Somerville at 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning while waiting for their breakfast. Two of them were captured half an hour later by a posse of citizens and farmers, but the third is still free. He is "Geese" Niles, an ex-convict who, it is charged, tried to hold up a Jersey Central freight train all by himself last week.

The Somerset Jail is like a family boarding-house, save that all the guests have their meals served in their rooms. John Anderson, the Deputy Sheriff, is the waiter, and he carries two loaded revolvers on each tray of his wife's cooking.

Mrs. Anderson prepared a Sunday breakfast yesterday morning and John, with an unusual number of boarders to feed, had to make two trips, because he couldn't carry enough for all on one tray.

"Geese" Niles, Sylvanus Carkhuff and William Ashton were the three he selected for the second table. The Deputy Sheriff waiter didn't know that the savor of his wife's cooking, half an hour before, had scared the three away from a hole they were srying to dig through the wall at the end of the corridor, or he wouldn't have left the outer gate open. There was a look on the inner one, and John disappeared into the kitchen.

It didn't take "Geese" Niles a minute to pick the old-fashioned lock with a button-hook, and he and his two "pals" just walked out. When they got to the yard they ran, and Mrs. Anderson, from the kitchen window, saw them. Anderson made a flying leap for the open door, slammed it shut, and started after the three. But they had gained a lead of three blocks and were making for the railroad cut.

The people on the street followed the bare-headed, yelling Deputy Sheriff, and when they heard what was in the wind they formed themselves into a posse and took up the cry like a pack of hounds.

Away off in the distance appeared Policeman Henry Koch on an early morning spin on his bicycle. When he saw the howling posse chasing the three men, he joined in. The fugitives ran across the fields, but Koch made a detour and caught up with Niles and Ashton at the foot of Bertine street, in East Somerville. He cornered them at an embankment and shouted:

"I've got you; might as well stop and be good."

"Not yet," answered Niles, and he made a flying leap over the twenty-five foot embankment and sunk to his knees in the mud of the creek.

"Stop or you are a dead man!" cried Koch from the top of the embankment, not daring to follow. Niles laughed and made off across the lowlands to the mountains. Koch was off duty and didn't have his revolver.

Ashton surrendered to Koch without a word. Carphuff made off across the fields, and the Deputy Sheriff and his posse chased him two miles and finally cornered him in a cornfield. Only a few men and boys stayed to the finish and the fugitive was too blown to give them a fight.

"I guess I'll go back and get my breakfast," said the fugitive with a grin, and the posse said they "reckoned" he would.

An inspection of the jail showed that the men had very nearly succeeded in cutting a hole through the corridor wall.

Candidate Ineligible.

Shortly after the Somerset County Republican county convention was held at Somerville, it was learned that, under the constitution, Dr. C. R. P. Fisher was ineligible to a renomination for coroner, and accordingly the committee on vacancies has selected Dr. William H. Long, Jr., of Somerville, to his stead for the ticket.

George H. Utter.

The native of New Jersey who has been nominated for Governor by the Republicans of Rhode Island is also an editor. That's a combination that ought to insure his election in such a "tight little, right little" State.—Newark News.

No Game Saturday.

Owing to the fact that only three Westfield players showed up for the game with the Orange Field Club, Saturday afternoon, the local eleven claimed the game by default.

JUDGES NAMED FOR AUTOMOBILE PARADE

ROUTE IS TO INCLUDE TWO COUNTER-MARCHES.

Frank L. C. Martin, Dr. P. J. Zeglio and Dorsey Hyde have been selected as the route committee for the automobile parade to be held on Saturday afternoon. The route will include two counter-marches. One will be east on Seventh street to the intersection of Franklin place and Putnam avenue and return westward. The second will be through Grove street to Rockview avenue, to Rockview avenue triangle at the start of Rockview terrace and back again. The parade will also take in most of the residential and business section.

The committee in charge is surprised at the large number of entries, especially from out-of-town autoists and there is every indication that this first parade in Plainfield will be a decided success.

CHURCH WOMEN AID IN SECURING EDUCATION

TEA AND SALE AT SEVENTH-DAY BAPTIST CHURCH.

For the purpose of raising funds with which to assist Miss Wilson, of Alabama, while she is securing an education at Alfred University, a tea and sale of fancy articles were held in the parlors of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, yesterday afternoon, from 3 to 6 o'clock.

The affair was in charge of Dr. Martha Stillman, Miss Lucie Dunham, Miss Ida Randolph and Mrs. Ira M. West. During the afternoon a number were present and liberal patronage was accorded, making the affair a success. There were several fancy tables, in charge of the members of the committee, and the useful and fancy articles were readily purchased in support of such a worthy cause.

Hope Basket Ball This Week.

There are two games scheduled for the Hope chapel basket ball team this week. The first will be tomorrow night with the team from the Y. M. C. A., the game being played at the latter's gymnasium. Another game will be played with the Plainfield High School five the latter part of the week at the Hope floor. The game will in all probability take place on Friday evening. The Hope boys won the first game with the school boys by the score of 18 to 14.

Dancing Academy Opens.

The opening reception of the Plainfield Dancing Academy took place Saturday evening with a very large attendance. Parcubek's orchestra of six pieces furnished the music and it was in every way satisfactory, while the floor was pronounced one of the best in the city. The decorations and illuminations were elaborate and in honor of the initial affair, the young women were presented with carnations and then men moving picture cards.

Repetition of Concert.

Owing to the excellent reception which was accorded the Y. M. C. A. orchestra on the occasion of their first concert, which was held last Monday, the performance will be repeated this evening. The orchestra will be twenty pieces strong, and will be under the leadership of Martin A. Korff, who has been training them. The programme will be about the same as the one of a week ago, including many of the latest instrumental selections.

Reception to Candidate.

Congressional candidate, Robert L. Stevens, Assembly nominee, Daniel H. Beekman, and the shrievalty aspirant, Frank Talmadge Ross, will be at the North Plainfield Democratic Club Thursday evening. A reception will be held from 7:30 until 9:30 p. m. Please make an effort to be present.

Taking Time by the Forelock.

Preparatory to laying the permanent brick pavement on Watchung avenue, Street Commission A. C. Gavett is having the water and gas connections made to the curb in front of the unoccupied property. This will prevent tearing up the street at some future time.

Charles Hyde to Live Here.

Charles F. Abbott, of Central avenue, has leased his house to Charles Hyde, of Tuxedo, N. Y., who will take possession immediately. Mr. Abbott and family will live at Truell Court for the present and later go to New York for the winter.

LOCAL GOLFERS BUSY

Hillside Course Thronged With Enthusiasts Saturday.

SEVERAL CONTESTS

Foregone Conclusion That Gus Faber Will Take Both Park Trophies—Detailed Scores.

The beautiful October weather on Saturday attracted a large number of golfers to the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, and although the entries in the various events were comparatively small, the course was crowded through the afternoon. In the morning there was the final play for the Women's Handicap cup between Miss Margaret Goddard and Miss Edith Tracy. This was one of the best matches of the season and although Miss Goddard won, it was not until twenty holes were played that the match was decided. She won by a score of 1 up.

In the afternoon the clock golf contest for women attracted many players. Miss Margaret Holly was first with a score of twenty-four, and Miss Unler, of Fanwood, finished second with a score of twenty-seven.

For the Golf Committee cup S. H. Patterson won first honors with a net score of 74, while D. H. Rowland with a net score of 76 and J. A. Tompkins with one of 77 finished second and third. These scores were posted: S. H. Patterson, 96, 22—74; D. H. Rowland, 88, 12—76; J. A. Tompkins, 88, 11—77; H. D. Hibbard, 86, 7—79; Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, 87, 8—79; W. L. Glenney, 83, plus 2—84.

The point-winners for the Gaston cup were Henry L. Hall, 98, plus 1—94; S. H. Patterson, 96, 2—94; Harold Robert, 97, 0—97.

As there were but a limited number of contestants at the Park Golf Club, no scores were posted for the President's and Park Golf Club cups. It seems to be a foregone conclusion that Gus. W. Faber is the winner of both trophies. He has twenty-three points for the Park Golf Club cup and twenty points for the President's cup.

At the Westfield Golf Club on Saturday there was the first round match play for the club championship and good scores were the rule. The second round will be played on Saturday.

This was the result of Saturday's play.

R. I. Townley beat H. E. Knight, 5 up and 4 to go; Joseph Sherman, Jr., beat S. A. Trevvett, by default; J. A. Worth beat J. R. Edwards, 3 up and 2 to go; H. R. Davis beat R. H. Stern, 6 up and 4 to go; W. J. Bogert, Jr., beat H. W. Gladwin, 1 up; J. A. Woodward beat A. E. Keller, 3 up and 7 to go; Marshall Whitlatch beat E. D. Floyd, 6 up and 4 to go; C. E. Halsted beat G. E. Cruse, 3 up and 7 to go.

RECOVER STOLEN RIG, BUT THIEVES ESCAPE

NEW YORK MEN DISPOSE OF PROPERTY TO MRS. MAC MURRAY.

Two men claiming to be agents for the New York Tribune hired a rig from John Alberts at Scotch Plains, Saturday, telling him they wanted to canvass the outlying districts. They failed to return at the time agreed upon and the liveryman went searching for them. He found his rig in the possession of Mrs. Nathaniel Mac Murray, who said she had bought it early in the day.

The matter was reported to the Westfield police and it was found that the same two men had collected money on Tribune orders in that place after they sold the rig. As yet no trace of them has been discovered.

Birthday Party.

On the occasion of his sixteenth birthday, a delightful party was given to William Briggs, of Albert street, Saturday evening. About twenty of his friends were present, and a pleasant evening was spent with games and music. Among those present were Josephine Serrell, Gladys Burt, Mary Dunham, Marian Pierson, Irine Dunham, Lillian Cronkie, Harriet Bryan, Katherine Bryan and Jerry Manning, Lee Manning, Fred Martin, Roy Woodhull, Harold Underhill, Gurth Williams, Monroe Long, Ralph Taylor and Chester Briggs.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Mrs. Lucy Dunham-Tomlinson, of East Sixth street, and Philip S. Suffern, of Sycamore avenue, North Plainfield.

LAUNCH BATTLESHIP NEW JERSEY NOV. 10

GOVERNOR'S DAUGHTER TO CHRISTEN THE BIG VESSEL.

Plans for launching the battle-ship New Jersey, which has been constructed at the yards of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, at Quincy, Mass., have been made. The vessel will be sent into the water Thursday, Nov. 10.

The Navy Department, to which the matter was referred by the company, has selected Mrs. William B. Kinney, of Newark, N. Y., daughter of Gov. Murphy, to do the christening.

Arrangements for the launch are being made by the officials of the Navy Department, and these include the participation in the exercises of a large number of Jerseymen, including the Governor and other officials.

It is likely the Governor-elect, who will have been chosen the Tuesday before, be it Stokes or Black, will be in the party.

The Governor knew nothing of the choice of Mrs. Kinney until the arrangements had been decided on.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

READY REFERENCES FOR THE LOCAL BARGAIN SEEKERS.

If you purchase coal of the Keely Coal Company, of South avenue, you will make no mistake. Best quality and lowest prices.

Before making contracts for building of any kind, consult with T. H. Leury, the contractor. He will quote you right figures and do the work right.

Eggerding's cigars have their reputation by their excellence. They are made on the premises and when the proprietor says they're good, the buyer is assured of a fine smoke.

There is nothing in the camera or camera supply line that cannot be had at Frank VanWinkle's North avenue establishment. He also does developing for amateurs who have not the time.

Burd's millinery store on East Front street, is just the place to select your fall and winter hat. Everything is up-to-date and right as to prices. Hats are also trimmed to please the purchaser.

LITERARY.

There is no season of the American year which is not beautiful, yet were it put to the vote of all manner of men, perhaps October would be called the most beautiful month of the entire year, even more beautiful in its ripeness than is the vernal month of May, clad on as it may be with tender greens. The flame of the maples, the yellow and brown of soberer leaves, the touch of high-colored berries on wild fruits of the woods—all these things the sportsman knows, just as he knows the melancholy but fascinating monotony of the frost-struck marshes where the wild fowl come. He knows October as a month beautiful and delectable. — "Field and Stream" for October.

Men whose lives have been spent in the care of domestic birds tell me that there are none more nervous than the duck. Although it is apparently an easy-going, dull and sensuous creature, the duck is said to be the most easily excited of all the feathered ones which comprised so much of our food supply. And this is accounted for by the fact that a duck is a light sleeper. It never retires for rest until midnight, and by 4 o'clock or 5 it is out again ready to begin another day. If you enter a chicken-coop between midnight and morning the occupants, huddled together on their roosts, will be steeped in slumber. But invade a duck-coop at the same hour and there will arise at once a jargon of protestations. And none of the domestic birds is as easily disturbed as the duck. The appearance of anything unusual will set it and its comrades all a-flutter and interfere seriously with their egg-laying. Unlike chickens or pigeons, the duck does not require a nest, but is satisfied to lay its eggs on the flat ground.—The Era Magazine for October.

Political Literature.

The Public Library has just received two pampelets entitled "How the Railroad Tax Law Affects the Country Districts," by Henry V. Condict, and "Address on the Systems of Taxation in New Jersey" by Charles C. Black. These are of special interest, inasmuch as the subject is of much concern in the present State political campaign. These pamphlets may be consulted at the Library.

Royal Arcanum Entertainment.

Greenbrook Council, No. 1725, R. A., will hold its seventh annual entertainment in the Casino on October 27. The committee having the arrangements in charge intends making it the peer of its predecessors.

—In the city court Saturday, sentence was suspended on Mrs. Robert Hart and William McKane, arrested for drunkenness.

—Daniel Knutter, aged thirty-one years, an employe of the Levering & Garrigues Iron Works, mashed the little finger on his right hand Saturday and had it amputated at the hospital. He returned home afterward.

—Several hundred people enjoyed the subscription dance at the T. A. B. Hall Friday evening, which was given by George Summers and Thomas Lyness. The music was furnished by Eugene O'Reilly, and dancers whiling away the time till early in the morning.

—Though a jury assembled Saturday to reconsider the case of L. C. McVey against John Dunn, landlord and tenant, their services were not needed. About ten minutes before their arrival word was sent to Justice Hand that the tenants had moved Friday, and the case was dismissed.

RUSSIAN PRISONERS TELL STORY

Beaten Army of Russia Now Across Shakhe In Retreat, but Doggedly Resisting as They Withdraw—Japanese Had to Bury Thousands of Russian Dead as They Advanced.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Advices from Tokyo say that in the reports of the great battle which continue to arrive from the front the most striking feature is the terrible record of the Russian dead. Before the severe fighting on Oct. 14 General Oku's army alone recovered and buried 2,000, making the total number of Russians buried by the Japanese, with Nodzu's army still to hear from, 6,500. Applying the usual calculation and making reasonable allowance for the fighting of the 14th and 15th, the Russian losses will exceed 40,000.

Fragmentary reports of Japanese casualties are coming in. General Oku up to and including Oct. 14 lost 3,500 men. Estimates of the total Japanese losses are not possible, but they are estimated at about 20,000.

The latest advices from Tokyo are that the Russians left 4,500 dead in front of General Kuroki's army alone. The Russian losses there are estimated at 20,000 men.

The Russian retreat and the Japanese pursuit south of Mukden continue. The Russian center has been driven north of the Shakhe river, and Shahopu has been taken by the Japanese left, which captured ten more guns. General Kuroki's columns also reached a line on the Shakhe, though a detachment of Russian artillery succeeded in holding a position near Tai pass.

Field Marshal Oyama estimates the Russian losses, killed and wounded, at more than 30,000 men and the dead at 10,000. Forty-five hundred Russian dead, he reports, were left on the field after Friday's battle. Unofficial dispatches from Tokyo express the belief that General Kuropatkin will be unable to make another stand south of the Hun.

The fighting continues all along the entire line, and the end is not near.

It seems to be impossible for the Russians to rally, and they probably will be pressed back across the Hun river.

General Kuropatkin is, however, fighting doggedly, so as to spare the Russian army from an utter rout.

Field Marshal Oyama's triumphant troops have driven the Russians north to a line extending along the Shakhe river. They are vigorously pressing the pursuit with their whole force.

Advices from Tokyo dated early this morning increase the extent of the Russian slaughter in the desperate battles that have raged for the past week. The reports of Generals Nodzu, Kuroki and Oku are incomplete, but everything indicates that Field Marshal Oyama's estimate of the Russian loss at 30,000 men will fall far below the actual mark.

Mukden advices say that there was a lull in the battle, but fighting continues on the right. The Russian army is southwest of Mukden ten miles.

It is now certain that the army will be able to extricate itself. The losses amount to 30,000. It has been a bigger battle than that of Liaoyang.

The Russians are attacking on the right. The firing to the southwest is less violent. The men are tired out, and food has been insufficient. Every available gun and man are being used.

There is great depression, but stolid tenacity among the men. There has been great sacrifice of officers.

The plain occupied by the retiring Russians is covered with bursting shrapnel. The gunners shoveled shells into the breeches of the guns as stokers shoveling coal into furnaces. Howitzers are used by the eastern army.

Two divisions have lost their chief staff officers, one of them being killed, and many commanding officers have met death heroically leading their regiments.

Shrapnel fell near General Kuropatkin. He showed desperate energy and even in the darkest hour remained hopeful.

There was a cessation of hostilities Saturday. Neither side can stand many such contests, the ferocity of which was frightful.

This evening the Japanese seem no nearer. Fires are burning to the south. About twelve miles from here the eastern army is retiring without fighting.

A Tokyo report says there is a strong appeal for peace in the appalling tragedy which is now under enactment in Manchuria. Both armies have fought ferociously for a week, and desperate fighting still continues.

The preliminary reports indicate that about 60,000 men of both sides have been either killed or wounded, the larger portion of them being Russians, since the armies of the two belligerents closed in combat.

Even the Japanese, to whom the great victory is of paramount importance, seem to be shocked by the slaughter of their enemies.

A dispatch from the Russian army of the center via Mukden says that after six days of the hardest kind of fighting this section of the Russian army has fallen back on the Shakhe river and is now holding a position on the north side of that stream. The fighting, which commenced shortly after noon Oct. 9, has been in progress continuously ever since.

On Saturday the fighting recommenced at daylight, the boom of guns being distinctly heard in Mukden. The whole Russian army is slowly retiring and fighting every inch of the way. There appears to be no danger of any part of the army being cut off.

In an informal talk which a correspondent had with General Kuropatkin in the field just before the fighting commenced he spoke in glowing terms of the bravery of the Japanese, saying that they were a gallant foe and also that they were most correct in the observance of the rules of war. In this respect he said it was the most pleasant war he had ever been engaged in.

A Tokyo report says that according to statements made by Russian prisoners, General Kuropatkin was ordered by Emperor Nicholas to make a stand at Mukden and to assume the aggressive as speedily as possible in order to relieve the Port Arthur garrison. This order, the prisoners say, reached Mukden on Sept. 27, and General Kuropatkin in obedience to it began his disastrous advance.

The latest Mukden reports from the battle are of Sunday afternoon and evening, when the Russians were carrying on a heavy rear guard fight, evidently retiring on Mukden. Generals Oku and Nodzu were concentrating for another blow on the Russian right, where the fighting is described as having been furious. General Nodzu is reported to have been wounded seriously, but this cannot be confirmed.

SLAUGHTER TO BRING PEACE.

Every Interest of Humanity Now Cries Out For Peace.

TOKYO, Oct. 17.—A member of the Japanese diplomatic corps in an interview with a correspondent here said:

"I believe the world will recoil from the sickening slaughter of this battle. Every interest of humanity demands the adjustment of the differences between the two nations and the proclamation of peace. The situation between the two belligerents is a delicate one, but what a splendid triumph for diplomacy it would be if peace could be arranged. It seems to me that the question of honor is no longer involved. If Russia feels that such a question is involved surely the heroic and successful defense of Port Arthur and the valor shown by Russian soldiers on the fields of Manchuria should forever determine the quality of Russian courage. Russians should remember that the distance dividing her strength and the limitations of her railway are historical factors in this war. These factors are generally known. They are appreciated by everybody and are looked upon as faults."

Russian Embassy Under Guard.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, who has returned to Washington, called on Secretary Hay at his residence to pay his respects. The secretary and the ambassador spent some time in conversation. The guarding of the Russian embassy will be continued, as it has been thought expedient to guard the Russian ambassador while the war is in progress.

Irish Members Hurt "the Cause."

CORK, Ireland, Oct. 17.—Addressing a monster meeting here William O'Brien declared that home rule was in the offing since it was believed the Dunraven scheme of an Irish financial commission had sympathy in official quarters, but the foolish conduct of the Irish party in fighting Chief Secretary Wyndham, the lord lieutenant, and Anthony MacDonald, undersecretary to the lord lieutenant of Ireland, who were pledged to conciliation, threatened to spoil all. It was not surprising that Wyndham repudiated the Dunraven scheme, for no man could trust his political reputation in the hands of men who behaved so foolishly as did the Irish members in the last session of parliament.

World's Fair Pay Up.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 17.—The Louisiana Purchase exposition has made the seventh of the stipulated $500,000 payments on the government loan of $4,500,000, which was advanced by the federal authorities a few weeks previous to the opening of the world's fair. This payment, together with the percentage payments made previous to the first stipulated payment, leaves a balance of $691,850.45 due the United States government.

Played With Loaded Pistol.

SPARTANBURG, S. C., Oct. 17.—Ralph Rogers, a member of the junior class of Wofford college, was playing with a loaded pistol here when the weapon was accidentally discharged, inflicting a wound which caused his death. He was a son of Rev. W. A. Rogers, financial agent of Wofford college.

Lady Curzon Improves.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—A bulletin from Walmer castle, issued last night, announces the continued improvement of Lady Curzon. She has been removed to Walmer palace, a house in the vicinity of Walmer castle, where it was intended to remove her before the last relapse.

Russian Escutcheon Defaced.

MILAN, Oct. 17.—The escutcheon of the Russian consulate here has been defaced and half burned. An anti-Russian anarchist is suspected of having committed the outrage.

Parker's Second Speech of the Campaign.

CLUBS' RECEPTION AT ESOPUS.

Presidential Candidate Takes Issue With Ex-Governor Taft on the Subject of Our Island Colony.

ESOPUS, N. Y., Oct. 17.—Judge Parker addressed two visiting delegations on the political issue, making his second speech of the campaign since accepting the Democratic nomination for the presidency. The delegations represented the Parker Independent club and the Avon Beach Regular Democratic club of Long Island.

When Judge Parker stepped from the house he was greeted with handclapping. Colonel Charles R. Codman of Boston and Professor Henry W. Hardon of New York made extended speeches. Both speakers confined their remarks to the Philippine Islands question and a discussion of the attitude of the Republican administration on that question.

Professor Hardon followed with a chapter in the early diplomatic history of the United States, together with a review of speeches in congress on the Philippine question and their bearing on the various treaties respecting the islands.

Judge Parker spoke in part as follows:

"I greatly appreciate the compliment of your presence and the assurance of the support of yourselves and those you represent. The importance of the issue to which you refer cannot be overestimated. It is attracting the attention of the thoughtful, patriotic men all over the country. Permit me to call your attention to the portion of the Democratic platform relating to it. No government has a right to make one set of laws for those 'at home' and another and a different set of laws absolute in their character for those 'in the colonies.' Wherever there may exist a people incapable of being governed under American laws in consonance with the American constitution that people ought not to be part of the American domain. We insist that we ought to do for the Filipinos what we have done already for the Cubans and that it is our duty to make that promise now and upon suitable guarantee of protection to citizens of our own and other countries resident there at the time of our withdrawal, set the Filipino people upon their feet, free and independent, to work out their own destiny. The Declaration of Independence, born in the brain of the father of Democracy, says the same thing in effect, for it declares that governments derive 'their just powers from the consent of the governed.'

"I have before said that we may not disregard the responsibility imposed by possession of the Philippines, and that responsibility will be best subserved by preparing the islanders as rapidly as possible for self government and giving to them the assurance that it will come as soon as they are reasonably prepared for it.' This means independence for the Filipinos in the fullest sense of the word. When prepared they may govern themselves, as the Cubans do, unassisted, unless asking help; undirected, unless asking advice; untrammeled by our politics, unincumbered by our politicians and uncontrolled by us.

"Secretary Taft has said: 'A promise to give ultimate independence will be construed by the more violent element, disposed to agitation, to be a promise to grant independence in the near future and during the present generation. The success of the experiment we are making in the Philippines depends on having the Filipinos understand that we are there for their benefit, but that we expect to stay there indefinitely in working out the good we propose to do them.' Here we have the issue clearly defined. The Republican party stands for the subjugation of defenseless foreign peoples. Democracy stands for freedom. We relieved Spain of this thorn in her flesh, the Philippines, to plunge it into our own. We paid, and are paying, enormously for the privilege of performing the operation. Spain had been trying to conquer the islands since the early decades of the sixteenth century. She had never quite succeeded. That is not surprising. Every true American would despise a man who would not fight to the last gasp for the land of his fireside and the birthplace of his babes. Did not our illustrious ancestors in the Revolution do so? For what does civilized man revere the memory of Washington? Are not the Irish still chafing under the English yoke? Will the Boer sympathizer refuse his sympathy to the Filipino patriot defending his hearthstone against the Spanish spoiler and tyrant? Do we not honor every man who has sacrificed at freedom's holy altar? When the battleships of our great republic destroyed the Spanish war vessels the Filipinos hoped the freedom for which they had struggled so long was finally approaching. Our history seemed to guarantee that our ambition would be to see them free, happy and prosperous."

John Everitt, of East Sixth street, has resigned his position at the Scott Press Works in order to accept one with a firm at Bethlehem, Pa.

While making boxes in the Pond shipping room, Saturday, Arthur Seals gashed himself in the thumb with a hatchet. The injury was dressed by the shop physician.

The Pond company has just shipped a thirty-six inch planer to the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad shops at Hawley, W. Va. It is one of the best machines of this kind the firm has yet turned out.

The Milliken Brothers steel plant, located on Staten Island, just over from Elizabeth, is increasing its force of employes every week. There are enough contract jobs now under way to insure steady employment for the present force of men all through the winter.

The formal dedication of the new Masonic orphanage near Burlington was accomplished Friday with ceremonies in accordance with the ritual used for such occasions by the craft, before an audience of 2,000 Masons and their wives. The orphanage is located about 300 yards from the State Masonic home, originally the country residence of former Governor Bunn, of Idaho, on the magnificent grounds owned by the State grand lodge. The new structure is in the midst of a group of large shade trees.

C. E. Echo Meeting.

Miss Helen Burroughs, T. Edward Burroughs and Fred. C. Lounsbury, Jr., as delegates from the First Presbyterian church Christian Endeavor Society to the State convention held recently in Elizabeth, gave brief reports last evening at an echo meeting held in the chapel of the church, prior to the regular evening service. In the short time allowed, the most interesting features of the convention were referred to. Miss Karner, though not a delegate, attended the convention, and she also made a few remarks.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The football game Saturday between the locals and the heavy Elizabeth team, ended with the score of 6 to 0, in favor of Elizabeth. The game started by Elizabeth kicking off, Maltbie caught the ball and was tackled so hard that he lost the ball and it was downed by an Elizabeth man, they lined up and rushed the ball over Dunellen's line and kicked the goal, making the only score of the game, for after this the locals took a brace and although they could not score they played a fast game and kept the ball well away from their goal.

Charles Rogers, of New Market, is convalescing from an aggravated attack of rheumatism from which he has been suffering for the past seven weeks. The malady threatened for a time to develope serious complications, but his physicians consider him much improved at present. Mr. Rogers' mother has also been ill.

A man by the name of Bartoe, whose home is in Elizabeth, was thrown from his wheel by a dog yesterday afternoon, near Taylor's Hotel, and had his forehead cut open and the skin scraped from his arm.

Daniel Knutter, an employe of the Levering & Garrigues iron works, had the forefinger on his right hand torn off by a cog-wheel.

Miss Anna Burnett returned to her home in Basking Ridge yesterday, after a two weeks' visit with Miss Elizabeth Hurlich.

Miss Amy Sampson returned to the Trenton Normal School this morning, after spending Saturday and Sunday with her parents.

Mrs. J. B. Conover, of Front street, who has been seriously ill for the pats three weeks, is greatly improved.

H. S. Garretson and family spent yesterday with Mrs. R. Dunbar, of New Market.

Mrs. Lester Meserole entertained New York friends yesterday.

Fred Giddes returned to Philadelphia yesterday afternoon.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Nearly all the local followers of the National game were found at Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon, taking in the P. A. C.-New York National League team game. Joe Alberts played right field for the P. A. C. and helped to swell the local score of one of the five runs.

The weekly meeting of the B. Y. P. U. was held last night in the Baptist church. Owing to repairs being made to the church parlors, the meeting was held in the auditorium.

The membership of the local Republican Club is steadily growing, a number of new names being added at the club's meeting held in the rooms Saturday night.

Miss Elsie Shott, who is a student at Peddie Institute, Hightstown, has been spending Saturday and Sunday with her father, Rev. G. M. Shott, at The Manse.

The Westfield football team failed to show up for their game scheduled with the Orange F. C. eleven, at Orange Oval, Saturday afternoon.

Miss Marion Goodwin led an interesting weekly meeting of the Epworth League, held last night in the class rooms of the Methodist church.

The Sunday game at Elizabethport between the Stars and Philadelphia Giants was enjoyed by the usual delegation from town.

Miss Mary Westcott, of the borough, has returned from a stay of several weeks with relatives and friends at Bridgeton, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. David Patterson, of Johnston avenue, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gray, of Front street, Sunday.

Only a few members of the Brookside Gun Club were out to the Saturday afternoon shoot of the club.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Young People's meeting last night was well attended and interesting among other parts enjoyed was a duet by Mrs. David Bigley and Miss Emma Faulks.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Mundy have removed from their residence here to the State of Washington, where Mr. Mundy is tilling a large farm.

Mr. and Mrs. John Chamberlain, of Somerville, visited Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Thorn Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar J. Boice entertained Fred Boice and Miss Bessie Tappen, of Piscataway, yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Payne entertained friends from the county yesterday.

Lena Pyatt, daughter of Samuel Pyatt, is very ill with typhoid fever.

THREE TRACK EVENTS AT THE DRIVING PARK

A. C. BLAIR, J. H. GREEN AND N. B. SMALLEY THE LUCKY ONES.

The second of the matinee races under the management of Thomas Brantingham, took place at the driving park Saturday afternoon, and aside from the fact that many were attracted by the ball game was largely attended. Generally speaking the time was slow, all of the races falling below the standard.

There were three classes for trotters or pacers, in the first two of which there were but the starters. Five horses went out for the 2:35 class, this being the only race in which the three prizes were awarded. The prizes were a blanket for the winner, cooler and whip for the second and third places.

The affair was arranged by members of the Gentlemen's Club in charge of Mr. Wood, and was under the direct management of Mr. Brantingham. The judges were Edward Allan, W. A. Codington and J. W. Johnson. The following is the result of the races:

2:20 class—Won by A. C. Blair's "Rex;" second, "Glitters Lad," owned by J. H. Green. Time, 2:34 and 2:29.

2:35 class—Won by N. B. Smalley's "Alysia;" second, Douglas Darby's "Sunday;" third, L. J. Wood's "Sadie Smith." Time, 2:38 and 2:36.

DUNELLEN DEFEATED.

Elizabeth Eleven Won by the Score of Six to Nothing Saturday.

The Edward Clark Club football team, of Elizabeth, played its first game on its grounds Saturday afternoon and defeated the Dunellen A. C. 6 to 0. The home team was considerably the heavier and made repeated gains through the line for 5 to 7 yards at a time, but lost its hold on the ball at critical points.

Score at end of first half—6 to 0. Final score—6 to 0. Touchdown—Chesney. Goal from touchdown—Woodey. Time of halves—20m. and 15m. Referee—Mat McAdams. Umpire—L. T. Churchill. Linemen—A. F. Shaffer and A. H. Springer.

—Miss Nettie Kriesling, of West Front street, resigned her position with Hill & Shupp Saturday evening.

SLOCUM DISASTER

President Roosevelt's Letter on Commissioners' Report.

SCORES CAPTAIN AND DIRECTORS.

These Responsible For Wholesale Destruction of Lives of Excursionists Must Be Fully Punished. Congress Must Act.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The following is the letter in part of President Roosevelt to the secretary of commerce and labor regarding the report of the United States commission of investigation upon the disaster to the steamer General Slocum:

"I have received the report of the commission of the United States on the investigation of the General Slocum disaster and the report of the department of justice of Oct. 12 recapitulating what has been done by the department of justice in connection with the criminal proceedings taken against various individuals because of their connection with the disaster. Punitive action by the government can of course only take two forms: One, that of legal proceedings against those either within or without the service, and, two, removal from office of those within the service.

"It appears that the department of justice has already secured indictments against the master and captain of the Slocum and against the managing directors of the Knickerbocker Steamboat company, to which company the Slocum belonged, for misconduct, negligence and inattention to duty by the captain and for aiding and abetting therein by the managing directors.

"Furthermore the department of justice has secured indictments against Henry Lundberg and John W. Fleming, the assistant inspectors of the steamboat inspection service who actually inspected the Slocum, for fraud, misconduct and inattention to duty. Lundberg had been appointed merely on probation in the service and has been dropped.

"There can of course be no further action taken about Fleming until his trial has been finished, although it does not follow that an acquittal would prevent the department from discharging him from the service. In addition the department of justice has secured the indictment of the manager and three employees of the Nonpareil Cork works of Camden, N. J., for putting upon the market compressed cork blocks for use in making life preservers, each of which blocks contained in its center a piece of bar iron weighing several ounces. This last offense was of so heinous a character that it is difficult to comment upon it with proper self restraint. I suggest that you report this whole matter to congress.

"So much for what the department of justice has done in reference to the disaster. But in addition to the men put on trial by the department of justice action should be taken against those employees whose responsibility for the state of things producing the accident has been brought out in the report of the commission. According to this report it appears that in addition to the two assistant inspectors who are now on trial the supervising inspector of the Second district, Mr. Rodie, and the two local inspectors of the port of New York, Messrs. Dumont and Barrett, should all three be removed for laxity and neglect in performing their duties. As regards the conduct of Mr. Rodie, Mr. Uhler dissents from the conclusions of the four other commissioners. I agree with the conclusions of the other four. Laxity and neglect, where the consequences may be so terrible as they have proved to be in this case, cannot be passed over even where there has been good conduct in other respects on the part of the man implicated. Accordingly the three officials named will be removed from the service. Moreover, you will please direct their successors in office at once to conduct a thorough examination of the entire inspection force of the port of New York with the object of weeding out all the men whom such examination shall show to be unfitted to perform the very arduous and responsible duties of their positions.

The report says that the evidence before the commission establishes the fact that the captain made no attempt whatsoever to fight the fire, to examine its condition or to control, assure, direct or aid the passengers in any way whatever. It is alleged that he was unable to reach the place where the passengers were by reason of the fire, but this is contradicted by the evidence of many witnesses and is obviously not true. After the vessel was beached the captain and pilots went out through the windows of the pilothouse and jumped overboard from the bow, making no attempt while on board to aid the passengers before saving their own lives.

The salient points of the report are as follows: The Slocum disaster brought out the peculiar helplessness characteristic of an excursion crowd in case of disaster and the inflammability of the vessel and extraordinarily swift progress of the fire.

There was a marked inefficiency of crew, total lack of fire drills, boat drills and established discipline, an unlicensed mate, total failure of fire hose, badly defective condition of life preservers, inefficient inspection of this vessel, neglect of the master to fight the fire or aid passengers or to give any orders to such end and finally his neglect to beach the vessel or to put her alongside of a wharf immediately after receiving a report of the existence of the fire.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair; light winds.

BIG GUN EXPLODED.

Three Killed, Eight Injured, at Fort Banks, Winthrop, Mass.

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—Three men have been killed and eight injured, one critically, by the explosion of a mortar at Fort Banks, Winthrop. The dead:

Sergeant George J. Nevins, Private Edward Higgins, Private James W. Kelly.

The injured: Private Arthur Tomlinson, critically; First Sergeant Thomas Foley, Corporal Arthur Bannister, Private W. P. Sheehan, Private C. B. Kipps, Private Stanislaus Ross, Private John Clyde, Private William Beverly.

Of the injured none was dangerously hurt except Tomlinson. The accident was due to a premature explosion of powder as a ten inch mortar was being loaded.

The artillerymen were having the customary morning practice in the mortar battery which overlooks the entrance to Boston harbor. One shot had been fired, and the gun was being reloaded for a second trial. As the breech block was being closed there came a premature explosion in the powder chamber of the mortar. The breech was blown from the gun, and every man of its crew became a victim of the accident.

It is now believed that Private Arthur Tomlinson, who was thought to have been fatally injured, will recover. He will, however, lose the sight of both eyes and always be a cripple. The other soldiers who were injured, but survived the explosion, are recovering.

The only possible explanation of the explosion which can be offered is that possibly the cotton sack in which the charge of powder was inclosed caught fire from a spark which might have been in the chamber after the firing of the first shot.

SEA CLIFF MYSTERY.

John W. Heath Shot With His Own Weapon.

GLEN COVE, N. Y., Oct. 17.—The authorities here have a strange and puzzling case to clear up in the death of John W. Heath, who was killed by a load of shot from his own gun in All Souls' summer home, near Sea Cliff, a few days ago. Superficial indications point to suicide, but there are enough unexplained details that justify the suspicion of murder. The statement made by Heath to Mrs. Annie Van Slyke a few minutes before the shot was fired that white caps were about the house and meant to harm him is one phase of the case that has not been cleared up.

Heath's widow is prostrated in her home in Glenwood. Her statement was taken there by Justice of the Peace Cocks, and the inquest was adjourned.

Mrs. Heath said her husband had been drinking heavily, and as he frequently took his meals at the home rather than walk to the cottage she did not worry about his absence. She was unable to give any information that would tend to prove the suspicion of murder, and she had no knowledge of any enemies her husband may have had.

USED A JAPANESE SWORD.

Two Artillerymen Held For Murder at Boston.

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—Larkin Wyman Hall, aged thirty-five years, proprietor of a millinery establishment at 47 Winter street, was murdered at his lodgings at 2 St. Botolph street, in the Back Bay district here. The murder was not discovered until late last night when a servant visited his apartments.

The police have arrested Fred Watson and Eugene Sennott, both about twenty-one years of age and privates in the coast artillery, stationed at Fort Warren. They are held pending an investigation of the crime.

Hall was killed by a knife wound in the neck and which had been made with a Japanese sword, one of the curios with which the room was decorated.

Fatality at Motor Boat Race.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—The annual 100 kilometer race for motor boats at Maisons Laffitte, on the river Seine, was attended with a fatal accident, the wash of another competitor swamping the Mercedes I., which sank, and her engineer, named Noel, was drowned. The race, which was not interrupted by the accident, was won by Rapee IV. in 2 hours and 23 minutes, a world's record.

Student Killed by Elevator.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Oct. 17.—Edward Garvin Shea, a popular student and prominent athlete at Williams college, was instantly killed in an elevator accident at the Wellington hotel here. Shea, who was a member of the sophomore class at Williams, was a son of John L. Shea of Brooklyn and was twenty years of age.

Herrick to Speak at New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Judge Herrick, accompanied by his secretary, has arrived in this city. He will speak here and in Brooklyn tonight and tomorrow night at receptions given him by the New York Reform club. He states that he has had no time to prepare speeches since his return from the west.

Civil War Volunteer Dead.

WATERLOO, N. Y., Oct. 17.—George E. Sherwood, a leading business man of this village, is dead here after a long illness. He was born in Auburn, N. Y., in 1839 and served through the civil war in a New York volunteer regiment.

Russian Sailor's Fate.

An Ideal Location

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad
Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors
BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.
BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.
LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW
BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.
LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT
BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.
BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.
FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

FOIBLES OF FASHION.

Hand Painted Belts Are Now Considered Very Smart.

A pretty fashion is that of wearing cockades of colored velvet or ribbon, one on the left side of the corsage, rather high up, and the other on the right side of the waist line. The cockades are large and generally of a contrasting color from that of the gown with which they are worn. Rosettes of burnt orange velvet make an exceedingly pretty accompaniment to a smart afternoon gown of brown sun plaited chiffon.

Hand painted belts in different colored leathers will represent a very important item among the dress schemes. A charming example is in deep cream, with a leather buckle to correspond painted in the palest greens, mauves and pinks in a design of Louis XV. bows, mingled with sprays of flowers. A brown leather belt, with a dull gold buckle, is stunning with embroidered sprays of mauve lilac, the leaves and stems being hand painted.

The dainty gown pictured is a Paris fancy evolved from dark tan broadcloth. The skirt is finely plaited and trimmed at the hem with a flat embroidery in different shades of tan. The tight fitting jacket is finished with the same embroidery and opens in front to display a wide black satin corselet and neckband. Dull gold buttons are dotted about the neck. The hat is of tan, and the necessary note of color is furnished by the white linen collar and black satin stock and girdle.

WHAT WILL BE WORN.

The New Housemaid Skirt—Trimmings of the Moment.

In many of the new autumn frocks the decorations begin at the knee and are applied in a series of puffings of the material used for the gown or of silk and even velvet of the soft chiffon variety. These trimmings are usually handed in effect, although a waved design is much in favor to simulate an overskirt.

On the winter gowns the collar has not the prominent place it occupied last year, and in most instances it is merely a continuation of the yoke.

is becoming alike to both fair and dark haired women and promises to be the first favorite for late autumn frocks.

A beautiful dress of elephant gray has been designed for Mrs. Brown-Potter to wear on the vaudeville stage. It is a frock of simple elegance of this greeny gray tint in cashmere. The skirt falls full all round, but defines the hips and has a deep machine stitched hem as the only decoration. This is the new housemaid skirt. The waist is quite early English, and the very long shoulders continue in a peleriine effect right down to the waist, where a black silk swathed belt confines the bodice tightly to the figure in most becoming lines. An old fashioned tucker of val lace is stitched into the neck and finished with a tiny jabot of black silk.

The sketch shows a charming blouse of white crepe de chine, with a wide Irish lace collar, the scalloped edge of which is finished with batiste embroidery. Beneath this is set a waved ruffle, ending in front in a jabot. A shawl collar of gold yellow silk run with brown cord trims the neck. The elbow sleeves end with ruffles of crape and lace.

By EMERSON HOUGH

(Copyright, 1902, by Emerson Hough.)

Indeed there appeared now to the eye of this young man not the white shores and black crowned bluffs and distant islands, not the sweep of broad-winged birds circling near the waters, nor the shadow of the high-poised eagle drifting far above. He felt not the soft wind upon his cheek, nor noted the warmth of the on-coming sun. In truth, even here, on the very threshold of a new world and a new life, he was going back, pausing uncertainly at the door of that life and of that world which he had left behind. There appeared to him not the rolling undulations of the black-topped forest, not the tossing surface of the inland sea, nor the white-pebbled beach laved by its pulsing waters. He saw instead a white and dusty road, lined by green English hedge-rows. Back, over there, beyond these rolling blue waves, back of the long water trail over which he had come, there were chapel and bell and robed priest, and the word which made all fast forever. But back of the wilderness mission, back of the straggling settlements of Montreal and Quebec, back of the blue waters of the ocean, there, too, were church and minister; and there dwelt a woman whose figure stood now before his eyes, part of this mental picture of the white road lined with the hedges of green.

A hand was laid on his shoulder, and he half started up in sudden surprise Before him, the sun shining through her hair, her eyes dark in the shadow, stood Mary Connynge. A fair woman indeed, comely, round of form, soft-eyed, and light of touch, she might none the less have been a very savage as she stood there, clad no longer in the dress of civilization, but in the soft native garb of skins, ornamented with the stained quills of the porcupine and the bizarre adornments of the native bead work; in her hair dull metal bands, like any Indian woman, upon her feet little beaded moccasins—the very moccasin, it might have been, which Law had first seen in ancient London town and which had played so strange a part in his life since then.

"You startled me," said Law, simply. "I was thinking."

A sudden jealous wave of woman's divining intuition came upon the woman at his side. "I doubt not," said she, bitterly, "that I could name the subject of your thought! Why? Why sit here and dream of her, when here am I, who deserve everything that you can give?"

She stood erect, her eyes flashing, her arms outstretched, her bosom panting under the fringed garments, her voice ringing as it might have been with the very essence of truth and passion. Law looked at her steadily. But the shadow did not lift from his brow, though he looked long and pondered.

"Come," said he, at length, gently. "None the less we are as we are. In every game we take our chances, and in every game we pay our debts. Let us go back to the camp."

As they turned back down the beach Law saw standing at a little distance his lieutenant, Du Mesne, who hesitated as though he would speak.

"What is it, Du Mesne?" asked Law, excusing himself with a gesture and joining the voyageur where he stood.

"Why, Monsieur L'as," said Du Mesne, "I am making bold to mention it, but in good truth there was some question in my mind as to what might be our plans. The spring, as you know, is now well advanced. It was your first design to go far into the west, and there to set up your station for the trading in furs. Now there have come these little incidents which have occasioned us some delay. While I have not doubted your enterprise, monsieur, I bethought me perhaps it might be within your plans now to go but little farther on—perhaps, indeed, to turn back—"

"To go back?" said Law.

"Well, yes; that is to say, Monsieur L'as, back again down the great lakes."

"Have you then known me so ill as this, Du Mesne?" said Law. "It has not been my custom to set backward foot on any sort of trail."

"Oh, well, to be sure, monsieur, that I know quite well," replied Du Mesne, apologetically. "I would only say that, if you do go forward, you will do more than most men accomplish on their first voyage au large in the wilderness. There comes to many a certain shrinking of the heart which leads them to find excuse for not faring farther on. Yonder, as you know, monsieur, lie Quebec and Montreal, somewhat better fitted for the abode of monsieur and madame than the tents of the wilderness. Back of that, too, as we both very well know, monsieur, lie London and old England; and I had been dull of eye indeed did I not recognize the opportunities of a young gallant like yourself. Now, while I know yourself to be a man of spirit, Monsieur L'as, and while I should welcome you gladly as a brother of the trail, I had only thought that perhaps you would pardon me if I did but ask your purpose at this time."

Law bent his head in silence for a moment. "What know you of this forward trail, Du Mesne?" said he. "Have you ever gone beyond this point in your own journeyings?"

"Never beyond this," replied Du Mesne, "and indeed not so far by many hundred miles. For my own part I rely chiefly upon the story of my brother, Greysolon du L'hut, the boldest soul that ever put paddle in the St. Lawrence. My brother Greysolon, by the fire one night, told me that some years before he had been at the mouth of the Green bay—perhaps near this very spot—and that here he and his brothers found a deserted Indian camp. Near it, lying half in the fire, where he had fallen in exhaustion, was an old, a very old Indian, who had been abandoned by his tribe to die—for that, you must know, monsieur, is one of the pleasant customs of the wilderness.

"Greysolon and his men revived this savage in some fashion, and meantime had much speech with him about this unknown land at whose edge we have now arrived. The old savage said that he had been many moons north and west of that place. He knew of the river called the Blue Earth, perhaps the same of which Father Hennepin has told. And also of the Divine river, far below and tributary to the Messasebe. He said that his father was once of a war party who went far to the north against the Ojibways, and that his people took from the Ojibways one of their prisoners, who said that he came from some strange country far to the westward, where there was a very wide plain, of no trees. Beyond that there were great mountains, taller than any to be found in all this region hereabout. Beyond these mountains the prisoner did not know what there might be, but these mountains his people took to be the edge of the world, beyond which could live only wicked spirits. This was what the prisoner of the Ojibways said. He, too, was an old man.

"The captive of my brother Greysolon was an Outagamie, and he said that the Outagamies burned this prisoner of the Ojibways, for they knew that he was surely lying to them. Without doubt they did quite right to burn him, for the notion of a great open country without trees or streams is, of course, absurd to any one who knows America. And as for mountains, all men know that the mountains lie to the east of us, not to the westward."

"'Twould seem much hearsay," said Law, "this information which comes at second, third and fourth hand."

"True," said Du Mesne, "but such is the source of the little we know of the valley of the Messasebe, and that which lies beyond it. None the less this idea offers interest."

"Yet you ask me if I would return."

"'Twas but for yourself, monsieur. It is there, if I may humbly confess to you, that it is my own ambition some day to arrive. Myself—this west, as I said long ago to the gentlemen in London—appeals to me, since it is indeed a land unoccupied, unowned, an empire which we may have all for ourselves. What say you, Monsieur L'as?"

John Law straightened and stiffened as he stood. For an instant his eye flashed with the zeal of youth and of adventure. It was but a transient cloud which crossed his face, yet there was sadness in his tone as he replied.

"My friend," said he, "you ask me for my answer. I have pondered and I now decide. We shall go on. We shall go forward. Let us have this west, my friend. Heaven helping us, let me find somewhere, in some land, a place where I may be utterly lost, and where I may forget!"

CHAPTER XX.

THE PATHWAY OF THE WATERS.

The news of the intended departure was received with joy by the crew of voyageurs, who, on the warning of an instant, fell forthwith to the simple tasks of breaking camp and storing the accustomed bales and bundles in their places in the great canot du Nord.

"La voila!" said Tete Gris. "Here she sits, this canoe, eager to go on. 'Tis forward again, mes amis! Forward once more; and glad enough am I for this day. We shall see new lands ere long."

"For my part," said Jean Breboeuf, "I also am most anxious to be away, for I have eaten this whitefish until I crave no more. I had bethought me how excellent are the pumpkins of the good fathers at the straits; and indeed I would we had with us more of that excellent fruit, the bean."

"Bah! Jean Breboeuf," retorted Pierre Noir. "'Tis but a poor-hearted voyageur would hang about a mission garden with a hoe in his hand instead of a gun. Perhaps the good sisters at the Mountain miss thy skill at pulling weeds."

"Nay, now, I can live as long on fish and flesh as any man," replied Jean Breboeuf, stoutly, "nor do I hold myself, Monsieur Tete Gris, one jot in courage back of any man upon the trail."

"Of course not, save in time of storm," grinned Tete Gris. "Then, it is 'Holy Mary, witness my vow of a bale of beaver!' It is—"

"Well, so be it," said Jean Breboeuf, stoutly. "'Tis sure a bale of beaver will come easily enough in these new lands; and—though I insist again that I have naught of superstition in my soul—when a raven sits on a tree near camp and croaks of a morning before breakfast—as upon my word of honor was the case this morning—there must be some ill fate in store for us, as doth but stand to reason."

"But say you so?" said Tete Gris, pausing at his task, with his face assuming a certain seriousness.

"Assuredly," said Jean Breboeuf. "'Tis as I told you. Moreover, I insist to you, my brothers, that the signs have not been right for this trip at any time. For myself, I look for nothing but disaster."

The humor of Jean Breboeuf's very gravity appealed so strongly to his older comrades that they broke out into laughter, and so all fell again to their tasks, in sheer light-heartedness forgetting the superstitions of their class.

Thus at length the party took ship again, and in time made the head of the great bay within whose arms they had been for some time encamped. They won up over the sullen rapids of the river which came into the bay, toiling sometimes waist-deep at the cordelle, yet complaining not at all. So in time they came out on the wide expanse of the shallow lake of the Winnebagoes, which body of water they crossed directly, coming into the quiet channel of the stream which fell in upon its western shore. Up this stream in turn steadily they passed, amid a panorama filled with constant change. Sometimes the gentle river bent away in long curves, with hardly a ripple upon its placid surface, save where now and again some startled fish sprang into the air in fright or sport, or in the rush upon its prey. Then the stream would lead away into vast seas of marsh lands, waving in illimitable reaches of rushes, or fringed with the unspeakably beautiful green of the graceful wild rice plant.

EX-GOVERNOR DEAD.

Alonzo B. Cornell Is Dead at His Home In Ithaca, N. Y.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 17.—Alonzo B. Cornell, former governor of the state of New York and one of the most striking figures in its political history a quarter of a century ago, is dead in his home in this city. It was a pathetic and sorrowful ending of an active career, crowded with events. Governor Cornell was stricken with paralysis a year ago, and this was followed by the development of acute Bright's disease, which so weakened him that at his age, seventy-two years, he was unable to rally. For a month or more there was no hope of his recovery.

The death of the former governor removes the last of the group in which, with politics and business interests interwoven, Jay Gould, Roscoe Conkling, Chester A. Arthur, Stephen W. Dorsey, Lucius Robinson and John Kelly were the principals. He was the twenty-fifth governor of the state and was the son of Ezra Cornell, the founder of Cornell university.

Credit for revolutionizing the art of telegraphy by the discovery that messages could be received by sound instead of visible dots and dashes on a tape was given to him. His political prominence extended over a period of forty years, and he reached the zenith of his career when he became governor, and one of the most noteworthy of his acts during his incumbency was his advocacy of the collateral inheritance tax law, which largely through his energy and influence was placed on the statute books.

A "KNOCK-OUT" DIVE.

Newark Saloon Keeper Held For Selling Fake Whisky.

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 17.—United States revenue officers here have seized and turned over to the board of health for analysis thirty bottles supposed to contain acid, coloring matter and other ingredients, all of which, they say, they found hidden under a bed in the apartments of the reputed owner of a Prince street saloon.

The seizure was made by Deputy Collector Joseph Cavanaugh and P. H. Greenwald, a ganger. The officers arrested Solomon Munturan, alleged proprietor of the saloon, and Louis and Isaac Herman and charged them with violating section 3,244 of the revised statutes, which holds a person liable as rectifier who makes spurious compounds by the admixture of other ingredients in the spirits.

The complaints against the three men were the outcome of a story which was told to Chief Deputy Collector Porter to the effect that the saloon keeper was in the habit of adulterating the whisky sold by him with acids so that it would "knock out" any one who ventured to take more than one or two drinks.

GENERAL WORTH DEAD.

A Veteran Officer of the Civil War, Indian and Cuba Campaigns.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—William Scott Worth, brigadier general in the United States army, retired, is dead at the home of his nephew, Dr. John T. Sprague of Clifton, N. Y. His death followed a long illness.

General Worth was the only son of Major General William Jenkins Worth. He was born at Albany, N. Y., on Jan. 6, 1840, and was educated at a private school at Dobb's Ferry and at the Albany academy.

He served through the war of the rebellion, in several Indian campaigns and in Cuba. In 1898 he was commissioned brigadier general, and a month later he was retired on account of disabling wounds. He was a member of a number of societies and orders.

Dedication of Connecticut Monument

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 17.—Governor Chamberlain of Connecticut, accompanied by his staff and a party of distinguished citizens of that state, and the First and Second companies, governor's foot guard, from Hartford and New Haven respectively, have arrived in Chattanooga in three special trains to attend the dedication ceremonies of the Connecticut state monument at Orchard Knob, in the Chattanooga-Chickamauga National Military park. The ceremonies were delayed by a railroad wreck.

Watson's Campaign Tour.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The Peoples' party will hold a mass meeting here at the Grand Central palace on the evening of Monday, Oct. 24. The principal speaker will be Thomas E. Watson, candidate for president on the Peoples' party ticket. Mr. Watson will this week follow Mr. Bryan in Indiana, speaking in Vincennes on the 19th and in Indianapolis on the 20th. On Oct. 22 he will speak in Parkersburg, W. Va.

President Honors Wedding.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt were the guests at the wedding of Miss Rebekah Page Knox, daughter of United States Senator Knox, and James Robert Tindle, which was solemnized at the country home of Senator Knox near Valley Forge.

Harmless Joke Ended In Death.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Oct. 17.—Frank Roberts, aged seventeen, died in the hospital here after being stabbed three times in the abdomen with a dirk by Antoine Tolbino. Both were employed in a box factory here. The stabbing resulted from a harmless joke on Tolbino.

Mohonk Indian Conference.

LAKE MOHONK, N. Y., Oct. 17.—Arrangements have been completed for the twenty-first annual session of the Lake Mohonk Indian conference, which opens here on Wednesday. Charles J. Bonaparte of Baltimore will preside.

SPORTING NEWS.

FOOTBALL.

The Leal's game was the only scholastic game which was played Saturday. Though Manager Bentley, of the Plainfield High School, had intended to get a game with the Rahway team he was unable to make the necessary arrangements.

Through some misunderstanding on the part of the Westfield team the game which was to have been played with the North Plainfield High School last Saturday morning was cancelled. Both teams were desirous of seeing the baseball game in the afternoon and it was not possible for the Westfield eleven to play in the morning.

Daniels who played right half for the Leal's School Saturday, when they won their first interscholastic game with the Carteret School, was obliged to leave the game in the second half on account of injuries sustained in a mass play. His loss was severly felt, though the game was already won. During the entire contest Daniels' interference was a feature of the game. Time and time again he was the only man between the runner and the opposing tackler, and repeatedly he made good. Wilcox was the man with the ball in most of these plays, and with Daniel for interference did good work.

DIAMOND DUST.

"Sandow" Mertes, of the Giants, who played here on Saturday, has just been made a Mason.

Manager Denman, of the Westfield Baseball Association, and his worthy lieutenant, Malien, were among those who saw the game on Saturday between the New Yorks and the Plainfield team.

After the fair treatment given to Cusick, it showed ingratitude on his part not to appear on Saturday for the last game of the season. His action did not strengthen the appreciation heretofore felt for him.

Among the fans at the ball game on Saturday was John Shaw, of Finderne. He is interesting himself in a team for Somerville next season and is endeavoring to secure the services of Nat Strong as manager.

When "Al." Farmer and "Pete" Oregan left Plainfield Saturday, their many friends in bidding them goodbye, expressed the hope that they would be with the Plainfield team next season. The hope was mutual.

During the past season Louis Wiltse, the Baltimore Eastern League pitcher, won twenty-one games in which he played and lost seven, leading the pitchers in that league. He will been the slab tomrrow for the Plainfield A. C., against the New York Nationals.

There was a great handshaking-feast between "Pete" Oregan, of the Plainfield A. C., and Mike Donlin, of the New York Nationals, on Saturday. Both formerly played on the Cincinnati National League team and it being their first meeting in a long time, the greeting was a hearty one.

Among those who witnessed the ball game on Saturday was T. H. Keller, better known as "Tee Kay." Tom made baseball in this city in 1892 with his famous Crescents and he was anxious to see the locals play again. He regretted that Keeler was unable to appear on the Plainfield lineup.

GOLF.

The members of the Middlebrook Country Club, of Findern, are arranging for a golf tournament on Election Day. Several prizes will be offered.

After the regular play at the Westfield Golf Club on Saturday afternoon, many remained for an informal dance in the evening. On Saturday afternoon there will be a euchre for the women members of the club.

W. L. Glenney now leads in the competition for the Golf Committee cup at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club with 13 5-6 points, while Robert Abbott is a close second with 13 points. Harold Robert leads for the Gaston cup with fifteen points.

Not until election day will there be any special events at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. On that day there will be the play for the Men's Handicap cup, finals, Holiday cup, Greens Committee tankard and a Kickers' handicap. There will also be special events on Thanksgiving Day, when the club's schedule will be concluded for the season.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Efforts are being made to establish motor bicycle corps in the United States Army, and there is every indication that it will materialize. There is no room for argument that a small and fast machine like the motor bicycle, which does not eat, drink or become weary, and that will carry its rider over long stretches of almost any kind of road, is of great value for military purposes.

ROD AND GUN.

In a test case to decide the legality of live pigeon shooting in New Jersey the Mount Holly Grand Jury has returned an indictment against the Riverton Gun Club, charging it with violating the law. The members of the Riverton Gun Club are opposed to this law, as it deprives them of considerable sport. On September 1 Charles W. Davis, of Philadelphia, and R. F. Harned, of Merchantville, killed some pigeons in the presence of two officers of the law, acting in the capacity of witnesses. The case will be before Judge Gaskill in a week.

BASKET BALL.

Physical Director Henckel, of the Young Men's Christian Association, will confer with the members of last year's regular basket ball team tonight in reference to the choice of a manager for this year's combination. Other matters of interest to the players, and followers of the game, will come up also.

CLINTON RANDOLPH'S FUNERAL YESTERDAY

TWO LOCAL MINISTERS TOOK PART IN THE OBSEQUIES.

Funeral services over the remains of Clinton F. Randolph were held in the First Baptist church yesterday afternoon, with a large gathering of relatives and friends in attendance. The services were in charge of Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, assisted by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss.

Solos were rendered by Mrs. F. M. Ward and Miss Louella Harris, of the church choir. A profusion of floral tributes included many set pieces.

The interment was afterward made in Hillside cemetery.

All Ready for Big Mass-Meeting.

The Democratic city committee at a meeting Saturday evening, concluded arrangements for the big mass meeting which is to be held in Reform Hall, October 28. The speakers are to be Judge John Sharpe Williams, Charles O. Black and James E. Martine. A feature will be a band of thirty pieces which is to render selections including solos by various artists.

Trolley Wire Causes Trouble.

The main feed wire of the trolley company dropped to the street at Watchung avenue and Fifth street, yesterday afternoon and imperilled traffic. A horse belonging to John Lynch ran into it and was thrown over on its knees but was uninjured. Patrolmn Meyers arrived on the scene and guarded the strand until the arrival of the repair gang.

Horse Attacked by Dog.

A dog belonging to Thomas Sheridan, of Plainfield avenue, a tiacked J. M. Bettman's horse as it was being driven through Grant avenue yesterday afternoon. The owner had considerable trouble in beating it off and he afterward reported the matter to the police for action.

Hunt Club's Run.

The regular weekly hunt of the Watchung Hunt Club was held Saturday afternoon, the party starting from the old golf course. The course covered several miles and was in every way a success. There were about twenty who attended the hunt.

Seven Days for Traynor.

For his participation in a disturbance which took place a week ago, John Traynor, of this city, was fined $10 or seven days in Recorder Dowd's court Saturday night. He took the seven days as the guest of Chief Marshal Weiss.

Cops to Dine Officials.

The dinner arranged by Chief Marshal Weiss will be given to Mayor Smalley and the borough officials in the new police station this evening. Following the dinner an entertainment and speeches will be features.

Mr. Clay at Esopus.

George S. Clay, of this city, president of the Parker Independent Club, was a member of a delegation which visited Judge Alton B. Parker at his home in Esopus, N. Y., Saturday.

Borough Court.

John Morits, a polak, and two Italians, were arrested by the borough police Saturday for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. They will be given a hearing this evening.

Westfield's Mayor Robbed.

A burglar visited the residence of Mayor Randolph Perkins, in Westfield, early yesterday morning, and took with him a gold watch worth $150 and $190 in cash.

Miss Katheryne Slade, of West Front street, is entertaining relatives from Boonton.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Patterson, of West Seventh street, are planning a trip to Europe, expecting to sail this week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Thompson, of Woodland avenue, are registered at the Chalfone, Atlantic City.

Miss Linda Butler and Miss Marie Bourgeois, who have been spending several weeks at Belmar, have returned to their homes on East Front street.

CHIEF WEISS PLAYS HOST

Entertains Borough Officials at New Station Dedication.

AN ELABORATE SUPPER

Many Prominent Visitors Inspect the Reconstructed Building and Enjoy the Hospitality.

North Plainfield's mayor and councilmen, together with prominent residents and guests from this side of the brook, were entertained by Chief Marshal George Weiss last evening, in honor of the police department's entrance to the new headquarters. The affair took place in the upper part of the station and though informal, marked the dedication of the borough's newest municipal building. The attendance was close to the 100 mark and every member was thoroughly pleased with the aspect and the treatment accorded them by the head of the bluecoated force.

The guests entered the building at the conclusion of the Good Government Club meeting across the street and were first shown about by Recorder Doud, Chief Weiss and members of the department. Every part of the structure was visited and as one delegation concluded the inspection, it was entertained with phonograph selections by Frank Sonuck until the others were through. Adjourment to the upper part followed, where supper was in waiting, placed on long tables in the room which is to be used later as a dormitory. Chief Weiss had prepared an excellent array of eatables and a corps of competent waiters was in attendance to take care that no one was slighted.

Mayor Smalley and Recorder Doud were at the heads while others in the long rows were Councilmen Arnold, VanArsdale and Humble, former Councilmen Emmons and Northorp, Chief Woolston and Lieutenant Campbell, of the fire department, former Mayor B. A. Hegeman, and many other prominent borough residents. From Plainfield there were President Tolles, of the Common Council, former President James F. Buckle, Councilman Frank Randolph, of the police board, City Judge William N. Runyon, George O. Stevens and others. Impromptu addresses were made by Mayor Smalley, Recorder Doud, Judge Runyon and Councilman VanArsdale. Chief Weiss was warmly complimented for his well planned preparation of the supper and the success with which the entire affair was attended.

From the station house, adjournment was made to the new engine house and the guests from the Plainfield side were shown through it. For many of them it was their first visit and they were greatly surprised with the completeness of the equipment and details. A pleasing feature of the occasion was the "ringing up" of the horses by Lieutenant Campbell and an exhibition of their intelligence brought about by his training. In the end further adjournment was made to the rooms of the Good Government Club where the programme concluded with music and speeches under Mayor Smalley's supervision.

New Trolley Fare Registers.

The trolley cars operated by the Public Service Corporation have been equipped with a new style of registry for the collection of fares. The mechanical device is very complete, being similar to the cash register now so generally used. It records full and half fares, transfers and every time a fare is rung up the amount is indicated exactly as with a cash register. The work of installing the new device in the cars has been going on for some time.

Shakespearian Lecture.

The second Shakespearian lecture by Prof. Edward Howard Griggs will be given tomorrow afternoon in Vincent chapel at 3:45. Subject: The Ethical Awakening—The Merchant of Venice. The remaining five lectures of the course will be $2.25.

REV. G. M. SHOTT RESIGNS

"Fighting Parson" Asks Congregation to Relieve Him.

CAUSES MUCH SURPRISE

Gained Wide Prominence Through Relentless Crusade Against Village Saloons.

Greatly to the surprise of his congregation, Rev. Gideon M. Shott, pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, tendered his resignation Sunday, expressing the belief that the time had come for him to sever connection with it. As his action had not been in the least anticipated the resignation was laid on the table for a week, during which an attempt will be made to have him stay. Rev. J. M. Lissendum, of Freehold, who has occupied the pulpit at various times, is talked of as his probable successor in the event of Mr. Shott adhering to his decision.

The present pastor succeeded Rev. J. S. Braker six years ago, coming from the North Baptist church, New York. At the time Scotch Plains was known far and wide as a place where the liquor selling element was in control and soon after becoming installed Mr. Shott devoted most of his time to investigating the conditions. The greater part of the stories he found to be true, especially with reference to Sunday violations, and he began waging a war against the traffic that gained him the sobriquet of the "fighting parson" and made his name prominent throughout the State. To better carry on his fight with the saloons he organized the Citizens' League which was still in existence though not particularly active. The Sunday selling received a decided setback, as several dealers were heavily fined after being convicted on charges preferred by the Citizens' League.

While the clergyman's fight was applauded by the temperance advocates in the village, others of the population were not pleased with the prominence given the place, many of the metropolitan papers referring to it as "the toughest town in Jersey."

Y. M. C. A. ORCHESTRA'S DELIGHTFUL PROGRAMME

SOLOISTS SCORE BEFORE AN APPRECIATIVE AUDIENCE.

Before an audience wholly as appreciative as the one a week ago, the Y. M. C. A. orchestra repeated its concert in the association auditorium last night. Miss Raybert, the popular soprano, assisted the orchestra as did Kenneth Stuart, trombone, and De Witt Frazee, cornet. Miss Raybert was especially good last evening, and was encored after all her selections. Miss Raybert possesses a clearness of tone, and a perfect pronunciation, which marks her as a finished singer.

Kenneth Stuart and DeWitt Frazee were accorded enthusiastic applause, which they richly deserved. Of the orchestra selections, seven numbers were recent publications, of which three were introduced by the Y. M. C. A. orchestra for the first time in this city.

IN DOUD'S COURT.

Four Disturbers of the Borough's Peace Contribute to Its Treasury.

Previous to the dedication of the new borough station house last evening, Recorder Doud held court in the old one and disposed of a batch of four prisoners arrested Sunday morning. All pleaded guilty to drunkenness and fighting and the following sentences were imposed: Stansil Sparte, $15 or seven days, paid; Joseph Siss, $5 or seven days, paid; Vita Renato, $5 or seven days, paid; Sam Savino, $3 or five days, paid. The disturbances for which they were arrested took place at different times on Somerset street.

Joseph Siss was represented in court by Assemblyman Newcorn and Renato and Savino by Francis J. Blatz.

Minister as Restaurant Proprietor.

Rev. J. W. Mitchell has purchased the restaurant business of Henry Kingslow on North avenue, and he and his wife are now in charge. Mrs. Mitchell will have charge of the culinary department. The place will be renovated and generally improved.

Miss Whiton Engaged.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Mary Whiton, daughter of John M. Whiton, of Central avenue, and James Hutchinson, of Lynn, Mass.

LICENSES AND VOTES

Raising Liquor Fees May Have Political Effect.

SALOON MEN'S POSITION

Not Believed by the Republicans That Ordinance Will Have An Bearing On Vote.

"Will the adoption of the amendments to the ordinance to license inns and taverns increasing the fee to $1,000 result in the defeat of any of the Councilmanic candidates for re-election" is a question that is agitating the minds of some of the Republican leaders. Immediately after the ordinance, as amended was adopted on its second reading, it was general talk on the part of some that the action would result in the defeat of Common Councilmen who are candidates for another erm.

Exception was taken to this by those more conservative. They argue that there is not a sufficient amount of opposition to the change to defeat the Republican candidates and they predict that they will receive practically the usual vote. Another argument in favor of the recent action of the Common Council is that the ordinance will become operative the first of the year, if adopted now and if an effort was made to defeat those who voted for it and to change the fee back to $700, it would clearly show that there is a collusion between the liquor dealers and those in power. This, many claim, would have a far more serious effect than anything that could be done by the present Common Council toward raising the license fee, especially, as State Organizer Buckridge recently reported that it was due to his influence, as well as that of the local liquor dealers' association and the State Association, that the effort to increase the fee early in the year was defeated.

It is further argued by friends of the Councilmen who voted to increase the fee, that the liquor dealers' associations cannot afford to take too active a part in this matter for they are likely to be restricted to even a greater extent.

It is claimed that the First ward will present the hardest fight for Councilmanic honors, when the present member of the Common Council, R. I. Tolles, and Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., will have a contest. Mr. Tolles has been in the Common Council for several years and his record is well-known. To those who know him best, it was no surprise that he voted for the increase in the license fee. He has always been a high license man, believing that conditions surrounding the liquor traffic should be improved whenever possible.

The other Councilmen who voted in favor of the amendment have been considered high license men, and since the adoption of the ordinance they have openly spoken in favor of the change, believing that the sum of $1,000 is not too great for the privilege.

A prominent citizen in speaking about the matter today, remarked the difference in conditions between Plainfield and New Brunswick. He said that in the latter place the liquor interests control the town, while here they are subservient to the governing body of the city. He expressed the hope that this would always be so.

Inquiry about the town fails to reveal any pronounced opposition to the action of the Common Council in raising the fee to $1,000, and so far as can be learned the liquor dealers are not likely to put up any fight. They appear to have a feeling that the Common Council will not increase the number of drinking places, thus making a great division of profit, and if this is not done the dealers will probably accept the change with good grace.

One Month for Robbery.

In the Somerset County Criminal Courts at Somerville, Saturday, Judge Schenck sentenced Walter P. Galloway, formerly of Union county, to one month in the county jail. Galloway was arrested for robbing a young man at Bernardsville while he slept, but as he had been in jail a long time awaiting a chance to be arraigned, and pleaded guilty the court let him off with a light sentence for his first offense.

JUDGE PARKER SUMMONS MARTINE

Congressional Nominee in Conference With Presidential Candidate Today.

SECRECY ABOUT IT

Object of Farmer-Orator's Visit Not Disclosed—Rumor That He May Speak In New York.

At the personal request of the Democratic presidential nominee, James E. Martine, of this city, left this morning for New York, to call upon Judge Alton B. Parker. The invitation came unsolicited and the direct purpose will not be known to the "farmer-orator" until his arrival. As the conservative Judge has asked no one to confer with him since he was placed at the head of the National ticket unless for some specific reason his appointment with the Plainfielder is looked upon in the nature of a mysterious political move. The belief has been strengthened from the fact that the Democratic leaders from several other States have also been asked to visit the Judge in New York today.

County politicians declare that the summons to Martine is for the purpose of learning the exact standing of affairs in New Jersey, the advisers to the Judge recognizing in him a man who can give more accurate information probably, than any other leader in the State. The manner in which he has been conducting his own campaign in the Fifth district has attracted widespread attention and his personal popularity in this section is counted upon to do good work for the party at large. There is also a growing belief that he will be asked to deliver speeches at several big mass meetings in New York State, a field in which he is no stranger. As far back as 1870 he spoke from the same platform with Samuel J. Tilden, and since then with Grover Cleveland, Charles Towne, W. J. Bryan, Bourke Cockran and many other notables.

In recent years his close connection with William Jennings Bryan has commanded attention to his abilities and prominence in the State and he is looked upon as one of New Jersey's most enthusiastic workers. In addition his knowledge of political matters in general and conditions in other States will make his advice invaluable in arranging plans at the conference which will undoubtedly be held.

Mr. Martine has been continuing his "whirlwind" campaign through Union, Warren and Morris Counties, addressing large crowds nightly. Last evening he was one of the principal speakers at a large Democratic mass meeting held in Elizabeth. Afterward he made a short address before the members of Kilpatrick Post, G. A. R., in the same place. He was warmly greeted in each instance and assured of strong support in the county seat.

D. L. AND W. SETTLES SUIT FOR DAMAGES

ROLAND PARKER GIVEN GOOD SUM FOR INJURIES RECEIVED.

Preferring an amicable agreement to a trial, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad has settled with Roland D. V. Parker, former clerk of New Providence township, for injuries he received by being thrown from a train. Suit was instituted in Union county and it would have been heard this term. The settlement terms were brought about by Counsellor Isaac P. Runyon, of this city, and it is said were for a substantial amount.

Parker was about to alight from a train at Berkley Heights on the night of December 22 last, when it suddenly started and threw him to the ground. He struck on his head and was rendered unconscious. A neighbor carried him home and was seriously ill for two weeks and since then has been unable to attend to his ordinary affairs.

AUTO PARADE ROUTE

To Consume One Hour and a Half in Covering Course.

TO BE IN TWO DIVISIONS

Touring Cars to be Separated From the Runabouts—Saturday the Day.

Further plans for Plainfield's initial automobile parade were considered and made at a committee meeting last evening. The details are now practically in shape and but little remains to bring the automobile owners of the city and borough out in force to demonstrate the strength the sport has attained locally.

A committee composed of Dorsey Hyde, Dr. P. J. Zeglio and F. L. C. Martin, submitted the line of march. The original route selected proved too long and it was amended to the satisfaction of all. Running at a pace from eight to ten miles an hour, it is expected that it will require an hour and a half to cover the route selected. It is as follows: Start from the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on Crescent avenue to West Eighth street, to Grant avenue, to West Seventh street, to East Seventh street, countermarching at the intersection of Franklin place, to West Seventh street, to Plainfield avenue, to Stelle avenue, to Central avenue, to West Ninth street, to Park avenue, to North avenue, to Watchung avenue, to East Sixth street, to Central avenue, to West Front street, to East Front street, to Farragut road, to Mountain avenue, to Watchung avenue, to Jackson avenue, to Somerset street, to Craig place, to Grove street, to Prospect place, to Rockview avenue, countermarching at the start of Rockview terrace to Washington avenue, to Myrtle avenue, to Sycamore avenue, to Willow avenue, to Magnolia avenue, to Rockview avenue, to Mercer avenue, to Grove street and disband.

The cars will be divided into two divisions, one for touring cars and one for runabouts. These will be preceded by an auto-truck bearing the band. F. L. C. Martin, who has had long experience in conducting bicycle parades, was appointed marshal.

Personal invitations will be sent out to all the automobile owners in Plainfield and North Plainfield who are registered with the Secretary of State at Trenton. It does not mean, however, that other automobilists will not be welcome. The committee has tried to impress the fact that every car will be taken care of and gladly welcomed.

In speaking of the parade and its objects a member of the committee, said last evening at the close of the meeting:

"There seems to be a mistaken idea on the part of a number of Plainfield people that it will be necessary to decorate in order to parade. On the contrary, there will be no attempt at decoration. It is simply a gathering of all the automobiles of Plainfield and vicinity to promote more friendly relations and to give the people of this section of New Jersey some idea of the magnitude of the sport. It's going to be a good thing for the automobilists and for the town and every man who has a car should make a special effort to be on hand Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. If the automobilists will stand together on this occasion it will be the means of arranging a similar affair on a more elaborate scale next season. Besides that it is going to mark Plainfield as the most progressive city in the automobiling circles of northern New Jersey."

Another meeting of the committee will be held Thursday evening when final details will be arranged.

New Thought Movement Lecture.

Miss Anita Trueman, "the girl philosopher," will deliver a free lecture on "Happiness," at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Pray, 447 West Seventh street, this evening, at 8 o'clock. All interested in the New Thought movement are invited to attend. The Buffalo Courier says: "Miss Trueman is a forceful speaker, and gave a most lucid explanation of the formation and limitation of character."

Chapel Fund Collections.

The second collection for the chapel fund will be received at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on Sunday. At the offering in May for the support of the chapels there was received $3,900. To carry on this work in the chapels there will be needed about $1,700 additional, which will be asked for, either by gift or pledge.

UNKNOWN MAN KILLED

FOUND BY TRAIN CREW

Victim Crawling Along Track When Picked Up—Evidently a German.

Crawling along the track between Westfield and Fanwood with both legs cut off below the knees, almost dead from loss of blood, an unknown man was picked up by the crew of the 5:30 train from New York last night, and brought to the Muhlenberg Hospital, where he died two hours later. It is not known by what train the victim was struck, or how long he had been in the condition in which he was found. It is the opinion of those who found him, that he was hit while crossing the track near Graceland, and attempted to crawl away after the accident.

The local ambulance was summoned and the victim was removed from the baggage car of the train to Muhlenberg Hospital. Although every effort was made to learn his name, he was unconscious up to his death and it was impossible.

The body was removed to Cole's undertaking establishment. As yet no one has been able to identify the corpse, though the features are not mangled. The man was six feet tall, weighing about 190 pounds. He was dark complected, having a small black moustache, and appears to be either a German or a Pole. That he was a respectable looking man there is no doubt from the clothes which he wore. He was clothed in a black sack coat, gray double breasted vest, dark mixed trousers, and patent leather shoes. He wore a black necktie and a black derby hat. All of his clothes were in good condition before the accident. There was nothing in his clothes by which he might be identified, as the contents of his pockets consisted of a penny and a lead pencil. A laundry mark of "(4) 983" on his collar and shirt may serve as a clue, though it is not known in what town the laundry was situated. The unknown wore a pair of heavy gold links in his cuffs.

EPWORTH LEAGUES AT HIGH BRIDGE THURSDAY

LOCAL DELEGATES TO THE ELIZABETH DISTRICT MEETING.

The local chapters of the Epworth League will send delegates to the annual convention of the Elizabeth District, Epworth League, to be held at High Bridge on Thursday. From Chapter No. 1, First M. E. church, there will be six delegates, besides a number of the members will be present.

Cards can be obtained from President Edgar or Vice President Stiles, entitling the holder to reduced fare, making the round trip cost about $1.20. Train leaves Plainfield at 8:21 in the morning, arriving at High Bridge at 9:29. Returning, train leaves High Bridge at 8:50 in the evening, reaching Plainfield at 9:40.

BECK TO SPEAK.

Former Democrat to Laud Republican Administration.

James S. Beck, Assistant Attorney-General of the United States, will be the speaker on National topics at the Republican mass meeting at Reform Hall Thursday evening. Mr. Beck is one of the most finished campaign speakers Pennsylvania ever produced, a man of extensive experience in law.

He was formerly a Democrat. He was district attorney in Philadelphia some years ago. During the administration of McKinley he returned Republican and was appointed Assistant Attorney-General of the United States.

B. and L. Stock Sold.

Ninety-one shares of stock was sold at the semi-annual meeting of the Home Building and Loan Association, held last night, and $5,000 was lent in new loans. The association is very prosperous, much to the gratification of the members.

—Edw. Howard Griggs will deliver the second of his series of Shakespearian lectures at the First Methodist chapel tomorrow afternoon. The subject will be "The Ethical Awakening: The Merchant of Venice." The lecture will begin at 3:45.

Miss Blazier, of West Front street, who has been ill at her home, is improving.

MINORITY PARTY'S TICKET

Atterbury for Mayor and Owens for City Judge.

MEET TOMORROW NIGHT

Erskine M. Rodman for Board of Education and Frazee for Freeholder.

Unless the political prophets are all wrong this will be the ticket selected by the Democrats at the city convention tomorrow night: Mayor, A. H. Atterbury; city judge, John P. Owens; member of board of education, Rev. Erskine M. Rodman; freeholder, Vincent L. Frazee.

The convention will be held at the Democratic headquarters in the Central building and will be called to order by Chairman Dilts at 8 o'clock. No friction is anticipated and the Democrats declare that they will make a hustling campaign especially on the mayoralty.

On Friday night, the Democrats will hold a big meeting which will be attended by the congressional and assembly candidates as well as the nominees for county clerk and registrar and the municipal candidates. Ben LaVere's band has been engaged and good music will be dispensed as well as campaign arguments.

PLAINFIELD A. C. SUED BY BASEBALL PITCHER

GARVIN CLAIMS THAT THERE IS MONEY DUE HIM.

Virgil Garvin, formerly of the Brooklyn Astional and New York American League teams, and more recently pitching for the Plainfield A. C., has instituted a suit against the Plainfield Athletic Club, for the recovery of money which he claims is due him for pitching for the local team against the Elizabeth Stars on Crescent Oval on Saturday, October 1. Mr. Garvin brings the suit in Justice Mosher's court through his counsel, Louis Clement, Esq., the papers being returnable Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The ball player claims that Manager Johnston gave him $35 for his services in that game, that he was to have received $56.50, therefore a balance of $22.56 is coming to him. The suit is brought for $50.

In the contest in question Mr. Garvin pitched a poor game, the Stars getting sixteen hits off him and winning from the home team by a score of 12 to 1. It is said that in view of the poor showing made, Mr. Garvin offered to take $35, but that he changed his mind afterward and said he wanted his full pay after Mr. Johnston had given him $35. When Mr. Johnston told him that that is all he would give him, Mr. Garvin then said that he would sue for the balance.

MANGANESE SAFE AWARDED GOLD MEDAL

HIGHEST PRIZE AT EXPOSITION FOR PLAINFIELD CONCERN.

For the excellence of its exhibit at the St. Louis Exposition, the Manganese Steel Safe Company, of this city, has been awarded a gold medal by the judges. Word of the decision has recently been made known to the officers, to whom it came as a surprise. Safe manufacturers from all over the world were in competition for the honor and the Plainfield firm had no intimation that its display was being considered.

The Manganese company has two exhibits at the fair, one in the manufacturers' building and the other in the miners' building. The latter is the more extensive and includes some of the big vaults for which the firm enjoys a wide reputation.

HOLD JAPS IN CHECK

Russian Forces Have Reoccupied Shakhe.

STORM TRENCHES, TAKE TEN GUNS

St. Petersburg Advices Say Kuropatkin Has Concentrated His Army and Is Firmly Holding Back the Enemy.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Advices from St. Petersburg this morning say that the news from the front is more reassuring from the Russian standpoint. The situation is still regarded as being critical, but General Kuropatkin is apparently holding the Japanese firmly on his center and right wings, even having recrossed the Shakhe river, and while there are rumors of an extensive Japanese flanking movement both on the east and on the west there is no evidence that they are actually occurring.

General Kuropatkin's left wing has been heard from with an account of a four days' fight in front of Tumin and Saitchoun passes, resulting in the final withdrawal of the strong Russian column which had been sent to turn the Japanese right, though General Mischtschenko seems to have actually penetrated a considerable distance inside the Japanese lines. The report of the operations of the Russian left wing is still three days old, and since that time no news has been received.

General Kuropatkin has slightly advanced his center, reoccupying Shakhe south of the Shakhe river. Directly behind him at a distance of nine miles lies the Hun river, and across the bridges spanning this stream the Russians must retire in case they retreat on Mukden. General Kuropatkin must continue to firmly hold his center and right flank in order to prevent the Japanese getting possession of the Hun river bridges. Thus he will cover the withdrawal of his apparently beaten west wing.

General Grippenberg, who has arrived at St. Petersburg, will go to the front to assume the command of the Second Manchurian army.

Advices from Mukden say that the Russians were not only successful in the fighting on their right, but carried out some brilliant movements on the left, where they assumed an energetic offensive against the Japanese position at Soukhetung, southeast of Hun pass.

Soukhetung is on the high road which runs to Bentsiaputze, joining the Mandarin road where the Hun river intersects it. The Petrovsky, Neuchlet and Wilminstrand regiments stormed the Japanese trenches at Soukhetung and carried them after desperate resistance, capturing ten guns. The Japanese losses were enormous.

General Sacharoff telegraphs to St. Petersburg that the Russians have recaptured Lonely Tree hill, south of Shakhe, and captured eleven Japanese guns and one quick firer.

Lonely Tree hill is situated near Shakhe, about three miles west of the railroad. The Shakhe river runs round its base. The Japanese seized the hill during the night of Oct. 15, overpowering the two Russian regiments which previously were in possession of it.

Russian re-enforcements were hurried up and early the following morning opened a sustained artillery fire. Subsequently the Russian infantry stormed the hill, and fierce fighting at close quarters followed. Numbers of Japanese were bayoneted in the trenches, and ultimately the defenders were driven out.

"The fighting did not cease until the morning," General Sacharoff continues. "The Japanese defended the hill with great stubbornness and accepted a bayonet attack, in which many of them perished. Our troops fought valiantly. The losses have not yet been ascertained. At the present moment, 8 o'clock this morning, a desultory cannonade is proceeding along the whole of our position. The troops are very tired, but they are in splendid spirits."

Official reports received by the war office say the battle was resumed at daybreak, that the Russians still hold the right bank of the Shakhe river, that the pressure on the Russian left has been relieved and that the contest is continuing on the right, where the Japanese are still seeking to break through the Russian center, evidently in order to get possession of the railroad and cut off the Russian army from Mukden.

While admitting that the Russian losses are heavy, but not offering figures, the general staff declares the Japanese reports of the Russian losses are exaggerated while their own are minimized.

The feeling at the war office is slightly brighter as it becomes evident that the Japanese have not cut off any of the Russians, and that General Kuropatkin is able to stand like a stone wall.

A Mukden report says that the Russian forces have penetrated the Japanese center and, it is reported, captured eleven or thirteen guns and 150 prisoners east of the railway. At another point during the day the Siberian regiments took twenty-four guns.

The Russian operations have been quite successful. The Japanese, after a terrifically stubborn resistance, were compelled to retire along their whole line, losing heavily. All the trenches carried by the Russians were filled with the Japanese dead. In one of very large trenches there were counted 600 corpses of Japanese. In spite of their losses the Japanese were undaunted. They have brought up more guns and have left no stone unturned to retain the mastery of the situation. Every step the Russians have pushed forward has been in the face of a superb resistance that has cost the Russians dear. The Japanese seem to be willing to fight until they are annihilated.

Today is the tenth day of the battle.

Cassini's Voice Is Still For War.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, in a conversation with a correspondent last night reiterated with great emphasis what he has already had occasion to say several times regarding intervention by the powers to conclude the war. "There is," he said, "absolutely no opportunity for intervention to stop the war. Russia proposes to prosecute the war to the end, and all offers of peace at this time must be rejected."

RIOT AT MOHAWK.

Military Called Out to Suppress Mobbing of Tracklayers.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 18.—There was a big riot here when a force of men employed by the Oneonta and Richfield Springs Railroad company attempted to make a connection of that company's tracks with those of the Utica and Mohawk Valley Railroad company at Mohawk, permission for which had been refused by the village officers. Previous to beginning the work Receiver Jennings of the road served on the village officers an order restraining them from interfering with the work.

The village officers called out the fire department, which sought to drive the workmen away by throwing streams of water on them. The workmen turned on the firemen, routed them and cut the hose. In the melee stones and other missiles were thrown, windows were broken and many persons were injured. Sheriff Richards summoned a number of deputies and is preserving order. In the meantime the work of connecting the tracks is proceeding.

Under guard of Sheriff Richards and his deputies and the Thirty-first Separate company the railroad employees continued work at constructing the Y for the railroad connection, and the work is nearly completed. The citizens held an indignation meeting at which it was resolved to continue opposition to the two railroads' connection. The meeting was addressed by District Attorney Ward, who urged the citizens not to take the law in their own hands and promised them legal redress if any illegalities had figured in the injunction proceedings.

At night a cessation of hostilities was declared. The citizens agreed to have the village officials grant a permit for the connection and to leave the question of the right to construct it to be determined by the courts later.

A heavy guard is maintained about the works, but all is quiet.

The Thirty-first Separate company of Mohawk is on duty assisting the sheriff in preserving the peace.

OBSEQUIES OF A KING.

George of Saxony's Body Removed to Dresden.

DRESDEN, Oct. 18.—A weird and solemn impression was made by the transfer of the body of the late King George of Saxony on board an Elbe steamer at Pillnitz last night. Darkness was closing when the casket, preceded by a procession of court officials and the most trusted of the palace servants, bearing torches, was carried between lines of military to a baldachin on the deck of the steamer.

The new king and the highest dignitaries of the state witnessed the transfer from the balcony of the palace. The vessel moved away with the current. Its arrival here was greeted with the booming of cannon and the tolling of all the bells in the city. The casket was received at the landing stage by military and civil dignitaries and deputations from all parts of the country, who formed in procession and escorted it to the Catholic church.

Davis on Tour In West Virginia.

HINTON, W. Va., Oct. 18.—Eight speeches is the record of the Democratic candidate Henry G. Davis in a day. The principal meetings were at Charleston, where the special train remained four hours; at Hinton and at Ronceverte, the latter place being reached shortly after 9 o'clock. The speechmaking devolved upon Mr. Davis, Senator Daniel, John P. McGraw, national committeeman for the state, and Wood Daly. Mr. Daly, however, took a detour to speak at Lewisburg, rejoining the party at Ronceverte.

A New Variable Star.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 18.—A new variable star of the Algol type has been discovered by Miss Leavitt of the Harvard observatory in the region of Sagi Marius. The elements of its variability were noted on photographic plates. The significance of the discovery is said to lie in the relative rarity of Algol variables.

Aged Couple Asphyxiated.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 18.—William F. Fette, aged eighty, one of the pioneers of Milwaukee, was found dead from asphyxiation, and his wife was found unconscious in their home. Mrs. Fette is not expected to recover. The gas was found turned on, but whether by accident or with suicidal intent is not known.

Fairport Man Dropped Dead.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 18.—George B. Brown, one of the most prominent citizens of Fairport, dropped dead here while trying on a suit of clothes in a Rochester store. He was sixty-nine years old.

LEOPOLD'S REPLY.

Kowalsky Accuses Interested Britishers of Kongo Trouble.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—At the request of the king of Belgium Colonel Henry I. Kowalsky of the San Francisco bar and a personal friend of King Leopold called at the White House by appointment and presented the reply of the federation for the defense of Belgian interests abroad to attacks made on the government of the Kongo Free State. Colonel Kowalsky presented to the president an autograph picture of King Leopold framed in silver. In the course of an extended audience with the president Colonel Kowalsky said:

"Interested Britishers are endeavoring under the guise of benefactors of the Kongo natives to open the question of sovereignty over those regions by calling a conference of the powers, at which, it is hoped by the Britishers, England may establish the contention that Belgium is impotent to maintain an effective government in the Kongo."

DOLLY SPANKER AT JAMAICA.

Pierrepont Handicap the Feature of Metropolitan Opening Day.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Dolly Spanker, backed from 5 to 2 to 3 to 2, easily won the Pierrepont handicap, the feature of the opening of the fall meeting of the Metropolitan Jockey club, at Jamaica. Dolly Spanker broke the track record for one mile and a furlong by going the distance in 1:53 2-5, which is two-fifths of a second faster than Hunter Raine made last fall. Mineola and Sonoma Belle were the pacemakers to the stretch, where they tired, and Dolly Spanker took the lead, winning easily by two and a half lengths. Ormonde's Right was second and McChesney third.

E. R. Thomas has decided to sell some of his horses, retaining Hermis, Reliable and Stalwart. He is negotiating for a breeding farm.

Bowker Is Bantam Champion.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Before the National Sporting club last night Joe Bowker of England beat Frankie Neil of San Francisco on points in a twenty round contest for the bantam championship of the world and $2,500. The Englishman was a slight favorite at 11 to 10, but Neil was well supported by many influential Americans. The early rounds were rather in the American's favor, and in the ninth round he almost had Bowker beaten. From that time forward Bowker greatly improved and administered a lot of punishment, which Neil sustained in plucky fashion.

Racing at Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 18.—Favorites were beaten in five of the six events at Elm Ridge, Rough and Tumble in the fifth race being the only favorite that won. Two of the winners, Blue Grass Girl and Arby Van, were at long odds in the betting. The two-year-old handicap, the feature of the day, was won by Devout, which closed resolutely through the stretch and beat Tom Shelley a head. Tyrolean was third.

Edith May at Delmar.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 18.—Noweta showed such a remarkable reversal of form in the fifth race at Delmar park that Judge Murphy will not accept her entry again. Edith May was the only winning favorite. Favorites in five races finished outside the money.

Miss Crawford at Worth.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Miss Crawford, at 7 to 2, won the third and feature event at Worth. Two long shots, Gloriosa, at 25 to 1, and Idle, at 40 to 1, had an exciting struggle for second place. They finished in the order named behind Miss Crawford.

New England Newspaper Men Won.

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—The second annual match between the Newspaper Golf association of New England and New York was played on the links of the Wollaston Golf club here and won by the New England players by a score of 4 to 2.

"Yankee" Rogers Defeated Maupus.

BUFFALO, Oct. 18.—Charles ("Yankee") Rogers last night defeated Maupus, the French wrestler, in two straight falls. Rogers won the first fall, catch-as-catch-can, and the second at Graeco-Roman style.

Kiteflying Contest a Failure.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 18.—The unfavorable wind and the fact that one of the contestants fouled nearly every other kite flown in his efforts to get a favorable position led to the failure of the contest, which was declared off for the day. Fourteen kitefliers participated in the contest, and two of the competitors kept their kites in the air for the required two hours.

F. W. Whitney Resigns.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Francis H. Whitney has tendered his resignation as private secretary to the postmaster general, to take effect on the appointment of a successor. He had been with the late Postmaster General Payne about ten years. He will return to Milwaukee later to take up private business.

Hawkins Held For Manslaughter.

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—Percy C. Hawkins, foreman of the Eastman Express company of Melrose, was arrested here on a warrant charging manslaughter in connection with the recent electric car explosion in Melrose, which resulted in many fatalities. Hawkins was taken to Melrose.

Martin Female College Burned.

PULASKI, Tenn., Oct. 18.—Fire has destroyed Martin Female college, entailing a loss of $40,000. The occupants all escaped without accident.

NO REASON FOR IT.

When Plainfield Citizens Show the Way.

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the tortures of an aching back, the dangers of diabetes or any kidney ills when relief is so near at hand and the most positive proof given that they can be cured. Read what a Plainfield citizen says:

Mrs. I. L. Holmes, of 443 West Second street, says: "I used several boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills for backache and derived more benefit from them than anything else. Before I tried this remedy I was bothered almost constantly with a severe pain across the small of my back, so bad at times that I thought I must give up. If I sat down and got up or was lying down and attempted to rise quickly or retained one position for any length of time, sharp acute pain always followed. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for such troubles and went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. They helped me from the first and I improved right along as I continued their use."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

WORK OF FIREBUGS

New York Tenement Burned. Six Perished.

LITTLE CHILDREN DIE IN FLAMES.

Structure Burned Like Tinder and Was Caused by Incendiary Whose Motive Was Thought to Be Robbery.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Five children and a woman perished in an incendiary fire in a tenement at 15 and 17 North Moore street, Williamsburg. Seven other children were seriously injured. The building was occupied by 125 persons and was a big five story structure.

Mrs. Bella Glass and one of her three children were burned to death at a window at which they were screaming for help. The other two were seriously hurt.

Six children of the Wartelisky family, on the fourth floor, were caught in the flames. Three of them lost their lives, and the others were severely injured.

Two children of the Rubinowitz family were also caught on the fourth floor and badly burned.

The flames started on the top floor, and it was there that most of the dead were found. The fire burned its way rapidly downward, and the third and fourth floors were soon afire and the escape of the occupants of the three upper stories cut off.

There seems to be little doubt that a firebug started the blaze. The structure was little better than a tinder box, and the incendiary, whose motive is suspected to have been burglary during the confusion, could not but have been convinced that lives would have been lost before the flames could be extinguished.

Earlier in the night there had been two fires in the neighborhood, also apparently of incendiary origin. The first was in the basement of 59 Grand street and was soon extinguished, but not until a fire panic had driven the occupants to the street. There was a second fire at 102 Grand street, originating at the bottom of an air shaft, like the first. It was soon put out. The firemen were not back in quarters before the North Moore street fire broke out.

The families on the top floor had slight chance to escape. The halls were filled with smoke, and when awakened the tenants had to retreat into their rooms to prevent suffocation. Some could reach fire escapes only by passing through the halls, and they were smothered to death before reaching the escapes. The walls of the building were rickety, and the fire escapes sagged under the weight of the people who crowded upon them.

Firemen and policemen tried to force their way to the upper floors of the building, but their efforts were of little avail. By scaling ladders and life ropes they rescued dozens of people from windows.

Shot Wife and Police Officer.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Oct. 18.—Crazed, the police say, by drink, Harry Bowles, a town laborer, last night shot and fatally wounded his wife at their home at 105 Boylston street and a few moments later killed Patrolman Joseph MacMurray, who attempted his arrest. Mrs. Bowles lived but a few moments after the shooting. The policeman expired almost immediately after receiving a bullet wound below the heart. After shooting his wife Bowles barricaded the doors and windows of his home, and the policeman had broken in a panel of the front door when he was killed. Later a squad of officers forced an entrance into the house and after a struggle secured the murderer, who had hidden under a bed.

Fairbanks and Higgins at Troy.

TROY, N. Y., Oct. 18.—Troy Republicans gave United States Senator Charles W. Fairbanks, the Republican candidate for vice president, and Lieutenant Governor Frank W. Higgins, the candidate for governor of this state, a rousing welcome here last night. Harmony hall, where the meeting was held, was built to hold 400 people, but it was packed beyond the danger point with a most enthusiastic crowd, of which probably one-half were women. Former Governor Frank S. Black of Troy presided.

Spanish Cabinet Resigned.

LISBON, Oct. 18.—The Spanish cabinet has resigned. It is said King Charles declined to adjourn parliament at the request of Premier Ribeiro, who requested that such action be taken in order that the government might consider plans for a punitive expedition against the Cuanhamas and other matters of moment. When his majesty refused Premier Ribeiro notified him of the collective resignation of the cabinet.

"Parsifal" In English at Boston.

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—Wagner's sacred festival play, "Parsifal," was rendered in English at the Tremont theater last night for the first time on any stage, under the auspices of Mr. Henry W. Savage, in the presence of an audience which taxed the capacity of one of Boston's largest theaters, and its enthusiasm indicated that the performance was regarded as an event of the musical season.

Land Dispute Caused Tragedy.

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 18.—A horrible triple tragedy is reported from Calooga, Webster county. Mrs. Dixie Beard and her young baby were shot and instantly killed by Jim Stallings, who in turn was shot down by Beard. The tragedy occurred while Beard and his wife were passing the home of Stallings. The trouble grew out of a dispute over some land.

The surest cure for the drinking habit is wood alcohol.

Everytime one hears a grind organ he wishes somebody would steal Bedelia.

William Jennings Bryan is "wasting his fragrance" on Indiana. No need for Cortleyou to worry over the Hoosier vote.

Democrats are enjoying themselves nowadays taking trips up the Hudson. The Republicans declare after Nov. 8 another river may be more popular with them.

James E. Martine declares that he will bank his reputation that he will win. As his political reputation consists of several consecutive defeats, it does not appear that the farmer-orator is as optimistic as usual.

Inadvertently an editorial eulogistic of Mr. Martine was credited to the Rahway Advocate when reproduced in The Daily Press. The Rahway Advocate is not guilty, another paper having committed the crime.

The solicitor of free advertising is always sure that the proprietor would be "glad of something to help fill up the paper." He is just as glad as the groceryman is glad of some one to help carry off his stock without payment. Time and again under the guise of news items matter is presented which is plain advertising and if used at all should be paid for as such.—American Press.

There are nineteen days before the battle of the ballots takes place and the Republicans claim 290 electoral votes out of the total 476. Two hundred and thirty-nine are necessary for a choice and consequently if the Republican figures are reliable Mr. Roosevelt will win easily. But it should be taken in consideration that the Republicans claim Connecticut, Indiana, Nebraska, New Jersey and New York in footing up a total of 290. The States enumerated are the so-called doubtful ones and they aggregate eighty-four votes. The Republicans claim as yet doubtful the following States, all of which are more than likely to go Democratic: Colorado, Delaware, Maryland, Montana, Nevada, Utah, West Virginia, Wyoming. Democratic National Chairman Taggart refuses to give out any figures, declaring it is bad policy "to expose your hand." He expresses himself as sanguine and declares that the signs of victory for Judge Parker are becoming clearer every day.

IN THE CHRISTIAN FIELD

WORK IN THE CHURCHES OF THE CITY AND BOROUGH.

The Presbyterian Synod of New Jersey will meet today and Wednesday at Atlantic City.

An entertainment will be given in the parish house of the Church of the Heavenly Rest on Thursday night.

Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis has returned to his duties as editor of the Sabbath Recorder, after his annual vacation spent in Westerly, R. I.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Men's Club, of the First Presbyterian church, will be held in the chapel on Thursday night.

The pastor, Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, will lead the Young People's Association meeting at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Friday night.

The Boys' Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will meet Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The subject will be "The Story of a Japanese Boy."

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will hold its meeting for sewing from 2 to 5 o'clock in the church parlors Friday afternoon.

Miss Elsie Burke, of Netherwood, has returned from a visit with friends in Worcester, Mass.

William Remsen, formerly of this city, but now of Brooklyn, has returned home after a visit here with relatives and friends.

BASKET BALL'S REIGN

Two Scholastic Leagues Under Auspices of Y. M. C. A.

INDEPENDENT FIVES

Plenty of Candidates for Association's Teams—The Schedules Arranged.

Without question the leading game in this vicinity during the fall and winter, and even up to the middle of spring, will be basket ball. Its growth so far in the season has been very extensive till now no less than ten teams, representative of the schools, Hope chapel and the Y. M. C. A., are on the floor. Of these ten the majority will figure in connection with the Y. M. C. A., which will be the center of basket ball attraction this year, as usual.

The two scholastic leagues, senior and junior, which will be conducted under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. are prepared for their opening games. The senior league, including the Plainfield High School, North Plainfield High School, and Leal's, will begin their season December 7. In the junior league are the second teams from the city and borough High School, and Leal's, in addition to Whittier School five. Their schedule has not yet been made out.

Outside of the scholastic teams, the basket ball interest is at the highest pitch. The Hope chapel boys have been playing for several weeks, and up to the present time have not lost a game. The Y. M. C. A. candidates met last evening, and the plans for the season were discussed. Walter Caboone will manage the team. Practice was held also for the Business Men's team last evening, which will be captained by Arthur L. Spicer. The management of the aggregation is in the hands of Dr. Browning.

Among the candidates for these two Y. M. C. A. teams are the following: Men's class—Caboone, Hand, Scull, Smith, Neal, Heinecke, Bentliff and Collier; Business men—Spicer, Clark, Doane, Letson and Wittford.

In the scholastic teams, the following at the present time are the representatives of the various schools: P. H. S.—Thompson, captain; Collier, Freeman, Gavett and Doane; N. P. H. S.—Mundy, captain; Steiner, Webster, Hand and Mueck; Whittier School—Martin, captain; Alpaugh, Woodhull, Fountain and Loughlin; Leals—Chapman, captain; Manning, Dalias, Millar, Strong and Lyman. The players on the second teams are not yet all known.

The dates for the various Wednesdays, which will be given up for the interscholastic games have been assigned to the following schools: League dates—December 7, N. P. H. S. vs. P. H. S.; December 14, Leals vs. P. H. S.; December 21, N. P. H. S. vs. Leals; January 11, N. P. H. S. vs. P. H. S.; January 18, P. H. S. vs. Leals; January 25, Leals vs. N. P. H. S.; February 8, open in case of tie. The following dates are open and are to be filled with outside teams by the following schools: October 26, P. H. S.; November 2, Leals; November 9, N. P. H. S.; November 16, P. H. S.; November 30, Leals; January 4, N. P. H. S.; February 1, P. H. S.; February 15, Leals; February 22, N. P. H. S.; March 1, P. H. S.; March 8, Leals; March 15, N. P. H. S.

Throughout the entire season, Monday evenings at the Y. M. C. A. will be reserved for match games, and the dates will be alternated between the mens' evening class and the business mens' teams.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Attention is called to the advertisement of the Y. M. C. A. Star Course.

—The New Jersey Central is about completing its extensive improvements about the Grant Avenue station.

—Phil. McGuire, who has charge of the main line of the Public Service Corporation, between Elisabeth and Dunellen, was in Plainfield yesterday looking after the company's business.

PERSONAL.

Samuel Apgar, of West Front street, has returned from a stay with friends at Bloomsburg, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gorton, formerly of this city, but now of West Newton, Mass., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rogers, of Central avenue.

Women Discusses Reform's Dawn.

"The Dawn of Reform, 1750-1800," was the subject of a highly interesting paper presented at the regular meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club, yesterday, by Mrs. Isaac L. Miller. There was a large attendance and more than ordinary interest was shown in the reading of this paper. The next meeting of the club will be on Tuesday night, October 25, when Ernest R. vonNardroff, Ph. D., of Erasmus Hall, High School, Brooklyn, will give a public lecture.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The Republican banner will be raised on the corner of North and Washington avenues. On the top of the banner is President Roosevelt's name, below that Fairbanks' name, below this Stokes', and below that the names of the three Assemblymen.

The Alonzo Hatch Electro-Photo-Musical Company will give an entertainment in the Methodist Episcopal church this evening. The company gave an entertainment in town last year and proved to be an interesting affair.

A large number of Republican posters, buttons, leaflets, and pictures of Roosevelt, Fairbanks and Stokes were received by the Republican Club yesterday and were taken to the headquarters for distribution last evening.

A meeting of the State officers of the Daughters of Liberty was held in Apgar's Hall last evening. Refreshments were served after the meeting.

A special meeting of the Democratic Club was held in their headquarters last evening and some special business was transacted.

Miss Iva Dayton, of New Market, has been spending a few days with Miss Ethel Garretson, of North avenue.

A party of young people from here will spend Thursday evening at the Brokaw farm in Greenbrook.

Mrs. G. W. Vail left this morning for Newark, where she will spend a few days with relatives.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The baseball season through this section practically closed Saturday with the game between the P. A. C. team and the New York National League team. The fans have been enabled to see some very good games between the fastest teams in the semi-professional ranks, but they still missed the home team when it came to genuine rooting.

The attendance at the Industrial School is very encouraging. The work accomplished by the children is most creditable considering only one session of the school is held each week.

The work of putting in the furnishings of the new school is about completed and it is expected that the school will be ready to open on Monday of next week.

Chestnuts, which have been very plentiful this year, are nearly all gone, the trees through this section having been pretty well beaten by the small boy.

John Thys, who has been visiting his brother, Joseph Thys, of Terrell road, has returned to his home in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Broadwell and family, of Newark, spent Sunday with Mrs. Augusta Miller, of Front street.

James B. Medhurst, of the borough, has been entertaining his son from New York over Sunday.

Thomas Farrell, of Garwood, has been visiting with friends in town over Sunday.

Miss Emma Wolfe, of East Second street, has been visiting Mrs. Edward L. Hand.

HOT SODA FOR COOL DAYS.

Our Hot Soda is so inviting to the taste—it's made from the purest ingredients and served at the largest, finest and most sanitary fountain in the state.

The surroundings are pleasant—our clerks always polite, courteous.

With each order, you're served with a dish of saltine wafers—which go so nicely with the soda.

All at 5c a cup.

CONGRESSIONAL NOMINEE'S CHANCES FOR SUCCESS

POSSIBILITY OF MARTINE WINNING DEPENDS ON MORRIS COUNTY.

The New York Sunday World in its last issue has the following to say regarding the Congressional situation:

"His personal popularity and the enmity of friends of United States Senator Kean toward his opponent are counted upon to land James E. Martine, of Plainfield, in the Lower House of Congress. Mr. Martine is known throughout the length and breadth of New Jersey as the 'farmer-orator,' and he is waging an untiring campaign against Charles N. Fowler, of Elizabeth, who has represented the Fifth district for many years.

"Though Mr. Fowler is chairman of the Banking Committee of the House, it is alleged he failed to attend many sessions of the last Congress. In addition to this, his friends brought about the defeat of the regular Republican ticket in Union County last fall, sending Democrats to the State Legislature for the first time in many years.

"Fowler's friends bolted the ticket named by the Kean faction, and although claims are made that the two elements have been harmonized, friends of the Senator have openly declared they will work and vote for Martine.

"The Fifth district is composed of Union, Morris and Warren Counties. Warren is expected to give a Democratic majority of at least 1,800. In Union the Republicans claim they will have from 1,400 to 1,600 majority, but the Democrats declare Mr. Fowler will not receive more than 1,000 majority at the most. Morris County is the pivot. Two years ago, when DeWitt C. Flanagan, who was considered particularly weak, was running, Fowler got 1,022 majority in Morris, but at that time there was no split between the Kean and Fowler wings."

TAXPAYERS RECEIVING THEIR YEARLY BILLS NOW

COLLECTOR SMITH AND TWO ASSISTANTS AT WORK.

Tax Collector Frank H. Smith has been busy during the past few days getting the annual tax bills into the hands of taxpayers. In all 14,000 bills are printed and a majority of these will be used. Assisting Mr. Smith in the office is Miss Ada Dunham, who aids in making out the bills, while the collector addresses the envelopes. A sufficiently large number of bills having been prepared by Saturday, David Pope started his work of delivering them. All bills for residents of the city are delivered in person. If sent by mail it would cost the city about $200 for postage. The bills can be delivered for much less by the old method and the city is saved that expense, although it requires more time to do it.

Mr. Smith has separated his bills according to streets and avenues in which the taxpayers live. In this way lots of trouble is avoided in assorting the bills, no small task in itself. Mr. Smith hopes to have all the bills out in a few days.

Scarcely had some of the bills reached taxpayers than some of them began to call on the collector. One man inquired yesterday about his bill, he having noticed that the assessor had raised his valuation a trifle. When he was informed that the bill was according to the assessment, he said that he would be willing to sell the property for the amount of the tax imposed. It is realized by the Board of Assessors that assessments cannot be made to suit everyone, and while every effort is made to levy the assessmen as equal as possible, there is always more or less kicking. Judging by the fact that complaints are already coming in, there are indications that by the time the Commissioners of Appeal meet, that body will have plenty to do in adjusting disputes in a satisfactory manner.

Rev. G. M. Shott spent Monday with friends in New York.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A committee of the Township Board of Education recently visited Helenetta to look over the new schoolhouse at that place, with a view to the plan of a new building for New Market.

Peter Lott, of Oak Tree, was run into by an automobile and his carriage was broken, a day or two ago.

George Steenograff made a business trip to Trenton yesterday.

P. F. Kain and family visited in Elizabeth yesterday.

—Charles McCann, who is employed by the Inter-State Telephone Company, at Mt. Holly, spent Saturday and Sunday at his home in this city.

SEEN AND HEARD IN PLAINFIELD'S INDUSTRIAL PLANTS.

Aleck Campbell and Joseph McCormack, of the West End, have taken positions at the Manganese safe plant.

Bert Simpson, of the borough, has taken a position with the Plainfield Auto Garage in the machine department.

The Scott Press Works bowling team is arranging a schedule with several local organizations. A return game is to be played with the Y. M. C. A. this week.

The Manganese Steel Safe Company has shipped a fifty-five ton vault to Braddock, Pa., and has received orders for two more to go to Germantown, Pa., and Boston.

Albert Tompson, of the Manganese Steel Safe Company's road department, is on a business trip to Albany and Batavia, N. Y. He will also visit Maryland before returning.

While at work about his machine in the Scott Press Works yesterday, Howard Lievers, of South avenue, had one of his fingers crushed. It was dressed by Dr. Clawson but it will be several weeks before he can resume his position.

Although its new plant opposite the Singer works has been in operation for a year, the Central Railroad Company keeps a large gang at the old shops. At the present time there are 135 men employed there, among them being several Plainfielders.

After a discussion lasting several weeks, the employing printers of Elizabeth and Elizabeth Typographical Union No. 150 have come to an agreement. Nine hours had heretofore prevailed, with the minimum wage scale $17 per week. Under the new agreement, which covers three years' time, the wages will be $17.50, and the working day eight hours from January 1 next until 1906. Practically all of the local employing printers signed the new agreement Saturday.

HAPPENINGS OF THE LOCAL FRATERNAL ORDERS.

There will be initiation at the meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., on Thursday night.

Plainfield Lodge, Fraternal Order of Eagles, will hold its first regular meeting tonight. It is requested that all members attend as business of importance is to be transacted.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, is meeting with excellent success in securing new members. It is the desire of the Council to have a membership of 800 by January first, and every member is working earnestly to that end.

At the recent meeting of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, resolutions were adopted expressing the members' appreciation for the excellent menu and service given by Mrs. J. R. Truell at the recent banquet of the Council at Truell Inn.

LITERARY.

The leading chapters of the Architectural Record Magazine for October are devoted to descriptions and illustrations of the various rooms in a modern American house. The October number is, therefore, called "The Household Number." The general subject is treated under the head of "American Residences of Today," and, first, the dwellings of the Middle West are considered, and a very appreciative and competent chapter is assigned to them. Next, the hall and stairs are discussed. The growth and development of the hall in an American house has been a curious thing. Previous to 1860 it was in nearly every case an entry merely, but it has since become in many cases a recognized sitting-room. Illustrations of some beautiful halls are given, examples being taken from the houses of Clarence W. Bowen at New York, Henry H. Rogers at Fairhaven, Mass., Clarence Mackay at Roslyn, L. I., A. F. Holden at Cleveland, O., and others.

AS OUTCOME OF SLOCUM HORROR.

Robert S. Rodie, James A. Dumont and T. H. Barrett Charged With Inefficiency and Neglect of Duty.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—President Roosevelt has removed from office Robert S. Rodie, supervising inspector of the steamboat inspection service, Second district, located at New York. This action was taken on account of the disclosures in the report of the national commission appointed to investigate the General Slocum disaster.

In accordance with the president's directions and in consonance with the recommendations with the Slocum commission Secretary Metcalf of the department of commerce and labor has taken preliminary steps toward the removal of James A. Dumont, inspector of hulls, and Thomas H. Barrett, inspector of boilers, both of the port of New York. Statements of charges against them have been forwarded to them. The charges are based on the findings of the commission which investigated the disaster to the General Slocum.

They are charged with neglect of duty, incompetency and inefficiency. They will be required under the civil service regulations to make answer to the charges within a "reasonable time," the precise time being left to the discretion of Secretary Metcalf. It is expected that the answers of both Dumont and Barrett will be received by Secretary Metcalf this week.

It was not known to President Roosevelt that Supervising Inspector Rodie was the holder of a presidential office. It was supposed by the president when he wrote his letter to Secretary Metcalf on the Slocum report that Rodie was an appointee of the secretary of commerce and labor. For that reason he directed the secretary in that letter to take steps for the removal of Rodie, Dumont and Barrett. As soon as he learned that Rodie held a presidential office he gave directions that removal papers be sent to him at once from the department of commerce and labor.

He signed them, and Mr. Rodie will be notified by the department that he has been removed.

Further carrying into effect the recommendations of the Slocum commission, Secretary Metcalf has called a meeting of the steamboat inspectors of the country, to be held in Washington on the 25th inst., when the needs of the service will be considered thoroughly, and, in accordance with the president's directions, such changes will be made in the regulations in the service as are recommended by the Slocum commission.

Kaiser's Gift to America.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The bronze statue of Frederick the Great, presented to the United States government by the present emperor of Germany, has arrived in this city and has been placed in the grounds of the Army War college on the Washington barracks reservation pending its dedication with imposing military honors. The statue has been wrapped in heavy canvas to protect it from public view until it is formally unveiled next month. The unveiling exercises are to take place on Nov. 19.

Divorce Amendment Passed.

BOSTON, Oct. 18. — The house of bishops, one of the legislative bodies of the Episcopal general convention, adopted an amendment to the canon on marriage and divorce, forbidding the remarriage of any divorced person. The amendment was substantially the same as that which was rejected by the house of deputies on Friday last. The action of the bishops was not unexpected, as the sentiment of that body was well known.

Eleven Schooners Ashore.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 18.—The gale of Saturday and Sunday created havoc along the Newfoundland coast. Eleven schooners so far have been reported ashore, and much fishing property along the seaboard has also been destroyed. Anxiety is felt for the steamer Virginia Lake of the Labrador Mail line, which is several days overdue. She has on board several hundred men returning home, the fishery season being over.

Dynamited County Safe.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Burglars forced an entrance to the courthouse in Wheaton, a suburb of Chicago, and dynamited the vault in the county clerk's office. They escaped with a quantity of jewelry deposited there and hundreds of valuable court records. The records contain the evidence in murder cases and other important suits besides the written evidence of real estate and property transfers.

Burgoyne's Surrender Celebrated.

SCHUYLERVILLE, N. Y., Oct. 18.—The one hundred and twenty-seventh anniversary of Sir John Burgoyne's surrender to General Horatio Gates was observed here by the dedication of the civil war veterans' monument in the shadow of the lofty Saratoga battle monument. Schuylerville held a gala day.

Ex-Governor Cornell's Funeral.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 18.—The funeral services of former Governor Alonzo B. Cornell will be held in Sage chapel of Cornell university this afternoon. Dr. Charles Mellen Tyler of the faculty will officiate, and all university exercises will be suspended.

NATURALIZATION FRAUDS.

Five Years' Sentences For Barrett, Dolan and Garrett.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 18.—Thomas E. Barrett, former marshal of the St. Louis court of appeals; John P. Dolan, former chairman of the Democratic city central committee, and Policeman Frank Garrett have had their sentences reaffirmed by the United States circuit court of appeals at St. Paul. They were convicted of aiding and abetting fraudulent naturalization. The United States court, in which they were convicted, sentenced each to five years' imprisonment in the Missouri penitentiary.

During the course of an investigation the federal authorities learned that aliens coming to St. Louis and not entitled to citizenship had been naturalized by the wholesale, that not only did the applicants often fail to appear at court, but that they were handed the necessary papers at their homes.

A number of arrests followed these disclosures, and among those caught were Nathan Levin, president of the Hebrew Jefferson club, and John Barbaglia.

Levin is now serving a five years' sentence in the Missouri penitentiary. Barbaglia received a similar sentence, but after he had been confined in the penitentiary about three months he decided to turn state's evidence and reveal the identity of the "men higher up," who had prompted him to dispose of bogus naturalization papers to aliens for the purpose of enlisting them as voters. Later he was pardoned by President Roosevelt.

It developed at the trial of Barrett, Garett and Dolan that hundreds of naturalization papers had been distributed.

GEISHA GIRLS WANT TO STAY.

Seventeen Young Japanese Artists Protest Deportation.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 18.—A hearing which is to determine, subject to possible revision at Washington, whether the seventeen geisha girls who are now held prisoners here shall be permitted to remain in this country or shall be returned to Japan has begun at the office of James R. Dunn, inspector of immigration.

It is expected that the hearing will consume two or three days, as it is the purpose to give all the girls an opportunity to tell why they desire to remain in America and to give the Japanese commissioners to the world's fair time to urge their reasons for insisting upon the return of the girls to Japan.

The girls have been employed at a concession on the Pike at the world's fair. Their services not being longer required, it is proposed to send them back to their homes, but they do not want to go back and are making a fight, with the assistance of attorneys whom they have retained, to be permitted to stay here.

The contention of the girls is that they have been admitted legally to the country, that they are high class artists and that to compel them to return to Japan when they would rather remain in America and follow their profession would be an encroachment on their rights.

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.
BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.
LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW
BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.
LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT
BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.
BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

Making Friends

Its Pleasures as Well as Its Dangers

"SOME girls might be dropped into the middle of Siberia," remarked the wise woman, "and I'm blessed if they wouldn't manage to have a circle of friends within a week."

"Allowing for the exaggeration, I've known girls like that," remarked the bachelor. "On the other hand, I've seen plenty of frigid damsels who might stay a year in a hotel full of people and never know a soul. Not that any one cared to know them, for the matter of that, but I don't see why women make life barren for themselves by erecting imaginary fences all the time. Now, with men it is generally conceded that they know how to enjoy life. Well, you don't see a man moping by himself just because he's afraid of breaking rule 1013 of the Amalgamated Feline Protective union."

"That's all very well," here put in the wise woman. "I believe in broadening the horizon, in bowing and smiling and making acquaintances everywhere. Didn't I read a paper at my club called 'The Welcome Hand?' But, my goodness, since then I have seen an example that shows things can be carried too far. Perhaps you have met Marie Canton? Well, she and her husband live in the Boulevard, that big apartment hotel on the west side, you know. Nearly everybody lives there that has the price, and those that love variety can meet all kinds there. Marie beams on all alike—the godly and the ungodly—and if any one wants to hook arms with her, so to speak, why, Marie will still beam in that sweet childish way. It's all very well for Marie, because her husband's social position is such that it will stand the strain, and it doesn't hurt Marie herself, because all her friends simply think she's a sweet, undiscriminating child, but it's awfully hard on Marie's friends. You never know whom she is going to introduce you to.

"For instance, the other day she and Mrs. Hamilton drove up to the casino in the park, and who should greet them cheerfully but two undersized, very seedy looking men of swarthy foreign appearance. 'They live in the Boulevard,' whispered Marie in explanation as she bowed back and actually introduced them to the horrified Mrs. Hamilton. The inevitable happened, of course. The men quartered themselves at the same table, and some friends of Mrs. Hamilton at a table near by had the pleasure of beholding a very mixed foursome composed of two stunning women and two men that looked more like adventurers than anything else. When Mrs. Hamilton finally broke away she was so angry she wouldn't speak to Marie, and when the fastidious Mr. Hamilton heard of it there was almost a divorce."

"Ha, ha, ha, ha!"

"Well, I'm glad you can find it so funny, but here is a story that may not amuse you so much, because your sister was the victim. She was the guest at a lunch given to her at the West Side Yacht club. Suddenly both she and her husband saw Marie Canton in the distance. 'Oh, let's ask Marie over. She is such fun!' your sister said. 'Better find out who she is with,' put in her husband, laughing. When Marie came over, sure enough, she brought with her a loud looking woman of the pronounced strawberry blond type. The young man who gave the lunch nearly fainted. Your sister was privileged to walk in the street a few times with the charming blond and Marie. Finally she remonstrated. 'Oh, she's a perfectly nice woman,' explained Marie, 'lives at the Boulevard and drives a pair of horses in the park every day.'

"It turned out in a month or so, when the 'perfectly nice woman' was out out of the Boulevard, that she was the divorced wife of 'Spot' Cole, gambler and also interested 'on the side' in a livery stable, which latter respectable part of his calling accounted for the swell turnout. Whenever the lady meets your sister she insists on bowing, and as she is pretty well known the ordeal is a trifle embarrassing. You see, there are limitations to [illegible] friends."

MAUD ROBINSON.

By EMERSON HOUGH

(Copyright, 1902, by Emerson Hough.)

In these wide levels now and again the channel divided, or lost itself in little cul de sacs, from which the paddlers were obliged to retrace their way. All about them rose myriads of birds and wild fowl, which made their nests among these marshes, and the babbling chatter of the rail, the high-keyed calling of the coot, or the clamoring of the home-building mallard assailed their ears hour after hour as they passed on between the leafy shores. Then, again, the channel would sweep to one side of the marsh, and give view to wide vistas of high and rolling lands, dotted with groves of hardwood, with here and there a swamp of cedar or of tamarack. Little herds of elk and droves of deer fed on the grass-covered slopes, as fat, as sleek and fearless of mankind as though they dwelt domesticated in some noble park.

It was a land obviously but little known, even to the most adventurous, and as chance would have it, they met not even a wandering party of the native tribes. Clearly now the little boat was climbing, climbing slowly and gently, yet surely, upward from the level of the great Lake Michiganon. In time the little river broadened and flattened out into wide, shallow expanses, the waters known as the Lakes of the Foxes; and beyond that it became yet more shallow and uncertain, winding among quaking bogs and unknown marshes; yet still, whether by patience, or by cheerfulness, or by determination, the craft stood on and on, and so reached that end of the waterway which, in the opinion of the more experienced Du Mesne, must surely be the place known among the Indian tribes as the "place for the carrying of boats."

Here they paused for a few days, at that mild summit of land which marks the portage between the east bound and the west bound waters; yet, impelled ever by the eager spirit of the adventurer, they made their pause but short. In time they launched their craft on the bright, smooth flood of the river of the Ouisconsins, stained coppery-red by its far-off, unknown course in the north, where it had bathed leagues of the roots of pine and tamarack and cedar. They passed on steadily westward, hour after hour, with the current of this great stream, among little islands covered with timber; passed along bars of white sand and flats of hardwood; beyond forest-covered knolls, in the openings of which one might now and again see great vistas of a scenery now peaceful and now bold, with turreted knolls and sweeping swards of green, as though some noble house of old England were set back secluded within these wide and well-kept grounds. The country now rapidly lost its marshy character, and as they approached the mouth of the great stream, it being now well toward the middle of the summer, they reached, suddenly and without forewarning, that which they long had sought.

The sturdy paddlers were bending to their tasks, each broad back swinging in unison forward and back over the thwart, each brown throat bared to the air, each swart head uncovered to the glare of the midday sun, each narrow-bladed paddle keeping unison with those before and behind, the hand of the paddler never reaching higher than his chin, since each had learned the labor-saving fashion of the Indian canoeman. The day was bright and cheery, the air not too ardent, and across the coppery waters there stretched slants of shadow from the embowering forest trees. They were alone, these travelers; yet for the time at least part of them seemed care-free and quite abandoned to the sheer zest of life. There arose again, after the fashion of the voyageurs, the measure of the paddling song, without which indeed the paddler had not been able to perform his labor at the thwart.

"Dans mon chemin j'ai rencontre—" chanted the leader; and voices behind him responded lustily with the next line:

"Trois cavaliers bien montes—"
"Trois cavaliers bien montes—"

chanted the leader again.

"L'un a cheval et l'autre a pied—" came the response; and then the chorus:

"Lon, lon laridon daine—
Lon, lon laridon dai!"

The great boat began to move ahead steadily and more swiftly, and bend after bend of the river was rounded by the rushing prow. None knew this country, nor wist how far the journey might carry him. None knew as of certainty that he would ever in this way reach the great Messasebe; or even if he thought that such would be the case, did any one know how far that Messasebe still might be. Yet there came a time in the afternoon of that day, even as the chant of the voyageurs still echoed on the wooded bluffs, and even as the great birch-bark ship still responded swiftly to their gaiety, when, on a sudden turn in the arm of the river, there appeared wide before them a scene for which they had not been prepared. There, rippling and rolling under the breeze, as though itself the arm of some great sea, they saw a majestic flood, whose real nature and whose name each man there knew on the instant and instinctively.

"Stop the paddles!" cried Du Mesne. "Voila!"

John Law rose in the bow of the boat and uncovered his head. It was a noble prospect which lay before him. His was the soul of the adventurer, quick to respond to challenge. There was a fluttering in his throat as he stood and gazed out upon this solemn, mysterious and tremendous flood, coming whence, going whither, none might say. He gazed and gazed, and it was long before the shadow crossed his face and before he drew a sigh.

"Madam," said he, at length, turning until he faced Mary Connynge, "this is the west. We have chosen, and we have arrived!"

CHAPTER XXI.

MESSASEBE.

The boat, now lacking its propelling power, drifted on and out into the clear tide of the mighty stream. The paddlers were idle, and silence had fallen upon all. The rush of this majestic flood, steady, mysterious, secret-keeping, created a feeling of awe and wonder. They gazed and gazed again, up the great waterway, across to its farther shore, along its rolling course below, and still each man forgot his paddle, and still the little ship of New France drifted on, just rocking gently in the mimic waves which ruffled the face of the mighty Father of the Waters.

"By our Lady!" cried Du Mesne, at length, and tears stood in his tan-framed eyes as he turned, "'tis true, all that has been said! Here it is, Messasebe, more mighty than any story could have told! Monsieur L'as, 'tis big enough to carry ships."

"'Twill carry fleets of them one day, Du Mesne," replied John Law. "'Tis a roadway fit for a nation. Ah, Du Mesne! our St. Lawrence, our New France—they dwindle when compared to this new land."

"Aye! and 'tis all our own!" cried Du Mesne. "Look; for the last ten days we have scarce seen even the smoke of a wigwam, and, so far as I can tell, there is not in all this valley now the home of a single white man. My friend Du L'hut—he may be far north of the Superior to-day for aught we know, or somewhere among the Sauteur people. If there be a man below us, let some one else tell who that may be. Sir, I promise you, when I see this big water going on so fast and heading so far away from home—well, I admit it causes me to shiver!"

"'Tis much the same," said Law, "where home may be for me."

"Ah, but 'tis different on the lakes," said Du Mesne, "for there we always knew the way back, and knew that 'twas down stream."

"He says well," broke in Mary Connynge. "There is something in this big river that chills me. I am afraid."

"And what say you, Tete Gris, and you, Pierre Noir?" asked Law.

"Why, myself," replied the former, "I am with the captain. It matters not. There must always be one trail from which one does not return."

"Oui," said Pierre Noir. "To be sure, we have passed as good beaver country as heart of man could ask; but never was land so good but there was better just beyond."

"They say well, Du Mesne," spoke John Law, presently; "'tis better on beyond. Suppose we never do return? Did I not say to you that I would leave this other world as far behind me as might be?"

"Eh bien, Monsieur L'as, you reply with spirit, as ever," replied Du Mesne, "and it is not for me to stand in the way. My own fortune and family are also with me, and home is where my fire is lit."

"Very well," replied Law. "Let us run the river to its mouth, if need be. 'Tis one to me. And whether we get back or not, 'tis another tale."

"Oh, I make no doubt we shall win back if need be," replied Du Mesne. "'Tis said the savages know the ways by the Divine river of the Illini to the foot of Michiganon; and that, perhaps, might be our best way back to the lakes and to the mountain with our beaver. We shall, provided we reach the Divine river, as I should guess by the stories I have heard, be then below the Illini, the Ottawas and the Miamis, with I know not what tribes from west of the Messasebe. 'Tis for you to say, Monsieur L'as, but for my own part—end 'tis but a hazzard at best—I would say remain here, or press on to the river of the Illini."

"'Tis easy of decision, then," replied Law, after a moment of reflection. "We take that course which leads us farther on at least. Again the paddles, my friends! To-night we sup in our own kingdom. Strike up the song, Du Mesne!"

A shout of approval broke from the hardy men along the boat side, and even Jean Breboeuf tossed up his cap upon his paddle shaft.

"Forward, then, mes amis!" cried Du Mesne, setting his own paddle-blade deep into the flood. "En roulant ma boule, roulant—"

Again the chorus rose, and again the hardy craft leaped onward into the unexplored.

Day after day following this the journey was resumed, and day after day the travelers with eager eyes witnessed a prospect of continual change. The bluffs, bolder and more gigantic, towered more precipitous than the banks of the gentler streams which they had left behind. Forests ranged down to the shores, and wide, green-decked islands crept into view, and little timbered valleys of lesser streams came marching down to the imposing flood of Messasebe. Again the serrated bluffs broke back and showed vast vistas of green savannas, covered with tall, waving grasses, broken by little rolling hills, over which crossed herds of elk, and buffalo, and deer.

"'Tis a land of plenty," said Du Mesne one day, breaking the habitual silence into which the party had fallen. "'Tis a great land, and a mighty, and now, monsieur, I know why the Indians say 'tis guarded by spirits. Sure, I can myself feel something in the air which makes my shoulder-blades to creep."

"'Tis a mighty land, and full of wonders," assented Law, who, in different fashion, had felt the same mysterious spell of this great stream. For himself, he was nearer to reverence than ever yet he had been in all his wild young life.

Now so it happened that at length, after a long though rapid journey down the great river, they came to that stream which they took to be the river of the Illini. This they ascended, and so finally, early in one evening, at the bank of a wide and placid bayou, shaded by willows and birch trees, and by great elms that bore aloft a canopy of clinging vines, they made a landing for the bivouac which was to prove their final tarrying place. The great canot du Nord came to rest at the foot of a timbered hill, back of which stretched high, rolling prairies, dotted with little groves and broken with wide swales and winding sloughs. The leaders of the party, with Tete Gris and Pierre Noir, ascended the bluffs and made brief exploration; not more, as was tacitly understood, with view to choosing the spot for the evening encampment than with the purpose of selecting a permanent stopping place. Du Mesne at length turned to Law with questioning gaze. John Law struck the earth with his heel.

"Here!" said he. "Here let us stop. 'Tis as well as any place. There are flowers and trees, and meadows and hedges, like to those of England. Here let us stay!"

"Ah, you say well indeed!" cried Du Mesne, "and may fortune send us happy enterprises."

"But then, for the houses," continued Law. "I presume we must keep close to this little stream which flows from the bluff. And yet we must have a place whence we can obtain good view. Then, with stout walls to protect us, we might—but see! What is that beyond? Look! There is, if I mistake not, a house already builded!"

TELLS A SAD STORY.

NEW YORK GIRL WHOSE LIFE WAS A REAL TRAGEDY.

Lived for Days on Food Which She Picked Up in Central Park—Never Begged But Once—Is Sent to Bellevue.

Hattie Barnes, the young woman who was found in Central park, New York, the other night with her skirts inverted to keep warm, has been committed to Bellevue hospital by Magistrate Whitman. The magistrate listened to a pathetic story from the girl of a struggle for existence. At Bellevue, where the girl repeated her story, the doctors decided she was insane, but that much of her story undoubtedly was true.

The girl had gone through terrible suffering and exposure. Her condition verified her story to a considerable extent. Her face was a mass of red blotches which were found to be mosquito bites. Her eyes were sunken and her face was emaciated. Her clothes were torn, and her hair unkempt. Although she said she was 23, she looked at least 35. She ate ravenously of food given her by the matron of the police station. Magistrate Whitman asked her what she had been doing.

"I've been living for two weeks in the park without food and didn't feel hungry. Isn't that funny" said the girl.

When pressed for more of her story the girl talked rationally. She said her home is in Ypsilanti, Mich. She said she had been educated as a typewriter in a business college at Ypsilanti. She came to New York two years ago.

"I went from place to place trying to get work," said she. "I finally got a place and kept that four months. Then they said they would have to get a stenographer in my place. That was in March. I tried opening an apartment in Manhattan avenue and letting furnished rooms. Nobody came and I was put out. Then I rented a small room at 13 West Eighteenth street. I had only a few dollars left. I could not get any work. I pawned all but the clothes I have on now for food.

"Two weeks ago last Tuesday I left my room. I owed four weeks' rent, and I could not face the landlady any longer. I had not a cent then. I walked, and walked, and walked. Finally I wandered into Central park. I found an empty arbor and slept there all night. Next day I wandered around the park. When several picnic parties had left I picked up remnants of their lunches. That was all the food I had. That is what I have been doing ever since. Sometimes I saw a policeman and was on the point of asking for help, but I could not get up sufficient courage.

"Up on the playgrounds in the north end of the park one day, I saw hundreds of children enjoying a picnic. They were eating lunches from boxes. I hid behind a clump of bushes for hours, it seemed, until the children left, then I hurried out, and in the boxes I gathered up scraps of food. There were sandwiches, crumbs of cake, and pieces of mutilated pie. I guess I got four or five shoe boxes filled before the park men came along to clean up the playgrounds.

"These boxes I hid in a bush down below the embankment, where no one was likely to go, and ate my fill of them there. That food lasted me two or three days. Then I foraged again in the same place."

In all this time she never begged, she said, until Wednesday. Then she asked a woman sitting beside her on a bench for five cents. With this she bought bananas. She had one beside her when the policeman found her.

In court the girl said from the time she started to eat one of these bananas until she found herself in the station house her mind was a blank.

Physicians at Bellevue hospital say they have no doubt the girl will regain her mental poise with sufficient food and a good rest. There is nothing to indicate that her story is not true.

SPORTING NEWS.

FOOTBALL.

The Alis football team will meet the Newark eleven on the local team's field Saturday. It will be the first game of the season for the Alis team, and will be viewed with a great deal of interest by local football enthusiasts.

The Plainfield High School football team will have for their opponents Saturday the Cranford High School aggregation. The game will be played in the afternoon at the Cranford School's gridiron. The local players will be put for practice four times this week as they wish to retrive the defeat which they met with at the hands of the Cranford team last year.

Derby, Vorries and Moore, the three Westfield men who were the only players to turn up for the game with the Orange Field Club Saturday, have closed their connection with the former team, and will try for positions on the latter aggregation. Manager Smith has announced that in the future all athletic dealings with the Westfield team will cease, and that the games which have been arranged for the rest of the season with the Westfield eleven will be cancelled. As his reason for this action, Smith says that it was entirely without cause that the Westfield manager did not appear with his team. According to the reports of the three who did show up, the manager was waiting for the arrival of three New York backs, and when they failed to appear, he decided that he had better not meet the local team. He sent no word to this effect, however, and the O. F. C. players were kept waiting till 4:30 o'clock.

DIAMOND DUST

Garvin pitching for the Ridgewoods against the New York Americans, at Ridgewood Park, Sunday, won his game by a score of seven to five. Puttmann pitched for the leaguers.

Dr. Lawrence Doyle, of this city, who played a field position for the Philadelphia Athletics, in their game against the Trenton Y. M. C. A., on Saturday, secured one of the two hits made by his team. Neither side scored a run.

POLITICAL CHAT.

Congressman Charles N. Fowler addressed a Republican mass meeting last night in the German Presbyterian church, Elizabeth.

A Republican mass meeting will be held in Reform Hall, Tuesday, October 25. Hon. John S Gibson, of Newark, Hon. Jos. Barber, of Connecticut and other speakers will be present.

Edward Casper Stokes is confident of his own election, and expresses the belief that Roosevelt will carry New Jersey by at least 35,000. He is said to have admitted his belief that he will not run along with the vote on the National ticket, but expects to be elected Governor by 20,000 majority.

Should Edward Casper Stokes, the Republican candidate for Governor, be elected in November, one of the duties which he will be called upon to perform will be the selection of a man to succeed himself as Clerk in Chancery. Friends of Daniel S. Voorhees, of Morristown, who is the present County Clerk of Morris County, and a member of the Republican State Committee, are urging that in such an event he be appointed.

Monday evening a mass meeting will be held in Jacobs Theatre, Elizabeth, and Joseph Cannon, speaker of the House of Representatives, and State Treasurer Frank O. Briggs will make addresses. Monday evening, October 31, will be Governors' night at Elizabeth. The speakers will be Governor Franklin Murphy, former Governor Foster M. Voorhees and Gubernatorial Candidate Edward C. Stokes. The Friday following Senator Kean will preside at a meting at which Secretary of War William H. Taft and Representative Fowler will be the speakers.

The Union County branch of the State League of Democratic Clubs has arranged to hold mass meetings and rally throughout the county during the next three weeks. Several minor celebrations will take place, and on Thursday, October 27, there will be a big mass meeting in Jacobs' Theatre. Charles C. Black, the Democratic nominee for Governor, will be present and will talk on the Equal Tax issues. As this question is just now uppermost in the minds of the voters, the spacious building will no doubt be thronged. James E. Martine, the Congressional nominee and opponent to Charles N. Fowler, will also be on hand, and stir things up with his fervid elocution. In addition to these two speeches, there will be addresses by several other orators of repute. Previous to the meeting, all the Democratic Clubs, headed by the Elizabeth Democratic Club, will parade, and there will be "a hot time in the old town" that night.

In the election for President four years ago a total vote of 13,961,138 was cast, divided as follows: Republican, 7,217,677; Democrat, 6,357,883; Prohibition, 207,368; People's Party, 50,188; Socialist Democratic, 94,552; Socialist Labor, 33,450. McKinley's plurality was 859,794. The total vote in 1896 was 13,912,972, and McKinley's plurality was 613,753 over Bryan. In 1892 the total vote was 12,070,766, and Cleveland's plurality was 369,533. Weaver, the People's Party candidate, polled 1,055,871 votes. In this election in Louisiana the Republican and People's Party candidates voted each for four of the other party's candidates for electors. The total vote this year will go beyond fourteen millions. Going back to 1868, the first Presidential election after the close of the great Civil War, we find that the total Republican and Democratic vote was 5,724,584, so that the voting strength of the Nation was more than double in 1892, and has increased about four millions since that election.—Newark Advertiser.

MORE NEW TROLLEY CARS

To Replace Old Ones on Three Local Lines.

OF THE IMPROVED TYPE

P. S. C. to Pay More Attention to Somerset, Fourth and Netherwood Routes.

Now that the main line trolley of the Public Service Corporation between Newark, Dunellen and Trenton is in first-class condition and fully equipped with large comfortable cars, it is the purpose of the company to pay some attention to the Fourth and Somerset streets and Netherwood lines. This has been reported before, but an official of the company stated today that within a very short time new cars will take the place of the old worn out cars that have been used for several years. The old cars when taken off these lines will never be returned, as they are only fit for the junk heap.

The new cars are now in Newark and will be shipped to this city soon. They are of the latest improved type, twenty-two feet long. While these cars are not quite as long as those used on the main line, those being thiryt-two feet long, they are well adapted for the service on the lines for which they are intended. They are provided with ample heating facilities and are in every way calculated to give patrons convenience and comfort.

Now that the mechanical force of the company is thoroughly organized, more attention is paid to the rolling stock than heretofore. Every car used on the various lnies is carefully looked after before it is allowed to go into service and little repairs are quickly attended to before they reach a more serious condition.

One decided improvement made during the past few months is that in reference to the service. Cars are now run exceptionally close to schedule time, barring accidents, and it is seldom that the schedule is disarranged. This is especially true of the through line, between Jersey City and Trenton. The patronage given these cars is far more than was anticipated, and the company found it necessary to put on extra cars. Much of the local traffic that used to go to the New Jersey Central is now received by the trolley company, the people finding it more convenient in going between suburban towns, where the cars run more frequent than trains on the steam road.

The Public Service Corporation is constantly aiming to improve its rolling stock and the roadbed. Within a few days the company will begin the work of putting in new rails in Watchung avenue, between North avenue and East Second street, before the work of laying the vitrified brick pavement on the avenue is started. New ties will also replace the old ones.

During the year the company has expended hundreds of dollars on West Front street, near Rock avenue, filling in low spots and using heavy ballast, where heavy rains had previously washed out the road. There is a movement on foot to have a large storm sewer installed at that point which will obviate the usual trouble in heavy storms when the lowlands are flooded, making it impossible for cars to pass. It would be greatly to the advantage of the trolley company to have the sewer installed and it would also be a benefit to the city, preventing the washing out of the road.

Stoned Mr. Randolph's Property.

With Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph as complainant against them, Louis Nestor and William Orner, two small boys, were arraigned in the city court this morning charged with throwing stones. To Mayor Jenkins, who was on the bench, it was declared that they had made a target of a projection on the roof of the former mayor's summer house on East Second street and caused considerable damage to his flower garden. The judge lectured them severely and let them go on suspended sentence.

Good Government Club Rally.

The borough Good Government Club had a rousing meeting last evening. Addresses were made by Mayor Smalley and others and vocal and instrumental selections were given by City Judge William N. Runyon and George O. Stevens. Many new names were added to the roll at the close.

Political Joker.

Some wag of a politician has had cards printed and distributed about the streets which have caused no little amusement. On one side it reads: "If James F. Buckle is elected—" and on the other:

"Pat Kiely will be Mayor."

So far the identity of the joker has remained concealed.

New Factory at Lincoln.

Walter Smith and Edward Apgar, of this city, will open a factory at Lincoln today for the manufacture of a street car fender which the former invented. Thirty hands are to be employed and work will be rushed on an order for 175 of the fenders to go to a railway company in Pennsylvania. Several other big roads are interested in the fender and there is every prospect of a rush of orders as soon as the factory is in full operation.

Belmont Restaurant Sold.

The Belmont restaurant on North avenue, formerly McVey's, which has been conducted lately by Henry Heffman, has been sold to John H. McVey. It has been closed temporarily, but is to be reopened within a short time. It is understood that Mrs. F. A. VanNest is negotiating for the lease.

Held for Trial.

For annoying his wife and causing a disturbance at her home on Madison avenue last night, Mulford W. Casterline was placed under arrest by Patrolmen Saffron and Vanderweg. In the city court this morning he was held in $100 bail by Mayor Jenkins for appearance tomorrow.

ELECTION RETURNS.

Arrangements have been made by The Daily Press to display by stereotipcan views the returns of the election on November 8. The results of the National elections in the pivotal States, including New York, New Jersey, West Virgina and Indiana, as well as the complete returns of the gubernatorial and congressional fights in the various counties and districts in this State will be displayed. Returns from the election in the various parts of Union county and Plainfield and North Plainfield will be shown. J. Hervey Doane and John Neagle will operate the camera, and the returns will be received by telegraph and telephone.

MARTINE TELLS OF TALK WITH PARKER

Congressional Nominee Enthusiastic Over Reception Given Him.

PARKER IS SANGUINE

The Two Exchange Opinions Regarding Outlook—Message to Parker Independent Club of Plainfield.

"As a result of our conference Mr. Parker disabused his mind of any idea that men who voted the straight ticket during the last two campaigns would be disloyal to the party this time and I learned that the Democratic Presidential candidate is a wonderful man," said James E. Martine in an enthusiastic talk over his conference with the Democratic Presidential candidate yesterday. In response to a summons, Mr. Martine, the Democratic congressional candidate in this district, was closeted with Mr. Parker in the latter's apartments at the Hotel Seville in New York yesterday for half an hour.

Mr. Martine said today: "We talked at length over the situation in New Jersey and in fact of other so-called doubtful states. Why do you know Mr. Parker was perfectly familiar with the factional fight in this district and dwelt upon its importance in the present campaign. I assured him that Democracy in New Jersey is united and that I believed we could carry the State by 17,000 majority. I showed him a letter which I had received from Mr. Bryan soon after the Presidential convention in which the Nebraskian said: 'I feel that we have a good candidate and a good platform and that we are going to win. Mr. Parker is a good man.' I told him that I wanted to let him see the letter so that he would know that the party is no longer divided against himself and that factional strife has been forgotten.

"Mr. Parker told me that he was confident that the party would carry New York and felt quite sure of Indiana. Things in Connecticut are looking much better he said and he expressed the opinion that the Nutmeg State would go Democratic. When he asked about Jersey I told him that I had a reputation as an optimist but that our State could be depended upon for Parker and for Black. He displayed wonderful knowledge of conditions in New Jersey and the situations in the various districts. He's a wonderful man; no mistake about it."

Before leaving Mr. Martine told Mr. Parker that he was scheduled to speak in Springfield last night and asked what message he had to convey. "Tell our friends in Springfield that this is a battle for civil Constitutional government and that their standard bearer feels that that ought to appeal to every American citizen." "I carried that message to Springfield last night and the people received it enthusiastically. I assured Mr. Parker that I would meet him again next week."

Mr. Parker also asked Mr. Martine to convey his respects to the Parker Independent Club, of this city.

RYAN RENOMINATED.

Elizabeth Democrats Hold Their Municipal Convention in Turn Hall Last Night.

Mayor P. J. Ryan was renominated for another term at the Democratic City Convention, held in Turn Hall, Elizabeth, last night, and Emil Klee, Thomas J. Pierson, J. McCandless and Fred Schlichter were nominated as Freeholders. Mr. Schlichter was the only new nominee.

Former Judge P. H. Gilhooly, who has not taken an active part in politics for some time, was chairman of the convention, and during the evening enthusiastic speeches were made by prominent Democrats.

The Republican City Convention will be held at Elizabeth tomorrow night in G. A. R. Hall.

Entries for P. H. S. Meet.

All entries for the annual fall field meet of the Plainfiel High School Athletic Association must be in the hands of the president of the association, Howard H. Craig, before 12 o'clock tomorrow. No entries will be received later than that as the meet takes place on Friday afternoon.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS' MEETING

Programme Arranged for State Conference.

THREE DAYS' SESSION

The annual conference of the boys' departments of the Young Men's Christian Association of New Jersey will be held here on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, October 28 to 30. Arrangements for the gathering have been made by a State committee, headed by H. S. Park, of Paterson, while the local committees have provided for the entertainment and comfort of the visitors.

The theme will be "The Christian Soldier," and the papers and addresses will be given on military subjects. The boys will assemble Friday afternoon, October 28, in the Babcock building, where a supper will be served by the women's auxiliary of the local association. Mr. Park will act as toastmaster; Harold S. Robins, of the local association, will deliver the address of welcome and it is expected that Mayor Jenkins will also be present and extend the hospitality of the city to the delegates. Edwin S. Ford, of Morristown, will respond in behalf of the New Jersey boys.

At 7:30 o'clock the delegates will go to the Trinity Reformed church, where the first session of the conference will be held. Martin B. Stutsman, of this city, will preside. The State Boys' orchestra, under the directorship of James Philipson, of Newark, will lead the song service. Addresses will be delivered by Chaplain Leslie R. Groves, of the United States Army, and F. S. Brockman, of Shanghai, China.

Saturday morning, in the association auditorium, J. Wheaton Chambers, of Freehold, will preside. The opening devotional exercises will be conducted by Lieutenant Edward W. Hearne, the State secretary, of New Jersey. Mr. Hearne went to the Philippines from Iowa during the Spanish-American War and later went out as a secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association. Bugle call will be given by Bugler James Fortney, of Fort Hancock. Papers will be read by Randolph S. Merrill, of Paterson; Joseph H. Ake, of Newark, and Frank P. Johnson, of Trenton. Each paper will be followed by a discussion, under the leadership of W. Harold Burger, of Paterson. Forty minutes will be devoted to brief reports on "the best things" in the departments, conducted by O. C. Robinson, of Trenton.

In the afternoon the conference will divide into twelve groups. Five groups for High School students, four for grammar school boys and three for business boys. The local problems of the different departments will be discussed. Elmer F. Walz, of Camden, will be the presiding officer of the afternoon session. Saturday evening the boys will assemble at the Seventh-Day Baptist church, and Edward H. Austin, of Orange, will preside. An address will be delivered by E. T. Colton, the student secretary of the International Committee.

Sunday afternoon the delegates will again meet at the same church, where a preparatory service and conference will be conducted by Charles R. Scott, State Secretary Boys' Work. This will precede the Boys' rally, which will be given in charge of Rev. James A. Francis, of Boston. In the First Presbyterian church Sunday evening all the boys and leaders will meet for the closing meeting, when Charles T. Kilborne, chairman of the State executive committee of New Jersey, will deliver an address.

The first State conference was held in this city, in November, 1891, and on that occasion only forty-five delegates were present.

A "Shower" Social.

On Friday the Ladies' Christian Work Society, of Trinity Reformed church, expect to pack a barrel filled with clothing, canned goods, etc., for a minister's family in the West. Tomorrow night the society will hold a "shower sociable," in the lecture room of the church, asking those who go to the sociable to take something for this minister's barrel. They have prepared a musical programme and will also serve light refreshments.

"Eat 'Em Alive."

"Farmer Orator" James E. Martine is going to make a complete canvass of the Fifth district, and the Republican newspapers which referred to the Democratic Congressional candidate as a blatherskite and a person of no weight will soon wish that they had kept still.—Newark Evening News.

DISCUSSED HAPPINESS

Young Woman Gave Lecture on New Thought Subject.

MISS ANITA TRUEMAN

When Mind and Thought Are in Harmony With Outside World There Is Happiness.

Students of the New Thought to the number of about twenty assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Pray, on West Seventh street, last night, and listened to a lucid explanation of this movement by Miss Anita Trueman, known as "the girl philosopher." That the new movement is rapidly gaining converts is apparent and as one result of last night's meeting it is quite possible that a class will be formed here and regular sessions held.

The supreme desire to know and manifest God was one of the chief thoughts expressed by Miss Trueman. In a general way she described the New Thought movement, explaining that it means the giving up of selfish thoughts and the giving to mankind the best one has. She said that while the physical side of one's self has received abundant attention, little attention has been paid to the spiritual side, and that it is only when the thought and mind is in entire harmony with the outside world that happiness is attained.

Miss Trueman's talk was on the subject of "Happiness," and she told in an interesting manner how such a thing is possible in the lives of all persons. She explained that persons as a rule are so blinded by their physical environments that they are happy only when their own particular desires are gratified. This, she said, seemed to be the limitations of persons in their pursuit for happiness. They think that the much desired satisfaction is something to be sought after, forgetting that it is to be found within their own possibilities, that through the mastery of the physical and the attainment of the spiritual it is possible for them to secure the greatest happiness.

Miss Trueman dwelt at some length on the importance of a person's mind being in perfect harmony with God and of cultivating the divine nature. She spoke of the different classes of people, the superficial, the intellectual and the spiritual and noted certain characteristics in each.

At the conclusion of Miss Trueman's talk, a pleasing violin solo was given by the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Pray, after which there was an open parliament on the subject of the evening. Several of those present questioned Miss Trueman on some particular line of thought. The questions were readily answered in a satisfactory manner.

Mr. Pray expressed the opinion that he had found the Scriptural text "Seek first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all things shall be added unto you," to be absolutely true, adding that only during the past few months he had had a wonderful demonstration of the text.

Several remained after the meeting and had a personal talk with Miss Trueman, taking the opportunity to thank her for her lecture.

Candy That Is Pure.

Physicians all agree that confection made from pure sugar and other ingredients is harmless, and all lovers of this kind will be interested in the announcement that Reynolds & Co. have opened a confectionery store in the Babcock building. The firm advertises to sell pure candy made from good sugar, and as the firm is considered one of the largest in that kind of business, the public is assured of having fresh goods at all times. At present the firm is operating confectionery stores in the following places: Wilmington, Del.; Chester, Pa.; Trenton, N. J.; Reading, Pa.; Elizabeth, N. J.; Norristown, Pa.; Pottstown, Pa.; Easton, Pa.; Bethlehem, Pa.; Allentown, Pa.; Brooklyn, N. Y.; Philadelphia, Pa.

Trolley Building Delayed.

The Public Service Corporation has done nothing of late on the proposed extension of the trolley to Metuchen and it is now almost a foregone conclusion that nothing will be done this winter toward building the line. Many interested persons, including a majority of the property-owners, would live to have the line built, but the company cannot see the wisdom of such action at present. It is possible that something may be done next summer.

A Park Club Governor.

Dr. B. VanDyke Hedges has been elected a governor of the Park Club, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Samuel Townsend.

FATAL FALL FROM TRAIN

Philadelphian Stealing Ride on Fast Freight Met Death.

HIS LEG WAS CUT OFF

Harry Lenahan, Aged Twenty, Died After Being Removed to Hospital.

Injured by falling from a fast freight near Fanwood last night, Harry Lenahan, of Wharton street, Philadelphia, was brought to this city on the New York train due here at 12:59, only to die shortly after arriving at Muhlenberg Hospital. At the time of the fatal accident the unfortunate man was with three companions, James Foy, John Boyd and Joseph Bogan, all of Philadelphia, who left their homes last night to ride to New York on the fast freight, leaving Fairmount Park at 6:10. The young men were warned repeatedly by the conductor to get off the train, being cautioned at Bound Brook, Plainfield and again at Netherwood, but persisted in remaining on the car.

As the result of a mis-step near Fanwood, Lenahan fell between the cars. His companions immediately jumped after him, and dragged the injured man from beneath the train. His left leg had been crushed by the wheels, while the right ankle was badly broken.

The young men made Lenahan as comfortable as possible and telephoned to this city. The ambulance met the train here and the victim was taken to the hospital. He lived for about twenty minutes, during which time Father Delahany administered extreme unction. The body was subsequently removed to Cole's undertaking establishment.

The young man was about twenty years old. His parents were notified immediately and left Philadelphia for this city at once. In all probability the body will be removed to Philadelphia today. The three companions, Foy, Boyd and Bogan, are held in the local police court as witnesses.

PLAYED WITH MATCHES AND SET HOUSE AFIRE

FEARING PUNISHMENT LAD KEPT THE FACT A SECRET.

Playing with matches in an upper room at his home on Craig place, shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday p. m. Alfred Willett, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Willett, started a fire that caused $40 damage. The boy fled in alarm when he saw the flames but fearing punishment did not say anything to his mother who was downstairs. Smoke was pouring from a window and the fire was under good headway when it was discovered by William L. Smalley, seated on his porch next door.

He called to two men passing on A. M. Griffin's wagon and rushing in the house they threw the blazing articles out. A window curtain, shades, carpet and a table filled with clothing and work were destroyed. A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters and with the arrival of the department the blaze was entirely extinguished. The loss is covered by insurance.

Sagamore Club Affair.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild, of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, an entertainment will be given by the Sagamore Club in the Parish House on Clinton avenue tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. The Sagamore Club consists of four mandolins, two banjos, and two violins. Chester H. Briggs, of the High School Glee Club, is the leader, the other members being Monroe Long, Theodore Gavett, William Briggs, Garth Williams, Herbert Smith and Charles Eoff. The club will be assisted by Miss Aimee Louise Emmons, elocutionist; Mr. Simpson, pianist, and Miss Florence Bennett, soprano.

Council to Receive Macadam Bids.

Bids for macadamizing certain streets in the city will be received at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council tomorrow night. It will be remembered that earlier in the year an effort was made to have this ordinance adopted, but it failed. Later it was introduced again and adopted. The affected property-owners will have nearly in year in which to pay their assessments for the work. It was with this understanding that the Common Council put the ordinance through.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Thompson, of Belvidere avenue, are at Atlantic City.

COLORED MEN APATHETIC

LIKELY TO EFFECT VOTE

Some Are Apt to Vote for James E. Martine, Says Rev. Mr. Jackson.

Plainfield's colored voters are indifferent to Republican success at the coming election according to rumors that have gained credence. The condition here is similar to that throughout the county, it is said, and it is reported to be due to two causes. The one is that Dr. Jefferson Anderson as the Republican candidate for coroner last fall was overwhelmingly defeated, his own party knifing him right and left. Another cause is that the Republican campaign managers have not supplied funds for the colored workers.

Rev. E. E. Jackson, a leading colored Republican, told a reporter for The Daily Press today that so far as he is concerned personally he will vote the straight Republican ticket and will work hard for the party's success, but he admitted that many of the Republicans of his race declare that they will not vote at all, preferring to take that method of revenge rather than to vote for Democrats. He admitted that not a few colored men here would cast their votes for James E. Martine, of this city, the Democratic candidate for Congress. "The colored people like Mr. Martine and some of them are apt to place friendship ahead of politics," said he.

A dispatch from Elizabeth in the Newark Evening News said last night:

"There is still dissatisfaction among some of the colored voters because, as they put it, the campaign managers are conducting the election arrangements, in Union County, by refusing to assist the colored Republican clubs, financially, in carrying on the campaign. Some of the objectors in Plainfield, Westfield and Roselle threaten to retaliate by doing some cutting at the polls in November.

"A leader in church and political circles in Plainfield was seen yesterday and said to the reporter: 'A meeting was held here last week and another, of a private nature, will be held this week, for the purpose of reaching, if possible, some understanding to try to keep the vote in the county Republican.'

"Charles E. H. Hawkins, a leader among the colored voters in this city, believed that if something is not done shortly there will be cutting at the polls in November. He expressed this in a recent interview when he said that the situation, so far as the colored voters were concerned, was critical.

"Rev. W. H. Taylor, pastor of the Shiloh Baptist church, and also a leader in political matters among the members of his race in Elizabeth, who has stated on several occasions that he believed that there was great dissatisfaction in this city over the action of the Republican campaign managers, has changed his views. In his sermon Sunday evening he took occasion to dwell at some length on his belief in the principles of the Republican party. With regard to the rumor that many colored voters were thinking of casting a vote for James E. Martine, a Democrat, he said:

"'Why should the negro vote for a Democratic Congressman a Republican President? If he were to vote for a Democratic Congressman, why not for a Democratic President? You might as well have the devil as his brother.'

"The minister denounced the vote sellers and declared that they should be tied to a post and whipped. He said that if he knew of any members of his congregation who would sell their vote he would turn them out of his church, and that he would advise their wives to leave them."

Held for Grand Jury.

On the charge brought by Morris Deutch, of obtaining money under false pretenses, Louis Singer, a former merchant in this city, gave a bond for $400 yesterday before Justice Stillwell, of Morristown, to await trial of the Grand Jury at Elizabeth. Both men were formerly in business in this city, and Deutch claims that Singer obtained $200 from him under the pretence that he would give him a first mortgage on his property, which was at that time on East Front street. As the Grand Jury adjourns next week the case will probably be brought up in the near future.

Harvest Social.

Under the auspices of the Loyal Temperance Legion a harvest social will be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

AN ANNIVERSARY MEETING

Netherwood Fresh Air Association Completes 3d Year.

DR. RODMAN PRESIDES

Pleasing Programme Blended With the Transaction of Routine Business and Reading of Reports.

Combining an entertaining programme with the transaction of the regular routine business, the third anniversary of the Netherwood Fresh Air Association was held at the Y. M. C. A. Hall last evening before a large and interested audience. Dr. E. M. Rodman presided at the meeting which was opened by a service of song in which E. C. Martin led. He was assisted by E. D. Young, cornet, and a quartette composed of Miss Grace J. Carroll, contralto; Miss Etta Raybert, soprano; Louis Tallamy, bass, and William Tallamy, tenor.

Following the prayer and scripture reading, Dr. Leonard Waldo rendered two violin selections, accompanied by Miss Jessie Utter. The reports of the various committees followed, interspersed with musical selections by Miss Carroll and Judge William N. Runyon.

Mrs. David M. Runyon read the secretary's report, in which she told in detail of the work conducted at the Netherwood home during the summer. The report of the devotional committee was read by Miss Florence Hawkins, and covered completely the outline of the religious meetings which have been held at the camp. About forty-five local societies have assisted in the work at these meetings, and several of the local churches have aided the association by special meetings for their benefit.

At the conclusion of the report read by the chairman of the entertainment committee, Phillip Suffern, Miss Frances Underhill Weir played two piano selections which completely captivated the audience. She was obliged to respond to an encore to "On the Wings of Song," from Mendelssohn. Miss Weir's rendition of these classical selections was perfect in every detail, her touch and expression being splendid.

Addresses by Dr. Rodman and Miss Curry followed the piano selections. Miss Curry's remarks were short, and in general covered the facts which had been brought out by the reports. The superintendent expressed her gratitude to all those who have aided the work during the summer, and closed with the hope that all may receive their just reward for their kindness.

A piano solo from Chopin was well played by Miss Roxana B. Love, a pupil of Ward Stephens. The pianist richly deserved the applause with which she was received.

At the conclusion of Miss Curry's address, the following officers were re-elected to serve for the coming year by a unanimous vote: President, Rev. E. M. Rodman, of Plainfield; vice president, Clarence A. Titus, of Elizabeth; secretary, Mrs. D. M. Runyon, of Plainfield; treasurer, D. M. Runyon, of Plainfield. Committees: House committee, Mrs. J. O. Pierson, chairman; finance committee, G. H. Chapman, chairman; entertainment committee, Philip Suffern, chairman; devotional committee, Miss Florence G. Hawkins, chairman; building and grounds committee, David Hand, chairman, all of Plainfield.

The following will constitute the executive committee: G. B. Hall, James F. Parker, Harry Gee, H. P. Laire, Joseph Titsworth, all of this city, and Miss Sara Curry, of New York and Netherwood; Grant Hugh Browne, of New York; D. M. Torrey, of Westfield; Mrs. Brundage, of Cranford; L. H. Biglow, Jr., of Montclair, and Alexander C. Morgan, of New York.

The treasurer's report read by David M. Runyon was as follows: Balance from 1903, $384 09; subscriptions for 1904, $856.33; proceeds from church societies, $108 52; proceeds from special meetings, $260.57; collections at camp on Sundays, $110.33; donations, $13 60; lawn party and sundries, $90.05; total receipts, $1,813.47; total expenses, $1,074 58; balance, $108.62; outstanding debts, $138. This makes a deficiency in the treasury, which was wiped out last night by the collections taken.

Her Seventy-Fifth Birthday.

Mrs. Sarah Ann Ross, of Somerville, widow of the late Wm. Ross, Jr., and mother of Frank T. Ross, the Democratic candidate for Sheriff of Somerset county, celebrated her seventy-fifth birthday yesterday by entertaining her nine children and two grandchildren. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ross, of this city.

TELEPHONE WAR IS NOW IN THE COURTS

Charges on All Sides Follow the Strife at Alton Last Week.

TWO HEARINGS FRIDAY

Company After the Glaser Guards, Which It Alleges, Cut Down Three of Its Poles.

With the clearing away of broken timbers and chips in the telephone war at Alton, charges and counter-charges are being preferred in the courts at a rate that will call for a Sherlock Holmes to unravel them if they continue at the present rate. The Glaser Guards, which are comprised of the male population of Alton, are now being arrested as fast as names can be learned, on charges of cutting down the Northeastern poles; Scott Terry, township constable, is accused of making arrests of telephone men illegally and the telephone men are being gathered in on charges of assault preferred by Mrs. Glaser. The scene of action is now divided between Justice Huff's court in this city and Justice Clark's court at Scotch Plains.

Yesterday Superintendent Hallett, of the telephone company, swore out the warrant against Terry, declaring that he had unlawfully arrested Hugh McMahon and Loughlin McDonald, two of his employes, and had them arraigned before Justice Huff in this city. The charge against them was disorderly conduct and accordingly should have gone before Justice Clark. Terry was arrested by Constable Walpole and taken before Justice Clark yesterday afternoon but the hearing was put over until Friday at 1:30.

With Terry were arraigned William Terry, John Terry, Elmer Terry, Daniel Terry, Amzi Hetfield, Hugh McDonald and John Wilson, all members of the Glaser Guards who Superintendent Hallett alleges were the men who cut down three of the Northeastern company's poles that had been erected in front of the Glaser property. The specific charge against them is malicious mischief and they will also be tried Friday afternoon. On the other hand, the Alton contingent is seeking to prefer charges of a various nature against the 'phone employes but their progress has been hampered by the inability to get names. "John Doe" and "Richard Roe" have been overworked and there is no other way of substituting. McMahon and McDonald, who were arrested on Mrs. Glaser's complaint of assault and disorderly conduct, were arraigned before Justice Huff this morning. A certificate from Dr. Westcott showed that Mrs. Glaser is confined to her bed from injuries received in the pole fight and the matter was laid over until November 9.

The company has made no further attempt to replace the poles cut down and matters in that direction are at a standstill. It is said the officials learned who had comprised the chopping brigade through Edward Hawkins, a young man who was sent to Alton as a farm hand and who, while pretending to work, watched developments.

Two Companies of P. H. S. Cadets.

Assembling for the second time since their reorganization, the Plainfield High School Battalion met for drill yesterday afternoon at Co. K's armory. Two full companies were in attendance, and the drill was confined to the facings and company marching without arms. The cadets are still struggling with the new regulations which envolve many changes. By a vote of the battalion it was decided to hold the drill in the future on Monday afternoons. If a sufficient number of applications for membership are received a hospital, signal, and bicycle corps will be organized. There are many cadets interested in these special features of the drill, and in all probability they will be successful.

Mrs. Stephen Coleman Buried.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Coleman, of Somerville, wife of Stephen Coleman, formerly of this city, was held yesterday. She died after a long illness. Three children survive her. She was a sister of the late George Gulick. She was thirty-eight years of age.

Improving Store Property.

Patterson Brothers are making extensive improvements to their business property on West Front street, making the one store into two good-sized ones. Charles Patterson, who is now supervising the work, expects to return to California soon.

READY REFERENCES FOR THE LOCAL BARGAIN SEEKERS.

W. W. Warnock's bakery is the headquarters for all that is good in the line of cakes, pies, fancy pastry of all kinds, water ices and ice cream.

Dr. E. B. Scowe, of the Babcock building, is a specialist in the treatment of corns, bunions and ingrowing toe-nails. She guarantees to give relief in every case.

For choice poultry, butter, milk, cream and eggs go to H. H. Smith, on Park avenue, opposite North avenue. The prices are all right and every customer is a satisfied one.

For anything in the painters' supply line go to J. M. Cahart, of Park avenue. He keeps a large stock of brushes, paints and artists' materials, also a fine stock of wall-papers.

E. B. Maynard, the North avenue tonsorial artist, makes a specialty of children's hair cutting and shampooing, while in hair-cutting and shaving for men his shop is headquarters.

Send your express orders to Wierenga. All sorts of trucking properly and promptly attended to. Orders left with Joseph Sattel, of North avenue, will receive immediate attention.

The Waldorf Hotel on East Front street enjoys the distinction of being one of the best decorated hostelries in the State. Likewise it is one of the best conducted as those who have stopped there can testify.

The many so-called five-cent cigars on the market last a short time and are then replaced by others—of the same make under a different name. Dobbins' Nickel Yara cigar has stood the test of years and is still demanded by local smokers.

The installation of electric lights in a house already built is an easy matter if the work is entrusted to Allen B. Laing, the North avenue electrician. His men have the "know-how" of doing things and it is done so quickly it is hardly noticeable.

Harry Werner has new things to offer every week in the line of fall and winter clothes and gentlemen's furnishings. They are the most up-to-date, and the best quality. His styles are the latest and the most correct. You are safe in wearing what Werner fits you with.

L. Moraller & Son, the Park avenue jewelers, make a specialty of repairing watches and clocks. For many years they have been engaged in this line of work and they guarantee any timepiece that is returned by them. They also do engraving at a moderate rate.

J. W. Gavett, of West Front street, the dealer in china ware, crockery, cut glass and heating apparatus, needs no introduction to Plainfield buyers. If you are going to furnish your house in a tasteful manner you will go to Gavett for your chandeliers, gas logs, ornaments and china ware.

"Saving up for a rainy day" doesn't mean that a stock of umbrellas must be laid by. There are other days when there is trouble of a different sort than dark clouds and damp atmosphere and it is then that a savings account comes in very handy. Now is the time to begin one with the City National Bank. Every courtesy shown to small depositors.

SIDE LIGHTS ON TIMELY TOPICS NOTED IN PASSING.

The Newark Evening News says: "The time is close at hand when the leaves will begin to fall and when thousands of property owners and gardeners and general utility men will think they ought to collect them in heaps and set fire to them. And then what volumes of dense, acrid smoke, what coughing and choking, and sore throats and inflamed eyes there will be; and what complaints to the newspapers and to the city authorities and health boards to suppress the intolerable nuisance. In very nearly every city the children will play around these bonfires of leaves, and the clothing of one or more will catch fire and they will burn to death. There may even be an epidemic of diphtheria, for some doctors tell that the smoke of burning leaves irritates the membranes of the throat and predisposes them to the attacks of the disease. Why not take this matter up now, early in the season, and take some effective action with reference to it? In the first place fallen leaves should not be burned in the cities for the reasons given. They should be swept up and carted away. But if some people will persist in burning them, there is a way to do it that causes but little smoke. Do not put them in heaps; spread them out thinly and the fire will devour them quickly with but little smoke or odor. But keep the children away from them; their lives are too precious to be uselessly sacrificed."

AMUSEMENTS.

The favorite comedian, William Collier, is at the Grand Opera House in "The Dictator." This is his first appearance at the Grand as a star under Charles Frohman's management. He is to be seen in a farce from the pen of the famous American novelist, Richard Harding Davis. It gives Mr. Collier a good chance to show that he still retains his ability to delight audiences, and the same comedy skill which made him successful in previous productions is still possessed by him in as prominent a degree as ever.

The revival of "Becky Sharp" at the Manhattan Theatre, New York, by Mrs. Fiske and the new Manhattan Company, intended for but a short preliminary season, continues at that house with all the prosperity of the original run of the play, now being in its second month. The audiences continue large, and they give unmistakable tokens of a high enjoyment of this sparkling comedy, with its dramatic moments of unusual strength, from Thackery's immortal novel. "Becky Sharp" cannot run on indefinitely, however, owing to the other plans at the Manhattan for Mrs. Fiske and her supporting company, and although it may be continued yet for some weeks, it will be a safer course for those who intend to witness it and have deferred that pleasure to at once take advantage of the opportunity to see one of the most pleasing, most splendidly mounted and dressed and best acted plays put forward in New York within memory.

"Secret Service," William Gillette's most successful military melodrama will be given by the permanent Proctor stock company at the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Theatre. Employed for the production will be the new scenery painted especially for the Proctor presentation and the cast will enlist the full strength of the company, introducing all of the favorites, including William Ingersoll, Peter Lang, Arthur Buchanan, Harry Leighton, Riley Chamberlain, Beatrice Morgan, Marion Berg and Alice Chandler. The original run of this most successful play at the Garrick Theatre where it remained for an entire season by no means exhausted the popularity of the piece, and those who enjoyed the earlier performances will welcome another opportunity of witnessing this famous play. It is promised that the Proctor production will equal in every respect the original presentation. Between the acts will be found the usual smart vaudeville interpolations. Carson and Willard in their funny German specialty heading the list of performers.

LITERARY.

Young artists and the parents of youthful prodigies will be interested in C. D. Gibson's brief and direct advice in Collier's for October 15. Mr. Gibson says: "Beginners are worried needlessly over the quality of paper and ink to be used. It is only necessary that one should be white and the other black."

Miss Frantz, of Scotch Plains, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Frank Putnam, of East Fifth street.

Frank Linke, of West Second street, and W. H. Rogers, of Watchung, returned yesterday after a ten days' visit at the St. Louis Exposition. James K. Arnold, Jr., who was with them, continued on to Kansas City and will not return until next week.

FAIRBANKS ON TOUR

Candidate For Vice Presidency In New England.

GUEST OF SENATOR N. W. ALDRICH

Speeches Made at Pittsfield, Woonsocket, Pawtucket and Providence—Flowers Presented to Mrs. Fairbanks.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 19.—With a speech at Infantry hall in this city last night Senator Charles W. Fairbanks, the Republican candidate for the vice presidency, ended a busy day in New England, having made brief addresses at Pittsfield, Mass; Woonsocket and Pawtucket, where his special train stopped during the trip to this city. At each stop he was accorded a cordial reception.

The incident which gave Senator Fairbanks the greatest pleasure occurred at Pawtucket, where he was met by a delegation from the local chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution and accepted in the name of Mrs. Fairbanks, the national president of the organization, a large basket of flowers.

Upon his arrival in this city Senator Fairbanks was driven to Warwick, where he was the guest at dinner at the home of Senator Nelson W. Aldrich. After dinner the senator, accompanied by Senator Aldrich and Congressman A. B. Capron, drove to Infantry hall, where he addressed a large assembly.

Guns Greeted Fairbanks.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Oct. 19.—A special train having on board Charles W. Fairbanks, Republican candidate for vice president, has arrived in this city. The distinguished visitor was greeted by cheers from a crowd which had assembled at the railroad station. Mr. Fairbanks from the rear platform of his car addressed the assemblage briefly, thanking them for the reception and urging the attention of the voters to the return of Republican members of the national house. A salute of twenty-one guns was fired on Mr. Fairbanks' arrival.

JOE WOLCOTT KILLS A MAN.

Pugilist Himself Badly Hurt by Bullet Accidentally Fired.

BOSTON, Oct. 19.—Nelson C. Hall, colored, was killed and Joe Walcott, the colored pugilist, was shot through the right hand by the accidental discharge of a revolver in the hands of Walcott.

The accident occurred in the anteroom of Union Park hall, in Washington street, south end, where a dance was in progress. Walcott was placed under arrest and taken to the city hospital.

The firing caused a panic in the dance hall. Before Walcott had a chance to explain the shooting the crowd was in an uproar, and it was some time before the police could restore order.

They then placed Walcott under arrest and held several other persons as witnesses. Mrs. Hall fainted when she heard the shot, and this so added to the excitement that the pugilist narrowly escaped rough handling.

It is believed that Walcott will never be able to enter the ring again. The bullet passed through the palm of his hand, splintering the bones.

In explaining the shooting he said that he was exhibiting a magazine revolver of large caliber and containing twelve chambers to Hall when from some unknown cause it was discharged. The bullet passed through Walcott's hand and then pierced Hall's heart.

Object to Soldier's Negro Wife.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The surgeon general of the army has concurred in the recommendation of General Grant that John J. Smith, a member of the United States army hospital corps stationed at Fort Mott, N. J., who is said to have married a negress, be discharged from the army "for the good of the service." This recommendation has been forwarded to the secretary of war for his action. General Grant acted on the recommendation of Contract Surgeon Sparrenberg, post medical officer at Fort Mott, N. J., who complained of alleged misconduct on the part of Smith prior to his marriage.

Cork Company Withdraws Plea.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 19.—J. H. Stone, H. B. Quintard, C. W. Russ and James Russ of the Nonpareil Cork works, Camden, who were indicted in the United States district court on the charge of conspiring against the United States government and prejudice to the government steamboat inspection laws because of selling life preservers inside of which were pieces of iron, retracted their pleas of not guilty. These men through their counsel have filed a demurrer and will fight the indictment on the ground that the indictment does not charge any offense of which they are guilty.

Boy's Fatal Jump From Window.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 19.—Tiring of being locked up in the Organized Charities building pending an investigation into the charge of theft, Michael Riley, twelve years old, tried to make his escape last night by jumping from the fourth floor of the building and in doing so received injuries that will prove fatal.

Major Cunningham Dead.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 19.—Major Edward Cunningham, dean of the St. Louis bar and a member of a prominent law firm, is dead here. Major Cunningham was a veteran in the civil war, having served with Stonewall Jackson. He came to St. Lo is from Virginia.

LOU DILLON'S DEFEAT.

Major Delmar Won Gold Cup at Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 19.—C. K. G. Billings' Lou Dillon, the champion trotting mare, went down to defeat here before Major Delmar, owned by E. E. Smathers, in the third and last contest for the Memphis Gold cup, the feature race of the opening day of the fourth annual meeting of the Memphis Trotting association. After sustaining a terrific pace to the three-quarters pole in the first heat of the contest it was apparent that the mare was in bad condition, and she was pulled up, Major Delmar winning in a jog. Despite a critical examination by veterinary surgeons, who pronounced the mare affected by an ailment known to horsemen as the "thumps," Lou Dillon was again brought out on the track by Mr. Billings, and against the advice of the veterinarians he announced that as a matter of form he would start the mare in the second heat. Major Delmar rounded the course in easy time, Lou Dillon following at a slow trot. Mr. Smathers, representing the New York Driving club, becomes the permanent owner of the cup.

The Diamond handicap was won in straight heats in easy fashion by Sweet Marie.

The 2:01 pace furnished the most spirited contest of the day, Dan R., Gallagher and John M. each winning a heat. In the final trial John M. won pulled up.

Baden-Powell In Kite Contest.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 19.—Kiteflying contests were held in the aeronautic concourse at the world's fair grounds, but no decision as to the winners can be made public before the jury meets and compares notes. Among eighteen contestants were Major Baden-Powell of England, Thomas F. Baldwin of San Francisco and W. A. Eddy of Bayonne, N. J. In the one mile event the kites were almost out of sight. There was only one accident, when the kite of Silas J. Conyne of Chicago, which was carrying between 6,000 and 7,000 feet of wire, broke away and was lost.

Alma Dufour at Elm Ridge.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 19.—Alma Dufour, the favorite, won the Baltimore Hotel Consolation handicap, the feature of the card at Elm Ridge. Cleverly ridden by Lewis, the speedy filly trailed the field until three furlongs from the wire, where she went to the front and finished two lengths in front of Bragg, who beat Elliott a length for the place. Sir Andrew, William Wright and San Nicholas were the other winning favorites.

Oldfield Made Fast Mile.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 19.—Although Barney Oldfield, Earl Kiser and Carl Fisher were on the ground at the local automobile meeting, none of the three noted drivers was matched in competition races. Oldfield's fastest time was made in a three-mile exhibition, when he negotiated one mile in 56 3-5 seconds. His time for the three miles was 2:52. No other time faster than a mile a minute was made.

Long Shots Won at Worth.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Long shots won three of the races at Worth. Floral King was the only winning favorite, the other two events going to second and third choices. In the third race, the feature event, Lou Woods, at 40 to 1, won by a neck from Scortic, at 12 to 1. Clauses, at 10 to 1, was third, a length behind Scortic. Carat, the favorite, was beaten off.

Commodore at Delmar.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 19.—Commodore stamped himself as being the best horse at Delmar track when he won the feature of tue racing card. With 126 pounds up Commodore ran his field off their feet and won in the easiest fashion by two lengths in the good time, for Delmar, of 1:14 flat for six furlongs. Aden's victory in the fifth cost the bookmakers many thousands of dollars.

Auditor Won Huntington Stakes.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Auditor, backed from 6 to 1 to 3 to 1, won the Huntington selling stakes, six furlongs, at Jamaica. Et tu Brute made the pace to the final eighth, Crimmins, on Auditor, who had been trailing his field, then moved up and won driving by three-quarters of a length.

Harvard and Yale Golfers Won.

HAMILTON, Mass., Oct. 19.—The annual intercollegiate golf championship began at the Myopia Hunt club with the first round of team matches. Harvard met and defeated the University of Pennsylvania, while Yale easily disposed of the Princeton team.

Social Democratic Party Goes.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 19.—Secretary of State O'Brien has dismissed the objections of Colonel John S. McEwan of Albany to the title of the Social Democratic party, proposed for the third column of the official ballot. Colonel McEwan's objection was that the name "Social Democratic" conflicted with the title of the Democratic party. It is expected that the Democrats will appeal to the courts.

Forest Fires In West Virginia.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 19.—Forest fires have started in the woods not over a mile from this city, and portions of the southern suburbs are in danger. Hundreds of men and boys are fighting the flames to prevent destruction of property in their path.

Rubber Plant Destroyed.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Fire last night destroyed the works of the Anchor Rubber Tire company at Setauket, N. Y. The loss is estimated at $[illegible]000, most of which was upon machinery and finished and unfinished stock. The cause of the fire is not known.

BRYAN IN INDIANA

First Speech at De Pauw University, Greencastle.

OPPOSES A LARGE STANDING ARMY

Referred to Gold Democrats' Defection in 1896 and Said, "Indiana Needs Democracy and Democracy Needs Indiana."

GREENCASTLE, Ind., Oct. 19.—William J. Bryan made his first speech at a large meeting here, which was attended by many students of De Pauw university. His audience here was the most responsive he has met on the Indiana trip. He said Indiana needed Democracy and the Democracy of the nation needed Indiana. He again opposed a large standing army. Referring to the defection of gold Democrats in 1896, he said:

"I have not time to get down on the ground and look for the tracks of those who left us then. We can get even with those who did not do as we thought they should by doing now what we should. In 1896 the campaign aroused great feeling, and a great many people doubted whether many of the citizens of this country were patriotic. But after election there was a call for volunteers for the war with Spain, and the president did not call only for those who voted for him. The call was to the American people."

Speaking of what he called the Republican argument that the silver and gold Democrats could help Bryan by voting against Judge Parker, Mr. Bryan said:

"If you want to see how the Republicans want to help me just see how they helped me in the last two campaigns. They bought every vote that could be bought, they coerced every vote that could be coerced and they misrepresented every argument that could be made in the country."

Other speeches were made at Brazil, Terre Haute, Linton, Sullivan and Bedford.

BRYAN'S TOUR.

Nebraskan Spoke at Bedford, Ind., on National and State Issues.

BEDFORD, Ind., Oct. 19.—The special train which is carrying William J. Bryan on his tour of Indiana was more than two hours late arriving in this city for the mass meeting which was the closing event of the programme of the sixth day. Mr. Bryan's voice shows evidence of the strain which he is undergoing. Nevertheless the large audience, which listened for an hour and a half to his discussion of political issues, was attentive. The speaker delivered his address from a temporary stand erected in the courthouse park, from which platform Senator Beveridge delivered an address two weeks ago. The park, which covers four acres of ground, was filled with people from the country and surrounding towns.

Mr. Bryan made an earnest appeal for the support of the Democratic national and state tickets.

Ex-Governor Cornell Buried.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 19.—The body of former Governor Alonzo B. Cornell was buried here in a crypt in the Sage Memorial chapel, on Cornell university campus, beside the remains of his father, Ezra Cornell, the founder of the university. Dr. Charles Mellen Tyler, assisted by the Rev. Charles H. McKnight, officiated. Business throughout the city and all departments of the university was closed during the ceremony. Among the honorary pallbearers were Dr. Andrew D. White, President Jacob G. Schurman, General A. S. Barnes, Dean T. F. Crane, S. D. Halliday and Charles S. Francis.

Empress Decorates a German.

PEKING, Oct. 19.—The German minister, Mumm von Schwartzenstein, and Captain Truppel, governor of Kiaochau, the German protectorate on the Shangtung peninsula, were received in audience by the emperor and the dowager empress. Captain Truppel was decorated with the order of the Double Dragon. Subsequently Mme. Truppel and the ladies of the diplomatic body were received in audience. Mme. Truppel was presented with a portrait of the dowager empress painted by her own hand.

Pioneer Killed Near Fatal Crossing.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Oct. 19.—Otis R. Barker, ninety-three years of age, the pioneer woolen manufacturer in this section of the state, was thrown from his carriage and almost instantly killed here. His team was frightened by an electric car at the crossing where a car crashed into President Roosevelt's carriage two years ago. Mr. Barker was an uncle of Judge James F. Barker of the supreme court. A widow survives him.

English Jurist Honored at Columbia.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—James Bryce, the English jurist and scholar, received the honorary degree of doctor of laws at a meeting of the Columbia university council. The degree was conferred "in camera" before members of the board of trustees, the university council and the faculty of political science. Mr. Bryce was formally presented to President Butler by ex-Mayor Low.

Filipino Outlaws Wiped Out.

MANILA, Oct. 19.—A force under Lieutenant Pogge of the constabulary has defeated a large number of Pulajanes in the mountains of eastern Samar, killing the notorious outlaw Oyomo and fifty of his followers.

Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 19, 1904.

Former United States Senator James Smith believes that Judge Parker should come out of his seclusion and show himself to the people. A hermit's existence may be all right for some people but it does not go in politics.

Lack of interest in political mass meetings so marked recently is due to but one thing and that is that the public generally has lost confidence in the spellbinder. Nowadays a man is paid to go about from one place to another telling the people that all that is good is to be found in his own party and all that is bad is in that of the opposite one. The people are tired of hearing stump speakers juggling with facts and figures. They are disgusted with the exaggerations so characteristic of political spouters. The great mass of people is becoming more intelligently informed on questons of the day and particularly on government affairs. They keep abreast of the times by reading the daily events of great moment as chronicled in the newspapers and they do their own thinking. The spellbinder is growing less important every year and it is well.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Press Want Ads pay.

—Street Commissioner Gavett is having new and heavier crosswalks laid in the business section of the city.

—Good eating candy. Try the new store, Reynolds & Co., Babcock block. This is the firm that has so many stores.

—The members of the Loyal Temperance Legion are preparing for an entertainment to be given in the near future.

—Mr. and Mrs. Michael Higgins, who were recently married, will give a reception at their home in Park avenue, tomorrow night.

—Charles Leland, of L. W. Randolph's pharmacy on West Front street, will return the first of the week from his annual vacation of two weeks.

—Ernest Higgins, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron M. Higgins, of Plainfield avenue, recently fell out of a small express wagon, used as a plaything and received severe injuries to his back.

—Miss Clara Koester, who formerly held a position with The Singer Manufacturing Company in its office in this city, has been transferred to the New York office at Liberty street and Broadway.

—There is no denying the fact that Rockdale print and Rockdale creamery butter is the best. It is selling at Neuman Brothers at 29 cents for print and 28 cents for creamery. They ask 25 cents for the superior Elgin creamery.

WORK IN THE CHURCHES OF THE CITY AND BOROUGH.

The Woman's Missionary Societies of the Park Avenue Baptist church held a sewing meeting yesterday.

The regular mid-week prayer meeting will be held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tonight.

The Women's Guild of St. Stephen's church will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Beals, of South avenue.

The members of the Epworth League of Grace M. E. church will hold a Hallowe'en social in the church on Thursday night, October 31.

Delegates from the local chapters of the Epworth League will leave tomorrow morning on the 8:21 train for High Bridge to attend the annual convention of the organization.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, will be at the church this evening a half-hour prior to the hour of the regular prayer meeting to meet with any who are thinking of uniting with the church.

The work of putting in an new entrance to the First M. E. church is nearing completion. It provides for a commodious entrance outside, with entrances to the main body of the church on the left and right and one to the basement directly in front of the main doors.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, who with L. N. Lovell, from the same church, is attending the Presbyterian Synod at Atlantic City, [this week, will return in time to lead the meeting of the Young People's Association on Friday night.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Societies of the East Jersey Baptist Association will be held in the First Baptist church on Friday, November 4. There will be sessions in the morning and afternoon and the women of the church will provide dinner at the church for the delegates from the various branches in the association. The programme will include reports and interesting addresses by women prominent in the mission work.

Small Boys in Serious Quarrel.

Playing about a bon fire on Duer street, yesterday afternoon, Arthur Martin, a young son of Joseph O. Martin, and a boy named Jeffery became involved in a dispute through someone striking the latter's brother. In his anger Jeffery struck young Martin over the head with a rake, laying his scalp open for fully an inch. The injured boy was hurried to his home nearly opposite and the wound was dressed by Dr. Buchanan. The Jeffery boy, who also lives on Duer street, claims that Martin was the one who struck his brother and his act was in retaliation.

Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Y. Neighbor, of Manning avenue, are spending the week in Philadelphia.

CENTRAL LODGE SURPRISES BRETHERN OF RARITAN LODGE.

About forty-eight members of Central Lodge, A. O. U. W., of this city, went to New Brunswick Monday evening in a special trolley car and paid a fraternal visit to Raritan Lodge, A. O. U. W., of that city. The visitation had not been announced and the New Brunswick society members were much surprised when the Plainfield delegation walked in upon them.

A very pleasant evening was spent. The visitors and some of the New Brunswick men made speeches, and after the meeting the visitors adjourned to a restaurant, where a light lunch was served. The visitors returned about 11 o'clock on a special car. The visit was a return one, the New Brunswick men having visited the Plainfield lodge some time ago.

Among those in the Plainfield delegation were: Master Workman Walter Bradford, Past Masters Workmen William H. Brokaw, William H. Lunger, L. J. Spicer, Edward M. Mosher, Charles H. Randolph, W. L. Larrabee, Harvey R. Thorn, and A. E. Curtis, Charles Beerman, H. F. Bulmer, William J. Hartpence and also Past Grand Master Workman V. W. Nash, of Columbia Lodge.

Russians Enveloped Jap Column, Took Fourteen Guns.

ATTACK RENEWED BY CZAR'S TROOPS

Now Concentrating In Front of Generals Kuroki and Nodzu For Another Great Battle—Kuropatkin In the Field.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—A special from Mukden says that Lone Tree hill, won by the Russians after a desperate struggle, has been the object of a gallant but unsuccessful attempt at recapture by the Japanese. In spite of the awful slaughter with which they had been driven from the hill the Japanese returned to the charge during the night, recognizing that the hill was the key to the position on the southwest front. Nine regiments participated, creeping up through the darkness and delivering a furious assault at dawn. But the hill had been bought too dearly by the Russians to relinquish it, and the Japanese were driven back with terrible slaughter.

It is reported that General Mischtschenko's Cossacks, under command of Adjutant Gavriloff, are engaged in a hot fight toward the southeast. A Cossack horse battery silenced the Japanese guns and drove back several infantry batallions, but were unable to capture the guns, which the Japanese succeeded in carrying off.

Shakhe station, or what is left of it, has been recaptured by the Russians, who will shortly reopen it for railway traffic with Mukden.

The battlefield of Lone Tree hill presents the most awful spectacle that can be conceived. Russian and Japanese dead are mingled in heaps in inextricable confusion. The ground is strewn with broken rifles that had been smashed in hand to hand fighting. Everything seems to have been utilized as weapons.

Tokyo advices say that the Russians have fiercely assaulted General Oku and attacked Generals Nodzu and Kuroki, but were everywhere repulsed with heavy losses.

The Russians are now concentrating in front of the left army under General Kuroki and the center army under General Nodzu. Another great battle is expected.

Mukden reports say that the fighting on Monday was confined to the Russian center at Shakhe river and was mostly artillery fire, the Japanese using big guns and high explosive shells.

During the nine days of continuous fighting the losses were never less than 2,000 a day.

The hospitals are hardly able to handle the wounded. Nevertheless they have performed wonders.

The country south is desolated. The Japanese still seem to be exerting themselves to force the Russians out of Mukden. A battle is assured in the positions surrounding the town.

General Kuropatkin remains with the troops, having abandoned his headquarters at Mukden.

A dispatch to the Japanese legation from Tokyo, giving details of the envelopment of General Yamada's column, says:

"The column was proceeding to reenforce a detachment of our left army which was attacking the enemy north of Shakhe. It defeated the enemy near Weichialoutz, captured two guns and two ammunition wagons and was returning to its original position when suddenly it was enveloped by about a division of the enemy.

"It succeeded in breaking through and regaining its original position. The artillery, however, was lost, with most of the horses and men. We were compelled to abandon nine field guns and five mountain guns.

"The enemy in front of our central position has been re-enforced.

"Our casualties on Sunday last were about 1,000."

A report from headquarters of General Oku's left army, via Fusan, says that since Sunday last the Japanese left army has buried 4,100 Russian dead. It is estimated that the Russian casualties are from 20,000 to 25,000. The Japanese report their casualties at about 3,000. The Japanese continue to advance, driving the Russians before them. They have captured two guns and many rifles. At 7:30 in the morning the Russians attempted to recapture Lamuting, but were repulsed with heavy loss.

A Mukden dispatch says that the fighting on Sunday last was most severe. Fifty wounded were counted in one hour passing a point on one country pathway. Already the casualties reported are so great as to confirm the declaration of the leaders that the present conflict would be the bloodiest in history. It is not possible to make any close estimate of the Russian casualties.

The Russians appear to hold positions in the plain along the Shakhe river, extending from the railway to Da pass, beginning at the mountains.

After a threatening day the Japanese toward night rushed the village of Linchenpo, on the north bank of the Shakhe river and west of the railway, precipitating a thundering cannonade and fusillade, which continued until midnight, the rifle fire continuing until dawn. The Japanese now occupy the raised temple quadrangle near Linchenpo.

Death From Football Play.

CORRY, Pa., Oct. 19. — Charles Schreve, twelve years old, of Union City is dead here as the result of being kicked in the head while playing football.

HOME WAS A FRAUD.

Chicago Police Raid Fake Institution For Epileptics.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—The office of a home for epileptics here was raided by the police. The books of the institution and the liveries of women solicitors were seized.

The raid was a result of an investigation made by Secretary J. A. Egan of the state board of health, who notified Chief of Police O'Neill, charging that the home was a fraud.

The home, which is supposed to be in Blue island, employs twelve women solicitors. In making their rounds they dress in green and white gowns cut after the fashion of the costume of Catholic sisters of charity.

The home has been in operation two years, and no doubt of its genuineness ever was made public until a pseudo nun made charges against the institution. The twelve solicitors are said to collect from $150 to $200 a day.

TRIAL FINISHED.

Weinseimer's Fate Now In Hands of Jury.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The fate of Philip Weinseimer, a labor leader, accused of extorting $2,700 from a contractor named Essig before he would allow work to go on on the Chatworth building, a large apartment house here, is now in the hands of the jury. A verdict may be handed in at any moment, but there was a belief in the general sessions courtroom that a decision would not be reached till morning.

The case was given to the jury late yesterday. George Raines, counsel for the labor leader, spent three hours in his argument. He charged that the builders of New York had formed a conspiracy to crush organized labor.

Assistant District Attorney Rand followed him in a long speech, in which he warmly defended George J. Essig, the complaining witness.

ALL QUIET AT MOHAWK.

Militia Guard Has Been Withdrawn. Work Has Stopped.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 19.—Just as the last rail connecting the Richfield Springs and Oneonta and the Utica and Mohawk Valley railroads was being laid at Mohawk an injunction was served on the officers of the roads by the village authorities forbidding the connection, and the work was stopped. The injunction was granted by Justice Scripture of Rome.

No further disturbance took place, and the sheriff's proclamation declaring the village under a state of riot was rescinded. The Thirty-first Separate company, which was called out to quell the riot, has been withdrawn from the scene of trouble and dismissed.

An Ideal Location

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad
Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors
BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.
BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.
LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW
BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.
LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT
BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.
BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL, IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

EMBROIDERED XMAS GIFTS.

Now Is the Time to Make Them For Your Friends.

Some of the prettiest Christmas gifts are embroidered, and if at the last moment you price them and find them beyond your means you will have only yourself to blame.

Take the picture frame, for instance, a section of which is herewith illustrated. It is the simplest thing in the world to make. The design, the Empire bee, is repeated regularly in two tones of golden brown on a ground of deep cream. The stitch is the simple cross stitch of our grandmothers' samples worked with silk on coarse canvas.

EMBROIDERED WORKBOX.

The workbox is more elaborate. It is made of pale blue silk, pink baby ribbon and pink embroidery in a charming pompadour effect.

The foundation is made of cardboard, the edges carefully overcast with shoe thread and fastened together firmly. The handle of heavy straw braid is secured by means of paper fasteners. Then each part is carefully covered with the pale blue silk. On this the narrow pale pink ribbon strips are sewed, and they appear to be held down by a vine design of green leaves and tiny rosebuds embroidered in colored silks. The dotted effect is gained by embroidered pin dots of pink silk. A little sachet powder should be scattered under the silk covering.

A very beautiful present is a linen robe inlaid with cluny medallions and heavy white linen embroidery. This does not take as long to make as one would fancy, and the sections may be bought already stamped at any embroidery shop.

The smartest and newest thing in embroidery, however, is the square overmantel pieces for boudoir or drawing room.

Cushions, of course, are always popular gifts, and the newest of these are worked all over in a conventional pattern done in cross stitch to imitate tapestry. I have seen two pillows representing the family coat of arms done in this way.

Initial handkerchiefs with a narrow edging of valenciennes lace are always dainty, and no one can have too many of them.

Turnover collars and cuffs are smart worked in delft blue on ecru or in dull red or old rose on the same.

A centerpiece composed of shaded cherries and their cream white blossoms and brown stems is charming on the palest green linen, with a buttonhole border done in cream white. The ordinary lisle thread ribbed low neck sleeveless vest may be made into a thing of beauty by the addition of an upper section and straps of valenciennes lace and open-work embroidery run through with pink ribbon. Don't forget embroidered garters with tiny chiffon rosettes.

EMBROIDERED PICTURE FRAME.

Pincushions embroidered in rosebuds or forgetmenots to match the toilet table are also always appreciated.

In fact, embroidery presents a larger field for moderate priced Christmas presents than anything else.

HELEN CLIFTON.

ENTRANCE HALLWAY.

An Exceptionally Artistic Effect In an Old Mansion.

The picture shows the hall section of an old New England house. The walls along the winding stairs are lined with family portraits placed irregularly. At the foot of the stairs reposes a tiger skin rug. The space at the side of the stairs is furnished like a living room, with a fireplace, carved chairs and a large carved table.

THE WINDING STAIR.

A lamp of stained glass is not seen in the picture. It hangs from the ceiling at the foot of the stairway.

R. DE LA BAUME

By EMERSON HOUGH

(Copyright, 1902, by Emerson Hough.)

"Is it true, as I live!" cried Du Mesne, lowering his voice instinctively, as his quick eye caught the spot where Law was pointing. "But, good God! what can it mean?"

They advanced cautiously into the little open space beyond them, a glade but a few hundred yards across and lined by encircling trees. They saw indeed a habitation erected by human hands, apparently not altogether without skill. There were rude walls of logs, reinforced by stakes planted in the ground. From the four corners of the inclosure projected overhanging beams. There was an opening in the inclosure, as they discovered upon closer approach, and entering at this rude door, the party looked about them curiously.

Du Mesne shut his lips tight together. This was no house built by the hands of white men. There were here no quarters, no shops, no chapel with its little bell. Instead there stood a few dried and twisted poles, and all around lay the litter of an abandoned camp.

"Iroquois, by the living Mother of God!" cried Pierre Noir.

"Look!" cried Tete Gris, calling them again outside the inclosure. He stood kicking in the ashes of what had been a fire-place. He disclosed, half buried in the charred embers, an iron kettle into which he gazed curiously. He turned away as John Law stepped up beside him.

"There must have been game here in plenty," said Law. "There are bones scattered all about."

Du Mesne and Tete Gris looked at each other in silence, and the former at length replied:

"This is an Iroquois war house, Monsieur L'as," said he. "They lived here for more than a month, and, as you say, they fed well. But these bones you see are not the bones of elk or deer. They are the bones of men, and women, and children."

Law stood taking in each detail of the scene about him.

"Now you have seen what is before us," resumed Du Mesne. "The Iroquois have gone, 'tis true. They have wiped out the villages which were here. There are little cornfields, but I warrant you they have not seen a tomahawk hoe for a month or more. The Iroquois have gone, yet the fact that they have been here proves they may come again. What say you, Tete Gris; and what is your belief, Pierre?"

Tete Gris remained silent for some moments. "'Tis as monsieur says," replied he at length. "'Tis all one to me. I go or stay, as it shall please the others. There is always the one trail over which one does not return."

"And you, Pierre?"

"I stay by my friends," replied Pierre Noir, briefly.

"And you, Monsieur L'as?" asked Du Mesne.

Law raised his head with an old-time determination. "My friends," said he, "we have elected to come into this country and take its conditions as we find them. If we falter, we lose; of that we may rest assured. Let us not turn back because a few savages have been here and have slaughtered a few other savages. For me, there seems but one opinion possible. The lightning has struck, yet it may not strike again at the same tree. The Iroquois have been here, but they have departed, and they have left nothing to invite their return. Now, it is necessary that we make a pause and build some place for our abode. Here is a post already half builded to our hands."

"But if the savages return?" said Du Mesne.

"Then we will fight," said John Law.

"And right you are," replied Du Mesne. "Your reasoning is correct. I vote that we build here our station."

"Myself also," said Tete Gris. And Pierre Noir nodded his assent in silence.

CHAPTER XXII.

MAIZE.

"Ola! Jean Breboeuf," called out Du Mesne to that worthy, who presently appeared, breathing hard from his climb up the river bluff. "Know you what has been concluded?"

"No; how should I guess?" replied Jean Breboeuf. "Or, at least, if I should guess, what else should I guess save that we are to take boat at once and set back to Montreal as fast as we may? But that—what is this? Whose house is that yonder?"

"'Tis our own, mon enfant," replied Du Mesne, dryly. "'Twas perhaps the property of the Iroquois a moon ago. A moon before that time the soil it stands on belonged to the Illini. To-day both house and soil belong to us. See; here stood the village. There are the cornfields, cut and trampled by the Iroquois. Here are the kettles of the natives—"

"But, but—why—what is all this? Why do we not hasten away?" broke in Jean Breboeuf.

"Pish! We do not go away. We remain where we are."

"Remain? Stay here, and be eaten by the Iroquois? Nay! not Jean Breboeuf."

Du Mesne smiled broadly at his terrors, and a dry grin even broke over the features of the impassive old trapper, Tete Gris.

"Not so fast with your going away, Jean, my brother," said Du Mesne. "Thou'rt ever hinting of corn and the bean: now see what can be done in this garden-place of the Iroquois and the Illini. You are appointed head gardener for the post!"

"Messieurs, me voila," said Jean Breboeuf, dropping his hands in despair. "Were I not the bravest man in all New France I should leave you at this moment. It is mad, quite mad you are, every one of you! I, Jean Breboeuf, will remain, and, if necessary, will protect. Corn, and perhaps the bean, ye shall have; perhaps even some of those little roots that the savages dig and eat; but, look you, this is but because you are with one who is brave. Enfin, I go. I bend me to the hoe, here in this place, like any peasant."

"An excellent hoe can be made from the blade bone of an elk, as the woman Wabana will perhaps show you if you like," said Pierre Noir, derisively, to his comrade of the paddle.

"Even so," said Jean Breboeuf. "I make me the hoe. Could I have but thee, old Pierre, to sit on a stump and fright the crows away, I make no doubt that all would go well with our husbandry. I had as lief go censitaire for Monsieur L'as as for any seignieur on the Richelieu; of that be sure, old Pierre."

"Faith," replied the latter, "when it comes to frightening crows, I'll even agree to sit on a stump with my musket across my knees and watch you work. 'Tis a good place for a sentinel—to keep the crows from picking yet more bones than these which will embarrass you in your hoeing, Jean Breboeuf."

"He says the Richelieu, Du Mesne," broke in John Law, musingly. "Very far away it sounds. I wonder if we shall ever see it again, with its little narrow farms. But here we have our own trails and our own lands, and let us hope that Monsieur Jean shall prosper in his belated farming. And now, for the rest of us, we must look presently to the building of our houses."

Thus began, slowly and in primitive fashion, the building of one of the first cities of the vast valley of the Messasebe; the seeds of civilization taking hold upon the ground of barbarism, the one supplanting the other, yet availing itself of that other. As the white men took over the crude fields of the departed savages, so also they appropriated the imperfect edifice which the conquerors of those savages had left for them. It was in little the story of old England herself, builded upon the races and the ruins of Briton, and Roman, and Saxon, of Dane and Norman.

Under the direction of Law, the walls of the old war house were strengthened with an inner row of palisades, supporting an embankment of earth and stone. The overlap of the gate was extended into a re-entrant angle, and rude battlements were erected at the four corners of the inclosure. The little stream of unfailing water was led through a corner of the fortress. In the center of the inclosure they built the houses; a cabin for Law, one for the men, and a larger one to serve as store room and as trading place, should there be opportunity for trade.

It was in these rude quarters that Law and his companion established that which was the nearest approach to a home that either for the time might claim: and it was thus that both undertook once more that old and bootless human experiment of seeking to escape from one's own self. Silent now, and dutifully obedient enough was this erstwhile English beauty, Mary Connynge; yet often and often Law caught the question of her gaze. And often enough, too, he found his own questioning running back up the water trails, and down the lakes and across the wide ocean, in a demand which, fiercer and fiercer as it grew, he yet remained too bitter and too proud to put to the proof by any means now within his power. Strange enough, savage enough, hopeless enough, was this wild home of his in the wilderness of the Messasebe.

The smoke of the new settlement rose steadily day by day, but it gave signal for no watching enemy. All about stretched the pale green ocean of the grasses, dotted by many wild flowers, nodding and bowing like bits of fragile flotsam on the surface of a continually rolling sea. The little groves of timber, scattered here and there sheltered from the summer sun the wild cattle or the plains. The shorter grasses hid the coveys of the prairie hens, and on the marsh-grown bayou banks the wild duck led her brood. A great land, a rich, a fruitful one, was this that lay about these adventurers.

A soberness had come over the habit of the master mind of this little colony. His hand took up the ax, and forgot the sword and gun. Day after day he stood looking about him, examining and studying in little all the strange things which he saw; seeking to learn as much as might be of the timorous savages, who in time began to straggle back to their ruined villages; talking, as best he might, through such interpreting as was possible, with savages who came from the west of the Messasebe, and from the south and from the far southwest; hearing, and learning and wondering of a land which seemed as large as all the earth, and various as all the lands that lay beneath the sun—that west, so glorious, so new, so boundless, which was yet to be the home of countless hearth-fires and the sites of myriad fields of corn. Let others hunt, and fish, and rob the Indians of their furs, after the accepted fashion of the time; as for John Law, he must look about him, and think, and watch this growing of the corn.

He saw it fairly from its beginning, this growth of the maize, this plant which never yet had grown on Scotch or English soil; this tall, beautiful, broad-bladed, tender tree, the very emblem of all fruitfulness. He saw here and there, dropped by the careless hand of some departed Indian woman, the little germinating seeds, just thrusting their pale-green heads up through the soil, half broken by the tomahawk. He saw the clustering green shoots—numerous, in the sign of plenty—all crowding together and clamoring for light, and life, and air, and room. He saw the prevailing of the tall and strong upthrusting stalks, after the way of life; saw the others dwarf and whiten, and yet cling on at the base of the bolder stem, parasites, worthless, yet existing, after the way of life.

He saw the great central stalks spring boldly up, so swiftly that it almost seemed possible to count the successive leaps of progress. He saw the strong-ribbed leaves thrown out, waving a thousand hands of cheerful welcome and assurance—these blades of the corn, so much mightier than any blades of steel. He saw the broad beckoning banners of the pale tassels bursting out atop of the stalk, token of fecundity and of the future. He caught the wide-driven pollen as it whitened upon the earth, borne by the parent west wind, mother of increase. He saw the thickening of the green leaf at the base, its swelling, its growth and expansion, till the indefinite enlargement showed at length the incipient ear.

RIOT IN IRELAND.

At Trial of Prisoners at Rivertown Mob Attacked Police.

CORK, Oct. 19.—A serious conflict between sympathizers with those who were arrested for participation in the eviction riots at Feilsport on Oct. 15 and the police occurred at the hearing of the case at the Rivertown court house. Over twenty people were injured in the disturbance, some of them being seriously hurt.

When the Feilsport defendants were arraigned the crowd in attendance, unable to secure admission to the court-room, attacked the police. Over 100 of the latter formed up to maintain order and charged with their batons, striking right and left and dispersing the crowd. The judge summoned the officer commanding the police, who said his men had been first attacked. W. M. O'Brien, one of the court attendants, who charged excessive brutality on the part of the police, brought in one of the injured men, who was covered with blood. The magistrate denounced the action of the police and as a protest adjourned the hearing for six weeks, bailing the defendants until that time.

GIFT FOR BISHOP POTTER.

Baltimore Distillers Forward a Case of Whisky.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—In appreciation of Bishop Henry C. Potter's position on the liquor question, as demonstrated by his recent activity in connection with the Subway hotel, the distillers of a Baltimore brand of whisky have forwarded to him a case of their well aged product. The "goods" were plainly addressed to Bishop Potter at his office address, New York. The box attracted much attention and curious speculation at the Union station in Baltimore.

The following letter has been sent by the makers of the whisky to the bishop:

"Rev. Sir—We have this day forwarded you by express one case of our whisky. In taking this liberty we do so with no intention whatever of reflecting upon you, but simply as an evidence of our friendship and esteem for one of the cloth who has the manly Christian spirit to advocate the doctrine set forth in the golden rule of 'Live and let live.' Trusting you will accept the same with our compliments."

GREAT CRIME IS STEALING.

Professor Dubois on the Race Question and Class Distinction.

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 19.—Rev. Washington Gladden of Columbus, O., has resigned the presidency of the American Missionary association now in convention here, and perhaps the greatest home missionary organization in the country. The new duties of moderator of the Congregational national council forced Dr. Gladden to give up the less important office.

Professor W. E. B. Dubois of Atlanta university created a sensation by a statement in his address that the rise and education of the ambitious young negro student is a menace to the security and class superiority of the rich, the well born and the white. He said the negro problem is only a phase of the greatest problem of class distinction. The greatest crime of the United States, he said, is stealing, which is manifested in the arrogation of special privileges by the well to do and the white over the poor and the black man.

Woman Shot Dead Near Bridgeton.

BRIDGETON, N. J., Oct. 19.—Mrs. Frank Rasinger, wife of a farmer living near here, was found dead in her home with a shotgun wound in her body under the heart. Frank Rasinger, the husband, says he found the body on the floor upon returning to the house from the barn. A shotgun was found near the body. The county authorities are making an investigation to learn whether it is a case of accidental death or suicide.

Ex-Mayor Got Ten Years.

DAVENPORT, Ia., Oct. 19.—Ex-Mayor S. F. Smith of this city, son of Samuel Francis Smith, author of "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," was before Judge House in the district court to receive sentence on two indictments for embezzlement and one for perjury. Smith was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment in the penitentiary at Anamosa. As trustee of large estates Smith recently acknowledged the embezzlement of $120,000.

Cubans Falsified Ballot Returns.

HAVANA, Oct. 19.—A dispatch to La Lucha says that all five members of the Santiago provincial election returning board have been sentenced to fourteen years and eight months' imprisonment for falsifying returns in order to seat several congressmen belonging to the Moderate coalition. The government of Cuba has cabled condolences to the royal family of Spain on the death of the Princess of the Asturias.

Would Not Live Without Wife.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Standing beside the body of his wife, Christian Liebfried sent two bullets into his head at his home in Brooklyn and died instantly. One son had just left the house, and the other sat in the next room, reading, when, after having sat for nearly twenty-four hours beside his wife's body, Liebfried fired the fatal shot.

SPORTING NEWS.

FOOTBALL.

The Alis eleven will not play in this city Saturday. Their game will be played out of town, their opponents being the Newark team.

The next game for the O. F. C. team is with the Flemington team, and will be played in this city on Saturday afternoon. The game will be an exhibition game in every respect. The local players will have their strongest eleven on the gridiron, and will make every effort to win the game. If successful, the Flemington game will be the third in the challengers for the State championship which has fallen before the O. F. C. attack.

Lester Dodge, of Bayonne, one of the best football players in the State for his weight, has been secured by Manager Smith, of the Orange Field Club team, to play with them for the rest of the season. He will be with the O. F. C. aggregation at their next practice on Thursday evening. The new man will be a strong addition to the team, and with his help and that of Moore, the former Westfield player, the Orange boys feel not only safe in the State championship series, but are confident that they will make a good showing against the Alis team, who have up to this year been the best eleven in the city. The game with the latter players will take place on November 5.

DIAMOND DUST.

Manager Frank Burke, of the Elizabeth Stars, announced on Sunday that the Plainfield A. C. would play the third contest in the series at the Elizabethport grounds and that "Rube" Waddell, of the Philadelphias, would pitch for the Stars. Thus far no word has been received from Manager Johnston as to whether the game will be played or not, but there seems to be an opinion that it will not.

COAL CARS DUMPED ON EXPRESS PLATFORM

NARROW ESCAPES IN WRECK AT NORTH AVENUE STATION.

As a west-bound coal train was passing the North Avenue station at 2 o'clock this afternoon, the air brake between two cars suddenly parted and both of them were thrown in the air and then dumped on to the United States Express Company's platform. Harry Todd, John Lynch and several others who were standing there were all but crushed beneath, jumping just in time to save themselves. The end of one car struck an express wagon backed up and the horse taking fright, ran away into North avenue but was captured.

It was impossible for passengers to leave the incoming trains and they had to be passed through the gates to the eastbound station. The wrecking train arrived at 2:15 and the work of clearing away the debris will require an hour.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS.

QUESTIONS OF THE DAY DISCUSSED BY THE PRESS.

Testimonial to Fowler and Kean.

Congressman Fowler has been unanimously renominated and Senator Kean has been indorsed without reserve by the Republicans of the Fifth district. No wonder that Mr. Fowler declared in his speech of acceptance that the party had selected as delegates to the convention "the very best men it could find."—Newark Evening News.

Martine Hit Hard.

Some newspaper up in Morris County has been abusing James E. Martine and calling him a narrow-minded demagogue. Anyone who would think that of the farmer-orator would think anything. He is anything but narrow-minded, and while the majority will admit that he is wrong, as a rule, he is so broadly and generously wrong that no one can make a mistake in diagnosing his case.—New Jersey Journal.

The Tariff.

A campaign orator at the Democratic Congressional convention at Somerville the other day declared that the tariff is, to a certain extent, a local issue. Perhaps the speaker did not know that he was following in the footsteps of General Winfield Scott Hancock, and was further unaware of the destination to which that path led.—Newark Evening News.

GARVIN IN A VICIOUS MOOD.

Virgil Garvin, the baseball pitcher, committed an unprovoked assault on R. N. Scheffey, a New York insurance man, on North avenue, this afternoon. Scheffey's nose was broken and a physician had to be called to attend his hurts. Garvin hurried away after the assault and the police are looking for him.

Parker Independents Meet.

A meeting of those comprising the Parker Independent Club was held in the Casino, last evening, when plans were discussed though nothing definite transpired. There is some talk of the club conducting a mass meeting but the idea is embryonic.

Death of G. V. Pierce.

George V. Pierce, of Grove street, died at his home yesterday afternoon in the ninety-fourth year of his age. The funeral will be held from his late home Friday at 2:30 o'clock.

Death of Mrs. Tobin.

Mrs. Nora Tobin, wife of William Tobin, of South Second street, died at her late home this morning. The funeral will be arranged for later.

—Chief Gregory, of the New Jersey Detective Association, was in the city today visiting the new office which C. E. Gulick, the association's local representative, has opened in the Babcock building. The Chief says that in case of a call, he can get anywhere from one to twenty men here from the main office in Newark, within ninety minutes of receiving the call

POLITICAL CHAT.

The Republicans have become active at Somerville and are arranging for a big mass meeting in the near future. A club has been formed with Charles C. Kenyon, president, C. H. Bateman, secretary, and A. A. Reger, treasurer.

National electors: Republicans—Uzal H. McCarter, Washington A. Roebling, Joseph W. Cooper, Alexander C. Wood, Lewis S. Thompson, Adolph Mack, R. H. Williams, J. Hull Browning, Henry Dickson, Arthur B. Leach, Jacob Ringle, Aaron S. Baldwin. Democrat—Howard Carrow, R. V. Lindabury, John W. Westcott, B. Frank Hires, I. W. Carmichael, Haley Fiske, DeW. C. Flanagan, Jacob L. Bunnell, A. H. Vanderpool, Elvin W. Crane, John J. Voorhees, Edwin A. Stevens.

His father died in 1897, but his mother is still living in the family homestead in Raritan. His paternal great grand-father, Peter Tillman, was the first gold and copper smelter in this county and built many of the first smelters erected here. For the past ten years Mr. Tillman has been general superintendent and manager of the New Jersey Portland Cement Company, of Perth Amboy, which enterprise he assisted in organizing and in which he is a stockholder and one of the board of directors. Previous to his removal to Rahway, in 1895, he resided in Jersey City Heights and was active in political and business circles there for a number of years. Mr. Tillman is married and has three children. He owns a handsome home in Milton avenue, Rahway, and is prominently connected with many in-

Mr. Tillman is a member of the Masonic fraternity, also of the Royal Arcanum and other civic organizations. Personally he is a man of the strictest integrity, of a genial disposition and deservedly popular with all who know him. He will poll a large vote in his home city and will prove a strong candidate as there are but few better campaigners in this county.

Rev. Mr. Shott's Plans.

The resignation of Rev. G. M. Shott, as pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, as told in yesterday's issue, takes effect March 1. Rev. Mr. Shott has been offered a lucrative position in business and has also been asked to accept a parish in the oil belt district of West Virginia.

Dr. Wilding Lectures.

Y. M. C. A. NO MATCH FOR HOPE CHAPEL'S FIVE

ONE-SIDED GAME MARKED BY DILTS' FINE WORK.

But for Dilts' marvelous record in goaling shooting, the basket ball game between the Hope chapel team and a scrub team of Y. M. C. A. men, would have been as uneventful as it was onesided. The game was uninteresting all through, as the Y. M. C. A. boys were entirely outclassed and beat by the score of 46 to 5. Of these 46 points, Dilts made 36, scoring eight baskets in the first half, and ten in the second. Many of his throws were difficult ones, some being one-hand shots, and several backward throws. He was not guarded closely and the ball was in the Hope territory most of the time.

The scrub team was in no way representative of the Y. M. C. A., though the players were all members. They had never practiced together before, and their game showed a decided lack of team work, or even individual brilliancy. They were shut out in the second half, being on the defensive for the entire fifteen minutes. With the ball in their opponents territory the forwards were obliged to play guards, and the leather hung over the Hope goal all the second period of the game.

The following was the line-up of the two teams:

Hope—Dilts and Duckworth, forwards; Blimm, center; Emmons, Porter, and Frits, guards.

Scrub team—Aalholm and Shepard, forwards; Joseph, center; Koons and Tomplin, guards.

Horses' Mad Flight.

A heavy team drawing a stone wagon, becoming frightened at the trolley station, tore down North avenue, toward Park, yesterday afternoon at a mad pace. The rig belonged to Michael Welsh, of this city. The flight of the horses was checked by a colored cabman named Carey, who grasped the bridle of one of the horses and hung on for half a block. Before the running horses were stopped, they ran into a buggy belonging to Fred Valentine, of New Market, smashing the shafts and frightening his horse. Mr. Valentine was in the tax collector's office and his wife had remained in the buggy. When the heavy stone wagon collided with her vehicle, she jumped quickly out and grasped the bridle of her own horse, which made frantic efforts to break away.

Broke Collar Bone.

While practicing with the Leal's School eleven yesterday afternoon, Charles Lyman, who was playing a half back, was crushed under a mass play and broke his collar bone. He was taken to his home in a carriage, and Dr. Zeglio set the broken bone. Though Lyman was able to attend school this morning, the injury will keep him out of football for the rest of the season, and may confine him for several weeks.

Appointed as Guardian of Estate.

Judge Strong sitting in the Orphans' Court, New Brunswick, yesterday, appointed Lydia M. Jacobs, of Dunellen, guardian for her daughter, Bessie R. Jacobs, in the settlement of an estate amounting to $100.

Intercollegiate Golf Results.

In the intercollegiate golf championship tournament begun yesterday at the Myopia Hunt Club with the first round of team matches, Harvard defeated the University of Pennsylvania 55½ points to nothing, while Yale disposed of Princeton by a score of 55½ to 1½. Yale and Harvard will meet today in the final round for the championship. Frank O. Rinehart, of the Princeton team, was defeated by Max Behr, of Yale, his score being 4½ points.

Victim May Have Been New Yorker.

The local police believe that the unidentified man who died following injuries received on the Central tracks Monday evening, was a New York policeman. He was seen and spoken to by Patrolman Higgins at Netherwood in the afternoon and he remarked that he had once "worn the buttons in the metropolis." The New York authorities have been asked to aid in finding out who he was.

In City Court.

For drunkenness and disorderly conduct, William Penwil was fined $5 or twenty days in the city court this morning. He took the latter. The same disposition was made of Annie Marando, also arrested for intoxication. Hearing in the Tony Marra case on charges preferred by the Board of Health, wa adjourned until Saturday.

Husband and Wife to Separate.

In the city court this morning, the proceedings against Mulford W. Casterline were discontinued, his wife refusing to press any charge against him. It is understood that they have agreed to a separation. The police arrested him for disorderly conduct at her home.

Dr. A Vincent Rockwell and brother, Bertram S. Rockwell, formerly of this city, sailed from Liverpool yesterday for home.

GRIGGS ON SHAKESPEARE

Noted Lecturer Dwells Upon Bard's Ethical Awakening.

MERCHANT OF VENICE

Discusses Plot of Famous Drama and Refers to Character of Shylock.

The "Ethical Awakening," a discussion of what may be termed the only incomplete drama from the pen of Shakespeare, "The Merchant of Venice," was the subject of the second lecture in the Shakespearian course by Edward Howard Griggs at Vincent chapel yesterday afternoon. The lecturer referred to the incompleteness of the "ethical forces" of the play, based on the fact that the author so lost himself in portraying the character of Shylock that he conceived more in him than he did in the plot of the drama.

In introducing his subject, Professor Griggs mentioned the fact that Shakespeare was better prepared to write the Merchant of Venice from the standpoint of his knowledge of the country, than many of his other plays; and that England was better prepared for the reception of this drama from the fact that Italy was the standard of all that was superior in art and culture, at the time of its publication.

Speaking in a general way of Shakespeare's works, Professor Griggs said that the dramatist makes all of his characters speak in a poetic language far grander than their common manner of speech, yet they all have their distinguishing style adopted to suit their characteristics. Thus in the case of the Merchant of Venice, the imaginative nature, the adventurous spirit, and the easy manner of the Venetians, is brought out perfectly in the apt imagry, the bright wit and careless manner in which the characters converse.

As the dominating feature of the play, the lecturer struck upon the character of Shylock as the embodiment of the greatest strength and the greatest weakness in the drama. Strong from the fact that the character is clearly and perfectly represented in his worst light, the weakness lies in the fact that the author was so engrossed with this side of the man's life that the good qualities are forgotten, when in the fourth act the Jew is driven into the cold night, deprived of all he possessed, downtrodden, dispised and bereaft of his soul's desire, revenge. In the other characters, the good as well as the bad is brought out, but in the portrayal of Shylock, only the bad is represented. It was in this respect that the lecturer termed the drama an incomplete one. He said that the author must have seen this himself, when, not closing the drama with the trial scene, and the Jew's downfall, he adds, that which is clearly an anti-climax, a fifth act, calm and peaceful, a picture only of happiness, reunion, and of contentment.

The end of the dramatic climax, Professor Griggs referred to as the conclusion of the trial scene, when through the brilliant, though vastly improbably reasoning of Portia, the Jew's hopes and plots are overturned, and in their stead is introduced an overwhelming retribution. In no other of his plays does Shakespeare feel the need of an anti-climax after such a dramatic ending. In the Merchant of Venice, the author was "awakened to grasp the real ethical forces of a tragedy, which in this play he has done incompletely, as afterward he did with faultless art."

MISS MADELINE M'INTYRE WEDDED TO CLAIRE BICKEL

CEREMONY PERFORMED AT ST. MARY'S RECTORY BY REV. FATHER EGAN.

Miss Madeline Margaret McIntyre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. McIntyre, of North avenue, and Claire F. Bickel, of this city, were married at the rectory of St. Mary's church last evening at 7:30. The ceremony was performed by Father Egan, the only witnesses being the attendants, Miss Sophia McIntyre, who acted as bridesmaid and John J. Carty as best man. The bride was gowned in white silk and carried roses.

With the completion of the ceremony adjournment was made to the home of the bride's parents where a reception was held. It was attended by fifty relatives and friends from this city, New York, New Rochelle and the Oranges. At its conclusion Mr. and Mrs. Bickel departed on a trip and on returning will make their home on Saratoga avenue, Brooklyn.

The groom has been a resident of Plainfield for the past four years, coming here with his parents from Buffalo. He is in the employ of the New York Air Brake Company and has a wide acquaintance both in the city and borough. The young couple were remembered with a very handsome display of presents.

NO DEFINITE DESIGN FOR TRUST CO. BUILDING

COMMITTEE OF DIRECTORS TO DECIDE UPON PLANS.

Although no definite action has been taken regarding plans for the handsome new building to be erected at the corner of Park avenue and West Second street by the Plainfield Trust Company, a committee from the directorate has been engaged in collecting desirable information and ideas which will be presented to the full board when completed. It is the purpose of the directors to ascertain exactly just the kind of a building needed and the way it should be furnished and then the services of an architect will be employed.

The committee having the matter in charge has visited several large cities and closely investigated the banking institutions' structures for the purpose of getting the very latest ideas as to construction. While the institutions in New York are supposed to be the height of modern thought and invention, the committee has deemed it wise to visit other cities.

It is expected that a decision in the near future so that progress can be made in the work of construction. The company hopes to be able to occupy the new building, it is said, during the early part of next year. The customary notice will have to be given the tenants affected by the purchase of this property before the work of demolition can be started. It is the purpose of the company to erect its building first and the improvement of the remaining portion of the property will be an after consideration.

ABBOTT'S FINE GOLF.

Creditable Showing of Plainfielder on Yale Team.

Although the intercollegiate team match championship was won from Yale by Harvard, yesterday, Robert Abbott, of this city, a member of the Yale team, made a fine showing. He played excellent golf all day. He was 4 up on Fay Ingalls in the morning and 9 up at the end of the match. He made 5½ points of the 7 points scored by the Yale team, against 1½ made by Harvard. Abbott is one of the most promising players at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. His work during the past year being especially noteworthy. Great things are expected of him during his collegiate career at Yale.

Candidate Coyne Recovering.

Former Assemblyman Edward S. Coyne, of Elizabeth, who has been renominated by the Republican party for the Legislature, and who was in a critical condition from an attack of appendicitis, is now said, at the Elizabeth General Hospital, to be practically convalescent. On the day he was renominated he was, for some hours, hovering between life and death, he having went under the knife the night previous. Mr. Coyne is a bachelor.

GARVIN SETTLES WITH VICTIM OF HIS ASSAULT

APOLOGIZES AND PAYS $50 FOR BREAKING MAN'S NOSE.

Through his counsel, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., Virgil Garvin, the former Brooklyn National baseball pitcher, affected a settlement last night with R. N. Scheffey, the young New York insurance man upon whom he committed an unprovoked assault yesterday afternoon. He humbly apologized for his action and paid the bill of the physician who was called together with Scheffey's loss of time, the whole amounting to $50. With this understanding the warrant for the pitcher's arrest, which was in the hands of the police, was withdrawn.

The assault upon Scheffey is the fourth of this nature which Garvin has committed since he has been in Plainfield, although the others were not so serious. He attempted to strike up a conversation with Scheffey but as the latter was busy with some papers he paid no attention to him. Without warning of any kind, Garvin suddenly struck him a stinging blow in the face, breaking his nose and cutting his upper lip in two places.

Scheffey was left in a daze and while he was attempting to stop the flow of blood Garvin casually walked up North avenue and disappeared. When the police were notified he could not be found and Scheffey was first approached for settlement by friends. As it was imperative that he should be in New York this morning he decided to accept Garvin's apology and terms and the agreement was attended to by the lawyer.

AUTO PARADE COMMITTEE HAS ALL PLANS COMPLETE

FINAL MEETING TONIGHT TO ACT ON ELEVENTH HOUR QUESTIONS.

For the purpose of acting on an question that may have arisen since the final arrangements were made, the committee to have charge of the automobile parade Saturday, will hold a last meeting tonight. If any of the intending participants wish information regarding the affair, it will be furnished them, and those who have not yet filed their entries will be received.

It has been decided to have the touring cars line up on Watchung avenue facing the square and stretching to the south toward Netherwood. To take positions in line, cars should approach from East Ninth street or Franklin place. The runabouts and light machines will assemble in East Seventh street, forming a line to the east toward Franklin place. Members of the committee will be on hand at all times and should any of the autos meet with an accident, it is expected to turn out to the curb to let the others pass.

Marshal Frank L. C. Martin and Chairman George M. Kirkuer, of the committee of arrangements, will be at the head of the parade in one automobile and another following will carry Mayor Jenkins and Mayor N. B. Smalley. Other city officials will also participate. The touring cars will be in the first division and the runabouts and light machines will be in the second, headed by Dr. P. J. Zeglio as assistant marshal. The committee has received word that an accident will prevent the appearance of the auto truck which was expected to carry the band, but every effort is being made to secure something else of this kind to take its place. The committee asks that no leaves be burned along the route until after the machines pass

Odd Fellows' Doings.

Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F., at its meeting last night, elected Past Grand Alexander Muir as a delegate to the session of the Grand Lodge to be held at Trenton on Wednesday, Nov. 16. George Morehouse reported that during twelve weeks' illness 178 Odd Fellows visited him and not a single day passed without a caller from Queen City Lodge. During the evening the second degree was worked on one candidate and one application for membership received. After the business there were remarks, songs and recitations by Vice Grand Gray, Harvey Patterson, Alexander Muir, Andrew A. Aitkin and Harry Mixner.

"Stories Adam Told to Eve."

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders has arranged its appropriations so that North Plainfield will have a sufficient amount of money to care for its repairs and new work.

ATTERBURY NOMINATED

Lawyer Named for Mayoralty by the Democrats.

OWENS FOR CITY JUDGE

Schlief for Freeholder and Rodman for School Trustee—Atterbury Popular.

At the city convention of the local Democrats, held in the headquarters on North avenue last night, Albert H. Atterbury, of West Seventh street, was named as the mayoralty candidate to oppose James F. Buckle. His selection was unanimous and the nomination was received with enthusiasm.

The other city nominations were as follows: For City Judge, John P. Owens; for freeholder, Stephen H. Schlief; for school trustee, Rev. Dr. E. M. Rodman. In each instance the election was made on the first ballot.

The convention was called to order by City Chairman J. V. F. Dilts and Vincent L. Frazee was named as chairman. Charles Messersmith acted as secretary, and the following committees were named by the chairman: Credentials, Walter R. Hetfield and Michael Flynn; vacancies, Andrew J. Nolan, Charles A. Sturtevant and Richard Burke.

Mr. Atterbury was not in attendance at the convention but it was understood all along that he would accept the nomination and his name was placed before the delegates by A. J. Nolan. The others followed in succession without discussion of any kind, the slate having been agreed upon. It was understood that friends of V. L. Frazee, who had been frequently mentioned as the probable mayoralty nominee, had been urging him to run for freeholder, but he positively declined to have his name placed before the convention.

Following the completion of the ticket an informal discussion was held and several addresses were made, one of them by John P. Owens, who is to be Judge Runyon's opponent. The party members believe the nominees comprise the strongest make-up they have had in years and that all will make a good fight.

Albert H. Atterbury, who was named for mayor, has been a resident of Plainfield for twelve years and during that time has always taken a keen interest in local affairs. He is a lawyer with offices in New York and is popular in all circles, his stronghold being in the Third ward.

TEN-YEAR-OLD BOY INTOXICATED AT SCHOOL

THOMAS MURPHY DRANK HALF A PINT OF LIQUOR.

Evidently believing that irksome school duties should be combined with pleasure, Thomas Murphy, the ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Murphy, of Spooner avenue, carried with him to his class in the Irving building yesterday, a full pint bottle of real Jersey "red eye," usually styled whiskey. Securing permission from the teacher to leave the room after a struggle with mental arithmetic, he proceeded to a corner of the play ground and drank about half of the fiery liquid. He was discovered in the act by several boys and by the time they had summoned Janitor Pugh, Murphy was helplessly intoxicated.

He made repeated attempts to get to his feet but without success and the patrol wagon in the form of Pugh toted the youngster to the basement where he sobered up. Had he drank the entire contents of the bottle it would undoubtedly have killed him as it was of the strongest kind. He refused to tell where he procured it and an effort is being made to find out.

Passed Civil Service Examination.

Miss Julia Lutz, daughter of Henry Lutz, of West Front street, received word yesterday from Washington that she was successful in passing the Civil Service examination for a position as typewriter and stenographer in the Pension Bureau at Washington. Miss Lutz, who has been employed by Frank Linke, took the examination just seven months ago. She was informed that her work in taking the examination was the most creditable of any taken at the time. Miss Lutz will soon leave for Washington to enter upon her new duties.

ANNUAL EVENT OF SCHOOL BOYS TAKES PLACE TOMORROW.

Everything is in readiness for the annual fall field meet of the Plainfield High School which will take place tomorrow afternoon at the Driving Park. The affair is scheduled to begin at 2 o'clock. From the number of entries received it is anticipated that the event will be one of the most successful which has ever been conducted under the auspices of the P. H. S. A. A.

The following are the entries in the ten events which will constitute the meet: 100 yard dash, Craig, Leichtentritt, Rockwell, Jones, Stutsman, Vail, Whitney, Doane, Freeman and Collier; 220 yard dash, Rockwell, Bentley, Craig, Stutsman, Freeman and Collier; sixty yard dash, Leichtentritt, Rockwell, Douglass, Jones, Vail, Whitney; 440 yard run, Rockwell, Bentley, Craig, Stutsman, Freeman and Collier; half mile run, Rockwell, Bentley, Craig, Palmer, Gavett, Freeman and Collier; high jump, Rockwell, Bentley, Craig, Thompson, Freeman and Collier; broad jump, Craig, Rockwell, Thompson, Jahn, Freeman and Collier; hammer throw, Craig, Thompson, Strong, Freeman and Collier; pole vault, Rockwell, Bentley, Craig, Thompson, Strong, Freeman and Collier; shot put, Thompson, Reed, Douglass, Strong, Freeman and Collier.

The judges and other officials will be the members of the faculty, and Fred A. Henckel, Kenneth Robbie, of the Y. M. C. A., and Francis K. Anderson, of The Daily Press, and Archibald Hacquer, of The Courier News.

FIREMEN'S PARADE AT RARITAN TODAY

WARREN ENGINE CO., OF NORTH PLAINFIELD, WILL BE IN LINE.

The firemen of Raritan have made great preparations for their parade, which is to take place this afternoon. Warren Engine Company, of North Plainfield, paraded through the street here before taking the 1 o'clock train for Raritan.

The companies which will be in line, so far as heard from, are: Hook and Ladder No. 1 and Steamer Company No. 1, of Flemington; Centennial Engine Company No. 1, of Phillipsburg; Engine Company No. 1, Hook and Ladder Company, Lincoln Chemical Engine Company and West End Hose, of Somerville; Westfield Hose Company, No. 1, Ivy Hook and Ladder Company, of Bound Brook; Warren Engine Company No. 1, of North Plainfield, and Franklin Hose Company No. 2, of Rahway.

Besides the parade through the streets of the town, there will be a reception and dinner afterward. The arrangements are in the hands of Relief Hose Company, of Raritan, which is one of the best organized volunteer companies in the State. The officers of the company are: Chief, John Slatter; foreman, Augustus Chamberlain.

Salvation Army Convert.

Lieutenant-Colonel Gifford, of the Salvation Army, New York, city, will visit Plainfield October 27, and will conduct a very special musical meeting at the army hall, 118 East Front street, commencing at 8 p. m. He will be assisted by Brigadier Attkinson, of New York, and Major Shepherd, of Newark. Music will be furnished by the National Staff Band from 14th street, New York. This is the band that received such a very enthusiastic reception at the great International Congress, London, England, in July. They were also very cordially received by Ambassador Choate, of America, about the same time. An interesting and full programme will be given.

Congressman Butler to Speak.

William Newcorn, chairman of the committee to secure speakers for Republican mass meetings here, received word late last night that James S. Beck, former assistant United States Attorney, who was to have spoken at Reform Hall tonight, will be unable to do so on account of illness. Congressman Butler, of Pennsylvania, has been secured to speak in his place.

NETHERWOOD CARS WILL RUN TO DUNELLEN

ELIZABETH TROLLEY TERMINUS TO BE WATCHUNG AVENUE SOON.

Among changes soon to be made by the Public Service Corporation, it is said, will be the operation of the Netherwood cars on the main line as far as Dunellen, in place of the large cars now being run through from Elizabeth to Dunellen. It is reported that as soon as the new cars arrive for the Netherwood line, the through cars will only run as far as the Watchung avenue stand, as formerly, and the other cars will be operated in their place on West Front street.

This arrangement, it is said, will not interfere with the operation of the Jersey-City Trenton cars and that they will be run the same as at present. When news of this change was circulated there was an inclination toward complaint, but it is believed that the service will be just as good as at present.

There is one advantage in the through cars running to Dunellen. The travel on this line is the heaviest and less trouble is experienced in the matter of transfers. If a change is made the conductors on the through cars will again be bothered giving transfers for the remaining part of the through line, as well as the other local lines.

WORK MAPPED OUT FOR COMMON COUNCIL TONIGHT

BIDS FOR MACADAMIZING AND THE LIQUOR FEE QUESTION.

While there will be considerable business of interest and importance at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council tonight, it is not believed that a report will be ready on the matter laid before the members by Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph. Corporation Counsel Marsh has the matter under advisement regarding the "spite" house, and it is not likely he will be ready at this time to give the fire and building committee the necessary advice.

It is possible that Councilman Tyler may call up his amendment to the ordinance to license inns and taverns which provides for an increase in the license fee to $1,000. A sufficient amount of time has elapsed since the regular October meeting to adopt the ordinance on its third reading.

The bids for the macadamizing of certain streets will be received and no doubt the contracts awarded for the materials. It is the desire of the street committee to get matters in such shape that this work can be started soon.

There is a possibility that a report may be made on the charges preferred by Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph against Building Inspector T. O. Doane. It is understood that Mr. Doane will be vindicated, that an investigation of the charges has convinced the fire and building committee that the building inspector acted within the provisions of the ordinance. As for the "shacks" on East Front street, it was stated today that the owners now claim that they intend to finish them and that the work will be done in accordance with the building ordinance. Certain limitations are placed on building work and it is claimed that the time-limit has not yet expired for the completion of the buildings.

In addition to the above matters, other things of minor importance are likely to be considered.

Jolly Seven's Social.

The Jolly Seven Club gave its first surprise party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Perine, of Spooner avenue, last night. Dancing and phonograph selections were the features, and at midnight refreshments were served. Those present were Mathew Lund, Peter Lund, Russel Perine, William Mattox, Theodore Zeller, Herman Miller, Arthur Miller, Mr. and Mrs. C. A Vialon, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John Perine, Mr. and Mrs. George Miller, Miss Edna Perine, Miss Ethel Perine and Mr. and Mrs. Aitken.

WANTS $5,000 DAMAGES

Jury Still Out—G. W. Keiderling's Suit Against Railroad.

INJURED AT NEWARK

Case on Trial at Union County Court Yesterday and Today.

George W. Keiderling, of this city, wants $5,000 from the Jersey Central Railroad and the jury of the Union county court, which listened to the case at Elizabeth yesterday and this morning had not returned a verdict up to 2 o'clock this afternoon. William N. Newcorn, of this city, who represents the plaintiff, says that it looks as if the jury will disagree.

Keiderling is an iron structural builder and at the time of the accident was in the employ of the Hay Foundry Company, of Newark, where, according to his story, he was earning $4.50 per day. Shortly after 4 o'clock on the afternoon of November 14, accompanied by a friend, he went to the East Ferry street station, Newark, intending to board the next outgoing train for New York city, whither he was sent on business.

After waiting on the station platform for about twenty minutes for his train to come in, during which time he was engaged in conversation with his friend, a train pulled in at the station. It had scarcely come to a stop when he heard someone call out, "This train for New York," whereupon he left his friend and going to the train attempted to board the second car from the engine by way of the rear platform. He placed one foot on the car step and took hold of the guard rail with one hand, when the train gave a sudden jerk, swinging him with considerable force against the corner of the car. A second jerk caused him to relax his grasp on the handrail and he was thrown with great violence on the depot platform, receiving a concussion of the head, a fractured nose and other minor injuries.

Keiderling claimed that as a result of his injury he was confined to his home several months, and that owing to the injury to his head he has been unable to follow his trade, because of the fact that in attempting to climb to any height he becomes dizzy.

The defendant company, represented by Lawyers DePere and Buckalow, insisted that the plaintiff attempted to board the train while it was in motion.

COMPANY OFFICERS OF P. H. S. BATTALION

ANNOUNCEMENT OF APPOINTMENTS MADE THIS MORNING.

After several changes and revisions in the appointments of the officers at the Plainfield High School battalion, the orders published this morning announced the assignment of the company officers under which the companies will be commanded for the coming year. As were the other appointments, these assignments are subject to examination, which will take place next Friday. According to the new orders the companies will be officered as follows:

Company A—Captain, Percy M. Brown; first lieutenant, Samuel Bogart; second lieutenant, Hudson Burr; first sergeant, Phillip Leichtentritt; sergeants, Paul Collier, Abraham Rubenstein, William Flanders; corporals, Albert Codington, Louis Fisher, Joseph Osgood and Paul VanBrakle.

Delegates to Church Convention.

A business meeting was held at the First Baptist church last evening following the regular weekly prayer meeting. Among other transaction of routine business, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Chambliss and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Leonard were appointed delegates to the State convention which will be held at Trenton.

Death of Mrs. Bickford.

Mrs. Clara Bickford, wife of John Bickford, died at her home on Sycamore avenue yesterday afternoon. She was in her forty-first year and leaves two daughters. Funeral services over the body will be held from her late residence tomorrow afternoon and interment will be in Evergreen cemetery.

READY REFERENCES FOR THE LOCAL BARGAIN SEEKERS.

An inspection of Wirth's bakery on West Front street, will prove the fact that all his goods are of the first quality. Try his special fancy cakes. They are delicious.

Charles Conover & Co., of Elmwood place, would like to get your contract for painting, papering and decorating, believing that they can please you with the work and the price.

At the Hotel Kensington is the best table service in the city. The hotel is recommended to commutors as the most convenient. It is only two minutes' walk from the station.

J. Hervey Doane, of Park avenue, is showing an attractive line of jewelry, silverware and goldware suitable for wedding presents. Inspect these goods before purchasing anywhere.

John Herrmann, stair builder, would be pleased to furnish estimates to anyone desiring work in this line. He may be reached by dropping a postal to him at 410 Somerset street or calling 'phone 70-j.

Since E. H. Clevely inaugurated the business man's lunch, his North avenue restaurant has become more popular than ever. It is the biggest value for the money there is in the city. He has a separate dining room for women.

When Woolston & Buckle undertake a painting or paper hanging contract, there is no experimental work about it. They employ only the best mechanics and everyone knows his trade. Hundreds of references all over New Jersey bear them out.

Talking about cigars, J. P. Kirch, the North avenue dealer, is having a "very special" drive this week. Some of the very best brands are being featured and are being sold at a price that commands attention. Kirch supplies smokers' needs.

The superior quality of Ivamy's fish is a well established fact in this city and vicinity. It has been so for years. He is a successor to Rogers & Company. You may feel assured that when you buy fish from Ivamy, you get the freshest, and the purest.

Have you had an account in the First National Bank for the last year? If so, you have more money at the present time than if you have not had one. If you wish to save money, and at the same time get good interest, invest in the First National Bank.

The special offers of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company still continue. They are equally inviting this week. The trading stamp offers are an especial attraction. With the stamps, however, you get a superior grade of goods, at a low price. Look in Saturday's paper for the half-page advertisement.

When you need first-class hardware of course you will go to the H. E. Gayle Hardware Company, corner of Park avenue and Front street. The firm has just received a new stock of the best ranges and heating stoves and an easy selection will be to your advantage. You will also find a large assortment of household necessities at this store.

Meats, poultry, fish and oysters purchased at Roth & Co.'s market on East Front street, always give entire satisfaction. The firm's chief aim is to please every customer by selling only the best at the lowest prices and you will make no mistake in trading at this market. Watch the firm's advertisement in this paper and keep posted on the opportunities offered to save money.

There is a stupendnous sale of Japanese matting now on at Woodhull & Martin's store and there is no better time to purchase this desirable covering for the floor than now. The October sale of the famous Ostermoor mattress is also attracting much attention. It is conceded that no better mattress is made and this firm has the exclusive right for Plainfield. If you do not want to buy an Ostermoor the firm has other makes that will please you.

BOOK NEWS.

It is planned to issue on Thursday of each week items of library news. This will frequently take the form of book lists, such as lists of books recently added, lists on special subjects and like topics. Frequently the lists will be annotated, the aim being to make these annotations of real service to the reader, by giving him the opinion of a trustworthy critic as to the value of the books, or a few words as to their scope. Borrowers should keep these lists. The Plainfield Public Library will furnish to anyone making application a list of its books on a given subject.

CORNERSTONE AT CORNELL.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 20.—Goldwin Smith of Toronto laid the cornerstone of the Hall of Humanities at Cornell university, which bears his name and is being constructed at a cost of $250,000. University exercises were suspended during the service. President Jacob G. Schurman, former President Dr. Andrew D. White and Dr. Charles Mellen Tyler were present. In the deposit box were university records, mementos of Goldwin Smith and current issues of daily papers.

President Schurman said that in dedicating the hall to Goldwin Smith Cornell honored him as one of its earliest professors, who came to the youngest from one of the oldest English speaking universities, Oxford, as one of the truest friends of the university and the United States, as a champion of democracy, liberty and peace among nations and as an exemplar of the highest culture.

Goldwin Smith said in part:

"The honor is deeply felt, and he on whom it is conferred heartily wishes that it had been better earned. A long life now at its close has many memories of mingled happiness and pain. One memory is unalloyed. Bright in my life, though dark and sad with rain, was the November morning in the year 1868 on which I landed from a train at Ithaca, was received by Andrew White and afterward taken out by Ezra Cornell to the campus on which then stood one poor block and which now is covered with stately buildings and is joyous with the student life of the great Cornell university.

"I fear I am bidding a long farewell to Cornell and all objects of my long interest and attachment here. I do it with a full heart of affection and gratitude."

GUARD FOR NEW BATTLESHIPS.

Detail of Marines Sent to Shipyards at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20.—In compliance with an order received at the League Island navy yard from Washington a detail of marines has been sent to Cramps' shipyard to guard the armored cruiser Pennsylvania, which is receiving the finishing touches preparatory to a builders' trial.

On other ways are the armored cruiser Tennessee and the battleships Idaho and Mississippi. With the regularly detailed watchers employed by the Cramp company the marines will pay special attention to the Pennsylvania and Tennessee.

This is the first time in the history of either Cramps or the League Island navy yard that marines have guarded ships in course of construction. No official statement could be secured as to the reason for this action, but it is understood to be a precautionary measure in consequence of the recent attempts to disable the battleship Connecticut at the Brooklyn navy yard.

The giant armored cruiser Pennsylvania was launched at the yards of the William Cramp Ship and Engine Building company recently, when Miss Coral Quay, daughter of the late Senator M. S. Quay, was the ship's sponsor.

Shipwrecked Sailors Starving.

NORTH SYDNEY, C. B., Oct. 20.—After subsisting on scant rations for several weeks, during which they suffered intensely from the cold, the eleven survivors of the stranded steamer Viking have been picked up from otherwise uninhabited islands off the coast of Labrador by the tug Douglas H. Thomas, which had been dispatched to their relief. They were taken to the Hudson Bay company's post at Rigolet. When the men were rescued their rations had dwindled to an insignificant amount of salt port, flour and water, and their condition was desperate.

Harrison and Carlisle on Stump.

GENEVA, N. Y., Oct. 20.—Francis Burton Harrison, Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor, and John N. Carlisle of Watertown addressed a Democratic mass meeting here last night at Smith's Opera House. Overflow meetings were held which were addressed by other speakers. Mr. Harrison charged that the Republican party had become corrupt owing to its continuance in power. He also charged it with extravagance and attacked the state lunacy bill. Mr. Carlisle confined himself entirely to state issues.

British Snowbound In Tibet.

PARIJONG, Tibet, Oct. 20.—The headquarters of the British Tibet force, consisting of two companies of mounted infantry, the Eighth Gurkhas and the Fortieth Pathans, is snowbound at Para, a fortress near Boutan, Tibet. The column marched through Parijong pass in the midst of a blinding snowstorm, during which it went into camp. Two men died during the night. The snow is drifting, and the road has been obliterated, which may compel the force to remain here for some time.

Attempted Train Wreck.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Oct. 20.—An attempt was made by tramps to wreck a Lackawanna passenger train near Nichols by placing ties on the track. The obstruction was noticed by the crew of a passing freight before the arrival of the passenger. The crime is believed to have been committed by the same gang of tramps who early in the evening stoned a passenger train near that place.

Ames Case to the Jury.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 20.—The case of former Mayor A. A. Ames, charged with bribery based upon allegations that as mayor he was responsible for a system of "graft" of which abandoned women of the city were victims, was given to the jury last night.

ENVOY TO PANAMA.

Secretary of War Taft Will Go to Isthmus.

OLIVE BRANCH FOR THAT REPUBLIC

Roosevelt Sends Member of His Cabinet to Reassure Isthmians of Our Good Intentions While Building Great Canal.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The president has instructed Secretary of War Taft to proceed at an early date to Panama to confer with the president of that republic with a view to disposing of the differences that have arisen between the two countries.

The following letter has been sent by the president to Secretary Taft after a conference with the secretary of state and the secretary of war in respect to the conditions in Panama:

"By executive order of May 9, 1904, I placed under your immediate supervision the work of the isthmian canal commission, both in the construction of the canal and in the exercises of such governmental powers as it seemed necessary for the United States to exercise under the treaty with the republic of Panama in the canal strip. There is ground for believing that in the execution of the rights conferred by the treaty the people of Panama have been unduly alarmed at the effect of the establishment of a government in the canal strip by the commission.

"Apparently they fear lest the effect be to create out of part of their territory a competing and independent community which shall injuriously affect their business, reduce their revenues and diminish their prestige as a nation. The United States is about to confer on the people of Panama a very great benefit by the expenditure of millions of dollars in the construction of the canal. But this fact must not blind us to the importance of so exercising the authority given us under the treaty with Panama as to avoid creating any suspicion, however unfounded, of our intentions as to the future.

"We have not the slightest intention of establishing an independent colony in the middle of the state of Panama or of exercising any greater governmental functions than are necessary to enable us conveniently and safely to construct, maintain and operate the canal under the rights given us by the treaty.

"Least of all do we desire to interfere with the business and prosperity of the people of Panama. However far a just construction of the treaty might enable us to go, did the exigencies of the case require it in asserting the equivalent of sovereignity over the canal strip, it is our full intention that the rights which we exercise shall be exercised with all proper care for the honor and interests of the people of Panama. The exercise of such powers as are given us by the treaty within the geographical boundaries of the republic of Panama may easily, if a real sympathy for both the present and future welfare of the people of Panama is not shown, create distrust of the American government.

"This would seriously interfere with the success of our great project in that country. It is of the utmost importance that those who are ultimately responsible for the policy pursued should have at first hand as trustworthy information as can be obtained in respect to the conditions existing in Panama and the attitude and real interests of the people of that state.

"After a conference with the secretary of state and yourself I have concluded that it will be of great advantage if you can visit the isthmus of Panama in person and hold a conference with the president and other governmental authorities of the republic of Panama. You are authorized in doing this to take with you such persons as you desire familiar with the conditions in the isthmus who may aid you with their counsel.

"The earlier you are able to make this visit the better. The secretary of state will instruct the United States minister at Panama to render you every assistance in his power, and the governor of the canal strip, General Davis, will of course do the same thing. You will advise the president of the republic what the policy of this government is to be and assure him that it is not the purpose of the United States to take advantage of the rights conferred upon it by the treaty to interfere with the welfare and prosperity of the state of Panama or of the cities of Colon and Panama.

"You will make due report of the result of your visit on your return."

Senor Obaldia, minister of Panama to the United States, held a conference with the secretary of state and secretary of war subsequent to the receipt of this letter, and the secretary of war invited the minister to accompany him on his trip to Panama. It is impossible to say exactly when the secretary of war can leave for Panama, but probably on Nov. 14.

While definite arrangements have not yet been made for Secretary Taft's trip, it is his purpose to go to Panama on the army transport Sumner from New York. Admiral John Walker will go as a representative of the canal commission, and Judge Charles Magoon, the law officer of the commission and of the bureau of insular affairs, will be of the party. The members of the senate and house committees dealing with isthmian affairs will be invited. The entire trip, it is expected, can be made inside of a month.

Prominent Iowa Banker Dead.

CHARLES CITY, Ia., Oct. 20.—A. G. Case, president of the First National bank, is dead here of pneumonia, aged seventy-six. He was the most prominent banker of northern Iowa.

JAPANESE PROTEST.

Russia Offends Against International Usages.

INFANTRY DISGUISED AS CHINESE.

Tokyo Calls Attention of St. Petersburg to Her Troops' Violation of Rules of War—Rain Causes Lull In Battle.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—A special from Tokyo says that the Japanese government has decided to draw the attention of the Russian government to the unlawful action of Russian troops in using Chinese costumes. The notice will be served through the American state department, which will be transmitted through the American embassy at St. Petersburg.

A memorandum issued by the foreign office says that on Oct. 4 a body of infantry belonging to the Russian Third regiment of sharpshooters wearing Chinese costumes attacked the Japanese force on the Mukden road and that Russians similarly clad approached the Japanese lines and attempted surprises. Different reports received, it is charged, indicate that the Russians are purchasing enormous quantities of Chinese costumes.

The memorandum points out that combatants not properly uniformed are liable to punishment as offenders against the laws of war and that participation in fighting without uniforms is a violation of international usage, an unlawful act and contrary to the meaning of article 23 of the supplementary rules of the convention governing the laws and customs of war on land.

It is pointed out further that this action of Russian troops will prove a source of great calamity to innocent Chinese, who will thereby be exposed to danger owing to their inability from distances to distinguish the Russian soldiers from real Chinese.

A dispatch from St. Petersburg severely criticises the Russian generalship in the latest battle and declares that the information from Mukden indicates an early evacuation of that town by the Russians.

There is a popular impression here that affairs at Port Arthur are reaching a crisis, and it is believed that the end is only a question of days.

The Japanese advance is ten miles south of Mukden. The Russians have built heavy defenses two miles south of the Hun river, where they are expected to make a stand. There are no natural defenses at that point.

Advices from St. Petersburg this morning say that for the moment heavy rains and impassable roads have compelled a suspension of operations in Manchuria. There was practically no fighting yesterday and none whatever last night.

There is evidence of a new disposition of the forces on both sides. General Kuropatkin is extending his right, whether with a view to a turning movement for the safety of Lone Tree hill, the importance of which point is fully realized by the Japanese, who have attempted to retake it in two night attacks, or whether to meet and thwart a Japanese turning movement from the west, has not yet developed. The Japanese also appear to be shifting weight to the westward.

Many critics here continue to believe that General Kuropatkin intends to return to the line of the Hun river.

Special dispatches from St. Petersburg make mention of a crushing defeat of two Japanese divisions. There is no confirmation, however, in any reliable quarter of such a report.

According to a correspondent with General Kuroki a Russian battalion which crossed the Taitse river has been almost annihilated. While retiring over a pontoon bridge, the correspondent says, the battalion was overtaken by a regiment of Japanese cavalry, which got its machine guns into position and swept the bridge from end to end.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 20.—A special from Loomis, Mich., says: "A sixteen-year-old newsboy has been arrested in connection with the death of Arthur Burwash, aged eight. The dead boy lay in the woods ten hours with his left leg almost entirely shot off below the hip. One of his two companions had shot him accidentally, it is alleged, and then, becoming terrified, had carried the wounded boy to a swamp and after covering him with leaves abandoned him to his fate. Clyde Harvey, aged twelve, alleges that he was threatened with death if he reported the accident."

Marsh Got Ten Months In Jail.

WATERBURY, Conn., Oct. 20.—David C. Marsh, who for the past six months has been in the New Haven county jail awaiting his trial for perjury, appeared in the superior court here and after pleading guilty was sentenced to ten months in jail. The case is one of those resulting from the trolley strike in this city some eighteen months ago.

Sudden Death In Sleeper.

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 20.—Mr. J. B. Murphy, apparently a prosperous young business man of New York, accompanied by his wife and little child and on his way home from El Paso, Tex., died on a sleeper near King's mountain yesterday. The body was sent to New York on an evening train, Mrs. Murphy accompanying it.

Chinese Railway Stopped For Funds.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Acting Consul Cheshire cables the state department from Canton that work on the Canton-Hankow railway has been stopped. The inference is that the stoppage is caused by lack of funds.

DOLLY SPANKER.

Hamburg Belle Defeated In Race For Southampton Handicap.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Dolly Spanker, heavily played at 16 to 5, won the Southampton handicap, one mile and a sixteenth, at Jamaica, defeating last year's Futurity winner, Hamburg Belle. Wotan made the running to the stretch, where Redfern, on Dolly Spanker, who had been trailing the field, moved up along the rail and won easily by two lengths from Orthodox, with Hamburg Belle third, two lengths away.

The first one mile and a quarter race ever run over the track was won by Stonewall, a 50 to 1 shot, driving, by a head from Cloverland. The time was 2:08.

Stamford Boy Wins at Kiteflying.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 20.—The world's fair jury has decided that in the contest for kites to rise to an altitude of at least 500 feet with 800 feet of line awards should be made as follows: First prize, $500, J. B. Wardwell of Stamford, Conn.; second prize, $300, J. N. Fataut of St. Louis; third prize, $200, H. B. Bristol of Webster Grove, Mo. The winner of the first prize is a boy of sixteen and the only contestant, with the exception of his father, who used a box kite, the others using Eddy kites.

Otto Stifel Won Priests' Stake.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 20.—Otto Stifel, the outsider in the betting, won the Priests of Pallas stake, the feature at Elm Ridge, from Alma Dufour. San Nicholas made the running to the eighth pole and then quit, finishing third. Alma Dufour and San Nicholas were added starters. Claude, McGee and Judge Himes were withdrawn. Creolin, in the steeplechase handicap, was the only favorite to win.

Harvard Golf Champions.

HAMILTON, Mass., Oct. 20.—Harvard won the intercollegiate golf championship for the seventh time, defeating Yale in the final round of team matches on the links of the Myopia Hunt club by a score of 13½ to 7. Three Harvard men and two Yale players won their matches, while the leaders of the two teams, H. C. Egan and Max Behr, were even up at the end of the day's play of 36 holes.

Commodore Beaten by Pretension.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 20.—Commodore, with 131 pounds up, favorite in the feature of Delmar park's racing card, went down to defeat here after a gallant struggle down the stretch with Pretension. Commodore was conceding many pounds to his field, but was only beaten a length in 1:27, which equals the track record for seven furlongs. Terns Rod, a two-year-old, was three lengths behind Commodore.

Lipton Still After the Cup.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Sir Thomas Lipton states that it is utterly incorrect to assume that he has abandoned the idea of challenging for the America's cup. He has, he said, faced great difficulties in securing a designer, but he has not given up. He has given George L. Watson carte blanche in the matter of securing a boat and was still hopeful of success.

Mayor Johnson Beat Rusk.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Mayor Johnson, with a big advantage in the weights, beat Rusk, the Canadian sprinter, in the feature event at Worth. Rusk was backed from 13 to 5 to 9 to 5. Mayor Johnson was hardly given a thought and was allowed to drift from 6 to 1 to 15 to 1 at post time, with few takers.

A Football Whitewash.

OSSINING, N. Y., Oct. 20.—The Mount Pleasant academy football eleven defeated the Hudson River Military academy by the score of 52 to 0.

A Murdered Man's Identity.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Oct. 20.—A telegram received by the police of this city from the chief of police of Mentor, Minn., indicates that a man in whose pockets was found a card bearing the name of Albert Desrochers of 3 Cumberland street, this city, has been murdered at Mentor. Information was requested as to identity. Albert Desrochers of this city of that address was found alive and well, but he said that the dead man probably was either Phileas Fontaine or Joseph Guilmette, whom he had sent west early last summer on business.

Presidential Dinner Party.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The president and Mrs. Roosevelt entertained at dinner last evening the French ambassador and Mme. Jusserand, Justice McKenna, Secretary of War and Mrs. Taft, Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Morton, Hon. and Mrs. Bellamy Storer, Commissioner and Mrs. Garfield and Mrs. Oliver. Mr. and Mrs. Bellamy Storer are overnight guests at the White House.

Accident Followed Shooting.

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 20.—As a result of a quarrel Charles Harding shot his wife, Mahley Harding, three times and then turned the pistol on himself, the bullet penetrating the base of the brain. In conveying Harding to the City hospital the ambulance was struck by a trolley car and wrecked, the driver being thrown out and severely bruised. Harding and his wife are fatally wounded.

Looked In Hand Mirror to Shoot.

TORRINGTON, Conn., Oct. 20.—James Ralcomb, a hopeless invalid, has committed suicide here by shooting. He held a small mirror in front of him while he fired the shot through his head.

NO REASON FOR IT.

When Plainfield Citizens Show the Way.

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the tortures of an aching back, the dangers of diabetes or any kidney ills when relief is so near at hand and the most positive proof given that they can be cured. Read what a Plainfield citizen says:

Mrs. I. L. Holmes, of 442 West Second street, says: "I used several boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills for backache and derived more benefit from them than anything else. Before I tried this remedy I was bothered almost constantly with a severe pain across the small of my back, so bad at times that I thought I must give up. If I sat down and got up or was lying down and attempted to rise quickly or retained one position for any length of time, sharp acute pain always followed. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for such troubles and went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. They helped me from the first and I improved right along as I continued their use."

Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

A TROPICAL STORM.

Coast of Florida, Near Miami, Wreck Strewn.

TOWNS CUT OFF FROM OUTSIDE WORLD

Six Lives Lost, Ships Wrecked and Houses Blown Down—Crops Damaged All Along the Atlantic Shore.

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 20.—After blowing a gale for three days the storm predicted for south Florida broke over this place about nightfall. In a few hours Miami and most of the towns on the east coast of Florida were cut off from communication with the outside world. Telegraph wires were blown down, and the railroad tracks were obstructed.

The wind attained a maximum velocity of seventy-five miles per hour here. The chief damage here on land was done by the rain.

In the surrounding country the fruit and vegetable crops were damaged. Several rafts along the bay front were capsized and swamped.

At Buena Vista the residence of J. G. Truitt was blown from the pillars and several others twisted and strained. Great damage to fruit and vegetation is reported. At Cutler and the homestead sections it is feared that most damage has been done to fruit and vegetables.

The schooner Melrose, with a crew of eight and four passengers, was wrecked off the coast. Just before sunset a great wave swept over the vessel, capsizing it and throwing the passengers and crew into the sea. Mrs. Hallen, one of the passengers, was lost, but the crew managed to cling to the sides of the vessel, and Mr. and Mrs. Weller, two other passengers, found themselves in the water within reach of the yardarm of the foremast. When the ship righted herself the two were still clinging to the rigging. The mast, however, fell and crushed Mrs. Weller. Her lifeless body was washed overboard, while Mr. Weller had both bones of his right arm broken. The schooner drifted until Monday, when all were washed overboard. Mr. Weller grasped a hatch and floated ashore, landing near Palm Beach, as did the captain, mate and two colored seamen. One white man and four negroes were drowned.

The four masted schooner James Judge of Philadelphia is aground four miles south of Palm Beach, having gone ashore in a terrific gale, in which the wind blew from sixty to ninety miles an hour. The vessel is badly damaged.

The three masted bark Zion, owned by A. Hemmes of Emden, Germany, loaded with a million feet of lumber from Pensacola to London, stranded five miles north of the House of Refuge, near Fort Lauderdale, and Captain Hemmes and crew of fourteen men, after several hours of struggling, saved themselves with the aid of pieces of lumber and improvised rafts.

The Norwegian bark Rainfaxe, from Campeche for Europe, Captain Logwood, ran ashore on Marquesa reef during the storm. The crew was rescued by the schooner Welcome. The hurricane missed Key West.

Audience Sat Out the Fire.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 20.—An audience that crowded the Bastable theater to the doors sat through a performance of "Hoity Toity" last night unconscious of the fact that half the city's fire department was fighting what promised to be a stubborn blaze two floors above. So perfect were the precautions taken by the theatrical people, the police and fire officials that, although the streets outside were jammed with thoroughly excited people, no one in the big audience knew anything was wrong until water began to drip from the ceilings. Then they were told that a pipe had burst, and no trouble was experienced. Eighty policemen and a large detail of firemen were hidden beyond curtains and doors and in the wings ready to stop any panic that might develop. The damage amounted to less than $1,000.

Charles Emory Smith at Oswego.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Oct. 20.—Former Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith of Philadelphia addressed a large Republican mass meeting at Fulton, in this county, last night. He condemned the Democratic party as a party of obstruction and destruction. Regarding imperialism, he stated that those who bring forward such an issue would affront the intelligence and judgment of any people. He explained in detail the Panama matter and said that President Roosevelt's action was necessary for the preservation of the honor of the nation and for the building of the Panama canal.

Fairbanks In New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The Republican mass meeting held in Brooklyn last night at the Clermont rink was addressed by Senator Charles W. Fairbanks of Indiana, Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw and Congressman J. L. Griffith of Indianapolis. The rink was crowded, and the audience a most enthusiastic one. Previous to the meeting the speakers were entertained at dinner by former Lieutenant Governor Timothy L. Woodruff. George H. Roberts presided.

Will Enter a Monastery.

BOSTON, Oct. 20.—It is announced here that Rev. E. H. Schlueter, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, Roxbury, and his curate, Rev. R. B. T. Anderson, had tendered their resignation to the vestry, both clergymen having decided to enter the monastery of the Holy Cross near Poughkeepsie bridge, New York.

Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 20, 1904.

In Albert H. Atterbury the Democrats of Plainfield have a worthy candidate for the highest office in the municipality. If fortune should make him Mayor of this city, Plainfield will have an executive for whom it need not present any apologies.

If advertising could be done by simply bringing one notice to the public it would not be necessary for railroads to keep up the board "Look Out for the Cars." They would put it up until all of the neighborhood had seen it and then take it down. People forget. A thing in fashion once must be continued by the means which brought it in vogue.—Ex

Mr. Bryan contributes to a weekly magazine his reasons why the Democrats of 1896 and 1900 should support the Democratic ticket on Nov. 8 next. If anything can be foretold by the election bets, the same Mr. Bryan will be contributing to some paper on Nov. 9 his reasons why the Democratic ticket was defeated. He's bound to reap in the shekels no matter which way the election goes.

Stump speaker in a Pennsylvania town the other day attacked the Democrats because they deny suffrage to the negro in the South. In the City of Brotherly Love the Democrat is not exactly denied the right but he not infrequently finds that some "stalwart Republican, who plays the part of a "repeater" has kindly voted in his name. Then again fake names are a feature of the registry lists and these are used to swell the Republicans' "grand old majority." A Constitutional prohibition of the negro's vote is undoubtedly wrong in principle, but is it not just about as bad to prevent a white man's Constitutional right to vote?

CITY JOTTINGS.

—H. J. Wierenga, the truckman, owing to his largely increasing business, has ordered a large covered van, which he expects to arrive in a few days.

—P. H. Latourette will sell all goods and chattels of the late Isaac E. Smith on the road leading from Oak Tree to South Plainfield at 1 o'clock today.

—Neuman Brothers continue to carry a large line of fresh vegetables. Their consignments are received fresh every morning and are selected with the idea of giving the best for the money.

—An attractive programme has been planned for the educational opening and members' meeting to be held at the Y. M. C. A. building tonight. All young men interested in the educational work of the association, and who wish to know more of the privileges that are offered to young men in the association, are invited to be present.

AMUSEMENTS.

Vaudeville superior in quality and plenty in quantity will be the order of affairs at Keith's during the coming week. In the list of headliners are some of the best known performers of this country and Europe and many decided novelties will be seen during the performance. The bill will be headed by that old favorite of the Frohman forces, Chas. H. Bradshaw, and his company of four, in the comedy entitled "Mr. Fix in a Fix," and offering that will cause the most stolid to roar with laughter. Bright, clean, witty and with a wholesome story it affords opportunity for some excellent acting.

LITERARY.

The Thanksgiving issue of Madame, the magazine "For Women Who Think," published by the Ford Publishing Co., Indianapolis, is one of special interest. The cover design by Walter Tittle is especially strong, representing the "Banishment of Summer." The contents of this issue of Madame are fully up to its high standard, and the magazine is certain to have a large sale at the newsstands. Many interesting and pertinent subjects are discussed in this issue of Madame.

WESTFIELD HIGH, 6; NORTH PLAINFIELD, 5

BOYS "ACROSS THE BROOK" DEFEATED IN HOT CONTEST.

By the narrow margin of one point, the result of the goal from a touchdown made in the last half minute of play, the eleven of the Westfield High School defeated the North Plainfield High School team by the score of 6 to 5 at Westfield yesterday.

The local players were the first to cross their opponents' line after about four minutes of play, when by steady gain through the line, Webster was pushed through left tackle for a touchdown. The goal was not kicked.

No further scoring resulted until the last half minutes of the game, when with the ball in the middle of the field, the Westfield gained the leather on downs, and started down the field on the run. By excellent interference, and good hole making, E. Keyes broke through left tackle, and on a sensational run of forty yards, scored five points for his team. Collin kicked the goal, winning the game by the one resulting point.

HOT SODA FOR COOL DAYS.

Our Hot Soda is so inviting to the taste—it's made from the purest ingredients and served at the largest, finest and most sanitary fountain in the state.

The surroundings are pleasant—our clerks always polite, courteous.

With each order, you're served with a dish of saltine wafers—which go so nicely with the soda.

All at 5c a cup.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS HOLD SOCIAL OF DAYS

NOVEL ENTERTAINMENT AT SEVENTH-DAY BAPTIST CHURCH.

Under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church a unique entertainment and social was held in the parlors of the church last night. It was called a "Social of Days," and persons attending were decorated with all sorts of emblems or dressed to suit the occasion, either in dress or poetry to represent the numerous well-known days. Others present were given paper and pencil and they were supposed to guess the days represented and those who did not have the chance to guess were again given an opportunity by some of the participants who read or sang, thus giving a clue.

These days were represented:

Wash day, Dr. Martha Stillman; ironing day, Miss Ida Randolph; day time, Miss Etta Randolph; May day, Miss Mildred Green; Fourth of July, Miss Mary St. John; sweeping day, Miss Kissie T. Neagle; Decoration day, Miss Eva Rogers; rainy day, Miss May Boss; Valentine day, Miss Bessie Dunham; February 29, Miss Marie Rogers; New Year's Day, Miss Evalois St. John; some day, Miss Cornelia Miller; Thanksgiving Day, Mrs. James E. Kimball; baking day, Mrs. Oscar Ellis; Christmas, Mrs. Asa F. Randolph; Paul Revere Day, April 18, 1775, Charles P. Titsworth; Lincoln's birthday, Orra S Rogers; town meeting day, Asa F. Randolph; Election day, Oscar Ellis; Arbor day, Nathan Wardner; St. Patrick's Day, Harry Case; harvest day, Wendel Mosher; Labor Day, George Clarke; Forefather's Day, Lawrence Miller, April Fool's day, Charles F. Neagle; Washington's Birthday, Rolland Williams.

Another novel feature was a lunch counter, where coffee, pumpkin pie, cruilers, cheese and apples were offered for sale. A satisfactory sum was received at this counter. In addition to the entertainment every one had a good social time. The committee in charge was comprised of Miss Mary Greene, Miss Ernestine C. Smith, Miss Etta Randolph, George Clarke and Arthur J. Spicer.

Iona Council's Dance.

An enjoyable dance was the one given by Iona Council, No. 44, D. of P., at the Coward building last night. The affair was largely attended, and was in every way a successful event. A business meeting preceded the dancing. The music was furnished by Naylor's orchestra. Miss Ella Sebring was chairman of the committee in charge.

—Fancy table apples, fancy grapes and many other choice fruits are included in the display at Neuman Brothers'. Special prices will prevail this week and their lowness is an attractive feature.

POLITICAL CHAT.

S. P. T. Wilbur, of this city, was a caller at the home of Congressman C. N. Fowler, of Elizabeth, yesterday.

The Trenton Times sizes up the situation in this Congressional district when it says: "The nomination of James E. Martine for Congress by the Democrats of the Fifth district against Mr. Fowler looks like a case of giving up before the battle. With Dewitt Clinton Flanagan willing to accept the nomination and spend his money liberally, it is to assume that if there had been a good chance to win the convention would have not named a man who has been defeated for public office at least a half a dozen times, even though he is one of the best campaigners the district. Mr. Martine stands upon a platform that favors a reduction of the protective tariff, which will scarce be popular in Elizabeth and Plainfield, with their great factories. It cerainly would not suit the men engaged in this county.—Morris County Chronicle.

The Republican and Democratic Congressional candidates, this year, with the composition of the districts and the pluralities of the successful candidates in New Jersey two years ago, are given herewith. With the exception of the Fourth district, the name of the sitting member is given first:

First district—Henry C. Londenslager, Austin H. Swackhamer. Camden, Gloucester and Salem counties. Republican plurality in 1902, 5,092.

Second district—John J. Gardner, Samuel E. Perry. Cape May, Atlantic, Cumberland and Burlington Counties. Republican plurality, 10,501.

Fourth district—Ira W. Wood, Robert L. Stevens. Hunterdon, Somerset and Mercer Counties. Judge Lanning's plurality in 1902, 2,006.

Fifth district—Charles N. Fowler, James E. Martine. Union, Warren and Morris Counties. Republican plurality, 1,149.

Seventh district—R. Wayne Parker, Percy Jackson. Part of Essex County. Republican plurality, 5,507.

Eighth district—William H. Wiley, Frederick Seymour. Part of Essex County. Republican plurality, 6,809

Total of Republican plurality, 33,933; total of Democratic pluralitis, 18,356; net Republican plurality, 19,577.

Miss Kline Buried.

Funeral services of the late Miss Mary Kline, aged twenty-one years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Kline, of West Third street, were held at the Mt. Olive Baptist church, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. There was a very large attendance of members of the Baptist Young People's Union, of which the dead woman was president, the Industrial Association, and the Sunday-school. Class No. 2, of the Sunday-school, of which Miss Kline was a member, sang several favorite selections. Rev. E. H. Jackson, pastor of the church, conducted the services, speaking from the text "The Lord is My Shepherd I Shall Not Want." The interment was in Hillside Cemetery, four brothers and two cousins of the dead woman serving as pall-bearers.

Reception to Rector and Wife.

The Women's Guild, of the Church of the Holy Cross, will give a reception to Rev. and Mrs. William Montgomery Downey at the rectory, this evening, when an opportunity will be given the rector and his wife to meet their parishioners.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 23.

Topic.—How can we enlarge and improve our work?—Matt. xxi, 17-22; Isa. liv, 2.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

The topic emphasizes the fact that we have a work. We could not enlarge and improve it unless we had. And for every Christian there is a work. "To every man his work." We have not only the personal work of life incidental to our existence in a world like the one in which we live, but a much larger life and work—a work for God, for the church of Christ and for humanity.

No matter how well we may have done our religious work or in what improved condition it may be, it may be enlarged. No human effort ever reaches a point so near perfection that it is impossible of improvement. Therefore the commands of God have ever been for advancement. To the ancient children of Israel He said, "Go forward!" In the time of Solomon the proverb was given, "Let thine eyes look right on." The church in Isaiah's day was commanded: "Enlarge the place of thy tent and let them stretch for the curtains of thine habitations. Spare not, lengthen thy cords and strengthen thy stakes." The last command of Christ to His disciples was, "Go ye throughout the world. * * * And, lo, I am with you always." Under these repeated inspiring commands we should make every effort to enlarge and improve our work. It is the opening of the busy season of Christ's church. In the fall every church and society should begin a well thought out campaign and, "trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for strength," pursue it until success crowns the labors put forth.

What we have is not to be lightly esteemed or cast aside. No new site for the tent was to be selected, but that space enlarged. The same curtains were to be used, only enlarged and stretched over the wider space. Cords were to be lengthened and stakes strengthened. On the basis of what we have, if it be the true foundation, which is Christ Himself, we should all strive to enlarge and improve.

1. Enlargement. What Christian Endeavor society is there that cannot enlarge? In every place of meeting there must be some space that could be occupied by additional numbers, or, if not, there must be new space that can be added to that already in use. Who will make this increased space necessary by bringing new members into the society? In this work every one should have a part.

2. Improvement. Enlargement without improvement is of no avail. Numbers without spiritual graces and qualifications are in vain in God's work. "It is not by might nor by power, but by My spirit, saith the Lord." "Paul may plant, Apollos water, but God only can give the increase." The Endeavor tent at the Denver convention blew down. The tent was too large and heavy for the poles and cords that supported it. Let it not be so in our societies. Let us enlarge in personal piety, in numbers, in labor, but let us also improve. Let us prove our professions by our performances. The fig tree puts forth its fruit before its leaves. A tree with leaves upon it should therefore have had fruit. The one in the topic had the leaves, but not the fruit. It was a false professor and hence its spiritual significance to the Jesus and to us. Let us be workers, not idlers, in the vineyard of the Lord. Let us bring forth fruit and not simply leaves. By faith and prayer and fasting let us enlarge and improve ourselves, our society, our church and the church universal.

The Ends of the Earth.

A contribution of $5 for the World's Christian Endeavor union from the Christian Endeavor society in Douglas, Alaska, shows how the ends of the earth are brought together in one blessed fellowship. During the past few weeks contributions for the advancement of worldwide Christian Endeavor have also been received from Australia and China as well as from many parts of our own land. Have you had a part in this great work? If not, why not send an offering to the World's Christian Endeavor union. Tremont Temple, Boston, Mass., and so have a share in the blessing?—Christian Endeavor World.

Endeavor In West Africa.

Among the native Christians in missionary lands Christian Endeavor is doing a noble work. It is proving a splendid means of educating new converts for service. One example of its practical results comes from Shaingay, West Africa. The young men of that society set out, two by two, to preach the gospel through the whole of their district, a region 40 by 70 miles in extent. They held 238 services and reached 4,572 hearers, and all without a cent of expense.—Roll Call (Australia).

Amid Turkish Oppression.

Turkey has seventy-five societies, in spite of Turkish oppression, which will not allow constitutions to be signed, badges to be worn, or even the word "society" to be used. The Caesarea society was obliged at one time to burn its records.

An Invalid's Thought.

God's rainbows show no lovelier tints
Than those on bud and bloom
That came to me one gracious day
And glorified my room.

All day I thought, and smiled to think,
How sweet the soul must be
That looked out through the donor's eyes
And chose those tints for me.

—Churchman.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Oct. 23: "How Can We Enlarge and Improve Our Work?"—Matt. xxi, 17-21; Isa. liv, 2.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES.

That's an easy question to answer in words, but not so easy to answer in deeds.

To accomplish the work three things are necessary, and only three.

We must wish, think, perform.

Not much is ever actually done in this world without a lot of wishing. Now, wishing is downright hard work when it is done as it ought to be. It is entirely different from dreaming. Imagination has a part in it, to be sure, but not the most important part. Wishing is hunger of spirit. It is not merely recognizing that we lack something we would like to have; it is wanting. That is in the world of feeling; that is where we have the sense of hurt. Wishing may be painful. If of any good, it usually is uncomfortable, and that is why so many do not do much true wishing, and so our work does not improve and enlarge. We do not like to be disturbed. We shall never get ahead until we prize something more than our comfort and are willing to suffer a little.

We must get to wishing and wishing hard; wanting the things of the kingdom in real earnest; thirsty, until it pains, for right things; heartachy to get out among men and help on things; interested so intensely that the eyes get wet with desire and lumps come up into the throat and you can't help it.

This sort of longing rarely comes from talking with others, but only from talking with God and finding out what He wants. When a true soul comes to understand that God actually wants things different from what they are and wants some one to help him get them as they should be, that one begins to feel as never before. He gets sorry, and then he gets glad. It's too bad things are in such shape, but we'll get to work and fix them right. He can help God. He feels as God feels about it.

If we are to come to this place we will need to spend some time alone with God, perhaps much time. Not because God cannot talk fast and give us wonderful feeling, but because we must get away from other influences which distract us. We must become insulated and get connected up and avoid all short circuiting entanglements. Call it prayer or anything you please, only get alone with the Lord where you have time to get into His feeling and not be interrupted, and where you will not be ashamed to cry a little as the flood tides of feeling come up.

That is not all. Many stop here, and the result is dead failure. All evaporates in just feeling.

We need now to do some close thinking, some hard thinking. Most folks dislike to think—that is, if thinking costs any effort. We call ourselves rational beings and would be insulted did any one cast doubt on it, but the fact is the larger part of our doing is anything but reasonable. We must think, and that soberly and honestly. We must look at things as they truly are. This will tear the mask off some pleasant hypocrisies and will silence some pious cant and offend some goodish folk who like those things and frighten some others who mean to be good, but are nearsighted or timid. Oh, it will not be all easy if once you begin to think how things ought to be and what you ought to do about it. You will get wiser, but at the same time sadder. But there is no improvement except by this road.

Then comes the performance. That is as difficult as either wishing or thinking, perhaps rather harder to some. Perform—that is, shape matter into a certain form, happy if you don't have to unshape it first before you can reshape it as you wish and think it should be.

That word "perform" has come to have a bad meaning as well as a good one. Beware of performing and performances that are only imitations of real living. Be real inside and outside, and you will see great improvement and enlargement in yourself and in all the work.

Delays Are Not Denials.

They have preserved in Bedford, England, the door of the jail which was locked upon John Bunyan. I looked at it long and earnestly. I thought of the many prayers which Bunyan must have pleaded behind it that that jail door might swing open for him. Yet for twelve years the bolts of that door stood undrawn.

But the delay was how affluently fruitful! Dreams were going on behind that door, and the world needed them. When "The Pilgrim's Progress" of which Bunyan dreamed had taken shape and tangibility, Bunyan's Lord, who had never for an instant forgotten him while the slow years passed, swung that jail door wide.

Let us give God time. Let us trust His wisdom. Sometimes quick answer would be worst answer. Let us learn Adam Slowman's so needed lesson for our impatient hearts—that "delays are not denials."—Wayland Hoyt, D. D.

Trust.

He holds the key of all unknown,
And I am glad.
If other hands should hold the key
Or if He trusted it to me
I might be sad.

What if tomorrow's cares were here
Without its rest?
I'd rather He unlocked the day
And as its hours swung open say,
"My will is best."

I cannot read His future plans,
But this I know:
I have the smiling of His face
And all the refuge of His grace

Enough, this covers all my needs,
And so I rest.
For what I cannot He can see,
And in His love I e'er shall be Forever blest.

—Forward.

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors
BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.
BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.
LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW
BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.
LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT
BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.
BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

The New Woman

Another Ancient Superstition Concerning Women Exploded

WOMEN tell all they know, do they? Women can't keep a secret? Listen. The manager of an extensive employment bureau, which places women clerks and stenographers, said lately that business houses generally preferred women for private secretaries because they keep the secrets of their employers' business better than men do. He said this might sound strange at first thought, but experience had proved it to be a fact. Men clerks gossip concerning their employers' affairs and let out trade secrets to a much greater extent than women do. A case in point is well known to have occurred during the summer just passed, where the private dealings of one of the largest business corporations in the world were involved. The one person who knew more about those private affairs than even the directors of the company themselves, because she was the one who kept track of these, was a certain young woman private secretary. Bribes were offered to her, she was flattered, she was threatened, she was coaxed, she was interviewed time and again in the hope that she might let fall some careless word, but she never was trapped. The newspapers called her at length the sphinx and gave her up. This young woman is said to receive $10,000 a year for her services. Then there is that secret society of women called the P. E. O. I don't know what it is; nobody outside of it does know. All the members will tell is that, for one thing, they are banded together in the cause of woman—to aid in the progress and elevation of their own sex. The members of this mysterious order scarcely permit even their names to be discovered, yet whenever these become known they are those of cultured, intellectual, deeply thoughtful women. But they keep their mouths shut, absolutely.

This appears to be the talking incarnation of some people.

There are three kinds of girls "in business," as it is called. One kind is the flibberty girl, who uses her wages only to get gay clothes wherewith she may capture some man and get away from earning her living, as she fondly imagines. This girl shirks her work, goes to parties nights, has her head full of Man with a large M and is no good to anybody. Then there is the ox girl, who works when she is hitched up, so to speak, quits when the day is over and goes to her stall, with no thought beyond drawing her pay, with no ambition, no aspiration for advancement, promotion or improving herself. The third kind of girl is the wide awake one, whose mind is on her work before all else. She looks out for every opportunity to make herself useful and to be advanced. She learns all she can in every department of her employer's undertakings and takes the interest in them that she would in her own. If opportunity for an independent enterprise appears she is ready to seize it and improve it. This kind of girl always accumulates a competency, often a fortune.

Miss Jean Jeannette Durlacher is business manager of a daily newspaper in Laramie, Wyo. Miss Durlacher understands the newspaper business from advertising to reporting. She is highly educated, gifted and as wide awake as a newspaper manager needs to be in order to get success.

As we journey through life let us ever and anon stop and take a dose of mind our own business.

My sisters, when we think on our mercies let us be thankful that soap is cheap and water is plentiful.

Jolly good quotation from Eleanor Kirk: "If you think you have a good thing keep it to yourself until you are sure you have got it fast. Even then don't be in a hurry. Many a good loaf has been spoiled by slack baking."

Speaking of her early attempts at literature, Sarah Grand says she "suffered terribly from want of encouragement." Heaven help us! What woman has not in whatever line of enterprise she has undertaken? The cutting, chilling, sneering, ill natured discouragement, oftentimes even from one's own parents, stabs like cold steel. A woman never gets over it, even when she is too strong and brave to be downed and goes on and achieves in spite of her family. But many a woman who otherwise would have made for herself a noble career has had all the aspiration crushed out of her by the sneers of father, husband or brother. Heaven help them, too, for they will have it to answer for!

In a recent marital separation suit the judge decided that a man is "master of his own house," even when the house, with everything in it, belongs in her own right to the wife, and that the husband may "forbid" his wife's mother to visit his wife in the wife's house. When and where are we living? Women have all the rights they want, have they?

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

By EMERSON HOUGH

(Copyright, 1902, by Emerson Hough.)

He noted the faint brown of the ends of the sweetly-enveloping silk of the ear, pale-green and often underneath the sheltering and protecting husk. He found the sweet and milk-white tender kernels, row upon row, forming rapidly beneath the husk, and saw at length the hardening and darkening of the husk at its free end, which told that man might pluck and eat.

And then he saw the fading of the tassels, the darkening of the silk and the crinkling of the blades; and there, borne on the strong parent stem, he noted now the many full-rowed ears, protected by their husks and heralded by the tassels and the blades. "Come, come ye, all ye people! Enter in, for I will feed ye all!" This was the song of the maize, its invitation, its counsel, its promise.

Under the warped lodge frames which the fires of the Iroquois had spared, there were yet visible clusters of the ears of last year's corn. Here, under his own eye, were growing yet other ears, ripe for the harvesting and ripe for the coming growth. A strange spell fell upon the soul of Law. Visions crossed his mind, born in the soft warm air of these fecundating winds, of this strange yet peaceful scene.

At times he stood and looked out from the door of the palisade, when the prairie mists were rising in the morning at the mandate of the sun, and to his eyes these waving seas of grasses all seemed beckoning fields of corn. These smokes, coming from the broken tepees of the timid tribesmen, surely they arose from the roofs of happy and contented homes! These wreaths and wraiths of the twisting and wide-stalking mists, surely these were the captains of a general husbandry! Ah, John Law, John Law! Had God given thee the right feeling and contented heart, happy indeed had been these days in this new land of thine own, far from ignoble strivings and from fevered dreams, far from aimless struggles and unregulated avarice, far from oppression and from misery, far from bickerings, heart-burnings and envyings! Ah, John Law! Had God but given thee the pure and well-contented heart! For here in the Messasebe, that Mind which made the universe and set man to be one of its little inhabitants—surely that Mind had planned that man should come and grow in this place, tall and strong, and fruitful, useful to all the world, even as this swift, strong growing of the maize.

CHAPTER XXIII.

THE BRINK OF CHANGE.

The breath of autumn came into the air. The little flowers which had dotted the grassy robe of the rolling hills had long since faded away under the ardent sun, and now there appeared only the denuded stalks of the mulleins and the flaunting banners of the goldenrod. The wild grouse shrank from the edges of the little fields and joined their numbers into general bands, which night and morn crossed the country on sustained and strong-winged flight. The plumage of the young wild turkeys, stalking in droves among the open groves, began to emulate the iridescent splendors of their elders. The marshes above the village became the home of yet more numerous thousands of clamoring wild fowl, and high up against the blue there passed, on the southbound journey, the harrow of the wild geese, wending their way from north to south across an unknown empire.

A chill came into the waters of the river, so that the bass and pike sought out the deeper pools. The squirrels busily hoarded up supplies of the nuts now ripening. The antlers of the deer and the elk which emerged from the concealing thickets now showed no longer ragged strips of velvet, and their tips were polished in the preliminary fitting for the fall season of love and combat. There came nights when the white frost hung heavy upon all the bending grasses and the broad-leafed plants, a frost which seared the maize leaves and set aflame the foliage of the maples all along the streams, and decked in a hundred flamboyant tones the leaves of the sumach and all the climbing vines.

As all things now presaged the coming winter, so there approached also the time when the little party, so long companions upon the western trails, must for the first time know division. Du Mesne, making ready for the return trip over the unknown waterways back to the lakes, as had been determined to be necessary, spoke of it as though the journey were but an affair of every day.

"Make no doubt, Monsieur L'as," said he, "that I shall ascend this river of the Illini and reach Michiganon well before the snows. Once at the mission of the Miamis, or the village at the river Chicaqua, I shall be quite safe for the winter, if I decide not to go farther on. Then, in the spring, I make no doubt, I shall be able to trade our furs at the straits, if I like not the long run down to the Mountain. Thus, you see, I may be with you again sometime within the following spring."

"I hope it may be so, my friend," replied Law, "for I shall miss you sadly enough."

"'Tis nothing, monsieur; you will be well occupied. Suppose I take with me Kataikini and Kabayan, perhaps also Tete Gris. That will give us four paddlers for the big canoe, and you will still have left Pierre Noir and Jean, to say nothing of our friends the Illini hereabout, who will be glad enough to make cause with you in case of need. I will leave Wabana for madame, and trust she may prove of service. See to it, pray you, that she observes the offices of the church; for methinks, unless watched, Wabana is disposed to become careless and un-Christianized."

"This I will look to," said Law, smiling.

"Then all is well," resumed Du Mesne, "and my absence will be but a little thing, as we measure it on the trails. You may find a winter alone in the wilderness a [illegible] for you, mayhap duller than [illegible] in London, or even in Quebec, but it will pass, and in time we shall see again. Perhaps some good fellow will be wishing to come back with me to set up a mission among the Illini. These good fathers, they go delight in losing fingers, and ears, and noses for the good of the church—though where the church be glorified therein I sometimes cannot say. Perhaps some leech—mayhap some artisan—"

"Nay, 'tis too far a [illegible], Du Mesne, to tempt others than ourselves."

"Upon the contrary rather, Monsieur L'as. It is matter for laughter to see the efforts of Louis and his ministers to keep New France chained to the St. Lawrence! Yet my good lord governor might as well puff out his cheeks against the north wind as to try to keep New France from pouring west into the Messasebe; and as much might be said for those good rulers of the English colonies, who are seeking ever to keep their people east of the Alleghanies."

"'Tis the old world over again, there in the St. Lawrence," said Law.

"Right you are, Monsieur L'as," exclaimed Du Mesne. "New France is but an extension of the family of Louis. The intendant reports everything to the king. Monsieur So-and-so is married. Very well, the king must know it. Monsieur's eldest daughter is making sheep's eyes at such and such a soldier of the regiment of the king. Very well, this is weighty matter, of which the king must be advised! Monsieur's wife becomes expectant of a son and heir. 'Tis meet that Louis the Great should be advised of this! Mother of God! 'Tis a pretty mess enough back there on the St. Lawrence, where not a hen may cackle over its new-laid egg but the king must know it, and where not a family has meat enough for its children to eat nor clothes enough to cover them. My faith, in that poor medley of little lords and lazy vassals, how can you wonder that the best of us have risen and taken to the woods! Yet 'tis we who catch their beaver for them; and if God and the king be willing; some time we shall get a certain price for our beaver—provided God and the king furnish currency to pay us; and that the governor, the priest and the intendant ratify the acts of God and the king!"

Law smiled at the sturdy vehemence of the other's speech, yet there was something of soberness in his own reply.

"Sir," said he, "you see here my little crooked rows of maize. Look you, the beaver will pass away, but the roots of the corn will never be torn out. Here is your wealth, Du Mesne."

The sturdy captain scratched his head. "I only know, for my part," said he, "that I do not care for the settlements. Not that I would not be glad to see the king extend his arm farther to the west, for these sullen English are crowding us more and more along our borders. Surely the land belongs to him who finds it."

"Perhaps better to him who can both find and hold it. But this soil will one day raise up a people of its own."

"Yet as to that," rejoined Du Mesne, as the two turned and walked back to the stockade, "we are not here to handle the affairs of either Louis or William. Let us e'en leave that to monsieur the intendant, and monsieur the governor, and our friends, the gray owls and the black crows, the Recollets and the Jesuits. I mind to call this spot home with you, if you like. I shall be back as soon as may be with the things we need, and we shall plant here no starving colony, but one good enough for the home of any man. Monsieur, I wish you very well, and I may congratulate you on your daughter. A heartier infant never was born anywhere on the water trail between the Mountain and the Messasebe. What name have you chosen for the young lady, Monsieur?"

"I have decided," said John Law, "to call her Catharine."

CHAPTER XXIV.

TOUS SAUVAGES.

Had nature indeed intended Law for the wild life of the trail, and had he indeed spent years rather than months among these unusual scenes, he could hardly have been better fitted for the part. Hardy of limb, keen of eye, tireless of foot, with a hand which any weapon fitted, his success as hunter made his companions willing enough to assign to him the chase of the bison or the stag; so that he became not only patron but provider for the camp.

Some weeks after the departure of Du Mesne, Law was returning from the hunt some miles below the station. His tall and powerful figure, hardened by continued outdoor exercise, was scarce bowed by the weight of the wild buck which he bore across his shoulders. His eye, accustomed to the instant readiness demanded in the voyageur's life, glanced keenly about, taking in each item of the scene, each movement of the little bird on the tree, the rustling of the grass where a rabbit started from its form, the whisk of the gray squirrel's tail on the limb far overhead.

The touch of autumn was now in the air. The leaves of the wild grape-vine were falling. The oaks had donned garments of somber brown, the hickories had lost their leaves, while here and there along the river shores the flaming sentinels of the maples had changed their scarlet uniform for one of duller hue. The wild rice in the marshes had shed its grain upon the mud banks. The acorns were loosening in their cups. Fall in the west, gorgeous, beautiful, had now set in, of all the seasons of the year, that most loved by the huntsman.

This tall, lean man, clad in buckskin like a savage, brown almost as a savage, as active and as alert, seemed to fit not ill with these environments, nor to lack either confidence or contentment. He walked on steadily, following the path along the bayou bank, and at length paused for a moment, throwing down his burden and stooping to drink at the tiny pool made by the little rivulet which trickled down the face of the bluff. Here he bathed his face and hands in the cool stream, for the moment abandoning himself to that rest which the hunter earns. It was when at length he raised his head and turned to resume his burden that his suspicious eye caught a glimpse of something which sent him in a flash below the level of the grasses, and thence to the cover of a tree trunk.

As he gazed from his hiding-place he saw the tawny waters of the bayou broken into a long series of advancing ripples. Passing the fringe of wild rice, swimming down beneath the heavy cordage of the wild grapevines, there came on two canoes, roughly made of elm bark, in fashion which would have shown an older frontiersman full proof of their western origin.

In the bow of the foremost boat, as Law could now clearly see, sat a slender young man, clad in the uniform, now soiled and faded, of a captain in the British army. His boat was propelled by four dusky paddlers, Indians of the east. Stalwart, powerful, silent, they sent the craft on down stream, their keen eyes glancing swiftly from one point to the other of the ever-changing panorama, yet finding nothing that would seem to warrant pause. Back of the first boat by a short distance came a kindred craft, its crew comprising two white men and two Indian paddlers. Of the white men, one might have been a petty officer, the other perhaps a private soldier.

It was, then, as Du Mesne had said. Every party bound into the west must pass this very point upon the river of the Illini. But why should these be present here? Were they friends or foes? So queried the watcher, tense and eager as a waiting panther, now crouched with straining eye behind the sheltering tree.

As the leading boat swung clear of the shadows, the man in the prow turned his face, scanning closely the shore of the stream. As he did so, Law half started to his feet, and a moment later stepped from his concealment. He gazed again and again, doubting what he saw. Surely those clean-cut, handsome features could belong to no man but his former friend, Sir Arthur Pembroke!

Yet how could Sir Arthur be here? What could be his errand, and how had he been guided hither? These sudden questions might, upon the instant, have confused a brain ready as that of this observer, who paused not to reflect that this meeting, seemingly so impossible, was in fact the most natural thing in the world; indeed, could scarce have been avoided by anyone traveling with Indian guides down the waterway to the Messasebe.

EPISCOPALIANS AT BOSTON.

Attempt Being Made For Compromise In Church Divorce Laws.

BOSTON, Oct. 20.—An attempt was made by the committee on canons of the Episcopal house of deputies to arrange a compromise between that body and the house of bishops. The bishops had adopted an amendment forbidding the remarriage of divorced persons while the deputies had declined to adopt so rigid a provision, notwithstanding the fact that a majority of them took a stand similar to that of the house of bishops. The committee on canons offered a resolution compelling divorced persons seeking remarriage to wait one year after the decree of the court has been issued before the solemnization of the ceremony. By this resolution, which referred to the innocent person in a divorce for infidelity only, it was hoped to secure at least a temporary agreement between the two forces. After some debate the divorce issue was made a special order.

The deputies devoted a large part of the day to the consideration of a request from several dioceses for permission to use the revised version of the Bible in churches. When the house was divided the request was refused by a majority of both clerical and lay delegates.

In the house of bishops Bishop Henry C. Potter of New York, chairman of the standing committee on the relations of capital and labor, presented a lengthy report which touched upon certain evils the committee found and discussed the industrial situation at great length.

WEINSEIMER WILL FIGHT.

Former Trade Leader to Battle For Freedom.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Philip Weinseimer, former leader of the Building Trades alliance, who was convicted of extortion, had recovered his nerve when seen in the city prison. He would not discuss the verdict of the jury or any of his plans.

Though Weinseimer has been convicted, his lawyers have not given up the fight in his behalf.

Despite the assertion of Weinseimer that his means are limited, a bitter legal fight will be made in his behalf. If his lawyers succeed in getting him out of jail he will have to face another trial on another charge of extortion. In that respect he is in the same position as the late Sam Parks.

FOOTBALL.

The Orange Field Club will meet for their last practice before the Flemington game, tonight at the Westervelt avenue grounds. The practice will be a stiff one inasmuch as the game Saturday will be for "blood." All the candidates are expected to be out.

An interesting game should result from the proposed contest between the Leal's School alumni and the present eleven which represents the school. If the players can be gotten together, they will have a good team to play against the regular eleven. With Bob Abbot, Richard Lovell, Ray Biglow and others who have played on the Leal's eleven, the alumni would give the school boys a hard game. It will be definitely known within a week whether or not the contest will take place.

Leal's have another hard game before them for next Saturday. They will meet the team from the Newark Academy, one of the strongest teams in the league, and a much heavier opponent. The game will be played in the morning on the Crescent Oval. The line-up of the Leal's School boys will be as follows: Glenney, right end; Curtis, right tackle; Strong, right guard; Manning, center; Lawrence, left guard; Batieres, left tackle; Sutphen, left end; Reese, quarterback; Dallas, full back; Daniels, right half; Wilcox, left half.

DIAMOND DUST

With Ames and Warner as a battery, the New York Nationals shut out the Hazleton, Pa., team, Tuesday, by a score of 8 to 0, chiefly through errors. The batting of both teams was light.

Manager Frank Burke, of the Elizabeth Stars, was in town yesterday calling on friends. He feels somewhat disappointed at the way in which Manager Johnston cancelled the game for Saturday at Elizabethport. He fully expected that for the two contest he gave the Plainfield A. C. here he would ave a return game at Elizabeth. However, Burke has arranged to play Westfield on his grounds. Waddell and Schreck will be the battery for the Stars and Waller and Freedberg for Westfield. On Sunday Waddell and Schreck will be the battery for the Stars against the Frankfords, with McGinnity and Cotter as the battery.

STATE CHARITIES AID ASSOCIATION SESSION

PLAINFIELDERS AT FALL MEETING HELD IN ELIZABETH.

The board of managers of the State Charities Aid Association held its fall meeting yesterday afternoon at 310 North Broad street, Elizabeth, the residence of its president, Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, who has just returned from Europe. Mrs. Dexter Tiffany and Hugh F. Fox, both of this city, were present. Luncheon was served by President Williamson to her guests at noon, after which the subjects that brought the board together were taken up and acted upon.

The principal business transacted at the session was the consideration of State supervision of State and county charities, and also the preparation by the association of its annual report to Governor Murphy, who must be in his hands by October 29.

The committee for the employment of paroled and discharged prisoners likewise made its report.

There was also a lively discussion on prison reform, and it was decided that after a conference has been held with the New York Prison Reform Association on this subject, the general public of New Jersey will be informed what the plans of the State Charities Aid Association will be in this particular line.

SNAP SHOTS.

SIDE LIGHTS ON TIMELY TOPICS NOTED IN PASSING.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Mosher, of West Fifth street, recently received an interesting letter from their son, Stanley Mosher, who is engaged in civil engineering work in Panama. The young man states that one serious objecton to that part of the country is the absence of social affairs. He ratner likes his work, believing it will give him an experience he could not get in any other way. He says he is undecided whether he will return home this winter or wait until next spring. He adds that he is well and having success with the work.

An argument in favor of the annexation of the borough and the city is furnished in a recent experience of Postmaaster Elias H. Bird. There is a man in Columbus, Ohio, who is planning to come East and visit in North Plainfield. After diligent search he failed to find the place on the map of the United States, which he possessed. He then wrote a letter and addressed it to the station agent at the "Union Depot at Plainfield, N. J., or the Postmaster at Plainfield, N. J." In the letter he stated that he desired to visit North Plainfield, but had been unable to ascertain its location on the map. He further desired information as to what railroad to take and at what station to get off. He expressed the opinion that North Plainfield must be somewhere near Plainfield and took the liberty of making the inquiry at Plainfield.

Lack of Democratic Organs.

The Democracy of New Jersey are in a bad fix for the lack of newspaper organs. There are but two Simon pure Democratic daily newspapers in the Satte, the Trenton True American and the Hoboken Observer. There are one or two other alleged Democratic sheets, but like the one in this city, they are owned by scheming Republicans and weak kneed Democrats.—Paterson Evening News.

—The regular meeting of the U. S. Grant Club scheduled for tonight has been put over until Saturday evening.

James E. Kimball, of West Seventh steet, is in the west on a business trip. He will visit the St. Louis Exposition before his return.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS.

QUESTIONS OF THE DAY DISCUSSED BY THE PRESS.

Always An Issue.

Democrats insist that the money question is not an issue. It will be an issue as long as men work for wages and measure their material prosperity in dollars and cents, and no political party with the backbone of a boiled carrot can ever afford to ignore it.—Hunterdon Gazette.

Concerted Democratic Work.

Upon the fact that "Bryan is on the stump for Parker," and the report that Mr. Cleveland is going to preside at a Democratic mass meeting in New York, a contemporary jubilates, "all indications point to concerted work for victory in which every Democrat of any influence whatsoever will participate." Small premises for such a comprehensive conclusion, especially as the former President has not yet done any campaigning, and "Bryan on the stump for Parker" and has been telling the voters how woefully wanting in all the essentials of a good Democrat and a good candidate Parker is, and what a makeshift apology for genuine Democracy the St. Louis convention turned out as a platform. No two Democrats "of any influence" can be found agreeing on just what the party stands for on any concrete issue. All are in accord that the Democrats are out and want to get in; all are ready to promise that the party will do everything better than it is done now. But there is no accord as to just how it is to be done. They shout "extravagance" and promise wholesale retrenchment without impairing a single useful government enterprise, and can point to no expenditure that will or can be cut down to carry out the pledged economy. Even the two candidates, each disagreeing with the platform on the tariff, disagree with one another. About the most conspicuous characteristic of the campaign beside the crazy-quilt platform and the absence of positive convictions on the part of theo andidate, is the want of "concerted work" among the campaigners. And the very last item from which to draw encouragement is the character of the stumping for Parker that is being done by Mr. Bryan, of Nebraska. —Newark Advertiser.

HISTORY OF THE GYPSIES.

Modern Historians Have Traced the Origin of the Nomadic Strangers to India.

The word gypsy, of curious and interesting origin, is at once illustrative of the tenacity of a corruption and suggestive that the propensity of children for acquiring bag language is a racial trait. The gypsies on their first appearance in England about the beginning of the sixteenth century were mistaken for Egyptians and so called by men of education, but the common people, finding some difficulty in mastering the name, rendered it "gypsies," and so the wandering people have ever since been called.

During the reign of Henry VIII., in 1531, a statute was enacted expelling the gypsies from that country under penalty of imprisonment and forfeiture of property. According to the Grey Friars' Chronicle the statute recited that "many outlandish people, calling themselves Egyptians, using no craft nor faict (practice) of merchandise, have come into this realm and gone from shire to shire and place to place in great company and used great subtle and crafty means to deceive the people; bearing them in hand that they by palmistry could tell men's and women's fortunes, and so many times by craft and subtlety have deceived the people of their money, and also have committed many and heinous felonies and robberies." Six years later Cromwell, in a letter to the president of the Marches of Wales, accuses "the gipcians," as he calls them, of "falsehoods, felonies and treasons" and orders the execution of such as fail to leave at command.

The gypsies had spread over the continent of Europe several centuries before their appearance in England, and an Austrian monk, writing of them in the twelfth century, calls them the progeny of the son of Hagar, or Ishmaelites. Modern historians, however, have, by the peculiarities of their language, traced their origin to India. Throughout the orient and continental Europe they were known as metal workers, and Sir John Lubbock attributes to them the introduction of metallurgy, especially of bronze, into Europe.

Has Great Teaching Record.

Mrs. Emma Stuckman, of Nappanee, Ind., is believed to hold the record for the state, and, perhaps, for the United States, as a school-teacher, she having just entered upon her one hundredth term as a teacher, covering a period of 52 years, nearly all of the terms being consecutive. She began teaching when she was 14 years old, in a little log building 14x16 feet, near Milford, Ind. She went to that place with her parents in 1845. The woman, in addition to her school duties, has reared her family of two sons and a daughter. Many of her relatives have been her pupils. She will teach this year in Elkhart county, and expects to continue school work indefinitely.

REFORMED CHURCH'S NEW CLASSIS MEETING

PLAINFIELD CANGREGATIONS REPRESENTED AT SESSION YESTERDAY.

The sixty-seventh stated meeting of the Newark Classis of the Reformed Church was opened in Christ Reformed church, Newark, yesterday morning, with a large number of delegates in attendance. The representative of Trinity Reformed church, of this city, was the pastor, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, and those from the German Reformed church, of North Plainfield, were Rev. George Bowers and Frank Bock.

Rev. Henry M. Mellen, pastor of Christ church, was chosen as president, succeeding Rev. W. W. Conner, of Belleville. Rev. Albert Schneider, of Montclair Heights, was selected as temporary clerk, and Rev. John S. Allen, of the New York Avenue Reformed church, was elected secretary.

A request was entertained from the North Reformed and the Irvington Reformed churches for permission to vary somewhat the method of voting for deacons and elders. The representatives of these two edifices said they wanted a form of election that was more direct and gave a larger part of the congregation a chance to participate. The desired permission was vosed.

Rev. George S. Bishop, of the committee on church extension, reported that the new church in the Hyde Park section of East Orange was ready for organization. He told of the purchase of Hyde Park Club house, and added that it had been turned over to the church authorities for a place of worship, free and clear of debt.

The classis voted to formally organize the new church Thursday, October 27. Holy Communion will be given the following Sunday. November 2 the church will be dedicated, and the next day there will be a reception. There will be forty-two communicans to enroll, and these will be the charter members of the new church.

The classis adjourned at 1 o'clock for lunch. In the afternoon Mrs. Snell Burnett, a former missionary to India, gave a short talk on her work.

"The Story of a Japanese Boy," will be the subject of the meeting of the Boys' Mission Band to be held in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The "Dairy Maids" of Bethel chapel will give a supper and entertainment in the chapel November 17. They will be assisted by the "dairy men" and the affair promises to be unique in many ways.

The first fall meeting of the sewing school at Warren chapel will be held Saturday morning at 10:30. Any girl between the ages of six and sixteen years is cordially invited to join the school. Old members are reminded to return their books.

Plainfield's Saloons.

With only fifteen saloons to 20,000 inhabitants, Plainfield is soon to enjoy the unique distinction of imposing the highest license fee for the sale of liquor of any city in New Jersey. It has been $700 for many years, and at the last meeting of the Council a resolution to advance it to $1,000 was passed to its third reading. In addition it is proposed to allow saloons in the business district only.—Paterson Call.

SOCIAL AT HOPE CHAPEL.

Y. P. S. Entertains a Large Gathering Last Evening.

Under the auspices of the Young People's Society of Hope chapel, a delightful lunchbox social and entertainment was given at the chapel last evening. The informal entertainment included vocal selections by Mrs. L. R. Howard, phonograph selections by Harry Lister, and recitations by Mrs. Fesmier. All those who took part in the entertainment were enthusiastically applauded, and their efforts were very creditable.

At the conclusion of the programme, Rev. L. R. Howard auctioned off the lunch boxes, from the sale of which a fair sum was realized. The committee in charge of the affair was composed of the following persons: Mrs. A. R. Lewis, Mrs. Hary Lister, Mrs. Bell Siera, Miss Lillie Brakeley, and Miss Mae Squire.

T. A. B.'s Successful Dance.

A successful dance was held last night under the auspices of the T. A. B. Association in the hall on West Fourth street. The attendance was large and all enjoyed the music furnished by Eugene O'Reilly's orchestra. William Shaffer was chairman of the committee and David Doyle floor manager. Richard Birmingham was the other members of the committee. A public dance will be held in the hall Election eve.

BLACKMAIL HOUSES, MR. GILBERT SAYS

Former Mayor Recommends Common Council to Amend Ordinance.

PERMIT IS REVOKED

The City Fathers Prevent Another Shack Being Built—Action to be Taken Later.

A partial report was submitted to the Common Council last night regarding "spite" houses, of which Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, of East Front street, complained, at the last session of the city fathers. Robert L. Lee, chairman of the fire and building committee, stated that while the committee had held several meetings and had consulted with Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, it was not prepared to present a complete report.

Mr. Lee then offered a resolution providing that inasmuch as the fire and building committee by investigation in the office of the county clerk, ascertained that Antonio Mara was not on April 6, 1904, the sole owner of the property upon which the alleged "spite" house has been erected, which is about 700 feet north of Berckman street on East Front, at which time two permits were given for the erection of houses there, and in view of the fact that Building Inspector T. O. Doane was not acquainted with the true facts of the case at the time, that the permit for the erection of the second building be revoked and that the owner of the property be notified of this action.

This resolution was adopted, after which Mr. Lee explained that the investigation was not yet completed and that the committee would report to the Common Council from time to time on the matter. The committee made no report on the charges preferred against Mr. Doane by Mr. Randolph.

A communication bearing on the above subject was presented by Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert in which he characterized the buildings referred to as "blackmail" houses. This is the text of his letter:

"October 20, 1904.

"To the Honorable Common Council of the City of Plainfield.

"Gentlemen:

"The erection of 'spite houses,' or to call them by a more appropriate name 'blackmail houses,' should be an utter impossibility in Plainfield. Public sentiment should be strong enough to cover with reproach and contempt any individual or party who engages directly or indirectly in such an underaking. Our building ordinance should be broad enough to protect our citizens against damage to property from such a case. Buildings of the character referred to are not only a damage to property in their immediate neighborhood, but to the growth and development of the city as well. A dozen or more of such buildings scattered throughout the city in well improved neighborhoods would operate as a severe check to the growth of the city. Who would buy property or build in the neighborhood of a spite house?

"The question would naturally arise, does the Common Council possess the power to protect the city against damage of this character? The logical answer to this question must be that the Common Council has the power to pass ordinances to prohibit any act on the part of its citizens that can be clearly proven to be detrimental to the welfare of the city. The Common Council has already adopted a building ordinance to regulate the erection of buildings, which provides for the appointment of a building inspector whose duty it is to pass upon all applications for permits for the erection of buildings.

"In the discharge of this duty one would suppose that he would consider all the circumstances connected with every application, and ascertain before granting any permit whether plans and specifications complied with the ordinance, and if any other reason existed why the application should be denied. If he could clearly determine, before granting a permit, that the applicant proposed erecting a spite house, or any building the character of which would be detrimental to the welfare of the city, it would clearly be his duty to refuse the permit. In order to give emphasis to this point would it not be well to amend the building ordinance, to make clear his duty in this particular. Something

ALL DENOMINATIONS AT CORNER-STONE LAYING

PRESBYTERIAN MINISTER TO MAKE ADDRESS AT P. E. CHURCH CEREMONY.

Not only the clergy of the Episcopal faith in the convocation of New Brunswick but all the ministers of the various denominations in the city and borough have been personally invited to attend the laying of the corner stone of Grace church parish house tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie.

Rev. Dr. John Sheridan Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will deliver the address during the service in the church. Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, rector-emeritus, will officiate at the laying of the stone. The public is invited to attend the ceremonies. No cards are needed.

HELP MISSIONARY BY GIVING A SOCIAL

FUNDS RAISED AT ENJOYABLE ENTERTAINMENT LAST NIGHT.

Unique and entertaining was the missionary social at Trinity Reformed church last evening, the object of which as the annual contribution to the support of a missionary, Rev. Jacob Crist, of Salem, South Dakota, and his family, and each attendant of the social brought some article in clothing, books, or money to be shipped to him. A large box at the entrance to the church parlor was generously filled with useful articles. The box was draped with the American flag, while the room was tastefully festooned in orange bunting. Vases of roses and chrysanthemums were set off by palms and potted plants, effecting a very pretty appearance.

Though the greater part of the evening was spent in a social way, an informal programme was arranged for the affair, which was in every way an enjoyable feature of the evening. The Y. M. C. A. quartette opened the programme by two well rendered selections. The numbers were "Softly Sleep," a serenade by Karl Linders, and "There's a Land," by White. The quartette was composed of the following voices: E. D. Young and W. C. Leek, tenors; William Symons and Alva Davis, basses. A cornet solo by Mr. Young was well received as were also recitations by Miss Helen Adams and Miss Edith Leek.

The social was in the hands of the missionary committee, of which Mrs. C. B. Leggett is chairman, and the direct management of the affair was in her charge. The various committees in the social and entertainment were as follows: Decorations, Mrs. Frances A. VanName, chairman; Mrs. Winfield Schomp and Mrs. M. F. Gano; reception, Mrs. Ellen Disbrough, chairman; Mrs. Cornelious Schenck, Mrs. R. A. Meeker, Mrs. A. M. Gillem, Mrs. E. A. Parse and Mrs. M. E. Kershaw; entertainment, Mrs. A. L. Force, chairman; Mrs. D. C. Adams and Mrs. W. C. Leek, Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr.; refreshments, Mrs. H. C. Paul, Mrs. G. Q. Dolliver and Mrs. J. Beckman. The refreshments were served by a committee of the following young men: Bertram Leggett, Fred Smith, Cornelious Schenck and Roy Woodhull.

Field Meet Postponed.

On account of the condition of the track after the heavy rain, the annual fall field meet of the Plainfield High School Athletic Association has been postponed till Tuesday afternoon. The event will take place as was originally intended at the Gentlemen's Driving Park.

ACCUSES A POLICEMAN

Dr. Perry Prefers Charges Against Officer O'Gorman.

TO MAKE INVESTIGATION

Physician Declares Cop Used Insulting and Indecent Language to Him.

Dr. James L. Perry, of 1130 West Seventh street, a retired physician and a member of the New York Academy of Medicine, communicated to the Common Council at its adjourned meeting that he had recently been insulted and abused by Special Policeman O'Gorman, who had charged him with being disorderly. Dr. Perry said that the offense took place on East Front street, opposite police headquarters and charges that the police used abusive and indecent language.

City Clerk MacMurray had finished reading about one-half of the communication, when he decided that it would not be well to continue, the complaint being of such a nature that it could best be considered by the proper committee. It was therefore referred.

The matter will undoubtedly receive attention. Dr. Perry stated that he had consulted with City Judge Runyon concerning the affair and that the latter advised him to communicate with the Common Council.

Dr. Perry came to this city for the benefit of his health, which has not been good for some time, diabetes being a form of his troubles, as he stated in his communication to the Common Council.

NO ACTION TAKEN ON LIQUOR LICENSE FEE

PROPOSED ORDINANCE TO COME UP AT REGULAR SESSION.

The amended ordinance fixing the local license fee at $1,000 was not called up for its final reading at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, it having been decided that such an ordinance cannot be introduced at an adjourned session.

When Mr. Tyler, chairman of the license committee, was questioned about the matter after the meeting, he said that it might be called up at the next regular meeting, although there is no great rush about it. So long as it is adopted this year, it will become operative next year. However, there is every reason to believe that a final vote will be taken at the November meeting. There were several interested persons in the lobby last night expecting that a vote would be taken on the ordinance.

L. T. L. HARVEST HOME ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN

PROGRAMME RENDERED BY THE YOUNG WOMEN AND MEN.

Under the auspices of the Loyal Temperance Legion a harvest home entertainment was held in the rooms of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, last night. Miss May E. Howlett, superintendent, was in charge of the programme.

There were piano solos by Miss Kizzie Neagle, Walter Weber, Ernest Stevens, Miss Nellie Higgins, recitations by Miss Marie Moffett, Miss Jennie Higgins, Raymond Stevens, Wilbur Seals, Miss Hazel Todd, Miss Clara Weber, Miss Anna Higgins, Miss Sadie Rothberg, the Misses Jennie and Pauline Finberg, songs by Miss Margaret Higgins, Miss Hilda Bennett and songs by the Legion. There was also a reading and welcome by Miss Kizzie Neagle, explaining the objects of the harvest home which was instituted by the late Miss Frances Willard, and Miss Howlett also gave a reading.

The young folks brought donations of white and sweet potatoes and onions and it is the purpose to give these to the Children's Home.

Tea at Their Studio.

Miss Margaret Goddard and Miss Margaret Tracy will give a tea at their studio on East Ninth street, Monday and Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 24 and 25.

—Neuman Brothers have a vegetable display that is seldom equalled by any local store. It comprises everything in this line, all received fresh each morning.

SOLD LIQUOR TO MINOR

Mrs. Murphy Makes Accusation Against L. D. Kerwin.

AUTHORITIES NOTIFIED

Boy Who Became Intoxicated at School Identifies Man Who Gave Him Liquor.

Determined to punish the man who gave her ten-year-old son Thomas a pint bottle of whiskey, which he drank at school and became intoxicated, Mrs. Timothy Murphy, of Spooner avenue, has placed the facts of the case before Superintendent Maxson with the request that he prefer the necessary charges.

When the boy was brought home to her, almost dead from the effects of the fiery stuff, she had no idea where he procured it and could learn nothing from him until yesterday. Recovering his senses he declared that it had been sold to him by Lawrence Kerwin, who conducts a road house on West Fourth street at Rock avenue, just over the city line in Middlesex county. When taken before Kerwin he positively identified him as the man who hand handed him the liquor and taken a quarter in payment, but Kerwin denied doing it.

To a Daily Press reporter today, Mrs. Murphy declared that she knows of a certainty that Kerwin gave her son the whiskey and that he has made it a practice of selling it to other boys as young as he is. It is her intention to have him prosecuted and beside seeking Dr. Maxson's aid, has also laid the facts of the case before City Judge Runyon and the local authorities.

Young Murphy has not yet fully recovered from his brief period of dissipation and for awhile on Tuesday night, his life was in danger. He drank more than half of the pint in the bottle and the remainder, which was found by Janitor Pugh at the Irving School, shows it equal to the worst "red eye" which stupefies strong men.

BOROUGH DEMOCRATS HOLD BIG MASS-MEETING

FOUR SPEAKERS AT A RALLY IN HEADQUARTERS ON SOMERSET STREET.

Owing to the unfavorable weather conditions, the contemplated North Plainfield open air Democratic meeting was held at headquarters on Somerset street last night. The building was crowded to the doors when President David Carney, of the North Plainfield Democratic Club, called for order and introduced Assembly Nominee Daniel H. Beekman, of North Branch. He spoke upon National and State issues for half an hour and the audience was greatly pleased with his remarks.

The second speaker was Robert L. Stevens, candidate for Congress from the Fourth district, who gave a decidedly interesting talk that was applauded frequently. He is making a thorough canvass of the three counties, Mercer, Hunterdon and Somerset, and he declared all the meetings are being largely attended and the Democratic nominees will win out. The concluding addresses were given by Rev. J. B. Cleaver, of Bound Brook, the familiar campaigner of old, and County Attorney John H. Fresh, of Somerville. Both were accorded an enthusiastic welcome.

From all standpoints the meeting was declared a success and arrangements are being perfected for others.

MEN'S CLUB ELECTS.

First Presbyterian Organization Chooses Officers at Meeting Last Night.

The Men's Club, of the First Presbyterian church, met last night in the chapel of the church and elected these officers for the coming year: President, Frank Dunning; vice president, I. B. Hill; secretary, T. Edward Burroughs; treasurer, Charles Hummer. Following the short business session there was a social time.

It was stated that at the November meeting the committees for the year would be announced and that Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, of the First M. E. church, would give a lecture on his European trip.

Funeral of Mrs. Thomas.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary L. Thomas, widow of Henry Thomas, was held at the Fillmore Baptist church yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. E. J. Orndup, the pastor of the church, officiated. The burial was at Hillside.

COUNCIL IN A QUANDARY

Late Arrival of a Bid Disconcerts City Fathers.

HAD BEEN AWARDED

Discussion Then Arises As to Whether It Should Stand Because Second Bidder Appears.

Circumstances of a very unusual nature arose in last night's special Council meeting through President Tolles' determination to start sessions of the body on time. They related to the receiving of bids for the West End macadam work and for a time the members were divided among themselves as to whether they had better go ahead or go back after awarding the contract to C. M. Meeker. The first decision stood in Meeker's favor and the work will be done by him at an aggregate cost of $10,881.

At the regular October meeting of the Council, President Tolles announced that he would not tolerate the habit members have had of straggling into their seats anywhere after 8:30 and gave notice that in the future he would call meetings at 8 o'clock and in the absence of a quorum would order an adjournment. His order was lived up to last night and before going into regular business the macadam bids were called for. Meeker's was the only one submitted and after it had been accepted in regular form, Councilman Tyler announced that Mr. Travell, a brother of Ira W. Travell, of Third place, had a bid he wished to submit. Instantly the query arose as to whether it would be right to allow him to place it before the meeting after the matter had been disposed of in awarding the contract to Meeker. With the exception of Mr. Garrigues, all believed it would be establishing a bad precedent. Matters became still further open to discussion when Councilman Lee noticed the fact that the clock in the Council pointed to 7:30. It caused consternation until it was learned that it was an hour behind time. Mr. Garrigues was in favor of returning Mr. Meeker's bid and re-advertising the matter but he was overruled and the first action of the Council was allowed to stand.

Mr. Travell was seen after the meeting and said that he had been in the City Clerk's office before the session was called to order but believing it would be 8:30 before actual business would commence, thought he had ample time in which to present his bid. He looked over the figures in Meeker's contract and stated that his were lower in some instances and higher in others. He had no complaint to make regarding the action of the Council. Mr. Travell is a civil engineer and has had wide experience in road building, especially in New York State.

NEED ACCOMMODATIONS FOR BOY DELEGATES

THREE HUNDRED YOUTHS TO ATTEND Y. M. C. A. CONFERENCE.

The number of delegates at the coming Y. M. C. A. State Boys' Conference bids fair to exceed the attendance at any previous convention. There will be about 300 delegates in town on October 28, 100 of whom have been already provided for with lodging and board. For the remaining 200, Boys' Secretary Robbie has been unable to provide. Letters have been sent to the parents of the boys in the local department, and many other families have been called upon to assist.

As yet few have responded favorably, and it is to be hoped that those interested in the affair will have better success before the date of the convention arrives. The delegates who will visit this city are chosen by the State Association which is in charge of all the conferences, and are the best representatives of the various associations. On the average there will be about eight from each Y. M. C. A. in the State.

Reinhart and Abbott Won.

In the qualifying round and first round at match play in the Inter-collegiate Golf Association tournament on the course of the Myopia Hunt Club, yesterday, F. O. Reinhart, of Princeton, and Robert Abbott, of Yale, won their matches. Reinhart returned a score of 89 and Abbott a 96. The match play resulted in Abbott defeating Watson, of Pennsylvania, 6 up and 4 to play, and Reinhart defeated Proal, of Harvard, 1 up.

SAGAMORE CLUB TREAT TO A MUSICAL FEAST

ENTERTAINMENT AT THE CHURCH OF THE HEAVENLY REST LAST NIGHT.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, a well rendered and thoroughly enjoyable entertainment was given by the Sagamore Musical Club in the church parlors, last evening. The parish house was well filled with an appreciative audience who encored every selection. The young men played well, showing considerable musical talent.

The club has been organized for about a year, having originally been the Plainfield High School Glee Club. They have given entertainments before under the auspices of the High School Athletic Association, and have performed at several church entertainments. Chester H. Briggs is the leader of the club, which consists of four mandolins, two banjos, and two violins. The club was assisted last evening by Miss Aimee Louise Emmons, elocutionist; Mr. Simpson, pianist; and Miss Florence Bennett, soprano. The members of the club are Chester Briggs, Monroe Long, S. B. Howe, Jr., and Theodore Gavett, mandolins; Garth Williams and William Briggs, banjos; Charles Hoff and Herbert Smith, violins; Irving Martin, piano.

ROUTINE BUSINESS BEFORE CITY FATHERS

BATCH OF WORK ACCOMPLISHED AT MEETING LAST NIGHT.

Residents of East Second street, in the vicinity of Washington street, complained of the poorly lighted condition of the street in that neighborhood, at the Common Council meeting last night, claiming that the lights now on the street were inadequate, making it unsafe and dangerous to walk there at night. They asked that the street be properly lighted. The matter was referred to the light committee.

The residents of Stebbins place petitioned the Common Council to open that street, declaring that its present condition is a damage to property interests and dangerous in case of fire. This street was never opened as originally intended and it is possible that some action may now be taken in the matter.

County Collector Wood, of Elizabeth, presented the table of ratables and exemptions for the county, including Plainfield, and upon Mr. Daniel's motion the same was filed.

Mayor Jenkins appointed Walter S. Harrison as a full paid member of the fire department in place of Fred Breem, resigned, and P. E. Leland, as a call man in place of Mr. Harrison. The appointments were confirmed on motion of Mr. Lee, chairman of the fire and building committee.

Street Commissioner Gavett stated that since his last report, eighty-four sewer permits were granted and $84 placed in the hands of the city treasurer. Mr. Murphy reported on the petition of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital for two electric lights on Randolph road and Park avenue, and on his motion the same were granted.

NEW TROLLEY RAILS.

P. S. C. Improving Its Line on Watchung Avenue.

Employes of the Public Service Corporation commenced yesterday the work of putting new rails in Watchung avenue between North avenue and East Second street. This work must be completed before the work of paving Watchung avenue with vitrified brick is started. All the water and gas connections have been made so that when the pavement is laid it will not be necessary to tear it up at some future time. The work of putting in new rails will probably be completed within two weeks' time.

Garvin May Settle Suit.

Louis A. Clement, Esq., counsel for Virgil Garvin, in his suit against the Plainfield A. C., for recovery of $22 50, which he claims is due him for pitching his last game against the Elizabeth Stars on Saturday, October 1, and Francis J. Blatz, counsel for the club, have agreed to an adjournment of the case which was called for 2 o'clock this afternoon in Justice Mosher's court. There was some talk today that the case would be settled in the meantime.

REPUBLICANS RALLY AGAIN

Second of the Mass-Meeting Series Held Last Night.

IN REFORM HALL

Hon. John S. Gibson and Congressman Butler Make the Principal Addresses.

The second of the series of mass meetings arranged by the local Republicans took place in Reform Hall last evening, with as large a crowd in attendance as the first but considerably less enthusiasm. Mayor Jenkins and Mayor Smalley occupied seats on the platform and there was a generous sprinkling of local politicians in the audience.

John S. Gibson, of Newark, and Congressman Butler, of Pennsylvania, were the leading speakers. They were preceded by David E. Titsworth, who, as chairman of the meeting, was introduced by Mayor Jenkins. He devoted ten minutes or more to speaking of the campaign locally, dwelling on the candidates for county and city offices. Of Frank H. Smith, nominated for registrar of deeds, he spoke with enthusiasm and referred to him as a "Potter's boy" from the fact that he had started in life as an office boy at the Potter shop and had worked his way up. He urged that all vote for him and also James F. Buckle in the local mayoralty race, declaring both to be men worthy of attention and of the calibre which serves the people and not the party.

The speech delivered by Mr. Gibson was especially prominent for its length, lasting seventy minutes, and for the variety of subjects which it touched upon. He began with a review of President McKinley's policy and then went through immigration, the tariff, imperialism, the Philippine question, equal taxation and concluding with remarks about the Congressional candidates from the Fifth district. Charles N. Fowler, he said, had made a National reputation for himself by his usefulness in public life and he then went on to tell something about him as a financier. He referred to James E. Martine as "our foolish old friend whose head is like a garret, so full of everything that you don't know what's going to come out of it." Relative to the tariff he asserted that the home market today produces four times as much as the exports of other nations to this country and by other facts and figures he sought to explain why the Republican party does not advocate free trade. In conclusion he urged the voters to cast their ballots for the Republican candidates from Roosevelt down to Buckle.

Congressman Butler was very optimistic in his speech and declare that New Jersey was not a doubtful State and that it would give Roosevelt 17,000 majority. In Pennsylvania, he said, half the Democrats were going to vote the Republican ticket and in New York city the sentiment is very much the same. He went over several of the paramount questions and also concluded by appealing to the voters to vote the Republican ticket entire.

Music for the evening was furnished by the Independent Fife and Drum Corps, which paraded about the streets previous to the meeting.

MRS. ROTH BURIED.

Father Egan Officiated at Service in St. Mary's Church.

Funeral services over Mrs. Caroline Roth, aged sixty-four years, who died Wednesday night at her home, 309 Arlington avenue, were held in St. Mary's church this morning, Father Egan officiating. She had been in poor health for some time. She was the widow of Martin Roth, who for a number of years was one of the best known shoemakers in this city. Mrs. Roth was formerly Miss Caroline Dents and had always lived in this State, where she was born. Four children survive her, Martin and John Roth, Mrs. Emil Schneidecker and Mrs. Peter Blaich. The interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Auto Parade Tomorrow

All arrangements for tomorrow's automobile parade were completed at a committee meeting held last evening. More entries were received and everything indicates that the affair will be a complete success. As previously announced the cars will assemble in front of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church at 2:30 and the word to start will be given by Marshal F. L. C. Martin a short time afterward. The route of the parade was gone over again and it will remain just the same as was published in yesterday's paper.

LITERARY.

Readers throughout the United States and Canada are on the qui-vive of expectancy at the announcement of a new novelette by Charles G. D. Roberts. This is published entire in the November number of Lippincott's Magazine. A bit of inside history concerning this "find" is that it was first submitted in short-story form to the editor of Lippincott's Magazine. He at once saw in it splendid possibilities as a novel and suggested its expansion to Mr. Roberts. Hence, "The Prisoner of Mademoiselle de Bienecourt" makes its bow to the public in a size befitting its greatness. This is a rattling good story of adventure. It is placed in the beautiful "Evangeline" country; and in picturesqueness, in power of portrayal, and in literary finish it is not surpassed in contemporary fiction.

The opening page of the November "Success" brings to mind the fact that Thanksgiving is once more rolling round, and that we must prepare for the festive turkey. Strickland W. Gillilan, the president of the American Humorists, contributes a poem to this page in "Success" which contains a certain delicate humor that will put all who read it in good spirits. It leads on to better things in the magazine, among which we find an article entitled, "The Presidency," analyzing the principal presidential candidates, by Alfred Henry Lewis, whose campaign writings have been very noticeable this year.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—M. W. King has disposed of his property at Liberty Corner and will soon move to this city.

—Aaron A. VanderVeer, of Somerville, has taken a position in the office of a local coal and lumber yard.

—The Union ex-Prisoners of War, of New Jersey, will hold their eighteenth annual reunion at Orange today.

—Of the large number of inmates of the State Hospital for Insane at Trenton, 205 are from Middlesex County.

—J. A. Staats, of the Hotel Kensington, recently returned from a successful fishing trip in the northern part of New Jersey.

A FACTORY FIRE PANIC.

Fire Escapes Became Jammed, and Many Jumped.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—A fire in a six story factory building in North Tenth street, Brooklyn, caused a panic among about 200 young women and girls employed there by W. H. Robinson, a manufacturer of bedding, and by Kaltenbach & Stevens, silk ribbon manufacturers. The smoke and flames spread so rapidly that the employees had barely time to escape.

A number made their way out by the fire escapes, which became overcrowded, and others then fought wildly to reach the exits. Ladders were raised by firemen, but before these could be got in position several girls jumped from the windows to the roof of a two story extension. Many fainted and required medical attendance. Frank Vasti was severely burned and was removed to a hospital. The property damage was $15,000.

HEMPSTEAD STAKES.

Merry Lark, Favorite, Won Feature at Jamaica.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Merry Lark, favorite at 11 to 5, won the Hempstead selling stakes, six furlongs, at Jamaica. D'Arkle made the running to the stretch, where Hildebrand brought Merry Lark through on the rail and won, driving, by a head from Glenecho. Bank was third, two lengths away.

Canteen, in winning the third race, broke the track record for one mile and seventy yards by making the distance in 1:43 3-5, which is one second faster than the previous time. Two favorites won. Jockey McCafferty was suspended for two days for running at the barrier.

Our Golf Players Won.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 21.—The United States players scored an easy victory in the international golf match with Canada at the Lambton club links. The score was 53 to 5. All the visiting players were up with the exception of Miss Thomas, whom Mrs. Bolte defeated by 5. Miss Dick of Toronto won the driving competition, with a total of 485 yards in three drives. In the putting competition Miss Bishop, the United States champion, was first with 10 points.

Trotting at Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 21.—Grace Bond, the Lexington Futurity winner, easily defeated a field of five three-year-old trotters in straight heats for the Kentucky Stock Farm stakes at the Driving park. Grace Bond was always favorite and led Alta Axworthy, who was well played, throughout the race. Sphinx S. won the concluding heat of the 2:07 pace.

Amherst Golfers Won.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 21.—Amherst won the New England intercollegiate golf championship on the Springfield Country club course here, defeating Dartmouth in the final round of the team match 8 to 4. In the previous round Dartmouth defeated Massachusetts Institute of Technology 8 to 6.

Anne Davis at Delmar.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 21.—Madoc and Imboden were the winning favorites at Delmar park. The feature event, a six furlong affair, went to Anne Davis, third choice. Gay Lizette was second and Folies Bergeres, favorite, third. Imboden was heavily played to win the sixth race.

Racing at Elm Ridge.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 21.—Three favorites, two second choices and a long shot won at Elm Ridge. The feature event, a handicap at one and a sixteenth miles, resulted in a victory for William Wright, who beat Princess Tulane a nose at the wire.

Panama Will Welcome Taft.

PANAMA, Oct. 21.—The news from Washington that Secretary of War Taft is to come to the isthmus next month, accompanied by Minister Obaldia and William Nelson Cromwell, counsel of the Panama Canal company, to arrange the matters in controversy between the United States government and Panama, and the declarations of President Roosevelt on the subject are received with satisfaction in all circles. President Amador is in receipt of messages of congratulation from all parts of this republic.

Watson at Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 21.—The Populist campaign in Marion county was opened last night by Thomas E. Watson of Georgia, the party's candidate for president, who spoke at a mass meeting in English Opera House. The theater was well filled, and the speaker's remarks were frequently and vigorously applauded.

Miss Pardee Asphyxiated.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 21.—Miss Fannie B. Pardee, forty-three years of age, was found dead at her home on George street here, having been asphyxiated from a gas jet which apparently had been accidentally turned on. She was a graduate of Sacred Heart convent at Hochelaga, Que.

Submarines Off For the War.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Oct. 21.—Shipping agents here have received information from New York that the barge Kennebec, carrying two of the five submarine boats building here, for the lakes ostensibly, has been sighted a considerable distance at sea off New York.

Drank Ice Water and Died.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 21.—After taking a drink of ice water Isiah E. Aultman, fifty-two years old, of Bryan, O., dropped dead in the United States government building at the world's fair grounds.

REVOLT IN PANAMA

Senator Culberson Fiercely Attacks Isthmian Policy.

REBELS FAVORED AND ENCOURAGED

Movements of Navy Indicate Foreknowledge of Movement to Free Colombians From Parent Republic.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—At a large Democratic mass meeting in Carnegie hall here Senator Culberson of Texas delivered a fierce attack upon President Roosevelt's Panama policy, accusing the president of being a silent partner in the revolution of Panama against the Colombian government. He said in part:

"I accept it as true that the executive officers of the administration did not officially and publicly instigate the revolt in Panama, but that the administration, including the president, privately favored and encouraged the movement and that this was widely known is susceptible of demonstration, and in a matter of this character it was tantamount to committing the government to it. The very atmosphere of Washington was charged with this belief. The movements of the navy in consequence with the wishes and expectations of the conspirators is inexplicable except upon the hypothesis of sympathy and foreknowledge. The press of the country, whose representatives at Washington visited the state department and White House daily, teemed with suggestions and prophecies of secession, recognition and a treaty with Panama from June until November, 1903, without objection or protest or denial from the administration. In one of these great journals, after referring to contemplated secession, it said, June 11, 1903, 'It may be stated on the best authority that the United States intends to build its canal over the Panama route and that confidence is felt at the state department that either the treaty will be ratified by the Colombian congress or else some sort of an agreement will be reached between the states of Panama and Cuaca whereby the United States will obtain the privilege of construction.'

"Efforts of the press to get from the state department and even the president himself a denial of this statement failed. Not only was no official denial to be had, but the implication was directly conveyed by the president that there was no reason to deny it and that the administration would be warranted in resorting to extreme measures."

Found Dead on the Line.

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 21.—A rowboat was found in the harbor near Misery bay containing only a coat, to which was tied the following note, written on the back of an old envelope, "Fred Thompson—You will find me at the other end of this line." The line was fastened to one of the oarlocks, and when pulled in Louis E. Thompson's body was dangling from the other end. The deceased was thirty-five years old, unmarried and a son of the late Captain E. L. Thompson of the tug Erie and a brother of the man to whom the note was addressed. Despondency over his father's death caused Thompson's act.

Higgins at Elmira.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Lieutenant Governor Higgins addressed a mass meeting here last night in the Casino rink, presided over by the Hon. J. Sloat Fassett, who paid an eloquent tribute to the candidate in presenting him to the big audience. Mr. Higgins was warmly received, the audience rising and cheering enthusiastically. Mr. Higgins was followed by Charles Emory Smith of Philadelphia, who spoke at length on national issues.

Malcontents at Culebra.

COLON, Oct. 21.—There is a rumor current here that a large body of armed Colombians has been concentrated near Culebra with the intention of making an attack there on Nov. 3, the first anniversary of the secession of Panama from Colombia. The canal zone authorities are investigating the report, though not much importance is attached to the rumor, the origin of which is attributed to malcontents.

Doctor Jumped Down to Death.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—Suffering from acute nervous disorders, Dr. George H. Purviance of Washington, assistant surgeon general of the marine hospital service, jumped from the fourth story window of the Orthopaedic hospital in this city last night and was instantly killed. Dr. Purviance was about fifty-three years of age and came to the hospital for treatment on Aug. 8.

Ex-Congressman Foote Dead.

PORT HENRY, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Wallace T. Foote, father of former Congressman Wallace T. Foote, Jr., and a brother of Internal Revenue Collector Seward Foote, is dead, aged seventy-nine years. He was one of the founders of the iron industry at this place.

Claim He Was Murdered.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 21.—Patrick Grannahan, a well known citizen of upper Luzerne county, was found dead in the kitchen of his home. There were a bullet wound in the back of his head and a deep gash in the forehead. The family claim he was murdered.

British Naval Expert In New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Sir William White, chief naval constructor of the British navy, visited the Brooklyn navy yard and was received by Rear Admiral Coghlan and Constructor Baxter, who escorted him through the yard on a tour of inspection.

Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 21, 1904.

Yes, Maude, the candidate who makes a whirlwind tour during the campaign generally takes to the cyclone cellar on election day.

As many businesses have become extinct by ultra conservatism in regard to advertising, as through extravagant publicity without reckoning the cost.—Ex.

Now and then the speeches delivered by professional stump orators are carefully edited before the spellbinder is allowed to mount the rostrum, but generally the little fry grind out burning thoughts without censorship. Last night, John S. Gibson, of Newark, got off some remarks about James E. Martine which are not calculated to help his opponents any. The people of Plainfield know Mr. Martine far better than the imported speaker does and consequently what Mr. Gibson said will have no weight.

There is no mincing of words in the communication of former Mayor Alexander Gilbert received by the Common Council last night. A spite house is blackmail, he declares, and the city fathers should lose no time in preventing scheming men from obtaining permits for the erection of shacks. The whole community is stirred up by the appearance of such structures in this beautiful community. Plainfield is a law-abiding city and were it not for that fact there might be some question whether its citizens would await for the law to take its course when such wanton disregard is shown for the rights of others. When property is deliberately ruined by conniving men, the perpetrators deserve the utmost contempt of all respectable citizens. The Daily Press believes that it is high time that a property protective and town improvement society be organized. Here is an opportunity for it. Stop the erection of blackmail houses! Punish the men who attempt to wreck property!

PERSONAL.

A. V. Everett, of Somerville, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Phillips, of this city.

Mrs. John Stevens, of Watchung avenue, is visiting the Mrs. Gallagher, of Raritan.

Assemblyman Swackhamer, of Summit avenue, has been visiting relatives at Whitehouse.

Mrs. George Strathie, of this city, has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Higgins, of South Branch.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Waldron, of Martinsville, have returned home after a visit with friends here.

Miss Ethel Daggett, of Whitehouse, has returned home after a visit with Miss Anna Smalley, of the borough.

Miss Ella Craft, of this city, has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Craft, of Whitehouse.

LITERARY.

The November number of Scribner's Magazine contains the second of Thomas F. Millard's illuminative articles upon the war in the East. In this he deals with the organization and personnel of the Russian Army, with which he has been, and accounts for the efficiency and general unpreparedness of Russia to meet the conditions as have developed. His statements regarding the number of troops in the field and the Trans-Siberian Railroad will surprise many, and are especially valuable in forming any conclusions regarding the probable outcome of the war. The illustrations are from the author's photographs.

—Henry Liefke, of this city, has been appointed administrator of the estate of Mary J. Elliott, of Scotch Plains.

—Plans are now being made to have the corner-stone of the new Plainfield High School building laid early in November.

SEEN AND HEARD IN PLAINFIELD'S INDUSTRIAL PLANTS.

George Zeiss, of New street, has resigned his position with the Standard Surgical Works on East Fourth street.

The Pond shop is working night and day on the order which it has under way for the Japanese Government. Two machines are kept going continuously and it will soon be completed.

The Carnegie Steel Company is experimenting in rolling shapes for steel ties to replace the usual wooden ties. It is stated that half a dozen of the big trunk lines, being unable to procure sufficient of the wooden ties at a reasonable price, are forced to substitute steel, and will place big orders with the Carnegie Company.

The fact that the Manganese Steel Safe Company, of this city, was awarded a gold medal for its exhibit at the St. Louis Exposition is a source of great satisfaction to the men in the shop. The vaults and safes were all built by them and the display was arranged by Plainfield men. All the big safe manufacturing concerns in this and other countries competed and the award to the local concern will bring it into greater prominence than ever.

SNAP SHOTS.

SIDE LIGHTS ON TIMELY TOPICS NOTED IN PASSING.

A Painful Obituary.—It is always sad to see the taking of a strong, valuable life in its early vigor. If the untimely end is due, either wholly or in part, to the use of tobacco and alcohol, we naturally feel still more sorry to see such an unworthy sniping of a useful and potentially great life. We note that Noah Raby, of Eatontown, N. J., recently died and under circumstances that make his death particularly sad. Mr. Raby, according to his own statements, which seem to be pretty well confirmed, was but 136 years old, and there can be little doubt that his untimely death was due to his consumption of liquor during 120 years of that time. He was a constant user of alcoholic beverages and tobacco, and had it not been for the deadly effect of these poisons upon his strong and vigorous system, Mr. Raby might have lived to a good old age. Too bad!—(California Journal of Medicine.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The Republican Club which represents Dunellen at present is one of the largest ever known here. There have been seventy-five voters enrolled on the books and more are coming in all the time. Last evening the rooms were crowded to hear the speeches made by the county clerk and the assemblymen. J. H. Conger, for county clerk, spoke on the Republican Clubs of former years and about the present one. Alex. W. Fordyce, Jr., spoke on equal taxation, as did J. H. Thayer Martin. The speaking ended by a short and witty speech by E. Drakeney, of Metuchen.

A party of young people from here spent last evening at the home of Winfield Hetfield, of Greenbrook. A very pleasant evening was spent in dancing and playing games. Refreshments were served during the evening.

Jacob Young and wife, who, for the past year have been boarding with W. N. Apgar, of Front street, have moved into the Fisher house on the opposite side of the street.

There are uncalled for letters at the postoffice this week for Edward Green (4), John Stites, Miss Margaret and Stephen Marsh.

The owner of the dog which was caught by the dog catcher a few days ago threatens to sue the Borough Council.

Mrs. Hannah Nelson is entertaining her daughter, Mrs. Daisy Carrol, and daughter, Miss V. H. Carrol.

The work on the signal tower, which was stopped a few weeks ago, has again been commenced.

Maurice L. Wearick and wife have returned from a two weeks' trip through the West.

Mrs. Clayton Coon, of New York, is spending a few days with Mrs. Ellis J. Dunn.

The concrete foundation for the house of Jos. E. Kelley is nearly completed.

Postmaster Day will take possession of the Vail cottage the first of next month.

Electric lights are being placed in the boys' club room back of the postoffice.

A meeting of Lakeside Council, New Market, was held last evening.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

It would have seemed strange if Scotch Plains had not had something in the way of excitement over the war against the telephone company, which is being waged at the lower end of the township.

The weekly prayer and teachers' meeting of the Baptist church will be held at the Manse tonight, as the repairs being made to the church parlors are not yet completed.

Miss Alice Shott has passed her probationary period at the Ouranta Hospital, "been capped" and appointed head of the senoir department of the hospital.

Several carloads of slag have arrived and the work of finishing up the new sidewalks in the borough will soon commence.

HOT SODA FOR COOL DAYS.

Our Hot Soda is so inviting to the taste—it's made from the purest ingredients and served at the largest, finest and most sanitary fountain in the state.

The surroundings are pleasant—our clerks always polite, courteous.

With each order, you're served with a dish of saltine wafers—which go so nicely with the soda.

All at 5c a cup.

Mrs. W. H. Manning is entertaining friends from out of town today.

like the following would seem to meet the case:

"'Whenever the building inspector shall have good reason to believe that an applicant for a permit to erect a dwelling house, intends to erect what is commonly known as a 'spite house' or any other building which shall be detrimental to the welfare of the city it shall be his duty to refuse a permit for the same, and refer the applicant to the Common Council.'

"Other amendments providing for cellars and well constructed chimneys in all buildings intended for dwelling would prevent the erection of buildings of too flimsy a character.

"This is a matter of such vital importance to the whole community that it calls for a remedy for existing offenses and a prevention of similar offences in the future.

"Very respectfully,
"A. Gilbert."

This communication was referred to the fire and building committee.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS.

QUESTIONS OF THE DAY DISCUSSED BY THE PRESS.

Notorious Gun Club.

"The case of the State vs. the Riverton Gun Club, soon to be tried in the Burlington County Court, calls for the earnest attention of every newspaper and jurist, as well as the citizens of our State. A wise and just law, in the passage of which Governor Murphy was personally active, was enacted at Trenton last winter, prohibiting the shooting of live pigeons for sport in New Jersey. Immediately after the passage of the law there was considerable talk about contesting it in an attempt to prove it unconstitutional, and the test shoot held last Friday afternoon by two members of the club was the first step taken in an effort to annul the law. Neither of these two persons are residents or property owners in the vicinity of the club, which is a well known resort for sportsmen of New York and Philadelphia. A letter of thanks, addressed to Governor Murphy for his activity in securing the passage of the bill, was signed last June by residents of the Borough of Riverton owning real estate in the neighborhood of the club grounds aggregating an assessed valuation of $350,000. It would seem eminently fitting that the wishes of so large a number of persons, vitally interested in the welfare of the community in which they live and own their homes, should have proper consideration in this attempt to revoke the pigeon law. In the two towns of Riverton and Palmyra, with a population of about 5,000, there are not at present five active members of this club, and the membership of the board of managers is composed of men not residents of Riverton—the latter having been the case for several years. The management of the club is largely in the hands of persons who have no financial or personal interest in the welfare of this community and who are not residents of our State. A true sportsman will seek his game in their natural habit, the duck on the river, the birds in the woods; not stand on the lee side of a club house, sheltered from the wind, and shoot at dazed pigeons, thrown by artificial means from a trap. In the name of justice and humanity let the trial have the full measure of real justice for which the State of New Jersey has become justly famous."—Riverton New Era.

Improvements at Meeting House.

Owing to extensive repairs which are being made to the Friends meeting house on Watchung avenue, no service will be held on Sunday. The building is undergoing a thorough process of painting, kalsomining and renovating of carpets and furnishings. The old toilet arrangements are being done away with and in their place modern ones with city water are being installed.

PORT ARTHUR'S FATE

Japanese Gain Position Close to Main Fortress.

SURPRISE FOR RUSSIAN GARRISON

War In Far East Brings Forth Many Deeds of Valor by Jap and Russian—Oku Lost 5,100 Men at Shakhe.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—A Mukden dispatch says that at Poutiloff hill the Nineteenth regiment went into the heart of the Japanese position without firing a shot. They had the river to cross under heavy fire, besides two ravines and five rows of trenches, behind which was a covered redoubt. The gallant Nineteenth never paused, but pushed home the attack. A battery of quick fire guns lay in their path. The gunners, refusing to surrender, died to a man among their smoking guns, and the regiment swept on, routing the Japanese from behind a stone wall, from whence they fled in confusion. Meantime the Third battalion surrounded a native village, which threatened the rear attacking column.

There was a hand to hand fight in the streets before the village was cleared of Japanese, and the battalion surrounded and burned a second village, taking a number of prisoners, where there was again an example of Japanese bravery. An officer, his revolver empty, stood alone, sword in hand, to receive the rush of the column and went down fighting.

The Japanese used small hand grenades in defending some of their positions and wrought havoc with the attacking forces.

A Chefu report says that the most important recent events at Port Arthur include the capture by the Japanese of further minor positions near Rihlung mountain and the severe damage of a Japanese torpedo boat destroyer by striking a floating mine.

It is asserted that the Russian force at Port Arthur now numbers 5,000 men, excluding the militia, which is not engaged in the fighting, but patrols the streets.

According to Chinese advices which have reached here the Japanese made assaults on the remaining outer works of Rihlung mountain at dawn and were repulsed. The following day the Russians made an attack on the Japanese trenches, and they in turn were driven back.

The Japanese immediately followed with another assault, resulting in the capture of an iron railroad bridge, which is 500 yards from the main fortress. The importance of these captures lies in the fact that they curtail the Russian fire in harassing Japanese who may attempt to advance on the trenches located on the slope of Rihlung mountain.

This attack seems to have been a surprise for the Russians, the Japanese asserting that they lost only fifty men. Since the capture of the points mentioned the Japanese assert that they have successfully resisted numerous attempts to recapture them.

Seven Russian torpedo boat destroyers emerged from the harbor of Port Arthur, and later they were followed by two more destroyers. This squadron proceeded to Shaopingtau and bombarded the Japanese left flank.

Four Japanese torpedo boat destroyers hurried to the scene, and the Russians retired to the harbor, followed by the Japanese. The pursuit ceased upon entering the mined area. One Japanese destroyer while returning hit a mechanical mine and was severely damaged, but she managed to reach Port Dalny and is now being repaired.

In the meanwhile the Japanese siege guns continued to drop big shells in the harbor. The Japanese assert that they have damaged the Russian gunboat Giliak.

A Tokyo report says that the Manchurian headquarters have reviewed the situation at the front as follows:

"The center column of the right army has attacked and dislodged the enemy's cavalry holding Tunchiafen, but a small body of the enemy's infantry has returned and is holding that eminence.

"The enemy continues to hold Waitao mountain.

"Two battalions of the enemy's infantry are visible near Kaokwanchia, laying to the right of the right army, and they appear to have supports in the rear.

"One brigade of the enemy is located near Fenchiapao. The enemy's guns north of Fenchiapao occasionally shell our positions."

Tokyo reports estimate the losses of the Japanese left army (General Oku's) during the recent battle of Shakhe at or about 5,000. Additional casualties of the center army just reported are twelve officers killed and thirty wounded.

The number of Russian dead is largely increased by the further discovery of bodies, notwithstanding the nightly removals by lantern light.

The hostile armies are concealed from the view of each other by a dense fog, in which it has been impossible to make out objects at a distance of 100 paces. Under such conditions only unimportant operations are possible, such as surprises and ambushes.

A report from the Russian position at the village of Huansian, ten miles south of Mukden, says that all has been quiet on the western front. There was a sudden attack by the Japanese yesterday upon the Russian advanced position southwest of Mukden, held by the Thirty-fifth rifles, belonging to General Kondratovitch's division. Colonel Musnitsky promptly sent out three companies to make a counter attack, and the Japanese quickly fell back, having sustained severe losses. The Japanese were pressed so hard that they were obliged to abandon a gun bearing the number 383, but before abandoning the gun the breech block was removed. The limber contained forty-eight rounds of ammunition. Thanks to the dense fog prevailing at the time, the Russians were able to remove the gun without the loss of a single man.

A Skaken (Denmark) report says that a portion of the Baltic fleet sailed in the direction of the North sea at 6 o'clock last night.

German Mediation Impossible.

COLOGNE, Oct. 21.—In the course of a long article discussing the subject of mediation between Russia and Japan the Cologne Gazette, which is regarded as the organ of the German office, says that even in its most modified form a proposal in the direction indicated would be regarded as an unfriendly act and that the state undertaking it would incur grave ill will thereby.

MONT PELEE DISASTER.

President Thanks Committee For Relief Work In Martinique.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—In May, 1902, President Roosevelt appointed the national Martinique and West Indies relief committee to collect and disburse the funds for the relief of sufferers through the Mont Pelee disaster. The committee has concluded its work, has made a final report to the president and has asked to be discharged.

In complying with the request of the committee President Roosevelt sent the following letter to William R. Corwine of New York, the secretary of the committee, the chairman, Gustav H. Schwab, being abroad:

"Your letter inclosing the report of the national Martinique and West Indies relief committee has been received. Permit me to thank you for your letter and through you to extend my heartiest acknowledgment to the members of the committee for all they have done. To have such busy men willing to undertake a task making such demands upon their time (not to speak of their pecuniary contributions) is a matter for real congratulation on the part of all who feel that it is this kind of public spirit which tells for more than anything else in good citizenship."

The report made by the committee shows that the subscriptions received aggregated $157,592 and the interest $2,260. The general relief disbursements were $15,640 for food and clothing, $11,848 for a hospital and asylum at Martinique, $47,052 for miscellaneous relief work, $25,000 sent to Governor Taft, at the suggestion of the president and by consent of the subscribers, for relief work in the Philippine Islands, and $57,409 returned to subscribers.

POSTMASTER A SUICIDE.

Frank Jones of Ballston Spa Killed Himself at Elizabethtown.

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Frank Jones, postmaster at Ballston Spa, N. Y., has killed himself by cutting his throat. He went to the kitchen of the Deer's Head inn here, where he was stopping, and while the chef was busy serving dinner secured a large knife. When the knife was missed search for Mr. Jones was made. As the chef started toward him Jones drew the knife across his throat. He died five minutes later.

Mr. Jones came here from Ballston Spa for the benefit of his health. He was a leading Republican in Saratoga county, where he had served as sheriff. Mrs. Jones is a cousin of Senator Crane of Massachusetts.

Old Faces at New Weber Hall.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Weber & Fields' o'd music hall, which has undergone many changes in the last few months, opened its doors last night as the Weber Music hall under the new Weber & Ziegfeld management. The place has been handsomely decorated, and a big crowd gave a hearty welcome to the members of the company, of whom Anna Held is the head. Harry Morris took the part formerly played by Lew Fields, while among the favorites who received hearty applause were Charles A. Bigelow, Bonnie Maginn and Marie Dressler.

Cammack Found Guilty.

WOODSTOCK, N. B., Oct. 21.—Thomas Cammack was found guilty here and sentenced to be hanged on Jan. 12 next for the murder on July 17 at Glasville, N. B., of William Doherty. Cammack's son William was tried at the same time on a charge of being an accessory in the murder, but in his case the jury disagreed, and he was remanded to the next term of the court.

Bryan Finished Indiana Tour.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 21.—"The Democrats of Indiana seem to be ready to vote now," said William J. Bryan when he concluded his tour of Indiana at New Albany last night. The closing day of the tour through Indiana was regarded by Mr. Bryan and his party as the most successful of all in respect to the size and enthusiasm of the audiences.

Hole In Glove Brought Death.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Joseph Gardner, twenty-two years old employed as an inspector by the Schenectady Railway company, was instantly killed while repairing an arc lamp last night. A hole in one of his rubber gloves allowed 6,000 volts to pass through his body.

Now Four Days Overdue.

HAVANA, Oct. 21.—Up to late last night no news had been received of the Spanish Royal Mail steamer Buenos Ayres, which left New York Oct. 18 and is now four days overdue at this port.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

The Mississippi Bubble

By EMERSON HOUGH

(Copyright, 1902, by Emerson Hough.)

The keen eyes of the red paddlers caught sight of the crushed grasses at the little landing on the bayou bank, even as Law rose from his hiding place. A swift, concerted sweep of the paddles sent the boat circling out into midstream, and before Law knew it he was covered by half a dozen guns. He hardly noticed this. His own gun he left leaning against a tree, and his hand was thrown out high in front of him as he came on, calling out to those in the stream. He heard the command of the leader in the boat, and a moment later both canoes swung inshore.

"Have down your guns, Sir Arthur," cried Law, loudly and gaily. "We are none but friends here. Come in, and tell me that it is yourself, and not some miracle of mine eyes."

The young man so surprisingly addressed half started from the thwart in his amazement. His face bent into an incredulous frown, scarce carrying comprehension, even as he approached the shore. As he left the boat, for an instant Pembroke's hand was half extended in greeting, yet a swift change came over his countenance, and his body stiffened.

"Is it indeed you, Mr. Law?" he said. "I could not have believed myself so fortunate."

"'Tis myself and no one else," replied Law. "But why this melodrama, Sir Arthur? Why reject my hand?"

"I have sworn to extend to you no hand but that bearing a weapon, Mr. Law!" said Pembroke. "This may be an accident, but it seems to me the justice of God. Oh, you have run far, Mr. Law—"

"What mean you, Sir Arthur?" exclaimed Law, his face assuming the dull red of anger. "I have gone where I pleased, and asked no man's leave for it, and I shall live as I please and ask no man's leave for that. I admit that it seems almost a miracle to meet you here, but come you one way or the other, you come best without riddles, and still better without threats."

"You are not armed," said Sir Arthur. He gazed at the bronzed figure before him, clad in fringed tunic and leggings of deer hide; at the belt with little knife and ax, at the gun which now rested in the hollow of his arm. Law himself laughed keenly.

"Why, as to that," said he, "I had thought myself well enough equipped. But as for a sword, 'tis true my hand is more familiar, these days, with the ax and gun."

"The late Jessamy Law shows change in his capacity of renegade," said Pembroke, raspingly. His face displayed a scorn which jumped ill with the nature of the man before him.

"I am what I am, Sir Arthur," said Law, "and what I was. And always at any man's service who is in search of what you call God's justice, or what I may call personal satisfaction. I doubt not we shall find my other trinkets in good order not far away. But meantime, before you turn my hospitality into shame, bring on your men and follow me."

His face working with emotion, Law turned away. He caught up the body of the dead buck, and tossing it across his shoulders, strode up the winding pathway.

"Come, Gray, and Ellsworth," said Pembroke. "Get your men together. We shall see what there is to this."

At the summit of the river-bluff Law awaited their arrival. He noted in silence the look of surprise which crossed Pembroke's face as at length they came into view of the little panorama of the stockade and its surroundings.

"This is my home, Sir Arthur," said he simply. "These are my fields. And see, if I mistake not, yonder is some proof of the ability of my people to care for themselves."

He pointed to the gateway, from the loop-holes guarding which there might now be seen protruding two long dark barrels, leveled in the direction of the approaching party. There came a call from within the palisade, and the sound of men running to take their places along the wall. Law raised his hand and the barrels of the guns were lowered.

"This, then, is your hiding-place!" said Pembroke.

"I call it not such. 'Tis public to the world."

"Tush! You lack not in the least of your old conceit and assurance, Mr. Law!" said Pembroke.

"Nay, I lack not so much in assurance of myself," said Law, "as in my patience, which I find, Sir Arthur, now begins to grow a bit short about its breath. But since the courtesy of the trail demands somewhat, I say to you, there is my home. Enter it as friend if you like, but if not, come as you please. Did you indeed come bearing war, I should be obliged to signify to you, Sir Arthur, that you are my prisoner. You see my people."

"Sir," replied Sir Arthur, blindly, "I have vowed to find you no matter where you should go."

"It would seem that your vow is well fulfilled. But, now, since you deal in mysteries, I shall even ask you definitely, Sir Arthur, who and what are you? Why do you come hither, and how shall we regard you?"

"I am, in the first place," said Sir Arthur, "messenger of my lord Bellomont, governor at Albany of our English colonies. I add my chief errand, which has been to find Mr. Law, whom I would hold to an accounting."

"Oh, granted," replied Law, flicking nonchalantly at the cuff of his tunic, "your errand still carries mystery."

"You have at least heard of the Peace of Ryswick, I presume?"

"No; how should I? And why should I care?"

"None the less, the king of England and the king of France are no longer at war, nor are their colonies this side of the water. There are to be no more raids between the colonies of New England and New France. The Hurons are to give back their English prisoners, and the Iroquois are to return all their captives to the French. The Western tribes are to render up their prisoners also, be they French, English, Huron or Iroquois. The errand of carrying this news was offered to me. It agreed well enough with my own private purposes. I had tracked you, Mr. Law, to Montreal, lost you on the Richelieu, and was glad enough to take up this chance of finding you farther to the West. And now, by the justice of heaven, as I have said, I have found you easily."

"And has Sir Arthur gone to sheriffing? Has my friend become constable? Is Sir Arthur a spy? Because, look you, this is not London, nor yet New France, nor Albany. This is Messasebe! This is my valley. I rule here. Now, if kings, or constables, or even spies, wish to find John Law—why here is John Law. Now watch your people, and go you carefully here, else that may follow which will be ill extinguished."

Pembroke flung down his sword upon the ground in front of him.

"You are lucky, Mr. Law," said he, "lucky as ever. But surely, never was man so eminently deserving of death as yourself."

"You do me very much honor, Sir Arthur," replied Law. "Here is your sword, sir." Stooping, he picked it up and handed it to the other. "I did but ill if I refused to accord satisfaction to one bringing me such speech as that. 'Tis well you wear your weapons, Sir Arthur, since you come thus as emissary of the Great Peace! I know you for a gentleman, and I shall ask no parole of you to-night; but meantime, let us wait until to-morrow, when I promise you I shall be eager as yourself. Come! We can stand here guessing and talking no longer. I am weary of it."

They came now to the gate of the stockade, and there Pembroke stood for a moment in surprise and perplexity. He was not prepared to meet this dark-haired, wide-eyed girl, clad in native dress of skin, with tinkling metals at wrist and ankle, and on her feet the tiny, beaded shoes. For her part, Mary Connynge, filled with woman's curiosity, was yet less prepared for that which appeared before her—an apparition, as ran her first thought, come to threaten and affright.

"Sir Arthur!" she began, her trembling tongue but half forming the words. Her eyes stared in terror, and beneath her dark skin the blood shrank away and left her pale. She recoiled from him, her left hand carrying behind her instinctively the babe that lay on her arm.

Sir Arthur bowed, but found no word. He could only look questioningly at Law.

"Madam," said the latter, "Sir Arthur Pembroke journeys through as the messenger of Lord Bellomont, governor at Albany, to spread peace among the Western tribes. He has by mere chance blundered upon our valley, and will delay over night. It seemed well you should be advised."

Mary Connynge, gray and pale, haggard and horrified, dreading all things and knowing nothing, found no manner of reply. Without a word she turned and fled back into the cabin.

Sir Arthur once more looked about him. Motioning to the others of the party to remain outside the gate, Law led him within the stockade. On one hand stood Pierre Noir, tall, silent, impassive as a savage, leaning upon his gun and fixing on the red coat of the English uniform an eye none too friendly. Jean Breboeuf, his piece half ready and his voluble tongue half on the point of breaking over restraint, Law quieted with a gesture. Back of these, ranged in a silent yet watchful group, their weapons well in hand, stood numbers of the savage allies of this new war-lord. Pembroke turned to Law again.

"You are strongly stationed, sir; but I do not understand."

"It is my home."

"But yet—why?"

"As well this as any, where one leaves an old life and begins a new," said Law. "'Tis as good a place as any if one would leave all behind, and if he would forget."

"And this—that is to say—madam?"

Sir Arthur stumbled in his speech. John Law looked him straight in the eye, a slow, sad smile upon his face.

"Had we here the plank of poor La Salle his ship," said he, "we might nail the message of that other renegade above our door—'Nous sommes tous sauvages!'"

CHAPTER XXV.

THE DREAM.

That night John Law dreamed as he slept, and it was in some form the same haunting and familiar dream. In his vision he saw not the low roof nor the rude walls about him. To his mind there appeared a little dingy room, smaller than this in which he lay, with walls of stone, with door of iron grating and not of rough-hewn slabs. He saw the door of the prison can swing open; saw near it the figure of a noble young girl, with large and frightened eyes and lips half tremulous. To this vision he outstretched his hands. He was almost conscious of uttering some word supplicatingly, almost conscious of uttering a name.

Perhaps he slept on. We little know the ways of the land of dreams. It might have been half an instant or half an hour later that he suddenly awoke, finding his hand clasped close against his side, where suddenly there had come a sharp and burning pain. His own hand struck another. He saw something gleaming in the light of the flickering fire which still survived upon the hearth. The dim rays lit up two green, glowing, venomous balls, the eyes of the woman whom he found bending above him. He reached out his hand in the instinct of safety. This which glittered in the firelight was the blade of a knife, and it was in the hand of Mary Connynge!

In a moment Law was master of himself. "Give it to me, Madam, if you please," he said quietly, and took the knife from fingers which loosened under his grasp. There was no further word spoken. He tossed the knife into a crack of the bunk beyond him. He lay with his right arm doubled under his head, looking up steadily into the low ceiling, upon which the fire made ragged masses of shadows. His left arm, round, full and muscular, lay across the figure of the woman whom he had forced down upon the couch beside him. He could feel her bosom rise and pant in sheer sobs of anger. Once he felt the writhing of the body beneath his arm, but he simply tightened his grasp and spoke no word.

SPORTING NEWS.

FOOTBALL.

The Orange Field Club football team was out for practice last evening and a good showing was made. Their game with the Flemington team requires a strong line up, and the boys are preparing for the game with fast work. They went through their signals last night, with a snap and aggressiveness that will be hard for the Flemington eleven to tackle.

The game which the Alis football team had arranged with the Newark team has been cancelled by the latter aggregation, who claimed that the local eleven was not in their class. The Alis management has scheduled a game with the Dunellen team, which will be played on Martine Common. The game will be an interesting one from the fact that it will furnish a comparison of the Alis and the Orange Field Club teams. These two teams will contest for the championship of the city on November 8. The game was originally arranged for Novebmer 5, but it has recently been changed to Election Day. The Dunellen team was defeated early in the season by the Orange Field Club, who won from them with part a substitute team. The Dunellen team has been practicing since their former game in this city, and have strengthened their line up in several positions. The coming game will be the first for the season in the Alis Club's schedule, and will be a sort of try-out for the various candidates.

BASKET BALL.

The Sunset A. A. will arrange basket ball games with teams averaging 90-95 pounds, offering suitable inducements. Carl G. W. Grosselinger, 606 East 84th street, New York city.

BURGLARLY AT NETHERWOOD.

Thieves Frightened Off by Appearance of Young Man.

While burglars were making preparations to carry away the silverware at the home of John Cathcart on Belvidere avenue, early yesterday morning, they were frightened off by the entrance of George Cathcart, who had come in on a late train from New York.

He saw or heard no one leave the house but in one of the rooms a pile of knives, forks, spoons and other tableware were laid out ready for removal. A hurried investigation showed that the intruders had taken two overcoats, but nothing more. The police believe the robbery was done by floaters," or railroad tramps.

Augustus M. Laing Dead.

A telegram was received this afternoon announcing the death at Washington, D. C., this morning, of Augustus M. Laing, a former resident of Plainfield. Mr. Laing was a type setter in the Government printing office at Washington, and had held the position for nearly twenty-five years through changing administrations. He leaves a wife and two daughters to mourn the loss of a faithful husband and indulgent father. Kidney trouble was the cause of his death, after nearly six months patient sueffring.

Keiderling is Refused Damages.

The jury in the suit brought by George W. Keiderling, of this city, against the Central Jersey road in the Union county court, returned a verdict last night of "no cause of action," after having been out since morning. Keiderling sued to recover $5,000 alleged as damages for injuries received by falling off a train at Newark.

"Billy" Thompson, of Camden, is at the Democratic National committee's headquarers in New York almost daily, and it is whispered about the committee rooms that everything is being put into shape for a vigorous campign in New Jersey from this time on. The "Duke of Gloucester" seems to be the principal Jersey Democratic politician engaged in getting ready to "burn up the State," as one Democrat expressed it in outlining the kind of a campaign that is about to begin.

EDUCATIONAL WORK AT Y. M. C. A. HAS BEGUN

I. W. TRAVELL, KENNETH ROBBIE AND STEPHEN CAHOONE SPEAK.

Combining the opening of the educational department with the meeting of the membership committee of the Y. M. C. A., a pleasant evening was spent at the association auditorum last night, by the crowd of young men which filled the hall.

I. W. Travell, principal of the Plainfield High School, presided, as chairman of the educational committee. He outlined the plans for the educational work for the coming year, announcing that there will be classes in conversational English, Spanish, bookkeeping, mechanical drawing, mathematics, stenography, first aid to the injured, and orchestral music.

In addition to this speech, Kenneth Robbie and Stephen Cahoone made addresses relative to the membership work. Charles F. Dayton, vice chairman of the membership committee, in the absence of the chairman, Nelson A. Miller, read a letter from the latter in which he set forth the advantages to those getting additional members into the association. A gold medal will be given to the one who brings in the greatest number of new members up to the first of January.

Mr. and Mrs. Higgins Entertain.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Higgins, who were married in St. Mary's church last week, entertained fifty friends at their home on Park avenue, last evening, most of them being from this city and New York. Vocal and instrumental music and dancing were the features. Mr. Higgins recited, Miss Alice Agnetti, of New York, and David Ramezetti sang and James Mottley executed jig steps.

The "Unknown" Prisoner.

Police headquarters' unknown prisoner turned out to be Chris. Gorman, of Bernardsville. He celebrated his release from the hospital by getting gloriously drunk and either forgot or didn't want to tell his name. Judge Runyon suspended sentence this morning.

Father and Son in Trouble.

On charges of disorderly conduct and assault, Paul Breem and his son, William Breem, will be given a hearing in the city court Monday morning. The latter is accused of striking Fred Stein, of East Second street, who preferred the complaint.

Annual Reception.

The Woman's Guild, of Holy Cross church, tendered its annual reception to Rev. and Mrs. W. M. Downey in the rectory last evening. All the members of the organization assisted in the receiving and the affair was pleasingly successful.

Miss Fancher, Maid-of-Honor.

Miss Lillian Fancher, of Fanwood, was maid of honor at the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Strong, of Warwick, N. Y., to Daniel J. Wray, of New Brunswick, which took place at the bride's home yesterday afternoon.

DOINGS OF THE LOCAL FRATERNAL ORDERS.

Perseverance lodge, No. 74, K. of P., will confer the second degree on two candidates at its meeting this evening. The social committee of the lodge is making arrangements for a mock trial to be held shortly.

Many members of the Montclair Lodge of Elks are aroused over the utterances of Rev. Joseph F. Mendl, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, who spoke at the masses Sunday morning in opposition to the order. Father Mendl's action was due to a report of the recent convention of this order in Cincinnati. According to this report, which was published in a religious paper, the scenes "were disgraceful." The priest, after reading the abstract, advised the members of his church, who belong to the Elks, to resign at once and advised those who had contemplated joining the order to change their intentions. Referring to the Elk's head which members wear to signify their connection with the order, Father Mendl said: "You might as well wear the head of an ox or an ass, as it would be the same credit to you."

District Deputy Supreme Archon J. V. E. Vanderhoef, of the Improved Order of Heptasophs and Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan went to Morristown last night and conferred the degree on a class of nearly forty candidates, in which they were assisted by the Supreme Secretary and Supreme Organizer from Baltimore and members of the order from Orange, Newark and New York. After the ceremonies a banquet was held and the rest of the time was taken up with speechmaking. The Morristown conclave was instituted by Mr. Vanderhoef about a year ago with nineteen members and today they number nearly one hundred.

GRACE CHURCH PARISH HOUSE'S CORNER-STONE LAID THIS AFTERNOON

Ministers of Various Denominations Witness the Imposing Ceremony, a Presbyterian Divine Making the Address.

IMPOSING PROCESSION OF THE CLERGY

The Venerable Dean Rodman, Rector-Emeritus, Formally Lays the Corner-Stone of Stately Grace Church's Handsome New Parish House—The Services in Detail and History of the Parish.

Grace Church's New Parish House.

Not only the clergy of the Convocation of New Brunswick, but the ministers of the various denominational churches in Plainfield and North Plainfield will attend the ceremonies arranged for the laying of the corner-stone of Grace church's handsome parish house at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Rt. Rev. Dr. John Scarborough, the bishop of New Jersey, is sitting as a member of the House of Bishops at the General Convocation of the Episcopal church at Boston and will be unable to be present, but he has officially authorized an order of service which will be followed.

Preceding the formal laying of the corner stone, a service will be held in the beautiful edifice to be conducted by the rector, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson assisted by other clergy. Rev. Dr. John Sheridan Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will be seated in the chancel with the Episcopal ministers. He will make the address during the service. The processional hymn will be "The Church's One Foundation," the choir, cross bearer and banner bearer leading the procession of ministers around the church.

After the rector pronounces the benediction, the choir, ministers and congregation will march to the north of the church edifice where the corner-stone of the new structure will be formally laid. Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, the venerable rector-emeritus, will have charge of this service and will lay the stone.

The local Episcopal ministers who will be in the procession include Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, rector-emeritus of Grace church; Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church; Rev. W. Montgomery Downey, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross; Rev. A. S. Peck, rector of St. Stephen's church Rev. Robert T. Walker, rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest; Rev. Dr. William H. Neilson, Rev. Dr. J. P. Taylor and Rev. W. Bryce Morrow, all retired.

The contents of the box placed in the corner-stone are as follows: Journal of the 132d convention of the Diocese of New Jersey held in Elizabeth, N. J., May, 1904; Constitution and Canons of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the Diocese of New Jersey; the October, 1904, number of The Pilot, a monthly periodical published in the interest of Grace church parish; The Churchman, of October 15, 1904; programme of the fiftieth anniversary exercises of Grace church parish held January 12, 1902; lists of the membership of the vestry and officers of the various societies of the parish; treasurer's report for the year ending November 30, 1903; copies of The Daily Press, of Plainfield, and the Plainfield Courier-News and of the New York Herald and the New York Tribune of October 22, 1904, and the Year Book of Grace Church for 1901.

The parish of Grace church was organized June 9, 1852, at a public meeting held in the house of worship, belonging to the Seventh-Day Baptist congregation. The Rev. Philemon Elmer Coe presided. Richard Brantingham was chosen secretary. James Oliver and Jasper Cadmus were elected wardens and Hugh Pattison, Elias Lynch, William Ludlow, M. D., Jacob Wiggins, Richard Brantingham and George Windle were elected vestrymen.

Grace Church.

On May 10, 1854, the Rev. P. E. Coe was elected rector and continued to minister to the congregation faithfully and without any remuneration until December, 1858.

The corner-stone of the church was laid by the Rt. Rev. George Washington Doane, D.D., LL.D., on July 12, 1854. There were present besides the rector, Rev. Messrs. Moore, Peet, Rowland Clarkson, chaplain in the army.

Rev. W. W. Seaver succeeded Mr. Coe in a very brief rectorship, and was followed by Rev. J. L. G. Finney in May, 1861, who after a short and successful ministry of two years, died at Nashotah, Wis., whither he had gone to rest and recruit his health. In June, 1863, the Rev. R. G. Quennell was called to the rectorship, and he continued to perform his duties until February, 1865, when he resigned.

In July, 1865, at a vestry meeting the subject of the church debt, and the disposing of the church building and lot, and securing another place for public worship, was referred to the finance committee with power, Messrs. Palmer, Merrill and Vail being the committee. July 20, 1865, Rev. Dr. S. C. Thrall was elected rector, and remained until April, 1868. June 1, 1868, Rev. Dr. Charles M. Fox was elected rector. During his rectorship the church was enlarged by the addition of transcepts and recess chancel.

Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, Rector Grace church.

Mahlon Vail having presented a deed of the lot to the vestry, and the mortgage, held by the Rev. Mr. Coe, having been cancelled by him, the church was consecrated by the Rt. Rev. W. H. Odenheimer, D.D., on Monday, March 21, 1870. In September following Rev. Dr. Fox resigned the rectorship of the church. He was succeeded by the Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, who entered upon his duties November 1, 1870.

The next year a committee of the vestry, consisting of Messrs. Smith, Brown and Dumont, was appointed to consult an architect and obtain estimates for enlarging the church. A contract with Messrs. Perine & Doane was executed for this purpose April 5, 1872.

During the summer of 1857 the subject of the removal of the church to a more central part of the city was again agitated, as it had been ever and anon for ten years. At a parish meeting, held in the Seventh-Day Baptist church, October 4, 1875, Bishop Scarborough presiding, J. B. Dumont reported that the committee on a suitable site had determined to recommend the purchase of one-half of the vacant lot bounded by Seventh, Sycamore and Sixth streets, owned by W. L. Jones—say 96 feet by 300 feet.

On the Sunday after Ascension (May 28, 1876), the closing services were held in the church, which it has been determined to take down and rebuild on the lot corner of Sycamore and Sixth streets. It was further resolved that the vestry rent the building recently occupied by the Second Baptist church congregation, until such time as Grace church is rebuilt. A contract for the removal and reconstruction of the church was entered into with T. O. Doane, the mason work being done by Isaac Melbourn, the painting by E. C. Morse; the whole work to be under the supervision of W. G. Morse.

The following were wardens and vestrymen: Messrs. Thomas Henry Edsall, John B. Dumont, and Messrs. Samuel Huntington, William Patterson, Charles Tweedy, Augustus Pettibone, Thomas Pittis, Theodore B. Biecoker, vestrymen; delegates to con-

LEG CRUSHED; WILL DIE

Edward Eskerson, Jr., Falls Beneath Central R. R. Train.

WAS STEALING A RIDE

Companions Run Away, and at Death's Door Declares He Will "Get Even."

Falling from a coal train on the New Jersey Central on which he had been stealing a ride at Graceland, yesterday afternoon, Edward Eskerson, the fourteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Eskerson, of South Second street, received injuries from which he is dying in the Elizabeth General Hospital. One leg was crushed from the knee to the hip and he became so weakened from the loss of blood that to amputate it would cause immediate death. Despite his condition, the boy has retained consciousness all along and to his father, who has been at his bedside, he has made repeated assertions that he will "get even" with the companions who ran away from him when he met with the accident.

With Willie Ross and John Caffery, both West End boys, Eddie started out yesterday afternoon after chestnuts. It was their intention to look for them in the woods near Graceland and they jumped on a coal train at Liberty street. When they attempted to alight, Eddie made the misstep that threw him beneath the wheels. He remained lying between the tracks until discovered by a woman who noticed him from the rear porch of her home. An east-bound train was flagged and he was taken to Elizabeth. It was said this noon that his death is but a matter of a short time.

A coincidence in connection with the accident is the fact that it occurred in almost exactly the same spot as that at which two men received fatal injuries on Monday and Tuesday nights.

'PHONE CASES IN COURT

Justice Clark Disposes of Two of the Charges.

PLENTY OF SPECTATORS

Dismisses the Glaser Guards—Reserves Decision in Scott Terry's Trouble and Puts One Trial Over.

The Northeastern Telephone Company forces and the Glaser Guards from Alton again met in battle yesterday, the munitions of war being law, yeas and volumes of testimony to bear out each in their accusations against each other. Justice Clark looked on calmly during the proceedings from his bench in the Scotch Plains court room, and the matter was finally passed up to him for judgment. It resulted in a partial victory for the 'phone people in having one of the Guards held but only to have another charge preferred against a member of their own party.

In order to understand the legal battle now going on the following must be borne in mind: Superintendent Hallett, of the Northeastern Company, charged Scott Terry, Fanwood township constable and leader of the Glaser Guards, with arresting two of his men illegally and taking them before the wrong court; William Terry, Scott's brother, and Hugh Lamb, accuse William Mair, of the 'phone forces, with assault and battery; Superintendent Hallett charged William Terry, John Terry, Elmer Terry, Daniel Terry, Amzi Hetfield, Hugh McDonald and John Wilson, comprising the Guards, with malicious mischief in chopping down telephone poles erected in front of the Glaser property.

In the charge against Scott Terry decision was reserved until next Wednesday afternoon. The seven Guards were dismissed, the justice maintaining that the law under which the plaintiff acted when he preferred complaint, had been repealed in 1898. Hetfield & Hetfield, who appeared for the defendants, called attention to the fact and demanded the dismissal. Harry C. Runyon, counsel for the 'phone company, wanted to amend the complaint but the court said, "nay, nay" and furthermore if they wished to continue they would have to make an entirely new complaint, but this was not done.

After these two cases had been disposed of, the complaint was preferred against Mair and he was asked to plead. Of course Mair protested that he was as innocent as the driven snow and he was released on his own recognizance to appear Wednesday afternoon.

As the members of the Glaser forces are known throughout Fanwood township and a good part of Union county, their entanglement with the law has aroused great deal of interest. When the cases were called yesterday, the court room was filled to overflowing and in some respects it was a holiday for Scotch Plains. Everybody who could get away was on hand while Alton sent almost its entire male population. The latter delegation had a double purpose in watching the proceedings as the telephone line is not built through yet and further complications may arise at any time with other property owners.

In connection with the telephone trouble, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., as agent for Mrs. Glaser, appeared before the Fanwood Township Committee last evening, and preferred charges against Officer Pangborn, declaring he had refused to assist Mrs. Glaser in protecting her property when called upon. The charge was referred to a committee.

Rt. Rev. Dr. John Scarborough, Present Bishop of New Jersey.

BOLT FOR JIM MARTINE

People's Party Voters to Cast Ballots for Plainfielder.

HONEST AND FEARLESS

Chairman Shattle Tells Why He Favors Democratic Congressional Nominee.

Notwithstanding that they have a candidate for the office, the members of the People's Democratic party in Plainfield, openly declare that they will vote solidly for James E. Martine, the regular Democratic candidate for Congress. Erastus Potter, of Morris County, has been placed on the People's party ticket, it is thought for the purpose of drawing votes from Martine, but the game has failed for few ballots will be cast for him in Union County at least.

Frank J. Shattle, chairman of the People's Democratic party in this city, and one of the signers for the State convention call of that party said to a reporter for The Daily Press today: "We're for Jim Martine. We know he is honest and fearless and can be depended upon to be a good representative of the people if elected to Congress and we known that he will earn his salary and not neglect to visit the halls of Congress occasionally."

BIG AUTO PARADE TODAY

One Hundred Local Machines Alone Are to be in Line.

MUSIC BY THE BAND

Mayors of City and Borough, Officials and Editors in Touring Cars.

Every detail is complete for the automobile parade to be held this afternoon and indications point to success in this affair, the first of the kind ever held here. It is expected that fully one hundred machines will be in line, many of which will be from out of town. The start will be made from the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church about 3 o'clock. F. L. O. Martin, as marshal, and Dr. P. J. Zeglio, as assistant marshal, will have direct supervision of the parade. They will ride in a light runabout.

The committee has arranged for two tally-ho gasolene touring cars each holding sixteen persons. In one will ride the Plainfield cornet band, which will occupy about third position in the line, and the other one will carry Mayor O. L. Jenkins, of the city, and Mayor N. B. Smalley, of the borough, together with the city officials of both places and the editors of The Daily Press and the Courier-News. This automobile will occupy second position in line.

The parade will be led by the touring cars, followed by the other various styles of machines. The distance between each will be about fifty feet. It is estimated that the parade will cover the line selected in about one hour. The rain of yesterday has put the streets in fine condition for the parade and the weather not being too cold is considered ideal for the parade.

Settled for $2.50.

Though the lawyers and witnesses were prepared to try the case of Geo. Liss against S. Sparrow on the charge of assault and battery last night at Justice Mattison's court, when the complainant and the defendant arrived they announced that the case had been settled. Upon inquiry it was found that some mutual friend had accomplished an adjustment upon the payment of $2.50. Frank J. Blatz was the lawyer for the defendant, and William Newcorn represented the complainant.

ANOTHER COUNTRY DANCE

Pad and Pencil Club to Repeat Successful Affair.

ON THANKSGIVING EVE

Unique Features to Predominate With the Rustic Idea Maintained Throughout.

Confident that it can be made to attain the success of its predecessor, the local Pad and Pencil Club is making preparations to conduct another "country" dance, similar to the delightful one given two years ago. It will take place on Thanksgiving Eve in the former I. O. T. Hall at North and Park avenues and the committee having the plans in charge is making every effort to have it the event of the season. The invitations, of a novel and unique form, will be sent out early next week.

As in the initial "country" dance, the best part of it will be the manner in which the idea is to be carried out. The young men are to come in their "workin' clothes" just as though they had been late at chores and didn't have time to "brush up." "Biled" shirts will not be tolerated and on one but the district school master will be allowed to wear claw-hammer coat. Calico gowns and home-made frocks are to be worn by the girls and the rustic simplicity is calculated to add to the picturesqueness of the scene.

The hall will be made to look like a country squire's barn, with decorations of corn shocks, straw and pumpkins. O'Reilly's Possum Hollow fiddlers will be seated on barrels and will give jig steps, Virginia reels and fancy flings until milkin' time. At midnight refreshments of cider, pumpkin pie made by Eliphalet Phalet's wife and rosy-cheeked apples picked from the far corner of the orchard will be passed around. An unusually pretty dancing card with original dance dedications will be distributed as favors.

The committee will insist that all who attend the dance come attired in the prescribed costume in order to make the affair entirely successful. At the previous affair there were so many requests for invitations "just to see the costumes" that at the coming time boxes will be provided and sold to those not caring to join in the merry-making.

Borough vs. City Football.

For the first time in several years, the city and borough High School will meet on the gridiron. The North Plainfield school has not had a team for the last three years, and though they have played basket ball, they have fallen before the city aggregation in every case. Their football team is more nearly of an equal weight with the high school boys of the city, and the contest will be an interesting one.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

READY REFERENCES FOR THE LOCAL BARGAIN SEEKERS.

TenEyck & Harris, the coal dealers, handle only the best grade of anthracite and the firm would like to receive your order for the winter supply.

When you want a prescription compounded quickly and accurately go to Dudley Miller's pharmacy on Park avenue. He also keeps first-class drugs and medicines.

No apology is needed for Tier's ice cream. It has stood the test of years and the Plainfield people know that it is all right. "Simply delicious" describes it in a nutshell.

Charles E. Vail, the Park avenue jeweler, would like to show you his fine stock of silverware, diamonds, watches and clocks. These goods are the best to be found in the market.

Step in Peck's store on your way down town sometime, and see for yourself the superior quality of his goods. Everything that is the best is at Peck's. Nothing that is not the best.

Call up Hoagland, of Park avenue, when you want an expressman for your trucking of any kind. Hoagland will respond surely and promptly, and you will have no further cause for worry.

Practically but a few moments notice is all that Charles L. Stanley, the North avenue florist, requires to furnish flowers for any occasion. Telephone orders and they will receive careful attention.

The Dime Savings Bank is acknowledged to be one of the best institutions of the kind in the State and when you place your savings there you know it is safe and that at the same time you are getting interest on the same.

It's all very well to consider the "get rich quick" proposition, but men of wisdom will advise you not to be in such a hurry. Just open an account with the Plainfield Trust Company, and your money will be safe, which is a great consolation.

The Plainfield Spring Water Company solicits a trial of their famous Washington Rock water. If you don't want a five gallon bottle, you can get smaller quantities. The chances are, however, that you will want a larger quantity after you have tried it.

Prescription work is made a specialty at Powers' Somerset street pharmacy. The prescription itself will be called for and the medicine delivered. The proprietor exercises personal supervision of this department and none but experienced men are employed.

The only way to have a painting job done right is to have experienced men do it. Those employed by Harold Hansen are all competent because they have learned their trade and are not acquiring it at some one else's expense. Hansen cheerfully furnishes estimates.

Every one likes a good surprise. Any one may have a surprise. All he has to do is to call at the Surprise store on West Front street, and the quality of the goods, compared with the low prices will surprise him. They have everything one could want in fall and winter clothing.

S. Scheuer & Co., of West Front street, will supply you with the best groceries, the choice cuts of meats and vegetables in season. This firm buys in such large quantities that the patrons of the store always get the best goods at the lowest prices. Prompt deliveries are made to all parts of the city and vicinity.

Nasal Catarrh quickly yields to treatment by Ely's Cream Balm, which is agreeably aromatic. It is received through the nostrils, cleanses and heals the whole surface over which it diffuses itself. A remedy for Nasal Catarrh which is drying or exciting to the diseased membrane should not be used. Cream Balm is recognized as a specific. Price 50 cents at druggists or by mail. A cold in the head immediately disappears when Cream Balm is used. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York.

AMUSEMENTS.

Julian Edwards, the composer, has launched Mme. Schumann-Heink well in the comic opera swim with his new "Love's Lottery," at the Broadway Theatre. If Stanilius Stange's plot was not of sturdy oak, his lyrics were of willowy grace. There was the air of romance and the smell of English heather in his story, though his heroine was a washer woman of many more years than twenty. Manager Fred C. Whitney, too builded well for his new star's debut. The cast was exceptionally good, its voices were exceptionally true. It was backed by the best singing chorus which has been seen on Broadway since musical comedy gnawed at the roots of comic opera and stunted it to the level of the variety stage. Among all these necessities of a very refreshing and diverting comic opera Mme. Schumann-Heink was the giant of strength. She gave it nerve, she supplied almost all the humor, she was all over the stage. Musically, she was not affected by the frivolous surroundings, for she sang with purity of tone and mastery of technique. She was the former Schumann-Heink of grand opera, plus vivacity, buoyancy, activity.

George Ade's pictorial comedy, "The College Widow," continues to draw packed houses. Since the opening, the capacity of the Garden Theatre has been tested at every performance and Henry W. Savage's tenancy of the house has opened under the most auspicious circumstances, in the quaint characters of interest—types that we all know—Mr. Ade has struck the keynote of popular approval and "The College Widow" will probably continue her uninterrupted sway all season. Dorothy Tennant as the "widow," Frederick Truesdell as Billy, Gertrude Quinlan as the "popular waitress and Frederick Burton as "Bub" Hicks and others have scored individual hits.

The Rogers Brothers are at Liberty Theatre, built for them by the Klaw & Erlanger Amusement Company, ten doors west of the New Amsterdam, in West Forty-second street. "The Rogers Brothers in Paris" is the initial production in the new theatre. The Liberty Theatre was constructed especially for the Rogers Brothers, and they have a financial interest in it. All their future engagements in New York city will be played there. The new theatre has a stage 72 feet wide by 36 feet in depth, equipped with practically every modern improvement for the performance of large productions. It possesses about the seating capacity of the Knickerbocker. The auditorium is 72 feet wide by 60 feet from the footlights to the rear wall. There are only sixteen rows of seats on the lower floor, so that the last row is about forty-eight feet from the stage. In the rear of the orchestra chairs is a promenade, 12 feet wide and 72 feet long. In case of necessity the entire house can, it is announced, be emptied in less than a minute and a half.

LITERARY.

Arthur Evans, the Oxford archaeologist, who has made so many interesting discoveries in the so-called palace of Minos, in Crete, has found in a subterranean sanctuary certain very ancient, small, earthenware statues, representing some goddess and two of her servants. The dress of the figures is said to be highly modern. The goddess, we grieve to say, wears a corset, just such a corset as contemporary man shyly wonders at, in the windows of a department store. The skirt of the robe of the goddess is "in Louis XV. style." Her jacket is "exactly as is worn in the present day." Styles of say, 2,000 B. C., styles of 1904. Unless some humorist has "salted" the excavations, you are forced to hold that much nonsense has been written about the splendid, free, uncramped bodies of the female ancients, by no means ancient females, in their time. And "we shift and bedeck and bedrape us" much as our esteemed ancestors did in the morning of the world.—With the Procession. Everybody's Magazine for November.

Normal School Buys Farm.

The Newark Normal and Industrial School organized to train colored boys and girls in the trades, has bought a farm in Union County. The cost is about $17,000. TIRED ARMIES REST.

Russia and Japan Face One Another on Shakhe River.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—A St. Petersburg dispatch this morning says that the rival armies of Russia and Japan, intrenched a short distance from each other south of the Shakhe river, are forced to continued inactivity until the fine weather now prevailing dries the sodden ground and the tired warriors are sufficiently rested to resume operations. The Russians confined themselves to a bombardment of Shakhe station and the adjoining village of Lamatung, the Japanese feebly responding. This news clears up its interesting point and shows that Shakhe station is not held by the Russians.

The weather is fine and sunny, with a cold, biting wind. There was a severe frost.

A St. Petersburg dispatch says that General Grippenberg, who is to command the second Manchurian army, was received in audience by Emperor Nicholas at Tsarskoe Selo and had a long conference with him about the dispatch to the far east of the remaining corps of the second army.

A report from Oyama's headquarters says that the Shakhe river is the immediate objective now and that another great battle is imminent, in which the Japanese will assume the offensive.

Japs Are Good Marksmen.

MUKDEN, Oct. 22.—Every man of the 200 Cossacks commanded by Captain Tourgenieff, who reconnoitered the Japanese left southwestward and who near Sandopu unexpectedly encountered a good sized Japanese force, with machine guns, was wounded and every horse except Captain Tourgenieff's was hit by the bullets from the Japanese machine guns. Tourgenieff, though mortally wounded, carried off one man behind his saddle, while others managed to creep back to camp. But not one man was killed on the field. There is the greatest fear on the part of the Russian wounded of falling into the hands of the Japanese, the Russians being convinced that they torture their prisoners.

FIRE ON OFFICIAL TRAIN.

Pennsylvania Railroad Inspectors Made a Hurried Exit.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Oct. 22.—As the second section of the train containing officials of the Pennsylvania company, who have been making an inspection of the roadbed of the system, was passing east on the Erie and Pittsburg division opposite here it was discovered that the observation car at the head of the train was on fire inside.

The train was stopped, and the officials tumbled out almost suffocated by smoke. A few rushed back again and began throwing out burning chairs, cushions, rugs and other furnishings, while others with axes cut a big hole in the side of the car.

The flames were soon quenched, but the interior of the car was damaged and many of the furnishings destroyed. Several officials suffered slight burns and bruises, and others lost their wraps. The fire is supposed to have originated from a cigar stump thrown among the cushions.

MALCONTENTS IN ARMS.

Canal Zone Authorities Sent Out a Force of Marines.

COLON, Oct. 22.—News reached here that about 200 armed men, who are thought to be malcontent Panamans rather than Colombian soldiers, have been seen in the neighborhood of Culebra, threatening hostilities against the Panama government.

As soon as the American authorities of the canal zone became cognizant of the appearance of this force marines were sent out to ascertain their purpose. It is rumored that a skirmish occurred inland, in which several were killed, but there is no confirmation of this report.

Mines Flooded by Cave-ins.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 22.—Mine cave-ins at Duryea have caused a rise in the Lackawanna river. The flood poured into the workings of the Hallstead mine and damaged much surface near the Polish Catholic church. A score of houses also suffered damage. The mine was flooded during the strike of 1902 from similar causes, and the water had just been pumped out preparatory to getting the mine ready to operate. It may now be wholly abandoned, which will mean the loss of over $100,000 to the Lackawanna company.

Murder at Worthington W. Va.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Oct. 22.—Charles Cozad was shot and killed at Worthington by Robert Jackson, who is indirectly employed as detective by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. Jackson suspected Cozad of stealing company property and threatened to arrest him. Cozad attempted to assault Jackson, when the latter fired his revolver, the bullet striking Cozad just below the heart, killing him almost instantly. Jackson was arrested.

New Cruiser on Trial Trip.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The new cruiser Colorado, which has been in drydock at the New York navy yard, has left for her trial trip off the coast of Massachusetts. The cruiser will be required to make a speed of twenty-two knots for four consecutive hours to meet the requirements specified in her contract.

Disastrous Storm at Ain Sefra.

AIN SEFRA, Algeria, Oct. 22.—A terrific storm has swept over this town and district. The river overflowed, sweeping away numbers of houses. The loss of life is considerable, but the extent of the disaster is not yet known. The damage to property was enormous.

CLEVELAND SPEAKS.

Ex-President at New York Democratic Assembly.

GREAT OVATION AT CARNEGIE HALL

Sage of Princeton Turned Oratorical Batteries on the Administration Regarding Trusts, Panama and Philippines Policy.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Thousands of people were unable to get into Carnegie hall last night, so great was the crowd which gathered there to hear former President Cleveland and former Secretary John G. Carlisle expound the principles of Democracy. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Business Men's Parker and Davis association.

Mr. Cleveland, who after expressing his pleasure in again breathing the atmosphere of resolute and harmonious Democracy and avowing his intense anxiety for the success of the party in the pending campaign, turned his oratorical battery upon the silliest arrogance of the Republicans, who, he asserted, claimed for themselves all the virtue, wisdom and honor of the country. Continuing, he said in part:

"A party may indulge in self congratulation when it has effectively defended the people in their daily life from the rapacity of trusts and combinations, which thrive as private enterprise is strangled and which grow fat as by their control of the cost of living they cause the homes of our land to grow lean, but the people will hardly approve the vociferous pride which claims that a successful attack upon the merger of the stock of certain competing railroads has rescued them from their oppressors. They will not fail to observe that the huge combinations which directly injure them still flourish, and they may also recall how the consternation among those implicated in such schemes who once feared a general pursuit was quieted when the soothing assurance reached them that the government did not intend to 'run amuck.' Nor will they probably accept the suggestion that repentance or a change of heart accounts for the manner by which the threats and animosity of many powerful trust magnates have been displaced by their approval and substantial support of the party which seeks to convince the people of its trust destroying proclivities.

"When the platform boast is made that 'in the Philippines we have suppressed insurrection, established order and given to life and property a security never known there before,' the confession will be extorted that the insurrection suppressed was no worse than the crushing out of resistance to the army of the United States while engaged in the subjugation of a people thousands of miles from our shores, whom an incident of a war undertaken by us in aid to those struggling for liberty and independence in another quarter had put within our power, and the people will ask under what sanction was this subjugation entered upon by a nation pledged to the doctrine that all just powers of government are derived from the consent of the governed, and they will deny that imperialism and our forcible rule of foreign people have any place among the purposes of our national life.

"When credit is claimed for securing a route for a long desired interoceanic waterway it will not be in a carping spirit that the people will look at the incidents accompanying this achievement. They do not undervalue the object gained, but they keenly appreciate the importance and value of our national honor, our national good name and, above all, our national morality. Not even the great worth of the thing accomplished will close the eyes of thoughtful Americans to the fact that in reaching the results we have exhibited such international ruthlessness and such selfish international immorality as have lastingly debilitated a precedent which in time to come may be invoked to justify the most startling and reprehensible abandonment of the high ideals which have made us an example of the best civilization.

"Above all, greater than all, guarding and protecting all and fostering everything that American patriotism should covet, are the service and devotion to country of a sincere people who believe that if their government is preserved in its simplicity and defended against perversion its blessings of happiness, contentment and true prosperity will in bounteous measure visit every corner of our land.

"I desire to congratulate you, my old neighbors, and the citizens of what I love to call my old state, upon the fact that what Alton B. Parker is and what he represents in the nation D. Cady Herrick is and represents in your state. The time has arrived when there is needed at the head of your state government a man as able, as fearless and as incorruptible as I know your candidate for governor to be.

"Let us hope that the day is near when all our people, having a correct appreciation of the value of the free institutions which God has vouchsafed to them and animated by the spirit of true patriotism, may see their highest duty in continually guarding and defending these institutions."

Marx Gets Death Sentence.

THIEF CORNERED, SHOT HIMSELF

Bold Robbery of $1,500 In Bank Notes at Newark, N. J.

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 22.—A bold robbery, followed by the flight of the thief and his fatal wounding by a bullet from his own revolver, excited the neighborhood of Prospect and Ferry streets in this city.

A well dressed young man entered the J. S. Mundy hoisting works at 72 Prospect street about 2 o'clock. It was pay day in the factory, and in the office, on the second floor of the building, was about $2,000 in bank notes.

Shortly after the strange young man entered the factory the cry of "Stop thief!" was raised in the office. The intruder had snatched a quantity of bills, about $1,500.

The thief started for the first floor, with a bookkeeper, Charles Ten Eyck, in close pursuit. As he ran downstairs and out of the door several of the workmen heard Ten Eyck's cries and joined in the chase.

As the fugitive ran along Prospect street the number of his pursuers grew. He was fleet of foot and kept well ahead for about a hundred rods, but as he neared the New Jersey Central railroad bridge over Ferry street the shouts of the mob behind caused a considerable crowd to form in the fugitive's path, and he saw that he was cornered.

He drew a revolver from his pocket, raised it and fired. Whether he meant to shoot over his shoulder at the mob or to commit suicide could not be told from his action, but the bullet entered his own head, passing in at one ear and out at the other.

The dying man fell almost into the arms of Patrolman Blewitt, who was leading the chase. He was taken to the hospital, about four blocks away, where it is said he is dying.

The $1,500 that he had snatched at the Mundy factory was found in one of his pockets. Before he lost consciousness he was able to say that his name was James Wilson and that he had no home.

WORLD'S RECORDS DOWN.

Prince Direct and Morning Star Make Mile, Pacing, In 1:00 3-4.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 22.—Two world's records were broken at the Memphis Driving park. C. K. G. Billings of Chicago was the driver in each event. Prince Direct and Morning Star, driven to pole, lowered the pacing record to pole for half a mile, which was 1.01¼, by stepping the distance in 1:00¾. The Monk and Equity to pole were sent against the trotting record to pole of 2:08, held by them, and rounded the course in 2:07¾. A high wind was blowing up the stretch, which prevented Dan Patch, Major Delmar and Charley Mac from being sent against time, as scheduled. After finishing the half in their attempt against the record Prince Direct and Morning Star were continued around the course, rounding out the mile in 2:05½, unofficial, which equals the pole record for that distance, held by Prince Direct and Direct Hal.

Sweet Marie easily won the 2:06 trot in straight heats.

In the 2:11 trot, mile dash, The Questor finished first, but the judges placed him in third position for repeated breaking on the back stretch.

O'Brien Knocked Out Jeffords.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22.—Philadelphia Jack O'Brien knocked out Jim Jeffords of California in the third round of their fifteen round boxing contest last night before the Eureka Athletic club. Continuous body blows caused the western man to succumb. The men fought at catch weights.

De Reszke at Jamaica.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—On a heavy track De Reszke, the 6 to 5 favorite, easily won the Garden City selling stakes, one mile and a sixteenth, at Jamaica. Gay Boy was the pacemaker to the stretch, where De Reszke took the lead and won by three lengths.

Briggs Knocked Out Flaherty.

MARLBORO, Mass., Oct. 22.—In the seventh round of what was to be a fifteen round bout Jimmy Briggs, champion lightweight of New England, knocked out Martin Flaherty of Lowell.

Burned Wife With Hot Iron.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Joseph G. Riley, a lather, was arrested here charged with murderously assaulting his wife at their home in this city. The woman is in a hospital and is not expected to live. In his cell Riley talked freely. He said that he had had a dispute with his wife over money matters. He first attacked her with his fists, knocking her down. Then he stripped off her clothes and whipped her with the butt end of a heavy whip into insensibility. The flesh was horribly cut. He then thrust a hot iron into her mouth, burning away part of the tongue. Riley also applied the hot iron to her body.

Murder at Peoria, Ill.

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 22.—Mrs. Nellie Thomason, wife of a former prominent real estate dealer in this city, is dead at her home in Lacon following injuries received, as charged, in a sensational encounter, in which hat pins were the principal weapons used, with Richard and Jennie Higgins, son and daughter of John G. Higgins, a prominent member of the board of supervisors of Peoria county and prominent in Republican politics.

Italian Marquis Weds at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 22.—Marquis Alfred Dusmet de L'Hours of Naples and Miss Edith Ann Oliver of Sewickley, daughter of Mr. James B. Oliver, were married at the office of the Italian consulate. Consul Lionel Scelsi performed the ceremony.

The Fischer

New Small Grand

FISCHER PIANOS

The New Small Grand is the latest art product of our manufacture. Competent judges pronounce it The Most Remarkable Grand Piano of Its Size Ever Made. It occupies but a trifle more space than the upright and supplies a need where economy of room-space must be considered, and at the same time practically possesses all the Tone-power, Sweetness, Purity and Breadth of Melodic Expression that marks the FULL GRAND.

It is unique in design and satisfies the aesthetic sense of the most exacting. It must be seen and heard to be appreciated.

STORM CAME NORTH

Great Gale From Virginia Hits New Jersey.

NEW YORK AND NEW ENGLAND FELT IT

Heavy Rains and Fierce Winds Sweep Atlantic Shore—Storm Warning Saved Shipping—Railroads and Trolleys Held Up.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—A downpour of rain, driven in slanting sheets by a wind of forty-six miles an hour, disarranged the schedules of local transportation companies and brought discomfort to thousands of persons on the way to their places of business in the city. Starting well down the Virginia coast and rapidly working up along the shore line, the force of the storm was felt in the seaside cities and towns of New Jersey during the night.

Heavy rain was driven in blinding sheets. Trolley and elevated lines early felt the effects of the storm, and cars and trains in all sections of the greater city were running on disarranged schedules when the rush to the city was at its height. Umbrellas were practically worthless in the heavy wind. Ferry boats on the river and in the harbor met the storm at its worst.

The big Parker and Davis banner which was hung in Thirty-fourth street, from the offices of the Democratic national headquarters in the Century building across to the Waldorf-Astoria, was blown entirely to pieces during the storm, as was also the smaller banner underneath, which bore the sign, "National Association of Democratic Clubs, William Randolph Hearst, President." It was curious that, although these flags have been carefully taken in every night to prevent such a mishap, last night whoever was in charge forgot his duty, and the banners were wrecked.

A Boston dispatch says that a tropical storm, which had been expected for several days, broke over New England last night with a rush of wind which at its height reached a velocity of sixty miles an hour and a flood of rain. The storm spread rapidly. Its force at some points carried down telegraph wires. Connecticut and Rhode Island first felt the shock and telegraphic communication was cut off not only with those immediate sections, but with New York and points beyond. The high wind affected also connection by telephone over long distance circuits. The storm passed northward.

In northern New England considerable damage was done to fruit trees. As shipping had been given several days' warning by the weather bureau, it is thought bad wrecks were prevented.

A New Haven (Conn.) dispatch says that Connecticut suffered considerable damage as the result of the storm, telephone and trolley wires being leveled in many parts of the state. Big damage was done to the tobacco crop through the central part of the state, the estimated amount being over $15,000. Many of the large sheds in Ellington, Manchester and Rockville were blown down and left bare an aggregate of fifteen acres of tobacco. So far no wrecks are reported, although several schooners had narrow escapes from being blown on the rocks and bars along the coast. The wind at one time reached a velocity of fifty-five miles an hour, playing havoc with the small boats yet in commission.

Merchant Incited Negro to Kill.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Oct. 22.—Fletcher Watson, a negro confined in the county jail here charged with the murder of Garret V. Chamberlain, white, has confessed the crime and implicated A. G. Lamb, a prominent merchant of Micanopy. Watson said that he killed Chamberlain because the latter discharged him owing him $3. He said that Lamb gave him a rifle and told him to shoot Chamberlain or Chamberlain would shoot him; that after the shooting he ran into the store and told Lamb, who said: "Good thing. If you had not killed him, he would have killed you. The law will protect you." Deputy Sheriff Livingston has arrested Lamb at Micanopy.

Desperate Man Held at Catskill.

CATSKILL, N. Y., Oct. 22.—John Deer was arrested here last night after he had attempted to kill himself with a revolver. Deer is accused of having waylaid and stabbed his brother-in-law, William Walters of Jersey City, as Walters was driving to Catskill with his wife and five-year-old son to take a boat for New York. This took place last Tuesday, and since then Deer has been a fugitive.

Hurry Orders For Pacific Squadron.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 22.—The torpedo boat destroyer Paul Jones has gone under hurry orders to meet the Pacific squadron, which is supposed to have left Magdalena bay, where target practice has been going on, for Panama. She is bearing dispatches, the nature of which are unknown. The boat took on an extra cargo of coal and provisions and steamed out at full speed.

Edward's Queen Leaves For Home.

Hitch Dismissed the Service.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 22.—Captain R. M. Hitch, who was in charge of the troops at Statesboro on the occasion of the recent lynching and burning of the negroes Reed and Cato, has been dismissed from further service in the state militia.

ONE KILLED IN WRECK; THIRTY CARS SMASHED

BOTH ENGINES DAMAGED IN A BAD ACCIDENT AT WHITEHOUSE.

Both tracks of the New Jersey Central were torn up, thirty coal, passenger and freight cars were smashed to splinters and one man was killed in a wreck at Whitehouse Station, last night.

The evening eastbound combination milk and passenger train was near the station taking on the Pottersville and New Germantown milk cars, the engine having left the main track to go on a siding for them. While there a coal train came down the steep grade from Pickels Mountain at fifty miles an hour and crashed into the passenger cars that had been left on the eastbound track. Both engines were completely wrecked.

Levi Able, fireman on the passenger train, was killed instantly. Fisher, the engineer of the same train, escaped serious injury by jumping. His leg was torn. Moser, fireman of the coaler, was seriously injured.

The engineer of the coal train says that the air brakes on his train did not work and he could not stop. The block signals were against him. Passengers on the milk train heard the coaler coming and jumped before the crash.

ST. MARY'S ALUMNI HELD DANCE LAST NIGHT

FATHER EGAN MADE AN ADDRESS TO THE GRADUATES.

On the occasion of the St. Mary's alumni dance last evening, Stafford Hall was the scene of a merry gathering of young people, who whiled away the hours until early in the morning. About one hundred and fifty were present, constituting a thoroughly congenial crowd.

Before the dance Father Egan made an address in which he expressed his satisfaction at the action of the alumni in arranging the dance. Father Egan said that he thought it was an excellent plan for the alumni to meet from time to time, and he hoped that the practice would be kept up in the future.

Among the features of the evening were recitations by C. M. Romaine, and a vocal solo by Miss Lauretta Flannagan. Both were well rendered and were appreciated by the audience. While music was furnished by Eugene O'Reilly's orchestra, the dancers occupied the floor for several hours. A cottillion was lead by Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Curraine.

The committee in charge of the dance was composed of the following members of the alumni: Dr. F. J. Hughes, John Kyle, Miss Margaret Harding and Miss Jeanette Summers.

—The case of J. P. Homan against Almira Morrison was adjourned at Justice Mosher's court yesterday for one week.

—The Public Service Corporation is laying another track to complete the Rahway section of the Elizabeth-Rahway branch. About one hundred men are now employed on the job.

—Collector F. H. Smith has appointed Thursday, November 3, as the time he will sell property upon which the taxes for 1903 are delinquent. The sale was to have been held on Thursday. Mr. Smith announces that this will be postively the last chance given the owners to retain their property.

Arthur B. Crane, of Georgetown University, who has been visiting his parents on East Second street, has returned.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Patterson, of West Seventh street, sailed on Thursday for Europe. The trip is made for the benefit of Mr. Patterson's health, he having recently been operated upon for appendicitis.

ENDEAVORERS RAISE FUNDS FOR A PIANO

ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH LAST NIGHT.

A nut-cracking social for the benefit of the rental piano fund was held at the Congregational church last night under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society and was successful. The society pledged a certain portion of this fund, and the amount received last night will meet this obligation. The rooms of the church were decorated with autumn leaves, and a candy table attractively decorated with red and green, the prevailing colors, was in charge of Miss Woodland and Miss Rice.

The unique feature was in the distribution of all kinds of nuts by the Misses Fisher and Winant. In each was a fortune and the same colors, red and green were used with good effect, and there was no end of fun in reading the various fortunes.

Another amusing part of the programme was called a musical love-feast. To each one was given a slip of paper and pencil and as various selections were played on the piano by Miss Alberta Waterbury, the guests were expected to guess the names. During this part of the programme Miss Edith Robinson sang several selections. Additional pleasure was found in a peanut hunt, after which refreshments were served by the committee which included Miss Woodcock, Mrs. Lucy Tomlinson, Miss Ethel Millar, Miss Jenkins, Phillip Suffern and Rolland Rice.

REINHART AND ABBOTT BOTH DEFEATED AT MYOPIA

EGAN WON FROM FORMER AND M'BURNEY FROM LATTER.

Frank O. Reinhart, the present intercollegiate golf champion, was defeated yesterday on the course of the Myopia Hunt Club, by H. Chandler Egan, the amateur champion, by 3 up and 2 to play. Malcolm McBurney played Robert Abbott, of Yale, and the pair had a close match. The latter was 1 up at the turn, and McBurney missed a put on the tenth green for the hole. The next hole was also halved, but McBurney won the next three in four each, the fifteenth in six and took the match by halving the sixteenth in four.

H. C. Egan and A. L. White, both of Harvard are left to contest the final round today at thirty-six holes.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Under the auspices of the Farther Light Missionary Society of the First Baptist church, of New Market, a supper will be served at Friendship Hall on Thursday evening of next week. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the missionary society. In addition to the supper, there will be an informal entertainment, consisting of recitations, vocal and instrumental music. The young women of the society will act as waitresses. The committee in charge of the affair consists of the following members of the society: Mrs. F. Sofield, chairman; Miss Mable Dayton, Miss Iva Dayton, Miss Cora Dayton, and Mrs. William Giles.

The fair of the Daughters of Liberty, which opened in Apgar's Hall last evening, was well attended and the different booths and tables well patronized and the success of the entertainment seems well assured. Tonight, however, the largest attendance is expected and dancing is an added feature, which will attract a number of young people.

The Republican banner, which hangs across Washington avenue, was badly damaged by the storm Thursday night. The bottom part, which was made of canvass, was torn apart and the lead anchors were torn off.

Rev. W. W. Castleberry and T. C. Bodine returned Thursday from Atlantic City, where they have been representing the local Presbyterian church at the Synod of New Jersey.

Now that the local Republicans have had a reception with speakers of some prominence, the Democrats are trying to do the same thing only in a more substantial manner.

Tickets have been issued for an evening sociable to be given in Apgar's Hall by the Holy Name Society, of the St. John's Roman Catholic church, on November 16.

Paul Brakeley, with his cousin, Malcolm Davis, is spending a few days with G. A. Brakeley at Princeton University.

Miss Edith Boice left this morning for Bergen Point, where she will spend a few days with relatives.

Dr. and Mrs. Edward Sunderland, of Corning, N. Y., are spending a few days with J. B. Coriel, of Jackson avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Forrest, of Jamacia, N. Y., are spending a few days with Mrs. Frank Reynolds.

Mrs. E. A. Calhorn has returned to her home after spending a week with relatives in Orange.

James Dunham has been suffering with a touch of sciatic rheumatism for the past week.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Rev. G. M. Shott, of the Baptist church, exchanges pulpits tomorrow morning with Rev. C. F. Stanley, of the Fifth Baptist church, of Newark. Mr. Shott will occupy his own pulpit at the evening service. Services will be held at the usual hours: Sunday-school, 9:30; morning service, 10:45; B. Y. P. U. meeting, 7 p. m.; followed at 7:45 with the evening preaching service.

HOT SODA FOR COOL DAYS.

Our Hot Soda is so inviting to the taste—it's made from the purest ingredients and served at the largest, finest and most sanitary fountain in the state.

The surroundings are pleasant—our clerks always polite, courteous.

With each order, you're served with a dish of saltine wafers—which go so nicely with the soda.

A few cool day suggestions:—Clam Bouillon, Tomato Bouillon, Chicken Broth, Asparox, Hot Chocolate, etc.

All at 5c a cup.

HOLY CROSS RECEPTION TO REV. AND MRS. DOWNEY

DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR AT RECTORY ON WASHINGTON AVENUE.

The rectory of Holy Cross church, No. 30 Washington avenue, was the scene of an enjoyable parish reception on Thursday evening. This annual function is arranged for the by women of the Guild as a double courtesy to the rector and Mrs. Downey and to the entire parish, and its general appreciation was evidenced by the large number attending.

Mr. and Mrs. Downey were assisted in receiving by the wives of the vestrymen, while the members of the Guild constituted a floating committee on hospitality. The rectory was charmingly decorated with cut flowers and smilax and a particularly artistic touch was given by long festoons of many tinted amelopsis, where brilliant colors and graceful form rivalled the perfection of hot-house productions. Another attractive feature was the dainty, candle-lighted refreshment table with floral centre and decorations of yellow.

Refreshments consisting of chicken salad, sandwiches, ice cream, cake and coffee were served by six young girls of the parish. The guests were limited to the parishioners of Holy Cross church and the Episcopal clergymen of Plainfield.

The Suburban bowling team bowl the Jolly Bowling team, of Plainfield, on Monday night. The Suburban team won two out of three games bowled with this team two weeks ago by close scores.

The Township Committee met last night in the town rooms. A number of bills were ordered paid and other routine business transacted.

No ball game today for the local cranks. The sport will be missed as the National game at Scotch Plains has a large following.

Mr. Workman and family, who will occupy the McKeown cottage in the borough for the winter, have taken possession.

Miss Mamie Gallagher, who has been visiting Mrs. William H. Lee, has returned to her home at Metuchen.

The weekly meeting of the Bible Study Class was held last night in the class rooms of the Methodist church.

The local football lovers are attending the Orange F. C.-Flemington game at Orange Oval this afternoon.

Miss Daisy Wade has been spending several weeks with relatives and friends in Jersey City and Newark.

Ernest Wilson, who has been spending a few days with Louis Morel, has returned to his home in Newark.

The Brookside Gun Club is holding the club's Saturday afternoon shoot on their grounds near the brook.

Mrs. Clifford Smith, who has been quite ill for several weeks, is improving nicely now.

The Republican Club holds a meeting tonight in the club rooms in Meyers' Hall.

Miss Sadie Reger is spending Saturday and Sunday with her sister at Morristown.

Mrs. Isabella Billings, who has been seriously ill, is convalescent.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

At the usual public worship tomorrow at 10:30, the pastor's sermon topic will be: "A Man Plus God." At the evening service at 7:45, the sermon subject will be: "The Future Life of a Social State." The Christian Endeavor meeting will be led by Miss Nellie B. Manning.

A drooping wire hung across the road near Jeremiah TenEyck's residence, caused by the driving storm yesterday morning. The wire was but little higher than the carriage tops which passed under it.

A DESPERATE FIGHT

St. Louis Police Officers In Pistol Melee.

TWO MEN KILLED, FOUR BADLY HURT

Posse of Detectives Were Fired Upon at Close Quarters When Attempting Arrest of Centralia Train Robber Suspects.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 22.—In a desperate battle here between five detectives and three suspects whom they were endeavoring to arrest one detective was killed and two seriously injured and one of the suspects was killed and two others badly wounded.

The dead: John J. Shea, detective; Albert Rose, suspect.

The wounded: Thomas Dwyer, detective, shot through the right breast, critical; James McClusky, detective, shot through the stomach, critical; C. C. Blair, fugitive, shot four times through the head; Harry H. Vaughn, fugitive, badly beaten about the head by detectives when he sought to aid his friends in battle.

The fight occurred in the front room of a house on Pine street, and the men whom the detectives sought to arrest are suspected of being implicated in a train robbery at Centralia, Ills., a few weeks ago.

The house had been under police surveillance for several days, but this was the first time that any of the suspects were seen to enter or leave.

Blair made a statement that he, Rose and others had been seated in the room when the door was opened and the detectives entered.

Blair, noting the fact that Detective Shea had his revolver drawn, pulled his own gun and emptied it into the faces of the invaders.

He shot six times without a pause. There were no misfires, and so close were the suspects and detectives that the powder from Blair's gun burned their clothes.

RASINGER GUILTY.

Prosecuting Attorney Fithian Makes a Positive Statement.

BRIDGETON, N. J., Oct. 22.—Frank Rasinger, the young farmer who was arrested as a witness in connection with the killing of his wife in their farmhouse at Shiloh, near here, last Tuesday, has been formally accused of having murdered her. Prosecuting Attorney Fithian has given out this statement:

"A formal charge has been made before Justice of the Peace Samuel M. Hall accusing Frank Rasinger of the murder of his wife. This charge is the result of evidence now in the possession of the state, which absolutely assures the guilt of Rasinger."

Rasinger was subjected to the "sweating process" for several hours, but with what success is not known beyond the statement given out by Prosecutor Fithian. It is understood, however, that Rasinger and his wife had some differences over a private matter. There was a rumor here that Rasinger had made a confession, but it could not be confirmed.

Rasinger was permitted to attend his wife's funeral here and was accompanied to the grave by county officers. He betrayed little emotion.

NEW PEACE CONFERENCE.

President Roosevelt About to Issue Invitation to Powers.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Within two days the president will dispatch formal invitations to the powers to name delegates to the new peace conference to be held at The Hague. The powers are invited to suggest a date or dates for the meeting of the conference. Secretary Hay has submitted a draft of the invitation to the cabinet.

Notice of his intention to issue this call was given by the president several weeks ago upon the occasion of the visit to the White House of the delegates of the interparliamentary union, and the formal invitation has been in course of preparation ever since. There was no hesitation on the part of the president in naming The Hague in the invitation; hence, of course, it is assumed the government of the Netherlands was first consulted.

Buenos Aires Safe.

HAVANA, Oct. 22.—The Buenos Aires, with 325 souls on board, has arrived here, four days overdue, after a storm tossed voyage from New York. Her captain reports that he went far out to sea in order to avoid the Florida straits during the recent storm. According to a clerk the delay was due to storms and damage to the machinery.

Gift of Valuable Indian Relics.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 22.—Colonel D. B. Dyer of this city has presented his collection of Indian relics, valued at $200,000, to Kansas City to be incorporated in the Public library there. The collection is considered the most valuable in private ownership in the country, and it has taken thirty-five years to gather it.

Town of Gordon Destroyed.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Oct. 22.—A telegram from Hon. J. W. Britt, mayor of Gordon, Ala., to Mayor Chappell of Columbus says that the entire town has been destroyed by fire and asks for assistance. Gordon is a small town on the Atlantic Coast Line railway and on the Chattahoochee river, near Alaga.

Kurds on the Warpath.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—A Constantinople dispatch says that Kurds have burned twenty houses in the village of Narek, near Van, and killed over thirty Armenians.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER, AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

NEW STYLES GALORE.

The Shops Display a Bewildering Array of Winter Garments.

After a day of inspecting the garments, hats and materials offered us for the new season the mind is fairly confused with the riot of color and the many shapes. The coats and wraps vary, and one may find almost anything, from the velvet Louis XVI. to the Louis XV. forms and the directoire shapes besides. There are short sack coats of a dozen shapes, but all having the loose effect in the back, with the large sleeves. There are long coats, half and tight fitted, with velvet collars. They are very mannish in appearance. There are corset coats with the many seams and scores of jackets. We see capes of various forms, some of them being cut square, so that when they are on the points fall over the arms and down the front and back. Some of these have flat collars of lace or the material, some are richly trimmed, and others are plain save for a flat band of velvet all around.

Then come the storm coats in cravenette and silk waterproof, though these last mentioned are not very durable. These coats are long, nearly always reaching to the bottom of the dress. Some have a belted effect in the back, and others are straight. The Louis XVI. and Louis XV coats of fine velvet are exceedingly handsome and desirable, but the whole velutina suits are fully as rich and wear better. If they get wet the pile rises of itself, while the silk velvet must have careful treatment.

BROWN VELUTINA SUIT.

Whole suits of the plain or corded velutina are stylish and rich and particularly smart for young ladies. In the illustration is shown a suit of this material, in plain velutina, which means that it is not ribbed. The color is a rich, deep, woody brown. The skirt is tucked in very narrow lines at the top and has two flounces at the foot. The inner waist of silk matches the rest or else is of faint blue. The coat is made with the three parts like flounces and has fancy silver buttons down the front. At the neck and on the cuffs is a motif of silver braid. Gold and Persian castle braids enter so largely into the trimming of almost all outdoor garments that they have become as indispensable as they are beautiful.

Many of the new hats are made entirely of braids, in dark shades and colors brightened in different places by judicious employment of Persian on gold or silver braid. There are many separate motifs.

I notice among the new millinery bonnets for little girls made just like the Phyllis sunbonnets for young ladies. They are made of shirred silk or crape over a featherbone foundation. The front sets out prettily around the face, while the crown is puffed. Strings tie under the chin, but there is no cape to the present bonnet. Any lady can make one for her little girl, and be sure it is quite the prettiest thing to be found. Some few have a tiny bunch of small flowers in the front under the brim to nestle against the soft hair. Outside no trimming at all is needed if the material of which it is made is shirred nicely on the featherbone foundation. It is a great convenience to be able to get these ready to use.

The colors for the autumn are in the main very brilliant. Orange, burnt orange, mandarin, tangerine and several other reddish yellows are seen everywhere. Red is very popular in hats and in dresses, coats and even in full suits. The gowns for home wear are mostly in lighter tints and generally in self material, like albatross, crape and the like. Veiling and eolienne are both favorites, and, as to mohair, it is better liked this season than ever. It is a most useful, pretty and durable material.

Some very artistic effects are wrought in having a suit all in one color, but in different shades. Brown shading from pale biscuit to seal makes a pleasing combination. The hat would be the darkest of all the shades repeated in the long paradise sweep of the plume. Grays, greens and garnet shaded with other reds make striking and stylish suits. Blue in the darker shades and cheviots, tweeds and mixtures of various kinds are seen in the street suits. The skirts are wider than before. Many ruffles and flounces are seen, and some of the skirts have panels of different material. Fichu and berthas trim the waists.

OLIVE HARPER.

The Mississippi Bubble

By EMERSON HOUGH

Author of "The Story of the Cowboy," "The Girl at the Halfway House," Etc.

(Copyright, 1902, by Emerson Hough.)

It was not far from morning. In time the gray dawn came creeping in at the window, until at length the chinks between the logs in the little square-cut window and the ill-fitting door were flooded with a sea of sunlight. As this light grew stronger, Law slowly turned and looked at the face beside him. Out of the tangle of dark hair there blazed still two eyes, eyes which looked steadily up at the ceiling, refusing to turn either to the right or to the left. He calmly pulled closer to him, so that it might not stain the garments of the woman beside him, the blood-soaked shirt whose looseness and lack of definition had perhaps saved him from a fatal blow. He paid no attention to his wound, which he knew was nothing serious. So he lay and looked at Mary Connynge, and finally removed his arm.

"Get up," said he simply, and the woman obeyed him.

"The fire, Madam, if you please, and breakfast."

These had been the duties of the Indian woman, but Mary Connynge obeyed.

"Madam," said Law, calmly, after the morning meal was at last finished in silence, "I shall be very glad to have your company for a few moments, if you please."

Mary Connynge rose and followed him into the open air, her eyes still fixed upon the dark-crusted stain which had spread upon his tunic. They walked in silence to a point beyond the cabin.

"You would call her Catharine!" burst out Mary Connynge. "Oh! I heard you in your sleep. You believe every lying word Sir Arthur tells you. You believe—"

John Law looked at her with the simple and direct gaze which the tamer of the wild beast employs when he goes among them, the look of a man not afraid of any living thing.

"Madam," said he, at length, calmly and evenly, as before, "what I have said, sleeping or waking, will not matter. You have tried to kill me. You did not succeed. You will never try again. Now, madam, I give you the privilege of kneeling here on the ground before me, and asking of me, not my pardon, but the pardon of the woman you have foully stabbed, even as you have me."

The figure before him straightened up, the blazing yellow eyes sought his once, twice, thrice, behind them all the fury of a savage soul. It was of no avail. The cool blue eyes looked straight into her heart. The tall figure stood before her, unyielding. She sought to raise her eyes once more, failed, and sc would have sunk down as he had said, actually on her knees before him.

John Law extended a hand and stopped her. "There," said he. "It will suffice. I cannot demean you. There is the child."

"You called her Catharine!" broke out the woman once more in her ungovernable rage. "You would name my child—"

"Madam, get up!" said John Law, sharply and sternly. "Get up on your feet and look me in the face. The child shall be called for her who should have been her mother. Let those forgive who can. That you have ruined my life for me is but perhaps a fair exchange; yet you shall say no word against that woman whose life we have both of us despoiled."

CHAPTER XXVI.

BY THE HILT OF THE SWORD.

Law passed on out at the gate of the stockade down to the bivouac, where Pembroke and his men had spent the night.

"Now, Sir Arthur," said he to the latter, when he had found him, "come. I am ready to talk with you. Let us go apart."

Pembroke joined him, and the two walked slowly away toward the encircling wood which swept back of the stockade. Law turned upon him at length squarely.

"Sir Arthur," said he, "I think you would tell me something concerned with the Lady Catharine Knollys. Do you bring any message from her?"

The face of Pembroke flamed scarlet with sudden wrath. "Message!" said he. "Message from Lady Catharine Knollys to you? By God! sir, her only message could be her hope that she might never hear your name again."

"You have still your temper, Sir Arthur, and you speak harsh enough."

"Harsh or not," rejoined Pembroke, "I scarce can endure her name upon your lips. You, who scouted her, who left her, who took up with the lewdest woman in all Great Britain, as it now appears—you who would consort with this creature—"

"In this matter," said John Law, simply, "you are not my prisoner, and I beg you to speak frankly. It shall be man and man between us."

"How you could have stooped to such baseness is what mortal man can never understand," resumed Sir Arthur, bitterly. "Good God! to abandon a woman like that so heartlessly—"

"Sir Arthur," said John Law, his voice trembling, "I do myself the very great pleasure of telling you that you lie!"

For a moment the two stood silent, facing each other, the face of each stony, gone gray with the emotions back of it.

"There is light," said Pembroke, "and abundant space."

They turned and paced back farther toward the open forest glade. Yet now and again their steps faltered and half paused, and neither man cared to go forward or to return. Pembroke's face, stern as it had been, again took on the imprint of a growing hesitation.

"Mr. Law," said he, "there is something in your attitude which I admit puzzles me. I ask you in all honor, I ask you on the hilt of that sword which I know you will never disgrace, why did you thus flout the Lady Catharine Knollys? Why did you scorn her and take up with this woman yonder in her stead?"

"Sir Arthur," said John Law, with trembling lips, "I must be very low indeed in reputation, since you can ask me question such as this."

"But you must answer!" cried Sir Arthur, "and you must swear!"

"If you would have my answer and my oath, then I give you both. I did not do what you suggest, nor can I conceive how any man should think me guilty of it. I loved Lady Catharine Knollys with all my heart. 'Twas my chief bitterness, keener than even the thought of the gallows itself, that she forsook me in my trouble. Then, bitter as any man would be, I persuaded myself that I cared naught. Then came this other woman. Then I—well, I was a man and a fool—a fool, Sir Arthur, a most miserable fool! Every moment of my life since first I saw her, I have loved the Lady Catharine; and, God help me, I do now!"

Sir Arthur struck his hand upon the hilt of his sword. "You were more lucky than myself, as I know," said he, and from his lips broke half a groan.

"Good God!" broke out Law. "Let us not talk of it. I give you my word of honor, there has been no happiness to this. But come! We waste time. Let us cross swords!"

"Wait. Let me explain, since we are in the way of it. You must know that 'twas within the plans of Montague that Lady Catharine Knollys should be the agent of your freedom. I was pledged to the Lady Catharine to assist her, though, as you may perhaps see, sir," and Pembroke gulped in his throat as he spoke, "'twas difficult enough, this part that was assigned to me. It was I, Mr. Law, who drove the coach to the gate, the coach which brought the Lady Catharine. 'Twas she who opened the door of Newgate jail for you. My God! sir, how could you walk past that woman, coming there as she did, with such a purpose!"

At hearing these words, the tall figure of the man opposed to him drooped and sank, as though under some fearful blow. He staggered to a nearby support and sank weakly to a seat, his head falling between his hands, his whole face convulsed.

"Ah!" said he, "you did right to cross seas in search of me! God hath indeed found me out and given me my punishment. Yet I ask God to bear me witness that I knew not the truth. Come, Sir Arthur! Come, I beseech you! Let us fall to!"

"I shall be no man's executioner for his sentence on himself. I could not fight you now." His eye fell by chance upon the blotch in Law's blood-stained tunic. "And here," he said; "see! You are already wounded."

"'Twas but one woman's way of showing her regard," said Law. "'Twas Mary Connynge stabbed me."

"But why?"

"Nay, I am glad of it; since it proves the truth of all you say, even as it proves me to be the most unworthy man in all the world. Oh, what had it meant to me to know a real love! God! How could I have been so blind?"

"'Tis the ancient puzzle."

"Yes!" cried Law. "And let us make an end of puzzles! Your quarrel, sir, I admit is just. Let us go on."

"And again I tell you, Mr. Law," replied Sir Arthur, "that I will not fight you."

"Then, sir," said Law, dropping his own sword upon the grass and extending his hand with a broken smile, "'tis I who am your prisoner!"

CHAPTER XXVII.

THE IROQUOIS.

Even as Sir Arthur and John Law clasped hands, there came a sudden interruption. A half-score yards deeper in the wood there arose a sudden, half-choked cry, followed by a shrill whoop. There was a crashing as of one running, and immediately there pressed into the open space the figure of an Indian, an old man from the village of the Illini. Even as his staggering footsteps brought him within gaze, the two startled observers saw the shaft which had sunk deep within his breast. He had been shot through by an Indian arrow, and upon the instant it was all too plain whose hand had sped the shaft. Following close upon his heels there came a stalwart savage, whose face, hideously painted, appeared fairly demoniacal as he came bounding on with uplifted hatchet, seeking to strike down the victim already impaled by the silent arrow.

"Quick!" cried Law, in a flash catching the meaning of this sudden spectacle. "Into the fort, Sir Arthur, and call the men together!"

Not stopping to relieve the struggles of the victim, who had now fallen forward, gasping, Law sprang on with drawn blade to meet the advancing savage. The latter paused for an uncertain moment, and then with a shrill yell of defiance, hurled the keen steel hatchet full at Law's head. It shore away a piece of his hat brim, and sank with edge deep buried in the trunk of a tree beyond. The savage turned, but turned too late. The blade of the swordsman passed through from rib to rib under his arm, and he fell choking, even as he sought again to give vent to his war cry.

And now arose in the woods beyond, and in the fields below the hill, and from the villages of the neighboring Indians, a series of sharp, undulating yells. Shots came from within the fortress, where the loop-holes were already manned. There were borne from the nearest wigwams of the Illini the screams of wounded men, the shrieks of terrified women. In an instant the peaceful spot had become the scene of a horrible confusion. Once more the wolves of the woods, the Iroquois, had fallen on their prey!

Swift as had been Law's movements, Pembroke was but a pace behind him as he wrenched free his blade. The two turned back together and started at speed for the palisade. At the gate they met others hurrying in, Pembroke's men joining in the rush of the frightened villagers. Among these the Iroquois pressed with shrill yells, plying knife and bow and hatchet as they ran, and the horrified eyes of those within the palisade saw many a tragedy enacted.

"Watch the gate!" cried Pierre Noir, from his station in the corner tower. As he spoke there came a rush of screaming Iroquois, who sought to gain the entrance.

"Now!" cried Pierre Noir, discharging his piece into the crowded ranks below him; and shot after shot followed his own. The packed brown mass gave back and resolved itself into scattered units, who broke and ran for the nearest cover.

"They will not come on again until dark," said Pierre Noir, calmly, leaning his piece against the wall. "Therefore I may attend to certain little matters."

He passed out into the entry-way, where lay the bodies of three Iroquois, abandoned, under the close and deadly fire, by their companions where they had fallen. When Pierre Noir returned and calmly propped up again the door of slabs which he had removed, he carried in his hand three tufts of long black hair, from which dripped heavy gouts of blood.

"Good God, man!" said Pembroke. "You must not be savage as these Indians!"

"Speak for yourself, Monsieur Anglais," replied Pierre, stoutly. "You need not save these head pieces if you do not care for them. For myself, tis part of the trade."

TRADE CONDITIONS.

R. G. Dun & Co. Report an Encouraging Outlook.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Trade reports are more encouraging each week, while the feeling of optimism regarding the future is becoming general. With its customary disposition to discount commercial prosperity, Wall street has lifted the average price of the sixty most active railway shares above par for the first time since May of last year. Manufacturing plants steadily increase output, a particularly gratifying feature of the week being the large tonnage of steel purchased by the railways, and the advanced prices for pig iron suggest that the depression in that industry has run its course.

Textile mills are doing more work, even the New England cotton centers reporting less procrastination among buyers, which is the more noteworthy because the new contracts were placed at a time when the raw material was declining.

Payments are still somewhat irregular, yet there are comparatively few complaints. Foreign trade at this port for the last week shows a gain of $2,158,275 in imports over those of the same week in 1903, but a loss of $1,148,275 in exports.

Wheat has continued stronger than the statistical reports would seem to warrant, but there is a disturbing factor in the quality of the crop that detracts from the value of quantitative comparisons. Receipts at primary markets of 7,713,721 bushels for the week largely surpassed the 6,681,264 bushels last year, while exports from all ports of the United States, flour included, were only 890,135 bushels against 4,015,601 in 1903 and still more in earlier years.

Liabilities of commercial failures thus far reported for October aggregated $5,172,082, of which $1,945,907 was in manufacturing, $3,105,944 in trading and $120,281 in other commercial lines. Failures for the week numbered 215 in the United States against 279 last year and 39 in Canada compared with 26 a year ago.

LYNCHERS AFTER HIM.

A Young Girl Murdered at Waterloo, Ill.—Body Burned.

WATERLOO, Ill., Oct. 22.—Seventeen-year-old Eleanora Woodcock, daughter of a wealthy man here, while alone in her home, was murdered by an unknown man, who later tried to burn the body in a nearby field.

An armed posse is seeking the slayer and it is almost certain that a lynching will occur if he is caught.

The girl was reading in her room, it is believed, when the man entered the house. It is evident that she struggled fiercely with her assailant before she was overpowered.

She was apparently, however, beaten into insensibility. Her throat was then cut, and the body was dragged to a field behind the house.

It was then placed under a pile of straw, to which the murderer set fire. The girl's body was partly destroyed when found by a farmhand, who told Mr. Woodcock of the affair. The latter had returned home and was almost distracted at finding traces of the struggle and his daughter gone.

A stranger giving his name as Thomas Kennedy has been arrested at Harrisonville, Monroe county, on suspicion of being the assailant and murderer.

LAWYERS ARGUE HOTLY IN THE MARRA TROUBLE

COMPLAINTS AGAINST "SPITE" HOUSE OWNER HEARD THIS MORNING.

With Corporation Counsel Marsh appearing for the complainant and Walter L. Hetfield representing the defense, the Board of Health's charge against Antone Marra, owner of the spite house, was heard in the city court this morning. He is accused of building a cesspool and vault on his premises without a permit and the opposing lawyers waxed warm in their argument over the case. Mr. Hetfield declared with emphasis that the Marra trouble has narrowed down from prosecution to persecution as the man has sought to observe the law.

At the conclusion of the testimony, Judge Runyon announced that he would reserve his decision until Wednesday morning. In the previous charges against Marra he was found guilty and fines to the amount of $125 were imposed.

DEMOCRATS' RECEPTION.

Candidates of Party at Headquarters Last Night.

The Plainfield Democratic Club entertained the local and county nominees at the headquarters, last night. All of the nominees with the exception of Stephen Cox, of Cranford, and Joseph Gunn, of Springfield, candidates for the Assembly, and the candidate for coroner, of Elizabeth, were present and made short speeches. A. H. Atterbury gave an excellent talk, encouraging the voters and assuring them that if they stand by the ticket the result will be all right.

J. V. F. Dilts called the meeting to order and Elmore D. Moffett was chairman, after he made a few remarks, he introduced the candidates present.

A Pleasant Surprise.

In honor of her birthday, Miss Mary Good, of this city, was tendered a delightful surprise party Thursday evening by about thirty of her friends. The surprise was genuine, and the occasion was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. The evening was spent in playing progressive whist, and other games, while vocal and instrumental music was a feature of the evening. In the progressive whist, Miss Irene Hope was awarded the first prize, the consolation prize going to Miss Good. Late in the evening refreshments were served, and the guests departed for their homes.

IN THE CHRISTIAN FIELD

WORK IN THE CHURCHES OF THE CITY AND BOROUGH.

Mrs. George W. Cole was chairman of the decorating committee at the social of the Trinity Reformed church missionary society which was given Thursday evening. Much credit is due to this committee for its work in decorating the rooms.

Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Lovell, Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church; Rev. C. E. Herring and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Shotwell, of the First Presbyterian church, have returned from Atlantic City, where they attended the meeting of the Presbyterian Synod.

A. A. PHELPS DEAD.

President of Local Business College Passes Away Suddenly.

Though in comparatively good health up to the time of his death, Rev. A. A. Phelps, the president of the Plainfield Business College, died Thursday at Roxbury, Mass., as the result of over work.

Rev. Mr. Phelps conducted the school for the last ten years. Mr. Phelps was a graduate of the Syracuse University, having been born in Paintedpost in 1835. His father was in the shoe business and Mr. Phelps was obliged to work his way through college. He chose the theological profession, and graduated from the theological institute at Syracuse at the age of 24.

During the last two years, Mr. Phelps has been conducting the Boston Bible School, at Boston, where young men are prepared for the ministry. He spent the summer lecturing in Maine, where it is believed he over worked, and succumbed to the strain Thursday.

Mr. Phelps leave a wife and four daughters, Mrs. Joseph Walker, of Newark; Mrs. Samuel Bluntauch, of Rochester. Miss Adelia Phelps, instructress of art at the local school, and Miss Flora Phelps, at Asbury Park. He is also survived by four sisters, Mrs. Abie Albee, of Addison, New York; Mrs. Corwin, of Addison; Mrs. Lulu Hathaway, of Paintedpost, and Mrs. Lurie Albee, of Addison.

Mrs. J. M. Whiton, President.

Mrs. J. M. Whiton was elected president at the thirteenth annual convention of the Woman's Home Missionary Union, which was held all day Thursday in the Orange Valley Congregational church, adjourning to hold its next meeting at Germantown, Pa. Rev. Dr. R. A. Beard delivered an address at the afternoon session on missions and methods of doing missionary work, after which some routine business was transacted.

Death of Peter Anderson.

Peter Anderson, the well-known colored chef, died at his home on Manning avenue, yesterday afternoon, from cerebral hemorrhages. He was in his sixtieth year and had resided in this vicinity for a long time, conducting restaurants in various parts of the city at different times. Funeral services over the body will be held from the Calvary Baptist church, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

No Friends' Meeting.

Tomorrow, for the first time in the remembrance of members of the Friends meeting-house on Watchung avenue, will be closed and no services will be held there. This is necessary owing to extensive repairs being made at this house of worship, it being impossible to complete them in time for the regular services.

J. F. Harman and Miss Harman, of West Eighth street, are home from an extended trip abroad.

Rev. Edward Vicars Stevenson was instituted rector of the parish on December 14, 1902. The vestry at present is as follows: M. S. Ackerman and E. H. Booth, wardens; W. T. Gough, L. G. Timpson, C. E. Brooks, A. Masters, J. Erickson, O. G. Waring and W. T. Pelletier, vestrymen.

The new parish house is to be built of stone, the plans have been drawn by the same architect who designed the church. The contract for the building has been awarded to Charles Wilson, of Plainfield.

Rt. Rev. Dr. George W. Doane, who laid the corner s one of old Grace church.

On October 30, 1887, at a meeting of the vestry it was resolved to build the present church on the corner of Seventh and Sycamore streets, the plans of Architect R. W. Gibson, of New York, were accepted and a contract made with Charles W. Kafer, of Trenton, N. J., to build the same. On May 5, 1891, the service of laying the corner-stone of the present church was held. The vestry was then com-

Y. M. C. A. TAKES THREE GAMES FROM WESTFIELD

LOCAL BOWLERS DEFEAT THE SATURDAY NIGHT CLUB.

In three fairly interesting games, the Y. M. C. A. bowling team defeated the Saturday Night Club, of Westfield, on the local alleys. Physical Director Henckel, who had been coaching the basket ball team in the gymnasium, was present at the last of the three games.

The line-up and scores:

The visitors were somewhat handicapped by the absence of two of their regular players. This accounts for the heavy lead secured by the Y. M. C. A. men, the average lead for the three games being 111 1-3 pins per game. However, Captain Charles Ortleb promises to "trim" the locals when the return game is rolled at Westfield.

"Reformation" Rehearsal.

A full rehearsal of those who are to take part in the entertainment, "The Scottish Reformation," was held in Hope chapel last evening, and the directors were greatly pleased with the rehearsal. The cast and chorus will include 100 of Plainfield's prominent people who will represent Puritans, Highlanders, English and Saxon Guards, Royalists and Scottish clans. The costumes are to be very elaborate and true to history.

Martha Washington Council, No. 23, Daughters of America, will meet this evening in I. O. F. O. Hall, Babcock building.

The Swedish Lutheran church congregation will hold service in the German Lutheran church tomorrow afternoon at 3:30. Rev. A. Anderson will have charge.

HOPE CHAPEL FIVE, 22; PLAINFIELD HIGH BOYS, 12

P. H. S. DEFEATED FOR THE SECOND TIME.

For the second time this season, the basket ball team of the Plainfield High School met defeat at the hands of the Hope chapel five last night on the latter's floor. The score was 22 to 12. Superior weight, and greater knowledge of the floor won the game for the Hope team, as there were times when the school boys put up equally as good a game both offensive and defensive.

Collier and Freeman deserve the greatest amount of credit for their game. Freeman was up against Dilts, the best forward in the city, and he did his duty well. Collier's individual work, and passing was the mainstay of his team, and though at times he failed to guard close, he outplayed his opponent. Though a fast guard, and an aggressive player, Porter, the Hope captain, was somewhat antagonistic, and fouled repeatedly.

The score at the end of the first half was 10 to 8 in the home team's favor, while in the second period, the Hope team added 12 to their opponent's 4. The line-up was as follows: Hope—Duckworth and Porter, forwards; Blimm, center; Emmons and Fritz, guards. Dilts was substituted for Fritz in the second half. P. H. S.—Doane and Thompson, forwards; Collier, center; Gavett and Freeman, guards. Goals from the field—Noane, 2; Gavett, Collier, 3; Blimm, 5; Porter, 2; Dilts, 3; Duckworth. Referee—Browning.

To Use Automatic Signals.

The Public Service Corporation has awarded the contract for the installation of an automatic signal system throughout its entire system and it is hoped to have the same completed early next year. The present system, while it works all right, is a source of considerable trouble to the conductors who are obliged to leave their cars to turn the signal light on before entering the single track. With the installation of the automatic system the cars would operate the lights, similar to the method used on steam railroads.

STOP CARS CAREFULLY.

Motormen Instructed to Use Greater Care on P. S. C. Lines.

To avoid the trouble of having flat wheels on the trolley cars, all motormen employed by the Public Service Corporation have been instructed to exercise greater care in stopping cars. There have been instances where the motormen have stopped their cars so suddenly that they would slide for a considerable distance, with the result that one or more wheels would go flat.

This is expensive business, as the wheels have to be sent to the repair shops and sometimes it is impossible to grind them and use them again. The older motormen are more careful in this respect, but new men are generally careless, being anxious to stop their cars the instant the bell is sounded or they approach someone who wants to get aboard.

F. R. Burgess Dead.

Freeman Ryder Burgess, aged seventy-one years, died this morning at his home in Sandford avenue. The funeral will be private and interment will be at Fall River, Mass.

Beginning with tomorrow evening, revival services will be held at the Christian church on Grove street. The entire service will be in charge of Rev. Phil. A. Parsons.

LOCAL TEAMS VICTORIOUS

Alis and O. F. C. Elevens Win at Football.

BOTH GOOD GAMES

Locals and Plainfield High School Lose to Newark and Cranford Aggregations.

The Alis football team journeyed to Jersey City Saturday afternoon, and administered defeat to the Columbia Field Club, of that city, by the score of 11 to 5. The game was the first of the season for the Alis eleven, and was in every way satisfactory to the captain and the players. They played a hard steady game, their line bucking being strong and their defensive far superior to their opponent's. The tackling of Phillips, and end runs by Cumings were features of the game.

The Columbia eleven drew the first blood by scoring a touchdown early in the first half. The goal was not kicked. This was the only tally which the Jersey City team made, the score at the end of the first half being 5 to 0. In the second part of the game, the Alis players crossed their opponent's line twice, Cuming making the first touchdown, and Moore following soon after with five more points. Phillips kicked the goal from the first touchdown, making the score finally 11 to 5.

The following is the line-up of the Alis team: Thayer and Wilson, left end; Voorhees, left tackle; Guier, left guard; Bourgeoiss, center; Derby, right guard; Egan, right tackle; W. Moore, right end; Phillips, quarter back; Cuming, left half; Moore, right half; MacNaughton and Whitney, full back.

Though the Alis-Dunellen game was cancelled at the last minute, the Orange Field Club satisfactorily represented the city on the gridiron Saturday by defeating the Flemington aggregation by the score of 16 to 0. The game was played on the Orange Oval, and though most of the Flemington team was disabled and to a great extent, a substitute eleven represented them, still the game was hard fought and exciting.

It was apparently greater weight and superior team work that won the game for the local players, the ball being in their hands most of the time. Smith, McCullough and Emmons played a strong game for the O. F. C. The touchdowns were made by W. McCullough and Smith, the latter carrying the ball over the line twice in the game. The one goal from the touchdown was made by Sherwin.

Referee—A. Willis West. Umpire—Foran, of Flemington. Time of halves—15 minutes.

Both the local scholastic teams suffered defeat Saturday, the Leal's School losing to the Newark Academy team in the morning, and the Plainfield High School eleven being worsted by the Cranford High School in the afternoon. The score of the Leal's game was 12 to 0, the Newark boys crossing the line once in each half. Shirley made the first touchdown and Pope the second. The former kicked both goals.

The Leal's School team was outweighed, and was slower in getting off than its opponents. Their line-up follows: Underhill and Suffern, right end; Gutierres, right tackle; Jewett, right guard; Smith, center; Lawrence, left guard; Curtis, left tackle; Manning, left end; Reece, quarter back; Glenney, right half back; Wilcox, left half; Dallas, full back.

The High School boys fell under the Cranford's attack by the score of 23 to 0. In spite of the large score, the game was interesting, and far from discouraging to the local school boys. The touchdowns were made by F. Cooper and F. Smith, two in each half, C. Smith kicking three goals. The P. H. S. boys lined up as follows: Jones, left end; Bentley, left tackle; Freeman, left guard; Bogart, center; Srager, right guard; Jahn, right tackle; Rockwell, right end; Williams, quarter back; W. Douglass, left half; J. Douglass, right half; Taylor, full back.

Miss Mildred Tyrrell is spending a few days with friends in Newark.

JR. O. U. A. M. CONVENTION

State Council to be Held at Trenton on Wednesday.

THIS CITY REPRESENTED

Mass-Meeting in Opera House at Night to Conclude the Day's Programme.

The thirty-sixth annual session of the State council of New Jersey, Jr. O. U. A. M., will be held in Masonic temple, Trenton, Wednesday, and will convene at 9 o'clock in the morning. A large attendance is anticipated.

Representatives from Franklin, Somerset and Benevolent Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., will attend the sessions.

At the morning session reports will be received from State Councilor J Fred Lang, of Elizabeth, State Secretary William H. Miers, of Trenton, State Treasurer J. Reed, of Sebright, board of officers, finance, law and appeal committees of the State council, all of which will be read by the secretary. New and general business will also be transacted. State Councilor Lang will preside and prayer will be offered by the Rev. Edward Mount, of Millville, chaplain. In the afternoon the business will consist of the election of a finance committee and State officers.

The annual report of the State secretary, to be read at the session, will show that five councils have been instituted during the term; total number of councils, 286; membership, September 30, 39,356; receipts, $498,822.18; disbursements, $490,072.11; worth of councils, June 30, $608,656.47; net financial gain, $63,876.08.

The State council will hold a monster mass meeting Tuesday evening in Taylor opera house for the general public, which is cordially invited. To prominent people in Trenton 300 invitations have been sent, and the attendance promises to be a record-breaker. There will be 3,000 souvenir programmes, containing the exercises and history of the order.

Arrangements for the event have been completed by the board of officers. The stage will be occupied by the officers, committee of the State council and past State councilors. Other members of the State council will occupy reserved seats. It is proposed to make it the most memorable meeting of the kind ever held by the order.

NEW YORK CONTRACTORS WANT LOCAL PLASTERERS

LABOR TROUBLE CAUSE THEM TO SEEK MEN HERE.

For the purpose of securing a sufficient number of men to complete the big contract work now on hand in New York city, representatives of the Farley Agency in that city are searching the country for plasterers. One of their agents, John Ackerman, is now located at 331 East Third street, searching for one hundred plasterers These men are guaranteed six months' work, at $5.50 per day of nine hours, fifty cents more than the union scale.

Mr. Ackerman says the International Association of Plasterers is fighting the New York contractors for recognition. The contractors now want 11,000 plasterers and it is expected that it will be easy to get one hundred from here, especially as these men do not work in Plainfield in the winter.

"Christy" Mathewson's Plans.

It is quite possible that "Christy" Mathewson, of the New York Nationals, will continue to play during the next two months He has sent his terms to James Morley, manager of the Los Angeles Pacific Coast League team, to play with the latter nine, whose season lasts about two months more. Morley has closed a deal with "Hans" Wagner, of the Pittsburgs and Frank Chance, of the Chicago Nationals. Both of these players have signed with the Pacific team for the rest of the season.

Comparing Candidates.

James E. Martine is the peer of Charles N. Fowler as a student of social economy, but possibly does not know so well what the great money interests want. He knows best, however, what are the burdens of the farmer, the mechanic and laborer.—Washington Star.

AUTO PARADE A SUCCESS

Fifty-seven Machines Participate in Saturday's Event.

VIEWED BY THOUSANDS

Committee Greatly Pleased With the Result, and Another Will be Given Early Next Summer.

Viewed by many hundreds of people all along the route, Plainfield's first automobile parade took place Saturday afternoon and passed off to the entire satisfaction of all concerned. Fifty-seven machines of all sizes participated and the long line of cars and runabouts testified to the hold the sport has taken upon the city. No attempt was made at decoration but the initial effort was so successful it means another and more elaborate one early in the coming summer.

The start was made from in front of the Crescent Avenue church shortly after 3 o'clock and long before that time the adjacent streets were crowded with sightseers. In the business section still larger crowds prevailed, hundreds of people coming from the suburbs.

Leading the line in a light runabout was Frank L. C. Martin, the grand marshal, and Assistant Grand Marshal Dr. P. J. Zegiio, while directly behind was a huge car containing city and borough officials, parade officials and others, as follows: Mayor O. L. Jenkins, Mayor N. B. Smalley, Postmaster Bird, Chief T. O. Doane, Acting Chief of Police Frederickson, Council President R. I. Tolles, James F. Buckle, City Judge William N. Runyon, George H. Frost, A. L. Force, Charles B. Morse, George M. Kirkner, William F. Arnold, Recorder Doud, Chief Marshal George Weiss and Frank H. Smith. The vehicle was provided by Mr. Martin and the occupants were his guests. All the cars were in the first division with another big "van" at the end carrying the Plainfield band, which enlivened matters with music as the machines sped along. Dorsey W. Hyde's machine led those in the first division.

F. R. Stevens led the second division, consisting mainly of gasoline and steam runabouts. Several of the owners put original ideas into effect in the way of novelties in them, the most noticeable being William Stanbury's. A young man attired as "Polly Prim" was seated at his side but belied the name by bestowing generous smiles and roguish winks at the crowds.

The touring car of Thomas Wheeler, of Park avenue, presented a very pretty appearance because of the occupants' attire, four in number, all being in white costume. Mr. Wheeler acted as chauffeur and the remaining three were in the rear seat.

The route as traversed was a great treat to many of those in the vehicles as it led through some of the prettiest protions of the city and borough. Decorations on the residences of flags and bunting were frequently seen while Otto Mueck, of Watchung avenue, had one on his porch that was greatly admired. It consisted of a large painted automobiling scene, depicting machines speeding along a county road, set off with numerous flags.

The parade did not end at the place originally set for it, on Grove street, but proceeded back to the starting point and by passing around Watchung and Crescent avenues, enabled those taking part to see the others. The machines bearing the committee, the city officials and the band, were drawn up to the curb and reviewed the procession. Along the route there were a few breakdowns but no accidents of any serious moment.

Chairman Kirkner, voicing the sentiment of the committee, desires to warmly thank the participants in the turnout both from Plainfield and the neighboring towns for their hearty support, and particularly the women without whose presence the affair could not have been a success. In his opinion a similar gathering in June when when all could be attired in summer costume would be worth coming a long distance to see. He also wishes to express the committee's appreciation of the courtesy shown by the press of Plainfield, so ably seconded by that throughout this portion of the State.

Dr. Zelie on College Board.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, was appointed to membership on the Presbyterian College Board, at the meeting of the Elizabeth Presbytery, held during a recess of the Synod held at Atlantic City, last night. He takes the place of Rev. Dr. Stean, of Westfield, who was made chairman of the Foreign Missions committee.

DECLARE HIM A FRAUD

Man Advertised for Girls for Theatrical Companies.

FALSE REPRESENTATION

Claimed to Represent Klaw & Erlanger—Skipped Out Leaving a Hotel Bill Unpaid.

Arthur Stern, calling himself a comedian and claiming to represent Klaw & Erlanger, one of the foremost theatrical concerns in American, advertised in The Daily Press on Saturday for young women for theatrical companies but he has no connection whatever with the New York firm. Stern made his headquarters at the Hotel Rosell. Whether he succeeded in procuring any girls is not known.

Klaw & Erlanger denounce Stern as a fraud for claiming to represent them here. The man called at the business office of The Daily Press and paid for the insertion of a "want ad," at the same time stating that he was the representative of the famous New York theatrical firm, who control the New Amsterdam Theatre, the New York Theatre, the Liberty Theatre and other play houses, having a half dozen troupes on the road as well as those in the metropolis. Stern introduced himself with a card bearing this inscription: "Arthur Stern, comedian," and on his representations the following ad was inserted:

YOUNG ladies wanted for theatrical companies. Apply to Arthur Stern, at the Hotel Rosell, after four o'clock.

Believing that the man was not what he claimed to be, a representative of The Daily Press informed Klaw & Erlanger of his story. Wilbur M. Bates, press representative for Klaw & Erlanger, wired The Daily Press this morning: "Arthur Stern has no connection with Klaw & Erlanger. He is an absolute fraud."

At the Hotel Rosell it was learned today that Stern had paid for two meals and had hired a room. He disappeared Saturday night without paying for the room, and nothing has been heard of him since.

THREE SLANDER SUITS

Mr. and Mrs. Abrams Plaintiffs and Defendants.

IT'S AN OLD FUED

Plainfield Families Concerned in the Unpleasant Affair Which is in Court.

Resulting from an old family fued, which has been in existence with more or less strength for the last two years, there are at present three suits for $20,000 each awaiting trial in the Supreme Court. One is brought by Hattie and David Slonim, of New Brunswick, against Morris and Sarah Abrams, of this city, on the charge of slander, the other two being on the same charge, brought by Mr. and Mrs. Abrams against Marcus and Annie Silbert, and against Mr. and Mrs. Carl Silbert. The parties concerned in the last two cases are both residents of this city.

To a certain degree all the families concerned in the quarrel are related. Leo Slonim and Marcus Silbert were once partners in the jewelry business and were located on Somerset street. The Silbert brothers married Slonim's sisters, and when the firm dissolved partnership a general row ensued. Mrs. Abrams, it is said, has been somewhat intimate with both families and has from time to time repeated remarks which have caused the family fued to burn brighter.

Two days later, through their counsel, William Newcorn, Morris Abrams and his wife brought the two suits against the Silbert brothers on the same charge for the same amount. The lawyer for the defendant in the last two cases and for the complainant in the first case will be Craig Marsh, of this city.

Lecture on Radium.

Attention is called to the announcement in another column of a lecture to be given under the auspices of the Monday Afternoon Club on "Radium and Its Revelations," tomorrow evening in the Casino at 8 o'clock. This lecture promises to be one of the most interesting ever given in Plainfield. Prof. vonNardroff will present many interesting experiments with radium, as he intends to produce the latest discoveries on his subject.

The German Beneficial Society will meet Wednesday night at Charles Shantz's place in Park avenue, to elect a president. Other business will be considered at that time.

SWINDLER FLED AGAIN

Waite Jumped His Bail After Requistion Was Signed.

KIELY'S FIGHT FUTILE

Crook's Lawyers Got a Stay and Waite Skipped Out of Chicago.

After making one of the hardest fights in the history of the local department in order to get a prisoner that rightfully belonged to them, Chief Kiely and Roundsman Flynn returned home from Chicago, Ill., Saturday evening, without bringing Harry Waite, the clever clairvoyant swindler who they went after. Proving their claim for his extradition to New Jersey, the governor signed the necessary papers but the defendant's lawyers called for bail. It was granted in the sum of $800 which he produced in cash and then throwing shadowers off his track, fled from the city. Chief Kiely returned to Plainfield without his man.

When the Plainfielders went after Waite, Roundsman Flynn positively identified him as the man who had swindled Mrs. Abbie Drake, of this city, of $500 and they set about proving their claim to him. The executive put the mater off until last Monday, when he received both sides in the Chicago Auditorium. The charge against the man was so clearly proven, he ordered his delivery to the Jersey authorities but sent a letter to Chief O'Neil, of the Chicago police, in which he was instructed to sue for a writ of habeas corpus."

Waite's lawyers made no move until Wednesday and then appeared before the chief and declared the adjournment of court prevented them from getting the necessary writ and they asked for an extension of time. It was granted them and accordingly they called for bail. The bail was fixed and the time for Waite's delivery to Chief Kiely was to be last Friday. The lawyers appeared but Waite did not and they disclaimed knowledge of his whereabouts.

Chief Kiely declared today that the blunder was clearly up to the governor in fixing the habeas clause. Waite, he said, has unlimited funds and any number of influential men behind him. This makes the third time he has gotten away since he has been wanted in Plainfield.

BODY IN MORGUE MAY BE THAT OF NEW YORKER

AUTHORITIES INCLINED TO BELIEVE IT IS BODY OF SALOONKEEPER.

Through a description in a New York paper yesterday, the local authorities believe they have a clue to the identity of the man who met with fatal injuries at Graceland last Tuesday night and whose body is now at Cole's undertaking parlors. It is believed to be that of Henry Miller, a saloon keeper at Seventh street and Avenue A, who disappeared from his home a week ago Saturday, taking with him $150.

The description of clothing and features tally with those of the victim and word was sent by George Cole to Mrs. Miller today. She is expected to come to Plainfield at once and view the body.

PREVENTED BAD BLAZE.

Prompt Response of Borough Department Checked a Threatening Fire.

Prompt response and good work on the pars of the borough fire department prevented a serious blaze at the home of Judd Stewart on Willow avenue, this morning. Children playing on the third floor set fire to a pile of papers in one corner and the flames were rapidly gaining ground when an alarm was turned in by telephone and soon after from box 157.

Chief Woolston and the apparatus was on hand in an incredibly short time and caught the blaze just as it was getting into the walls. They extinguished it with only a trifling amount of damage but a few moments delay would have meant the destruction of almost the entire upper part of the building.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Jessie Perkins, of Westfield, and Hugh Pierce, of this city.

—Leroy Wheeler, of this city, has resigned his position with the Crucible Steel Company, at Pittsburg in order to accept one with the same concern at Newark.

LAID THE CORNER-STONE

Ceremony on Site of Grace Parish House Saturday.

PROCESSION OF CLERGY

Members of Many Denominations Gathered to Witness the Service—Those Who Took Part.

The ceremonies attendant upon the laying of the corner-stone of the new parish house of Grace church on Saturday afternoon, so fully described in The Daily Press of Saturday, attracted a large number of ministers, members of Grace church and other congregations in the city.

The procession formed in the robing room of Grace church. A crucifer and the church choir preceded the following clergy:

Rev. A. S. Peck, St. Stephen's church; Rev. Robert T. Walker, Church of the Heavenly Rest; Rev. Dr. W. O. Snodgrass, First M. E. church; Rev. George Mooney, Monroe Avenue church; Rev. Dr. H. H. Sleeper, of Elizabeth; Rev. H. R. M. Pierce, of Perth Amboy; Rev. J. P. Taylor, Rev. W. H. Nielson, Rev. William Bryce Morrow, Rev. T. Logan Murphy, Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson and Rev. E. M. Rodman.

The procession proceeded down the side aisle and at the main doors was met by the wardens and vestry of the church who preceded the clergy up the main aisle to the chancel.

The opening prayer was said by Rev. Dr. Sleeper, followed by the rector's charge by Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson. The lesson was read by Rev. T. Logan Murphy and prayers by Rev. Robert T. Walker, after which Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, made the address of the afternoon. The closing prayer and benediction was by Rev. Mr. Stevenson.

The procession then returned by the way of the middle aisle through the tower doors to Sycamore street to the foundation of the new building where the corner-stone was laid by Rev. E. M. Rodman, rector-emeritus of the church. Mr. Rodman used a silver trowel, presented to him for the occasion.

Following the laying of the stone, the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Stevenson.

MISS INEZ STUART SECRETLY WEDDED

SHE WAS MARRIED TO STIRLING MAN ON SEPT. 18.

Considerable surprise was occasioned today in the announcement by Captain and Mrs. P. R. Stuart, of Orange place, of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ines Stuart, to Frank Hetfield Moffett, of Stirling, N. J. The ceremony took place on Sunday, September 18, at Long Hill, N. J., Rev. C. Bauer, of that place, officiating. The couple went to the home of Mr Bauer, unaccompanied, and were married there. Mrs. Bauer, wife of the minister, was the witness. As yet Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Moffett have made no plans for the future as to where they will live permanently.

Reunion of Felmley Farm Patrons.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. F. Arnold, who were guests at the Felmley farm at Lebanon, Hunterdon county, during the past summer, entertained other guests of the farm to the number of about twenty at dinner at their home in Third place Saturday night. The affair served as a reunion for those who spent such a pleasant summer at the popular farm house in Hunterdon county, and was a delightful one in every respect. Miss Felmley was included among the guests, but her father, who is in poor health, was unable to attend. The others were chiefly from New York and Brooklyn, while a few were from this city.

Peter Anderson Buried.

The funeral services of Peter Anderson, of the borough, were held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Calvary Baptist church. Rev. Scott Wallace, pastor, officiated, assisted by Rev. S. E. Jackson, of the Mt. Olive Baptist church. There was a large attendance. The interment was in the North Plainfield cemetery and deacons of the church served as pall-bearers.

SLIM GOLF ATTENDANCES

Counter Attractions on Saturday Almost Deplete Links.

THE SCORES POSTED

Charles A. Reed Wins the Honors for Both Weekly Competitions at the Park Club Course.

That the automobile parade had its effect in the attendance at the local golf courses on Saturday there is no doubt. While there were a number at the Hillside and Park Golf Clubs to take part in the regular events there was a notable absence of many who follow the game just for the pleasure of it and not for the sake of gaining anything through competition. At the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club the weekly play for the Golf Committee cup was the chief attraction. In this J. A. Tompkins won first honors with an 81 net, D. W. Taylor was second with a score of 82, and Walter Peterson and C. B. Morgan were tie for third honors with net scores of 85. These scores were posted:

J. A. Tompkins, 92, 11—81; D. W. Taylor, 96, 14—82; Walter Peterson, 89, 4—85; C. B. Morgan, 91, 6—85; D. H. Rowland, 100, 12—88; S. D. Lounsbury, 93, 8—85.

These scores were posted for the Gaston cup:

Harold Robert, 93, 0—93; E. A. Cruikshank, 103, 0—103.

Miss Edith Tracy and Howard Huntington won a mixed foursome.

There was a little larger attendance than usual at the Park Golf Club and a number of scores were returned for the President's and Park Golf Club trophies. The point-winners for the handicap cup were Charles A. Reed, Rogers T. Rogers and S. St. John McCutchen, while for the scratch cup those who won points were Charles A. Reed, S. St. John McCutchen and Raymond B. Carroll. The fact that Mr. Reed took first honors for both cups indicates that he is steadily improving his game and is now considered one of the best in the club. The scores returned for the two trophies are as follows:

Charles A. Reed, 96, 11—85; George T. Rogers, 103, 17—86; S. St. John McCutchen, 99, 9—90; Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 106, 16—90; Samuel Townsend, 107, 14—93; Raymond B. Carroll, 100, 5—95; J. H. Howell, 114, 13—101; Herbert Rogers, 115, 7—108.

The event at the Westfield Golf Club was the second round for the club championship. This was the result:

Marshall Whitlatch beat C. E. Halsted, 4 up and 3 to go; J. A. Worth beat W. R. Davis, 5 up and 4 to go; Joseph Sherman, Jr., beat R. I. Townley, 2 up and 1 to go; W. J. Bogert, Jr., beat J. A. Woodward, 1 up in 19 holes. The semi-finals will be played next Saturday and on Election Day there will be the final play.

A feature of the social part of the club life was the euchre for women held during the afternoon at the Westfield Golf Club. There was a large attendance and the play was spirited. Miss Budell won first prize and Mrs. Samuel White second prize.

INJURIES FATAL.

Edward Eskerson Succumbs to Injuries Received on the Railroad.

Unable to survive the terrible injuries he received at Graceland Friday, Edward Eskerson, the fourteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Eskerson, of South Second street, died in the Elizabeth General Hospital Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. His right leg was amputated three hours before, but the operation was of no avail. Although greatly weakened by loss of blood he retained consciousness until the last moment.

Funeral services over the body will be held from the parents' home tomorrow morning at 8:30 and from St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Burial of Rev. A. A. Phelps.

With only the immediate friends and relatives in attendance, the body of Rev. A. A. Phelps, former president of the Plainfield Business College, was buried yesterday afternoon at Hillside cemetery. The service was in charge of Rev. Dr. George H. Whitney, of this city, and were held at the parlors of A. M. Runyon & Company.

Keely Goods at Auction.

All the horses, wagons, harness and stable utensils belonging to the estate of P. T. Keely will be sold at public auction Wednesday morning, Oct. 26, at 10 o'clock. SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST

Rahway announces that one of the best teams that ever represented the town will be put in the field next season.

Elizabeth is to be represented in the Hudson River League next season and Walter J. Dobbins, who has umpired for the Stars of Elizabeth, this year, will be the manager of the team. Mr. Dobbins formerly managed a team at Irvington and in other places and he is a thorough baseball man.

Matters are shaping themselves satisfactorily for a strong baseball team in this city for next season. As stated recently in The Daily Press there is a movement on foot to dispose of the Plainfield A. C. property to local men who will organize the club and select one man to manage the team. Already those interested in the project have their eyes on several first-class players, including a strong pitcher. There is no desire to get any other catcher but Farmer, he being very popular here and his work has given entire satisfaction. Before "Al." went away, a friend remarked "I hope you will be with us next season, 'Al.'" and the reply was "I would rather play in Plainfield than anywhere else."

The same can be said of "Pete" Oregan. There has never been a more popular player in the town and he likes it here. His work has been of the gilt-edge order, both in the field and at the bat.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The Central Jersey Bowling League was organized last week at Roselle, the plan being to continue the tournament for three years, as heretofore. A cup will be offered as prize, the club winning it three years in succession becoming the permanent owner. These clubs will comprise the membership: Roselle Casino, Cranford Casino, Westfield Club and possibly the Park Club. Another meeting will be held soon to arrange further details.

GOLF.

Saturday afternoon at the Westfield Golf Club held a euchre party for the women members and friends.

The second round for the club championship was the event at the Westfield Golf Club, Saturday afternoon. Those playing included R. L. Townley, Joseph Sherman, Jr., J. A. Worth, W. R. Davis, W. J. Bogert, Jr., J. A. Woodward, Marshall Whitlatch and C. E. Halsted.

BASKET BALL.

The Mono Athletic Club has organized a basket ball team, with an average weight of about 125 pounds. They are arranging games with the local juvenile teams, and will probably meet the Whittier School five in the near future. Among the candidates for the team are the following: Arthur VanArsdale, Malcolm Van Arsdale, Frank Webster, Marshall Ward and William Burtis.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The Westfield Club is preparing for a season of great activity, the list of entertainments being on a more elaborate scale than ever.

GREATEST INVENTION EVER IN RAILROADING

NEWARK NEWS' COMMENT ON F. E. KINSMAN'S DEVICE.

The Newark Evening News said editorially yesterday:

"A Jerseyman seems to have succeeded in inventing a block signal system that makes collisions impossible. This is at least the claim made for a system devised by F. E. Kinsman, of Plainfield, and installed in the New York subway, where it is to be used exclusively. According to reports, experiments have been made giving the system the severest tests possible. Trains fully equipped have been ordered to run into each other, but have in each instance come to a dead stop after passing the ends of the blocks with signals set against them. The system not only stops the trains, but reports every attempt to pass a signal, and the rule has been made that trainmen who allow their cars to be thus stopped will be instantly dismissed.

"Whether the system will act as well under real accidents as it does when collisions are prearranged remains to be seen, and it is not yet announced whether the system or an adaptation of it can be used on other than electric roads. If it proves as reliable as the experiments thus far made would seem to indicate, it will be one of the most valuable inventions ever applied to the railroads of this county. And surely the United States needs a device to stop railroad collisions."

HAIL, PENNSYLVANIA!

Franklin Field Saw Columbia Defeated 16 to 0.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—"Hail, Pennsylvania!" In the gathering darkness that shrouded Franklin field after one of the bitterest gridiron battles ever fought in the Quaker City the adaptation of the splendid Russian national anthem rang out again and again right under the cloud of light blue and white that marked Columbia's last stand, for the Quakers had beaten the Morningside eleven by the decisive score of 16 to 0.

Alert, desperate and resourceful, the black helmeted Quaker backs reeled and swirled steadily and surely through the Columbia line, and the Quaker forwards, as eagerly insistent, ripped apart the Morningside defense until it was utterly undone.

It was a splendid triumph for Pennsylvania and a bitter failure for Columbia. More than 600 undergraduates stood as the whistle blew in the east section of Franklin field and sang the song of "Sans Souci," which is better to be prized than victory and more to be cherished than honorable defeat.

Soldier Boys Downed Yale.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 24.—The army black, gold and gray waves over the Yale blue in triumph here, for Yale's team of giants were humbled by the soldier boys in their annual football struggle on the West Point plains. Ten thousand persons saw the blue beaten and crushed, and, sorrowing, the team and even Yale rooters and coaches left for New Haven. Yale's proverbial luck was not with her. For the first time in the history of football at the Military academy Yale was defeated.

Tigers Whitewashed Lehigh.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 24.—By ten touchdowns made in monotonous succession the Tigers defeated Lehigh by a score of 60 to 0. The game was marked by some brilliant individual playing on the part of Princeton, but inasmuch as Lehigh's team this year is exceptionally weak no great elation is felt at Princeton over the decisive score. That they rolled up so many points was due to the fact that they simply couldn't help it.

Harvard Held Her Record.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 24.—Harvard defeated the Carlisle Indians at football by a score of 12 to 0, thereby maintaining her record of being the only big team in the east that has kept her goal line uncrossed this fall. The Harvard team showed lots of fight and dash, and the playing was most encouraging, considering the fact that the team had never played together before.

Hueston Is Pool Champion.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 24.—Thomas Hueston of St. Louis defeated Frank Sherman of Washington in the championship pool tournament by a score of 125 to 110. Hueston's highest run was 20 and Sherman's 41.

FRANCE AND THE VATICAN.

Pope Spent a Wakeful Night Waiting For News From Paris.

ROME, Oct. 24.—Pope Pius X. was up almost the whole night waiting for telegrams from Mgr. Montagnini, auditor of the papal nunciature of Paris, about the discussion in the French chamber of deputies.

His holiness was not surprised at the statement and speech of Premier Combes, which were much as had been expected, but he had not thought, from private information he had received, that the premier's majority would be so large as it was.

The pope and his entourage attribute the new success of Premier Combes to the influence of the Freemasons, who, according to reports received at the Vatican, are determined to bring about the separation of church and state in order to be freer to undertake a campaign with the object of destroying all religious feeling in France. When the news was received the pontiff exclaimed, "God's will be done!"

Saved From Lynch Mob.

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 24.—Dick Craighead, the half brother of Ike A. McGee, who is charged with the murder of Mrs. McGee and her ten-year-old son near Athens, was saved from a mob which threatened the parish jail at Homer, in which he was confined. The Claiborne guards were called out, and Sheriff Kirkpatrick later summoned all the ablebodied citizens of Homer to assist him in protecting the jail. The mob was about 150 strong and, seeing that the sheriff was determined to protect Craighead, finally dispersed.

Found Dead In a Bathtub.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 24.—Mrs. Bridget Welsh, a widow, who lived alone in a room on Christian street, lost her life here in a fire which started in her apartment, and two citizens and a policeman were severely burned in a vain effort to rescue her, being prevented by flames and smoke. After the fire was extinguished the body of the woman was found in her bathtub, which was filled with water. It is supposed that she turned on the water in her efforts to escape from the fire and smoke.

General Oliphant Dead.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 24.—General Samuel Duncan Oliphant, clerk of the United States circuit court of the district of New Jersey, is dead at his home in this city. General Oliphant was eighty years old, and his death was due to general debility. He is survived by a widow and nine sons. A tenth son, who died some time ago, was General A. C. Oliphant, adjutant general of the state of New Jersey. The funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoon.

MAKING THE HOME BEAUTIFUL

Our interior decorations and furniture—three acres of them on display—are so arranged that the housekeeper can obtain a very clear idea of the effect any of them will have in her home. We have been complimented time and again on the superb presentation of actual home scenes on our third floor where our Furniture, Upholstery and Carpet Departments are located. No New York Store makes so grand a showing. Come and see how beautiful it is.

A Big and Great Carpet Store

A big store is not always a great one. There are big stores in Newark and New York that are not great. Greatness implies high reputation, and that is where the twelve-acre store of HAHNE & CO. stands, for it is not only big, but of great reputation for selling reliable first-class goods like these.

We offer selections from the best lines of leading manufacturers in every kind of good floor coverings at special low prices.

The injured are: Edward W. Paine, car, right wrist and arm badly sprained and suffering from shock; John D. Mahoney, Worcester, motorman on Worcester Consolidated car, right leg and hip bruised and suffering from shock; Edward N. Malet, conductor on Worcester Consolidated, shaken and bruised; Charles W. Gifford, Westboro, right side bruised; Frank E. Cutler, Westboro, both ankles injured; George Tewksbury, Westboro, hands cut by flying glass; George Parker, Westboro, hands cut by glass; Mrs. George Parker, face and hands cut by glass, bruised about the body and suffering from shock; Arthur J. Aubrey, Woodville, left leg sprained; Frank A. Stephani, Hopkinton, hands cut by glass; Charles Swanson, Hopkinton, suffering from shock; Ernest Nash, Hudson, right foot crushed; Edward Faucher, Westboro, right knee badly sprained; Sidney Whiting, Hopkinton, left leg bruised and sprained; Mrs. Sidney Whiting, Hopkinton, hands cut and suffering from shock; William Bombard, Westboro, head and hands cut by glass; Louis West, Hudson, right leg sprained and bruised; John Thorassen, Hopkinton, right hip bruised; Walter W. Aldrich, Marlboro, right hip and leg badly bruised and suffering from shock.

Slippery rails are accountable for the accident. A Worcester Consolidated Street railway car used on the Worcester and Marlboro division was being sent to Worcester for repairs by the way of the Westboro and Marlboro tracks, for the reason that the tracks were torn up in Northboro on the Worcester Consolidated tracks during state road construction.

The car being sent to Worcester for repairs was in charge of Conductor Malet and operated by Motorman Mahoney. It left Westboro several minutes ahead of the regular car of the Westboro and Marlboro line due to leave Westboro at 9:35. Its progress was sure and safe until making the hill near the Fay place, when the car kicked, and before the motorman could get control of it it was running backward down the hill.

At the foot of the hill at a curve it was met by the regular car from Marlboro to Worcester, which was making good speed to climb the hill.

The cars crashed together with terrific force, demolishing the vestibules on both cars and ripping every seat from its fastenings on the Westboro car, which had twenty passengers aboard. There were no passengers on the other car. A panic among the passengers followed the crash in the frantic effort of the people to get out of the wreckage.

Motorman Mahoney was caught under the controller, which fell upon him. Motorman Paine jumped and was injured when he struck the road. Conductor Malet also jumped and was badly bruised.

HEAD-ON SMASH.

Yazoo and Mississippi Wreck at Natchez—Three Dead.

NATCHEZ, Miss., Oct. 24.—Three men were killed and two severely hurt in a head-on collision between a north bound passenger and a southbound freight train on the Natchez-Jackson branch of the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley railroad.

William Schessler, engineer; Emil Mackey, fireman, and John Allen, a negro brakeman, are dead, and R. J. Yearwood, conductor, and Y. Whatchett, engineer of the freight train, are badly hurt.

It is asserted that the failure of the passenger train to obey orders was the cause of the accident.

Postponed Until After Election.

JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 24.—James H. Ferriss, national chairman of the People's party, announced last night that the meeting of "Bryan Democrats" and "Silver Republicans," called to be held in Chicago tomorrow, has been postponed until after the coming election. In his announcement Mr. Ferriss states that he had been asked by many of those who signed the call for the meeting to postpone it until some date in November or December.

Drunken Negro Murderer.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 24.—A drunken negro named John Job shot and killed another negro and wounded the brakeman on the Southern railway train bound for Columbia. Owing to the presence of a circus in Augusta the train was crowded with negroes, several of whom were badly intoxicated. The body of the dead negro was put off at Graniteville, S. C., where Job was placed under arrest. Neither of the victims' names is known.

Mail For Boston Stolen.

LYNN, Mass., Oct. 24.—The sack containing the registered mail from the Lynn and West Lynn postoffices for the Boston postoffice and two other pouches of ordinary mail matter have been stolen, the letters and parcels rifled and all the inclosed money and valuables taken. The police and postoffice inspectors are searching for Henry Alden and John Beaupry, recent drivers of the mail wagon.

Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 24, 1904.

A storm is brewing.—Camden Post-Telegram.

Office boy demanding his wages no doubt.

At last, the Republicans of Elizabeth have found a man courageous enough to stand up as a candidate for mayor of that place in opposition to Mayor Ryan. Berry's nerves are said to be in excellent condition.

Friend of Congressman (?) Martine says that the farmer-orator will talk himself hoarse for Plainfield's new postoffice building appropriation. Imagine the "farmer-orator" picturing the beauty of Plainfield and its urgent need of a government building. Now don't be so cruel as to say that it would be harder to imagine him in Washington.

And besides, Mr. Bryan has read the Bible enough to understand that Aaron got into the Promised Land, while Moses never got out of the wilderness.—Newark "News."

Most persons have an idea that Aaron died before Moses did, but the "News" may have a Bible that gives a different account of that scene on Mount Hor.—Jersey City Journal.

Bible in a newspaper office? Some mistake here.

The radical element in the Democratic party is no doubt rudely shocked and disagreeably surprised over the spontaneous, unbounded and uncontrolable enthusiastic reception given former President Grover Cleveland, the greatest living Democrat, by the 5,000 admirers who jammed Carnegie Hall Friday night to hear him flay the Republican administration. Outside the big hall, thousands struggled in vain for admittance. The ovation given the sage of Princeton when he appeared to speak in support of Alton B. Parker for President of these United States showed clearly that he is still first among his party if not the first among his countrymen.

Considerable dissatisfaction is expressed here over the use of the voting machine, the principal ground for objection being that it destroys the secrecy of the ballot. The clicks made by operating the machine while in the act of voting, tells at once whether a straight or split ticket has been made. It furnishess the practical politicians and beelers with information as to the number of cuts made by a voter, a click being distinctly heard every time a cut is made.

In Somerset county there are twenty-six voting precincts, yet both districts of North Plainfield have been provided with these machines. There is more knifing of the Republican ticket in that borough than anywhere else in the county and it is suspected that the Somerville bosses prevailed upon Secretary of State Dickinson to place the machines there so that the independent voters might be detected.

A grave question has arisen as to the constitutionality of the use of the voting machine. In the first place, in some districts the machine is used while in others the old style ballot is in force. The voter is given no preference but must cast his vote in the method provided by Dickinson. He has placed the machines wherever he chose, it is claimed, and listened only to the Republican leaders in locating them. The legality of the voting machine is now occupying the attention of R. V. Lindabury, of Newark, who is expected to give his opinion within a few days.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—The Fourth Ward Republican Club will hold a dance in T. A. B. Hall Thursday night. There will be a prize waltz at 11.30.

—Miss Jesse Patterson, of West Front street, has taken a position at the new confectionery of Reynolds & Co., on West Front street.

—An excellent picture of Kenneth Robbie, boys' secretary at the Y. M. C. A., appeared in Saturday's Newark News, together with a number of boys' secretaries in the principal cities in the State.

Mr. and Mrs Alex Milne, of New York, who have been visiting relatives in the borough, will return home this week.

AMONG MEN IN THE SHOPS

SEEN AND HEARD IN PLAINFIELD'S INDUSTRIAL PLANTS.

John Kelley, of the Aluminum shop, has been out for the past week on account of illness.

John Dunham, of the Pond shop, has gone to Washington to spend a short time with his daughter who is a resident of that place.

Albert Thompson, of the Manganese Steel Safe Company, has returned from an extended trip through New York State and Maryland in the interest of the firm.

The "Klondyke" shop at West Dunellen, is steadily adding men to its force. There are now thirty employes in the various departments and prospects of more work are brightening every day.

TH FORUM.

Communications from readers of The Daily Press on all subjects of local interest are invited. All such communications must be stripped of personalities, and must be signed by the writer. His name will not necessarily be published. The editor is not responsible for views expressed in this column.

Editor, The Daily Press:

James Martine informs us that his opponent in the Congressional race, Mr. Fowler, was in his seat in Congress but three times during the last session of that body. Well, "we will let it go at that," as the old woman said when the bear "licked" her husband, and now I am prepared to vote for the "Farmer-orator," (like some of my Republican friends who will vote for him on purely grounds) provided, however, that he will promise that if elected he will keep away from Washington altogether.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The fair held in Apgar's Hall under the auspices of the Daughters of Liberty, was a grand success. A prize of a handsome gold watch was won by Miss Mamie Schneider for collecting the largest amount of money. Miss Schneider collected $41, while the amount collected by all the contestants was $109. The hall was prettily decorated and everything passed off nicely.

A spirited horse belonging to O. N. Hetfield, of North avenue, and driven by his nephew, H. B. Miller, ran away yesterday afternoon and threw the occupants of the wagon to the ground, and although not seriously injured the services of a physician were necessary.

A large automobile had one of its tires punctured yesterday afternoon near Jackson avenue, and while the tire was being mended the machine in some way caught fire and it was saved only by presence of mind on the part of the occupants.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Brookside Gun Club weekly shoot Saturday afternoon was attended by nearly the entire membership of the club. With the closing of the baseball season the members have taken up trap work as a Saturday afternoon recreation. James Johnston carries off the honors Saturday afternoon, breaking 48 out of 50 "birds," and taking the new hat offered by the club to the member making the highest score of the day.

The Republican Club at its meeting Saturday night, decided to attend the Republican rally to be held Tuesday night in Reform Hall, Plainfield. A special car will leave the Park avenue crossing at 7:30. Anyone desiring to attend the meeting is invited to take the trip with the club.

The delinquent tax sale, which was adjourned several weeks ago, was held Saturday afternoon in the town rooms by Special Collector Henry Guerrier Several pieces of property were bought in or taken care of by the owners. Those that were not were bought in by the township.

The season still lingers for baseball. The locals cranks journeyed to Elizabethport yesterday afternoon and stood around in the cold for nearly two hours watching the Stars' game.

Rev. C. F. Stanley, of the Fifth Baptist church, Newark, preached Sunday morning at the Baptist church, exchhanging pulpits with Rev. G. M. Shott.

The weekly B. Y. P. U. meeting was held in auditorium of the church last night, the parlors of the church being closed while repairs are being made.

Plainfield's first automobile parade Saturday afternoon was the attraction for many from town. Nearly all the local owners of machines were in line.

The Commissioners of Appeal meet in the town rooms tomorrow afternoon for the purpose of hearing any "tale of woe" the taxpayers have to make.

The weekly meeting of the Epworth League, held last night at the Methodist church, was in charge of Miss Marion Goodwin.

CAN EMPTY REFORM HALL WITHIN TWO MINUTES

NO DANGER OF TROUBLE IN MAKING QUICK EXIT.

In refuting statements recently published that it requires fifteen minutes to empty Reform Hall of an audience, W. O. Smith, who is interested in the Reform Club, stated yesterday, that the large crowd of people in the hall at the last Republican mass meeting left the hall in two minutes and twenty-two seconds.

Mr. Smith says that a crowd of over eight hundred persons can leave the place inside of two minutes. After Building Inspector T. O. Doane inspected the hall he was thoroughly satisfied with its provisions for escape in case of accident or fire. Two changes are about to be made. The front doors are to be made to swing outward and an exit is to be located on the Central avenue side of the hall leading from the stage.

GRANT CLUB SMOKER, BOROUGH POLITICAL EVENT

F. A. POPE, OF SOMERVILLE, MADE AN ADDRESS.

Combining a social and smoker with the regular business meeting, the members of the U. S. Grant Club spent a pleasant evening at the club rooms on Saturday night. Frederick A. Pope, of Somerville, was the speaker on National and State issues. He spoke at some length on these subjects in a very interesting manner, referring also to the candidates, and their characteristics.

Music helped pass the evening, and invitation to attend the mass meeting and parade at Somerville next week was considered. A special meeting will be held Thursday evening to decide whether the club will attend in a body or individually.

BIBLE IS NECESSARY DECLARES PREACHER

REV. C. E. HERRING'S REPLY TO A MAGAZINE ARTICLE.

"Is the Bible Necessary to Religious Instruction?" was the subject of an interesting discourse delivered by Rev. Charles E. Herring at the First Persbyterian church, last night. The pastor's sermon was the outcome of a recent magazine article in which the writer claimed that the Bible was not absolutely necessary to religious instruction. Rev. Mr. Herring riddled the magazine article and showe in many respects its fallacy.

The pastor stated that nothing satisfies in religious instruction as the Bible and othing gives so much comfort and consolation. This belief he said was held in common by all persons, many of whom are not strict believers in the Holy Scriptures. Mr. Herring held that the Bible is absolutely necessary for religious instruction and proved the statement by the presentation of many strong arguments.

The Edison projectoscope will be the attraction at the Park Avenue Baptist church tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. In addition there will be a musical programme. The Edison machine is one of the most enjoyable entertainers, and the moving pictures which will be an entirely new collection.

Rev. Phil A. Parsons, pastor of the Christian church, has arranged for a series of revival services, the first of which was held last night, the subject being "Prayer." The subjects of the meetings for the next week will be as follows: Tonight, "Death and Burial of Christ;" tomorrow night, "The Resurrection;" Wednesday night, "Believe;" Thursday night, "Repent;" Friday night, "Be Baptised;" Saturday night, "Remission of Sins;" Sunday morning, "Gift of the Holy Spirit;" Sunday night, "Eternal Life."

CHALLENGERS NAMED BY THE REPUBLICANS

CITY COMMITTEE ALSO ARRANGES FOR ELECTION RETURNS.

It was announced at a meeting of the Republican city committee Saturday night that a pianist had been engaged and popular music will be rendered at headquarters every night until after the campaign. The committee has made arrangements for a special telegraph wire at headquarters for election night when returns will be received.

These challengers were announced for election day and their names have been forwarded to Elizabeth: First ward—First district, Fred Atkinson and Fred H. Freeman; Second district, J. H. Adams and W. L. Gloak; Second ward—First district, Fred'k J. Pope and John Keely; Second district, W. A. Eells and Fred I. Smith; Third ward, Stephen Higham and Harry B. MacDonald; Fourth ward—First district, John DeMesa and Fred J. Huff; Second district, William A. Westphal and Ames Gray; Third district, Andrew McArdell and Samuel Craig.

Find a Candidate at Last.

The Republican leaders in Elizabeth have at last found a candidate for Mayor who will make the race. The nominee is former Alderman Samuel J. Berry, a resident of Elisabeth since 1870, and who served five years as a member of the Board of Aldermen. He was selected first in the old Sixth ward, to serve out the unexpired term of William H. Corbin, and afterward, when the lines were changed, was twice elected from the Eleventh ward, the banner Republican stronghold of Elizabeth. He declined a third nomination.

Murray Hills Won.

The Murray Hills with Louis Wiltse in the box, defeated the Ridgewoods, yesterday by a score of 2 to 0 at Ridgewood Park. Garvin pitched for the Ridgewoods.

F. H. Andrews Spoke.

Frederick H. Andrews spoke at the service of the Swedish Pilgrim church last evening.

—P. H. Latourette, the auctioneer, has resumed his former business on West Front street, and would be glad to receive any of his old customers at any time.

BEHIND CLOSED PORTALS

HAPPENINGS OF THE LOCAL FRATERNAL ORDERS.

Plainfield Lodge, Fraternal Order of Eagles, will hold its regular weekly meeting tomorrrow night.

At the meeting of Somerset Council Friday evening, three candidates were initiated, and four new propositions were received.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., is planning to give a musicale on Monday night, November 19.

Benevolent Council, No. 256, Jr. O. U. A. M., is making great preparations for its fourth annual fair to be held in Co. K's Armory the week of Nov. 7 to 12.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, will meet Thursday night and receive a present in the form of an Arcanum rug. It is the gift of Shirley & Johnston, of West Front street.

The meeting of Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., which will take place tonight, will be an important one. The third degree will be passed on one candidate, and the delegate to the Grand Lodge at Trenton will be appointed. The Grand Lodge will meet in November. A full attendance is desired at this meeting of the local lodge.

Kerwin Denies Accusation.

Lawrence Kerwin, proprietor of the road house on West Fourth street, who is accused by Mrs. Timothy Murphy of selling the whiskey to her eleven-year-old son which caused him to get intoxicated at school, declares he is innocent of the charge. He called upon the city officials Saturday and assured them of his aid in making an investigation as he wished to clear himself. Mr. Kerwin stated that young Murphy and others have been in the habit of stealing liquor from the delivery wagons in the West End and also of stealing it from his place several times.

A NAVAL BLUNDER.

Russia's Baltic Fleet Sink British Trawlers.

BOATS RAKED BY WHOLE FLEET.

Steamer Crane Sunk, Two of Her Crew's Heads Being Blown Off. Eighteen Fishermen Wounded.

HULL, England, Oct. 24.—A. M. Jackson & Co., solicitors for the owners of fifty Hull fishing boats, have notified the English foreign office and admiralty of an attack on the Hull fishing fleet by the Russian second Pacific squadron, commonly designated as the Baltic squadron. The official information is that shortly after midnight the Russian squadron fell in with the Hull fishing fleet in the North sea. The first portion of the fishing fleet passed safely. Then the Russian ships turned their searchlights on the British vessels for some time and a little later opened fire.

The steam trawler Crane was sunk, and the decapitated bodies of her skipper and mate have been brought to Hull. The boatswain and other members of the crew who are understood to be injured are on board a mission ship. The only slightly injured member of the crew has arrived at Hull.

The steam trawlers Moulmein and Mina have arrived at Hull seriously damaged by shots, the latter having sixteen holes in her hull. It is feared that other damage was done to trawlers and that at least one more trawler was lost with all hands.

According to other reports, the affair occurred 200 miles off Spurn head. The Russian ships were steaming in line. The leading ships passed without incident, though most of the vessels turned searchlights on the trawlers long enough to prevent any mistake as to identity.

After the bulk of the squadron had passed it opened fire, nearly all participating in the firing. The Crane was struck below the water line and raked above deck. Skipper Smith and Third Hand Leggott had their heads carried clean away by a shot, many of the crew being seriously wounded. Another trawler also was sunk, but the Sea Gull, which brought the news to Hull, has no particulars as to her fate.

The news has created an intense sensation and indignation in Hull. The Moulmein arrived with her flag at half mast. Her skipper states that the trawlers were fishing about 200 miles east by north of Spurn head at 1 o'clock in the morning, the weather being hazy, when the outlines of several vessels, apparently warships sailing in a line, were dimly seen.

While the crew were watching the warships searchlights were flashed upon them, in the glare of which the Moulmein's crew observed what they took to be torpedo boats approaching, apparently with the intention of boarding the Moulmein. They steamed away, however, and soon the fishermen were horrified to find they were being fired upon. First one and then another trawler was struck by flying shot. What seemed to be a round shot went through the Moulmein's galley. The Mino, laying near by, also was struck with many shots, but fortunately the damage was above her waterline, and none of her crew was struck.

The bombardment lasted about twenty minutes. When it had ceased the fleet sailed southward, and some of the trawlers sent up rockets. The Moulmein steered in the direction of the rockets. Soon cries were heard, and the Crane was found sinking, with another trawler taking off some of her crew. Those seriously injured were removed to a mission ship, and the bodies of Smith and Leggott were placed aboard the Moulmein. The other men with minor injuries were put aboard the trawler Seagull, which at a late hour had not arrived at Hull.

Representatives of the fishing fleet have left for London to consult with the authorities there.

No motive can be assigned for the extraordinary procedure of the Russian warships.

The only survivor of the Crane who has yet reached here is J. A. Smith, son of the deceased skipper, and who, with the captains of the Moulmein and Mino, is going to London to consult with the authorities. Young Smith was asleep in his bunk when the firing aroused him. Just as he was getting up a shot struck the starboard and penetrated to the forecastle, smashing a lamp near which he was standing. He rushed on deck, where the searchlights revealed the horrible sight of his father and Leggott lying headless and the deck strewn with the injured. It was soon found that the vessel was sinking, and signals for assistance were sent up.

From interviews with members of trawler crews it appears that the admiral of the fishing fleet burned green flares to show that they were harmless fishermen, but these signals were ignored.

Eighteen injured men are here under treatment.

One trawler, the Wren, is missing, and it is feared she has been sunk.

Tragedy After Church.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Oct. 24.—Within half an hour after the benediction had been pronounced at the close of services in the little church near Mill Creek, on the Big Sandy river, one man who had listened to the sermon was dead and another was fatally stabbed. The tragedy was the result of a political argument in which half a dozen members of the congregation engaged after leaving the church. William Kennedy, thirty-nine years old, is dead, and Henry Wellman, stabbed during the fight, is dying.

KUROPATKIN NOT READY.

Russians Planning Another Advance to Aid Port Arthur.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Advices from St Petersburg this morning say that there is no change in the relative positions of the armies on the Shakhe river. General Sacharoff has reported that the Russians have been bombarding Lamuntung and the Buddhist temple at Linshinpu, while the Japanese have been shelling the Russian position at Shakhe and near Linshinpu.

A dispatch from Mukden says that the Japanese are fortifying an important height south of Shakhe and that neither side shows a disposition to advance or to retire. Dispatches from the Russian front say the situation is not yet ripe for the resumption of the offensive. This double indicates that General Kuropatkin is maturing important plans and distributing his forces in readiness for another attempt to break the Japanese resistance. The roads are now dried by wind and frost, the cold is intense, and flooded fields have been frozen up.

A late dispatch from the Russian headquarters says that a Russian force has made a detour to the west, arriving at least of Liuyang. Greater importance is attached to a report from Tokyo that 200 Russians have crossed the Taitse river east of Bensihu and that 20,000 are concentrated at Kauta pass, twenty miles northeast. This may indicate the direction of Kuropatkin's next blow or possibly it is intended to disconcert the Japanese and compel them to weaken their force on the railroad.

General Kuropatkin is with the center of his army and has personally conveyed the congratulations of Emperor Nicholas to Colonel Pontiloff and the Nineteenth rifles for the capture of Lone Tree hill.

A telegram from Harbin reports the passage north of 26,000 wounded. The remainder, who are quartered in hospitals at Mukden, cannot exceed a few thousand.

A Shanghai report says that the steamer Canton, which sailed from that port has successfully run the blockade at Vladivostok.

A Chefu dispatch says the Japanese have resumed their attack on the Russian outer works at Rihlung mountain. After four hours' fighting they succeeded in capturing a number of the Russian trenches and one small hill. It is the belief at Dalny that a general assault on Port Arthur will be made soon.

A Mukden dispatch says that the Russians and Japanese remain in joint possession of Linshinpu village, west of the railroad, the Japanese obstinately defending the fortified temple there. The Russians have driven a trench to the village wall. Great hardships are suffered by the troops in the trenches and even in the huts, which afford very slight shelter from the frost at night. The troops are beginning to receive their winter clothing.

THE BUTCHER BILL.

Tokyo's Estimate of Russian Losses at Shakhe.

TOKYO, Oct. 24.—Manchurian headquarters of the Japanese report that the number of Russian dead found on the battlefield and interred up to Oct. 22 makes a total of 10,550. Upon this total Russian casualties are estimated to exceed 60,000. The Japanese captured a total of forty-five guns during the Shakhe operations.

The enumerated spoils, etc., of the battle of Shakhe are: Prisoners, about 500; enemy's dead left on the field, 10,550; 45 guns, 37 ammunition wagons, 6,920 shells, 5,474 rifles, 78,000 small arms, ammunition, number of swords, shovels, axes and tents. Besides the enumerated property the uncounted property, extending over twenty-five miles, will reach an enormous quantity.

The enemy's dead is being interred with military honors.

Condemnation of Allanton Annulled.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 24.—The newspapers this morning publish full reports of the trial by the admiralty council of the case of the British steamer Allanton, seized June 16 by the Vladivostok squadron, and her cargo, but abstain from comment upon the council's annulment of the judgment of the Vladivostok prize court. The decision causes no surprise.

Baltic Fleet Passed Dover.

DOVER, England, Oct. 24.—The Russian Baltic or second Pacific squadron, under command of Vice Admiral Rojestvensky, has passed here bound westward.

Baltic Fleet Starts Old Game.

PORTSMOUTH, Oct. 24.—The report is confirmed here that vessels of the Russian Baltic fleet stopped and searched merchantmen off the Isle of Wight.

Held For Killing Her Husband.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 24.—Lillie Bothner, twenty-three years of age, is locked up on the charge of stabbing to death her husband, Herman Bothner, aged twenty-seven, in their apartments in this city. Mrs. Bothner says that her husband fell against a knife which was lying on the buffet in their dining room. Mrs. Bothner's mother says that Bothner was out all night, and husband and wife had a quarrel when he returned home in the morning. Bothner died without making a statement.

Army Officer Killed.

FORT RILEY, Kan., Oct. 24.—Lieutenant H. A. Roberts of the Seventh cavalry is dead here after sustaining an operation for injuries received in a hunting accident. He tried to adjust harness on mules drawing a camp wagon when he was kicked and thrown under the wagon, and a wheel passed over his abdomen. Lieutenant Roberts was from Savannah, Ga.

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors
BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.
BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.
LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW
BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.
LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT
BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.
BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

Woman For Woman

Spirit of Union Among the Feminine Sex

It is to be regretted that wealthy American women have so little interest in the welfare of workers of their own sex. Except in a miserable, patronizing way, which every self respecting wage earning girl must resent with all her soul, even though she were starving, many of our millionaire ladies stand aloof from the brave woman worker as though she were of meaner flesh and blood than themselves.

It is true that in New York Miss Grace Dodge has endeared herself to thousands of working girls by showing them how to establish clubs of their own for improvement and social pleasure. It can be said of her, too, that she does not look down on them from stilted heights of alleged superiority self created, but she makes them know she is their friend, like unto themselves, except that luck has given her more money, which she is quite willing to use in their service. She employs the leisure fortune has given her to study out ways whereby working girls may become happier, healthier and more intelligent without at all losing that sense of their own human dignity which is a priceless possession to man or woman. Her girls pay most of the expenses of their clubrooms, their classes and their outings.

It is unfortunate for us that Great Britain has many more wealthy women of the Grace Dodge stamp than America has. Over there the Countess of Warwick, the Duchess of Sutherland, Sarah Grand, Viscountess Habberton, Constance Smedley and many others hold out their hands on equal terms to their sister women and help them in that struggle, which is now on the world over to break the old order of bondage for womanhood.

Among professional women the International Lyceum club, established by Constance Smedley in London, is the beginning of a sisterhood of the feminine sex the world over. In London, too, lately, Lady Hope has founded a club for the shopgirls of the city. There are many of these. Some of them, according to a London custom, are housed and boarded on the premises of their employers. It is as if the owners of a great American department store should set apart a loft at the top of their building, divide it into compartments, start a kitchen and put their girl clerks in the loft to eat and sleep.

When they are not caged in this manner London saleswomen too often are wretchedly housed in overcrowded quarters not fit for a good horse. To give all she can of them a little respite of cheer and breathing room Lady Hope established a clubhouse. It is a club to live in, so far as its accommodations reach. It has bedrooms for thirty-two shopgirls, with a cheerful dining room and parlors. In the entrance way are flowers and a pretty window seat. The girls pay a membership fee, then are entitled to the use of the rooms. There is no suggestion of charity in the club.

Thus of evenings and Sundays club members, even though they cannot all live at the home, have a social meeting place as pretty and comfortable as the home or club of many a woman far richer than they. They are very happy.

In our country every town and city ought to have club homes for working girls and women who are alone. If only they use their talent for organization working women themselves might provide co-operative homes for their use. Such homes would offer comfort and artistic attractiveness far in advance of the boarding houses and dark little hall bedrooms so many are now forced to live in. The good temper every one may acquire, the business common sense every woman may develop, will make working women's co-operative homes a grand "go" in every part of the Union. Then the working woman will speedily rise to be "somebody" socially. When we women can empty our souls of the foolish, wretched social caste idea and stand sister to sister against the world the millennium of woman will come once for all.

The Mississippi Bubble

By EMERSON HOUGH

Author of "The Story of the Cowboy." "The Girl at the Halfway House," Etc.

(Copyright, 1902, by Emerson Hough.)

"Assuredly," broke in Jean Breboeuf. "We keep these trinkets, we voyageurs of the French. Make no doubt that Jean Breboeuf will take back with him full tale of the Indians he has killed. Presently I go out. Zip! goes my knife, and off comes the topknot of Monsieur Indian, him I killed but now as he ran. Then I shall dry the scalp here by the fire, and mount it on a bit of willow, and take it back for a present to my sweetheart, Susanne Duchene, on the seignieury at home."

"Bravo, Jean!" cried out the old Indian fighter, Pierre Noir, the old berserk rage of the fighting man now rising hot in his blood. "And look! Here come more chances for our little ornaments."

Pierre Noir for once had been mistaken and underestimated the courage of the warriors of the Ononcagos. Lashing themselves to fury at the thought of their losses, they came on again, now banding and charging in the open close up to the walls of the palisade. Again the little party of whites maintained a steady fire, and again the Iroquois, baffled and enraged, fell back into the wood, whence they poured volley after volley rattling against the walls of the sturdy fortress.

"I am sorry, sir," said Sergt. Gray to Pembroke, "but 'tis all up with me." The poor fellow staggered against the wall, and in a few moments all was indeed over with him. A chance shot had pierced his chest.

"Peste! If this keeps up," said Pierre Noir, "there will not be many of us left by morning. I never saw them fight so well. 'Tis a good watch we'll need this night."

In fact, all through the night the Iroquois tried every stratagem of their savage warfare. With ear-splitting yells they came close up to the stockade, and in one such charge two or three of their young men even managed to climb to the tops of the pointed stakes, though but to meet their death at the muzzles of the muskets within. Then there arose curving lines of fire from without the walls, half circles which terminated at last in little jarring thuds, where blazing arrows fell and stood in log, or earth, or unprotected roof. These projectiles, wrapped with lighted birch bark, served as fire brands, and danger enough they carried. Yet, after some fashion, the little garrison kept down these incipient blazes, held together the terrified Illini, repulsed each repeated charge of the Iroquois, and so at last wore through the long and fearful night.

The sun was just rising across the tops of the distant groves when the Iroquois made their next advance. It came not in the form of a concerted attack, but of an appeal for peace. A party of the savages left their cover and approached the fortress, waving their hands above their heads. One of them presently advanced alone.

"What is it, Pierre?" asked Law. "What does the fellow want?"

"I care not what he wants," said Pierre Noir, carefully adjusting the lock of his piece and steadily regarding the savage as he approached; "but I'll wager you a year's pay he never gets alive past yonder stump."

"Stay!" cried Pembroke, catching at the barrel of the leveled gun. "I believe he would talk with us."

"What does he say, Pierre?" asked Law. "Speak to him, if you can."

"He wants to know," said Pierre, as the messenger at length stopped and began a harangue, "whether we are English or French. He says something about there being a big peace between Corlaer and Onontio; by which he means, gentlemen, the governor at New York and the governor at Quebec."

"Tell him," cried Pembroke, with a sudden thought, "that I am an officer of Corlaer, and that Corlaer bids the Iroquois to bring in all the prisoners they have taken. Tell him that the French are going to give up all their prisoners to us, and that the Iroquois must leave the war path, or my Lord Bellomont will take the war trail and wipe their villages off the earth."

Something in this speech as conveyed to the savage seemed to give him a certain concern. He retired, and presently his place was taken by a tall and stately figure, dressed in the full habiliments of an Iroquois chieftain. He came on calmly and proudly, his head erect, and in his extended hand the long-stemmed pipe of peace. Pierre Noir heaved a deep sigh of relief.

"Unless my eyes deceive me," said he, "'tis old Teganisoris himself, one of the head men of the Onondagos. If so, there is some hope, for Teganisoris is wise enough to know when peace is best."

It was, indeed, that noted chieftain of the Iroquois who now advanced close up to the wall. Law and Pembroke stepped out to meet him beyond the palisade, the old voyageur still serving as interpreter from the platform at their back.

"He says—listen, messieurs!—he says he knows there is going to be a big peace; that the Iroquois are tired of fighting and that their hearts are sore. He says—a most manifest lie, I beg you to observe, messieurs—that he loves the English, and that, although he ought to kill the Frenchmen of our garrison, he will, since some of us are English, and hence his friends, spare us all if we will cease ... [illegible]"

Pembroke turned to Law with question in his eye.

"There must be something done," said the latter in a low tone. "We were short enough of ammunition here even before Du Mesne left for the settlements, and your own men have none too much left."

"'Reflect! Bethink yourselves, Englishmen!' he says to us," continued Pierre Noir. "'We came to make war upon the Illini. Our work here is done. 'Tis time now that we went back to our villages. If there is to be a big peace, the Iroquois must be there; for unless the Iroquois demand it, there can be no peace at all.' And, gentlemen, I beg you to remember it is an Iroquois who is talking, and that the truth is not in the tongue of an Iroquois."

"'Tis a desperate chance, Mr. Law," said Pembroke. "Yet if we keep up the fight here, there can be but one end."

"'Tis true," said Law; "and there are others to be considered."

It was hurriedly thus concluded. Law finally advanced toward the tall figure of the Iroquois headman, and looked him straight in the face.

"Tell him," said he to Pierre Noir, "that we are all English, and that we are not afraid; and that if we are harmed, the armies of Corlaer will destroy the Iroquois, even as the Iroquois have the Illini. Tell him that we will go back with him to the settlements because we are willing to go that way upon a journey which we had already planned. We could fight forever if we chose, and he can see for himself by the bodies of his young men how well we are able to make war."

"It is well," replied Teganisoris. "You have the word of an Iroquois that this shall be done, as I have said."

"The word of an Iroquois!" cried Pierre Noir, slamming down the butt of his musket. "The word of a snake, say rather! Jean Breboeuf, harken you to what our leaders have agreed! We are to go as prisoners of the Iroquois! Mary, Mother of God, what folly! And there is madame, and la pauvre petite, that infant so young. By God! Were it left to me, Pierre Berthier would stand here and fight to the end. I know these Iroquois!"

CHAPTER XXVIII.

PRISONERS OF THE IROQUOIS.

The faith of the Iroquois was worse than Punic, nor was there lacking swift proof of its real nature. Law and Pembroke, the moment they had led their little garrison beyond the gate, found themselves surrounded by a ring of tomahawks and drawn bows. Their weapons were snatched away from them, and on the instant they found themselves beyond all possibility of that resistance whose giving over they now bitterly repented. Teganisoris regarded them with a sardonic smile.

"I see you are all English," said he, "though some of you wear blue coats. These we may perhaps adopt into our tribe, for our boys grow up but slowly, and some of the blue coats are good fighters. These dogs of Illini we shall of course burn. As for your war house, you will no longer need it, since you are now friends of the Iroquois, and are going to their villages. You may say to Corlaer that you well know the Iroquois have no prisoners."

The horrid significance of this threat was all too soon made plain. In an hour the little stockade was but a mass of embers and ashes. In another hour the little valley had become a Gehenna of anguish and lamentations, with whose riot of grief and woe there mingled the savage exultations of a foe whose treachery was but surpassed by his cruelty. Again the planting-ground of the Illini was utterly laid waste, to mark it naught remaining but trampled grain, and heaps of ashes, and remnants of blackened and incinerated bones. By nightfall the party of prisoners had begun a wild journey through the wilderness, whose horrors surpassed any they had supposed to be humanly endurable.

Day after day, week after week, for more than a month, and much of the time in winter weather, they toiled on, part of the way by boat, the remainder of the journey on foot, crossing snow-clogged forest, and tangled thicket and frozen morass, yet daring not to drop out for rest, since to lag might mean to die. It was as though after some frightful nightmare of suffering and despair that at length they reached the villages of the Five Nations, located far to the east, at the foot of the great waterway which Law and his family had ascended more than a year before.

Yet if that which had gone before seemed like some bitter dream, surely the day of awakening promised but little better hope. From village to village, footsore and ill, they were hurried without rest, at each new stopping place the central figures of a barbarous triumph; and nowhere did they meet the representatives of either the French or the English government, whose expected presence had constituted their one ground of hope.

"Where is your big peace?" asked Teganisoris of Pembroke. "Where are the head men of Corlaer? Who brings presents to the Iroquois, and who is to tell us that Onontio has carried the pipe of peace to Corlaer? Here are our villages as when we left them, and here again are we, save for the absent ones who have been killed by your young men. It is no wonder that my people are displeased."

Indeed those of the Iroquois who had remained at home clamored continually that some of the prisoners should be given over to them. Thus, in doubt, uncertainty and terror the party passed through the villages, moving always eastward, until at length they arrived at the fortified town where Teganisoris made his home, a spot toward the foot of Lake Ontario, and not widely removed from that stupendous cataract which, from the beginning of earth, had uplifted its thunderous diapason here in the savage wilderness—Ontoneagrea, object of superstitious awe among all the tribes.

Time hung heavy on the hands of the savages. It was winter, and the parties had all returned from the war trails. The mutterings arose yet more loudly among families who had lost most heavily in the western expeditions. The shrewd mind of Teganisoris knew that some new thing must be planned. He announced his decision at his own village, after the triumphal progress among the tribes had at length been concluded.

"Since they have sent us no presents," said he, with that daring diplomacy which made him a leader in red statesmanship, "let those who stayed at home be given some prisoner in pay for those of their people who have been killed. Moreover, let us offer to the Great Spirit some sacrifice in propitiation; since surely the Great Spirit is offended." Such was the conclusion of this head man of the Ononcagos, and fateful enough it was to the prisoners.

The great gorge through which poured the vast waters of the northern seas was a spot not always visited by those passing up the great lakes for the western stations, nor down the lakes to the settlements of the St. Lawrence. Yet there was a trail which led around the great cataract, and the occasional coureurs de bois, or the passing friars, or the adventurous merchants of the lower settlements now and again left that trail, and came to look upon the tremendous scene of the great falling of the waters. Here where the tumult ascended up to heaven, and where the white-blown wreaths of mist might indeed, even in an imagination better than that of a savage, have been construed into actual forms of spirits, the Indians had, from time immemorial, made their offerings to the genius of the cataract—strips of rude cloth, the skin of the beaver and the otter, baskets woven of sweet grasses, and, after the advent of the white man, pieces of metal or strings of precious beads. Such valued things as these were in rude adoration placed upon rocks or uplifted scaffolds near to the brink of the abyss. This was the spot most commonly chosen by the medicine man in the pursuit of his incantations. It was the church, the wild and savage cathedral of the red men.

Following now the command of their chieftain, the Iroquois left their stationary lodges and moved in a body, pitching a temporary camp at a spot not far from the falls. Here, in a great council lodge, the older men sat in deliberation for a full day and night. The dull drum sounded continually, the council pipe went round, and the warriors besought the spirits to give them knowledge. The savage hysteria, little by little, yet steadily, arose higher and higher, until at length it reached that point of frenzy where naught could suffice save some terrible, some tremendous thing.

NOT TO USE CARNEGIE'S NAME.

Professor Agassiz Will Pay For Expedition Himself.

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—With the departure of Professor Agassiz from New York for Panama tomorrow comes the denoument in a very unusual incident. It has to do with the case of a Harvard professor who will spend $75,000 out of his own pocket rather than surrender any of the scientific credit which he believes rightfully belongs to him and of the first case of a downright refusal to accept $25,000 from Andrew Carnegie, offered on condition that Carnegie's name should be given to the expedition.

The statement was sent out from Washington some time ago that the government steamer Albatross would take charge of the deep sea sounding work in the Pacific under charge of the Carnegie-Agassiz expedition. There will be not such expedition.

It is true that the Harvard professor was asked if he could suggest any use for the Carnegie funds in deep sea sounding work. He replied courteously, telling of his plans for work in the Pacific. A promise was made to him of at least $25,000 for work along such lines.

Work on the expedition was being pushed rapidly when a statement came implying that in consideration of the $25,000 cash down and a prospect of $50,000 more it would be expected that the expedition should be known to the public as the Carnegie-Agassiz expedition. Professor Agassiz informed the trustees of the Carnegie fund that the negotiations would go no farther. The money would be found elsewhere.

The work has been pushed, and money has been found. The $75,000 comes from Professor Agassiz himself.

The Albatross will have on board with Professor Agassiz Professor Kofoid of the University of California, an artist, and a Harvard assistant and two assistants furnished by the United States fish commission. It has already sailed from San Francisco, leaving there three weeks ago to meet the Harvard party at Panama.

AN IMPERIAL ENVOY

Prince Fushimi Sails From Yokohama on His Mission.

JAPAN WOULD BIND OUR FRIENDSHIP

The Emperor Sends His Adopted Brother to Us to Strengthen All Old Traditional Ties Between America and Japan.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—A Yokohama dispatch says that Lieutenant General Prince Fushimi, special imperial envoy to the St. Louis exposition, sailed yesterday with his suit on the steamer Manchuria for San Francisco amid great enthusiasm. Prince Fushimi was attended from Tokyo by officials of the imperial household, the American minister, Lloyd C. Griscom, and the entire American legation staff in uniform. Arriving at Yokohama, the prince and his party proceeded to a detached imperial palace, escorted by the governor of the province, the mayor of Yokohama and the city officials and by the American consular officials.

Shortly afterward Prince Fushimi embarked in the presence of an immense crowd amid shouts of "Banzai!" and "America!"

It was stated authoritatively that the purpose of the emperor of Japan in sending on a visit to this country his adopted brother, his imperial highness Prince Fushimi, who has sailed for San Francisco, is to strengthen by every appropriate means the traditional friendship between the United States and Japan. Mr. Kogoro Takahira, the Japanese minister at Washington, said last night:

"When a person of dignity travels in a foreign country it is almost always the case that the occasion is used to start some speculation in regard to the object of such a journey. So I do not expect that exception should be made of the visit of his imperial highness alone, but to attribute it to the so called change in American feeling, as represented by some newspapers, is entirely a 'guess' from wild imagination. The prince's visit to this country was originally brought into consideration as long ago as last spring, but as it was a part of its object to see the world's fair at St. Louis it was considered advisable to defer it to the autumn, when the exhibits would be in a more complete form for observation, and for that reason this time was chosen for his visit, but there is of course no question about the principal object of his visit being to strengthen thereby the tie of genuine friendship so happily existing between the United States and Japan in a most appropriate manner, but not in such 'patchwork' fashion as has been represented in some quarters.

"His highness will maintain his official status as imperial prince only at Washington and St. Louis, but in all other cities he will travel incognito. This is another evidence that he is not coming here to start a boom, as has been reported. After his visit to the world's fair, where he will be particularly interested to see that great display of the American genius and energy, he will quietly visit the education, commercial and industrial centers of this country, such as Boston, Philadelphia, New York, Pittsburg, Chicago, etc., to study the true causes of the growing greatness of the United States and also of the legitimate influence of this great republic in the far east.

"As to the so called change in the American sentiment toward Japan, so often alluded to recently in some newspapers, I do not feel it at all. It may be because I have not been subject to a fit of nervousness for some time that I do not feel such a change, if there is any. But in my opinion so long as Japan has nothing in her motive or action to reflect on her that may be considered prejudicial to the legitimate interest of all nations she has no fear of losing the friendship of any people, and even if there should occur some deviation in this sentiment through misunderstanding or on account of mischievous agencies such misunderstanding soon must disappear, inasmuch as there is no real ground for its existence. We are not afraid of any such misunderstanding, but we implicitly rely upon the keen intelligence and good sense of the American people for a correct judgment of our cause and position."

Fur House Robbed of $3,500.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 24.—Edwin S. George's fur house here was entered, and $3,500 worth of sealskin sacques were stolen. The thieves climbed an iron grating that guarded the entrance, kicked in a front window and after securing their plunder let themselves out of the rear door with a key that hung conveniently near. It is supposed that the robbers ran down to the river, two blocks below, with their plunder and escaped in a launch which was seen leaving the foot of Griswold street about the time the robbery was committed.

Diphtheria Rife at Southbridge.

SOUTHBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 24.—An epidemic of diphtheria prevails in Southbridge to an extent that alarms the members of the board of health, who will appeal to the state board for help in stamping out the disease. Two new cases and one death yesterday bring the totals up to ninety cases and nine deaths.

Killed by His Own Bomb.

BERLIN, Oct. 24.—A telegram from Bialystok, government of Grodno, says a man about twenty years of age and attired as a workman entered the office of the prefect of police and threw a bomb. The terrific explosion which followed killed the miscreant and injured some policemen and civilians.

GOD'S VALUE OF MAN

Estimate Placed on Human Being, Subject of Sermon.

REV. DR. SCHENCK'S TALK

Quotes Scripture to Show Position of Man in the World—His Authorities.

The value of man, in his relation to the universe, and in his relation to God, was the theme of Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck's sermon at Trinity Reformed church last evening. The pastor took for his text a part of the eighth Psalm, "When I consider the heavens, the work of thy fingers, the moon and the stars which thou hast ordained; what is man, that thou art mindful of him? and the son of man, that thou visitest him?"

In introducing his subject, Rev. Dr. Schenck spoke of the comparative smallness of man, in the light of the great works of the creation, the sun, the stars, and the vast dome of heaven. Turning from this point of view, the preacher mentioned five reasons which establish the value of man far above God's other creations.

Man's value is determined from the fact that he is the object of the Divine care, was Dr. Schenck's first point. He referred to the passage in Scripture which states that not a sparrow falls to the earth without the divine notice, concluding with the words, "How much greater are ye than many sparrows." As further proof of the value of man in the sight of God, Dr. Schenck spoke of the many institutions of God, which are solely for man. He quoted the words, "the Sabbath was made for man, not man for the Sabbath." The immortality of man is another estimate which God places upon man, which the so-called lower animals do not possess. The fact that man has an existence hereafter clearly identifies him as superior to other forms of life.

Following out the thought of man's future life, Dr. Schenck mentioned Christ's sacrifice for the sins of man, as the highest proof of God's estimation of his value, and in concluding his remarks referred to the awful consequences which come to the man whose soul his lost. As a conclusion to his sermon, Dr. Schenck quoted the words of scripture, "what profit it a man if he gain the whole world and lose himself?"

Hon. Joseph Barbour, of Connecticut, will be the chief speaker at the Republican mass meeting to be held in Reform Hall tomorrow night.

WALTER GASTON CHOSEN TO PRESIDE AT MEETING

REPUBLICAN RALLY IN REFORM HALL TOMORROW NIGHT.

Preparations are being made for a big Republican mass meeting at Reform Hall, tomorrow night, when Hon. Joseph E. Barbour, of Connecticut, will be the chief speaker. He is considered one of the best campaign speakers in the Republican party. He is only able to give three nights in New Jersey and Plainfield is fortunate in getting one of these. Eight years ago Mr. Barbour spoke in Music Hall and for nearly two hours he held the close attention of everyone present.

The improvements to Reform Hall will be completed by tomorrow night and there will be extra police and firemen present to assist in the protection of those attending the meeting. Seats will be reserved for women as usual.

Those in charge of the meeting have engaged the Plainfield Cornet Band of twenty pieces and an attractive programme will be rendered before and during the meeting.

Walter Gaston, an official of the Manganese Steel Safe Company, will be chairman of the meeting these will be the vice-presidents:

W. F. Arnold, Craig A. Marsh, J. F. Buckle, A. J. Gavett, Charles H. Hand, E. R. Ackerman, S. A. Ginna, George P. Mellick, J. A. Hubbard, J. F. Hubbard, E. H. Bird, A. D. Jennings, Robert L. Lee, William Addis, Thaddeus O. Doane, J. K. Myers, Stuart H. Patterson, W. R. Codington, H. C. Runyon, L. N. Lovell, H. B. Newhall, F. B. Osborne, W. A. Garrigues, John E. Keely, James T. Closson, J. Stephen Higham, Alexander Millar, Charles H. Randolph, Thaddeus C. Smith, Herbert Buxton, Halsted Compton, Daniel Pound, C. B. Lufburrow, George H. Leland, Charles H. Schermerhorn.

J. E. MARTINE SURE HE WILL BE ELECTED

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS IS OPTIMISTIC.

James E. Martine, Democratic nominee for Congress, is making the fight of his life to defeat Congressman Charles N. Fowler. During the past week he has travelled night and day through Morris and Warren Counties, some days speaking at three and four meetings. In tarvelling from place to place, an automobile has been used as a means of conveyance over mountains and country roads.

The other night Mr. Martine, accompanied by the Assembly candidates from Morris County, left Morristown for Netcong, a distance of twenty-one miles. When within fifteen miles of the destination the auto broke down and the Congressional candidate started on foot for Netcong, five miles distance. He was over an hour late, but was amply repaired by meeting over 800 citizens who was patiently waiting his arrival. The other candidates, who also walked, arrived later.

On Thursday night Mr. Martine rode twenty miles through a driving rain storm and when he reached Morristown he was drenched.

Today Mr. Martine declared with emphasis: "Win, of course, I'll win. As sure as I live I will sit in the next Congress to represent the Fifth district."

This week Mr. Martine will continue his campaigning through portions of the district not yet reached. Thus far he has been enthusiastically received at every meeting.

James Washington Dead.

James Washington, colored, employed as a coachman by Paul Taylor Brown, of Belvidere avenue, was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, yesterday afternoon and died last night. He seemed to be suffering from stomach trouble. Dr. T. H. Tomlinson, the physician in charge, decided to hold an autopsy this afternoon. Washington is a brother of Thomas Washington, janitor of the Stillman building and came here a week ago. He leaves a wife.

Registry List Stolen.

It was reported to the local election authorities this morning that one of the registry lists belonging to the First district of the Second ward had been stolen. There is a heavy penalty for an offense of this nature and an effort is being made to locate the thief.

Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Pike, of East Front street, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Smith yesterday at the Pamlico, Central Park West, New York City.

SCATHING LECTURE FOR BEING INTOXICATED

JUDGE RUNYON SCORES PRISONER HEAVILY FOR BEING DRUNK.

Patrick O'Keefe will in all events remember his appearance in the city court this morning, having been arrested Saturday night for being helplessly intoxicated. For twenty minutes he faced Judge Runyon and writhed under the most scathing lecture the magistrate has dealt out in a long time. At the end O'Keefe solemnly vowed he would brace up and be a man and sentence was suspended to give him the chance

Other cases in court today were Clifford Hill, drunkenness and disorderly conduct, fined $5, paid; Lud Frazee, helpless intoxication, sentence suspended; Edward Bergen, drunkenness and disorderly conduct on South Second street Saturday night, $8 or twenty days; Richard Waldron, arrested on South Second street yesterday, drunkenness and disorderly conduct, case adjourned until this afternoon.

CHILDREN'S HOME NEEDS

One of Plainfield's Institutions Which is Worthy of Support.

IT'S STORY SKETCHED

What Has Been Done for the Home in the Past and What is Asked.

One of the friends of the Children's Home, one of Plainfield's most worthy institutions, has sent the following letter, which The Daily Press gladly gives space:

Editor, The Daily Press:

Twenty-seven years ago a few friends who had long felt the need of such work started to plan for a Children's Home in Plainfield. After several informal meetings an organization was formed and officers were elected. There was no endowment, no sure income, but strong in our faith in the generosity of the Plainfield public, we went to work. A house on Grove street was hired at a nominal rent and two tons of coal were secured.

As a first step in the real work of the Home a circular was placed in each pew of every church in town, asking for gifts of articles needed in such a Home and naming the following Tuesday as the day when gifts might be brought to the empty house. The response was generous beyond all our thought.

Our first matron had been a teacher in Warren chapel, and the officers and teachers, always our fast friends, offered to furnish our matron's room, which they did most generously. Some of the Sunday-school classes of the First Baptist church furnished our small sitting-room. One "friend of children" offered to provide our crockery and glass, another the cutlery needed for our tables, and so the good work went on until we found that our largest bill would be for our kitchen range. In October, '77, we announced the opening of our Home. Our rooms were pleasantly full and scarcely a guest came empty handed.

Since that evening our work has grown steadily, until several hundred children have been cared for. Three of our girls are skilful trained nurses busily engaged in lessening the suffering of humanity. Several others are happily married and are living in homes of their own. From our boys we have equally good reports as successful business men. Through the kindness of James Clark and his family we are now able to enlarge our building and care for a larger household. This, of course, involves a large increase of expenses in many directions. Almost the entire generation which helped us so nobly in starting our work has passed on to our better home. Their sons and daughters are now the active citizens of Plainfield. We must look to them, and to the families who have made their homes in Plainfield to respond quickly and generously to our call for help in finishing and sustaining our new and larger Home.

Several Circles of King's Daughters have the past year pledged themselves as sustaining members. Possibly some of them might unite in assuring some department of the work. Classes in Sunday-schools or members of families might like to unite in a memorial gift for some loved one who no longer needs the care of an earthly home. "He gives twice who gives quickly." Contributions or checks may be sent to the treasurer, Miss Ella Serrell, or to Mrs. Horace Kimball, 326 Central avenue.

Y. M. C. A. PHYSICAL WORK TO BEGIN ON MONDAY

DIRECTOR HENCKEL ARRANGES FOR FALL EXHIBITION.

Formally opening the physical department of the Y. M. C. A., there will be an exhibition and social at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, on Monday evening, October 31. The affair will be entirely in charge of the physical department, with Fred A. Henckel the chairman of the committee on arrangements.

In addition to the social an enjoyable programme has been planned for on the gymnasium floor. The regular fall exhibition will take place which will be an unusually interesting one. Among the attractions will be a maze run by members of the evening class, a dumb-bell drill, conducted by the physical director, and apparatus work, on the parallel bars, horse, bench and high bar. A squad drill on the parallels, the high bar and the horse will be a feature. As a special attraction, Messrs. Hansen and Bentliff will exhibit in tumbling, and a basket ball game between two picked teams will conclude the programme.

As there is an unusually large evening class this year, the exhibition will be one of the most interesting ones which has ever been conducted under the auspices of the local association. There are a number of new members in the gymnasium class, whose work on the various pieces of apparatus is remarkable, and the special squad work will include several good gymnastic features.

HIGH SCHOOLS LOST TO Y. M. C. A. AGGREGATIONS

TWO GAMES ON ASSOCIATION'S FLOOR LAST NIGHT.

Outweighed by their opponents in both cases, the city and borough High School both suffered defeat on the Y. M. C. A. floor last night at the hands of the association and the Business Men's basket ball teams. The scores in the two games were Y. M. C. A., 28; Plainfield High School, 7; Y. M. C. A. Business Men, 28; North Plainfield High School, 4.

Both games in spite of the large scores were interesting, and at times closely fought. The P. H. S. players were often far superior to their opponents in passing and in team work, though their guarding was weak. The ball was in their territory most of the time, and their forwards were obliged to play guards as well. At the end of the first half the score stood 9 to 5 in favor of the Y. M. C. A. team, and it was not until the latter part of the second half that the boys began to run away with the High School, and a succession of baskets nested them 14 more points.

Collier threw the only goals from the field for the High School team, while Thompson added to the score by three fouls. The following was the line-up of the two teams: P. H. S.—Thompson and Doane, forwards; Collier, center; Freeman and Gavett, guards. Y. M. C. A.—Smith, Hand and Long, forwards; Cahoone, center; Scull and Neal, guards.

Goals from the field—Collier, 2; Smith, 6; Long, Cahoone, Scull. Goals from fouls—Thompson, 3; Cahoone.

In the N. P. H. S.-Business Men's game, the two teams were slower, and more individual and less team work was the result. Though heavier by about ten pounds per man, the Business Men were well played against, and their victory was not a glorious one. Spicer, the captain, was the only one whose game was brilliant, his goal shooting being a feature of the contest. Of the N. P. H. S. players, Webster was the strongest, guarding his opponent well, and at the same time being all over the field. Steiner did all the scoring for the boroughites, making one goal in each half.

DECLARED GUILTY OF YOUNG WOMAN'S CHARGES

WILBUR MILLER CONVICTED OF ATTACK ON MISS ELIZABETH LARKIN.

Charged by Miss Elizabeth Larkin, of Murray Hill, with assault and battery and criminal attack, Wilbur N. Miller, of North Plainfield township, was placed on trial before Judge Schenck at Somerville yesterday. The case took the whole session of court and went to the jury last night. It returned in a short time with a verdict of guilty in both instances.

The complainant went on the witness stand yesterday and declared that she and Miller had been in the employ of James Smith, a farmer living near Murray Hill. One night recently they drove to Plainfield and on the way home, while in Somerset county, Miller attacked her. He tore her clothing, she said, and choked her badly before she could get away. After she did she went into a mill along the road and stayed there until morning.

The defense admitted that Miller had taken her to Plainfield and claimed she had for a long time "been setting her cap" for him and did not resist the attack, which was in no way violent.

Wants to Carry Freight.

When the Union County Board of Freeholders meet on Thursday, Nov. 3, the Morris County Traction Company hope to see the ordinance granting them a franchise passed on third reading. There now appears to be a hitch in the proceedings for it is understood that the trolley company wants to operate freight cars between Summit and Elizabeth and to this there is considerable objection. The ordinance now specifies that no freight shall be carried, but the company hopes to have it amended to allow this.

Hurt in Football Game.

While playing in the Columbia-Alie football game at Jersey City, Saturday, Allen Wilson, of Grove street, had one finger broken and the muscles of his right hand badly sprained. The injuries were dressed by Dr. Dundon and it will be several weeks before he can resume his position.

SPENT HIS INSURANCE MONEY ON HIS FRIENDS

'PLAINS OCTOGENERIAN WHO WON'T LEAVE ANYTHING TO RELATIVES.

Believing it is better to enjoy his own insurance than to let someone else get it after his demise, Daniel Baker, one of the oldest residents of Scotch Plains, last week sold a paid up policy of $65 to a Plainfield speculator for $10. Baker is now in his eightieth year but he hurried into the village when the money was handed to him and had a good time for the rest of the day. He entertained friends at dinner in the hotel and also provided various refreshment for them until the insurance gave out.

Baker is enjoying good health and he declares he will live long enough to fool the speculator who bought the policy on his life.

BE GUIDED BY YOUR CONSCIENCE IN VOTING

PRIEST'S IDEA OF HOW A MAN SHOULD CAST HIS BALLOT.

A dispatch in the Philadelphia North American quotes Father Egan, pastor of St. Mary's church, as coming out in favor of Roosevelt and saying "We can gain nothing by a change in National politics, but I think the whole country will be benefited by the election of Roosevelt. I don't know how others are going to vote, but I know how I shall vote."

Father Egan said today that he has his own choice, but his personal opinion only decides his own vote and has nothing to do with that of others. "I am not a party man and I believe that every man should vote according to his own conscience," said the priest.

TALK ON GERMAN SONGS AND THEIR COMPOSERS

J. EDMUND SKIFF INTERESTS LOVERS OF MUSIC.

An audience that taxed the resources of the Camera Club rooms assembled last evening to listen to the illustrated lecture on "German Song and Song Composers," by J. Edmund Skiff. Mr. Skiff followed chronologically the German song from the era of the minne-sangers and the choral up through the lives of the great composers of the German lied, Schubert, Schumann and Franz, his illustrations being taken largely from these three great composers.

He was in good voice and sang the nineteen songs which appeared on the programme with artistic style and finish, reserving for the last number, the well known Schumann's "The Two Grenadiers." The next event in Mr. Skiff's musical evenings will be a public recital on Monday evening, November 14.

DEGREE OF POCOHONTAS IN ANNUAL SESSION

IONA COUNCIL REPRESENTED AT ASBURY PARK MEETING.

Great Prophetess Mrs. Levina Holstein, Past Chiefs Mrs. Charles Dodwell, Miss Ella Sebring, Mrs. Nimrod Horton, Mrs. Sadie Bowman, Mrs. A. K. Mattis, Mrs. Henry W. Angleman, Mrs. William Claassen and Mrs. Harry Salkeld, of Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, are in attendance at the annual session of the Great Council, Degree of Pocohontas, now being held at Asbury Park. The sessions will continue until tomorrow afternoon.

The report of the Great Pocohontas, Mrs. Estelia B. Hagan, of Paterson, shows an increase of 562 in membership during the year with nine new councils instituted. The increase in receipts amounts to $2,000. The total membership in the State is 4,000. The increase in membership this year is not within three hundred of what it was last year under the direction of Mrs. Holstein, but it is a gratifying one to the members.

ELD FOR CHICKEN THEFTS

Serious Charges Against E. Bergen and R. Waldron.

WAIVED EXAMINATION

Had Previously Been Arrested for Drunkenness and Disorderly Conduct—Bergen Being Fined.

Arrested at different times Saturday and Sunday for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, Richard Waldron and Edward Bergen, two West End young men, faced more serious charges in the city court before Justice Mosher today.

They were accused by Charles Giebelhouse, of West Front street, and seconded by the police, with raiding his hennery on several occasions and stealing valuable fowls which he raises for exhibition purposes. Both had been suspected and Patrolman McCarthy has been watching them for several weeks. Saturday night Bergen was picked up for drunkenness and Sunday Waldron was taken in custody, having been found intoxicated. Bergen was fined $8 yesterday morning and Waldron's case was put over, additional facts coming to light which strengthened the belief that he, at least, was one of the chicken thieves. Later in the day the full facts were learned and the two were formally charged with the thefts.

They waived examination when arraigned this morning and both were held for appearance before the Grand Jury. They have retained William G. DeMeza as counsel.

The police said today that chicken thieving has been prevalent in the West End of late and the greater part of it has been done by a gang of boys and young men who congregate about the former freight station on South Second street, near Plainfield avenue. As a rule the stolen fowls were sold but in other instances they were taken by the gang to the secluded places along Green brook and roasted. The Giebelhouse hennery and others in that section have been raided many times but since the gang has been watched they have stopped.

NURSES' REGISTRY TO BE ESTABLISHED HERE

MISS CLERY TO SUPPLY TRAINED AND EXPERIENCED NURSES.

Hoping to relieve physicians and others of their troublesome efforts to obtain a nurse when wanted quickly, Miss Alice M. Clery, of Fourth street and Madison avenue, proposes to establish a nurses' registry in this city, similar to those in New York, Philadelphia and other large cities. Her scheme is endorsed by all the local medical men and they promise to give support whenever it comes within their power. She has engaged a suite of rooms in the Babcock building and expects to have the plan in operation by November 15.

Frequently physicians have a hurry call for a nurse at nighttime and on other occasions when it puts them to much bother to get one on the moment. Miss Clery's idea will avoid all this trouble and a 'phone message to her registry will bring a nurse to the place when the physician desires. Already she has listed the names of a number of nurses in this city and will be able to obtain help from other registries when required. Her scheme is not only to be able to supply trained nurses, holding certificates from recognized schools throughout the country, but also what are known as experienced nurses, the latter class being women who have not pursued a regular course of study in an institution devoted to such purposes, but who have practical knowledge of how to care for the sick and injured.

Thistle Club's Hallow E'en Party.

According to its annual custom, the local Thistle Club will observe Hallowe'en in all its old-time fashion. The party will take place in Perseverance Hall Saturday evening and the committee is making every effort to have it exceed those of former years in every way.

Lecture on Compressed Air.

A. E. Kenney, of the borough, will give an illustrated lecture on compressed air at the meeting of the Men's Association, of Trinity Reformed church, on Thursday night. This will be the first meeting of the association this fall.

ESKESON'S COMPANIONS BARELY ESCAPE HIS FATE

WERE ON COAL TRAIN WHICH CAUSED FATAL CRASH AT WHITEHOUSE.

William Ross and John Caffrey, the two West End boys who were with Edward Eskeson when he received fatal injuries falling beneath a train at Graceland Friday afternoon, narrowly escaped the same fate themselves later in the day. When their companion gave an agonized cry as the wheels passed over him, they became so frightened that they ran away. Jumping aboard a west-bound coal train they rode as far as Hampton Junction and then caught another one to come back to Plainfield.

The latter was the one which crashed into the milk train at Whitehouse Friday evening and caused one of the worst wrecks the Central has experienced in years. The boys were seated on top of a coal car some distance behind the engine and when the collision came, they were badly shaken up but saved themselves from falling by clutching the sides. Despite this unexpected turn of affairs they clambered aboard another train and finally made their way to Plainfield. Young Ross is said by the local police to be the most daring train jumper they know of and their frequent warnings have remained unheeded.

Y. M. C. A. TO USE NEW BASKET BALL RULES

CHANGES ARE WELCOMED BY THE DEVOTEES OF THE GAME.

Physical Director Henckel, of the Y. M. C. A., has recently announced that it all basket ball games on the gymnasium floor this season, the new rules, which have been published about a week, and which will go into effect on November 1, will be used exclusively. They have been studied by most of the local basket ball captains, both of the scholastic teams, and of the larger aggregations.

These rules in every way an improvement on the old ones, and though many regulations remain the same, the most important changes are embodied in the following: In future the word "basket" will be used instead of "goal," and the basket will have a background of wood, screens being no longer permitted. The specific playing space of 2,400 square feet has been eliminated, and the rink can be of any size. The paying of officials' expenses in serial championships is no longer mandatory.

An important change is Rule XI., section 10, prohibiting more than one player of each team from tackling the ball at the same time. A "dribble" is now only counted such when the player advances more than two steps while rolling or bouncing the ball. Under Rule XI., section 17, a man is not out of bounds if only one foot is outside. Players may be changed at any time during the game. Last year's rules as well as the new rules authorized the referee to award one point to a man fouled by an opponent while trying for goal. There was some doubt formerly as to whether the team whose player was fouled should also have free throw for goal. The new rules add that "this shall no interfere with a free throw for goal from foul line," thus making it possible to secure four points on this one play. If while being fouled the player throws the goal two points are scored, one point is awarded by the referee, and the player is allowed an additional free throw for the foul, giving him an opportunity of scoring one point more if he throws the foul goal. Under the old rules if a player threw for goal from outside and missed the basket the ball went to the centre, while under the new rules the ball continues in play.

Memorial Window's Design.

The design of a handsome and costly "All Saints' Memorial window" that is to be placed in the chancel above the altar at Grace church, was displayed in the vestibule of the church Sunday. The expense of placing this window in the church is to be borne by the members who will be asked to contribute toward it on All Saints' day. A collection for it will be received a week from yesterday. Already several hundred dollars have been received for this purpose.

HOPE CHAPEL'S PLAY

Story of Scottish Reformation is to be Produced.

THOSE TO PARTICIPATE

To be Given Two Nights—Promises to be Successful Affair.

With nearly the entire number who are to take part in attendance, the second rehearsal for the production of the "Scottish Reformation, or John Knox vs. Mary Queen of Scots," in Hope chapel next Monday and Tuesday, was held last evening. Rev. L. R. Howard, who made the arrangements, was in charge and he was highly pleased with the manner in which the principals went through the respective scenes.

From present indications the production will be one of the largest and best church entertainment yet given in the city. It will be composed entirely of home talent, drilled by Mrs. H. E. Monroe, of Washington, D. C. There are numerous pretty scenes and with the costuming appropriate to the period depicted, the rendition will be very much out of the ordinary. The story is in nine parts the synopsis being as follows:

Rev. L. R. Howard.
Pastor of Hope Chapel

I. Allegorical processional, rallying of the clans.

II. Illustrated lecture by Mrs. H. E. Monroe, Washington, D. C.

III. Scene, Students of Glasgow University and Puritans on their way to Leit to greet Queen Mary.

IV. Lecture continued.

V. Scene, John Knox at the Court of Mary, Queen of Scotts.

VI. Lecture continued.

VIII. Lecture continued.

IX. Evening closes with a march, representing the opening leaves of the Bible.

Mr. Howard has assigned the various parts in the production as follows:

Puritan men—Bert Firstbrook, Matthew Sweeney, Elmer Cutting, Samuel Howe, William Jeffrey, Thomas Muir, Benjamin Evans; students—Judge William N. Runyon, John Cose, George Cose, Charles Dixon, William Firstbrook, Hugh Gray, John Young, Herbert Fluck, Harry K. Lister, John Fritts, Bert Tallamy, Louis Tallamy, Fred Tallamy, William Tallamy, Peer Feiring, Alexander Muir; clans men—Hugh Sweeney, Wallace Morton, Claude Roseberry, Edwin Howe, Joseph Sweeney, George Slorah, John Slorah, Lloyd Lewis, Raymond McVoy, Thomas Hendry, William Gray, John Cullman, John Johnson, Oscar Pearson; sheriff—Robert Slorah; Puritan maids—Mary Duvier, Mrs. Charles Dixon, Mrs. A. B. Lewis, Katherine Slade, Mrs. H. K. Lister, Mary Hendry, Sadie Sweeney; Queen's maids in waiting—Edith Burt, Laura Lovell, Elizabeth Stuart, Miss De Zerega, Anna Gosman, Flora Griffen, Marguerite Vandeventer, Nancy Vandeventer, Mrs. Walter Squires, Jean Douglass, Wilhelmina Patton, Emma Foster, Elsie Slorah, Bella Slorah, Mrs. John Young, Lily Moore, Lily Brakey, Margaret Tracy, Mrs. Samuel Howe; court ladies—Mrs. G. S. Simons, Marie Newman, Grace K. Carroll, Mrs. Frederick Mead, Mrs. J. S. Zelie, Mrs. F. W. Butler, Mrs. Everett Kimball, Mrs. P. B. Cregar, Miss Julia Carmen, Miss E. B Tracy; clanswomen—Mrs. Robert Slorah, Mrs. Donald McInnes, Mrs. William Gray, Mrs. John Johnson, Mrs. Oscar Pearson, Mrs. Thomas Hendry, Mrs. J. A. Cullinan, Mrs. Charles Vincent, Mrs. William Baker, Mrs. Margaret Hanson; men in court scene—David Bowden, G. H. Condict, I. W. Travell, Elmer E. Runyon, Dr. P. B. Cregar, Major W. D. Miller, Dr. William H. Murray, Dr. E. W. Hedges, Fred Goddard, John Leal.

READY REFERENCES FOR THE LOCAL BARGAIN SEEKERS.

Lusardi, the candy, peanut, cigar, tobacco, and soft drink dealer, needs no introduction to Plainfield buyers. He is well known now for the quality of his goods.

You will make no mistake if you place your coal order with the Keely Coal Company, of South avenue. You will be sure of getting the best coal at lowest prices.

No one can fail to admire a handsomely painted residence. If your house is small or large, Jas. C. Hansen can paint it in the most tasteful manner. All his employes are experts.

Titus H. Laury, the contractor, has the reputation of doing first-class work, using the best materials and charging reasonable prices. Just remember him when you want work done.

Try T. S. Armstrong's special cure for dyspepsia, neuralgia, headache and throat trouble. It is a great thing, and will relieve you of that weak feeling which has been troubling you for so long.

For handsome millinery, go to Bonn's. The display of trimmed and untrimmed hats will delight you. Everything is the latest in style and shade, and the best work in trimming is done at Bonn's.

Eggerding's cigars are favorites with hundreds of Plainfield smokers. They are made from pure leaf tobacco and those who buy them are not contributing to a middleman's profits. Every one of them is sold direct.

Electricity is a great agent but it has to be guided in order to do its work. First of all comes wiring and William H. Pope, the North avenue electrician, makes a feature of it. He will furnish estimates upon request.

Burd's millinery store on East Front street, has already become the headquarters for many women in this city and the borough. The hats represent the latest styles and they are made right. The prices will also please you.

Anything and everything in the camera and camera supply line can be had at Frank W. VanWinkle's North avenue store. In addition he does developing at a moderate rate for those who have not the time or experience to do it themselves.

In the many years that he has been in business in the city and borough, Herman Hansen has erected scores of buildings of all sorts. He undertakes contracts for any class of structure and guarantees satisfactory work. Ask him for an estimate—it costs nothing.

You might travel all around New York and not find the style of goods being shown by the Paris Cloak and Fur store on West Front street. Jacob Fass, the proprietor, makes a special aim to handle only the best line of women's suits, plain and fancy waists as well as cloaks and wraps.

Levy Brothers, the West Front street dry goods merchants, are showing an exceptional line of goods. The dress goods' department is equal to any to be found in New York, while the prices are much lower. An inspection of the goods at this store will convince you of the wisdom of trading here. The millinery department is one of the best in the State.

Crowds of shoppers visit I. H. Boehm's big department store every day and are more and more surprised at the extensiveness of bargains displayed. This is the time of the year when firms of this kind make changes from the summer to the fall goods and Boehm is always at the front with the best of everything in great variety. This season he is making a feature of the millinery department and he invites inspection.

Some people are averse to credit systems but the one inaugurated and maintained in this city by the People's Credit Clothing Company has no bad features. It permits those needing clothing or furnishings to get them without paying the entire amount down and yet costs no more for the deferred payments. Manager Adelberg is opening hundreds of new accounts every month and is always pleased to see new faces. The firm's display rooms are at 131 East Front street.

98 IN EVERY 100

The medical societies of the world disclose the astounding truth that 98 persons in every 100 suffer from some form of Kidney and Bladder Trouble, or some irregularity, disorder or symptom of those terrible diseases.

These are vital facts—facts which should appeal to you and be given your immediate and deepest thought. Think of it, only two persons in every hundred free from these diseases: Ninety-eight persons in every hundred drifting on to the dire consequences which always follow these subtle and serious afflictions unless their development be checked at once. Nature is trying to warn you—we ask you to heed its warning before it is too late. You need not suffer longer—You can be cured. Don't delay another day. Attend to this at once.

Dr. Gossom's Kidney and Bladder Cure

IS GUARANTEED TO QUICKLY, POSITIVELY AND PERMANENTLY CURE Bright's Disease, Backache, Dropsy, Gravel, Diabetes, Rheumatism, Gout, Weak Heart, every Urinary Disorder, Aching Pains over the Hips and Kidneys, Dimmed Vision, Periodical Headaches, Pain in Urethra, Despondency or "Blues," Sallow Complexion, Foul Breath, Bad Taste in the Mouth, in fact all Irregularities caused by and associate symptoms of Bladder and Kidney Trouble in any form. No matter how terrible your affliction may be, Dr. Gossom's Kidney and Bladder Cure will cure you. It eradicates totally and completely any irregularity or symptom of Kidney and Bladder Trouble and puts those most vital organs in as perfect and healthy condition as in childhood.

No matter how much you suffer nor of how long standing your disease may be, perfect health will be yours, if you use Dr. Gossom's Kidney and Bladder Cure, which has a record of forty-two years of curing—which never fails and cures even after all other medicines and physicians have failed.

Disease fastens itself upon you through neglect, nothing else. This infallible remedy attacks and destroys the very roots of disease. It kills disease germs of every kind and fortifies the system against them. It tones up, renews and invigorates the entire body. It completely drains out of the blood every particle of Uric Acid, Urates, Lithates, etc., which cause these diseases; no other remedy in the world does this. It is purely vegetable, perfectly harmless and leaves no disastrous "after-effects."

Cured by Dr. Gossom's Kidney and Bladder Cure After Doctors and Other Medicines Had Failed.

I had been suffering for the past ten months with pains in my back and stiff joints. I could get no relief from anything. I tried many doctors and used many medicines. I am happy and thankful to say that three boxes of Dr. Gossom's Kidney and Bladder Cure entirely cured me. I can always cheerfully speak a good word for this wonderful remedy. J. D. BRYAN AT HAMILTON.

Nebraskan Ends Tour In Buckeye State.

HAMILTON, O., Oct. 25.—William J. Bryan last night ended his tour of Ohio for the Democratic national ticket with a speech in Hamilton. There were many persons present at most of the twenty-one towns where Mr. Bryan spoke, and he was enthusiastically welcomed.

The speechmaking in Ohio began at Bridgeport, but Mr. Bryan made a speech at Wheeling, W. Va., before his visit at Bridgeport. Mr. Bryan reviewed his speeches of the day, embracing the national issues. After his address Mr. Bryan left over the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton road for Toledo. He will leave for Kendallville, Ind., on the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railroad and spend two days in Indiana.

MAJOR DELMAR IN 2:01¼.

E. E. Smathers' Famous Trotter Made World's Record.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 25.—Major Delmar, owned by E. E. Smathers of New York and driven by Alta McDonald, established a new world's record for paced trotters at the Memphis Driving park when he circled the track in 2:01¼. The previous mark was 2:01¾, held jointly by Major Delmar and Lou Dillon. The performance was cheered by a large crowd, and horsemen generally were of the opinion that had weather conditions been more favorable the son of Delmar would have made even a lower mark.

Major Delmar stepped the first quarter in 31 seconds flat. The half was made in 1:00¾, and the three-quarters pole was passed in 1:30¼. In the run home Major Delmar preceptibly tired and passed the judges' stand in 2:01¼. Dan Patch, the pacing champion, was sent against his own unpaced mark of 1:59¼, but he failed to equal his record. He made the mile in 2:00¼. Both Delmar and Patch were accompanied by runners on the side.

The Sunny South stakes for 2:13 class pacers, valued at $2,000, was won easily by The Broncho in straight heats. Ash Rose finished second without much effort.

Two Jockeys Badly Hurt.

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 25.—Two steeplechase jockeys were seriously injured in the first steeplechase of the meeting at Latonia. There was a mishap of some kind at nearly every jump, the most serious of all being the one to Jockey Hartman, who fell off near the third jump and received a broken shoulder. Jockey Pierce fell at the quarter jump and suffered a badly bruised head. The race was won by Red Car.

Schwarzwald at Elm Ridge.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 25.—After trailing along for almost the entire journey Schwarzwald went to the front at the last jump and won the steeplechase handicap, the feature of Elm Ridge. Sweet Jane was second, two lengths in front of Spring Water. Joe Goss, Schwarzwald and W. R. Condon were the winning favorites.

Glenecho at Jamaica.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Glenecho at 12 to 1 easily won the Lynbrook handicap for two-year-olds, distance six furlongs, at Jamaica. Glenecho, who ran practically unbacked, took the lead early and retained it, winning by five lengths. The favorite, Augur, was interfered with and was never a contender.

Aden at Delmar.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 25.—Aden won the feature of Delmar's card after racing Arlena into submission. Aden had enough left on the end to beat Anne Davis, the second choice, and Edith May, the favorite, who finished with a rush.

National Pool Tournament.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 25.—William H. Clearwater of Pittsburg won the first game in the national pool tournament from Frank Sherman of Washington by a score of 125 to 91. Clearwater's highest run was 59 to Sherman's 54.

Racing at Worth.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—Emperor of India and Bad News were the winning favorites at Worth. The other four events were captured by three second choices and one outsider.

Harrison at Ithaca.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 25.—Francis Burton Harrison, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, and Charles S. Hamlin of Boston addressed the first Democratic meeting here of the campaign last night. Mr. Harrison devoted himself entirely to state issues and, without advancing arguments as to why Democrats should be elected, confined himself to charges against Governor Odell and statements of why Republicans should be put out of power.

Big Fire at Troy, O.

TROY, O., Oct. 25.—A fire which started in the livery stable of W. H. Gillis in the heart of the business district here was the most severe this city has ever experienced. The fire spread from the starting point to Main and Walnut streets, east to Mulberry street, south on Mulberry street, destroying in all a dozen or more business and dwelling houses. The aggregate loss will be at least $75,000.

Saratoga Banker Arrested.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 25.—The St. Paul police have arrested Karl R. Kipp, former cashier of the First National bank of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., who, it is alleged, is wanted at that place on a charge of embezzlement. The amount involved is said to be $12,000. He was arrested in a local hotel, where he had registered as a traveling man.

AGREE ON DIVORCE.

Episcopal Bishops and Deputies Give Assent.

NO REMARRIAGE FOR ONE YEAR.

Sacrament Not to Be Given Divorced Persons—Marriage of Such Will Now Be Rare In Episcopal Churches.

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—An agreement on the divorce question has been reached by the house of bishops and the house of deputies of the Episcopal general convention after many days of discussion.

That section of the canon bearing directly on the remarriage of divorced persons which was amended by the bishops and assented to by the deputies and becomes effective at once is as follows:

"No minister, knowingly after due inquiry, shall solemnize the marriage of any person who has been or is the husband or the wife of any other person then living from whom he or she has been divorced for any cause arising after marriage. But this canon shall not be held to apply to the innocent party in a divorce for adultry, provided that before the application for such remarriage a period of not less than one year shall have elapsed after the granting of such divorce, and that satisfactory evidence touching the facts in the case, including a copy of the court's decree and record if practicable, with such proof that the defendant was personally served or appeared in action, be laid before the ecclesiastical authority, and such ecclesiastical authority, having taken legal advice thereon, shall have declared in writing that in his judgment the case of the applicant conforms to the requirements of this canon, and, provided further, that it shall be within the discretion of any minister to decline to solemnize any marriage."

The bishops adopted an amendment to a section referring to the administration of sacraments providing that if a clergyman shall have reasonable cause to doubt whether a person has been married "otherwise as the word of God and discipline of this church allow" such clergyman shall refer the matter to the bishop before administering the sacraments. The deputies had made an exception in favor of the "innocent party divorced on the ground of adultery" who had remarried, but the bishops struck out the exception. Their action was accepted by the house of deputies.

Leading churchmen expressed the opinion that the restrictions placed upon the remarriage of an innocent party to a divorce are so stringent that the remarriage of divorced persons will be rare in the church hereafter. It is understood, however, that an attempt will be made to have the next convention specifically declare against remarriage under any conditions.

The house of deputies rejected, after a long debate, a resolution introduced by Rev. B. Talbot Rogers of Fond du Lac, Wis., to strike out the words "Protestant Episcopal" from the title page of the "Book of Common Prayer."

Rev. Francis Taitt of Chester, Pa., has been elected assistant bishop of South Dakota.

The convention adjourned finally today.

Poisoned Piccalilli Case.

AMESBURY, Mass., Oct. 25.—The police have a definite clew through which they hope to determine the identity of the person or persons who caused pint jars of piccalilli, said to be poisoned, to be placed upon the doorsteps of seven boarding houses in this city and which resulted in the poisoning of Mrs. Frank Pendergast. The latter, though made dangerously ill, is recovering. The police are less positive than at first that the attempted poisoning was the work of an insane person. Mrs. Howard F. Currier, a canvassing agent, has notified the police that she, innocently acting for parties unknown to her, left the jars of piccalilli at the boarding houses as a sample of goods she expected later to offer for sale.

Emil Paur Succeeds Victor Herbert.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 25.—Emil Paur of Vienna, the new director of the Pittsburg orchestra and successor to Victor Herbert, held an initial rehearsal. The orchestra has been increased to sixty-five performers, among the new members being Carl Preusse, first horn; Wenzel Jiskra, first bass; Kerman Beyer-Hane, principal cello, and Fred D. Angelus, first oboe. The first concert of the season will be given on Carnegie institute founders' day, when John Morley, the English statesman, will be the honor guest and make the principal address of the occasion.

Jail Gaped For Steinberg.

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 25.—Having brutally beaten his wife last Friday and imprisoned her, Charles Steinberg, angered at her escape, attempted to kill himself and two visitors, John Bossard and Charles Stout, in his home near Oakdale. Bossard was shot in the shoulder. Armed with a rifle Steinberg tried to kill Sheriff Friesbie, who arrested him and put him in jail at Neligh. Mrs. Steinberg is in a serious condition.

Ten Thousand Machines Ruined.

ORANGE, Mass., Oct. 25.—Spontaneous combustion is believed to be the cause of a fire that did $100,000 damage at the plant of the New Home Sewing Machine company. The blaze started in the japanning room in one of the several buildings owned by the company. In the same building which was destroyed 10,000 new machines were ruined.

MAY PROVE FATAL.

When Will Plainfield People Learn the Importance of It?

Backache is only a simple thing at first;
But when you know 'tis from the kindeys,
That serious kidney troubles follow;
That diabetes, Bright's disease may be the fatal end.
You will gladly profit by the following experience.

'Tis the statement of a Plainfield citizen.

Robert Love, of 44 Duer street, member of the firm of Love Brothers, grocers, of 257 West Front street, says: "I suffered from kidney complaint for eight or nine years—pain across the back and a lameness over the kidneys. Colds always settled there and aggravated it. At last my back grew weaker and any heavy lifting or too much standing or sitting gave me additional pain. In the morning my back bothered me greatly until I moved about and took some exercise, when it became better to a certain extent. I doctored and used different kinds of so-called kidney cures, but it was throwing money away. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended in our paper, and, being in bad shape at the time, I got a box from L. W. Randolph's drug store. Before taking half of it my condition was greatly improved and continuing their use all the pain left me."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

ANOTHER ADVANCE.

Russian Army Pushing Across Shakhe River.

HOSTILE ARMIES IN CLOSE TOUCH.

Japan Said to Be Re-enforcing From Port Arthur to Enable Oyama to Drive Kuropatkin Out of Manchuria.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Advices from St. Petersburg this morning say that General Kuropatkin will be ready for a forward move at an early moment unless heavy Japanese re-enforcements compel him to remain on the defensive. There is reason to believe that the Japanese are drawing heavily upon the Port Arthur army as well as on Japan in hopes of securing a numerical superiority that will enable Field Marshal Oyama to inflict a crushing blow upon General Kuropatkin when hostilities are resumed.

Mukden advices say that the Russian forces on the left have again crossed the Shakhe river and are now pushing forward toward the Japanese positions, intrenching as they advance. At the same time Russian batteries are continually bombarding the Japanese, who can be plainly seen busily engaged in the making of trenches.

This plan of the Russians to intrench as they advance was adopted because it was found in the recent big battle that it was impossible to advance without some protection in the face of the Japanese shrapnel fire.

The Russian and Japanese armies are now separated by less than four miles, and the whole field of operations of both armies can be plainly seen.

A Harbin report says that a number of Japanese prisoners have been brought to that place. The Japanese are heavily fortifying the village of Lamuting.

It is reported that the Russians have buried 700 Japanese who were killed defending Lone Tree hill.

SUICIDE OF A DOWIEITE.

Verne Krall Charged the Prophet's Church With Taking His Savings.

KOKOMO, Ind., Oct. 25.—Police authorities have identified a well dressed young man who took arsenic in the Lake Erie and Western railroad station here and afterward died as Verne Krall, until recently of Zion City, Ill. In one pocket was found the following letter addressed to a Chicago newspaper:

"Will you please put my photograph in the paper, so my folks can claim me? They do not know where I am. They live near Chicago. I belonged to Dowie's church the last two years, but this summer they got hold of my money I had in the bank, and they took it out, and I could not get it back. After they got my money they made me leave the church without a cent, and so I am not going to try to save any more money. I am going to quit. I had saved up a good deal in the two years, and they took every cent. I did not register by my right name. That is the reason I ask you to put this in the paper. Goodby and oblige."

Krall had a position of trust in one of the Dowie industries and the handling of considerable money. He had trouble on account of an alleged irregularity and had been arrested and was to have been tried this month on a charge of embezzlement.

Colorado Makes Record Speed Test.

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—The armored cruiser Chicago, built for the United States navy by William Cramp & Sons of Philadelphia, on her official trial covered 88 nautical miles in 3 hours, 57 minutes and 7 seconds, maintaining an hourly average speed of 22.26 knots throughout the run, exceeding the speed of 22 knots called for in the builders' contract by more than a quarter of a knot. The highest speed developed was 23.33 knots. This performance rates the Colorado as the fastest vessel in the armored cruiser class and one of the fastest in the navy.

Ex-Mayor McCue's Trial Halted.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 25.—Just when the jury had been secured and the first witness in the trial of ex-Mayor J. Samuel McCue, charged with the murder of his wife, had been called in corporation court there was a sudden halt, caused by the announcement that Mr. Dan Harmon, chief counsel for the defendant, would be unable on account of his physical condition to proceed further in the case.

A Timber Concession in Haiti.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Oct. 25.—Two Americans, Schiess and Tommins, who represent American capitalists, have received a concession from the government for the exploitation of Haitian timber lands which amounts to a practical monopoly of the industry in this republic.

Raino Got Two Years.

SANDY HILL, N. Y., Oct. 25.—Justice Spencer sentenced Joseph Raino of Whitehall, Washington county, to two years at Dannemora for the attempted murder of his wife. Her throat was cut with a butcher knife, but she was not fatally injured.

Russian Destroyers Sail.

CHERBOURG, Oct. 25.—Four Russian torpedo boats and a Russian transport sailed from here last night. There is no longer any Russian vessel in this port.

Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 25, 1904.

From the slowness with which Port Arthur is falling somebody must be letting it down with a rope.

The table maps of the doubtful states don't always tell how the election will go but they frequently give the lay of the land.

The mayor of Peterborough, England, avows that he is the rightful owner of Chicago. Well, if he doesn't get a hustle on him the footpads wont leave a side alley for collection.

The Pennsylvania railroad is now instructing its employes how to care for passengers injured in wrecks. It seems to us a better plan would be to teach them how to read orders straight and close switches in order to prevent fatal crashes.

An exchange notes that "because of a number of accidents, the County Court of Grant County, in West Virginia, has passed an order prohibiting the running of automobiles in the county. A penalty of $100 is named for violation. Motorists do not believe the ruling to be legal and a test case will be made." The situation appears to be similar to that in many parts of the country, especially where good roads abound, but the action taken by the authorities in the West Virginia county is indeed foolish. It would be more sensible to inflict the heaviest possible punishment in all cases where personal injury results from negligence on the part of autoists. The problem is a serious one in Jersey and there is need of severe punishment of all foothardy chauffeurs.

For the first time in his public career probably Congressman Charles N. Fowler has awakened to the fact that he has a fight on his hands if he expects to be returned to Washington. His friends here no longer laugh at the idea that James K. Martine is a formidable aspirant for the office. He has become a serious proposition to the Republican campaign managers and they have issued orders for the party workers to get out and hustle for votes. Many conservative Republicans freely admit that but for the fact that this is Presidential year, Mr. Martine would secure the prize upon which he has had his eyes for the last twenty years. That he is qualified to fill the office creditably to the Fifth district no unbiased person can deny. While Mr. Fowler is an authority upon the financial question and probably better posted in that respect than is his opponent, there are other questions upon which the farmer-orator is better informed. Any unprejudiced voter cannot help but admit that the Plainfield candidate has a superior knowledge of what legislation would benefit the laboring man and the farmer and that he has studied their interests for years. The money question is no longer an issue and for that reason Mr. Martine's friends can justly claim that he is the peer of Mr. Fowler on live political problems. Both are good men and as the Herald is wont to say "the people must decide."

PERSONAL.

Mrs. I. P. LeRue, of Liberty street, has returned from a visit with friends in Pennsylvania.

Mrs. George B. Shaw and her daughter, Catherine, of Central avenue, are ill with diphtheria and the home is quarantined.

Mr. and Mrs. Osborn W. Bright, who have been abroad for nearly a year, arrived home yesterday. Mrs. Bright was formerly Miss Daisy Shepard.

Mrs. A. D. Shepard, of "The Gable," gave a dinner at her home on Friday evening in honor of Miss Charlotte Lowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Lowe, whose engagement to Frederick Mead Shepard, was recently announced. There were ten guests.

Owing to the fact that Captain P. E. Stuart, of Orange place, is very ill with pneumonia, he will be unable to sail on his ship, "The Virginia," tomorrow, as planned. He intended sailing for Brazil, but the trip will be delayed a month at least. Mrs. Stuart expects to accompany her husband.

POLITICAL CHAT.

A call for a meeting of the Republican State committee, to be held in the committee's headquarters in Newark at 1 1:30 o'clock tomorrow morning was sent out today.

The North Plainfield Democratic Association will take a trolley car from headquarters on Somerset street, tonight at 6:45 for Somerville, where a large mass meeting is to be held. Charles C. Black, candidate for Governor, will be the principal speaker.

The Allied Building Trades Council of Philadelphia, the stronghold of the Republican party in Pennsylvania, passed resolutions denouncing the Republican party because it allowed non-union labor on the $10,000,000 capital building at Harrisburg and the resolutions in turn were indorsed by the Central Labor union of Philadelphia.

That organized labor intends to take an active part in National politics was shown last evening at the meeting of Central Labor Union, of Trenton, when that body put itself on record as being opposed to Roosevelt by endorsing resolutions denunciatory of President Roosevelt and the Republican party because of their attitude toward labor.

In a letter to the negro Republican voters of Union County the Union County colored Republican committee denies that there is any hard feeling left as a result of the defeat last year of Dr. J. C. Anderson for coroner. He is a colored man, and his defeat was attributed to the white Republican voters. The communication says that everything has been smoothed over, and that the colored Republicans of Union County will vote everything on the Republican ticket, from President down.

The Democratic National Committee has issued an official statement saying that Parker is as good as elected. The committee claims New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia, Indiana, a majority of all the electoral votes of the Rocky mountain states and the solid south. Illinois and Wisconsin are classed in the doubtful columns. This gives Parker 259 electoral votes. A few days ago Senator Scott, of the Republican National committee, officially claimed 314 electoral votes for Roosevelt.

The situation in Middlesex County with respect to the election result is highly pleasing to Republicans, but the Democrats are likewise professing to be satisfied with the outlook. Middlesex conditions are being studied by the wiseacres. A substantial Democratic majority in Middlesex, if it could be secured, might result in the defeat of Howell, the present Republican Representative from the Third district. The situation in Ocean and the complications growing out of the Senatorial contest there makes the Republican majority in Ocean just a bit uncertain. Monmouth is not so securely anchored in the Republican column that the result in that county is a "cinch" for Howell. That prospect, however, does not alarm the Republicans now, but neither does it encourage Democrats. Howell is opposed by former Judge Otis, of Ocean. Judge Otis, so far as can be learned, has not been in Middlesex County since he was nominated.

PERSONAL.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

A supper and entertainment will be given in Friendship Hall on Thursday evening under the auspices of the Farther Light Missionary Society, of the Baptist church, of New Market. Supper will be served from 6 to 9 o'clock after which the entertainment will begin. Ice cream will be served at any time during the evening.

The first regular meeting of the local Literary Society was held at the home of Rev. and Mrs. S. K. Doolittle last evening. The subject for this year will be "Psychology."

Mrs. Robert Giddes, a former resident of this place, but now of Philadelphia, is spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. Isaac Giddes, of North avenue.

Mrs. John Herbert, of Dunellen avenue, who has been seriously ill for the past few months, is very much better and will be around again.

Rev. S. K. Doolittle will leave today for Bloomsbury, N. J., where he will attend the meeting of the Elizabeth district of ministers.

F. D. Baerman, of the Quaker Road, is spending a few weeks at the St. Louis Fair exhibiting some of his prize winning chickens.

A meeting of the stewarts of the First Methodist Episcopal church will be held tomorrow evening after prayer meeting.

Rev. and Mrs. Frank Fletcher, of the borough, are attending the State convention at Trenton.

Electric lights have been placed in the Boys' Club room back of the post-office.

Prayer meeting will be held in the local churches tomorrow evening.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The local Republicans will attend the rally at Reform Hall, Plainfield, tonigh, in a body. A special car leaving the Park avenue crossing at 7:30 will convey the members and their friends. The return trip will be made as soon as the meeting closes.

The new school building in district No. 2 will be opened November 1. Miss Lattie, who has been the efficient teacher in this district for several years past, has been granted an assistant teacher when the school takes possession of its new home.

Lynus and Robert Walpole day's hunting for woodcock on Saturday netted eight birds. This is the local record for the season so far, as the birds are reported as very scarce.

The bowling teams from Potter's and Scott's Press Works, of Plainfield, are arranging to bowl a match game Thursday or Friday night on William H. Lee's alleys.

Fred Coverly, who has had charge of the Westfield Golf Club grounds for several years, has taken a position as manager of Ferdinand Schmidt's candy store on Park avenue.

The electric lights which have been placed in the Republican transparency are a great improvement over the oil lamp which has been used.

Burrell H. Shepard, of New York, post Saturday and Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Shepard at The Gables.

SOON THE GOLF SEASON WILL DRAW TO A CLOSE

EVENTFUL SUMMER ON HILLSIDE AND PARK CLUBS' COURSES.

After one of the most successful seasons in their history, the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club and the Park Golf Club schedules are gradually drawing to a close. In the case of the Hillside Club the active season will end on Thanksgiving Day with final play for the Holiday cup and Greens Committee tankard. The semi-final play will be in the morning and the finals in the afternoon. At the Park Golf Club the active season will be concluded on Election day with events to be announced within a short time. At both clubs several attractive events have been arranged through the summer, while the weekly competitions have been spirited and had a tendency to bring out the best players in the clubs.

It is a foregone conclusion that Gus W. Faber will be the winner of the President's and Park Golf Club trophies. The play for these cups have been exciting and filled with interest and at times the competitions have been very close.

In the competition for the Golf Committee cup at the Hillside course, W. L. Glenney leads by a small margin, with Robert Abbott a close second and C. B. Morgan following by a small margin in third place. As for the Gaston cup, Harold Robert will undoubtedly be the winner as he has a substantial lead.

The Gaston cup was a prize offered by Walter Gaston to be contested for on plans similar to that of the Golf Committee cup. While the number of contestants has not been large, those who have competed have furnished an interesting competition. Another feature at Hillside has been the clock golf competition for women with an occasional mixed foursome. The interest in the clock golf for women has increased so that the club has decided to lay out greens especially for these events. It will be made sufficiently large to permit two or three competitions at once and seats will be provided for those who wish to watch the play.

Heretofore, the clock golf has been played near the eighteenth hole and it has been more or less dangerous, especially with a large field and to overcome this greens will be laid out near the automobile drive.

AMONG MEN IN THE SHOPS

SEEN AND HEARD IN PLAINFIELD'S INDUSTRIAL PLANTS.

Allen Wilson, of the Pond shop, is detained from work on account of an injury received in a football game Saturday.

The factories at Garwood are running on good time at present. All have full forces and many Plainfield men have recently secured positions in them.

The noonday meetings which are being held in the local shops under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. are greatly enjoyed by the employes. Good speakers have appeared each time and the solo work has been greatly appreciated.

CO. K'S ACTIVITY.

Plans for Washington Trip and for a Fair Next Year.

Plans for Company K's proposed Washington trip on March 4 next have been made. It was recommended by the committee to hold the annual fair this year for a period of two weeks. The time suggested was February 13 to February 25. The action of the committee in making such a recommendation has not yet been voted upon by the company at large.

There are several changes in the officers of the company, some non-commissioned officers still remaining vacant. Harold Whitney has been dropped from his position as corporal on account of his removal from the State. There will be a meeting of the non-comissioned officers association at the armory on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

Rev. G. M. Shott delivered an address before the State Ministers' Conference, held yesterday afternoon at Trenton.

Miss Lily Fancher, of the borough, has returned from a visit with friends at Warwick, New York.

The Misses Meyers, of Park avenue, have been entertaining out of two friends over Sunday.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Nicholas Palmer, of Hartford, Conn., has returned home, after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Teeple.

IN THE CHRISTIAN FIELD

WORK IN THE CHURCHES OF THE CITY AND BOROUGH.

Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis will preach at the Seventh-Day Baptist church on Saturday.

"Persia" will be the topic of the mid-week prayer meeting at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tomorrow night

The meeting of St. Ann's Guild will meet at the home of Mrs. Geo. Dupue, 40 Westervelt avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The good citizenship committee of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will have charge of the prayer meeting at the church on Friday night.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie will meet the boys' and girls' classes tomorrow afternoon in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will meet in the church parlors Friday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock.

"Christian Worship" will be the subject of the Young People's Association meeting at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Friday night, and the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, will be in charge.

There will be a sewing meeting of the Sunshine Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the church parlors. The members are requested to bring dolls.

In the absence of the paster, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambiss, who will attend the Baptist State convention in Trenton, Charles W. McCutchen will lead the mid-week prayer meeting in the First Baptist church tomorrow night. Rev. Dr. Chambliss will return in time to lead the Young People's Association meeting Friday night.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—In honor of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, who have been away from town for over a year, the Park Club will give a reception on Thursday night. This will mark the opening of the social session at the club and the affair will be an elaborate one.

—It is a source of disappointment to the members of the City Union, King's Daughters, that Jacob Riis will be unable to make an address at the semi-annual meeting of the organization to be held in the near future. It was planned to hold the meeting this month and have Mr. Riis speak to members on matters of social reform, but owing to other engagements he will be unable to come here at all.

Coriell Property Sold.

The Isaiah Coriell property on Grandview avenue, near Somerset street, was sold yesterday afternoon by Special Master, in Chancery Henry C. Suydam, in a partition case, the complainant being Joel Codington and the defendantts, Samuel Bowers and others. The purchasers were John W. Codington and Charles R. Codington, the purchase price being $9,282.50.

Big Mass-Meeting.

The Democrats have arranged for a big mass meeting to be held in Jacobs Theatre in Elizabeth, Thursday night. Mayor Ryan will preside and among the spellbinders will be Charles C. Black, the gubernatoral candidate; Hon. Benton McMillan, United States Senator from Tennessee; James K. Martine and Richard V. Lindabury.

RUSSIAN OUTRAGE

Britain Roused at Attack on Trawlers.

ALL ENGLAND TALKING WAR.

British Fleet May Stop Russia's Squadron.

COUNTRY WILL NOT BROOK DELAY

Detailed Reports Say One Ship Sank, Four or Five Damaged, Two Fishermen Killed and a Score Seriously Hurt—Russian Embassy Claim That Firing Could Only Have Been Done by Mischance.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Great Britain has sent a long and urgent note to the Russian government officially detailing the circumstances of the amazing and unexplained attack by the Russian second Pacific squadron on British fishing boats in the North sea. It is officially stated from the foreign office that it contains the significant announcement that "the situation is one which, in the opinion of his majesty's government, does not brook delay."

Meanwhile the conservative public and press are remarkably undemonstrative. As usual, the jingo element demands war, and even in official quarters some go so far as to say that it may be necessary to stop the Pacific fleet pending settlement of the whole affair, though this extreme measure, it is believed, will not be necessary.

VICE ADMIRAL ROJESTVENSKY.
[Commanding Baltic fleet.]

Everywhere there is evidence of the very positive opinion that this is no time for the usual diplomatic dilly-dallying; that there must be no delay and no limit set by Russia to her apology or the extent of compensation for sufferers by what King Edward himself terms "the unwarrantable action" of the Baltic squadron commanders.

The king's message of sympathy to the mayor of Hull was as follows:

"The king commands me to say that he has heard with profound sorrow of the unwarrantable action which has been committed against the North sea fishing fleet and asks you to express the deepest sympathy of the queen and his majesty with the families of those who have suffered from this most lamentable occurrence."

The deep resentment of the whole British public, however, is reflected by the incident at the Victoria station on the arrival of Count Benkendorff, the Russian ambassador, from the continent, where he was hooted and other hostile demonstrations made against him by a crowd. There is no attempt anywhere among men of responsibility to magnify the occurrence into a deliberate act of war, but in view of the present inability to find an explanation there is being poured upon the heads of the officers of the squadron a flood of invective and insinuation, though incompetence first and thereafter complete panic is the most generally accepted explanation.

Thus far no official word has been received from St. Petersburg as to the attitude of the Russian government. The fact that it had been decided during the day to prepare a semiofficial note expressing the regret of the Russian government and its willingness to make full reparation so soon as the responsibility is fixed was communicated to Lord Lansdowne and was the first information on the subject he had received from St. Petersburg. The absence during the day of Count Benkendorff, the Russian ambassador, necessarily caused some delay, but the Russian charge d'affaires, who called at the foreign office on request by note from Lord Lansdowne, unofficially expressed deep regret and as far as it was possible for him to go gave assurance of speedy action by the Russian government. Lord Lansdowne in this interview told M. Sansonoff, the charge, that he desired to see Ambassador Benkendorff this morning. Lord Lansdowne asked M. Sansonoff if he could offer any explanation of the affair, and the latter replied that he only knew what had appeared in the papers.

At the Russian embassy it was stated that "the whole affair was so obviously a mistake, from whatever cause that Russia's course was plainly dictated—namely, apology and ample compensation."

All eyes are now turned toward St. Petersburg, awaiting word from the Russian government.

King Edward has sent to the mayor of Hull $1,000 as his donation for the families of the victims of the North sea firing.

Premier Balfour has telegraphed the mayor of Hull as follows: "Your telegrams received. You may have full confidence in the government's action."

At the inquest at Hull it was stated that one vessel, the Crane, was sunk and that four or five were more or less damaged. In the statement of the coroner to the jury that official said it was a question of very grave and possibly international importance but it would be their duty to find who were the murderers of the dead men.

The captain of the Swift said that the Russians gave not the slightest warning prior to the commencement of the firing. The admiral of the fishing fleet sent up a rocket of warning, and then the firing commenced. He again sent up four green rockets, but this only seemed to increase the ferocity of the bombardment. The poor marksmanship of the Russian gunners was the only thing that saved the entire fleet within range of the searchlights and guns.

Midnight advices from St. Petersburg say that no official Russian explanation of the unfortunate affair off Dogger bank has been issued yet, and the world must wait to hear Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's version of the firing upon the British fishermen. Rojestvensky has communicated direct to the emperor. The admiralty has announced that it had not yet received a report. At the same hour the foreign office issued a statement expressing the regrets of the government for the deplorable incident, but explaining that no formal action is possible until Admiral Rojestvensky's official report of the affair has been received.

While no formal action has been taken, the deepest regret is expressed in all quarters, and the purpose of the government to make amends if Rojestvensky shall be found to have been in fault has been proclaimed in every government department. Emperor Nicholas himself was greatly aggrieved when he heard the news while he was inspecting the cruiser Oleg at Cronstadt, and Foreign Minister Lansdorff expressed to Ambassador Hardinge his deepest personal regrets. The Russian embassy at London has also been directed to convey similar expressions to the government of Great Britain. It is felt that this is all that can possibly be done pending the receipt of Admiral Rojestvensky's statement.

That a horrible blunder has been committed is recognized everywhere, and nowhere has an attempt been made to justify the firing upon innocent fishermen. It is felt that Rojestvensky is too good a man and officer to be summarily condemned. It is agreed that he is entitled to a hearing, but even the admiralty regretfully admits that it is at a loss to understand what explanation could justify such an apparently cold blooded act.

As soon as the facts are established it is certain that the Russian government will voluntarily offer the fullest reparation.

It is said that the emperor today will send a formal message to King Edward conveying his profound sorrow for the incident and offering to make what reparation is possible as soon as the responsibility can be fixed. These advance assurances, it is hoped, will be met in an amicable spirit by Great Britain.

Resentment For North Sea Outrage.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The steamship Esperanza, which is due to sail from Barry with provisions for the Russian Baltic fleet, was found here to be in a sinking condition, her hull having been pierced below the water line. The injury is not explained, but it is suggested locally that it is the wanton act of some man employed about the ship in resentment of the North sea incident.

Discovered Shark by Periscope.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 25.—In the course of the submarine torpedo boat tests here the submarine boat Shark was picked up by the United States tug Peoria at a distance of 1,800 yards. The Shark, together with the torpedo boat Winslow, spent the night at Point Judith breakwater on the lookout for war vessels. The Peoria, being advised of torpedo boats off Point Judith, went out and succeeded in discovering the Shark by her periscope, which was about a foot out of water.

One Thousand Men Carried Protest.

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 25.—One thousand men marched upon the city council last night to protest against the passage of an ordinance granting a renewal of the franchise of the Toledo Railways and Light company for twenty-five years upon a basis of six tickets for 25 cents and universal transfers. The ordinance is now pending, but was not considered in council last night and is yet in the hands of the committee.

Judge Cooper Resigns.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The president has accepted the resignation of James F. Cooper, associate justice of the supreme court of the Philippine Islands. Judge Cooper was appointed from Texas. He has served three years on the Philippine bench with credit and resigns on account of advancing years.

Woodman's Welcome Too Warm.

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 25.—Roland Hunnewell of Peterson, Ia., has brought suit for $5,000 against members of the Woodman lodge. Hunnewell says that he bears on his person the brand of a redhot iron, inflicted during initiation, and avers that he has never fully recovered from the shock.

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad
Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors
BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.
BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.
LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW
BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.
LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT
BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.
BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL, IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

GIRL GARDENERS.

Great Demand For Scientifically Trained Women Horticulturists.

The vast country place of a New York millionaire has a woman superintendent, Miss Margaret Smith. The estate is near Raritan, N. J. Miss Smith began life as a factory hand in a silk mill; today she receives $5,000 a year and has charge of 400 workmen who, under her direction, till and beautify the 2,500 acres of this great farm. Every morning Miss Smith rides on horseback over her domain, sees what is to be done outdoors, then returns and awaits in her office the report of her orderlies, to learn what supplies are needed in the many departments. She keeps track of every dollar spent on that 2,500 acre farm and each month returns to her employer the balance sheet of outgo and income. Beyond glancing over that sheet and entertaining guest parties in his rural palace the millionaire owner has little personal connection with the place. All details are looked after by the energetic and clear headed Miss Smith.

The secret of her success is that when only a mill girl she had aspirations for knowledge which would fit her on her own account to do something better paid for than factory work. She herself says she gained her present place by "hard work and the will to succeed." From her wages in the silk mill she saved enough money to take a course in a business college, also to give her sister Kate the benefit of instruction in a cooking school. Miss Kate is now the housekeeper at the millionaire's country home.

There are numerous such posts as Miss Smith holds waiting for the women who can fill them. Now, too, there is opportunity for women to prepare themselves scientifically to be either estate superintendents or to operate farms, gardens and ranches of their own. The logic of events has demonstrated that a so called education of Latin, Greek and ancient history fits a student neither mentally, morally nor physically to cope with the conditions of today. Moral and industrial training is the crying need.

For the girl who must earn her own living—for any girl, in fact—there is perhaps no field so promising as that which opens to one scientifically trained in rural occupations. Amherst Agricultural college admits both sexes, and this year the first girl has been regularly graduated. She is Miss Esther Cushman.

More remunerative than a government clerkship, however, will be found the practical personal conducting of farms and gardens by trained women agriculturists. It is better to lay a foundation of general knowledge of farming, then on that to build one of more specialties, such as dairying, floriculture, beekeeping, poultry raising or fruit and vegetable gardening. Floriculture and beekeeping, dairying and poultry raising, for instance, may be combined with profit.

Amherst Agricultural college has a number of other girl students in its various departments. One is taking the full all around course, expecting to personally operate a live stock ranch of her own in the west. She says she intends to learn to run a farm engine, work at a forge, also to do land surveying, besides getting knowledge of botany and geology. All this knowledge is today needful for the skilled agriculturist. The rule of thumb in farming operations works no longer. It and that other rule that among a family of sons the stupid one was good enough to be a farmer have landed in bankruptcy a considerable proportion of the rural population in the older parts of the country.

An arrangement goes into effect this autumn whereby a preliminary agricultural course of two years will be added to the Simons Industrial Female college in Boston. Young women who have passed this course will then be admitted to the advanced classes at Amherst. Thus Boston city girls of small means will be enabled to commence their course at home. Landscape gardening is another branch of rural occupation which commends itself specially to women. Among those already successful in this field is Miss Beatrice Jones.

In the state universities many girl students are taking the agricultural courses. It is not enough, either, that a girl should put on a fantastic white sunbonnet and sit upon a stool beside a cow and be photographed. She must learn not only to milk that cow scientifically, but also with her own hands to feed and take care of the cow.

Enforced spectators of these curious and ominous ceremonies, the prisoners looked on, wondering, imagining, hesitating and fearing. "Monsieur," said Pierre Noir, turning at last to Law, "it grieves me to speak, yet 'tis best for you to know the truth. It is to be you or Monsieur Pembroke. They will not have me. They say that it must be one of you two great chiefs, for that you were brave, your hearts were strong, and that hence you would find favor as the adopted child of the Great Spirit who has been offended."

Law looked at Pembroke, and they both regarded Mary Connynge and the babe. "At least," said Law, "they spare the woman and the child. So far very well. Sir Arthur, we are at the last hazard."

"I have asked them to take me," said Pierre Noir, "for I am an old man and have no family. But they will not listen to me."

Pembroke passed his hand wearily across his face. "I have behind me so long a memory of suffering," said he, "and before me so small an amount of promise, that for myself I am content to let it end. It comes to all sooner or later, according to our fate."

"You speak," said Law, "as though it were determined. Yet Pierre says it will not be both of us, but one."

Pembroke smiled sadly. "Why, sir," said he, "do you think me so sorry a fellow as that? Look!" and he pointed to Mary Connynge and the child. "There is your duty."

Law followed his gaze, and his look was returned dumbly by the woman who had played so strange a part in the late passages of his life. Never a word with her had Law spoken regarding his plans or concerning what he had learned from Pembroke. As to this, Mary Connynge had been afraid to ask, nor dare ask even now.

"Besides," went on Pembroke later, as he called Law aside, "there is something to be done—not here, but over there, in England, or in France. Your duty is involved not only with this woman. You must find sometime the other woman. You must see the Lady Catharine Knollys."

Law sunk his head between his hands and groaned bitterly.

"Go you rather," said he, "and spend your life for her. I choose that it should end at once, and here."

"I have not been wont to call Mr. Law a coward," said Pembroke, simply.

"I should be a coward if I should stand aside and allow you to sacrifice yourself; nor shall I do so," replied the other.

"They say," broke in Pierre Noir, who had been listening to the excited harangues of first one warrior and then another, "that both warriors are great chiefs, and that both should go together. Teganisoris insists that only one shall be offered. This last has been almost agreed; but which one of you 'tis to be has not yet been determined."

Dawn came through the narrow door and open roof holes of the lodge. The rising of the sun seemed to bring conviction to the Iroquois. All at once the savage council broke up and scattered into groups, which hurried to different parts of the village. Presently these reappeared at the central lodge. There sounded a concerted savage chant. A ragged column appeared, whose head was faced toward the cataract. There were those who bore strings of beads and strips of fur, even the prized treasures of the tufted scalp locks, whose tresses, combed smooth, were adorned with colored cloth and feathers.

Pierre Noir was silent; yet, as the captives looked, they needed no advice that the sacrificial procession was now forming.

"They said," began Pierre Noir, at length, with trembling voice, turning his eyes as he spoke, "that it could not be myself, that it must be one of you, and but one. They are going to cast lots for it. It is Teganisoris who has proposed that the lots shall be thrown by—" Pierre Noir faltered, unwilling to go on.

"And by whom?" asked Law, quietly.

"By—by the woman—by madame!"

CHAPTER XXIX.

THE SACRIFICE.

There was sometimes practiced among the Iroquois a game which bore a certain resemblance to the casting of dice, as the latter is known among civilized peoples. The method of the play was simple. Two oblong polished bones, of the bigness of a man's finger, were used as the dice. The ends of these were ground thin and were rudely polished. One of the dice was stained red, the other left white. The players in the game marked out a line on the hard ground, and then each in turn cast up the two dice into the air, throwing them from some receptacle. The game was determined by the falling of the red bone, he who cast this colored bone closer to the line upon the ground being declared the winner. The game was simple, and depended much upon chance. If the red die fell flat upon its face at a point near to the line, it was apt to lie close to the spot where it dropped. On the other hand, did it alight upon either end, it might bound back and fall at some little distance upon one side of the line.

It was this game which, in horrible fashion, Teganisoris now proposed to play. He offered to the clamoring medicine man and his ferocious disciples one of these captives, whose death should appease not only the offended Great Spirit, but also the unsated vengeance of the tribe. He offered, at the same time, the spectacle of a play in which a human life should be the stake. He used as practical executioner the woman who was possessed by one of them, and who, in the crude notions of the savages, was no doubt coveted by both. It must be the hand of this woman that should cast the dice, a white one and a red one for each man, and he whose red die fell closer to the line was winner in the grim game of life and death.

Jean Breboeuf and Pierre Noir stood apart, and tears poured from the eyes of both. They were hardened men, well acquainted with Indian warfare; they had seen the writhings of tortured victims, and more than once had faced such possibilities themselves; yet never had they seen sight like this.

Near the two men stood Mary Connynge, the bright blood burning in her cheeks, her eyes dry and wide open, looking from one to the other. God, who gives to this earth the few Mary Connynges, alone knows the nature of those elements which made her, and the character of the conflict which now went on within her soul. Tell such a woman as Mary Connynge that she has a rival, and she will either love the more madly the man whom she demands as her own, or with equal madness and with greater intensity will hate her lover with a hatred undying and unappeasable.

Mary Connynge stood, her eyes glancing from one to the other of the men before her. She had seen them both proved brave men, strong of arm, undaunted of heart, both gallant gentlemen. God, who makes the Mary Connynges of this earth, only can tell whether or not there arose in the heart of this savage woman, this woman at bay, scorned, rebuked, mastered, this one question: Which? If Mary Connynge hated John Law, or if she loved him—ah! how must have pulsed her heart in agony, or in bitterness, as she took into her hand those lots which were the arbiters of life and death!

Teganisoris looked about him and spoke a few rapid words He caught Mary Connynge roughly by the shoulder and pulled her forward. The two men stood with faces set and gray in the pitiless light of morn. Their arms were fast bound behind their backs. Eagerly the crowding savages pressed up to them, gesticulating wildly, and peering again and again into their faces to discover any sign of weakness. They failed. The pride of birth, the strength of character, the sheer animal vigor of each man stood him in stead at this ultimate trial. Each had made up his mind to die. Each proposed, not doubting that he would be the one to draw the fatal lot, to die as a man and a gentleman.

Teganisoris would play this game with all possible mystery and importance. It should be told generations hence about the council fires, how he, Teganisoris, devised this game, how he played it, how he drew it out link by link to the last atom of its agony. There was no receptacle at hand in which the dice could be placed. Teganisoris stooped, and without ceremony wrenched from Mary Connynge's foot the moccasin which covered it—the little shoe—beaded, beautiful, and now again fateful. Sir Arthur smiled as though in actual joy.

"My friend," said he, "I have won! This might be the very slipper for which we played at the Green Lion long ago."

Law turned upon him a face pale and solemn. "Sir," said he, "I pray God that this issue may not be as when we last played. I pray God that the dice may elect me and not yourself."

"You were ever lucky in the games of chance," replied Pembroke.

"Too lucky," said Law. "But the winner here is the loser, if it be myself."

Teganisoris roughly took from Mary Connynge's hand the little bits of bone. He cast them into the hollow of the moccasin and shook them dramatically together, holding them high above his head. Then he lowered them and took out from the receptacle two of the dice. He placed his hand on Law's shoulder, signifying that his was to be the first cast. Then he handed back the moccasin to the woman.

Mary Connynge took the shoe in her hand and stepped forward to the line which had been drawn upon the ground. The red spots still burned upon her cheeks; her eyes, amber, feline, still flamed hard and dry. She still glanced rapidly from one to the other, her eye as lightly quick and as brilliant as that of the crouched cat about to spring.

Which? Which would it be? Could she control this game? Could she elect which man should live and which should die—this woman, scorned, abased, mastered? Neither of these sought to read the riddle of her set face and blazing eyes. Each as he might offered his soul to his Creator.

The hand of Mary Connynge was raised above her head. Her face was turned once more to John Law, her master, her commander, her repudiator. Slowly she turned the moccasin over in her hand. The white bone fell first, the red for a moment hanging in the soft folds of the buckskin. She shook it out. It fell with its face nearly parallel to the ground and alighted not more than a foot from the line, rebounding scarce more than an inch or so. Low exclamations arose from all around the thickened circle.

"As I said, my friend," cried Sir Arthur, "I have won! The throw is passing close for you."

Teganisoris again caught Mary Connynge by the shoulder, and dragged her a step or so farther along the line, the two dice being left on the ground as they had fallen. Once more her hand arose, once more it turned, once more the dice were cast.

The goddess of fortune still stood faithful to this bold young man who had so often confidently assumed her friendship. His life, later to be so intimately concerned with this same new savage country, was to be preserved for an ultimate opportunity.

The white and the red bone fell together from the moccasin. Had it been the white that counted, Sir Arthur had been saved, for the white bone lay actually upon the line. The red fell almost as close, but alighted on its end. As though impelled by some spirit of evil, it dropped upon some little pebble or hard bit of earth, bounded into the air, fell, and rolled quite away from the mark!

Even on that crowd of cruel savages there came a silence. Of the whites, one scarce dared look at the other. Slowly the faces of Pembroke and Law turned one toward the other.

"Would God I could shake you by the hand," said Pembroke. "Good-by."

"As for you, dogs and worse than dogs," he cried, turning toward the red faces about him, "mark you! where I stand the feet of the white man shall stand forever, and crush your faces into the dirt!"

Whether or not the Iroquois understood his defiance could not be determined. With a wild shout they pressed upon him. Borne struggling and stumbling by the impulse of a dozen hands, Pembroke half walked and half was carried over the distance between the village and the brink of the chasm of Niagara.

Until then it had not been apparent what was to be the nature of his fate, but when he looked upon the sliding floor of waters below him, and heard beyond the thunderous voices of the cataract, Pembroke knew what was to be his final portion.

There was, at some distance above the great falls, a spot where descent was possible to the edge of the water. Pembroke's feet were loosened and he was compelled to descend the narrow path. A canoe was tethered at the shore, and the face of the young Englishman went pale as he realized what was to be the use assigned it. Bound again hand and foot, helpless, he was cast into the canoe. A strong arm sent the tiny craft out toward midstream.

The hands of the great waters grasped the frail cockleshell, twisted it about, tossed it, played with it, and claimed it irrevocably for their own. For a few moments it was visible as it passed on down with the resistless current of the mighty stream. Almost at the verge of the plunge, the eyes watching from the shore saw at a distance the struggle made by the victim. He half raised himself in the boat and threw himself against its side. It was overset. For one instant the cold sun shone glistening on the wet bark of the upturned craft. It was but a moment, and then there was no dot upon the solemn flood.

LYNCHING AT NORFOLK, VA.

Negro Suffers Death For Attack on Police Officer.

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 25.—George W. Blount, the negro proprietor of a fish and oyster shop in the suburbs of Berkley, was killed at the police station, where he was confined.

Blount was killed by four masked men, while two other masked men kept the policeman in charge of the station and a member of the town fire department, who was in the station office, covered with revolvers.

Blount had been arrested Saturday night for striking T. D. Holloman, a Berkley policeman, in the face with a lighted lamp, badly burning him. The policeman had gone to Blount's place to arrest another negro, and Blount refused him permission to enter.

The attack on the station was made when but one policeman was on duty, and he was compelled to give up the keys at the point of a pistol.

The mob dispersed, and the authorities declare they know none of the participants. Blount had been for many years a Republican leader and one time held a position in the Norfolk navy yard.

A detachment of Norfolk militiamen are patrolling the negro section of Berkley, and, while everything seems quiet on the surface, there is a possibility that more trouble may occur at any moment.

FAIRBANKS' TOUR.

Senator Ends Campaign In Ohio—Now For Michigan.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 25.—Senator Charles W. Fairbanks of Indiana, Republican nominee for vice president, concluded a strenuous campaigning trip with a speech last night in the Columbus Auditorium before an audience which packed the main floor and the galleries.

Throughout his tour of Ohio, which began across the Ohio river from Wheeling and ended in the capital, the senator was accompanied by Governor Myron T. Herrick of Ohio, who also made several addresses. Between Wheeling and Columbus stops were made at Quaker City, Salesville, Lore City, Senecaville, Pleasant City, Byesville, Cambridge, New Concord, Zanesville, Coshocton, Newark and Pataskala.

Michigan will be traversed by Senator Fairbanks. The first speech is to be made at Monroe early in the morning. The stops in Michigan include Monroe, Adrian, Tecumseh, Manchester, Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor, Chelsea, Jackson, Lansing and Grand Rapids, where the evening meeting will be held.

VAN BUSKIRK MURDER.

Charles J. Johnson Said to Have Confessed the Crime.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—After being in jail over three months Charles J. Johnson is said to have confessed to the murder of Henry Van Buskirk in Brooklyn, according to a statement made at the office of District Attorney Clarke of Kings county.

Van Buskirk was found dead in the junk shop of George W. Abbott, an aged miser. Abbott's body was found near that of Van Buskirk, he, too, having been slain.

In the confession Johnson, who is under indictment in connection with the murder, is said to have declared that Oscar Dahlgren killed Abbott and that three other men are implicated. Neither the police nor the district attorney's office will make public the text of the confession. It is expected that several arrests will be made.

No Bullfight For New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 25.—Representatives of the Society For the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals have called on Acting Mayor McEracken and asked him to refuse a permit to Felix Robert, the French matador, to give a bullfight in New Orleans. The acting mayor said he would not permit the performance.

SPORTING NEWS.

FOOTBALL.

The Leal's School football players are perplexed over the result of the Pingry-Montclair game last week. The game showed up well for the Elizabeth team, and the local school will have to play a strong game to beat them in the league game, which will take place at Elizabeth on Saturday. Though defeated by the Newark aggregation last week, the Leal's boys have no cause to be discouraged, as their opponents outweighed them by at least ten pounds per man. The line-up of the local players was weakened by the loss of Daniels from behind the line, and they held the Newark eleven in good style considering their comparative weight.

The Orange Field Club has up to the present time defeated three of the challengers for the State championship 150 pound title. They have still to meet the Somerville team on Saturday, though the latter team is somewhat out of the weight. They tip the scales at about 170, which is nearly twenty pounds heavier than the local team. The Elizabeth team is another challenger for the claimed title, and the game with that team will be a hard one. Probably the most interesting game of the season for the local football enthusiasts will be the O. F. C.-Alis game which will take place on November 8. The Alis team rather surprised the O. F. C. players in their game with the Columbia Field Club, Saturday, and their exhibition was more than creditable for the first game of the season. The Alis team has not played so many games as the Orange team, yet they disposed of the Elizabeth aggregation Saturday in a clean fast game. Captain Phillips has been running the team from the captain's standpoint, managing it, and coaching it entirely alone, and much credit is due to him for his work with the eleven. He put his team through the game Saturday in quick snappy style, while his play on the defensive was a feature of the contest.

GOLF.

The semi-final round at match play for the club championship will be played at the Westfield Golf Club on Saturday between Marshall Whitlatch, J. A. Worth, Joseph Sherman, Jr., and W. J. Bogert, Jr.

The officers and members of the Westfield Golf Club are making extensive preparations for the harvest dance to be held at the clubhouse Saturday night. Everyone attending is requested to appear in field clothes. Good music will be furnished and special attention will be paid to the decorations.

While Robert Abbott, of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, now a member of the Yale Golf Club team, did not win the intercollegiate honors at Myopia last week, his many friends are pleased with the excellent showing he made. They are also equally disappointed in the showing of Frank O. Reinhart, who lost the honors of intercollegiate champion.

This is the standing to date for the Golf Committee Cup at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club:

Radin	138	158	200
Dunning	—	122	137
	489	720	743

High score was bowled by Gus Sheelen, 203. This is six straight games won this season by the Suburbans and have lost none. They are arranging games with the Somerset A. C., of Somerville, also a series with the Plainfield Y. M. C. A.

Manager Sutphen of the Y. M. C. A. bowling team, has closed arrangements for a game with the Triangle Club of New Brunswick, to take place on the local alleys on Friday night, November 4. It is also practically certain that a game between the Plainfield boys and the Fanwood Bowling Club will be rolled off at Fanwood, tonight.

COLLISION IN SUBWAY ON UNPROTECTED BRANCH

KINSMAN BLOCK SYSTEM NOT CONNECTED WITH TRAIN ACCIDENT.

A collision between two local trains in the New York subway last night, caused great anxiety among friends of F. E. Kinsman, of this city, they believing his automatic signal system had failed to work. It spread until this morning when word came from Mr. Kinsman that the branch on which the trains were running is not equipped with the safeguards invented and installed by him in the main tunnel. The subway officials also issued a statement in which they stated that only the express trains are to work under the Kinsman block system and that an accident of the kind occurring last night could not happen to them.

The collision was only a slight affair and no one was injured. It was said to be due to a green motorman failing to apply the brakes in time.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS.

QUESTIONS OF THE DAY DISCUSSED BY THE PRESS.

That Eagle.

An eagles wooped down on a dog in Plainfield, and some over-zealous citizen crippled the bird. If the eagle had come over this way and gathered a few of the worthless knoodles on the "Hill" a gilded cage would have been found for him in one of the city parks. —Newark Advertiser.

PERSONAL.

Frank Mangeot, of Bound Brook, has returned to his home after visiting friends in this city.

Miss Florence Ennis, of Somerville, has returned after a short visit with friends in this city.

Miss Mamie Maud and Miss Lizzie Crosby, of this city, were the guests of friends in Somerville, Sunday.

Charles H. Scott, State boys' secretary of the Y. M. C. A., was in town yesterday on business of the coming boys' conference.

Choir on a Straw-Ride.

Trinity Reformed church choir and friends to the number of twenty-four, enjoyed a straw-ride to Westfield, last night, after the weekly Christian Endeavor Society meeting. The young people made the trip in William Lindsay's large box wagon and had a merry time. Upon returning to the home of Miss May Randolph on North avenue, a bountiful collation was served. After refreshments a musical programme was enjoyed, the choir rendering several selections, Miss Etta Raybert giving several solos. In addition games were played.

Mr. Hooley's Deer Park.

E. S. Hooley, of Rockview avenue, who has been making extensive improvements about his handsome property, is now having a space about 300 feet squrare enclosed on the meadow below his home, to be used as an enclosure for several deer which he recently brought here. He is also having another lake made near the present one on his property in which will be placed geese and ducks. John P. Wolfe, of the borough, is building the enclosure which consists of a wire fence, about seven feet high.

Chimney Fire.

Resulting from a defective flue in a chimney a blaze broke out this morning at the home of Casper F. Waglow, of South avenue. The department responded quickly though and only two small extingaishers were needed to put out the flames.

Kirch-Messler Nuptials Today.

The wedding of Miss Emma Sprague Messler, of Whitehouse, to J. Philip Kirch, of this city, will take place today at the home of the bride's brother in Norwich, Conn. It will be witnessed by a large number of Plainfield friends.

In the Borough Court.

Sentence was suspended on Case Teller in the borough police court, last evening. He was arrested Sunday by Marshal Pope for drunkenness.

—A dance will be given in the Democratic Hall on Friday evening by the members of the Acme Social Club. It is an invitation affair. The music will be furnished by O'Reilly.

DIAMOND DUST.

The New York Nationals defeated Hoboken Sunday by a score of 5 to 2. A feature was Creagan's batting for Hoboken. He made a double, a triple and two singles off George Wiltse, who pitched for the Giants.

ROD AND GUN.

J. A. Smith, of the firm of J. A. Smith & Bro., left today for Virginia, where he will spend some time hunting on his preserves.

STATE CONVENTION OF SUNDAY-SCHOOLS

ANNUAL SESSIONS TO BE HELD IN BURLINGTON NEXT MONTH.

The annual State convention of Sunday-schools will be held this year at Burlington on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, November 15 to 17. There will be a elemetary institute of five sessions beginning Tuesday afternoon at 2:30. Thorough instruction in beginner's primary and junior work will be given. The secondary institute will be of three sessions beginning on Wednesday morning. At this time instruction will be given in intermediate and senior work.

The normal and adult institute will be of two sessions only and will be held on Wednesday afternoon. The Home Department Institute will also have two sessions on Wednesday afternoon. A pastors' conference will take place on the same afternoon and in the evening of that day there will be a conference and supper for officers. On Thursday evening there will be the Superintendent's banquet and conference for which the tickets will be one dollar.

A full programme will shortly be mailed to all the superintendents and delegates by General Secretary Rev. E. M. Furguson, of Trenton. The county associations are requested to send a county delegation of ten or more, and of others elected by the schools so that each county will be well represented. Announcements of the speakers have been sent out. They follow: Mrs. Mary Foster Bryner, of Illinois, the brilliant and versatile field worker of the International Sunday-school convention; the Rev. John T. McFarland, D. D., the new corresponding secretary of the Sunday-school Union of the Methodist Episcopal church; Dr. C. R. Blackwell, Dr. George W. Bailey and C. G. Trumbull, of the Pennsylvania workers; the Rev. Frederick H. Jacobs, of Brooklyn, the world-famous leader in Christian song, and others from New Jersey equally noted and helpful, including Mrs. J. Woodbridge Barnes, International Primary and Junior Secretary.

UNION AFTER HIM.

Whitney Frazee May be Fined for Playing With Non-Union Band.

Because Whitney Frazee organized The Plainfield Cornet Band here composed chiefly of non-union musicianns, he has received notice from the Elizabeth Union that he is open to a fine of $25 and failure to pay this will make him liable to suspension. Mr. Frazee is not worrying much about the matter, according to his own words. He says that if he is fined, he will let it go by default and drop out of the union. It is understood that Kenneth Stuart a union musician, who played with the band on that day, is also likely to be fined.

Barn Social by Y. P. S.

Celebrating Hallowe'en, the Young People's Society, of the First Baptist church, will hold a barn social on Saturday, October 29, in William Newcorn's barn on West Front street, above West End avenue. The usual Hallowe'en pastimes will be the features of the evening's enjoyment. Refreshments will be served and a informal time will conclude the affair. The social is in charge of the regular committee of the society, which consists of Miss Velma Oakley, chairman, Miss Harriet Mattison, Miss Alma Mackay, Mrs. J. B. Probasco, and Fred Armstrong.

Autopsy on James Washington.

The autopsy performed yesterday by Dr. T. H. Tomlinson, assisted by the hospital staff, in the case of James Washington, colored, who died at the hospital suddenly Sunday night, disclosed the fact that death was due to a perforation of the stomach the result of an ulcer. The autopsy confirmed the diagnosis of the attending physician.

Drake's Vacation Over.

Frank Drake, of this city, was released from the borough jail today, having completed a week's sentence imposed upon him by Judge Dond. He was the last of the crowd to be caught which "assaed" Marshal Pope and then fled across the brook, but not soon enough to avoid being recognized.

J. W. Saums Hurt.

J. W. Saums, of Trenton, father of George W. Saums, of West Front street, met with a accident on Saturday which resulted in the fracture of his arm and other injuries. He was driving down a hill with a load of brick, when the wagon tongue broke, throwing him off his seat.

—Harry C. Runyon is the attorney for the Silbert brothers in their suits against Morris and Sarah Abrams, and not Craig Marsh, as was announced in yesterday's issue of The Daily Press. Mr. Marsh represents the complainant's mother, Mrs. Hattie Slonim, who has brought an independent suit.

SIDE LIGHTS ON TIMELY TOPICS NOTED IN PASSING.

Appointed official dog catcher of Dunellen, Charles Swartz, of that borough, is fulfilling his duties satisfactorily but under trying circumstances. Employed as a carpenter on the New Jersey Central he leaves Dunellen at 6:30 in the morning and after spending the day anywhere along the route returns home at 7 in the evening. Supper over he procures a lantern and for two hours patrols the streets looking for stray canines, picking up all those not having a registry tag on their collars.

The old saw that "every dog has his day" is being disproven since Swartz assumed the office as many of the Dunellen canines seem to prefer the night. His lantern has sought out many a wanderer and the after dark catches are proving more numerous than those made in the day by his predecessor. One night a week is extermination night when Swartz stays in his improvised pound and disposes of the dogs not claimed by owners. He declares the job is not a bit irksome and as long as the borough authorities are satisfied he is.

LITERARY.

The Burr McIntosh Monthly for November is a superb number, the photographic art being of the highest. Among the exquisitely fine pictures are those of the Manassas engagement, though the football illustrations are none the less interesting. As usual excellent portraits of people in the public eye, including prominent actresses and men of affairs, make the number of especial value. Get a copy at your news-stand and you'll become a regular subscriber.

Wagon Ran Over His Leg.

Narrowly escaping a more serious injury, George Marshall, aged twelve years, the son of Julius Marshall, of Somerset street, had both wheels of a wagon pass over his leg yesterday afternoon, while getting out of the rig. The youngster missed a step and fell in front of the wheels before the horse could be brought to a standstill. It was not learned who the person driving the wagon was, thought it is known that it was a woman. Young Marshall seems to be suffering no serious pain from the effects of his accident.

MISS E. E. CUTTER WEDS

Becomes Mrs. Oliver B. Hill at Largely Attended Ceremony.

DR. SCHENCK OFFICIATES

Bride a Member of Trinity Reformed Church—Many Handsome Gifts.

Miss Elizabeth Edna Cutter, sister of F. S. Cutter, and Oliver Barbour Hill, of Westervelt avenue, were married at 7 o'clock last evening at the home of the bride's brother, 36 Sandford avenue, in the presence of about one hundred guests from New York, Newark, Brooklyn, Rahway and this city. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Frank Pearson, as matron-of-honor, while the best man was Warren W. Weseman, who also assisted Frank W. Pearson as usher.

The home was unusually attractive in autumnal decorations. In one corner of the parlor here were beautiful palms, smilax, chrysanthemums and greens in one solid bank, and it was here that the ceremony was performed. In the reception hall there were palms, smilax and chrysanthemums so arranged to hide from view the music room, where Westervelt's orchestra rendered the wedding marches and a programme of classical selections. In the dining room the same effect was carried out in floral decorations.

As the Lohengrin wedding march was being played, the bridal party descended the stairway passed through the dining room into the parlor, where the officiating clergyman, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, stood waiting to receive them. After the ceremony, which was performed with a ring, the couple received congratulations and best wishes of the guests. This was followed with the serving of the wedding supper.

The bride, an attractive young woman, was gowned in white crepe de chine, over white taffeta silk, with pearl trimmings. She wore a veil and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies-of-the-valley. The matron of honor wore a white lace robe gown and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses.

After the reception which followed the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Hill left the city for two weeks' trip. Upon their return they will reside in one of the apartments in the New Madison on Madison avenue.

The couple was substantially remembered in gifts of great value and use. The bride received gifts of silverware from the firm by which she was formerly employed in New York, while from fellow-employes in the Empire Trust Company and McVickar, Gaillard Realty Company, where the groom has been employed for over six years, a purse of $60 in gold was received. The Sunday-school class at Trinity Reformed church, of which the bride is a member, gave a handsome chair. Other gifts included furniture, carving sets, salad spoons, Haviland china, cut glass, linen, pictures. A great deal of the silver was of Tiffany make, and represented the latest styles in this ware. One room was entirely devoted to the show of gifts and during the evening the guests accepted the opportunity offered to admire them.

The bride is a member of Trinity Reformed church and Sunday-school, and both she and her husband are highly esteemed by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

The bride and groom cleverly outwitted the guests in their departure. A coach stood in front of the house and everyone supposed that the couple would go away in it. The coach was decorated with ribbons and old shoes. At the proper time Mr. and Mrs. Hill came out of the house and hastily jumped into an automobile which had arrived but a few minutes before. Joseph Loughead was in charge and under his direction the couple was able to make a quick escape from those who had planned to give them a send-off. It is not known to which railroad station they went, but they were successful in eluding those who hope to give them a good time.

Home From South America.

George Fuller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Fuller, of Arlington avenue, has returned home from Buenos Ayres, where he is engaged in business representing North American companies in various lines. He will be in Plainfield until December.

Exhibition Well Attended.

The exhibition of photographs at the studio of the Misses Edith and Margaret Tracy, yesterday afternoon, was attended by even a larger number than on Monday.

BLACK INVADES SOMERSET

Gubernatorial Candidate Gets Rousing Receptions.

TIME AT SOMERVILLE

Clark and Swackhamer Also Speak—North Plainfield Democrats There.

Charles C. Black, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, yesterday wound up his whirlwind campaign in Somerset County, which was one continuous ovation all along the route, with a monster mass meeting in Somerset Hall, Somerville, last night.

The meeting was one of the largest ever held in Somerset County. An overflow meeting of large proportions was also held outside in front of the hall which Mr. Black also addressed, as did Assemblyman Swackhamer and others. Former Congressman A. A. Clark, of Somerville, presided. The address of Candidate Black was attentively listened to and frequently applauded. J. B. Cleaver spoke upon National issues and held the large audience spell-bound. Mr. Bacon, a former Republican, of New York, who has stumped the United States in many former campaigns for the Republican party, made a deep impression with the gathering.

The meeting lasted until 11 o'clock. The North Plainfield Democratic Club attended and made the journey in special trolley. President D. J. Carney headed that delegation which numbered ninety. The activity of the Somerset County Democracy has awakened the Republicans in Somerset and unless strenuous efforts are adopted that county will slip away from the Republicans two weeks hence.

No like assemblage has ever been gathered in Somerset as that of last evening. The Democracy of Somerset is jubilant today. Candidate Black seems confident of election and so expressed himself to friends last night.

A warm reception was accorded Congressional Candidate Robert L. Stevens. Mr. Stevens made a stirring address and his remarks were often applauded.

HIRING NON-UNION BAND MAY COST MANY VOTES

UNION MEN OBJECT TO REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE'S ACTION.

If the politicans continue to engage the Plainfield Cornet Band to furnish music at the various mass meetings, it is likely to cost the party many votes, according to a statement made last night by a union musician. He referred to the matter reported in The Daily Press yesterday regarding Whitney Frazee, the organizer of the band. Mr. Frazee is a member of the Elizabeth union, while many of those in the band are non-union men. Last Saturday during the auto parade, the secretary of the Elizabeth Union spoke to Mr. Frazee, whose band was in the parade, about it, and the latter took exception to his remarks.

It appears that as some voters in the city, especially among the machinists, carpenters and other trades, all union men, are taking exception to the acts of the political party who are engaging a band composed of non-union musicians and they say that if the practice continues the party doing it will lose many votes on Election Day.

It is not known what action Whitney Frazee may take in the matter. He played with his band at Reform Hall, last night. Kenneth Stuart, another union musician, has also been playing with the band. Both are liable to a fine of $25 and in case of failure to pay it they may be suspended.

Driver Thrown From Wagon.

Thrown out by the sudden jolting of his wagon, Alfred Norwood, a driver for Grocer R. H. Keenan, fell on his head on Richmond street, yesterday afternoon, and received several bad cuts. He was left in a partly conscious condition and the patrol wagon was summoned to take him to his home on Belmont avenue. In the meantime friends took care of him and the services of the vehicle were not required.

Elks' Memorial Service.

According to the usual custom of the B. P. O. E., the members of Plainfield Lodge are beginning to prepare for a memorial service to be held early in December, probably in the First Presbyterian church. This service is held in memory of departed members. It is proposed to make music a feature of the programme.

FLAYED THE DEMOCRATS

W. Gaston and J. B. Barbour Speak at G. O. P. Meeting.

IN REFORM HALL

Former Democrat Reminds the Audience of the Soup House—Barbour's Hot Shot.

Enlivened by the Plainfield Cornet Band, and attended by the largest audience during the campaign being conducted by the local Republicans, Hon. Joseph E. Barbour, of Connecticut, held the closest attention of everyone at the mass meeting held in Reform Hall, last night, while he presented strong arguments in favor of retaining the Republican party in power. Thoroughly posted on National affairs and the details of the Republican administration, he told in a convincing manner why Roosevelt and Fairbanks, as well as every Republican nominee should be elected on November 8.

There were a number of prominent Republicans on the platform, when Mayor O. L. Jenkins introduced Walter Gaston as chairman. Mr. Gaston made a few remarks in which he stated that since 1896 he had been a member of the Republican party. He deplored the condition of the country during the Democratic administration of Cleveland, when, he said, the soup house became a National institution, and aroused much enthusiasm in referring to the present standard-bearers of the Republican party, the success of which will insure continued prosperity. He said that if Cleveland, surrounded by leaders of ability could not accomplish the best things for the country, it is surely not within the province of Parker and Davis with such men as Sheehan, Murphy, Hill and others who are conducting the present campaign for the Democrats.

Mr. Gaston then introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Barbour, who talked for an hour and a half. He sketched briefly the issues raised by the Democrats during the past few years, referring to free silver, militarism, imperialism and telling how the Democrats have been trying to be successful at the polls by rallying around false doctrines. However, he said that the Democrats still have a few issues left upon which they are making a fight.

In referring to Secretary John Hay, he said that he is the greatest diplomat of modern times, and gave a few incidents to prove the statement. In his mention of the various issues of the Democratic party, Mr. Barbour said that strange enough very little is heard about free silver, militarism, imperialism or the trusts and not even the Democratic papers speak of them.

Mr. Barbour interspersed his arguments with amusing stories, all of which had a point, and concluded his talk with an urgent appeal to every voter to stand by the Republican party and vote the entire ticket from the top to the bottom because the candidates are Republicans and the party is one of progress.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL WORK TRANSACTED BY TEACHERS

IMPORTANT MEETING AT TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH LAST NIGHT.

For the purpose of transacting all routine business from January 1 to October 23, a meeting of the teachers of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school was held last night. F. E. Smith, the superintendent of the school, presided. Though there was no particular report from the primary department, Miss Berkaw announced that the beginners class had been increased by seven members since the last enrollment. There are at the present time seventy-three in this department.

The report of the treasurer was as follows: Balance on hand from last year, $149.59; total receipts, $630 79; total disbursements, $414.88; balance on hand, $215.91; sum raised for building fund, $21.35; total balance on hand, $237.26. In addition to the usual list of supplies, an organ will be purchased for the beginners' department. The subject of the addition to the building has been laid over till next spring, and no action will be taken in the matter until that time. E. H. Bird and W. O. Leek were appointed as a committee to assist the superintendent in making preparations for the pupils at graduation. The committee for the Christmas arrangements will be appointed by the superintendent.

ATTACHED HIS GOODS PACKED IN FREIGHT CAR

FOUR ATTACHMENTS ON ROBERT T. JOHNSTON'S FURNITURE.

Packed in a freight car, prepared to leave the State for Taunton, Mass., the personal property of Robert T. Johnston, of Central avenue, is held at the freight house on account of four writs of attachments sworn out by local merchants. Those who have the claims on the property for non-payment of debts are Neuman Brothers, William Lindsay & Company, Fred Endress and Albert H. Knander.

The writs were issued yesterday by Justices Nash and Hand, and were delivered by Constables Manley and Gettelson. It is not known at present what action will be taken in the matter, though Mr. Johnston has been telegraphed at Taunton, and is expected in this city today. Whether he will contest the claims, or whether the goods will be seized is still an uncertainty. The merchants refused to give out the amounts of the claims.

DEDICATION OF TEMPLE BY SHRINERS NEXT MONTH

PLAINFIELD TEMPLARS TO ATTEND CEREMONY AT TRENTON.

The Taylor Opera House stage floor will be extended over all of the seats in the parquet to give ample room to the Mystic Shriners for the dedication of Crescent Temple in Trenton on November 17. Many Plainfielders will attend the ceremonies.

The institution of Crescent will be conducted by Potentate Widenmeyer, of Salaam temple, Newark. Dr. E. H. Ginnelley will be the potentate of the local temple. It is expected that 1,000 Shriners will be present.

While not a regular Masonic body, Shrine membership is composed strictly of Masons who have attained the thirty-second degree. Scottish rite, or who are Knights Templar in good standing. There are about ninety-five temples in the United States, with a total membership of 90,000.

Crescent will be the second temple instituted in New Jersey, the first Salaam having been in Newark. The Philadelphia temple is known as Lulu and the New York temple is designated as Mecca.

John Dilts Recovering Slowly.

John Dilts, of Flemington, employed in the repair gang by the Public Service Corporation, who fell off a car on East Front street last July, injuring the spinal column, causing paralysis, is slowly improving under the care of Dr. G. W. Endicott. It is believed that Dilts will eventually recover although it may require a couple of years' treatment. He now has feeling in the lower limbs as well as his toes. When first taken to the hospital he was unable to feel the point of a pin when inserted in the body.

Quietly Wedded.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Nellie Creveling, of East Fifth street, to Thomas J. Mulcahy, of Westerly, R. I. The ceremony was performed in the rectory of St. Mary's church, this city, on October 4, by Rev. Father Egan. Only the necessary witnesses were in attendance.

Election Night at Park Club.

Among those arranging to receive election returns on the night of November 8, is the Park Club. The members have issued invitations to their friends, as well as the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club to be present. The Park Club will have a special wire.

In City Court.

Bridget Coleman, arrested by Patrolman Higgins, and Joseph Barrett, arrested by Patrolman McKeon, were arraigned before Judge Runyon in the city court this morning, on charges of drunkenness. As there was no disorder in either case, sentence was suspended.

To Render Harvest Cantata.

At the praise service which will be given in the Crescent Avenue church Sunday evening, a choir of eighteen voices, under the direction of Rhys Thomas, will render John West's Harvest Cantata.

—The celebrated White Label canned goods are sold the world over and have always given satisfaction. Neuman Brothers have received a new consignment of this season's pack which they guarantee to please the most fastidious.

HIGH SCHOOL FIELD MEET

Howard H. Craig Wins Title of Champion in the Contests.

DETAILED RESULTS

The Senior Class Captures First Place With the Freshmen Second.

Winning first place in six events out of eight entered, Howard H. Craig won the title of champion of the Plainfield High School for the season of 1904 in the athletic meet yesterday afternoon at the Plainfield Driving Park. Being an inter-class event as well, the class of 1905 captured the first place with a margin of twenty-one over the freshmen who were second in the class contest. They won forty-four points. The counts were on the scale of five for first, three for second, and one for third place. Craig made thirty-three of the points for his class. The other classes scored the following points: Freshmen, twenty-three; juniors, thirteen; sophomores, ten.

The interest in the meet was not as great as that which has been evidenced on former occasions, there being fewer entries, and the class rivalry being almost extinct. Nearly fifteen of those entered dropped out. Three men tied for second place, though all were far below Craig's score. They were Collier, Vail and Thompson, all having eight points. The latter was the champion of last year, but only entered two events this season. He won first in the hammer throw, and second in the running broad jump.

The following is the complete list of the events and the winners: 100 yard dash—First, Craig; second, Vail; third, Stutsman; time, 11⅕ seconds. High jump—First, Freeman; second, Craig; third, Rockwell; height, 4 feet, 9 inches. 220 yard dash—First, Craig; second, Stutsman; third, Reid; time, 24 seconds. Shot put—First, Collier, 33 feet, 7 inches; second, Reid, 32 feet, 8½ inches; third, Strong, 32 feet, 2½ inches. 60 yard dash (under sixteen years)—First, Vail; second, Jones; third, Flanders; time, 7 seconds. 440 yard run—First, Craig; second, Rockwell; third, Stutsman; time, 1 minute, 14 seconds. Pole vault—First, Craig; second, Strong; third, Collier. Hammer throw—First, Thompson, 79 feet, 1 inch; second, Strong, 79 feet; third, Collier. 880 yard run—First, Craig; second, Gavett; third, Rockwell; time, 3 minutes, 7¾ seconds.

The total number of points received was as follows: Craig, 33; Vail, 8; Collier, 8; Thompson, 8; Strong, 7; Rockwell, 5; Stutsman, 5; Freemna, 5; Reid, 4; Gavett, 3; Jones, 3; Flanders, 1.

The judges in the affair were I. W. Travell and Lindsay Best, of the school faculty, and Archibald Hacquer, of the Courier-News. Francis K. Anderson, of The Daily Press, acted as starter, and Kenneth Robbie, of the Y. M. C. A., was timer. The committee in charge of the field meet was composed of Harold Robert, chairman, Theodore Gavett and William Douglass.

MISS EMMA MESSLER BRIDE OF J. PHILIP KIRCH

CEREMONY PERFORMED YESTERRDAY AFTERNOON AT NORWICH, CONN.

Miss Emma Sprague Messler, daughter of the late Justice Charles B. Messler, of Whitehouse, and J. Philip Kirch, of this city, were married yesterday afternoon at 5:30, at the home of the bride's brother, Harry W. Messler, of Norwich, Conn. The ceremony was witnessed by fifty guests, many of whom were from Plainfield. Miss Messler was gowned in peau de cine trimmed with chiffon and pearls, and carried white roses. The rooms were very prettily decorated with palms and chrysanthemums. Neither bride or groom were attended.

A reception was accorded Mr. and Mrs. Kirch after the wedding and at its conclusion they departed on a wedding trip which will be spent in the New England States. On returning they will make their home at 211 East Fifth street, this city.

The bride is a graduate of the nurses' training school connected with Muhlenberg Hospital and has been a resident of Plainfield for six years. At one time she was matron of the institution. Mr. Kirch has always resided here, being in business on North avenue. Both were remembered with numerous presents from their large circle of acquaintances.

TAX COMMISSIONERS MEET

Appeals Heard in Both City and Borough.

UNUSUAL CONTRAST

Commissioners of appeal on both the city and borough sides of the brook, met yesterday afternoon for the purpose of hearing objections to tax assessments as fixed by the assessors. In the city, the number of cases considered was far below the average while in the borough it was more.

The Plainfield commissioners heard in all seventy-five petitions but none of them were of any great consequence. As a rule they applied to dogs, automobiles and personal assessments, which can easily be rectified. The assessors were in attendance and by referring those needing consideration, all who wanted mistakes rectified were disposed of in the afternoon so that another sitting will not be required. The commissioners will meet again tomorrow evening for the purpose of preparing their findings.

The commissioners who sat are Joseph B. Coward, A. H. Atterbury and William R. Craig.

In the borough thirty-nine persons were heard and as some of them were of importance another session will be held today. The most noteworthy case was the request of St. Joseph's parish, made through Counseller Francis J. Blatz, for the withdrawal of the assessment on St. Gabriel's Academy and St. Joseph's home, on the ground that both are charitable institutions and as such should be exempt. Heretofore neither have been taxed, but to the commissioners Assessor Cooley declared they should be taxed because a revenue was derived from the institutions. In his remarks Counsellor Blatz said that a revenue was derived but it was applied to the maintenance of the academy and that those attending received the benefit and not the parish. He cited instances of the Y. M. C. A.'s which receive money from young men attending the classes and yet the associations are not taxed. The matter was referred in connection with others.

The borough commissioners are William C. Smith, John T. Case and L. T. Barkalew.

EDWIN M. SHEPARD MAY MAKE SPEECH HERE

INDEPENDENTS WANT DISTINGUISEED LAWYER TO TALK FOR PARKER.

The Independent Parker Club met at the Casino last night and received considerable encouragement from reports presented as to the growth of the new movement. It was announced that arrangements are now being made for the holding of a large mass meeting at the Casino, when it is hoped to have as the principal speaker, Edwin M. Shepard, the well-known New York lawyer and former candidate for Governor against Governor Odell. As soon as it is learned whether Mr. Shepard can come here or not, the date for the meeting will be announced and other details arranged.

The association also planned last night to send out campaign literature. There are now about forty voters enrolled and others have signified their intention of identifying themselves with the organization in support of Parker and Davis. The association will meet again on Tuesday night, November 1, at the Casino.

In Justice Huff's Court.

The following cases are on the docket at Justice Huff's court: John Doe against James Brown, foreclosure of mortgage, returnable October 31; John Doe against John Griscowl, foreclosure of chattel mortgage, returnable November 1; John Doe against Mary Hope, foreclosure of chattel mortgage, returnable October 28; B. Dalton against A. Cornelious, landlord and tenant, returnable October 31.

Feiring Wins the Match.

In order to decide their supremacy, a party of local gunners spent yesterday on the Maple avenue shooting grounds and tried their marksmanship on clay targets. The record was made by William Feiring, who broke 21 out of a possible 25, at one time making a run of fourteen straight. Those who competed with him were Dr. C. B. Lufburrow, Alex. Ayers, Herbert Overbaugh, Philip Jahn and John Coss.

REVELATIONS OF RADIUM

Prof. Von Nardroff's Instructive Talk at the Casino.

COSTS $2,000 A GRAIN

Fifteen Grains Will Lift a Ton's Weight One Mile High He Declares.

To reveal by words and experiments the powers and properties of a comparatively unknown natural element is always a difficult task but it was a task accomplished by Ernest R. von-Nardroff, professor in Erasmus High School, Brooklyn, when he lectured on "Radium and its Revelations," last evening in the Casino. The lecture was given under the auspices of the Monday Afternoon Club and a large audience greeted the speaker.

Mr. vonNardroff gave a brief history of radium, saying that the discovery of the Ruentgen X-rays in 1896 gave an impetus to discoveries in the same line. M. and Madame Rurie, scientists, of Paris, gave much attention to the extraction of a new power from pitchblende the mineral from which uranium, the basis of the X-rays is derived. Madame Curie found, by long and patient experiments in which the whole scientific world was interested, that the resultant power of the product evolved was 180,000 times as strong as uranium. The name of this new product is radium, manufactured at a cost of $2,000 per grain, as a ton of pitchblende was needed for securing three grains of radium.

Mr. vonNardroff threw on the screen some interesting pictures of atoms made up of positive and negative electricity and by experiments later with gold leaf, showed how the different rays named, alpha, beta and gamma, were affected by contact with other atoms. The lecturer said that in experimenting in the development of some pictures taken by radium it, was discovered that the development went on under cloudy skies the same as in sun light and he exhibited a photograph developed as he talked, in which the key used was plainly visible on the card.

Mr. von Nardroff passed through the darkened room with a bit of radium, giving out its light and later with its X-rays, passed through a sheet of metal. The tremendous energy of radium was given in the statement that fifteen grains would lift a ton's weight a mile high.

One of the practical uses of radium, Mr. vonNardroff said, was in the cure of disease sight and air contributing to the eradication of some fatal diseases, it is hoped that the power and energy of radium will hasten these cures. The enthusiasm and earnestness of the speaker did much to win for him the interest of his audience.

Little Victim Buried.

In St. Mary's church yesterday, funeral services were held over the remains of Edward Eskeson Jr., who died in the Elizabeth hospital from injuries received at Graceland Friday. The mass was conducted by Rev. Father Egan and a large gathering of relatives and friends was in attendance. Among the numerous floral tributes extended was a large set piece from the boy's classmates in the Washington School. The interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery, those who acted as pall bearers being Martin O'Loughlin, Donald and Cormack Muldowney, Martin Kane, William Edmundson and Lawrence R. Bray.

Watchung Avenue Improvement.

The employes of the Public Service Corporation have completed laying new rails on the north side of Watchung avenue, and in a day or so will commence the work of laying them on the south side. As soon as this is completed the work of paving the street with vitrified brick will be started by Street Commissioner Gavett. It is hoped to have the whole job finished within a few weeks.

Borough Democrats Will Attend.

The North Plainfield Democrats will attend the big mass meeting in Reform Hall Friday evening, in a body. They are asked to meet at the club rooms on Somerset street at 7:30, from which place they will march over. The speakers at the meeting are to be John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi; Charles C. Black, candidate for governor, and James E. Martine, of this city.

Fowler Here Nov. 3.

The last Republican mass meeting here will be held on Thursday night, Nov. 3, when it is expected that Congressman Charles N. Fowler will be the chief speaker. It is also possible that Lee Fairchild may speak.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

READY REFERENCES FOR THE LOCAL ARGAIN SEEKERS.

J. W. VanSickle's meat is of the choicest and finest quality. It is always fresh, and no matter what you get, it is the best that VanSickle can give you.

A. H. Enander, of North avenue, is prepared at all times to do all kinds of repair work on furnaces, ranges and he contracts to do first-class plumbing and heating.

This is just the time to order your winter supply of coal and Boice, Runyon & Co. is the firm of which to get it. The best quality at the lowest prices will be found here.

There is no better quality of milk, cream and butter to be had than that sold by Marchant Brothers, of North avenue. The firm also sells fresh eggs. A share of your patronage is solicited.

Nagle can cure you, if you will give him a chance, of your illness, and save you a physician's charges. Nagle can give you a remedy for your neuralgia, dyspepsia, cold or sore throat.

Greer & Greenwood are the best authorities for fall and winter clothes. Hats, caps, are a specialty at Greer & Greenwood's. You owe yourself a new derby. They have them.

Paul Nachtway, of Watchung avenue, conducts a first-class delicatessen store, where you can always find a full line of cheeses, butter, eggs and bottled and canned goods of every description.

Frucht's new store on West Front street near the postoffice is replete with musical instruments, sporting goods and bicycles. Drop in and look around before making purchases of this kind.

As groceries form a large item in the household expense account, care should be taken in their purchase. Those at W. W. Dunn's store, Duer street and Lincoln place, are of the highest grade but at prices that are not prohibitive.

Do not make the mistake of using poor milk. There is no danger of falling into this error if you use William Lindsay's milk. You will be well satisfied if you give it a trial, and will have no further cause for changing milkmen.

Don't make any difference whether it's a brown or a black derby, or a brown, black or white soft hat, if it's a Hawes it can be relied upon to give good wear and retain its nobby effect. James R. Blair, the men's furnisher, is the sole Hawes agent in Plainfield.

In their many years of business as local merchants, Smalley Brothers have always sought to please their customers by giving them the best of everything in the meat and poultry line. It has proved a wise policy as their patronage has increased year by year and is still striding forward.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—A delivery horse belonging to Henry Voehl dropped dead Monday as it was returning from a trip over the mountains.

—A little Italian boy, who has been hanging about the city for the past ten days, was picked up in the East End by Patrolman Charles Flynn Monday night. To Chief Kiely yesterday he said he had run away from his home in Philadelphia and arrangements were made to send him back.

—Preparing for the dedication services to the new High School, the pupils of the Plainfield High School rehearsed for the first time yesterday the song written for the occasion by Miss Louise Taylor, of the class of 1908. It is set to the tune of the Princeton song, "The Orange and the Black." The words are very appropriate, and the pupils took hold of the song with a great deal of spirit. The ceremony will be interesting when the cornerstone is laid.

The basket ball game between the Plainfield High School and the Whittier School, which was to have been played this afternoon, has been cancelled on account of the football game between the former and the N. P. H. S.

TAFT GAVE FIGURES

Secretary of War Defends Present Philippine Policy.

ISLANDS COST TO DATE $204,000,000

Average Expense In Future Will Not Exceed Four Millions Per Annum. Increased Cost of Navy Not Due to Colonial Policy.

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 26—William H. Taft, secretary of war, addressing a Republican mass meeting in this city, charged the Democratic party with surrendering to the embraces of the anti-imperialists and accepting as gospel the frenzied utterances of Edward Atkinson, who had made gross misstatements in regard to the cost of the Philippines to the United States.

Judge Taft gave his own estimate of the cost of the Philippines to date as $204,000,000, saying:

"The report of the secretary of war made in 1902 in response to a resolution of congress calling for the actual cost of the army in the Philippines from June 30, 1898, to May 1, 1902, showed that the expenses of the army which could be properly chargeable to those islands and the operations in them and the maintenance of the army there amounted to $169,000,000.

"In addition to the $169,000,000, $1,000,000 may be added for extra expenses in the navy department, $3,000,000 for the famine fund, $20,000,000 for the amount paid under the treaty, making a total of $193,000,000 down to the 1st of May, 1902. By that time the insurrection was wholly suppressed, and the American soldiers in the Philippines began to be reduced from 27,000 until now they do not number more than 13,000, and orders have been issued by the war department which in due course will reduce the army to 10,000. A soldier in the Philippines costs $140 more per man, on the average, than in the United States, and there are also enlisted in the army of the United States 4,500 Philippine scouts, which cost the government an average of $500 a man. Assuming that the American soldiers, if not maintained in the Philippines, would have to be maintained in the United States, and, taking the entire cost of the Philippine scouts, the cost to the government from May 1, 1902, down to the present time did not exceed perhaps $10,000,000 or $11,000,000, or a total to date of about $204,000,000.

"The average expense in the future when the army is reduced to 10,000 American soldiers will not exceed $4,000,000 a year. It is idle to charge that the increase in our navy is due to our Philippine policy. The increase in the navy is due to the policy approved by the people of the United States before the Philippines as a dependency of this government were ever heard of."

Torchlights For Douglas at Boston.

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—The national and state Democratic tickets were ratified at a meeting held under the auspices of the Democratic city committee in Tremont temple last night. The great building was crowded, and thousands were unable to gain admittance. Prior to the meeting there was a torchlight procession, participated in by large delegations from every ward in the city. The paraders gathered at Dewey square, in front of the South Terminal station, where the gubernatorial candidate, William L. Douglas of Brockton, was met and escorted to the temple with much cheering, band playing and the burning of red fire. It was the first torchlight procession of the campaign in this city and the largest since the first McKinley-Bryan campaign.

Prisoners on Allen Liner.

MONTREAL, Oct. 26.—Twenty persons are virtually being held prisoners on the Allan line steamer Ionian at the request of United States immigration officials. They have United States naturalization papers, which are thought to be fraudulent, and some thousands of dollars. The head of one family is named Mitchell, and his relatives from Boston are here and will engage counsel to prevent their detention. There is considerable mystery about the thing. Mitchell's family consists of eleven, and the other family is headed by a deaf man. All are supposed to come from Russia.

Soldiers on Trial For Murder.

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—Frederick Watson and Eugene Seriott, the Fort Warren privates who are charged with the murder of Larkin Wymon Hall, a milliner, at his rooms on St. Botolph street, were brought into the municipal court for a preliminary hearing. Watson claims that Hall attempted to strike him with a Japanese sword and that when he parried the blow the blade entered Hall's body.

Student Riots Over at Havana.

HAVANA, Oct. 26.—Service on the university car lines has been restored after assurances from the mayor that the property of the street railway company would have ample protection. The chief of police has issued orders in accordance with the mayor's promise.

Wreck on Augusta (Ga.) Road.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 26.—Albert M. Humphrey, conductor, was killed and Tom Holley, colored train hand, injured in a wreck on the Augusta Southern near here. The caboose of a special freight train jumped the track and overturned.

Sternburg Presents Adbells.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Ambassador Sternburg of Germany has presented to the president Mr. Adbells, vice president of the North German Lloyd Steamship company, who is in America on a combined business and pleasure trip.

KUROPATKIN CHIEF.

Alexeieff Retains His Post as Viceroy.

WITH GOD'S HELP WILL DEFEAT JAPS

Imperial Ukase Issued at St. Petersburg—Land and Sea Forces Thanked For Self Sacrifice In Service of the Czar.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 26.—An imperial ukase has been issued appointing General Kuropatkin commander in chief of the Russian army and retaining Alexeieff in the post of viceroy in the far east. The emperor also congratulates Viceroy Alexeieff on the efficiency he has displayed in the formation, concentration and supreme direction of troops in the theater of operations. Alexeieff, in a proclamation, has thanked the land and sea forces for the self sacrifice they have shown and says he is proud of the mark of confidence bestowed upon him by the emperor in intrusting him with the supreme command of gallant troops. He hopes, in conclusion, that with God's help their strong adversary will be defeated.

St. Petersburg advices say that there is no news of important movements on the Shakhe river, though a resumption of hostilities is possible at any moment.

The emperor's trip to say farewell to the troops in the province of Vilna has been delayed ten days on account of the Dogger bank incident. War news has taken an entire secondary place in the face of the present complication. The sentiment in St. Petersburg is one of absolute stupefaction pending developments. General Kuropatkin's appointment to be commander in chief in the far east would have attracted much attention at any other time, but it arouses scant interest. It is an indication, however, of the emperor's unshaken confidence in Kuropatkin's ability. It is thought that General Meyendorff is the most likely candidate for the command of the first army, while General Grippenberg will command the second.

Japs In America Called to War.

OGDEN, Utah, Oct. 26.—M. A. Akimoto, who has charge of the 600 Japanese employed in the beet fields of Utah and Idaho, says he has received orders from the Japanese consul for all members of the first and second armies reserves to return home at once for active service.

POSTMASTER VAN COTT DEAD.

Suddenly Stricken at His Son's Home In New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Postmaster Van Cott died suddenly yesterday at the home of his son, Richard Van Cott, here. Mr. Van Cott's death followed his sudden seizure in his office in the postoffice, when he was stricken down while sitting at his desk.

It was rumored that he had been stricken with paralysis and also that it was a hemorrhage of the throat, but both rumors were denied, and the postmaster's illness was said to be only acute indigestion.

Mr. Van Cott appeared much better after reaching his son's house, but an attack of heart failure occurred, and Mr. Van Cott died very suddenly.

It was said that worry on account of his son Dick's recent arrest for alleged colonization brought on the attack.

Grout at Johnstown, N. Y.

JOHNSTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 26.—Edward M. Grout, comptroller of New York city, was the principal speaker at a Democratic demonstration held in this city last night. Fred Linus Carroll, son of the late Congressman John M. Carroll, presided. Comptroller Grout said that the present campaign involved questions that go to the very root of American citizenship. He strongly deprecated the centralization of power at Albany. "The true government," said the comptroller, "is that which lies at the door of the people."

Williams at Detroit.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 26.—Congressman John Sharp Williams of Mississippi faced a house crowded to the doors when he addressed a Democratic mass meeting last night at Light Guard armory. After touching upon the trust question and the administration's policy in the Philippines Mr. Williams dwelt upon Canadian reciprocity as an issue of vital importance, especially to border cities like Detroit, but which, he insisted, could be expected at the hands of the Democratic party.

Thirty Injured at Seattle.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 26.—Over thirty persons were injured, three of them perhaps fatally, in two head-on collisions that occurred in a fog on the Benton and University electric lines here. The most severely injured are F. B. Boyd of Columbia, J. L. Cole of Columbia and F. D. Cleaves of Dunlap.

A Thousand Steel Men at West Point.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 26.—Members of the Iron and Steel institute paid a visit to West Point, arriving here on the steamboat Monmouth. The visitors were met at the landing by General Mills and his staff and were tendered a reception in Memorial hall. The party numbered about a thousand.

Y. M. C. A. Day at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 26.—Exercises and receptions marked the celebration of Young Men's Christian association and Young Women's Christian association day at the world's fair. Miss Helen Miller Gould was the guest of honor at the several fetes.

STANDARD OIL DENIES.

Great Corporation Repudiates Any Political Combinations.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—S. C. Dodd counsel for the Standard Oil company has authorized the following statement:

"In view of the many false and misleading statements from various sources, the directors of the Standard Oil company deem it advisable to state to the company's shareholders and the public that neither now nor at any time has the Standard Oil company or any of its constituent companies been interested in any business not directly related with and necessary to the petroleum trade.

"It would be almost impossible to designate in this denial the different classes of business with which irresponsible parties have coupled the Standard Oil company name, but it may not be amiss to specify copper, steel, banks, railroads and gas (other than natural gas) as being most prominently mentioned. With none of these affairs has the Standard Oil company been at any time connected. Individual members of the Standard Oil company have been and are interested as individuals in various enterprises, but this is entirely outside of the business of the Standard Oil company, which is oil alone, unaffected by other interests in which its stockholders may invest.

"Neither is it true that the Standard Oil company, Mr. John D. Rockefeller or any officer of the Standard Oil company has taken part in securing the nomination of any of the candidates for office, as is so positively stated. Furthermore, it is entirely untrue that there is any "Standard Oil party" banded together for speculation in stocks as is so commonly charged. The name of Standard Oil company is frequently used by designing persons in the manipulation of the stock markets, but its use is unwarranted.

"The Standard Oil company departs from its usual custom in making this denial for the reason that the statements being made at this time by newspapers, magazines and sensational public speakers appear to be unusually mendacious and may to a great extent mislead the public."

M'CUE MURDER TRIAL.

Medical Examination Indicates Shot at Close Range.

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va., Oct. 26.—Dr. Venable at the McCue trial here testified that the wound on the back of Mrs. McCue's head might have been made by contact with the bathtub, but the one on the ear he thought to have been made with some blunt instrument. The gunshot wound in the breast was an inch long and badly powder marked, indicating very close range. It was of such a character that death would be practically instantaneous. The wad from the shell had lodged against the spinal column. He gave it as his opinion that the wound could not have been inflicted with Mrs. McCue in the position in which she was found and said he did not believe she could have stepped into the tub after having been shot, as he did not think more than a half dozen heart beats followed after the shot entered the breast.

On the day following the shooting he discovered finger marks on Mrs. McCue's throat, made, in his opinion, by a left hand; also a broken finger nail on one hand. The defendant did not touch the dead body of his wife to the knowledge of the witness.

Japanese Going to the War.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26.—The Pacific mail steamer China has sailed for Honolulu and the orient with 415 passengers, including 145 Japanese, a number of whom are returning home to enter the army. More Japanese are to go on the next steamer. Prince Aziz Rassan, nephew of the sultan of Turkey and by marriage a cousin of the khedive of Egypt, is a passenger. Commander C. C. Calkins, United States navy, and Commander N. Sargent, United States navy, are sailing to the far east to join the Asiatic squadron.

Negro Porter Shot Conductor.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 26.—P. A. Atwood, a passenger conductor employed by the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern railroad, was shot and killed near Farrell Station, fifteen miles east of Little Rock, by Houston Hooker, a negro porter. The tragedy occurred on the Pine Bluff-Little Rock accommodation train. Hooker's alleged grievance against Conductor Atwood was that the latter slapped him in the face after reprimanding on the ground that he had been inattentive to passengers.

Skull of Mastodon Found.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 26.—Workmen tearing down a bluff on the Missouri river front at Lydia street uncovered the skull of a mastodon with tusks seven feet long. It is not known whether the whole skeleton is in the bluff, as work was discontinued, to be resumed carefully with a view to saving the skeleton. Portions of another mastodon's skeleton were found in the same clay bank four years ago.

Mrs. W. P. Tonry Dead.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 26.—Mrs. William P. Tonry, the only daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Surratt, who was involved in the Lincoln assassination, died here after years of illness. When her mother was arrested Mrs. Tonry, then Miss Surratt, gave all her time to efforts to save her. After her mother's death Miss Surratt married Tonry.

Steamer Massachusetts Stranded.

NASSAU, N. P., Oct. 26.—The Atlantic Transport line steamer Massachusetts, from Cardiff for New Orleans, is stranded off Abaco, Bahama islands. She is resting easy.

ELECTION RETURNS.

Arrangements have been made by The Daily Press to display by stereotipcan views the returns of the election on November 8. The results of the National elections in the pivotal States, including New York, New Jersey, West Virgina and Indiana, as well as the complete returns of the gubernatorial and congressional fights in the various counties and districts in this State will be displayed. Returns from the election in the various parts of Union county and Plainfield and North Plainfield will be shown. J. Hervey Doane and John Neagle will operate the camers, and the returns will be received by telegraph and telephone.

PILGRIMS' BANQUET.

Rear Admiral Jewell and American Officers Entertained.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—"I thank God the day has come when neither the British nor the American navy can be jealous of each other's development."

Rear Admiral Jewell in the foregoing sentence last night elicited loud cheers when he replied to the toast of honor of the American European squadron at the banquet given them by the Pilgrim society. Lord Selborne, first lord of the admiralty, presided at the gathering, which included such representative Britons as Prince Louis of Battenburg, Justice Darling, Admirals Drury, Henderson and Lambton; Field Marshal Sir Evelyn Wood; Archdeacon Harris, chaplain of the fleet; Lord Strathcona, Sir Donald Wallace and Sir Thomas Lipton, besides the American naval and military attaches, Consul General Evans and many others of note.

Lord Selborne, in proposing the American naval guests, said he must refer to the "inerasable outrage" in the North sea. In a similar case, said Lord Selborne, the American or British navy would make immediate and ample apology. "They would punish," added Lord Selborne amidst loud cheers, "the perpetrator of such a deed.

The first toasts were "the king" and "the president of the United States."

HERRICK DENIES.

At Elmira Candidate For Governor Praises Roosevelt.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Oct. 26.—The big Democratic demonstration of the campaign in this section was held here in honor of D. Cady Herrick, candidate for governor. It began with a parade of goodly proportions with plenty of music and red fire. Judge Herrick was escorted to the Casino rink, where he addressed an enthusiastic audience which packed the building to the doors. The Hon. John B. Stanchfield presided and made a brief address.

Judge Herrick was warmly received. His speech for the most part was along the lines of his other addresses. In referring to a dispatch which appeared in the morning papers and which charged that in a speech at Plattsburg last week he accused President Roosevelt of using Devery methods to obtain campaign funds and that he said he "wanted no vote of a man who would vote for Roosevelt," Judge Herrick said: "I have great respect for the office of president of the United States. I have known the present incumbent of that office since he was first elected to the state assembly. I have great respect for him as a man, the most profound respect for his integrity. There is no question of the patriotism and loyalty of President Roosevelt."

Sweet Marie In Easy Victory.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 26.—Sweet Marie easily won the free for all trot at the Driving park, beating Dr. Strong handily in straight heats. Sweet Marie was never fully extended, and her time in the second heat was very creditable. The Emerald stake for 2:06 pacers brought out four fast horses. John M., the Smathers entry, was an odds on favorite, and after losing the first heat to Locanda he easily won the succeeding heats. Prince Alert was sent against the 1:59½ pacing record, but failed. The son of Crown Prince circled the track in 2:01¾.

Trotter Was Not Driven to Win.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Oct. 26.—A two weeks fall trotting meeting has opened here. Count d'Orsey, the favorite, won the 2:18 pace in straight heats, and General Kuser took the 2:27 trot. The 2:11 pace was won by Harry L. After the third heat W. Biggs, driver of Barnett B., the favorite, was ordered down by the judges, and Amos Rathbun was put in his place. When the race was over the judges declared all bets off, stating that in their opinion Barnett B. had not been driven to win.

Henry Lyons and Mum.

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 26.—Henry Lyons and Mum were the only winning favorites at Latonia. Showman, backed from 15 to 1 to 6 to 1, won the third race from King of the Valley and Varro. Red Raven, the heavily played favorite, finished fourth. The fifth race went to Ethel Davis, at 15 to 1 in the betting, Vestry, the favorite, finishing second.

McGee Broke a Record at Elm Ridge.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 26.—William Wright won the feature, a handicap at one and one-eighth miles, at Elm Ridge. Barklyite was second and Alma Dufour, the odds on favorite, third. In the third race McGee broke the track record for six furlongs, going the distance in 1:12¾. Azeline, McGee and Neversuch were the winning favorites.

Amagansett Stakes to Little Em.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Little Em, heavily played at 5 to 1, easily won the Amagansett selling stakes at Jamaica. Canteen, the 4 to 5 favorite, was never dangerous, finishing a bad fourth. Dick Bernard made the pace to the far turn, where Little Em went to the front, winning, eased up, by eight lengths.

Dutch Troops Capture Batoebatoe.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 26.—A dispatch from Batavia reports that the Dutch troops have captured Batoebatoe, in Achin, after sharp fighting. The Achinese, the dispatch says, lost 196 killed, and the Dutch captured twenty guns and had three killed and eleven wounded.

Big Ship Launched at Bath, Me.

BATH, Me., Oct. 26.—The five masted schooner Marcus L. Urann was launched from the yard of Charles V. Minott, Jr., at Phippsburg. The christening was performed by Miss Abbie Minott, sister of the builder.

CZAR'S DEEP REGRET

Russian Emperor Deplores North Sea Incident.

BRITISH FLEET LEAVE VENICE.

Diplomatic Delays Blamed For Non-arrival of Russia's Official Apology—Admiralty Issued Orders to Three Fleets.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Emperor Nicholas has telegraphed to King Edward expressing his deep regret at what occurred in the North sea Saturday and his sympathy with the families of the killed and wounded fishermen.

The trawler Gull has arrived at Hull with three of her crew who were badly wounded in the attack which the Russian warships made on the North sea fishing fleet.

The British Mediterranean fleet will leave Venice this morning. Its destination has not been disclosed.

In the note dispatched to St. Petersburg the British government put forward certain definite demands in language which it is understood leaves little opening for any suggestion of a compromise. These comprise apologies for the action of the Russian squadron in firing on the British fishing fleet in the North sea, full compensation for the sufferers and punishment for the offenders, whoever they may be.

LORD LANSDOWNE.
[British foreign secretary.]

That King Edward correctly interpreted the feeling of the nation in publicly stigmatizing the affair as "unwarrantable" was evidenced by the reception given him when he started for the race meeting at Newmarket. A big crowd awaited his majesty both at Buckingham palace and at the railroad station, and the heartiness of the cheering and the vigorous waving of hats and handkerchiefs from the enthusiasts made up a remarkable demonstration and afforded the king evident pleasure.

In view of the demonstrations against the Russian ambassador special precautions have been adopted by the police to guard him against any unpleasantness, but they have proved unnecessary.

The inevitable delays of diplomatic procedure appear to retard a complete and satisfactory settlement of the acute differences between Great Britain and Russia arising from the deplorable North sea affair. The cablegram of Emperor Nicholas expresses the deepest regret and a practical acknowledgment that Great Britain's peremptory note will meet with a reply conceding every demand for apology for the act of aggression against the British flag, compensation for sufferers and punishment of the officers responsible for what is everywhere conceded to have been a gigantic blunder.

The Russian ambassador has expressed to Foreign Minister Lansdowne his sorrow and sympathy. These developments have allayed to some extent the deep resentment in the public mind. The admiralty gave evidence of its appreciation of the necessity of proving that it is prepared actively to support the position of the people of Great Britain and fulfill the expectations of the world when it issued the following statement:

"On receipt on Oct. 24 of the news of the North sea tragedy preliminary orders for mutual support and co-operation were issued as a measure of precaution from the admiralty to the channel, Mediterranean and home fleets."

Lord Selborne at the Pilgrim's banquet last night denounced the Dogger bank affair in the most outspoken terms yet heard from a member of the cabinet as an "inexcusable outrage" and "a terrible blunder, which would be impossible in either the British or American navy." Colonial Secretary Lyttleton, too, in another place spoke in plain terms, saying that it was impossible to view the affair as other than the result of murderous intention or wicked negligence.

The report of the admiral of the fishing fleet, dated from "the North sea," is said to have a picturesque touch, a plain sailor's yarn of the occurrence. It was handed to Foreign Minister Lansdowne last night.

A midnight dispatch from St. Petersburg says that Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's reasons for firing into the British fishing fleet remain as great a mystery as ever. The admiralty announces that the admiral's report of the affair has not yet been received. If the important allegation in the note sent to Russia is established—namely, that the squadron actually changed formation before opening fire—it would seem to fix the responsibility upon Rojestvensky, and, whoever the author of the offense may be, it is regarded as certain that Great Britain will demand, among other things, his punishment. It is also considered certain that failure to promptly comply with the demands will be immediately followed by Ambassador Hardinge's recall.

Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 26, 1904.

The editor of a French paper declares the American handshake should be given up as it is meaningless and useless. If he comes over here the politicians will soon separate him from that idea.

Mr. Cleveland has promised to deliver another campaign speech in New York. Where is the New Jersey State Committee? No man would be more helpful to the Democratic party in New Jersey than the Sage of Princeton.

The Trenton State Gazette lets the public in on a secret about "a large amount of money" given former United States Senator Smith to carry New Jersey for Parker, declaring editorially that "It is said that the money was contributed by the Standard Oil Company which is determined to defeat Roosevelt if it lies in the power of dollars to do it." The Standard Oil Company has issued a denial of Lawson's story that the gigantic concern has any preference for the Presidency and states that not one penny has been contributed to help defeat Roosevelt. The campaign liars "do beat all."

SEEN AND HEARD IN PLAINFIELD'S INDUSTRIAL PLANTS.

Friends who have heard from Harry Morrison, formerly of this city, but now of London, state that he is meeting with considerable success as the English representative of the Campbell Press Works. Mr. Morrison is the son of T. W. Morrison, formerly proprietor of The Evening News. His brother, George Morrison, is associated with him in business.

PERSONAL.

Wallace Cortell, of Trenton, is spending a few days in town with friends.

Miss LaForge, of New Brunswick, has been visiting relatives here for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs D. O. Tiffany, of New York, who have been visiting relatives here, have returned.

Mrs. H. B. Ayers, of Pittsburg, Pa., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Randolph, of Park avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Marshall, of Grant avenue, returned yesterday after a two weeks' stay at the St. Louis Exposition.

Miss Virginia Coats, of Richmond, Va., and Mrs. Elizabeth Ringgold, of Scranton, Pa., trained nurses, are now residents of this city.

Miss Grace Bonny, of the borough, has gone to Rochester, N. Y., where her brother, Fred Bonny, is in business. He recently underwent an operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. Eden Boice, of Central avenue, observed the seventy-eighth anniversary of her birthday Monday and in honor of the event she entertained a number of friends and relatives.

Rev. I. L. Cottrell and bride, of Leonardsville, N. Y., are guests of Mr. Cottrell's sister, Mrs. J. P. Mosher, of West Fifth street. They were married last week at Walworth, Wis., the home of the bride, who was a Miss Phillips.

From a Distinct View.

Judge Parker is deserving of some sympathy when he runs up against such men as James Martine, of Union County. Martine visited the Judge the other day and told him, confidentially, that he would receive a plurality of 17,000 in New Jersey, over Roosevelt.—Trenton State Gazette.

—White Label sugar sifted peas are a delicacy not to be passed over lightly. Neuman Brothers sell them. They make a special price for dozen lots.

—J. P. Gibson, of 1008 Putnam avenue, was happily surprised by a host of friends at his home on Monday night. The time was spent in listening to vocal and instrumental music and at a late hour supper was served.

MANY MINISTERS AT REV. DR. PHELPS' FUNERAL

CHARACTER AND ABILITY OF PLAINFIELDER DYING IN BOSTON.

The funeral services in memory of Rev. Dr. A. A. Phelps were held in Boston Friday last in the church of his choice. The service was a most impressive one, ten clergymen, all of whom were friends and co-workers of many years, participated. These gave personal reminiscence and expression of highest esteem and appreciation of his character and work, as writer, preacher, lecturer and teacher. Principal of the Boston Bible School preparing young men and women for the ministry and missionary work—this was the crowning work of his life, his efforts bringing great success to the school and being highly appreciated. His death was very sudden, his love for his work and the energy that had characterized his life kept him at his work till two days before his death. One of his last efforts was the completion of a book which had recently gone to press. His wife and daughters were with him.

He was a man of rare mental ability and high attainments, having secured a college education through his own efforts, being left a motherless boy, the main support of younger sisters. He was a kind friend and assisted many struggling young persons in their efforts to secure an education. A number of his students expressed themselves as having lost a father. His tastes were simple—despising all outward pomp and show. To this end he requested his family not to wear mourning and everything has been done in an unostentatious way. The final service was held in Plainfield on Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m., Rev. Dr. Whitney officiated, the family and personal friends only being present.

Miss Jennie Anderson, of Somerville, has been the guest of Plainfield friends for several days.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

A valuable horse belonging to Joseph Kelley, of Madison avenue, died on Monday night, after being ill with the colic for a few hours. A whole side of the barn was kicked out in the animal's death struggles.

Burglars attempted to enter the residence of A. A. Lake, of Dunellen avenue, on Sunday evening, and although shot at several times they escaped through the borough park across the street.

John Laird, a former resident of Lincoln, N. J., has taken possession of the G. W. Larkin house on New Market road, which was recently vacated by A. L. Mundy.

"Shorty" Alberts will leave Saturday for Harrisburg, Pa., where he will cast his vote for President Roosevelt and spend the rest of the time hunting.

Louis Block has resigned his position as conductor on the P. S. C. trolley line and will open a butcher shop on North avenue, Plainfield, in a few days.

Some of the young women about the town have organized a club which meets at the home of Miss Susan Lowrie once a week.

Football practice was to have been held last evening but as some of the players were absent it was postponed until a later date.

A large gang of men was laid off yesterday at the Levering & Garrigues iron works on account of slack of work.

Judge E. W. Hicks, of New Brunswick, will address the Republicans in their rooms tomorrow night.

The Republicans met in their rooms last evening and enjoyed themselves by singing campaign songs.

Miss Nellie Messler, of Delawana, N. J., has been spending a few days with Barney Siriski.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Commissioners of Appeal met in the town rooms yesterday afternoon. Several protests were made by residents who thought Assessor French has been wrong in his valuations of their property.

Edward L. Hand is making a number of improvements about the interior of his hotel. The rooms are being newly painted and papered, making a decided improvement about the place.

The teachers of the public school attended the Union County Teachers' Association meeting held yesterday afternoon at the Moral Street School, Elizabeth.

Miss Nancy Wade, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abram Wade, has returned to her home at Milburn.

The Northeastern Telephone Company-Glaser Guards case is to be rehearsed again this afternoon in Judge Clark's court.

A good-sized delegation of local Republican voters attended the party rally held last night at Reform Hall, Plainfield.

Prof. O'Reilly's Tuesday night dancing class receptions are proving quite popular with the young people in town.

Some of the local Baptists are attending the State Baptist convention held yesterday and today at Trenton.

John Alberts is out with a new rubber-tired coupe to meet the increasing demands of his business.

Fanwood Council, R. A., held its semi-monthly meeting last night in the Library rooms.

Thomas Farrell, of Garwood, who has been visiting friends in town, has returned home.

Clifford Smith spent Tuesday with friends in New York.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Teachers' Institute of this county will be held at the Livingston Avenue High School building, in New Brunswick, on November 5. Distinguished instructors have been engaged. The hours are 9 a. m. and 2 p. m.

The Holly farm on Park avenue was sold recently to the Provident Building and Loan Association, of Newark, for $10,000.

Rev. J. A. Cubberley attended the Baptist State convention at Trenton, Monday and yesterday, returning home last night.

Mrs. William H. Manning visited her sister, Mrs. Wykoff, who is ill, yesterday.

DOINGS OF THE LOCAL FRATERNAL ORDERS.

Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M., will institute a new chapter at Perth Amboy tonight. Grand King, Dr. D. O. Adams, and about fifteen members of the local chapter will make the trip in automobiles.

Largely attended by local members, the meeting of Eureka Chapter, Eastern Stars, at Elizabethport, Monday, was a decided success. The affair was in the nature of an entertainment and social, a banquet and dance being features of the evening.

An entertainment arranged by Mrs. Andrew Cox was given under the auspices of Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, U. O. of I. O. L., in its rooms Monday evening. The programme included readings by Mrs. W. B. Grannatt, recitations by John Manley and Mrs. Cox, instrumental and vocal selections by the Misses Madeline and Lydia Edgar and Alfred Stokey.

The members of the Royal Arcanum in this State are working to increase the membership to 25,000 before March 31, 1905. To do this it will be necessary to make a net gain of 1,996. There are many who believe that this cannot be accomplished, but all are working with the hope of success. The records of the order show that in years gone by large gains have been made from October 1 to April 1, but it has been figured that these performances must be bettered by 100 per cent. if the present effort is to succeed. Grand Regent James M. Washburne has asked for a net gain of 1,000 members between now and January 1, 1905, and 1,000 between that date and April 1. The figures for the State for September are as follows: Admitted by initiation, 241; admitted by card, 33; reinstated, 1, withdrawn to join other councils, 15; withdrawn by final card, 2; suspended, 33; died, 12; net gain, 212.

IN THE CHRISTIAN FIELD

WORK IN THE CHURCHES OF THE CITY AND BOROUGH.

"Thirty Years of Freedom," a Southern drama in four acts, will be given in Reform Hall tomorrow night for the benefit of the A. M. E. church. The affair is in charge of the pastor of the church, Rev. H. C. Ashley.

The Official Board of Grace Methodist Episcopal church extends to all aged persons in the community a cordial invitation to attend the celebration of Old Folks' Day which will be held at the church on Sunday, October 31, at 10:30 o'clock. The occasion will be an especially interesting one to elderly people. The pastor, Rev. R. E. Diffendorfer, is in charge of the affair, and has arranged an attractive programme. Those in charge desire that as many as possible attend. In order that the attendance may be as large as possible it has been provided that those who cannot otherwise attend, will be conveyed to the church in carriages. Such requests may be made to Jacob Voehl, of Somerset street, and should be in before noon Saturday.

Nash, Jr., to Take the Stump.

Inaugurating a whirlwind tour in Somerset County in behalf of the Republican candidates, Attorney V. W. Nash, Jr., of this city, will address a political meeting at Mount Horeb Friday night. He is also to speak at Pluckamin, Martinsville and other hamlets. This will be his maiden attempt at expounding campaign issues.

AMUSEMENTS.

Critics generally in the New York press refer in laudatory terms to Henry Miller's production of "Joseph Entangled" which is the attraction at the Garrick. It's a comedy that captivates the theatregoer and Mr. Miller is given a splendid reception by the big audiences which are attracted by his appearance at the Thirty-fifth street house. The famous star is at his best in this piece and his support is excellent. Evenings at 8:15. Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

Thomas E. Shea, who is this year one of the most prominent stars under the management of Nixon & Zimmerman is filling his annual engagement at the Grand Opera House, where he presents "The Bells," "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," "Cardinal Richelieu." Mr. Shea's success with these ambitious pieces has been of slow growth, but is built on a solid foundation. He approached as a student, feeling his way, and particularly in the characterization of Mathias, in "The Bells," and the Cardinal in "Cardinal Richelieu" he gave particular heed to the traditions left by his great predecessors. He did not accept these all blindly, however, but studied for himself, consulted authorities, and built up carefully these characters so that he can convey the impression of living them. In Robert Louis Stevenson's mysterious play "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," temperament has more to do with a correct impersonation than anything else, and here Mr. Shea is not found lacking.

Father Clifford to Speak.

A lecture will be given by Father Clifford, of Englewood, at the Casino, on Thanksgiving eve. The subject will be "The Emancipation of Ireland."

WASHINGTON LETTER

INTERESTING GOSSIP FROM THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

WHO WILL SUCCEED HOAR?

Attorney General Moody Talked Of for the Vacant Senate Seat—President Roosevelt on the Streets —Other Timely Chatter.

Washington.—The death of Senator Hoar of Massachusetts may mean another political honor for Attorney General William H. Moody. It is not unlikely that this brilliant statesman will be elected to the senate from Massachusetts and it is certain that he will be if the legislature of that state regards the wishes of her great statesman who has just passed away. A few months before his death Mr. Hoar expressed the wish that, when the time came, his young friend, Mr. Moody, should succeed him in the senate.

Attorney General Moody.

Mr. Moody has had a brilliant career, which he has filled with ability and his honors were won by his own energy and capacity. He is a man after the president's own heart and possesses many of the characteristics of Mr. Roosevelt. The two men are not unlike in personal appearance, although Mr. Moody is probably an inch shorter in stature than the president. He is of the same sanguine complexion, brown, sandy mustach, crisp, brown hair and nervous, energetic movements. When he was in congress and Mr. Roosevelt was assistant secretary of the navy they were close companions and the policies which Mr. Roosevelt put into effect in the navy department were often originated on friendly strolls, which the two frequently took together.

Mr. Moody first came into national notice as prosecuting attorney in the celebrated Borden murder case at Fall River. Soon after he came to congress and it was David B. Hill, the senator from New York, who prophesied a brilliant future for the young man. He declared that "there was a red-headed young man in the house from Massachusetts from whom the country would hear in the next few years." His prediction was fulfilled, as Moody forged to the front in the house, then became secretary of the navy, followed Knox as attorney general and is now likely to don the senatorial toga.

The President Walks.

The cool, crisp autumn air is very tempting to President Roosevelt these days and he is indulging in his favorite exercise of walking. The people of Washington have become so familiar with his appearance on the street that he attracts comparatively little attention from them. It is an interesting sight, however, for the stranger in the city to see the president of the United States taking his exercise or hurrying from church or a visit to some of his friends. He looks like a man walking for a wager, but there is no mistaking the identity of that athletic figure, eyeglasses and glowing face.

Taking a Daily Constitutional.

The other Sunday Mr. Roosevelt was walking rapidly home from church and as he crossed Lafayette square and swung into the white house grounds a stranger, evidently a country man, gazed at him in open-mouthed wonder. The visitor, poking his face between the iron railings of the fence that surrounds the white house grounds, shouted with lusty tones: "Well, Teddy, if you can run as well as you can walk, Parker will not be in it for a minute." The president turned around with a broad smile on his face, bowed his acknowledgment and continued up the walk to the mansion, his shoulders shaking with merriment at the remark.

It delights the president to test the endurance of the secret service men who are ordered to follow him when he goes out for a walk and they have to frequently break into a dogtrot to keep within their distance of the chief executive. It was a long time before Mr. Roosevelt could accustom himself to the guardianship of these secret police and he only yielded to it at the earnest solicitation of his wife and friends.

Corbin and Cupid.

Gen. Corbin's lecture to young army officers and advice not to get married while they are only receiving lieutenants' salaries is not likely to have very much effect. The general was honest in his suggestions, which are the result of his own experiences. He got married immediately at the close of the civil war when he had the rank of brevet brigadier general. He was able to wear the uniform of that rank at his wedding, but immediately afterward he came down to the rank of lieutenant in the regular army and had to struggle along on the salary of that position. He was assigned to western posts, but even there the cost of living and keeping up the style that is expected of an army officer, left him little or nothing out of his income. It was a hard struggle and taught him that the fullest discharge of an officer's duty is sometimes interferred with by the worry of domestic expenses.

Cupid Out in the Cold.

Of late years, however, the young officers in the army have been more fortunate than some of the older ones in the matter of marriage. Army and navy officers in Washington, even of the lowest rank, are little heroes among the female sex and girls of wealth seem very glad to contract marriages with them. The wife's income comes in very handy in sustaining the establishment and style which society expects of these officers. This fact has created serious objection to the suggestion of Gen. Corbin that the consent of the war department be secured by young lieutenants before they enter into the marriage relation. They resent the idea of being called upon to give their financial standing, which would include an estimate of their financees' marriage "dot."

There are very few of Gen. Corbin's old comrades who endorse his ideas, as it is claimed that a young man possessing the integrity and moral standing required of young officers will be able, by reasonable economy and management, to live on the salary allowances even of a second lieutenant.

Compared Postal Systems.

First Assistant Postmaster General Wynne, who has just returned from a European trip, is more than ever impressed with the efficiency of the United States postal system. While abroad he took occasion to investigate the postal service of some of the leading foreign countries and in every feature of the service he discovered that the old governments of Europe were behind the up-to-date methods of the United States.

Looking for a Pretty Girl.

In his travels Mr. Wynne made some interesting observations of the people and customs abroad. He was particularly interested in studying the men and women of the country. In Paris he declares that the women and men are groomed to the limit of perfection, but thinks the matter of personal pulchritude is a little bit overdone. He declares there is too much paint on one sex and too much wax on the mustaches of the other. In Ireland he looked diligently for the typical, beautiful Irish girl, but did not find her. As a result of his observations he says:

"I have seen some beautiful types of the Irish girl in this country, but if there were any in Ireland I missed them; they must have all come to America. The Emerald Isle is a beautiful country and intensely interesting but a visitor is liable to be disillusioned as to the romantic character and beauty of the people They are hospitable, industrious and a good race, but my observation is that we have the best types of the Irish right in America, where they have added greatly to our citizenship."

A Scientific Experiment.

An experiment is now in progress in the Washington monument, which is being watched with great interest by scientists and the result of which may be of great use to civil engineers and geologists. Dr. George R. Becker, of the geological survey, is in charge of these experiments, which have for their purpose the determination of the true laws of gravity and elasticity. Pipes have been constructed which run all the way up the interior walls of the monument, extending to within a few feet of the tower floor. In these pipes wires will be extended with weights attached to the ends and scientists will carefully measure the stretch of the wire produced by the gravity of the earth. This will be done by an instrument called the cathetometer.

The Professors Get Busy.

It will require some very accurate figuring, but it is expected that the results will be of much importance and value. The most extensive test of this kind ever conducted before were with 73-foot wires. Dr. Becker's experiments will measure the infinitesimal degrees of strain on a wire over 500 feet long. When the results are computed bridge builders and construction engineers will have a more accurate idea of the ratio of strain in the materials which they use. At present, in the building of bridges, the laws of elasticity cannot be definitely reckoned with. So far as the geologists and their knowledge of the earth's compressibility is concerned they are still worse off from a scientific standpoint. The tests now being made, it is hoped, will in a great measure relieve these conditions.

'Twas Easily Done.

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors
BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.
BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.
LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW
BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.
LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT
BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.
BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

THE CHANGING MODES.

Some of the New Materials to Be Seen In the Shops.

The silhouettes of the gowns for the coming season, with the exception of a few changes in details, will be the same as they were in the summer. Skirts will be full, broad and rich in folds, the hip line being thereby considerably broadened.

With reference to the length of skirts, those for promenading and visiting will just touch the ground, and some few perhaps will train the least little bit.

Among the fashionable wool materials for winter, cashmere bids fair to regain its old prestige. The new variety is deliciously fine and soft and comes in all the desirable shades of the season.

Ribbed stuffs are something new, and these novelties come in all varieties, sometimes very coarse ribbed and again fine ribbed. Coarse threaded

COSTUME OF BLUE GRAY CLOTH.

English gentlemen's cloths with a dash of yellow, red and green are favorite fabrics for the walking gown.

Extremely attractive is the pictured costume of blue gray face cloth. The skirt is gracefully laid in wide plaits. On every other fold is a button trimming made of molds covered with velvet a shade darker than the cloth. The bottom of the skirt is stitched in a deep band. About the waist are stitched tabs of cloth and buttons. The slightly bloused waist has a novel stitched trimming of the Greek key pattern. The new gigot sleeves are intersected by a puff finished with a wide stitched band. The lower sleeve buttons to the elbow. A jabot and collar of lace trimmed mull complete this costume.

WAIST TRIMMINGS.

Many Pretty Trifles That May Be Made Easily at Home.

Band laces and embroideries are extensively used for waist trimmings, the short boleros, double sleeves and broad collars affording splendid opportunities for elaborate display. Many of the lace bands are made of flowers and figures that may be separated and used as motifs when desired.

The woman who is deft with her needle can copy expensive French laces by putting around the design of a good piece of lace crystal or cut steel beads and inserting metal threads where they will show when a brilliant light strikes them. The cost is slight, but considerable labor is involved.

Some of the new lace handkerchiefs are the daintiest things imaginable

and not only have lace edges, but are partly covered with small motifs of butterflies, fleurs-de-lis and roses, following the design in the outer edges. The batiste is cut away, and the handkerchief looks as if it was entirely made of lace. These pretty trifles are absolutely useless as handkerchiefs, but are dainty little accessories and make the nicest kind of Christmas presents.

The dressy little waist pictured is of pale green silk. The tucked fullness forming a yoke is arranged in corresponding tucks for several inches just above the waist line. Outlining the vest and collar of lace are fitted straps of stitched silk. The sleeves of the new puffed variety are plaited a little above the elbow and flare out in a ruffle over the very full falls of lace.

CHAPTER XXX.

THE EMBASSY.

"Monsieur! Madame! Pierre Noir! Listen to me! I have saved you! I, Jean Breboeuf, I have rescued you!"

So spoke Jean Breboeuf, thrusting his head within the door of the lodge in which were the remaining prisoners of the Iroquois.

It was indeed Jean Breboeuf who, strolling beyond the outer edge of the village, had been among the first to espy an approaching party of visitors. Of any travelers possible, none could have been more important to the prisoners. Too late, yet welcome even now, the embassy from New France among the Iroquois had arrived. In an instant the village was in an uproar.

The leader of this embassy from Quebec was one Capt. Joncaire, at that time of the French settlements, but in former years a prisoner among the Onondagos, where he was adopted into the tribe and much respected. Joncaire was accompanied by a priest of the Jesuit brotherhood, by a young officer late of the regiment Carignan, and by two or three petty Canadian officials, as well as a struggling retinue of savages picked up on the way between Lake George and the Indian villages. He advanced now at the head of his little party, bearing in his hand a wampum belt. He pushed aside the young men, and demanded that he be brought to the chief of the village. Teganisoris himself presently advanced to meet him, and of him Joncaire demanded that there should at once be called a full council of the tribe; with which request the chief of the Onondagos hastened to comply.

Fully accustomed to such ceremonies, Joncaire sat in the council calmly listening to the speeches of its orators, and at length arose for his own reply. "Brothers," said he, "I have here"—and he drew from his tunic a copy of the decree of Louis XIV. declaring peace between the French and the English colonies—"a talking paper. This is the will of Onontio, whom you love and fear, and it is the will of the great father across the water, whom Onontio loves and fears. This talking paper says that our young men of the French colonies are no longer to go to war against Coriaer. The hatchet has been buried by the two great fathers. Brothers, I have come to tell you that it is time for the Iroquois also to bury the hatchet, and to place upon it heavy stones, so that it never again can be dug up.

"Brothers, as you know, the great canoes from across the sea are bringing more and more white men. Look about you, and tell me where are your fathers and your brothers and your sons? Half your fighting men are gone; and if you turn to the west to seek out strong young men from the other tribes, which of them will come to sit by your fires and be your brothers? The war trails of the nations have gone to the west as far as the Great river. All the country has been at war. The friends of Onontio beyond Michilimackinac have been so busy fighting that they have forgotten to take the beaver, or if they have taken it, they have been afraid to bring it down the water trail to us, lest the Iroquois or the English should rob them.

"Brothers, a great peace is now declared. Onontio, the father of all the red men, has taken the promises of his children, the Hurons, the Algonquins, the Miamis, the Illini, the Outagamies, the Ojibways, all those peoples who live to the west, that they will follow the war trail no more. Next summer there will be a great council. Onontio and Coriaer have agreed to call the tribes to meet at the Mountain in the St. Lawrence. Onontio says to you that he will give you back your prisoners, and now he demands that you in return give back those whom you may have with you. This is his will; and if you fail him, you know how heavy is his hand.

"Brothers, I see that you have prisoners here, white prisoners. These must be given up to us. I will take them with me when I return. For your Indian captives, it is the will of Onontio that you bring them all to the Great Peace in the summer, and that you then, all of you, help to dig the great hill under which the hatchet is going to be buried. Then once more our rivers will not be red, and will look more like water. The sun will not shine red, but will look as the sun should look. The sky will again be blue. Our women and our children will no longer be afraid, and you Iroquois can go to sleep in your houses and not dread the arms of the French. Brothers, I have spoken. Peace is good."

Teganisoris replied in the same strain as that chosen by Joncaire, assuring him that he was his brother; that his heart went out to him; that the Iroquois loved the French; and that if they had gone to war with them, it was but because the young men of Coriaer had closed their eyes so that they could not see the truth. "As to these prisoners," said he, "take them with you. We do not want them with us, for we fear they may bring us harm. Our medicine man counseled us to offer up one of these prisoners as a sacrifice to the Great Spirit. We did so. Now our medicine man has a bad dream. He says that the white men are going to come and tear down our houses and trample our fields. When the time comes for the peace, the Iroquois will be at the Mountain. Brother, we will bury the hatchet, and bury it so deep that henceforth none may ever again dig it up."

"It is well," said Joncaire, abruptly. "My brothers are wise. Now let the council end, for my path is long and I must travel back to Onontio at once."

Joncaire knew well enough the fickle nature of these savages, who might the morrow demand another council and perhaps arrive at different conclusions. Hearing there were no white prisoners in the villages farther to the west, he resolved to set forth at once upon the return with those now at hand. Hurrying, therefore, as soon as might be, to their leader, he urged him to make ready forthwith for the journey back to the St. Lawrence.

"Unless I much mistake, monsieur," said he to Law, "you are that same gentleman who so set all Quebec by the ears last winter. My faith! The regiment Carignan had cause to rejoice when you left for up river, even though you took with you half the ready coin of the settlement. Yet come you once more to meet the gentlemen of France, and I doubt not they will be glad as ever to stake you high as may be in this poverty-stricken region. You have been far to the westward, I doubt not. You were, perhaps, made prisoner somewhere below the straits."

"Far below; among the tribe of the Illini, in the valley of the Messasebe."

"You tell me so! I had thought no white man left in that valley for this season. And madame—this child—surely 'twas the first white infant born in the great valley."

"And the most unfortunate."

"Nay, how can you say that, since you have come more than half a thousand miles and are all safe and sound to-day? Glad enough we shall be to have you and madame with us for the winter, if, indeed, it be not for longer dwelling. I cannot take you now to the English settlements, since I must back to the governor with the news. Yet dull enough you would find these Dutch of the Hudson, and worse yet the blue-nosed psalmodists of New England. Much better for you and your good lady are the gayer capitals of New France, or la belle France itself, that older France. Monsieur, how infinitely more fit for a gentleman of spirit is France than your dull England and its Dutch king! Either New France or Old France, let me advise you; and as to that new west, let me counsel that you wait until after the big peace. And, in speaking, your friend, Du Mesne, your lieutenant, the coureur—his fate, I suppose, one need not ask. He was killed—where?"

Law recounted the division of his party just previous to the Iroquois attack, and added his concern lest Du Mesne should return to the former station during the spring and find but its ruins, with no news of the fate of his friends.

"Oh, as to that—'twould be but the old story of the voyageurs," said Joncaire. "They are used enough to journeying a thousand miles or so, to find the trail end in a heap of ashes, and to the tune of a scalp dance. Fear not for your lieutenant, for, believe me, he has fended for himself if there has been need. Yet I would warrant you, now that this word for the peace has gone out, we shall see your friend Du Mesne as big as life at the Mountain next summer, knowing as much of your history as you yourself do, and quite counting upon meeting you with us on the St. Lawrence, and madame as well. As to that, methinks madame will be better with us on the St. Lawrence than on the savage Messasebe. We have none too many dames among us, and I need not state, what monsieur's eyes have told him every morning—that a fairer never set foot from ship from over seas. Witness my lieutenant yonder, Raoul de Ligny! He is thus soon all devotion! Mother of God! but we are well met here, in this wilderness, among the savages. Voila, monsieur! We take you again captive, and 'tis madame enslaves us all!"

There had indeed ensued conversation between the young French officer above named and Mary Connynge; yet prompt as might have been the former with gallant attentions to so fair a captive, it could not have been said that he was allowed the first advances. Mary Connynge, even after a month of starving foot travel and another month of anxiety at the Iroquois villages, had lost neither her rounded body, her brilliance of eye and color, nor her subtle magnetism of personality. It had taken stronger head than that of Raoul de Ligny to withstand even her slight request. How, then, as to Mary Connynge supplicating, entreating, craving of him protection?

"Ah, you brave Frenchmen," said she to De Ligny, advancing to him as he stood apart, twisting his mustaches and not unmindful of this very possibility of a conversation with the captive. "You brave Frenchmen, how can we thank you for our salvation? It was all so horrible!"

"It is our duty to save all, madame," rejoined De Ligny; "our happiness unspeakable to save such as madame. I swear by my sword, I had as soon expected to find an angel with the Iroquois as to meet there madame! Quebec—all Quebec has told me who madame was and is. And I am your slave."

"Oh, sir, could you but mean that!" and there was turned upon him the full power of a gaze which few men had ever been able to withstand. The blood of De Ligny tingled as he bowed and replied.

"If madame could but demand one proof."

Mary Connynge stepped closer to him. "Hush!" she said. "Speak low! Do not let it seem that we are interested. Keep your own counsel. Can you do this?"

The eyes of the young officer gleamed. He was bold enough to respond. This his temptress noted.

He nodded.

"You see that man—the tall one, John Law? Listen! It is from him I ask you to save me. Oh, sir, there is my captivity!"

"What! Your husband?"

"He is not my husband."

"Mais—a thousand pardons. The child—your pardon."

"Pish! 'Tis the child of an Indian woman."

"Oh!" The blood again came to the young gallant's forehead.

"Listen, I tell you! I have been scarce better than a prisoner in the man's hands. He has abused me, threatened me, would have beaten me—"

"Madame—Mademoiselle!"

"'Tis true. We have been far in the west, and I could not escape. Good Providence has now brought my rescue—and you, monsieur! Oh! tell me that it has brought me safety, and also a friend—that it has brought me you!"

With every pulse a-tingle, every vein afire, what could the young gallant do? What but yield, but promise, but swear, but rage?

"Hush!" said Mary Connynge, her own eyes gleaming. "Wait! The time will come. So soon as we reach the settlements, I leave him, and forever! Then—" Their hands met swiftly. "He has not spoken to me for weeks, other than words of 'Yes,' or 'No,' 'Do this,' or 'Do that!' Wait! Wait! How soon shall we be at Montreal?"

"Less than a month. 'Twill seem an age, I swear!"

"Madam," interrupted Law, "pardon, but Monsieur Joncaire bids us be ready. Come, help me arrange the packs for our journey. Perhaps Lieut. de Ligny—for so I think they name you, sir—will pardon us, and will consent to resume his conversation later."

"Assuredly," said De Ligny. "I shall wait, monsieur."

"So, madam," said Law to Mary Connynge, as they at last found themselves alone in the lodge, arranging their few belongings for transport, "we are at last to regain the settlements, and for a time, at least, must forego our home in the farther west. In time—"

"Oh, in time! What mean you?"

"Why, we may return."

"Never! I have had my fill of savaging. That we are left alive is mighty merciful. To go thither again—never!"

"And if I go?"

"As you like."

"Meaning, madam?"

"What you like."

Law seated himself on the corded pack, bringing the tips of his fingers together.

"Then my late sweetheart has somewhat changed her fancy?"

"I have no fancy left. What I was once to you I shall not recall more than I can avoid in my own mind. As to what you heard from that lying man, Sir Arthur—"

"Listen! Stop! Neither must you insult the dead nor the absent. I have never told you what I learned from Sir Arthur, though it was enough to set me well distraught."

"I doubt not that he told you 'twas I who befooled Lady Catharine; that 'twas I who took the letter which you sent—"

"Stay! No. He told me not so much as that. But he and you together have told me enough to show me that I was the basest wretch on earth, the most gullible, the most unspeakably false and cruel. How could I have doubted the faith of Lady Catharine—how, but for you? Oh, Mary Connynge, Mary Connynge! Would God a man were so fashioned he might better withstand the argument of soft flesh and shining eyes! I admit, I believed the disloyal one, and doubted her who was loyalty itself."

PRESIDENT'S PEACE PLANS.

Invitations Go to Powers For Hague Convention.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Acting Secretary of State Adee dispatched a note looking to a reconvention of The Hague conference. This is an invitation from the president of the United States to the signatory powers of the original Hague treaty to come together again for the purpose of broadening and strengthening the original convention and especially to consider means to further ameliorate the horrors of modern warfare and to conserve and extend the rights of neutral commerce on the high seas.

In addition to the signatory powers the invitation goes forward to four of the South and Central American republics, which have signified an earnest desire to adhere to The Hague treaty, which have so far been prevented from doing so by the singular omission of a general clause, usual in such treaties, allowing powers to adhere to the articles of the treaty upon their own application.

The note is directed to the American ambassadors and ministers abroad, with instructions to sound the governments to which they are accredited and to extend President Roosevelt's invitation in such terms as they see fit. While the president has in his invitation suggested The Hague as a proper meeting place for the conference, a majority of the powers must determine that as well as the date of the meeting.

AIRSHIP CROSSED MISSISSIPPI.

Baldwin's Arrow Sailed From St. Louis to Cahokia, Ill.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 26.—Propelled part of the way by its own power and the remainder of the distance by the wind, which was blowing ten miles an hour, the Arrow, owned and perfected by Thomas S. Baldwin of San Francisco, in charge of A. Roy Knabenshue of Toledo, made an unannounced flight of ten miles from the world's fair grounds over St. Louis and across the Mississippi river to Cahokia, Ill.

High in air the motor broke, but Knabenshue managed to maneuver the flying machine into the wind, and he was enabled to steer the Arrow in a course that varied several points either way from the trend of the wind and to land at a point of his own selecting.

First Electric Locomotive.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Oct. 26.—The first of a consignment of forty electric locomotives for the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad company, which have been under completion at the local works of the American Locomotive company, has been delivered to the General Electric company for finishing touches. The locomotive is for the New York terminal service and is being built by both the General Electric company and locomotive companies and is for experimental purposes, this being the first attempted.

Fire at South Royalston.

SOUTH ROYALSTON, Mass., Oct. 26.—This entire village at one time was threatened with destruction by a fire which started in the picker house of the George E. Whitney woolen mill, probably from spontaneous combustion. The mill, the Congregational church, Mechanics' hall and two dwellings were destroyed. Aid was summoned from Athol and Baldwinsville. The loss will reach $100,000.

SPORTING NEWS.

FOOTBALL.

The Alis management has not yet announced what team the Alis eleven will go up against Saturday.

The Orange Field Club football team was out for their usual practice last evening in preparation for the game with Somerville which will take place on Saturday. A good number of candidates were represented, and the practice was in every way satisfactory.

The Plainfield High School and the North Plainfield High School will meet on the gridiron this afternoon. The game will be played on Hope Common. This is the first time the two teams have met for several years, and the result is watched for with a great deal of interest. The two elevens compare very evenly in weight, and without doubt the contest will be a hard one. The P. H. S. team will line up as follows: Jones, left end; Bentley, left tackle; Freeman, left guard; Bogart, center; Srager, right guard; Jahn, right tackle; Rockwell, right end; Williams, quarter back; W. Douglass, left half; J. Douglass, right half; Taylor, full back. The following is the probable line up of the North Plainfield boys: Conover, left end; Ward, left tackle; M. Ward, left guard; Ammerman, center; Kipsey, right guard; Mueck, right tackle; Webster, right end; VanArsdale, quarter back; Mundy, right half; Hamilton, right half; Steiner, full back.

DIAMOND DUST

"Charlie" Denman, the only man in Westfield who has had success in running a ball team, and who won the pennant in the Plainfield-Westfield series, is out with an announcement that there will be a meeting of the rooters and knockers at the Westfield Club on Friday night to adopt a suitable plan for receiving this pennant.

Under the caption: "Are the Highlanders Afraid of the Skellys?" the Brooklyn Standard Union, of recent date publishes an article concerning the failure of the New York Americans to meet the Skellys in Brooklyn on Saturday, October 15, the same date that Eiberfield, Conroy, Dougherty and Keeler were to have played for the Plainfield A. C., against the New York Nationals, and did not. The Standard Union characterizes the failure of Clark Griffith to have his team in Brooklyn, as one of the rankest deals which ever came down the line in baseball history. The game was well advertised and over 10,000 fans were at the grounds waiting for admission. At the last minute Griffith telegraphed Manager Skelly that he could not get his team together and would be unable to play the game. A suit, it is understood, has been brought against the New York Americans. It will be remembered that Manager Johnston, of the Plainfield A. C., was severely criticized because the four American League players did not play here, as they promised to do. It can now be seen that the matter was one over which Manager Johnston had no control.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

Although the Y. M. C. A. bowling team was scheduled to meet the Fanwood Suburban Club last night, the game was cancelled by the Fanwood bowlers at the last minute. Though the members of the local team held a practice there was no game. Madager Koons is arranging a game for Saturday, but as yet is unable to announce with whom the match will be.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS.

QUESTIONS OF THE DAY DISCUSSED BY THE PRESS.

Don'ts Esteem Martine.

"We stand corrected. In an article some weeks ago in regard to Mr. Fowler we said he was opposed by a narrow-minded demagogue. This seems to have hurt the feelings of some of our fellow editors and we will make this amende honorable by publishing the following from the Jersey City Journal:

"'Some newspaper up in Morris County has been abusing James E. Martine and calling him a narrow-minded demagogue. Anyone who would think that of the farmer-orator wouid think anything. He is anything but narrow-minded, and while the majority will admit that he is wrong as a rule, he is so broadly and generously wrong that no one can make a mistake in diagnosing his case.'"—Morris County Chronicle.

Hard Game for Hope Five.

No basket ball game was played at the Hope chapel floor last night, though a game has been scheduled with the Westfield team. The next contest will be with the Sacred Heart Club, of Elizabeth, on Friday night. This team defeated the Edward Clark Club by the score of 46 to 1, while the local team won by the score of 22 to 9. This looks rather dubious for the Hope team, and they will have a hard game on their hands.

Death From Bronchitis.

Samuel Roy Lee, aged five years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lee, of 1121 West Third street, died yesterday after a brief illness with bronchitis. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon from the residence of the parents at 2 o'clock. Rev. George Mooney, of Monroe Avenue church, will officiate and the interment will be in the Methodist cemetery.

—The semi-annual meeting of the New Jersey Homeopathic Medical Society was begun at Lakewood yesterday at noon in the Palmer House.

—Announcement is made that the paint-wall-paper and contracting business owned and carried on by J. M. Cahart, at 201 Park avenue, will be closed out by November 1. The entire stock will be sold as a whole at half its real value, providing application is made early enough. The O. A. Woolsey Paint and Color Company is in charge of the sale.

MAYOR SMITH NOW OWNS AUTO GARAGE COMPANY

TRANSFER OF BUSINESS MADE AND MAYOR PLANS IMPROVEMENTS.

Disposing of their entire interest in the Plainfield Auto Garage, the original owners and directors, Andrew Wilson, Joseph and Elizabeth Loughead, sold out yesterday to William B. Smith and Margaret Smith, of New Market, heirs of the Fair estate.

With the sale of the concern, all the old stock, including automobiles, repairing outfits, and the Rushmore searchlight business, was transferred, and new stockholders and directors took possession yesterday afternoon. Justice VanMinden represented the purchasers, and Fred Huff represented the Auto Garage.

Mr. Smith stated shortly after the deal was concluded that he intended to enlarge the business, though no changes will be made in the plant for the present. He will deal in all kinds of machines, both for sale and for renting, and will conduct the repairing shop as formerly. In time it is the intention of the purchaser to make the auto plant more extensive, but such changes will not occur within the next few months. For the time being the location of the company will remain on West Second street.

PROJECTOSCOPE PICTURES.

Pleasing Church Entertainment Last Night.

Marked by a large and enthusiastic attendance, the entertainment at the Park Avenue Baptist church last night was one of the most successful which has ever been given under the auspices of the Sunday-school. Though there was no local talent in connection with the programme, the affair was none the less appreciated by those who had the good fortune to attend.

D. W. Robertson's original Edison projectoscope was the main attraction, the pictures being unusually well selected. The programme of illustrated songs, sung by Herbert Forester, was well rendered and was thoroughly enjoyed. Mr. Forester sung popular airs, while the pictures, illustrating the songs, were thrown on the screen. In addition to this part of the entertainment, William Braum, New York humorist, kept the audience in good spirits for half an hour.

Showered Bride-Elect With Linen.

About fifty friends of Miss Ella Titsworth gave her a surprise linen shower at her home on Madison avenue, last night. The gifts consisted chiefly of table linen, and Miss Titsworth was very appreciative of the thoughtfulness of her friends. The linen was delivered at the home by a messenger and the guests arranged to be there just as Miss Titsworth received it. She was then requested to open the large package in their presence. After the surprise the evening was spent in a social manner and a musical programme was rendered on the Pianola.

Clinical Society Favors Registry.

Miss Olive Clery, who is about to start a nurses' registry in the Babcock building, has received the endorsement of the Plainfield Clinical Society and the members will do all in their power to make it a success. There are thirty-five trained nurses in this city who are almost sure to register at this directory, while it is believed that the fifteen experienced or practical nurses in the city, will do likewise. Miss Clery expects to lease four or five rooms in the Babcock building and nurses who desire to make their home there can do so.

Talk on Russia.

In view of the recent interest in Russia regarding her war with Japan and her recent actions which have called forth protestations from England, a lecture to be delivered at Warren chapel tomorrow night on the subject of "The Religious Aspect of Russia," by A. V. D. Honeyman, should attract a large audience. Mr. Honeyman has travelled in Russia and is thoroughly versed on the country, its customs and conditions.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. M. Judson, of John street, are the parents of a litiie girl who arrived this morning.

POLITICAL CHAT.

Ira W. Wood, candidate for Congress on the Republican ticket, in the Fourth district, spoke at Pespack and Gladstone, in Somerset County, last night.

Freeholder Wm. Westphal, who is in charge of Republican headquarters, reports that the callers there are steadily increasing and that the interest in election is more pronounced than ever. The rooms are open throughout the day as well as evening and piano music is furnished every night. Campaign literature is always to be had for the asking.

Hon. E. C. Stokes, Republican candidate for Governor.

Under the leadership of John I Blair Reily, the Republicans of Warren County are making an exceedingly active political campaign. Following one of the most enthusiastic meetings ever known at Phillipsburg, at which Edward C. Stokes, the Republican candidate for Governor, was the speaker, Monday night, another equally enthusiastic and as largely attended meeting was held in Belvidere last night at which Congressman Charles N. Fowler received one of the heartiest greetings that he has known in this campaign.

Former Congressman DeWitt Clinton Fanagan, a Democrat, has issued a circular "to the voters of New Jersey," under date of Morristown, October 21, in which he makes an attack on President Roosevelt and his administration. He refers to the President as the "man on horseback," and calls him unsafe, egotistical, and erratic. He attacks the administration's policy with relation to the Panama Canal and the relations with the Republic of Colombia. He concludes by holding up Parker as a "safe and sane" contrast to Roosevelt.

Ex-President Cleveland's speech in New York on Friday night was excellent and will strengthen Democratic faith and shake the views of some who have followed the Republican party blindly. His attack upon the arrogance of the Republican party stirred a sympathetic chord in thousands who have grown very weary of claims which cover every blessing of Providence and have ascribed to partisanship each manifestation of public virtue. The reception given to Mr. Cleveland was amazingly enthusiastic, even for one who is now regarded as the first citizen of the country. It must have profoundly touched him, used as he is to the plaudits of the people.—Newark Call.

Martine's Whirlwind Tour.

James E. Martine, Democratic Congressional candidate, is touring through the district on an automobile. Monday he spoke at Morristown and Madison. He addressed audiences at Asbury last night, and today speaks at Alpha, Stewartsville, New Village, Broadway, Washington, Anderson, Port Murray, Beattystern, Hackettstown, Dansville, Oxford, Belvidere and Phillipsburg.

Just a Family Affair.

Without a formal charge being preferred, Recorder Dood summoned Patrick McClyment, of Duer street, before him, last evening, and had him explain various charges preferred against him by his sisters, with whom he resides. The difficulty proved to be a family quarrel and in the end both sides agreed to a plan suggested by the recorder to avoid trouble in the future.

Enlarging His Plant.

F. L. C. Martin has leased from Boice, Runyon & Co., the store adjoining his on Park avenue, and occupied by VanZandt & Voorhees, and will use the store in connection with his present place for his automobile business. He has a five-year lease, with a privilege of five more at the end of that time.

CONFERENCE PROGRAMME

Y. M. C. A. Boys of New Jersey Assemble Tomorrow.

BIG REPRESENTATION

Harold H. Robin to Make Address of Welcome—Features of the Sessions.

The annual conference of the boys' departments of the Young Men's Christian Association of New Jersey will be held here tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday, October 28 to 30. Arrangements for the gathering have been made by a State committee, headed by H. S. Park, of Paterson, while the local committees have provided for the entertainment and comfort of the visitors.

The theme will be "The Christian Soldier," and the papers and addresses will be given on military subjects. The boys will assemble Friday afternoon, October 28, in the Babcock building, where a supper will be served by the women's auxiliary of the local association. Mr. Park will act as toastmaster; Harold S. Robins, of the local association, will deliver the address of welcome and it is expected that Mayor Jenkins will also be present and extend the hospitality of the city to the delegates. Edwin S. Ford, of Morristown, will respond in behalf of the New Jersey boys.

At 7:30 o'clock the delegates will go to the Trinity Reformed church, where the first session of the conference will be held. Martin B. Stutsman, of this city, will preside. The State Boys' orchestra, under the directorship of James Philipson, of Newark, will lead the song service. Addresses will be delivered by Chaplain Leslie R. Groves, of the United States, and F. S. Brokman, of Shanghai, China.

Saturday morning, in the association auditorium, J. Wheaton Chambers, of Freehold, will preside. The opening devotional exercises will be conducted by Lieutenant Edward W. Hearne, the State secretary, of New Jersey. Mr. Hearne went to the Philippines from Iowa during the Spanish-American War and later went out as a secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association. Bugle call will be given by Bugler James Fortney, of Fort Hancock. Papers will be read by Randolph S. Merrill, of Paterson; Joseph H. Ake, of Newark, and Frank P. Johnson, of Trenton. Each paper will be followed by a discussion, under the leadership of W. Harold Burger, of Paterson. Forty minutes will be devoted to brief reports on "the best things" in the departments, conducted by C. C. Robinson, of Trenton.

In the afternoon the conference will divide into twelve groups. Five groups for High School students, four for grammar school boys and three for business boys. The local problems of the different departments will be discussed. Elmer F. Walz, of Camden, will be the presiding officer of the afternoon session. Saturday evening the boys will assemble at the Seventh-Day Baptist church, and Edward H. Austin, of Orange, will preside. An address will be delivered by E. T. Colton, the student secretary of the International Committee.

Sunday afternoon the delegates will again meet at the same church, where a preparatory service and conference will be conducted by Charles R. Scott, State Secretary Boys' Work. This will precede the Boys' rally, which will be given in charge of Rev. James A. Francis, of Boston. In the First Presbyterian church Sunday evening all the boys and leaders will meet for the closing meeting, when Charles T. Kilbourne, chairman of the State executive committee of New Jersey, will deliver an address.

The State conference was held in this city, in November, 1891, and on that occasion only forty-five delegates were present.

Under the direction of Kenneth Robbie and the boys' work committee the following committees from the boys' department have been chosen to take charge of the management of the conference: Entertainment committee, O. S. Rogers, chairman, Stanley Karner, George M. Rittenhouse, Albert Codington, Milton St. John, Charles Line, Leslie Leland; reception committee, Dr. Norman Probasco, chairman, W. B. Caldwell, Howard Freeman, Harold Robins, Dudley Wilcox, Edward Alpaugh, James Fleming, Bert Leggett, William Flanders, William Douglass, Fred Reed, Leland Manning, John Valiant, Leslie Brokaw, Laurie Milne, Lawrence Edgar, Ray Hart, Otto Mueck, Norman Loughlin, Frank Webster, William Burtis, Guyeon Fountain and

KILLED BY P. AND R. TRAIN

C. E. Wade Meets Instant Death at Trenton Junction.

IDENTIFIED BY CARD

As Delegate From Twilight Council, of Scotch Plains, Had Been Attending Convention of Juniors.

Returning to his home after a day's attendance as a delegate to the State Council of the Jr. O. U. A. M., Charles E. Wade, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abram Wade, of Scotch Plains, met sudden death at Trenton Junction at 7 o'clock last evening. Stepping out of the path of a local passenger train on the P. and R. he was struck and instantly killed by a fast freight going in the opposite direction. The body was terribly mangled and identification was made only by a card found in a pocket of the clothing, placed there at the earnest solicitation of his mother as he took his departure in the morning.

Wade, who was one of the most popular young men in Scotch Plains, was elected delegate to the annual State Council of the Juniors by Twilight Council, of which he had been secretary, having succeeded Horace Hand, of this city, a Westfield wreck victim. The session was held in the Taylor Opera House at Trenton yesterday and lasted until nearly 6 o'clock. When adjournment was made Wade hurried to the P. and R. depot alone in order to reach the Junction in time to catch a through train to this city.

Arriving at the latter place he found he had a short time to wait and walked away from the depot to a point between the branch and the main lines, where a signal tower is being erected. He was surveying this when he noted the approach of a passenger train and believing it to be the one he wanted, hurried to cross the tracks before its arrival. The freight was coming from Philadelphia at a high rate of speed in order to pass the station before the passenger drew up, with the engineer's cab to the far side of Wade. He received no warning and had his gaze fixed on the incoming passenger when he was struck. The remains were picked up by trainmen and though Harvey Thorn and other delegates from this city viewed the features, they were unable to recognize them and did not know the victim was Wade until the card was found.

The young man was twenty-six years old and had built up a good grocery business in the store on Park avenue occupied for many years by Thomas Paff. He was a member of the Scotch Plains Methodist church and was one of its most earnest and devoted workers, representing the congregation at nearly all the county and State gatherings. He frequently spoke at Epworth League conferences in the various local churches. Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company, of the 'Plains, numbered him among its members and the entire village respected him for his many lovable traits.

Surviving him are two sisters, Miss Nancy Wade, a teacher in a school at Milburn, and Miss Florence Wade, who resides at home; and two brothers, John Wade, a student at Dickinson College at Carlisle, Pa., and Harry Wade, his assistant in the grocery business. The coroner and county physician at Trenton, granted a permit for the removal of the body to Scotch Plains, today.

BAND CONCERT FEATURE OF DEMOCRATIC RALLY

GUBERNATORIAL AND CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATES TO SPEAK.

Preparations are complete for the Democratic mass meeting to be held in Reform Hall tomorrow night. Instead of holding several meetings, as the Republicans have done, the Democrats decided to hold one big rally and have speakers of importance.

J. Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, Charles O. Black, candidate for governor, and James E. Martine, candidate for congress, will be the principal speakers. LaVere's Concert Band has been engaged and in addition to a cornet solo by Al. Sweet, the band will render these selections: March, "American," Mills; concert waltz, "Sweet Remembrance," St. Clair; medley, "Songs of the Day," Mills; Patrol—American.

PROF. GRIGGS ON HAMLET

He Declares Melancholy Dane Did Not Meditate Suicide.

ON LIFE'S ENIGMA

Hamlet, He Says, Questioned Only Whether Life Was Really Worth Living.

A struggle with the enigma of life, one which like life itself yields no solution to its mystery, was vividly portrayed by Professor Edward Howard Griggs, in his lecture on "Hamlet" yesterday afternoon in Vincent chapel. The lecture was the third in Professor Griggs' course on the "Humanity of Shakespeare," and like his other talks, pointed out the undeniable fact that Shakespeare's life was varied in its experiences and that the man in this case was probably living through a mental tragedy such as is found in the lines of Hamlet.

"Facing the Mystery" was the subject of the lecture, and the speaker carried his audience clearly and graphically through the enigma which confronted Hamlet, and which, though he was a man of tremendous will power, kept him wavering between two courses, perplexed, irresolute, and utterly at a loss to see the value of life. As explanatory to this last attitude of Shakespeare, the lecturer said that it was a mistaken interpretation to think that in his desperation, Hamlet meditated suicide for himself, but he questioned what there was in life, whether life was really worth living, from the point of view of a philosopher.

Professor Griggs outlined at some length the plot and the characters of the play, showing how Hamlet, forsaken first by one friend and another, trusting in no one, and beset on all sides by treachery, became so perplexed by mental problems, that he acted only impulsively, and was unable to follow a definite course of action. He referred to the two courses of action which were open to Hamlet; the first to immediately kill the new king, and afterward make his explanations; the second to leave revenge for a higher power.

In the whole drama, as the lecturer presented it, Hamlet in avering between his impulse and his philosophical attitude, "faces the mystery," and yet at the end of the play there is no solution to the problem. In no other of Shakespeare's drama, Professor Griggs said, is there any question as to the solution; yet in this work, which portrays the deepest and the most tragic side of life, as in life itself, we see only up to a certain point and the rest is left unsolved. Hamlet caught this glimpse of the truth of life in his last moments; Shakespeare was aware of it some time before his death as we can tell by his later works. Shakespeare could not have written "The Tempest" if he had not gone through the struggle which he pictures in Hamlet, if he had not faced for himself the mystery, and seen for himself the good in human character.

LOOSE-CAPPED HYDRANTS BOTHER LOCAL FIREMEN

AN INSTANCE LAST EVENING WHICH MIGHT HAVE BEEN WORSE.

Proof of Chief Doane's recent assertion that the careless replacing of hydrant caps by street sprinkling wagon drivers is apt to cause trouble in the event of a big conflagration, was made at a small fire in the West End last evening. The Chief and No. 3 Company responded to a still alarm for a chicken coop fire on the premises at 616 West Third street, owned by the estate of James Anderson.

A line of hose was stretched in and the water started to flow only to cease immediately. Captain Feiring hurried to the hydrant to investigate and found that the cap to the other plug, loosly put on by the sprinkling men, had been forced off by the pressure. The water took this outlet and as a result there was none for the line of hose. It required more than a minute to shut off the flow, put on the cap and then turn the water again. In the blaze being fought it was not a matter of any great consequence but in a larger one it might have caused a serious delay. Such happenings have come under the notice of the department several times and Chief Doane has complained but to no purpose.

The coop was evidently set on fire by boys and was practically destroyed, entailing a loss of $15.

JR. O. U. A. M. PROSPEROUS

Plainfield Delegates Return From Annual Convention.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED

Somerset, Benevolent and Franklin Councils Represented at the Meeting.

Harvey R. Thorn, from Franklin Council; A. W. Pangborn, from Somerset Council, and Arthur G. Adams, from Benevolent Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., were the local delegates to the annual session of the State Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., held at Trenton, yesterday. They declare that the convention was one of the best in the history of the order, and all reports were most encouraging.

These officers were elected for the coming year: Junior Past Councilor, J. Fred Lang, of Elizabeth; State councilor, William R. Conrad, of Burlington; State vice councilor, Rev. Edward M. Mount, of Millville; State council secretary, William H. Miers, of Trenton; State council treasurer, Dr. James J. Reed, of Sea Bright; State council conductor, John H. Lott, of South River; State council warden, John Cramer, of Trenton; State council inside sentinel, Paul Brewster, of Atlantic City; State council outside sentinel, Fred O. Clough, of Passaic; State council chaplain, Rev. Edward M. Mount, of Millville.

This finance committee was elected: E. W. Struble, of Newark; Henry Hawkins, Jr., of Elizabeth; J. B. Clevenstine, of Trenton; William Black, of Holmdel; John Fairbanks, of Paterson.

One of the features of the programme was an address on "Americanism," by Rev. Dr. Frank M. Bristol, pastor of the Metropolitan church, of Washington. There were also addresses by Mayor Frank S. Katzenbach, of Trenton, and Past State Councilor Fergus A. Dennis.

JUSTICE CLARK DISMISSES CHARGE AGAINST TERRY

DECLARES HE HAD A RIGHT TO MAKE TELEPHONE ARRESTS.

Holding court at Scotch Plains before another large crowd of spectators, yesterday afternoon, Justice Clark dismissed the complaint made against Scott Terry by the Northeastern Telephone Company to the effect that he had arrested two of its employes illegally. The magistrate upheld Terry's action, declaring that as an officer he had a right to make an arrest when he saw the law being violated, whether he had a warrant or not. The court also announced that the complaint was defective, in citing a crime act that had been repealed by the laws of 1898.

Disposing of this matter, Justice Clark called the case of William Terry and Hugh Lamb against William Mahon, the latter of the 'phone force, who they charged with assault and battery. Mahon was one of the erecting gang which collided with the Glaser forces on the day that Mrs. Glaser's foot was smashed by a pole. After hearing the testimony the court held Mahon under $50 for appearance before the grand jury.

This concludes the various charges preferred after the first outbreak in the attempt to erect poles in front of Theodore Gaiser's property at Alton. Both sides are now resting on their laurels, the Glaser faction jubilant because it removed three out of the five poles put up and the 'phone people just as elated because the two are up and they have carried the matter to the courts without making any further overtures.

P. S. C. Bond Issue.

The Public Service Corporation has authorized the issue of $7,250,000 5 per cent. five-year collateral trust bonds to be secured by the deposit of $15,00,000 of bonds of the subsidary corporations. The entire issue was authorized sold to Robert Winthrop & Co., of New York. This action provides for all improvements and extensions for two years.

Flagpole at Court House.

A handsome flagpole was planted yesterday in front of the new county courthouse, in Elizabeth, now rapidly approaching completion. The pole is eighty-five feet long and its erection was watched by a crowd of people. Old Glory will be flung to the breeze from it on Election Day.

MARTINE IS STRENUOUS

He Tells Honnecker That He Is An Assistant Republican.

HONNECKER PROFANE

Plainfielder Defends Black, and People's Party Man Becomes Excited.

James E. Martine, the farmer-orator, of this city, who is running for Congress on the Democratic ticket in this district, paid his respects to George A. Honnecker, the candidate of the People's Democratic party for Governor at the Hotel Windsor, Washington, Warren County, last night. In the course of conversation, Mr. Martine plainly declared that Honnecker and Potter were nothing more or less than assisting Republicans and that he and all self-respecting men were ashamed of them. Honnecker lost his temper.

Honnecker and Erastus B. Potter, commonly called "The Yankee School Master," who is the People's party nominee for Congress, last night addressed some Bryan followers. Honnecker made some pretty stiff declarations in his speech. They were talked of pretty freely after the meeting. Martine got back from an Asbury meeting close to midnight, and went to the Hotel Windsor, where he had engaged quarters. Honnecker was also staying at the same hotel.

After some conversation Martine told Honnecker that all the latter was in this campaign for was to help the Republican candidates. Honnecker replied that it was true that he had little hope of being elected.

The argument grew warm, Honnecker boiling over with wrath and becoming profane.

One of the statements that Honnecker made in his speech was that Charles O. Black had several weeks before either convention was held written a letter to Edward C. Stokes stating that if he (Stokes) was nominated for Governor he (Black) would vote for him. Martine referred to this statement and said it was untrue.

"It is not untrue," said Honnecker when Martine disputed him.

"I say it is untrue—it's a falsehood!" said Martine.

"If it is true, what authority have you got for the statement?"

"The very best. I saw and read the letter myself."

"It's a lie!" said Martine, who clearly showed that he had the utmost contempt for a man who is alleged to have betrayed his party.

Mr. Martine said today that Honnecker frankly admitted that his only object was to defeat the Democrats. The words which Mr. Martine says Mr. Honnecker uttered are too indecent and filthy to be published and the Plainfielder says he denounced him in the conversation as a blackguard and man unfit for human society.

COUNTY TEACHERS' IN ANNUAL MEETING

SESSION IN ELIZABETH ATTENDED BY 550 PEDAGOGUES.

The Union County Teachers' Association held is annual meeting in the Morell Street School, Elizabeth, Tuesday afternoon. There were present teachers from every section of Union County, including Rahway, Plainfield and Elizabeth, numbering, in all, about 550.

Dr. Edwin C. Broome, of Rahway, presided. He spoke on the growth of the association and closed with an appeal to carry on the work for the coming year. This includes the cost of lecturers.

Dr. Thomas Balliett, principal of the department of pedagogy, of the New York University, gave a lengthy talk on "Reading." The meeting closed with an informal reception to Dr. Balliett.

Reception to Bride and Groom.

Mr. and Mrs. George Rolberg, who were married on Monday, October 10, were given a reception last night by Mrs. Rolberg's mother, Mrs. W. H. Thom, of 27 Summit avenue. There were about thirty guests at the reception last night and the evening was spent in a social manner.

MISS JENNIE M. SHARKEY WEDS JOHN M'COY HUNT

CEREMONY AT HOME OF BRIDE'S PARENTS IN NETHERWOOD AVENUE.

In the presence of a large number of relatives and friends, Miss Jennie Maud Sharkey was married to John McCoy Hunt at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Sharkey, of Netherwood avenue, last evening. The ceremony took place at 8:30 o'clock, Rev. J. O. McKelvey officiating. The bride was attended by two flower girls, the Misses Genevieve Smalley and Dorothy Hetfield, her cousins. The ushers were Clarence Sharkey and J. Raymond Lambert, both of this city.

The bridal party entered the parlor, which was tastefully decorated in autumn leaves, palms, and white carnations, while the wedding march was played by Miss Florence Smalley. The pastor awaited them under a floral arch of autumn leaves. Beautifully gowned in white silk mulle, the bride presented a very pretty appearance kneeling before the background of palms and potted plants. She carried lillies-of-the valley. The flower girls were also dressed in white.

Following the ceremony, an informal reception was held previous to the bride and groom's depature for their wedding trip. After their return they will make their home on Long Island. The groom is a steam fitter by trade, being in the employ of an electrical plant in Newark. Both the bride and groom are well known in this city, where they have resided for many years. They were handsomely remembered with gifts from their many friends, including valuable and useful articles.

Those present at the wedding included friends and relatives from New York, Newark, Brooklyn, Westfield, Bloomfield, New Brunswick and Metuchen.

STOCK CO. BASEBALL

George E. Greenleaf's Scheme for Crack Ball Team.

OUTLINES HIS PLANS

Gives the Probable Lineup and Explains How He Would Manage Affairs.

An effort to give Plainfield a first-class baseball team next season is being made by George E. Greenleaf, an old ball player, who now resides in Jersey City. Through the influence of local friends he has been induced to come here and look over the ground to see what the prospects are. He was in town yesterday and partially divulged some of his plans. Mr. Greenleaf's idea is to issue $5,000 worth of stock and to give local people the opportunity to take it up at $1 a share. He argues that there are a sufficient number of persons in the city and borough who would quickly subscribe to the stock, and in this he is encouraged by those who know the field here pretty thoroughly.

It is further proposed to have a thoroughly representative team and play two games a week in town. This might appear on the face of it to be an expensive and illogical thing to do, but as Mr. Greenleaf would hire players by the month and not the game, as has been the rule, the expense would be greatly reduced so that the team would not cost over $60 or $70 per game. In addition to the two games here, he plans to play on other days out-of-town and arrange travelling dates. He has in mind a well-known summer resort on the coast, where he would play one day a week and it is possible that Sunday games would be arranged out-of-town. In this way the team would always be in the best of condition and first-class ball would be the result. As far as the local games are concerned the stockholders would have control, with Mr. Greenleaf as manager. If two games are played here Wednesday and Saturday, as well as holidays, would be reserved for Plainfield, these would be the best days for this city.

In arranging a schedule, Mr. Greenleaf would bring only first-class teams to this city, such as the Hobokens and other equally strong semi-professional clubs, while occasionally major and minor league teams would be brought here, thus giving the fans an opportunity to see the fastest teams in the business.

As for the location of a grounds, Mr. Greenleaf has not yet given the matter much attention. In case the Plainfield A. C. does not have a team, arrangements may be made to take the lease of Crescent Oval. If so, the grounds would be improved and more commodious grandstands erected, while the possibility of floods in time of heavy rains would be provided against. It is Mr. Greenleaf's idea to get things started as early as possible and learn whether he will secure the proper support in his undertaking. If Plainfield does not take hold of the matter enthusiastically, another town will be given the opportunity. One of the best reasons given why Plainfield should have a good team is that it is one of the best advertisements that the town could have.

Mr. Greenleaf gives this as his probable lineup for the team, in case Plainfield is selected: John Menefee, of the Chicago Nationals, first base; Frank Bonner, of Evansville, Central League, second base; Dowling, Georgetown University, third base; Moss, Little Rock, Southern League, shortstop; Shaw, Concord, New England League, catcher; Jerry Nops, Providence, Eastern League, pitcher; Iott, Concord, New England League, right field; Vinson, Providence, Eastern League, left field; Russel, Evansville, Central League, center field; Apperius, Georgetown University, extra fielder.

Mr. Greenleaf says that he is personally acquainted with these players and he is positive that he can get every one of them for his team, if his plans are consummated.

BOOK NEWS.

It is planned to issue on Thursday of each week items of library news. This will frequently take the form of book lists, such as lists of books recently added, lists on special subjects and like topics. Frequently the lists will be annotated, the aim being to make these annotations of real service to the reader, by giving him the opinion of a trustworthy critic as to the value of the books or a few words as to their scope. Borrowers should keep these lists. The Plainfield Public Library will furnish to anyone making application a list of its books on a given subject.

Public Library Notes.

The Library's previous lists of 100 good short stories, printed in the local papers February 11 and 18, 1904, proved so popular, that another list has been compiled, which it is hoped may be equally so.

SUBWAY SYSTEM OPENED.

New York Celebrates Completion of New Rapid Transit.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—New York's rapid transit underground railway system was opened with great ceremony by Mayor McClellan here today.

A civic celebration was held in the aldermanic chambers of the city hall, and at its conclusion all the officials and prominent guests of the Interborough company boarded a train at the city hall. This train was made up of six cars, each with fifty persons, and August Belmont, John B. McDonald, E. P. Bryan and Frank Hedley accompanied the delegation.

When this train reached Forty-second street the signal was given that the track was clear, and then an opportunity was given for those who had the coveted invitations to see the road for the first time.

JOHN B. M'DONALD.

It is anticipated that when the road is opened to the public at 7 o'clock this evening there will be an unprecedented rush, and preparations have been made to handle 20,000 passengers each hour up to midnight.

Station agents, ticket choppers, gatemen and all other employees have been carefully instructed in their duties, and to prevent accidents resulting from overcrowding details of policemen have been assigned for duty all along the line. About 3,000 men will be employed to handle the traffic during the first twenty-four hours the road is in operation.

The subway cost in round figures $50,000,000, it is twenty-one miles long, and the tunnels are about fifteen feet high. Much credit for the completion of this great work is given the contractor, John B. McDonald.

PARKER WILL SPEAK.

Candidate to Address Mass Meeting In New York Oct. 31.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—In requesting Judge Parker to make a speech at the meeting of the Business Men's Parker and Davis association President J. Hampden Robb wrote as follows:

"We appreciate and sympathize with the previously expressed view that it was your intention not to make any extended addresses other than those delivered at your home, inasmuch as heretofore your efforts have been continuously devoted to matters affecting the Democratic canvass.

"In view of the fact that this work has in large part been completed and that today a united party is harmoniously striving for your election we hope that you will consent to appear upon the platform at this meeting, if only to greet your supporters, for it need be little more than a greeting face to face."

Judge Parker sent the following reply:

"It will give me great pleasure to accept your invitation to appear at the mass meeting to be held at Madison Square Garden on the 31st inst. under the auspices of the Business Men's Parker and Davis association and to greet there so many supporters of the cause I represent and through them to greet the great army of loyal, enthusiastic Democrats throughout the country."

Isthmus Is Not Unhealthy.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Commander Lucien Young, U. S. N., has paid his respects to the president and talked to him concerning conditions on the isthmus of Panama, where for five months he was stationed at Colon as an officer on the Montgomery. Commander Young says the climate of the isthmus is not unhealthful. He will sail next Tuesday for Panama, where he will command the gunboat Bennington of the south Atlantic squadron.

Society of Art Collectors.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 27.—The Society of Art Collectors has been incorporated here for the purpose of encouraging the fine arts and giving exhibitions in New York city. The directors are J. Harsen Rhoades, Charles Stewart Smith, Frederic Bonner, Alexander C. Humphreys and Henry B. Wilson of New York and W. T. Evans of Montclair, N. J.

Murder of Way and Latimer.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27.—Louis Kaiser, American consul at Mazatlan, arrived en route to Washington with a report of the murder of two Americans, Clarence Way and Edward Latimer, at Aguas Caliente de Baca. Consul Kaiser will take the case to Washington, with a demand that some suitable reparation be made by the Mexican government.

Divers to Save Massachusetts.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The wrecking steamer I. J. Merritt left here early today with a force of a hundred expert divers and wreckers bound to the wreck of the Atlantic Transport line's steamship Massachusetts, now on Crossing rocks, Abaco. The Massachusetts was bound from Cardiff for New Orleans when she was driven ashore.

LOCKED HIMSELF IN.

Treasurer Chase Held For Embezzlement at Pomeroy, O.

CLAIMED MASKED MEN ROBBED SAFE

Grand Jury Holds That Chase Got Up Fake Robbery to Cover Up His Defalcations of the County Funds.

POMEROY, O., Oct. 27.—After investigating for a month a grand jury has indicted County Treasurer Thomas J. Chase, charging the embezzlement of $14,500 from the Meiggs county treasury on Sept. 9, when he said the treasury was looted in daylight by two masked robbers, who locked him in a vault. Chase's bond was fixed at $10,000. He was unable to furnish bail and was sent to jail.

The arrest of Chase caused no surprise in Meigs county, but there is much excitement over the indictments that are expected against other persons. The name of one of these other persons is on the lips of all, as this person has been suspected as much as Chase himself for a month.

Chase was found locked up on Sept. 9 by his daughter, who rushed to a bank and thence to the fair grounds for some one who could open the vault. It was shown to the grand jury that at least half a dozen men were sitting in front of the courthouse all forenoon on Sept. 9 and that none of these men saw the robbers. Roy Packard, treasurer of Olive township, in his testimony before the grand jury fixed the time of the closing of the treasurer's office on Sept. 9 to within two minutes. Packard came to Pomeroy that morning to draw $300 of school funds for Olive township. After sitting in an adjoining office, that of the county auditor, he went to a telephone, seeing and speaking to Chase as he passed. At that time Janitor Minich was sitting by the door. Packard says he returned to the treasurer's office within two minutes after seeing Chase standing by the door and found the door locked. He was exasperated as he thought it meant another fifteen mile drive to cash his warrant, so he shook the door and finally kicked it. Getting no response, he asked Janitor Minich, who still sat at the door, where Chase had gone. Janitor Minich said he thought Chase had gone to the county fair. Packard then cashed his warrant at a bank.

Fred Radford, assistant cashier of the Middleport bank, and A. P. Miller, editor of the Pomeroy Tribune-Telegraph, both of whom had been appointed by the probate court to make the semiannual examination of the books, testified that they were proceeding with this examination when the alleged robbery occurred. On the day before the alleged robbery Chase repeatedly asked the examiners whether they were going to the fair. They replied that they would go the next day. The investigation indicated that Editor Miller was the last man in the treasurer's office before it closed on the morning of the alleged robbery. When he entered Chase said, "I thought you were going to the fair today?" Miller answered that he first wanted to get a warrant cashed. Chase cashed it, then went out of the inner office, closed the gate and walked toward the outer door. Miller is of the opinion that this was done to prevent his going behind the desk and looking into the safe. This caused the examiners to believe that the money was removed the previous afternoon after the departure of the examiners.

As soon as the indictment against Chase was reported the grand jury resumed its investigation on the theory that if Chase were guilty there was at least one, probably two, confederates, one to turn the combination on the vault door of the outside and possibly another keeping watch outside of the building.

Chase comes of good family, is fifty years old, has a wife, two sons and one daughter, the younger son, Guy, being deputy treasurer. Chase is a member of the Methodist church and was never before suspected of wrongdoing.

Northern Securities Case Near End.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 27.—In connection with the alleged Union Pacific-Great Western deal the Dispatch says that the option given the Union Pacific railway on the Great Western property has a direct bearing on the Northern Securities settlement and continues, "Advices received by a St. Paul railway official from New York and which were private indicate that the settlement of the Northern Securities company's troubles is near at hand."

Fired Four Shots at Wife.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 27.—Following an attack on his wife, during which he fired four shots at her, Dennis Griffin, a blacksmith, has been arrested and held for the grand jury. He was prevented from firing again by his daughter Catherine, who grappled with him and succeeded in getting the pistol away from him. None of the shots took effect.

HAY AT NEW YORK.

Secretary of State Defends Government's Policy.

SAYS PRESIDENT IS NO WAR LORD

No Designs on Constitution and Holds Peace Higher Than All Considerations Save That of Honor.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The principal Republican mass meeting of the campaign at Carnegie hall, New York, last night was crowded to suffocation. Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Robinson, was among the audience. The speakers, of whom Secretary Hay was the chief, included former Governor Black, Senator Depew, Lieutenant Governor Higgins and M. Linn Bruce.

Mr. Hay said in part:

"There was a moment this year when we had hopes of a salutary change in the Democratic attitude. They were travel stained and unhappy with their wanderings in the wilderness in 1896 and 1900. They seemed to have made up their minds that free trade, repudiation and anarchy were out of date and unbecoming; that they no longer appealed to the public taste. So they tried to get as near to the Republican platform as possible. Some of their leaders apparently intended when they went to St. Louis to say to the country: We are just as safe and sane as the Republicans. We are for the gold standard, for a reasonable tariff, for restraining unlawful combinations without injuring lawful business, for self government, not abandonment, of the Philippines. But the instinct of blundering was too strong for them. As soon as they got together the power of the mass asserted itself. They turned down the gold standard proposition, they declared protection to be robbery and came out flatly for the immediate abandonment of the Philippines. Then they tried to make up for this destructive platform by nominating what they called conservative candidates—for the presidency a gold standard, or at least a gilt standard, man, who had voted for free silver whenever he got a chance and for vice president a southern Democrat, enormously rich, who believed in protection.

"With this harlequin ticket and timidly radical platform they have gone to the country, and little by little their well meant disguise has worn into tatters, and the party appears in its old familiar shape.

"Is it not a sight for men and angels to see the solid south, which exists by virtue of its nullification of the constitution, which promises Judge Parker the bulk of his electors through a suppression of a vast majority of its voters, attacking Theodore Roosevelt in the name of an endangered constitution? Is it not a groveling farce to see Tammany Hall, whose name is a hissing and a reproach to a disgusted civilization, accusing the Republican party of extravagance and corruption? But the campaign has narrowed itself to this. Everything else has vanished, dissolved in a mist of contradictions. Protection is robbery, but they are in favor of reasonable protection. Their leaders say the gold standard is a fixed fact, but the majority of their party still side with Mr. Bryan. They cry out against appropriations in general, but do not dare to specify those they will cut off. With that discretion which is valor's better part they abuse our army because it is small and speak, some of them, rather respectfully of our navy because it is strong.

"And then that hoodoo cry "Unsafe!" How is it to be treated seriously? Unsafe he undoubtedly is, as the law is to the malefactor, as the judge is to the criminal, as the disinfectant is to the microbe. But what shall we say to those who in the same breath accuse him of dangerous hostility to business interests and also of subservience to the great corporations? Let them answer each other.

"But we are told he is dangerous to the peace of the world; he is a fire eater, a war lord; he wishes to embroil us in a policy of adventure. What does the record say? He and his predecessor have done more in the interest of universal peace than any two other presidents since our government was formed.

"He is now preparing a set of arbitration treaties with all the countries which desire them. In compliance with the call of the Interparliamentary union, who had confidence in his discretion and his love of peace, he is trying to induce the powers to come together once more in conference at The Hague to concert measures for the peace and welfare of the world.

"And yet I would not ask you to believe that the president holds peace higher than all other considerations. Sacred as the word is to him, there are others more sacred still—honor and duty. So long as the millennium delays he will stand by American interests and American rights, keeping his sword well sharpened and his powder dry."

Mate Lost Overboard.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 27.—The schooner Marshall O. Wells, bound from Bridgeport, Conn., for New York, light, lost her mate, Albert Moss of Brooklyn, off Point Judith, near here. Moss was knocked overboard by a boom and drowned, while his shipmates were busy keeping a boat which they had lowered from being swamped.

Powder Exploded at Johnstown, Pa.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Oct. 27.—An explosion of 200 small kegs of powder at the Sunshine mine, near South Fork, killed Horatio Noble, aged sixteen years, and wrecked all the buildings near the mine.

GOLF TOURNAMENT.

Miss Bishop Won Women's Open Event at New Haven.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 27.—Miss Georgianna Bishop of Bridgeport, United States champion, and Mrs. E. F. Sanford of Essex county, the runner-up to Miss Bishop when the latter won the championship, were pitted against each other in the first round of match play in the women's open golf tournament at the New Haven Country club here, and the champion won easily, defeating her opponent 8 up and 7 to go. Miss Bishop took the lead at the start and by steady golf at all times increased it as the play continued.

The other first round matches of the eight who qualified for the championship cup resulted as follows:

Mrs. T. H. Polhemus, Eastern Parkway club, Brooklyn, beat Miss Elsie Trowbridge, New Haven. Miss Palmer Mackey, Oakley, Boston, beat Miss Gertrude Travers, Nassau. Mrs. S. F. Lefferts, Englewood, beat Mrs. H. A. Harris, Apawamis.

Mrs. Polhemus, who won the gold medal at the last Metropolitan tournament, took the medal here with a score of 94, par golf being impossible on account of the rain, which fell early in the day. Miss Bishop's medal score was 97, and she was tied at that figure with Miss Mackey and Mrs. Sanford.

King's Trophy at Elm Ridge.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 27.—King's Trophy won the Derby Candidates' stake at one mile from a big field of youngsters at Elm Ridge. Tyrolian was second and Girdlestone third. Tyrolian set the pace from the start, and she was only a few jumps from the wire when Henry brought King's Trophy to the front and won at the post. Telephone, Princess Tulane and Pourqui Pas were the winning favorites.

Dan Patch's Fastest Mile.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 27.—With a pacemaker, carrying a wind shield in front and accompanied by a runner at the side, Dan Patch, driven by Hersey, paced the fastest mile at the Trotting park ever made by a horse in harness, circling the track in 1:56 flat. The former record, 1:56¼, was made by Dan Patch in 1902.

Football Whitewash For Bowdoin.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 27.—Brown defeated Bowdoin 22 to 0 here on a slippery field. In the first half both teams played a listless game, fumbling being frequent. Brown made one touchdown by rushing the ball the length of the field. In the second half Brown's offense improved, and she scored three times.

Coy Maid Got Packer Stakes.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The riding of Jockey Hildebrand was the feature of the racing at Jamaica. Out of six mounts he rode three winners. After running third to Czaraphine and Thirty-third to the stretch in the Packer stakes, he brought Coy Maid up and won easily by three lengths. Three favorites won.

Trinity Beat Stevens.

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 27.—Trinity beat Stevens institute at football here in a dull contest, due in a measure to the lateness of the hour and the calling of the game because of darkness. The crowd was a big one by reason of the inauguration.

Not a Favorite Won.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 27.—Not a favorite won at Delmar park. The feature of an ordinary card went to Terns Rod, second choice, who beat Jungle Imp, at 8 to 1, by two lengths, who was in turn a length in front of the favorite, Braden.

The Taxman Was a Surprise.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 27.—The surprise at Latonia was the victory of The Taxman in the second race at 25 to 1. The jumping race was won by Balzac, the favorite, without an accident of any kind.

Marshall Is Chess Champion.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 27.—Frank J. Marshall of New York won the championship of the United States in the chess tournament, finished last night.

Aeroplane Accident at World's Fair.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 27.—William Avery of Chicago sustained a sprained ankle here while attempting to make a flight with an aeroplane in the St. Louis plaza at the world's fair grounds. The rope connecting the aeroplane and winding drum, by means of which Avery secures momentum for his flight, broke when the aeroplane was about twenty-five feet above the ground. The machine and the operator dropped to the ground with considerable force. The aeroplane was not much damaged.

To Entertain Prince Fushimi.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister, spent some time at the state department arranging with Mr. Peirce, the third assistant secretary of state, the programme for the entertainment of Prince Fushimi in Washington and St. Louis. Only at these two cities will the prince appear in his official status as adopted brother of the emperor of Japan. He is expected to arrive in San Francisco Nov. 14.

MAY PROVE FATAL.

When Will Plainfield People Learn the Importance of It?

Backache is only a simple thing at first;

But when you know 'tis from the kindeys,

That serious kidney troubles follow;

That diabetes, Bright's disease may be the fatal end.

You will gladly profit by the following experience.

'Tis the statement of a Plainfield citizen.

Robert Love, of 44 Duer street, member of the firm of Love Brothers, grocers, of 257 West Front street, says: "I suffered from kidney complaint for eight or nine years—pain across the back and a lameness over the kidneys. Colds always settled there and aggravated it. At last my back grew weaker and any heavy lifting or too much standing or sitting gave me additional pain. In the morning my back bothered me greatly until I moved about and took some exercise, when it became better to a certain extent. I doctored and used different kinds of so-called kidney cures, but it was throwing money away. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended in our paper, and, being in bad shape at the time, I got a box from L. W. Randolph's drug store. Before taking half of it my condition was greatly improved and continuing their use all the pain left me."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

BRYAN IN INDIANA.

Said Parker's Election Will Hasten Reform.

HAMMOND, Ind., Oct. 27.—Chairman Taggart joined Mr. Bryan at Logansport. At Rensselaer Mr. Bryan referred to the destruction recently by dynamite of the home of Thomas McCoy, son of a Rensselaer banker, who failed. Mr. Bryan used the incident to condemn Governor Peabody of Colorado "as an application of imperialism to American politics." He said that if Governor Durbin of Indiana had acted on the same principle as Governor Peabody, Durbin might with as much justification have assumed that the dynamiting of the McCoy house was necessarily the act of an angered depositor and deported all the depositors of the defaulting bank in order to be sure to get the right one.

Mr. Bryan's tour of the state ended at Hammond, where an overflow meeting was held in addition to the regular one announced. Here Mr. Bryan spoke as follows:

"As this is my last meeting in Indiana and the end of my ten day tour of the state I desire to make this farewell appeal to those who voted for me when I was a candidate: Let no friends of mine hesitate about the support of the ticket. Let no friend of mine imagine that he can help me by contributing toward the election of President Roosevelt. Judge Parker's election will hasten every reform in which I am interested by removing from the arena of politics the questions which now divert public attention from economic and industrial problems. President Roosevelt's election would delay every reform in which I am interested by keeping imperialism and kindred issues before the country, and no one can tell what new issues his warlike spirit may compel us to meet during the next four years.

"A victory for Parker will not be a victory for the gold Democrats alone, for they could not win the election without the support of the silver Democrats, so that those who voted for me can claim a share in the victory this year. If we can only overthrow the doctrine of imperialism there will be glory enough in the victory for us all."

WAR IN MANCHURIA.

Oyama Fortifying His Whole Defense Line.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—A Tokyo dispatch says Field Marshal Oyama is fortifying his whole line south of the Shakhe river, showing that he is preparing to meet the Russian onslaught.

A Mukden dispatch says that the appointment of General Kuropatkin as commander in chief is received with universal approval.

A Japanese attack is expected shortly. The Russian batteries continue to harass the Japanese. Otherwise all is quiet.

The Japanese dead recently found showed by their warm clothing that the Japanese are prepared for a winter campaign, whereas the Russians have not received their winter outfits.

HE FEARED ATTACK

Rojestvensky's Fleet Fired on Phantom Destroyers.

"IT WAS PURELY ACCIDENTAL."

Astonishing Explanation of Russian Commander Regarded as Showing Fear and Panic in Fleet. England Preparing.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—A dispatch from Vigo, Spain, says that the Russian Baltic squadron arrived there yesterday. The first division, consisting of five battleships, entered the port at 10 a. m. Later Admiral Rojestvensky, accompanied by the commanders of the vessels composing the Russian squadron, visited the military governor and afterward called on the French consul and on the commandant of the port.

In an interview Admiral Rojestvensky expressed great regret over the North sea incident. The admiral stated that the unfortunate occurrence was purely accidental. The weather the night in question was rather hazy. About 1 a. m. two torpedo boats, which the Russians supposed were Japanese craft, suddenly appeared between the two divisions of the squadron and seemed to discharge torpedoes. The Russians immediately opened fire. They saw no fishermen and were not aware that any damage had been done. Evidently, the admiral said, the fishermen had shown no lights. The admiral repeated that he greatly regretted that any injury had been done fishermen and added that he had no doubt the Russian government would make ample compensation.

As far as can be seen the crews of the battleships are very uneasy. Sentinels are closely watching every movement within the harbor. All four of the warships seem to be cleared for action.

Officers of the Russian squadron give the following explanation of the North sea incident: While steaming by night they saw two torpedo boats within the lines of the squadron. Supposing a Japanese attack was impending, they opened fire. They say they did not see any sailors looking like fishermen aboard the two boats fired at. The officers said they do not know if any members of the crews were wounded. They express regret at the error.

The Russian reply to Great Britain's note on the subject of the North sea tragedy has been received by the British government. It expresses deep regret at the occurrence and promises full reparation so soon as an official report is received from Vice Admiral Rojestvensky.

That Great Britain is dissatisfied with the reply of the Russian government to the protest of England against the attack by the Baltic fleet on the trawlers has been made more apparent when it was learned that Foreign Secretary Lansdowne will insist that Russia pledge herself to punish most severely the officers responsible for the attack on the fishing fleet.

Warlike preparations are being continued in England. Fleets are being mobilized, warships rushed to completion, and Premier Balfour, with Lord Selborne, first lord of the admiralty; Captain Louis of Battenberg, the director of naval intelligence, all members of the defense committee, have held a long conference.

Intense interest is felt in London over the report that Russia is taking steps to sound the continental governments as to whether objections will be raised if Russia approaches the sultan with a view to obtaining his consent to the passage of the Black sea fleet through the Dardanelles. It was stated that as matters stand at present Great Britain certainly would not acquiesce in any such arrangement.

Ambassador Hardinge in St. Petersburg has sent another note to Foreign Minister Lamsdorff expressing his opinion that the measures reported to have been taken by the Russian admiralty to communicate with Admiral Rojestrensky were entirely inadequate.

The missing trawler Sylvia is reported at the Orkneys in good condition, thus contradicting the report that she had been sunk by the Baltic fleet.

A Gibraltar report says that the battleships Victorious, Illustrious and Majestic, flagship of Vice Admiral Beresford, and the cruisers Lancaster, Theseus and Endymion are under orders to sail tomorrow morning. It is reported that the purpose is to shadow the Russian Baltic squadron, which is expected to go by way of the Cape of Good Hope.

The Russian Baltic squadron's cruisers and torpedo boats are expected to pass through the straits of Gibraltar on the way to Suez. The whole of the Gibraltar torpedo boat flotilla has been commissioned.

The ships of the channel fleet are ready to sail at a moment's notice. The battleship Hannibal and the cruiser Doris are watching the straits closely.

The astonishing explanation of the Russian admiral is regarded here as not fitting ill with the state of panic suggested as having prevailed among the officers of the Baltic fleet and in that case, it is suggested, the Russian government should find no difficulty in removing and punishing the officers responsible.

The newspapers this morning evince more heat and impatience than heretofore at Russia's delay, which is considered absolutely indefensible in the present circumstances.

Missing Girls Found.

DANBURY, Conn., Oct. 27.—Helen Toussaint, aged sixteen, of Hudson Heights, N. J., and May Miller, seventeen, of New York city, who had been missing from their homes since Sept. 27, have been found in this city and sent to their homes.

Fashion note says the myrtle and lizard shades of green will be plentiful this fall. The long kind supposed to come in campaign barrels will remain as scarce as usual.

The owners of that steamship which arrived in Seattle yesterday, bringing in $250,000 worth of gold dust shouldn't talk so loud about it. Secretary Cortelyou is somewhere in this zone.

The Russian government says the incident of the Baltic fleet firing upon and hitting the English ships in the North Sea was all a mistake. Well, we knew the hitting was but the firing is another matter.

To commit suicide, a Kentuckian visiting in Chicago yesterday, turned on the gas, cut his wrist and shot himself. He succeeded but wonder why he went to all that trouble when a bell-boy would have procured him a drink of water.

SNAP SHOTS.

SIDE LIGHTS ON TIMELY TOPICS NOTED IN PASSING.

Somebody has moved Bound brook, not the town of that name, but the peaceful stream which flows through the town, and from which it derived its name. Bound brook has always been looked upon as the boundary line between Somerset and Middlesex counties, and some declare that that is how the stream got its name, bound being a contraction of boundary.

When it was found necessary this week to build a new bridge over the brook, to replace a damaged one, the Middlesex Freeholders called upon the Somerset Freeholders to meet with them and pay half of the costs. The Somerset Freeholders replied that they, the Middlesex Freeholders, ought to study their geography more closely.

There was a joint meeting, however, and the Middlesex men produced the old statute defining the boundaries, and pointed out that Bound brook was the dividing line and that consequently the bridge must be a joint one.

"That's all very well," replied Somerset, "Bound brook was the dividing line, but somebody has moved the brook." The oldest residents were called in to give their testimony, and some of them remembered that the brook had been moved, and that it could no longer be considered as the boundary line.

It appears that the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company some years ago decided that if it diverted the course of the water flow its property would be benefitted; and so it dug a new brook and tempted the water from the old brook into the new brook, several yards away. When the Middlesex men heard of this they looked up the old brook, the real boundary line, and they found it. There was not much water in, but it was still a stream, and they had to accept the explanation that it was the original Bound brook and, consequently, the boundary line. The bridge to be erected is over the acquired brook, which is wholly in Middlesex county, and, consequently, Middlesex will have to pay the whole cost of construction.

POLITICAL CHAT.

Among the visitors in town this week interested in the political situation is Surrogate George T. Parrot, of Elizabeth.

Judge Alton B. Parker will appear at the mass meeting to be held in Madison Square Garden, New York, next Monday night, and will make a speech. Continuous and persistent efforts have been made during the last two months to induce Judge Parker to take the stump, but until now he has firmly declined. Is is believed now that he will speak in other cities during the last week of the campaign.

Julius Williams, of West Front street, a travelling man, who recently returned from the West, reports that there is the greatest inactivity along political lines. He says that heretofroe in Presidential years everybody has withheld their money and gave as a reason that they wanted to see who was elected. This year, he says, a majority of the business men that he has met, think it is a foregone conclusion that Roosevelt will be elected and that there will be no change in the administration.

The Democrats of Newark will have the privilege of greeting the biggest two men on their side of the coming fight at the polls, according to an announcement made by former Senator James Smith, Jr., today. Judge Alton B. Parker will appear there Tuesday night of next week and Grover Cleveland will be heard at a meeting a week from today. The arrangements for both affairs are as yet incomplete, but both men have accepted definitely the invitations to come there. Mr. Smith has interested himself in arranging for the appearances of the two great lights of the party in Newark and was largely instrumental in securing them. Judge Parker comes at the invitation of the Parker and Davis Constitutional Lawyers' Club of New Jersey, which was joined in the request by a number of influential Democrats of the State. The plan is to give him a reception. Richard V. Lindabury has accepted an invitation to preside and there will be a number of speakers of wide repute, secured from the National committee. Mr. Cleveland will preside at a meeting to be held under the auspices of the College Men's Parker and Davis Association of New Jersey, a recently formed organization, of which Hamilton Wallis is the president, and the Democratic First Voters of New Jersey. There will also be other speakers for this meeting. The place of holding either meeting is not announced as yet, and there are other details yet to be arranged.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—The dance to be given by the Acme Social Club at the Democratic headquarters tomorrow night will be a public affair.

—Tuesday, Nov. 1, is the last day for registry in this city, and it is the duty of every voter to personally see that his name is on the registry sheet in his district or ward.

—The Union County grand jurors have hopes to complete their labors this week. The present session has been an unusually long one, although not many of the cases have been of much importance.

—The thirty-first annual meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of New Jersey opened in the Kemble Memorial Methodist church at Woodbury yesterday, and will continue until Friday noon. White ribbons from all parts of the State are in attendance.

—It required just five minutes for those attending the Republican mass meeting on Tuesday night to leave Reform Hall after the meeting. W. C. Smith as well as Chief T. O. Doane was present and kept time while the crowd was leaving. Mr. Smith will soon commence the work of having an exit built on the Central avenue side of the hall, so that persons can approach or leave the platform without passing through the hall or the basement.

—The State Board of Education at a meeting held last Tuesday afternoon selected as the site for the new Normal School the plot offered by the North Jersey Land Company near the Montclair Heights Station and situated partly in Essex and partly in Passaic County. This site was chosen upon the recommendation of the committee, subject to the approval of the Governor; the location of a sixty-foot right of way on the plot satisfactory to the board and restrictions to prevent the erection of buildings on adjacent property detrimental to the proposed school.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Charles C. Black, Democratic nominee for Governor of New Jersey, will give an open air address in front of the town hall on Monday morning. He will be accompanied by about sixty other Democrats prominent in politics. From here they will go in stage to New Market, South Plainfield, Metuchen and Woodbridge, where Mr. Black will address the people.

Mrs. Frank Busheoff died last night about 12 o'clock from a severe streke of paralysis. Mrs. Brusheoff was suddenly taken ill last evening at 6 o'clock, and all medical aid failed to revive her. Funeral services will be held from her late residence on Front street on Saturday afternoon.

The grandstand, which still stands on the Madison avenue baseball grounds, has been tampered with by the small boy, in the past, and nothing has ever come of it, but now any one caught meddling with the stand will be dealt with to the full extent of the law.

Prayer meeting was held in the local churches last evening. A very important stewards' meeting was held in the Methodist church after prayer meeting.

The people in the vicinity of Lincoln and Dunellen avenues are bothered every evening by the howling of a dog. The dog catcher should "get busy."

One of the express trolley cars passed through town last evening with the hind end badly smashed in. The accident occurred in Trenton.

The Republicans are fixing up their rooms for this evening, when Judge E. W. Hicks, of New Brunswick, will address them.

Mrs. M. A. Finger, of Cranford, is spending a few days with Mrs. Henry Kirchner, of Lincoln avenue.

A large automobile was stalled near the Whittier School for about an hour yesterday afternoon.

The local hunters are patiently waiting for the hunting season to come around again.

Harry Shugars has been detained at home for the past few days by a slight illness.

John Logan will erect another house beside the one just finished, in the spring.

Mrs. P. W. Brakeley and daughter spent yesterday in New York shopping.

Miss Elsie Peters spent yesterday in Cranford with relatives.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Judge Clark cleared his docket of telephone war cases yesterday by discharging Special Officer Scott Terry and holding William Mann, who was charged by William Terry and Hugh Lamb with assault and battery, under $50 bail to await the action of the January grand jury.

The Epworth League, of the Methodist church, hold a business meeting in the church Friday. The annual election of officers will be held and other business transacted after which the social committee will take charge.

CITY BOYS TROUNCE THE BOROUGH YOUTHS

P. H. S. DEFEATS THE N. P. H. S. BY 22 TO 0.

Outweighing their opponents, and playing a strong line game, the football team of the Plainfield High School defeated the North Plainfield High School eleven on Hope Common yesterday afternoon by the score of 22 to 0. At no stage of the game was the ball within twenty yards of the city school's goal, while the leather changed hands several times in the borough territory.

N. P. H. S. kicked off, and after about two minutes play, William Douglass crossed the line, plugging through tackle for the first touchdown. He kicked the goal. It took but four minutes after the line up for him to repeat the same performance, scoring six points more in the same play. Before the close of this half, Taylor made two touchdowns on plays through the line. The goals were not kicked. The score was 22 to 0, when the first ten minutes of the last half were played, and though no further scoring resulted the P. H. S. boys kept the ball well into their opponents territory, and when the game ended they had the ball on the twenty-yard line of the N. P. H. S. country.

The following was the line up of the city and borough schools: P. H. S.—Bogart, center; Srager, right guard; Freeman, left guard; Jahn, right tackle; Bentley, left tackle; Rockwell, right end; Jones, left end; Williams, quarterback; Jack Douglass, right halfback; William Douglass, left halfback; Taylor, fullback. N. P. H. S.—Ammerman, center; Kipsey, right guard; Fisher, left guard; Smith, right tackle; Ward, left tackle; Rockwell, right end; Webster, left end; VanArsdale, quarterback; Hamilton, right halfback; Mundy, left halfback; Steiner, fullback. Referee, Best; umpire, Brose; linesmen, Whitney and Herman; time of halves, 15 minutes.

BLUE LODGE MASONS ANNIVERSARY EXERCISES

JERUSALEM LODGE TO OBSERVE 27 YEARS OF EXISTENCE.

The members of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 36, F. and A. M., will appropriately observe the eighty-seventh anniversary of the lodge on Friday night, November 11, at Masonic Hall, when a special communication will be held. The lodge will open at 8 o'clock and a half hour later Grand Master John H. Wilkins will be received with honors.

It is planned to spend the evening in a social manner. After a programme of instrumental and vocal music the members and guests will adjourn to the banquet hall. Clarence Goss is chairman of the committee, and those assisting are W. G. Hutchcroft, J. Hervey Doane, Stephen Van Horn, Dr. George DeWitt Herring.

The local Republican Club will attend the Republican meeting Saturday night at Westfield. A special trolley has been engaged and it is expected that a large delegation will attend.

Wilbur G. Moore, who has been spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. George H. Guest, of Stout avenue, returned Wednesday to his home at Cleveland, Ohio.

The members of the C. B. C., of the Methodist church, held an interesting weekly meeting in the class room of the church last night.

Joe Albert, who has been taking a short vacation, has returned to his position with the Aeolian Co., at Garwood.

Thomas Dunn, who has been visiting his brother, David Dunn, has returned to his home in New York.

Miss Marion Goodwin entertained out of town friends at her home yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Dunn spent Wednesday with friends in New York.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

William Hamilton, George Bunting and George Steengraff attended the Republican mass meeting at New Brunswick to hear "Uncle Joe" Cannon deliver a political address.

The telephone laborers left this vicinity yesterday, but the work is not yet finished on account of the right of way being withheld by one or two property holders.

Mrs. W. B. Manning is expected home tomorrow from Philadelphia and Asbury Park.

John Rittenhouse, of West Sixth street, Plainfield, visited Heber Cubberley yesterday.

Miss Sarah Giles is teaching as a supply in the East Bound Brook School.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Oct. 30: "Around the World; Our New Possessions"—Hawaii, Alaska, Philippines, Porto Rico.—Ps. xcvii, 1-12.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES.

"Righteousness and justice are the foundation of His throne."

It is an easy thing to grow enthusiastic over the progress of our national affairs, to indulge in boasting of our resources, marvelous development, prospects and prowess. But our true wealth has consisted in other than these.

That which made the republic possible was the moral worth of the early settlers of this country. The bulk of them were from the best stock of the old world. They had a high purpose in coming here. They adhered to their integrity at the risk of all else.

The traditions of righteousness have been influential all through our history. Our course has not been devoid of mistake and willful wrong. But the general intent of the national consciousness has been in the direction of the right.

It is desirable that we give attention in our leagues to the interests of our country in its civic affairs and their relations to religious truth. We should study our duties to state as well as to church in the light of divine revelation. We must find the sure foundations of prosperity in moral principles as well as in commercial enterprise and inventive genius.

We have been suddenly thrust into the very center of the world stage and obliged to take up duties entirely new to us. The events of the past few years have changed the currents of our activities, put our thinking into new channels and altered many of our most settled opinions.

How singular that list of names seems when coupled with the name of the United States. "Our new possessions!" What is it that we possess in them? Something more than fur animals and gold mines in Alaska, more than sugar lands and volcanoes in Hawaii, more than tropic islands in the others.

These names signify obligation and opportunity to us. Our chance lies far less with the natural resources than with the people now and to be.

Nor is our problem wholly with the religious needs of the inhabitants as we usually regard religion. The whole scope of civilization and the lifting of these peoples into intelligent social righteousness is our task. Nor may we excuse ourselves by saying we never sought the responsibility and will not now assume it. The work is ours whether we like it or not. Our leagues are involved in the affair. Of our numbers some are to go into these regions and make homes and help others to make homes. Some will go into business life, some as teachers, some as preachers and some in government positions. Every one will have a part in forming the life that is to be in the future in those places.

We do well to set clearly before ourselves the end to be sought. If the chief quest is one of wealth or political preferment we shall make failure. Whether our stay be long or short, we shall curse ourselves and those to whom we go.

Our aim and purpose must be higher and more worthy. We go to form a people into new social order. As truly as we shape them we shall at the same time shape ourselves. The outcome will be a greater and more glorious nationality, in which God's will for men shall be better conceived and more adequately secured.

Let our leagues make a study of these lands and their inhabitants. Get a fuller understanding of their nature, conditions and needs. Learn what we as a nation and as a church are doing in each country. Know the men and women who are doing the work, what they are doing and how they are doing it. Invest some time and become interested in these affairs, because they vitally affect all our future and the destiny of our institutions, civil and religious.

We call them our possessions. We must make them to be the possessions of our Lord in righteousness and justice.

His Own Messengers.

It is God's glory to accomplish His work by messengers of His own choosing, and He often hides the meaning of His ways from His own people. Some may have made too much of the imperfections of the Bible, but others assuredly have refused to see them lest they should lose what faith they had. Shall we on that account attempt to exclude either party from the number of Christ's followers? That is a matter to be decided by Christ Himself on far other grounds than their opinion of the "higher criticism," but, looking at the matter from our own point of view, it is well to remember that the middle ground of today is not the middle ground of even a generation ago. There is an unreasonable exclusiveness of narrow belief as well as an inconsiderate inclusiveness of careless liberality, and it is possible to be more concerned for God's honor in the study of the methods of His work than He has ever cared to be.—Congregationalist.

What Is Wanted.

What is greatly wanted just now in our churches is a treasury filling spirit. That is the result of an ardent and growing love to our blessed Lord and to our fellow men. Less of self and more of Christ in heart and life finds increasing ways and means for carrying on the cause of Christ and humanity.—Presbyterian.

Cause For Regret.

The man who gives to the cause of Christ only half as much as he ought to give is sure to regret soon after he gave anything at all.—Religious Telescope.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 30.

Topic.—How giving reacts upon me.—Prov. iii, 9, 10; II Cor. ix, 6-11.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Action always produces reaction. A ball thrown against a solid wall will rebound. This principle is universally true in nature, so that in mathematics we have the axiom, "Action and reaction are always equal." This principle, practically defined, means that results are measured by effort. The power with which the ball makes its backward bound depends entirely upon the force with which it is thrown against the wall. In other words, we get what we give and in proportion as we give it. It is only the magician who can put nothing into a hat and yet bring out an egg or a silver dollar, and he really does not do so; he only seems to do so. Many men think that in life they are shrewd enough to get something for nothing, but they will awake some day and find that it was only a dream and is now a shattered dream. Men may follow illusions for awhile and find them satisfactory, but the dreamer must sometimes awaken, and how rude and depressing that awakening usually is!

This principle is particularly applicable to the subject of giving—giving money to the Lord's cause in the work. Giving always reacts upon the giver, and the character of the giving always determines the character of the reaction. If we give liberally, joyously and willingly, the reaction is always for good. Our souls are fortified against one of the most repulsive forms of selfishness—miserliness. Who more contemptible than the miser? And yet he has brought himself to that condition by failure to respond to the demands of giving upon him. The rich and those who are growing rich should be most liberal givers. Giving is their only salvation from a niggardly miserliness that will make them despised by their fellow men and even by the most high God. Moreover, giving enlarges the soul and sympathy of the giver. The soul of the liberal giver expands instead of contracting; it is broadened rather than narrowed. The man who gives liberally to missions is the one most interested in the work of missions; the one who gives of his money that the poor and infirm may be cared for has his sympathies broadened toward those whom he helps. Giving also uplifts the soul of the giver. God gave His best gift for the human race, and the man who gives abundantly, systematically and cheerfully becomes more and more like God.

The promises of God, as well as the laws of nature, prove the beneficent results of reaction in giving. "Honor the Lord with thy substance and with the first fruit of all thine increase; so shall thy farms be filled with plenty, and thy presses shall burst out with new wine." "He which soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly, and he which soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully."

A Model Business Endeavorer.

Christian Endeavor is largely in the debt of Mr. George B. Graff, the general agent of the publishing department of the United society. It is largely to his untiring efforts that this business end of Christian Endeavor is made profitable. The money thus accumulated is altogether used for the spreading of the cause. Mr. Graff is an ardent advocate of Christian Endeavor and a thorough believer in its principles. He is a platform speaker of no slight ability.

GEORGE B. GRAFF.

Indefatigable Dr. Clark.

Few men would travel around the world in the interest of a movement and pay the major part of the expenses of the trip by the use of their pen; fewer men could. And yet this is what Dr. Clark did in his recent journey. The world admires his spirit the more when it remembers that he wrote nearly every line at a time when he ought to have been resting for his next day's convention labors.

A California Worker.

J. E. White, the retiring president of the California State union, an attorney of San Francisco, has given a wonderful year of service. In the interests of state work he has traveled 9,700 miles, more than three times the distance between San Francisco and New York; has written 980 personal letters, delivered more than 80 addresses, and the total expenses of his office to the state union were $83.35.

From Dr. Cuyler's Successor.

There's room for somebody to work whenever there is somebody willing to work.

There's nothing so fine as a man who is good, but there is nothing sadder than a man who is good for nothing. The same is true of a movement.

If this convention should lead the people of this city simply to care that they are not saved, that would be enough for it all.

Do not let the fear of making mistakes keep you from trying. People who don't make mistakes don't make anything else.—Rev. Dr. Cleland B. Afee in New York State Endeavor Convention.

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors
BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.
BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.
LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW
BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.
LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT
BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.
BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FASHION'S FOIBLES.

New Trimmings For Evening Gowns. The New Jeweled Leather.

Perfectly stunning are the new evening frocks of painted chiffon, the billowy skirts inset with tiny islands of lace and dotted here and there with tiny ribbon bows or rosettes made of plaited satin ribbon. These plaque-like motifs are also sprinkled over the bodice and sleeves.

A charming trimming for a ball gown is lace treated with a trailing vine of small roses and the foliage. The roses are either made of narrow ribbon or of chiffon and the leaves of green mousseline. The sprawling stems are carried out in thin silk covered hat wire.

Jeweled leather is something very new. It makes up into charming belts, bags and stocks. The leather is painted in such a way as to have the appearance of jewels where mock gems themselves are not used.

A quantity of that strange orange color "coq de roche" is in evidence, and it may find favor in the sight of those fortunate people who have not exhausted its possibilities. To the artistic eye it has always been a quarrelsome contrast, and, although there are many others employed in the same manner, coq de roche has a peculiarly aggressive air. The only chance for it is a gradual shading off to brown.

The millinery model here illustrated is of brown beaver trimmed about the crown with bands of brown velvet and a paradise plume in a harmony of browns and this latter day orange color.

MOURNING COSTUMES.

Crape Voile Is the Material Which Is Most Approved.

Sooner or later there comes to almost every one a time when a mourning, or, as the French call it, a costume de deuil, is necessary. The trappings of woe are no longer so severe either in makeup or material as they used to be, for nowadays even the widow mitigates the costume effect of her grief.

The long veil of crape, that relic of barbarism, is a thing of the past, and the smart way of wearing this scarf is to attach it to a becoming close shaped hat and let it hang in a graceful short length down the back to about the waist line. Widows of the very conservative type alone wear the long crape veil reaching almost to the hem of the dress.

For elegant walking gowns dull finished broadcloth is the first choice or henrietta elaborately trimmed with crape and made attractive with dull jet buttons.

Voile is now the accepted material from which to evolve a mourning frock, and a stunning creation may be made from the new crape voile.

For dressy frocks black chiffon or brussels net trimmed with dull jet passementerie or rows of graduated black grosgrain ribbon is used. For a dinner gown unrelieved black tulle is delightfully becoming and smart.

The mourning costume illustrated is of crape voile. The skirt is gathered on heavy cords three times down its length and finished at the feet with pelerine flounces. The bolero shaped waist is gathered on the shoulders and has three gored attached basques on the jacket bodice. The trimming consists of narrow straps of the material and revers joined through dull ribbon and buttons of passementerie. The chemisette and belt are of crape.

By EMERSON HOUGH

Author of "The Story of the Cowboy," "The Girl at the Halfway House," Etc.

(Copyright, 1903, by Emerson Hough.)

"And you would go back into the wilderness with one who was as false as you say."

"Never!" replied John Law, swiftly. "'Tis as you yourself say. 'Tis all over. Hell itself hath followed me. Now let it all go, one with the other, little with big. I did not forget, nor should I though I tried it again. Back to Europe, back to the gaming tables, to the wheels and cards I go again, and plunge into it madder than ever did man before. Let us see if chance can bring John Law anything worse than what he has already known. But, madam, doubt not. So long as you claim my protection, here or anywhere on earth—in the west, in France, in England—it is yours; for I pay for my folly like a man, be assured of that. The child is ours, and it must be considered. But once let me find you in unfaithfulness—once let me know that you resign me—then John Law is free! I shall meantime see Catharine Knollys again. I shall give her my heart's anguish, and I shall have her heart's scorn in return. And then, Mary Connynge, the cards, dice, perhaps drink—perhaps gold, and the end. Madam, remember! And now come!"

CHAPTER XXXI.

THE GREAT PEACE.

Of the long and bitter journey from the Iroquois towns to Lake St. George, down the Richelieu and thence through the deep snows of the Canadian winter, it boots little to make mention; neither to tell of that devotion of Raoul de Ligny to the newly-rescued lady, already reputed in camp rumor to be of noble English family.

"That sous-lieutenant; he is tete montee regarding madame," said Pierre Noir one evening to Jean Breboeuf. "As to that—well, you know Monsieur L'as. Pouf! So much for yon monkey, par comparaison."

"He is a great capitaine, Monsieur L'as," said Jean Breboeuf. "Never a better went beyond the straits."

"But very sad of late."

"Oh, oui, since the death of his friend, Monsieur le Capitaine Pembroke—may Mary aid his spirit!"

"Monsieur L'as goes not on the trail again," said Pierre Noir. "At least not while this look is in his eye."

"The more the loss, Pierre Noir; but some day the woods will call to him again. I know not how long it may be, yet some day Mother Messasebe will raise her finger and beckon to Monsieur L'as, and say: 'Come, my son!' 'Tis thus, as you know, Pierre Noir."

Yet at length the straggling settlements at Montreal were reached, and here, after the fashion of the frontier some sort of menage was inaugurated for Law and his party. Here they lived through the rest of the winter and through the long, slow spring.

And then set on again the heats of summer, and there came apace the time agreed upon, in the month of August, for the widely heralded assembling of the tribes for the Great Peace; one of the most picturesque and significant meetings of widely diverse human beings, that ever took place within the ken of history.

They came, these savages, now first owning the strength of the invading white men, from all the far and unknown corners of the western wilderness. They came afoot, and with little trains of dogs, in single canoes, in little groups and growing flotillas and vast fleets of canoes, pushing on and on, down stream, following the tide of the furs down this pathway of more than a thousand miles. The Iroquois, for once mindful of a promise, came in a compact fleet, a hundred canoes strong, and they stalked about the island for days, naked, stark, gigantic, contemptuous of white and red men, of friend and foe alike. The scattered Algonquins, whose villages had been razed by these same savage warriors, came down by scores out of the northern woods, along little, unknown streams, and over paths with which none but themselves were acquainted. From the north, group joined group, and village added itself to village, until a vast body of people had assembled, whose numbers would have been hard to estimate, and who proved difficult enough to accommodate. Yet farther west, adding their numbers to those already gathered, came the fleets of the driven Hurons, and the Ojibways, and the Miamis, and the Outagamies, and the Ottawas, the Menominies and the Mascoutins—even the Illini, late objects of the wrath of the five nations. The whole western wilderness poured forth its savage population, till all the shores of the St. Lawrence seemed one vast aboriginal encampment. These massed at the rendezvous about the puny settlement of Montreal in such numbers that, in comparison, the white population seemed insignificant. Then, had there been a Pontiac or a Tecumseh, had there been one leader of the tribes able to teach the strength of unity, the white settlements of upper America had indeed been utterly destroyed. Naught but ancient tribal jealousies held the savages apart.

With these tribesmen were many prisoners, captives taken in raids all along the thin and straggling frontier; farmers and artisans, peasants and soldiers, women raped from the farms of the Richelieu cenpitaires, and woodrangers now grown savage as their captors and loth to leave the wild life into which they had so naturally grown. It was the first reflex of the wave, and even now the bits of flotsam and jetsam of wild life were fain to cling to the western shore whither they had been carried by the advancing flood. This was the meeting of the ebb with the sea that sent it forward, the meeting of civilized and savage; and strange enough was the nature of those confluent tides. Whether the red men were yielding to civilization, or the whites all turning savage—this question might well have arisen to an observer of this tremendous spectacle. The wigwams of the different tribes and clans and families were grouped apart, scattered along all the narrow shore back of the great hill, and over the Convent gardens; and among these stalked the native French, clad in coarse cloth of blue, with gaudy belt and buckskins, and cap of fur and moccasins of hide, mingling fraternally with their tufted and bepainted visitors, as well as with those rangers, both envied and hated, the savage coureurs de bois of the far northern fur trade; men bearded, silent, stern, clad in breech-clout and leggings like any savage, as silent, as stoical, as hardy on the trail as on the narrow thwart of the canoe.

Savage feastings, riotings and drunkenness, and long debaucheries came with the Great Peace, when once the word had gone out that the fur trade was to be resumed. Henceforth there was to be peace. The French were no longer to raid the little cabins along the Kennebec and the Penobscot. The river Richelieu was to be no longer a red war trail. The English were no longer to offer arms and blankets for the beaver, belonging by right of prior discovery to those who offered French brandy and French beads. The Iroquois were no longer to pursue a timid foe across the great prairies of the valley of the Messasebe. The Ojibways were not to ambush the scattered parties of the Iroquois. The unambitious colonists of New England and New York were to be left to till their stony farms in quiet. Meantime, the fur trade, wasteful, licentious, unprofitable, was to extend onward and outward in all the marches of the West. From one end of the Great River of the West to the other the insignia of France and of France's king were to be erected, and France's posts were to hold all the ancient trails. Even at the mouth of the Great River, forestalling these sullen English and these sluggish English colonists, far to the south in the somber forests and miasmatic marshes, there was to be established one more ruling point for the arms of Louis the Grand. It was a great game this, for which the continent of America was in preparation. It was a mighty thing, this gathering of the Great Peace, this time when colonists and their king were seeing the first breaking of the wave on the shore of an empire alluring, wonderful, unparalleled.

Into this wild rabble of savages and citizens, of priest and soldier and coureur, Law's friends, Pierre Noir and Jean Breboeuf, swiftly disappeared, naturally, fitly and unavoidably. "The West is calling to us, Monsieur," said Pierre Noir one morning, as he stood looking out across the river. "I hear once more the spirits of the Messasebe. Monsieur, will you come?"

Law shook his head. Yet two days later, as he stood at that very point, there came to him the silent feet of two coureurs instead of one. Once more he heard in his ear the question: "Monsieur L'as, will you come?"

At this voice he started. In an instant his arms were about the neck of Du Mesne, and tears were falling from the eyes of both in the welcome of that brotherhood which is admitted only by those who have known together arms and danger and hardship, the touch of the hard ground and the sight of the wide blue sky.

"Du Mesne, my friend!"

"Monsieur L'as!"

"It is as though you came from the depths of the sea, Du Mesne!" said Law.

"And as though you yourself arose from the grave, Monsieur!"

"How did you know—?"

"Why, easily. You do not understand the ways of the wilderness, where news travels as fast as in the cities. You were hardly below the foot of Michigan-on before runners from the Illini had spread the news along the Chicaqua, where I was then in camp. For the rest, the runners brought also news of the Big Peace. I reasoned that the Iroquois would not dare to destroy their captives, that in time the agents of the government would receive the captives of the Iroquois—that these captives would naturally come to the settlements on the St. Lawrence, since it was the French against whom the Iroquois had been at war; that having come to Montreal, you would naturally remain here for a time. The rest was easy. I fared on to the straits this spring, and then on down the lakes. I have sold our furs, and am now ready to account to you with a sum quite as much as we should have expected.

"Now, Monsieur," and Du Mesne stretched out his arm again, pointing to the down-coming flood of the St. Lawrence, "Monsieur, will you come? I see not the St. Lawrence, but the Messasebe. I can hear the voices calling!"

Law dashed his hand across his eyes and turned his head away. "Not yet, Du Mesne," said he. "I do not know. Not yet. I must first go across the waters. Perhaps sometime—I can not tell. But this, my comrades, my brothers, I do know; that never, until the last sod lies on my grave, will I forget the Messasebe, or forget you. Go back, if you will, my brothers; but at night, when you sit by your fireside, think of me, as I shall think of you, there in the great valley. My friends, it is the heart of the world!"

"But, Monsieur—"

"There, Du Mesne—I would not talk to-day. At another time. Brothers, adieu!"

"Adieu, my brother," said the coureur, his own emotion showing in his eyes; and their hands met again.

"Monsieur is cast down," said Du Mesne to Pierre Noir later, as they reached the beach. "Now, what think you?"

"Usually, as you know, Pierre, it is a question of some woman. It reminds me, Wabana was remiss enough when I left her among the Illini with you. Now, God bless my heart, I find her—how think you? With her crucifix lost, cooking for a dirty Ojibway!"

"Mary Mother!" said Pierre Noir, "if it be a matter of a woman—well, God help us all! At least 'tis something that will take Monsieur L'as over seas again."

"'Tis mostly a woman," mused Du Mesne; "but this passeth my wit."

"True, they pass the wit of all. Now, did I ever tell thee about the mission girl at Michiiimackinac—but stay! That for another time. They tell me that our comrade, Greysolon du L'hut, is expected in to-morrow with a party from the far end of Superior. Come, let us have the news."

"Tous les printemps,
Tant des nouvelles,"

hummed Du Mesne, as he flung his arm above the shoulder of the other; and the two so disappeared adown the beach.

Dully, apathetically, Law lived on his life here at Montreal for yet a time, at the edge of that wilderness which had proved all else but Eden. Near to him, though in these guarded times guest by necessity of the good sisters of the Convent, dwelt Mary Connynge. And as for these two, it might be said that each but bided the time. To her Law might as well have been one of the corded Sulpician priests; and she to him, for all he liked, one of the nuns of the Convent garden. What did it all mean; where was it all to end? he asked himself a thousand times; and a thousand times his mind failed him of any answer. He waited, watching the great encampment disappear, first slowly, then swiftly and suddenly, so that in a night the last of the lodges had gone and the last canoe had left the shore. There remained only the hurrying flood of the St. Lawrence, coming from the west.

The autumn came on. Early in November the ships would leave for France. Yet before the beginning of November there came swiftly and sharply the settlement of the questions which racked Law's mind. One morning Mary Connynge was missing from the Convent, nor could any of the sisters nor the mother superior, explain how or when she had departed!

ELECTION RETURNS.

Arrangements have been made by The Daily Press to display by stereotipcan views the returns of the election on November 8. The results of the National elections in the pivotal States, including New York, New Jersey, West Virgina and Indiana, as well as the complete returns of the gubernatorial and congressional fights in the various counties and districts in this State will be displayed. Returns from the election in the various parts of Union county and Plainfield and North Plainfield will be shown. J. Hervey Doane and John Neagle will operate the camera, and the returns will be received by telegraph and telephone.

LITTLE GIRL'S GRIEF STRANGELY AFFECTS A RUFFIAN.

A Story of the Chicago Stockyards Strike Told by Opie Read—Man Who Defied Police Is Tamed by Child.

When this fellow came out of the western mines, writes Opie Read, in the Chicago Journal, he gave his name as Dick Bagley, but soon his acquaintances called him Blood-in-the-eye.

The police had no cause to give him other than a name of infamy. Once it required four of them to take him to the station, and then their crowns were bloody. They broke one of his arms and mauled his head. But when he came out of the hospital he stood on the crest of opportunity, viewing the landscape for another chance to fight. His nickname was too long, so they called him Blood. A Salvation Army lass inquired of him if he ever thought about dying.

"What's the use? It wouldn't put it off any," he growled.

"You might die better."

"But not any deader. When I get through with this world, I want to get through sure enough."

He was hopeless. The time thrown away on him might serve to redeem some less stubborn soul. But had he a soul? Some of the men said not. Old Crisp said that he had not as much soul as a wildcat, and this animal has even less of psychological claim than a hyena.

How old Crisp hated him. Once he seized a gun, cocked it and leveled it at Blood's head; and Blood leered at him. He had no sensibility whatever. It was believed that he was insensible to pain. When he smashed his finger he talked while a surgeon was amputating it. He couldn't feel. He slept anywhere—in the weeds in summer and in winter his bed was of sawdust.

Strange to say, a woman at whose house he once boarded fell in love with him. The jokers said that it was because of contrast with her first husband, who was a mere skeleton, afraid of the dark. Brutes have humor; grizzly bears laugh, and Blood laughed at the widow. But he ate her out of house, and when she went into the country to hoe potatoes he sat in the place where his hunger had been appeased and called out: "Well, bring along the next one."

"AIN'T THERE PLENTY OF 'EM?"

Bets were made that one of these days old Crisp would kill him. He snapped a pistol at him one night, and when Blood had kicked the old fellow into a corner the giant said: "Crisp, you ought to get a gun that won't snap."

"I'll try a knife the next time," the old man moaned.

Out in the west they had come near hanging him for shooting a man who had become popular in society, but he showed so little concern that they didn't think it worth while. A reporter asked him how it felt to kill a man, and he answered: "Oh, something like filling a flush."

Not long ago he come out of a saloon with blood on his jaw. They had doubleteamed on him and some one had belabored him with a mallet. But he left them lying on the floor and he came away whistling. On the edge of the sidewalk sat a little girl, crying. While crossing the street she had dropped her doll. A wagon run over it and ground it to pieces. It was beyond all repair and her little mother soul was wrung. Her distress amused the ruffian. To him it was sort of music. He halted.

"What's the matter with you?"

"Oh, look at her—broke all to pieces."

"But can't you get another one," he asked, stirring the fragments with his foot.

"No; not any more."

"Why, ain't there plenty of them just like her?"

"But I can't get one now—maybe never again. The strike is still on and—and we haven't even got enough to eat. No, I can't get another one."

He felt in his pockets. Out came some silver and some pennies. "I've got about 97 cents," he said. "Come across here with me and we'll see what can be done."

Meekly she followed him into a store. He bought a doll and gave it to her.

She looked up timidly. "Will you let me kiss you?"

He blushed. "Yes, if you can."

He held her up in his mighty arms and kissed her. Then he turned away. Late that evening Old Crisp met him. "Will you take my hand, Blood?"

"Why?"

"You gave my little girl a doll."

They shook hands.

Cigar That Lights Itself.

Self-lighting cigars have been invented by an Austrian chemist. They are tipped with a chemical preparation, and when rubbed against a hard substance, such as a wall or the sole of a boot, ignite like a match.

AUTOMOBILING.

That women are becoming proficient in the running of automobiles is now evident here in Plainfield. Among those who operates autos as well as the men folks are Mrs. R. F. Murray, Miss Jessie Stevens, Mrs. G. Harry Squires and Mrs. Maltby.

One of the finest automobiles in the city is that owned by C. Wesley Holland, of West Seventh street. The car was made for a Japanese Prince, but he could not wait for its completion and purchased another car. Mr. Holland then purchased it himself.

The fourth annual Eagle Rock hill climbing contest will be held on Thanksgiving Day under the auspices of the Automobile Club, of New Jersey. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., has said that he will enter his new 90 horse-power Mercedes. The programme includes eleven events which embrace a wide range of classification that gives any sort of a car a chance to compete under fair terms.

STOKES TO BE HERE ON MONDAY NIGHT NEXT

REPUBLICAN GUBERNATORIAL CANDIDATE TO MAKE SPEECH.

The committee in charge of the Republican mass meetings here has been fortunate in being able to arrange an extra meeting for Monday night, October 31, at Reform Hall, and Hon. Edward C. Stokes, Republican candidate for Governor, will be the chief speaker. The committee was afraid that it would be unable to get Mr. Stokes to speak here as his time was so arranged that he was to give one night in each county in the State. A little change has made it possible for him to come here on Monday night, after which he will address a meeting at Elizabeth.

The last mass meeting will be held Thursday night, November 3, when Congressman Charles N. Fowler will be the principal speaker.

FOWLER AND MARTINE GREET EACH OTHER

RIVAL CANDIDATES SHAKE HANDS WHILE CAMPAIGNING.

Charles N. Fowler and James E. Martine, rival candidates for Congress, met each other while both were campaigning at Denville yesterday. Martine grasped Fowler's hand and the two exchanged greetings.

The Republican candidate received his admirers from the porch of the hotel, while the Democratic nominee addressed his friends from an automobile, paying a tribute to the personality of Mr. Fowler and then pouring a fusilade of hot-shot at him for not attending the sessions of Congress.

Improvements in Telephone Service.

Employes of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company are now engaged in putting a 300-pair cable underground in this city to take the place of the 100 pair cable which has been taken out. The change is made owing to the increase in business. The new section switchboard arrived today and will at once be connected with the present switchboard at the local exchange. This will make it possible to care for over 300 additional subscribers. At present twelve young women are employed at the exchange as operators and assistants.

Miss Edna Howell to Wed.

Miss Edna Minita Howell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Howell, formerly of Plainfield, will be married to Rev. Adams Douglas Archibald, of Prince Edward Island, on Wednesday, Nov. 16, at 12 o'clock noon, at the home of the bride's brother, Edwin A. Howell, Chester, Pa. Miss Howell has visited here a number of times, where she has many friends. Mr. Archibald is of Halifax, Nova Scotia, and he holds a position as field secretary at Prince Edward Island under the direction of the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions.

Reunion of Sisters.

Mrs. Mary Vreeland, of Chicago; Mrs. Howard Hegeman, of Elizabeth; Mrs. Kate Kibbe, of New Brunswick, and Mrs. T. D. Stryker, of Trenton, all sisters, are visiting Mrs. Stryker's daughter, Mrs. George W. Saums, of West Front street. This is the first time that Mrs. Vreeland has visited here in twenty-two years, and as she is well advanced in years, being seventy, it was her desire to meet her sisters and visit among eastern relatives. She, as well as her sisters, were born at Harlingen, Somerset county.

—Dr. D. G. Atwood, 308 West Front street, now offers an opportunity to you to have your dental work done at very reasonable prices. His adv. in this issue will interest you.

MANY GUESTS ATTEND MOUNT HOREB WEDDING

MISS M. ANNA NUSE THE BRIDE OF BENJAMIN GIDDES.

Miss M. Anna Nuse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Nuse, of Mt. Horeb, and Benjamin M. Giddes, of the same place, were married last evening at the home of the bride's parents, by Rev. Charles E. Walton, pastor of the Mt. Horeb M. E. church. The ceremony was witnessed by 150 guests from this city, New York, Newark, Elizabeth, Bound Brook, Somerville and Dunellen.

Miss Edith Nuse was maid of honor and Miss Carrie Nuse and Miss Selma Wrecklander were bridesmaids. Eugene Giddes, cousin of the groom, was best man and the ushers were Minerd Smith, Harry Nuse, Joseph VanNest and Charles Walton, Jr. Following the ceremony, a wedding supper was served and Mr. and Mrs. Giddes took the 1:17 train from this city to Washington. They will reside at Mt. Horeb.

IN THE CHRISTIAN FIELD

WORK IN THE CHURCHES OF THE CITY AND BOROUGH.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, will lead the Young People's Association meeting at the church tomorrow night.

The Farther Light Missionary Society of the First Baptist church of New Market will give a supper and entertainment in Friendship Hall this evening.

Miss Cromwell, of Cranford, will take charge of the alliance meeting to be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms on Friday evening. The song service will begin at 7:30. All are welcome.

Miss Emily C. March will speak, and Mrs. A. Harper, the colored contralto of Jersey City, will sing at the Y. M. C. A. meeting on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. All men are invited.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the East New Jersey Baptist Association will be held in the First Baptist church on Friday, November 4. There will be sessions morning and afternoon, with prominent speakers at each.

Under the auspices of the Epworth League, of the First M. E. church, a sociable will be held tomorrow night in Vincent chapel. A unique and interesting programme has been prepared and a cordial invitation is extended to members and friends. Opportunity will be given for a silver offering to be made for the benefit of the flower committee.

So as to comply with the building ordinance, the trustees of the First Baptist church are having new doors placed in the three main entrances to the edifice. They will swing outward, instead of in as before. Other buildings of like character will be looked after by Chief T. O. Doane, who, as building inspector, is making property-owners live up to the building ordinance.

Basket Ball This Afternoon.

The Whittier School basket ball team will play a game with the team from the Y. M. C. A. boys' department this afternoon on the gymnasium floor. The game will take place at about 4:30 o'clock. This will be the second time that the two teams have met, the last game resulting in a victory for the school boys by the score of 10 to 9. The two teams are very evenly matched and an interesting contest is anticipated. Manager Woodhull, of the Whittier School team, would like to hear from the manager of the Leal's second team, as he is desirous of arranging a game with their team.

Commissioners After Proof.

The borough Commissioners of Appeal sat again yesterday and heard several more objections to assessments. They devoted considerable attention to property owners residing near the township line who claim to have paid taxes to the township. Those appearing were notified to bring the paid tax bills before any change would be made.

Rev. W. T. Griffin, of East Seventh street, U. S. Consul at Limoges, France, returned home Sunday to remain for an indefinite period.

Miss Ella Serrell, of Plainfield avenue, has entered a New York Hospital, where she will prepare herself for the profession of trained nursing.

—The Union County Grand Jury completed its labors yesterday and adjourned to meet on Monday, when it will present a report to the court.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—E. V. H. Voorhees, of the firm of VanZandt & Voorhees, feed dealers on Park avenue, says that F. L. C. Martin has not leased the store occupied by them.

—Mrs. James S. Bellis, of West Front street, has purchased the Caleb Dickinson property on Vine street, which was owned by Mrs. J. F. Bates, of Setauket, L. I.

—Neuman Brothers have a special price for White Label canned goods in dozen lots. Better make purchases now from the new consignment of this season's pack just arrived.

—Employees of the New Jersey Central have erected the fence between the tracks at the Grant Avenue station and are now engaged in completing the concrete walks leading to the east and west-bound stations.

—The sale of the horses and wagons and other goods belonging to the Keely estate were offered at auction sale yesterday, Justice Hezekiah Hand being the auctioneer. The attendance was not as large as was expected and not many things were sold. One wagon, some harness, lap robes and whips comprised the list of things disposed of. The bids made for horses and wagons were generally too low. Another sale has not yet been decided upon.

Miss Minnie G. Morse, of Franklin place, who has been detained at home several weeks with malarial fever, has recovered, and leaves today for Wilmington, Del., where she will visit friends.

AMUSEMENTS.

The greatest theatrical effect Klaw & Erlanger have ever made will be presented at the New Amsterdam Theatre in New York, Monday evening, November 14, when the premiere of their American version of the last London Drury Lane spectacle, "Humpy Dumpty," will take place. They will, as in past seasons, utilize only the scenery, costumes and mechanical effects from Drury Lane. John J. McNally has written an entirely new book and Cole and Johnson a new score. This will be the largest theatrical production ever staged in America. Over 800 people will be employed in its presentation. Fully 600 will appear as principals, chorus, ballet and acrobats and 200 men will be required to handle the scenic and mechanical effects and operate the marvelously intricate trick scenery. William C. Schrode, a young pantomimic comedian, a pupil of the Hanlons, will be the Humpty Dumpy in this production, which will also present another clown in James A. Rice, as "Humpty Dumpty's Brother." The harlequin, pantaloon and columbine will be played by Howard Prevost, J. H. Powers and Nora Sarony.

Ernest Rapalje Married.

Announcement is made of the wedding of Ernest Rapalje, of Carlton avenue, to Miss Florinne Corbin, of Oxford, N. Y. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride, Tuesday evening, by Rev. Daniel Rapalje, father of the groom. The young woman is well known in this city and Elizabeth, having visited frequently at the latter place.

Mrs. Breshart Dead.

Mrs. Orah E. Breshart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Cleaves, died at her home in Dunellen, last night. A husband and daughter survive her. The funeral services will be held from the late home Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Miss Davis Married.

Many persons in Plainfield will be interested to learn of the recent marriage of Miss Mary Davis, formerly a teacher in the Stillman High School, to J. F. Bates. The couple is living at Setauket, L. I.

Will Lecture Tomorrow Night.

A. V. D. Honeyman's lecture on the "Religious Aspect of Russia," will be given at Warren chapel tomorrow night at the regular monthly missionary meeting, and not tonight as reported.

UNFIT FOR AUTONOMY

Lewis S. Thomas Thinks Philippine Freedom Unwise.

THEY'RE A BAD LOT

Former Plainfield Newspaper Man Residing Among Them Gives His Views.

Lewis S. Thomas, formerly a Plainfield newspaper man who has been in the Philippines for the last three years, has written the following interesting letter to a friend in Dunellen:

"I suppose you know that I have left the employ of the Government out here. I can assure you that I scarcely think it probable that I shall ever hunt another job from the Government. At present I am working for an American firm, G. A. Kaufman, in the town of Cagayan. I am sort of general roustabout. Sometimes it is hard and again it is easy. We are about the only firm of Americans in the islands who are doing anything in the native business and products. We are the principal merchants in the Province, being connected with Smith, Bell & Co., an English firm.

"We run a large store of everything and buy hemp and copra. As in every town in the Philippine Islands we find that it is necessary to take care of the Chinese business, as that people are the backbone of the retail business. If a white man or even a Filipino wants to sell more stuff than a Chinaman he must sell a great deal cheaper than the Mongolian. It speaks for the character of the Filipino. He envies everybody who is willing to work and get money and so will not do anything with anybody who will not allow himself to be badgered and bullied as does the Chinaman. We are able to do the business because we can do it cheaper than the Chinamen and by this time have prestige.

"It is probable that before long I shall be out in the mountains of Mindanao buying hemp, coffee, cacao and bees-wax, besides selling all the necessities of life which the savage tribes require. Our intention also is to get land, of which there is almost an unlimited amount, and start to grow hemp and sell it for export.

"I always feel as if I'd like to enlighten the people at home a little about the Filipino. There seems to be a greater or less tendency to believe in giving them their freedom or giving some pledge of the time when we shall give them their freedom. Just consider the state of the islands now after three years of as liberal a government as is possible to have, especially for the Filipino. It is hard for an American, with all the autocratic powers given the commission. In this province there is a Filipino governor and but one American official, the supervisor-treasurer. In all that time not one-quarter of the native landholders have paid their taxes. The lands have been sold at auction and bid in by the province and the old owners go on living there and oppose with force any attempt to dislodge them. A man can not leave a piece of land vacant two years without finding a dozen squatters who will oppose any eviction. And at last three towns have banded together and declared that they were free and all went to the mountains bearing with them the family of a man who had been prominent in assisting the officers of the law. They buried two boys alive and one man who escaped says that he saw one man kill thirty prisoners. Mind you, not white prisoners, but their own fellow countrymen. The bandits made a new religion for themselves and every band has a God the Father, a Holy Child, a Holy Virgin and Saints Peter and Paul to burn. The Virgins are chosen for their good looks and are very much respected by the followers, but generally have children.

"This state of affairs is common all over the islands and is only to be traced to the form of government which gives them the right to vote for their local officers and does not allow a white official to punish fittingly any of the derelictions until it becomes necessary to wage war. And this is the people some American think should be left to work out their own destiny. We would have our hands full responding for the damage done to foreign holding here, for there are already justifiable claims against the United States of damage done to proprety belonging to foreign residents. If the Americans withdrew there would be more revolutions to the year than in South America in all the years since they had Republics there.

"But then I have no complaint to make, the people are a little afraid to do anything to an American, for they have been punished several times without the intervention of the authorities and they have learned that it is not a good thing to monkey with an American.

"Sincerely,
"Lewis S. Thomas."

OSKOSH GLEE CLUB TO GIVE A BIG SHOW

JOS. M. SHELLABARGER PLANS TO BRING TROUPE BACK HERE.

The Oskosh Glee Club, which appeared at the Casino last winter under such favorable auspices and with so much success, will be "at home" at the Casino, this season, at a date to be announced later. The members were so much pleased with their reception last year that they decided to return and present an entirely new programme. The first rehearsal for the "home coming" was held last night at the Casino and from the every start there was an unusual amount of entnusiasm.

The membership of the club will be the same as last year, with the addition of the Misses Hess, of Central avenue, and H. E. Butler, of Madison avenue. Mr. Butler, who has just moved to this city, was for three years soloist for the Yale Glee Club. While last year's visit was an entire success, it is predicted that the affair this season will eclipse it.

Joseph M. Shellabarger has entire charge of the affair and he has written all the words for the songs. Assisting him are George S. Hing, business manager, and Harry Hall, stage manager. There will be about thirty-five members participating in the show. William E. MacClymont will be musical director.

BIG DEMOCRATIC RALLY AT ELIZABETH LAST NIGHT

BLACK, LINDABURY, MARTINE AND M'MILLAN SPEAK.

Gubernatorial Candidate Charles O. Black, of Jersey City, R. A. Lindabury, of Newark, Congressman Benton McMillan, of Tennessee, and Congressional Candidate James E. Martine, of this city, addressed the Democrats of Elizabeth at a meeting held in Jacobs Theatre last night. There were 2,000 people present and all the speakers were given ovations.

The meeting was called to order by James C. Connelly, chairman of the City Central Committee, who introduced Mayor Ryan as chairman. The candidate was the first speaker. He was introduced by Mayor Ryan as the next Governor of New Jersey, and the audience shouted its approval of the sentiment.

Mr. Black spoke on the State issue of equal taxation. He said this was his twenty-fourth day of continuous campaigning and that he was able to bring to the people of Union the tidings that the voters of the whole State are alive to the issues at stake and all signs pointed to a great victory in November.

Mr. Black answered the charge that he owns stock in the Pennsylvania Railroad by explaining that he holds twenty-two shares of United Railroads stock and five shares of Pennsylvania Railroad stock, together with his brother, as trustees for their nephew, William E. Newell, a student in the University of Pennsylvania, the stock being held under the will of Emily N. Black, the candidate's aunt.

Mr. Black declared he holds no stock of any railroad or trolley company on his own account. The explanation of the candidate was in answer to a question made at a public meeting in Essex County by his opponent, Edward C. Stokes.

Mr. Black left Senator McMillin to discuss National questions and hurried to Rahway, where he addressed another big meeting.

Memorial Service at St. Mary's.

Rev. Andrew M. Egan, rector of St. Mary's church, has arranged for a memorial service to be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in St. Mary's cemetery. This service was inaugurated a year ago and was so well received that it was decided to make it an annual event. It is expected that congregations will be present from Cranford, Westfield, Dunellen, North Plainfield and other nearby places. It is also expected that a number of visiting priests will attend the service.

No Entertainer for Club Meeting.

Though a large number of the members of the Men's Club, of Trinity Reformed church, assembled at the church last evening prepared to hear a lecture on compressed air, Andrew E. Kenney, who was to have delivered the lecture was unable to attend, and the affair had to be postponed to a later date.

Career of Resident Whose Patent Makes Collisions An Impossibility.

New York's magnificent subway, the largest and finest in the world, was formally opened to the public at 7 o'clock last night and before midnight 150,000 passengers had been carried. There was not an accident of any kind, and the Kinsman signal system worked to perfection.

F. E. Kinsman, the inventor of the automatic stop signal used on the subway, is a Plainfielder, residing on

F. E. Kinsman.

Sandford avenue. He was born in Leominister, Mass., fifty years ago and comes of Revolutionary stock. As a boy he was deeply interested in the strides of electricity. In 1877 he installed in Boston the first telephone circuit in America for the Bell Company. Later he came to New York, assuming an important position with the local telephone company. He then went to Chicago, and while there invented the multiple telephone switchboard.

Returning to New York, he became the superintendent of supplies and equipment for the telephone company.

His automatic stop was perfected only after years of work and experiments, and its value and efficiency have been proved by repeated tests. It was originally devised for steam roads, and is now in use on several big systems.

L. V. F. Randolph, president of the New York Consolidated Exchange, is quoted in the New York Herald yesterday as saying:

"The opening of the subway marks an era of progress in metropolitan development and constitutes a new departure in the line of improvement and growth. When I first knew New York it had a population aggregating about one-tenth of what it now has. Its growth has been facilitated and made possible by the enterprise of able men such as those who conceived and have now built the subway. The enterprise and ability of such men as these constitute New York's most precious possession."

AN INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

Grace Church Institution Opens Saturday, November 5.

The Industrial School for Colored Children at Grace church chapel, Sixth and Sycamore streets, will resume operations on Saturday, November 5, at 10 o'clock. The school has been thoroughly and efficiently organized in each of the departments of its work. Classes for boys will continue the wood carving and bent iron work. For girls the school provides beginning and advanced sewing, garment making, shirt waist making and cooking.

The privileges of the school are not reserved for members of the Mission, but are extended to all who wish to avail themselves of the opportunity. No religious distinction whatever is made in the applicants.

The Scottish Reformation.

A beautiful scene in the "Story of the Scottish Reformation" entertainment, to be given in Hope chapel Monday and Tuesday, is that of "John Knox at the Court of Mary, Queen of Scots." In this scene, Knox has his famous interview with Queen Mary. Knox really had four interviews with her, but Mrs. Monroe has condensed these into one, but the dialogue in this will be found strictly true to history. Three solos and a chorus are sung in this scene. The gay costumes, the Scottish and English soldiers, under the calcium lights form a beautiful picture indeed. This scene is an effective one and closes with a striking tableau.

WILLARD CASE WEDS MISS HELEN ELY MOUNT

CEREMONY IN FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH AT FREEHOLD.

Willard Case, son of Mrs. Susan P. Case, of 120 Plainfield avenue, and Miss Helen Ely Mount, of Freehold, were married yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the First Baptist church, Freehold, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. Rev. Mr. Stillwell, pastor of the church, officiated. A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. After a honeymoon the couple will reside at West Collingswood, near Camden, the groom being engaged in business at Camden.

Among those attending the marriage were Mrs. Susan P. Case, Samuel Case, Joseph, Howard Case, Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Case, of this city.

Swackhamer on the Stump.

Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer has been quite active for the Democratic party during the past week or two, having made a number of speeches in the interest of the nominees. Wednesday night he spoke to 2,000 voters at Williamstown, Gloucester county, and on Saturday night he talked for nearly two hours to an immense throng at Newton, Sussex county. Over three hundred people were unable to get in the hall. Last night he spoke at a mass meeting at Clinton, at the special request of Congressional Nominee Robert L. Stevens.

Democrats After Shattle.

A meeting of the Union County Democratic committee is called for tonight at Elizabeth, but as there is a large mass meeting scheduled for Reform Hall, it is doubtful whether the Plainfield members will attend. It is understood that charges will be preferred against Frank Shattle, a member of the committee, who resides here. It is likely that the committee will receive a communication from Mr. Shattle stating his position.

Greenbrook Council Entertains.

Greenbrook Council, No 1735, R. A., conducted its seventh annual entertainment in the Casino, last evening, with a large crowd in attendance. The programme was made up of vaudeville numbers furnished by New York talent procured through Tanner & Company's agency. The committee which has charge consisted of Rusel Hazard, Horace Conover, Charles Messersmith, William Force, John Dickson and A. E. Willard.

Colored Republican Club Dance.

Under the auspices of the Fourth Ward Colored Republican Club, one of the largest attended dances of the season took place in T. A. B. Hall last evening. There were several features, including a prize waltz won by Miss Nora McCree and William Randolph. The committee which had charge of the affair comprised George Ruggles and Frank Nelson. Numerous local politicians promised to be present but they failed to materialize.

Tennis Cup Presented.

Fred L. Martin, the winner of the Whittier School tennis championship for the year 1904, was presented with the cup offered by the athletic association at the school assemblage in Franklin Hall last Tuesday. The cup is of silver and is the permanent property of the winner. It is appropriately engraved with the name of the champion, and the date. The presentation was made by Miss Day, the principal of the school.

Pastor Melhorn Lectures.

Rev. P. J. Melhorn, pastor of St. Peter's German Lutheran church, delivered a lecture last evening, before a large audience. He spent five years as a missionary in Brasil and spoke of the many interesting things that took place during his stay in that country. The German Singing Section was in attendance and rendered vocal selections.

Garvin Case Postponed.

The contract case of Virgil Garvin against the Plainfield Athletic Club has been postponed for another week. This is the second time which this case has been postponed, it having come up for the first time about three weeks ago.

Juniors Elect Officers.

At a class meeting of the class of 1906 of the Plainfield High School, yesterday, the following officers were elected: President, Stuart Freeman; vice president, Joseph Gavett; secretary and treasurer, Jerome Cline.

Republican Mass-Meeting.

Congressman F. B. Boocock, of New York, will speak at the Republican mass meeting to be held in Reform Hall Monday night. Gubernatorial Candidate Edward C. Stokes will also make an address.

MAYOR FLAYS ENEMIES

N. B. Smalley Scores Anti-Administration Leaders.

ANOTHER REVOLT

After Reviewing Acts of Some Prominent Republicans He Receives an Ovation.

Enemies to the present administration of the borough and leaders of the antagonistic body, were mercilessly flayed by Mayor N. B. Smalley in a speech before the Good Government Club last evening. In reviewing the government of North Plainfield for the past decade, he scored Dr. J. H. Cooley and A. V. D. Honeyman in unmeasured terms, dwelling upon the fact that they had been ousted from power for good and sufficient reasons and that at the present time they are making desperate attempts to get back. Coming down to present day facts he touched upon recent charges in the various municipal departments which he declared had proven a stride in advancement without further expense to taxpayers but which had been opposed at every point by these same leaders.

Continuing the flaying, he paid his respects to H. H. Webb, Editor Bateman, of Somerville; Louis Thompson and others. He as much as advocated borough Republicans bolting the county delegates and expressed the wish that a large enough hall could be procured before Election Day in order that he might explain to the voters why they should not be put in control. Returning to borough matters he declared that the same persons criticising affairs now, are the ones who all but plunged the borough into bankruptcy ten years ago, the situation being relieved by the election of Colonel J. F. Wilson as mayor.

As he concluded speaking, the Mayor received an ovation from the large crowd of voters in attendance and many of them assured him of their support in his statements. Peter Emmons and other members of the club also addressed the gathering.

Heard Former Mayor's Charges.

At a meeting of the fire and buildings committee of the Common Council, last evening, the members listened formally to the charges made by Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph that Inspector Doane was negligent in granting Tony Marra permission to erect the "spite" house on East Front street. The session was held at the request of the official in order that he might present his side of the affair. He and Mr. Randolph were present and after hearing the testimony, the committee adjourned and will make its decision known later.

Reception and Dinner for Candidate.

Hon. Charles O. Black, candidate for Governor on the Democratic ticket, is expected to arrive here at 5 o'clock this afternoon and he will hold an informal reception at the Hotel Kensington. Mr. Black and John Sharp Williams, both of whom will speak at Reform Hall tonight, will be the guests of Mayoralty Candidate A. H. Atterbury at dinner, this evening.

W. C. T. U. Officers Chosen.

The New Jersey Woman's Christian Temperance Union in session at Woodbury elected yesterday officers for the ensuing year as follows: President, Mrs. Emma Bourne, of Newark; corresponding secretary, Mrs. I. H. Demarest, of Gloucester; recording secretary, Eva M. Lake, of Pleasantville; treasurer, Mrs. H. L. Caminade, of Camden.

Coal Wreck at Dunellen.

The breaking of a coupling on a west-bound coal train, demolished two cars and blocked two tracks of the New Jersey Central opposite the Dunellen depot late this morning. An express train narrowly escaped crashing into the debris. The wreckage was cleared away by noon.

Vannanze Fined $50.

Changing his plea of not guilty to non vult, Carman Vannanze, the borough Italian who stabbed Dominick Continello and Rocco Montano in the Hudson Lane brawl several months ago, was fined $50 by Judge Schenck at Somerville today. He was not represented by counsel.

Miss Alice Barker to Wed.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Miss Alice Barker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horsely Barker, formerly of this city, but now of Brooklyn, to Z. P. Secor, also of Brooklyn. The date for the wedding is January 24, at the home of the bride.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Belle Milne and Allen B. Laing, both of the borough. The wedding date has not been set.

MISS ANNA BARRE BRIDE OF JOHN JOYCE

QUIETLY MARRIED LAST EVENING BY REV. JOSEPH O. M'KELVEY.

Miss Anna Barre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Barre, of Somerset street, and John Joyce, of the borough, were married last evening, at the home of Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel. The ceremony was conducted quietly, only the members of the party being in attendance. Miss Elsie Burmiester, of New York, acted as bridesmaid and James Quinn, of New York, was best man.

Returning to the home of the bride's parents, a reception was tendered them by a large gathering of friends. Supper was served and several hours were spent with music and dancing, while Albert Haring, of Somerville, amused the guests with humorous vocal selections.

Mrs. Joyce is a prominent member of Warren chapel and has a host of acquaintances in the city and borough. The groom came to this city from Paterson and is employed by the Watchung Silk Company. They will make their home at 125 Somerset street which has been completely furnished. Both young people were well remembered with presents of silver, cut glass and bric-a-brac.

MR. AND MRS. M'CUTCHEN AS GUESTS OF HONOR

ENJOYABLE RECEPTION GIVEN BY THE PARK CLUB.

Society folk in both the city and borough joined last night in giving a reception to Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, of North Plainfield, who have been absent from their home for over a year. The event also marked the opening of the social season at the Park Club and judging by the large number of persons present the coming season will be the greatest in the history of the organization. The clubhouse never presented a more attractive appearance in its floral decorations from the conservatories of Mr. McCutchen and other members of the club, while the passing to and fro of the richly-gowned women lent a brilliancy to the affair.

The reception was an informal one, in many respects, and the greeting on the part of the guests and Mr. and Mrs. McCutchen was most cordial. The entertainment committee, comprising Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Townsend Rushmore, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Hallock, Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. McGee and Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, did all in its power to make the reception a success and they presented the guests to Mr. and Mrs. McCutchen.

The reception lasted until 11 o'clock, after which the younger persons were given the privilege of the floor for dancing until the early hours of the morning. Music for the occasion was furnished by a Newark orchestra seated on the stage behind a wealth of floral decorations.

COLORED DRAMA.

Presented by Mt. Zion A. M. E. Church Members.

"Thirty Years of Freedom," a southern drama in four acts was given in Reform Hall last night under the auspices of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, and the direction of the pastor's wife, Mrs. H. C. Ashley. There was a good attendance of friends of the church and the affair was a success. These persons took part: Miss Fanny Olden, Miss Ellie Sumter, Mrs. Ollie Grobes, Mrs. Laura Wilson, Miss Cecelia Holmes, Miss Laura Frazer, Miss Marion Maynard, Miss Maude Doyle, Miss Mabe Clay and A. Preston White, Howard Grobes, Walter Johnson, Charles Henry, Edward Blair, Alex Stills and Alfred Wood.

During the play there were vocal solos by Miss Lula Lewis, Miss Patty Lauder, Miss Beatrice Chatman and Miss Laura Frazer.

Manager C. W. Runyon in Charge.

Owing to the illness of Charles Root, of Elizabeth, manager for the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, in this district, assistant manager, Charles W. Runyon, of the local exchange, is attending to his duties at Elizabeth, as well as his own here.

RETALIATES ON BRUNSON

President's Act Prompts Borough to Remove Its Funds.

BRUNSON ESCAPED TAX

North Plainfield Council Withdraws Account From Bank to Get Square With Head Officer.

In retaliation for the removal from the borough of bank stock owned by A. J. Brunson worth $43,060, the North Plainfield Common Council has ordered $8,000 of its funds transferred from the First National to the City National Bank. The move was decided upon at a special meeting and the members were evenly divided in their opinion, Mayor Smalley, a former director of the First National, casting the deciding vote.

The bank stock in question was transferred by the owner to Cape May County because the rate at this place was much lower than in the borough. At last year's rate in North Plainfield it cost him $1,150 per annum to keep it within the borough, and this loss was keenly felt in the taxes. In Cape May the tax amounts to about $600. Brunson is president of the First National Bank and as the borough has placed its funds in this institution, he would indirectly receive the benefit.

The matter was called to the attention of the borough authorities by several citizens and resulted in the special meeting being called. While there was no attempt at concealment, the facts of the session were not made known until today. The removal means more than would first be supposed from the amount mentioned as it is lower at this time than at any month in the year. The taxes are now coming in and as they were usually deposited with the First National the loss will be felt.

Meeker Law Attacked.

In some cities it is claimed that since the Meeker law consolidated the spring and fall elections, the voters are apt to lose sight of the issues involved in municipal affairs in the larger issues before them. The Republicans of New Brunswick invite each voter to very carefully weigh the local issues, compare the candidates of the two parties and cast an intelligent local ballot as well as an intelligent State and National ballot, believing as they do that such a ballot will be thrown on the side of the Republicans.—New Brunswick Daily Press.

Big Rally Tonight.

Congressman John Sharp Williams, minority leader of the House of Representatives, Charles O. Black, gubernatorial candidate for governor, and James E. Martine, congressional nominee, will address the Democratic mass meeting in Reform Hall tonight. Music will be furnished by LaVere's band. The North Plainfield Democrats will be escorted to the hall by a band.

A Still Alarm.

Burning leaves threatened several residences on Grove street, opposite Lincoln place, last evening, and a still alarm was turned into borough fire headquarters. The department responded promptly and extinguished the flames in short order.

Tribute to City Judge.

City Judge William N. Runyon, of Plainfield, is to be honored by a re-election to the office he has filled with such dignity and ability. He is active in the county campaign, and is making votes for the entire ticket.—Elizabeth Journal.

Fractured His Arm.

Louis Rothberg, aged ten years, of West Third street, had a fall yesterday afternoon, receiving a simple fracture of the arm. The lad was taken to the hospital, where Dr. P. S. Cregar treated him.

Tax Returns Satisfactory.

Collector F. H. Smith is gratified with the prompt response of many taxpayers in setting their accounts in his office. He says that the returns to date are ahead of those a year ago.

Hallowe'en Supper.

The Exempt Firemen's Association, of the borough, will give a Hallowe'en supper in the club rooms Monday night. The social committee has prepared a programme.

—The Plainfield Land and Building Company are advertising on the eighth page of this issue a number of fine residential properties at exceptionally low prices. The size of the lots, location and price is mentioned, and if you are thinking of owning your own home it will surely pay you to look over this list.

The Epworth League, of Grace M. E. church, will hold a Hallowe'en social in the Good Government Club rooms Tuesday evening.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

READY REFERENCES FOR THE LOCAL ARGAIN SEEKERS.

W. W. Warnock has them. What? The varieties and kinds of cakes that will tickle your palette. He makes a specialty of plain and fancy cakes.

There is always something to suit you at Gavett's. He has a variety of stock in chinaware, cut glass, etc., which cannot fail to meet with your approval.

J. Hervey Doane, the Park avenue jeweler, has just what you want for a wedding or birthday present and then the goods are of such standard value that one need never be ashamed of them.

Does H. J. Wierenga do your trucking and express work? He is well equipped to do it and will give entire satisfaction. Let him do your work when you have occasion to need a truckman again.

John Herrmann, the Somerset street stair builder, has recently completed several large contracts in the city and borough. He is thoroughly experienced in this line of work and may be communicated with by calling 'phone 70-J.

Charles Conover & Co., of Elmwood place, has the reputation for doing only first-class papering and painting. His materials are the best and the prices are satisfactory. Call the firm up on the telephone and get an estimate.

Woolston & Buckle have been in business in Plainfield for many years as painters, decorators and paper hangers and in that time they have undertaken hundreds of contracts. The fact that they are still "at the old stand" is evidence that they must do good work. As them for estimates in this line.

Good cigars are not such a rarity in Plainfield—that is, since J. P. Kirch became established in business on North avenue. He makes a specialty of high grades but at the same time he asks the prices that others charge for an inferior article. Some special sales this week.

Werner can show the latest and best patterns in fall and winter clothing, and also has the most complete line of gentlemen's furnishings in the city. He will out you a winter overcoat that will equal any you might get in the city. Why not trade in your own town, and patronize local merchants when they are superior to others?

It is said that some men live only to eat but whether this is so or not it's a fact that all men must eat to live. Those who dine at Clevely's North avenue restaurant live long and happy because there is nothing served but what agrees with them. Private dining room for women and business men's lunch from 12 until 3 o'clock.

This is the season of the year when many a household needs replenishing in kitchen utensils and the best place to get these things is at the H. E. Gayle Hardware Company store, corner of Park avenue and Front street. If you need a new range or heating stove you can get exactly what you want here at the right price. A superior line of oil heaters is also carried in stock.

The meats, poultry, fish and game, in season, at Roth & Co.'s market on East Front street, give the greatest satisfaction to the consumer and represent the lowest prices at which this quality can be sold. Roth & Co. stand behind every sale made at their market and it is their chief aim to please every person that trades with them. Every customer of this store is able to save money on all purchases.

Weinberger, the West Front street clothier, is showing one of the best lines of men's and boys' clothing in the State. Every suit represents first-class material, the best workmanship, and the figures are marked so low that everyone can be well dressed. If you do not care for a ready-to-wear suit, there is a custom tailoring department that is sure to please you and as for men's furnishings this is just the place to get them.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B Miner, of Oriskany Falls, N. Y., are visiting relatives here. Mr. Miner is a brother of Mrs. Joseph E. Morse, of Franklin place.

—H. M. Butler, a graduate of Yale, and for three years one of the soloists in the glee club at the college, and who was recently married, has leased the property at 514 Madison avenue and taken possession.

Nasal CATARRH

In all its stages there should be cleanliness.

Ely's Cream Balm cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membrane. It cures catarrh and drives away a cold in the head quickly.

Cream Balm is placed into the nostrils, spreads over the membrane and is absorbed. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. It is not drying—does not produce sneezing. Large Size, 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; Trial Size, 10 cents by mail.

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

Is the refusal of the management of the New York National League Baseball Association to permit Joe McGinnity to play ball on the Pacific coast this fall, considerable trouble is likely to arise in the Giants' camp. The "Iron Man" has a most lucrative offer from Manager Morley, of the Los Angeles Club, for a late autumn season of play, and when he laid the matter before President John T. Brush, permission to play was refused him. As a result it is quite likely that McGinnity will be missing when the Giants line up for play next spring. Christy Mathewson also received a similiar offer, and he has not troubled himself to consult with Brush, but announced that he would play on the other side of the continent. If he remains firm in his determination, it is likely that McGinnity will join him. McGinnity was offered a salary of $2,500 for a period of six weeks' work and because he was forbidden to accept the offer, the president's action has incensed him. He has intimated that unless changes in the treatment of players are made, he would probably withdraw from the team.

Miss Adria Hart, of Brooklyn, who has been the guest of Miss Minnie G. Morse, of Franklin place, has returned home.

—Fred Huff will represent the plaintiff in the case of Morris Bellowitz against S. Johnston, in tort, to be tried in the Middlesex county court. He will represent the defendants in the case of Barker J. Hamil against Henri Lusardi, et als, which will be tried in the Court of Chancery.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The sudden death of Charles Wade, who was killed by a fast freight train at Trenton Junction Wednesday night, has cast a gloom over the entire town. Being a local young man all his life, during the past few years actively engaged in the grocery business, he still found time to take an active part in Twilight Council, Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company and the Methodist church and the Epworth League. His association in these has made him many friends who had learned to love him for his many excellent traits of character displayed in his associations with others. When his death was reported about the village yesterday, many words of regret for his untimely end and sympathy for the stricken family was heard from all. The body was brought to Cole's undertaking parlors at Plainfield, yesterday afternoon. Funeral arrangements will be completed today, but it is expected that they will be held Sunday afternoon in the Methodist church. Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company and Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., both held special meetings last night to take action on the death of their brother member. Both organizations will attend the obsequies.

Election Day continues to get nearer and nearer, but the usual election noise and roar is missing this campaign. The Republicans have organized as usual but the Democratic voters have remained very quiet so far. This campaign will no doubt go down in local history as being the quietest ever held in the place.

The carelessness of someone in throwing away a lighted match or cigar stump started a fire Wednesday night in the dry leaves along the fence about C. N. Flanders' property on Front street. When the family discovered the fire quite a blaze was in progress in close proximity to the porch of the house.

The Board of Education has engaged Miss Ross, of Plainfield, as an assistant teacher for school No. 2. The school building is ready and the opening session will be held Monday morning.

The business meeting and social of the Epworth League, which was to have been held tonight in the Methodist church, has been postponed on account of the death of Charles Wade.

A number of the local members of the Arcanum attended the entertainment held under the auspices of Greenbrook Council, at the Casino, last night.

Thomas Sellers, who is employed by the Lawrence Cement Company at Siegfried, Pa., is spending a week's vacation at his home.

The weekly shoot of the Brookside Gun Club will be held tomorrow afternoon on the grounds near Green brook.

The Republican Club will send a large delegation to the party rally to be held Saturday night at Westfield.

The Orange Field Club will meet the Somerville eleven on the Orange Oval gridiron tomorrow afternoon.

The weekly prayer and teachers' meeting of the Baptist church will be held tonight at The Manse.

Mrs. Samuel Clark, of Murray Hill, has been visiting relatives in town for several days.

Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 28, 1904.

The wise advertiser not only profits by his own experience but by the experience of other advertisers as well. —Ex.

Dispatches from the West say "a whisky war is on in Indiana." Evidently a transfer of affairs from Tenth avenue where the wood alcohol, brick dust and prune juice brand had things its own way.

Election returns will be received by a special wire at The Daily Press office on Election night and the telegrams showing the results in all parts of the country, especially in the doubtful states, will be displayed by stereopticon, as quickly as obtained, in front of the office. Returns from Union and Somerset Counties will be received by telephone.

Urged to action evidently by the campaign managers in the Dix building in Elizabeth, The Daily Journal, of that city, has opened its guns on James E. Martine, the Democratic congressional candidate, and incidently takes a shot at the Plainfield papers for speaking the plain truth about a man whose character and ability are admired by his fellow townsmen. "It is nice to speak kindly of your neighbor," says the Journal, "but it is not possible that either of the Plainfield editors wish the intelligent voters of the Fifth district to believe they mean what they say." The Elizabeth Journal has always boomed the nominees of the party it represents, regardless of their reputation and ability. In fact it is considered a very nice party organ. The Daily Press is independent in politics and we can say in justice to our contemporary that The Courier-News at times has shown that it is not tied to any political machine. The truth may be unpleasant to The Journal sometimes. We know it was last fall when that paper ridiculed the claims made here that there would be a political revolution in the county. And the Journal is now inclined to ridicule us for saying in regard to Mr. Martine: "That he is qualified to fill the office creditably to the Fifth district no unbiased person can deny," and "any unprejudiced voter cannot help but admit that the Plainfield candidate has a superior knowledge of what legislation would benefit the laboring man and farmer, and that he has studied their interests for years."

Perseverance lodge, No. 74, K. of P., will confer the third degree on two candidates this evening. An excellent programme has been provided for the good and welfare session.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Special prices on all fruits at Neuman Brothers tomorrow. A nice lot of grapes, oranges and grape fruit to select from.

—John Post, the well known dermatologist, will be at the Madison Beauty Parlors tomorrow afternoon from 1 to 6. Consultations free.

—Andrew McKeon, of West Front street, who was recently injured in a trolley accident at Bound Brook, has effected a settlement with the Public Service Corporation. He received about $100.

—F. L. C. Martin, of Park avenue, called at The Daily Press office last night and denied the statement made by E. V. H. Voorhees, of the firm of VanZandt & Voorhees, that he did not have a lease on the business place occupied by them, by showing the lease between the Estate of Boice, Runyon & Co. and himself. Mr. Martin says that he intends closing all entrances on the side of the building and making one large entrance from Park avenue. The lease extends for five years from April 1, 1905.

PERSONAL.

Dr. and Mrs. Brennan, of Grant avenue, are the parents of a girl who came to their home Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Connor, of West Sixth street, have returned from a two weeks' visit with friends at Rochester, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Dobbins, Mrs. Walter C. Dobbins and daughter, Erma, have been visiting relatives at Caldwell, Essex county, for a short time.

Friends here will be interested to learn that a daughter was recently born to Mr. and Mrs. Bennett, of Gloucester, Mass. Mrs. Bennett was formerly Miss Edith Clapp, of North Plainfield.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

At the first regular meeting of the Literary Society, held on Monday night at the home of Mrs. S. K. Doolittle, the following officer were elected: President, Mrs. S. K. Doolittle; vice president, Mrs. W. W. Castleberry; secretary and treasurer, Miss Lulu Gise.

The Misses Mamie and Frances Hunt returned last evening from their western trip. They visited the St. Louis Fair for a week and spent the rest of the three weeks, which they have been away from home, with relatives in Chicago and other large western cities.

The board of registry will meet in the council chamber next Tuesday from 1 until 9 o'clock to add to the list the names of any voters who have not yet been enrolled, providing they appear in person.

Rev. George Mooney, of the Monroe Avenue church, who has spent two years in the West as a missionary to the Indians, will speak in the Methodist church on Sunday afternoon.

The supper and entertainment given by the Farther Light Missionary Society, of the Baptist church, of New Market, last evening, was a grand success.

It looks now as if Dunellen was without a football team again. No practices have been held this week and no game is scheduled for tomorrow.

Henry Weidenhaupt, of North avenue, has purchased the pool and billiard business of David Ross, of Bound Brook, and is now in the business.

Judge D. W. Hicks, who spoke on equal taxation in the Republican headquarters last evening, was liked by every one who heard him.

Invitation for an olden time Hallowe'en party to be given on Saturday night by Miss Mary Girscom, of New Market, are out.

Rev. Mrs. W. W. Castleberry and Mrs. H. Bodine spent yesterday in Woodbridge at the State convention of the W. C. T. U.

The regular monthly meeting of the fire department was held in the borough hall last evening.

Work is progressing rapidly on the Smith house on Dunellen avenue.

The small boy is already preparing for Hallowe'en.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Carl Darlington is spending a few days with his mother in New York city.

An extra gang has been put to work at the Coal Storage.

Scotch Plains News on Page Three.

—James Jiovino, of Watchung avenue, has been named as an Assembly candidate on the ticket nominated by People's Democratic party.

—The white paint with which Woolston & Buckle are painting Robert Clark, Jr.'s dwelling house on Jackson avenues, makes a great improvement in the appearance of his home, and the large veranda just completed by Contractor W. H. Kirch, also adds much to the attractiveness of the house.

POLITICAL CHAT.

The members of the North Plainfield Democratic Club are requested to meet at headquarters this evening at 7:30 to attend the mass meeting in Reform Hall. Arrangements will be decided at that time to have the club participate in the Newark demonstration to Presidential Candidate Alton B. Parker on Tuesday evening next. Every borough Democrat is invited to attend.

Frank H. Smith, the Republican candidate for registrar of deeds, is one of the most popular men on the ticket. In Plainfield the voters seem to be practically unanimous for him, and he is making friends wherever he goes. Mr. Smith is just the man for the new office. He has the experience, and for years has been an honored and capable official of Plainfield.—Elizabeth Journal.

At a meeting of the State Republican Committee held in Trenton Wednesday every county in the State was represented. United States Senators Kean and Dryden also attended the meeting, and expressed their views on the political situation in New Jersey. After hearing from the members of the committee in rotation by counties a comparative estimate of the probable Republican majority in the State was made up, from which it appeared that the majority for President Roosevelt would be approximately from 25,000 to 35,000 and that of ex-Senator Stokes, the Republican candidate for Governor, anywhere from 15,000 to 20,000, most of the members of the committee inclining to place the majority for Stokes at about 18,000. Senator Kean and Hamilton F. Kean were agreed in the belief that Union County would return Republican majorities in keeping with those which were given there four years ago. There were no political disturbances in sight—in fact, harmony prevailed throughout Union County.

Dispute Over Estate.

The case of John Anderson, administrator of James A. Anderson, against Mrs. Bridget Burke and Miss Julia Burke, heirs-at-law, in the matter of deciding to whom shall be paid $1,000 death benefit on the life of James A. Anderson, who died a year after his wife, who was made beneficiary, will be tried in the Chancery Court, Newark, on December 6. John P. Owens, Esq., as administrator of the late Rosanna Anderson, is opposed in the case by William Newcorn, Esq.

Congress of Mothers.

The fourth annual session of the New Jersey Congress of Mothers is being held in Trenton today. A meeting of the board of managers convened at 10 o'clock this morning in the guild room of Christ Episcopal church. The afternoon session began at 2 o'clock, with invocation by the Rev. Edward T. Knight, rector of Christ Episcopal church. Professor W. A. Wetzel, principal of the high school, delivered the address of welcome.

—Manning Field, colored, of Plainfield avenue, while walking along Central avenue, yesterday afternoon, fell and sustained a slight scalp wund. He is now at the hospital under treatment.

Mrs. H. S. Potter, of East Second street, has returned from a visit with relatives in New Haven.

BENBOW'S VICTORY.

Montana Man Conquers Powers of the Air.

AIRSHIP SAILS AT HIS WILL.

Inventor Appeared to Have Complete Control of His Cigar Shaped Balloon and Aerial Car In World's Fair Voyage.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 28.—Floating gracefully in the air at an average height of thirty feet above the heads of the several thousand spectators, the airship designed and built by T. C. Benbow of Columbus, Mont., made what the inventor declares was a successful trial flight in the aeronautic concourse at the world's fair.

The big cigar shaped balloon, bearing its burden of car, motor, machinery and operator, rose from the ground at 5 o'clock last night and after navigating the air for fifteen minutes, during which Benbow directed the prow of his vessel toward all points of the compass, slowly descended to the ground near the starting place and was secured by attendants without a break to mar the success of the flight.

While Benbow appeared to have absolute control over the machine, an anchor rope about fifty feet long was used, one end of which was held by an assistant during the entire flight.

Benbow made the following statement: "This trial was made to determine the feasibility of my airship. I had intended making a trip over the fair grounds, but found that the rapid condensation of gas was fast reducing the lifting power, and in order to maintain an altitude I threw out all my ballast.

"During the fifteen minutes that I was up my airship lost sixty pounds of lifting power, and I realized that I could not make an extended trip. The airship was completely under my control, and it responded nicely. The start was made so late that that fact alone prevented a long trip, the cold atmosphere causing the condensation of gas.

"I intend if the weather permits to make an extended test of the dirigibility of my airship, and I will make my start in the middle of the day, when the atmosphere is warmer."

The Benbow airship weighs about 600 pounds without an operator. The gas bag is seventy-five feet long and about twenty feet wide at the center, tapering at the ends. The bag contains 16,000 cubic feet of gas when inflated, and on this gas the ship depends for maintenance of equilibrium. The frame of the ship is of aluminum and wood, and the power is derived from a ten horsepower gasoline motor.

Momentum is given to the airship by means of two large side wheels, or fans, each consisting of four blades, so constructed that they automatically fold after completing the stroke against the air and do not expand until again in position to force the airship ahead.

Burned to Death on Locomotive.

PHILLIPS, Neb., Oct. 28.—Fireman Lazear lost his life in a peculiar accident on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad here. A passenger train struck an oil wagon at a street crossing, and the oil which was thrown over the engine and cars caught fire. Fireman Lazear was burned to death, and Engineer Parkinson barely escaped injury. The flames were soon extinguished.

A Second Spread of Rabies.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 28.—Charles T. Russell, assistant commissioner of agriculture, has arrived in Ithaca to investigate the cause of the second spread of rabies which has broken out here. Two dogs that had been running about the streets unmuzzled and which were caught have developed rabies. It is thought they inoculated other animals before being caught.

Not Sold to Union Pacific.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 28.—President A. B. Stickney of the Chicago Great Western railroad, who attended the convention of the Nebraska Bankers' association, has denied that the Great Western has been sold to Union Pacific interests. He also said that so far as he knew no option had been given on the property to any person and scouted the entire story.

Ship's Steward Missing.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Oct. 28.—The United Fruit company's steamer Limon, from Boston for Port Antonio, Jamaica, reports that her chief steward, R. C. Prince, disappeared the night of Oct. 22. The steamer Ben Clune, from Port of Spain for Gulfport, Miss., which has gone ashore on Grand Cayman island, is expected to prove a total loss.

EMERSON HOUGH.

By EMERSON HOUGH

Author of "The Story of the Cowboy," "The Mississippi Bubble," "Purchase," "The Law Breakers," etc.

yet, had there been close observers, there might have been seen a boat dropping down the river on the early morning of that day. And at Quebec there was later reported in the books of the intendant the shipping, upon the good bark Dauphine, of Lieutenant Raoul de Ligny, sometime officer of the regiment Carignan, formerly stationed in New France; with him a lady recently from Montreal, known very well to Lieutenant de Ligny and his family; and to be in his care en voyage to France; the name of said lady illegible upon the records, the spelling apparently not having suited the clerk who wrote it, and then forgot it in the press of other things.

Certain of the governor's household, as well as two or three habitants from the lower town, witnessed the arrival of this lady, who came down from Montreal. They saw her take boat for the bark Dauphine, one of the last ships to go down the river that fall. Yes, it was easily to be established. Dark, with singular, brown eyes, petite, yet not over small, of good figure—assuredly so much could be said; for obviously the king, kindly as he might feel toward the colony of New France, could not send out, among the young women supplied to the colonists as wives, very many such demoiselles as this; otherwise assuredly all France would have followed the king's ships to the St. Lawrence.

John Law, a grave and saddened man, yet one now no longer lacking in decision, stood alone one day at the parapet of the great rock of Quebec, gazing down the broad expanse of the stream below. He was alone except for a little child, a child too young to know her mother, had death or disaster at that time removed the mother. Law took the little one up in his arms and gazed hard upon the upturned face.

"Catharine!" he said to himself. "Catharine! Catharine!"

"Pardon, monsieur," said a voice at his elbow. "Surely I have seen you before this?"

Law turned. Joncaire, the ambassador of peace, stood by, smiling and extending his hand.

"Naturally, I could never forget you," said Law.

"Monsieur looks at the shipping," said Joncaire, smiling. "Surely he would not be leaving New France, after so luckily escaping the worst of her dangers?"

"Life might be the same for me over there as here," replied Law. "As for my luck, I must declare myself the most unfortunate man on earth."

"Your wife, perhaps, is ill?"

"Pardon, I have none."

"Pardon, in turn, monsieur—but, you see—the child?"

"It is the child of a savage woman," said Law.

Joncaire pulled aside the infant's hood. He gave no sign, and a nice indifference sat in his query: "Une belle sauvage?"

"Belle sauvage!"

CHAPTER XXXII.

THE GRAND MONARQUE.

On a great bed of state, satin draped, flanked with ancient tapestries, piled sickeningly soft with heaps of pillows, there lay a thin, withered little man—old, old and very feeble. His face was shrunken and drawn with pain; his eyes, once bright, were dulled; his brow, formerly imperious, had lost its arrogance. Under the coverings which, in the unrest of illness, he now pulled high about his face, now tossed restlessly aside, his figure lay, an elongated, shapeless blot, scarce showing beneath the silks. One limb, twitched and drawn up convulsively, told of a definite seat of pain. The hands, thin and wasted, lay out upon the coverlets; and the thumbs were creeping, creeping ever more insistently, under the cover of the fingers, telling that the battle for life was lost, that the surrender had been made.

It was a death-bed, this great bed of state; a death-bed situated in the heart of the greatest temple of desire ever built in all the world. He who had been master there, who had set in order these miles of stately columns, those seas of glittering gilt and crystal, he who had been magician, builder, creator, perverter, debaser—he, Louis of France, the Grand Monarque, now lay suffering like any ordinary human being, like any common man.

At length even the last energies of the once stubborn will gave way. The last gasp of the failing breath was drawn. The herald at the window announced to the waiting multitude that Louis the Fourteenth was no more.

"Long live the king!" exclaimed the multitude. They hailed the new monarch with mockery; but laughter and sincere joy and feasting were the testimonials of their emotions at the death of the king but now departed.

On the next day a cheap, tawdry and unimposing procession wended its way through the back streets of Paris, its leader seeking to escape even the edges of the mob, lest the people should fall upon the somber little pageant and rend it into fragments. This was the funeral of Louis, the Grand Monarque, Louis the lustful, Louis the bigot, Louis the ignorant, Louis the unhappy. They hurried him to his resting-place, these last servitors, and then hastened back to the palaces to join their hearts and voices to the rising wave of joy which swept across all France at the death of this beloved ruler.

Now it happened that, as the funeral procession of the king was hurrying through the side streets near the confines of the old city of Paris, there encountered it, entering from the great highway which led from the east up to the city gates, the carriage of a gentleman who might, apparently with justice, have laid some claim to consequence. It had its guards and coachmen, and was attended by two riders in livery, who kept it company along the narrow streets. This equipage met the head of the hurrying funeral cortege, and found occasion for a moment to pause. Thus there passed, the one going to his grave, the other to his goal, the two men with whom the France of that day was most intimately concerned.

There came from the window of the coach the voice of one inquiring the reason of the halt, and there might have been seen through the upper portion of the vehicle's door the face of the owner of the carriage. He seemed a man of imposing presence, with face open and handsome, and an eye bright, bold and full of intelligence. His garb was rich and elegant, his air well contained and dignified.

"Guillaume," he called out, "what is it that detains us?"

"It is nothing, Monsieur L'as," was the reply. "They tell me it is but the funeral of the king."

"Eh bien!" replied Law, turning to one who sat beside him in the coach. "Nothing! 'Tis nothing but the funeral of the king!"

CHAPTER XXXIII.

EVER SAID SHE NAY.

The coach proceeded steadily on its way, passing in toward that quarter where the high-piled, peaked roofs and jagged spires betokened ancient Paris. On every hand arose confused sounds from the streets, now filled with a populace merry as though some pleasant carnival were just beginning. Shopkeeper called across to his neighbor, tradesman gossiped with gallant. Even the stolid faces of the plodding peasants, fresh past the gate-tax and bound for the markets to seek what little there remained after giving to the king, bore an unwonted look, as though hope might yet succeed to their surprise.

"Ohe! Marie," called one stout dame to another, who stood smiling in her doorway near by. "See the fine coach coming. That is the sort you and I shall have one of these days, now that the king is dead. God bless the new king, and may he die young! A plague to all kings, Marie. And now come and sit with my man and me, for we've a bottle left, and while it lasts we drink freedom from all kings!"

"You speak words of gold, Suzanne," was the reply. "Surely I will drink with you, and wish a pleasant and speedy death to kings."

John Law and his companions heard broken bits of such speech as this as they passed on.

"Ah, they talk," replied he at last, turning toward his companions, "and this is talk which means something. Within the year we shall see Paris upside down. These people are ready for any new thing. But"—and his face lost some of its gravity—"the streets are none too safe to-day, my lady. Therefore you must forgive me if I do not set you down, but keep you prisoner until you reach your own gates. 'Tis not your fault that your carriage broke down on the road from Marly; and as for my brother Will and myself, we cannot forego a good fortune which enables us at last to destroy a certain long-standing debt of a carriage ride given us, once upon a time, by the Lady Catharine Knollys."

"At least, then, we shall be well acquit on both sides," replied the soft voice of the woman. "I may, perhaps, be an unwilling prizoner for so short a time."

"Madam, I would God it might be forever!"

It was the same John Law of old who made this impetuous reply, and indeed he seemed scarce changed by the passing of these few years of time. It was the audacious youth of the English highway who now looked at her with grave face, yet with eyes that shone.

Some years had indeed passed since Law, turning his back upon the appeal of the wide New World, had again set foot upon the shores of England, from which his departure had been so singular. Driven by the goads of remorse, it had been his first thought to seek out the Lady Catharine Knollys; and so intent had he been on this quest, that he learned almost without emotion of the king's pardon which had been entered, discharging him of further penalty of the law of England. Meeting Lady Catharine, he learned, as have others since and before him, that a human soul may have laws inflexible; that the iron bars of a woman's resolve may bar one out, even as prison doors may bar him in. He found the Lady Catharine unshakeable in her resolve not to see him or speak with him. Whereat he raged, expostulated by post, waited, waylaid, and so at length gained an interview, which taught him many things.

Rejected, as he was now, by the new ministry of England, none the less every capital of Europe came presently to know John Law, gambler, student and financier. Before every ruler on the continent he laid his system of financial revolution, and one by one they smiled, or shrugged, or scoffed at him. Baffled once more in his dearest purpose, he took again to play, play in such colossal and audacious form as never yet had been seen even in the gayest courts of a time when gaming was a vice to be called national. No hazard was too great for him, no success and no reverse sufficiently keen to cause him any apparent concern. There was no risk sharp enough to deaden the gnawing in his soul, no excitement strong enough to wipe away from his mind the black panorama of his past.

CAPTURE JERDAGAN

Oyama's Troops Take Village In All Night Battle.

THE CZAR PRAISES KUROPATKIN.

If Russians Are Driven Back From Position on Shakhe River Fighting Will Be Close to Mukden's Walls.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 28.—A Mukden dispatch says that fighting has begun again southeast of Mukden.

The Japanese advanced to the village of Jerdagan, which they are reported to have captured after a fight lasting all night.

There was an artillery fight on the night of Oct. 26 on the north shore of the Shakhe river directly south of Mukden. The cannonading, which was heavy, is being continued. The Russians are attacking. If unsuccessful, they will fight right up to the walls of Mukden.

Two imperial rescripts are published in the St. Petersburg Official Messenger, the first of which is covered by Viceroy Alexeieff's order of the day, announcing the appointment of General Kuropatkin to the chief command of the Russian forces in the east. The second is addressed by the czar to General Kuropatkin as commander in chief of all the military and naval forces at the scene of war. It concludes with these words: "Your military experience, strengthened by your action in Manchuria, makes me feel confident that you will break the obstinacy of the enemy's forces at the head of your glorious army and will thereby assure to Russia peace in the far east."

A Mukden dispatch says there was a reconnoissance in force during the night by the Russian western flank, and desultory fire continued until 2 o'clock a. m. The Japanese were discovered to be hurriedly fortifying along the whole line, but this does not, of course, preclude the possibility of an attack by them. It is the general opinion here that serious events will not develop for some days, but judging by the hurried manner in which the Chinese are settling their money affairs in Mukden they are of a different opinion.

Labaree Firm Short of Stocks.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The firm of J. Walter Labaree & Co. has closed its offices in this city. Labaree & Co. advertised as a stock commission house with numerous out of town offices. Stephen Callaghan, attorney for Labaree, said that his client's assets probably were between $6,000 and $7,000, with liabilities of $123,000. He said that Labaree & Co. had seventy branch offices extending all the way from Toronto to New Orleans. The firm's leased wires, he states, cost some $10,000 a month. The cause of the firm's suspension, according to Mr. Callaghan, was that they were short of a long line of stocks.

Cleveland to Attend Newark's Rally.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 28.—Former President Cleveland said last night that he had been obliged to reconsider his promise to speak at a Democratic mass meeting in Cooper union, New York, Nov. 2. The announcement that Mr. Cleveland would address the meeting had been made. He further said that he hoped to be able to attend a political rally in Newark, N. J., on Friday of next week, adding that after going to New York on such an errand he could not decline the invitation of New Jersey Democrats to attend a meeting in his own state.

Hurricane on Honduras Coast.

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 28.—Late news of the hurricane which struck the Honduras coast some days ago is to the effect that the mahogany interests suffered greatly both in Honduras and Guatemala. Thousands of valuable logs were washed out to sea and never will be recovered. Boston, Cincinnati and Louisville firms are reported heavy losers. The Guatemala Northern railroad suffered losses that will require months to repair.

Body of Supposed Suicide Found.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Two days after his death the body of Thomas J. Raycroft, president of the Excelsior Coal company, has been found in a room in a west side hotel. The discovery of a bullet wound in his head and a revolver on the floor pointed to suicide. The weapon contained one empty cartridge. Mr. Raycroft was reputed to be a wealthy man. Deceased was fifty years old.

Not Related to Ensign Bagley.

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 28.—Mr. Josephus Daniels, who married the sister of the late Ensign Worth Bagley, killed at Cardensas, Cuba, said in response to an inquiry that Miss Elia Bagley, who committed suicide in New York some days ago was not related to Ensign Worth Bagley. He had no relative of that name.

President Palma's Neutrality.

HAVANA, Oct. 28.—The leaders of the Moderate party and the newspapers here have renewed the pressure upon President Palma to indicate to which party he belongs. The president maintains an attitude of neutrality between the political parties.

Serious Riots in Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 28.—Serious riots are reported to have occurred in the province of Vilna. General Ridzevsky, the new head of the police department, has hurriedly proceeded thither.

Belgium and Cuba Signed Treaty.

HAVANA, Oct. 28.—A treaty of extradition has been signed between Belgium and Cuba.

GOLF.

The events on the local golf courses tomorrow will include the weekly competitions for the President's and Park Golf Club cups at the Park Golf Club, the Golf Committee cup at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club and semi-final play for the club championship at the Westfield Golf Club. At the latter club there will be a harvest dance in the evening.

The popularity of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club is attested by the fact that despite the automobile parade on Saturday, there were a large number of machines at the club. An idea of the number of members playing on the course can be gained from the fact that fifty-two caddies were out. It has been the rule this year for many players to refrain from posting their scores. For this reason a fair idea of the number playing cannot be gained by the scores returned.

BASKET BALL.

For the second time since the commencement of the basket ball season the team of the Y. M. C. A. juniors defeated the Whittier School five in a hard struggle on the Y. M. C. A. floor yesterday afternoon. The score was 5 to 2, the two teams being evenly matched. Accuracy in goal shooting won the game for the Y. M. C. A. boys, while at several times during the game the team work of the school lads was superior. Following is the line up: Y. M. C. A.—Caldwell and Doane, forwards; Sern, center; Steiner and Doeringer, guards. Whittier School—Loughlin and Woodhull, forwards; Alpaugh, center; Briggs and Fountain, guards. Goals from the field—Caldwell, Loughlin and Sterns. Goal from foul—Caldwell.

DIAMOND DUST

Virgil Garvin will pitch for Ridgewood against the Brooklyn Nationals at Ridgewood Park on Sunday, and he will endeavor to defeat his former team-mates.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The Y. M. C. A. and Jolly Five Bowling teams will meet on the former's alleys this evening, beginning at 8 o'clock.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS.

QUESTIONS OF THE DAY DISCUSSED BY THE PRESS.

The Senate Presidenty.

The friends of Senator Minch, of Cumberland County, who are urging his claims for the presidency of the Senate, apparently overlook the reported fact that the place is already mortgaged to Mr. Cross, of Union County, and that Assemblyman Miller is regarded as a possible candidate for the Speakership. Cumberland will have the Governor, and that will be considered a sufficient honor. Mr. Minch would make an excellent president, and he has demonstrated during his three years of service in the Senate that he has ability, is honest and safe.—Trenton Times.

Since voting machines came into use the question of the constitutionality of voting by machinery has been raised by many, who believe the voter has a right to see how his ballot is cast, and not trust to the intricate working of machinery to vote for him—and it is contended also that the secrecy of the ballot is to some extent interfered with, the same as it is by the Republican primary law, which party is also responsible for the voting machines in this State at a cost of $500 for each one. The Democratic State committee has taken this matter up, and it has been referred to R. V. Lindabury for consideration, and if legally justified the Democratic election officers will be instructed not to consent to the use of these machines, it is said.—Union Democrat, Rahway.

There should be some remedy for the threatened installation of more voting machines in this county. They are a delusion and a snare. They are neither secret, fair nor reliable. Take a voting population of 500 men of average intelligence and the machines will favor by at least 10 votes the party whose lever is at the top. At our last spring's election 11 blank votes were cast on the one in use in this town. There were only two tickets in the field, and these 11 votes were registered on the third space. As the Republican ticket was on top—a fact known to everybody—it is a fair presumption that these votes were intended for the Democratic candidates. The idea that 11 persons would take the trouble to turn out at an election in a single district, where there was virtually nothing at stake, and then vote a blank ballot is preposterous. The demand for the machines comes almost entirely from the manufacturers. A powerful lobby succeeded in getting the State to purchase a certain number of them and a commission was appointed to investigate the merits of the different brands and receive bids for their introduction. A Voting Machine Trust had been formed and as a logical consequence each company offered to supply the machines for the same price—viz., $500. The commission had nothing to do but act according to its instructions, and the State has now a job lot of voting machines on its hands which cost in the neighborhood of half million dollars, and which nobody wants and which are a menace to a free ballot.—Somerset Messenger, Somerville.

AMUSEMENTS.

The revival of Langden Mitchell's comedy of "Becky Sharp," founded on Thackeray's great novel, "Vanity Fair," by Mrs. Fiske and the Manhattan Company, at the Manhattan Theatre, New York, has proved to be more popular than even the original production at the Fifth Avenue Theatre some five years ago, when it took rank as the dramatic event of that season in the metropolis. The Manhattan is steadily crowded by fine audiences that find in this play, as it is interpreted by Mrs. Fiske and her very strong company, rare dramatic entertainment. The play is put on with all the magnificence in scenery and costumes that originally marked it, and in the acting it is indeed a delight. Mrs. Fiske is by common consent the only actress that speaks English that could be plausibly thought of as the fascinating Becky, and her impersonation is admitted to be better than at first, when it was heralded as an achievement.

Dr. Cornwell tells how the minister of a small parish came to him for advice. "The church is in a farming community, study agriculture and preach about it," said the Doctor. The man took the advice and preached a sermon on scientific manures with scriptural allusions. His congregation numbered seventeen. Within five Sundays it crowded the church.—From Leslie's Monthly Magazine for November.

Not to Go in a Body.

The U. S. Grant Club has given up the idea of going to Somerville in a body tomorrow evening. So few of the members turned out last evening to receive instructions that it was deemed best not to go as an organization. Tomorrow evening the club will have an entertainment at which City Judge Runyon and others will sing. Next Thursday evening a mass meeting will be held at which a National speaker will be heard.

YOUNG CHRISTIAN SOLDIERS HOLD THEIR ANNUAL SESSIONS IN PLAINFIELD

Proceedings of State Y. M. C. A. Boys' Department Conference Prove to Be Especially Interesting.

MEETINGS LAST NIGHT AND THIS MORNING

Feast at Which Harold Robins Delivers Address of Welcome—Several Papers Read at Session in Trinity Reformed Church Last Night—Gathering at Y. M. C. A. This Morning.

Harold S. Robins

Martin B. Stutsman.

For the third time in the history of the local association, and for the first time in six years, Plainfield is the scene of the State Conference on Boys' Work, of the Young Men's Christian Associations of the State of New Jersey. Representing twenty-six different associations, the delegates arrived in town yesterday afternoon, bright and energetic youths prepared for the annual convention, welcomed gladly into the homes of Plainfield where their presence is an omen of cheer and of good will.

No more refined or manly set of young men could be found anywhere than this delegation of "Christian Soldiers," and the leaders of the conference are fortunate in having the assistance of such a group of religious workers.

Arriving between noon and 4 o'clock yesterday, the boys were met by the reception committee and entertained either at the Y. M. C. A. or at their temporary homes until 5:30, when they assembled at the Babcock building for supper. The supper was all that 300 hungry boys could desire, and they made the best of it. It was provided by the ladies' auxiliary of the association, the boys' work and social committees being in charge. The room in the Babcock building was tastefully decorated in red and white, a large pennant, which was won by the baseball team in the city league of 1903, being placed on the wall in the center of the spacious room. A picturesque scene was presented as the 300 delegates took their places at the prettily arranged tables, while the blessing was asked by F. H Andrews, of this city. H. S. Parr, chairman of the State boys' work committee, acted as toastmaster, and at the conclusion of the repast, introduced Harold S. Robins, of the local association, who welcomed the delegates to the city. His remarks were as follows:

"Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates and friends; it gives me great pleasure as a member of the boys' department of the Plainfield Young Men's Christian Association to extend to you all a most cordial welcome to our city. I am glad to welcome you here for three reasons: First because this is the third time we have had the pleasure of entertaining the conference here, and as an old adage says, 'the third is the best of all;' secondly because you represent the Young Men's Christian Association. I think any city ought to feel justly proud to receive within her gates such a delegation as is assembled here this evening. Lastly because of the great impetus which our work will receive in the days to come from this gathering.

"When the invitation was first extended to the State committee, we felt quite confident that they would accept, because it was generously extended. Not only did the Directors of our association and the boys' work committee, but we ourselves unanimously wished to have you with us. Our ladies' auxiliary also is delighted to have you here, and have in this very practical manner shown you how much they desired your presence.

"Our friends have very kindly opened their homes, and I bespeak for you a hearty welcome from them. We are glad you are here and going into their homes, for we know that these friends of ours who entertain you will have a better impression and knowledge than ever before of what the boys' departments are accomplishing. While you are here we want you to feel at home. In behalf of the boys of our association, I assure you that we will do everything in our power to make your stay in our city not only pleasant but profitable. All the courtesies of our association are at your disposal. May this conference be richly blessed of God in the advancement of His Kingdom among the boys of New Jersey is our earnest prayer."

Responding to this address of welcome, Edwin S. Ford, of Morristown, spoke on the part of the delegates, expressing their pleasure at the opportunity of visiting Plainfield, and of carrying on the work of the conference in this city. His speech was well delivered and was to the point. He was followed by G. Everett Hall, of Orange, who spoke briefly on the

TRICK OF POLITICIANS

Correspondent Declares the Voting Machine a Scheme.

TO PREVENT CUTTING

Reason Why Two of the Five Machines Alloted to Somerset County Are Placed in North Plainfield.

Editor, The Daily Press:

The New York Press appears to be elated over the workings of the voting machine which is in use in a few selected districts in this State, and publishes with great glee the following in its New Jersey column: "Not so many split tickets will be voted in precincts that have been furnished with voting machines."

This sentence innocently unmasks the exceedingly clever scheme of placing these machines in those districts where the Republican voters are least inclined to swallow the ticket entire. The complicated device makes it difficult to vote a split ticket unless the voter has made himself familiar with the machine before Election Day.

The Republican Secretary of State locates these machines in districts selected by the Republican County Committee and it is a notable fact that they are usually placed in those districts where the greatest number of dissatisfied Republicans abide.

In Somerset County there are twenty-six voting places. There are but five voting machines in the entire county. In North Plainfield borough there are but two voting districts and yet each one of them is supplied with a voting machine.

The fact that North Plainfield is the only municipality in Somerset County where every voting district is forced to vote by machinery goes a long way to prove the assertion so frequently made that our Republican bosses at Somerville are determined to compel the borough voters to submit to their will.

It is well known that these same Somerville bosses insentionally nominated candidates for county offices who were obnoxious to a great part of the Republicans of the borough. They then force every borough voter to use a machine which makes it difficult to split a ticket, while in twenty-one other districts out of twenty-six in the county, no such machine is used.

This is plainly a tyrannical abuse of power and a bold attempt to coerce voters which deserves a stinging rebuke at the polls. One would think that every lover of fair play in the borough would resent such high handed methods.

The reason why North Plainfield is the only municipality in the county where all of the voters are compelled to use this machine is too self evident to dwell further upon. The machines are now set up as required by law at the polling places on Somerset street, where between now and Election Day the voters can examine them and see how they work. The election returns will tell whether or not the Republicans of the borough will tamely submit to such coercion.

REAL ESTATE AGENT KNOCKED DOWN BY TENANT

E. FRANK VAIL CHARGES RUSSELL HAZARD WITH ASSAULT.

While attempting to collect a month's rent, E. Frank Vail was involved in what may be termed a free fight yesterday at the home of Russell Hazard, of Vine street. As the result of Mr. Vail's demands, and consequential protests by Mr. Hazard, who was the victim of his demands, hot words arose, and soon there was a lively struggle on the stairs. Mr. Vail claims that he was struck, and knocked down.

Immediately after the row, Vail went to Justice Mattison's court, and got out a warrant for Hazard's arrest of the charge of assault and battery. When the offender was brought to Mattison's court, he gave bond to appear for hearing on Tuesday, November 1.

PLAINFIELD JR. O. U. A. M. PLANS TRIP TO NEWARK

THANKSGIVING DAY TO BE SPENT AT ESSEX COUNTY SEAT.

The members of the three Councils, Jr. O U. A. M., of this city, have decided to go to Newark on Thanksgiving Day and join with the Councils of Essex county in a parade and exercises attendant upon the presentation of a flag to the city of Newark. They will make the trip in three trolley cars, many being accompanied by their wives and friends. The Independent Fife and Drum Corps will also accompany the local members.

The joint committee in charge of the affair is as follows: Franklin Council, William Hartpence and Harry Winn; Somerset Council, George Crevlin, Walter C. Walker and P. H. Latourette; Benevolent Council, A. R. Trancband, I. N. Wyckoff and Gus. Windham.

MARRA CONVICTED ON BOARD OF HEALTH CHARGES

WOULD NOT HAVE BEEN FINED BUT FOR SON'S FALSE TESTIMONY.

Tony Marra, the owner of the East Front street "spite" house, was again fined in the city court, this morning, this time on two charges preferred against him by the Board of Health of building a cesspool and a privy on his premises without a permit. Judge Runyon imposed a penalty of $10 in each instance, making $135 in all that the defendant has had to pay since locating opposite former Mayor Randolph's residence.

In passing sentence, the magistrate declared that Marrra was guilty but there were circumstances which led him to believe that he had acted in good faith and the fault was not entirely his own. The ordinance calls for a heavy penalty where a man has been convicted twice on Board of Health charges within six months, but in this instance, the judge said, there was no call for severity. He added that he would not have been disposed to fine him at all had it not been for Marra's son lying to him on the witness stand.

DEATH OF ABRAM WALKER.

Passed Away Last Evening at Home of His Brother, Robert Walker.

After an illness of more than a year, Abram P. Walker died last night at the home of his brother, Robert Walker, of New street. He was in his seventy-sixth year and had been a resident of Plainfield since 1899, coming here from Flushing, L. I. Surviving him are a son, who lives in Brooklyn, and a daughter, at present attending the St. Louis Exposition.

Funeral services will be held from Robert Walker's home Monday afternoon at 2:30 and interment will be at Hillside.

Missionary Study Class.

Young people of the First M. E. church are about to form a missionary study class and the first meeting will be held Monday evening at the home of Miss Lizzie Stafford on Grove street, chairman of the class. The members will study Japan in all her phases, political, religious, social, etc. At the first meeting a regular night will be decided upon and other plans formed.

Death After Long Illness.

Following an illness extending over a long period, Mrs. Martha Elizabeth Boyd, wife of Hugh Boyd, died at her home on South avenue, last night. She was in her fiftieth year and leaves two sons and two daughters. The funeral will be held from her late home Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Nash, Jr., on the Stump.

Beginning a campaign that will extend through the principal villages in Somerset county, Vincent W. Nash, Jr., addressed a gathering of farmers at Mt. Horeb last evening. He was accorded a ringing reception and his remarks on equal taxation were applauded.

CORNER-STONE EXERCISES

Programme Announced for High School Event.

ON THURSDAY, NOV. 3

City Officials and Pupils to Take Prominent Parts in the Order of Ceremonies.

The Board of Education having fixed upon Thursday, November 3, as the date for the laying of the corner-stone of the new city High School, Superintendent H. M. Maxson yesterday announced the programme for the occasion. In every respect it will be one fitting the occasion and will be attended by nearly all of the city officials. The exercises are to begin at 2:30 and all the city schools will close at 12:30 to give the pupils an opportunity to be present. In the event of rain the ceremony will take place the next clear afternoon.

The pupils of the High School will assemble in front of the Stillman building and those of the Whittier School in front of their building at 2 o'clock. They will then form in line and headed by LaVere's band, followed by the faculty and any graduates of the school who are present, will march to the High School site at the corner of Arlington avenue and Ninth street, where they will countermarch and form in mass in a place reserved for them just in front of the corner where they will be ready to sing the special music assigned to them, under the leadership of the supervisor of music, Charles L. Lewis.

A temporary flooring will be laid over the floor beams on the corner of the building and will serve as a grandstand for the speaker and the guests. Every one interested is invited to be present but seats can be furnished only for the city government, the out-of-town guests, and those specially concerned in the school work. The stone will be laid in the northwest corner of the building.

The order of exercises in detail is to be as follows:

Music, LaVere's band; invocation, Rev. Dr. William R. Richards; song, "Plainfield High School," school, written for the occasion by Louise M. Taylor, class of 1903; address, Craig A. Marsh, Plainfield High School, class of 1873; dedicatory song, "Alma Mater," school, written for the occasion by Mary Lock, class of 1900; address, Dr. John B. Probasco, president of the Board of Education; laying of the cornerstone, Mayor Olin L. Jenkins; school song, "The Red and the Blue," school, adapted by Vincent B. Miner, class of 1903; benediction, Rev. Erskine M. Rodman; music, LaVere's band.

WATCHUNG HUNT CLUB ARRANGES SOME MEETS

WHERE IT WILL FOLLOW THE HOUNDS THIS FALL.

During the month of November the Watchung Hunt Club will take part in several events of unusual interest to those who like to follow the hounds, the first of which wil be on Saturday, November 5, when the club will start from Mount Pleasant at 3:30 o'clock. On Election Day the club will start out at 11:30 in the morning from Dog Tavern and at 1 o'clock will partake of a hunt breakfast at the Middlesex Lodge, Colonia, being the guests of Charles D. Freeman, Esq.

On Saturday afternoon, November 12, at 3:15, the members will enjoy another chase, starting from Fanwood, and on the following Saturday afternoon, November 19, at 3:15 o'clock, the club will start from South Plainfield on a hunt through the surrounding country. On Thanksgiving Day, Mr. and Mrs. Cruikshank will entertain the club at a hunt breakfast at the Colonia Country Club. The next hunt will be on Saturday afternoon, November 26, starting from Oak Tree at 3 o'clock.

Since its organization the club has steadily grown in numbers until at present it has a large membership. There is scarcely a Saturday that the club does not go out for a run with the hounds and a majority of the riders are now quite proficient. Mr. Middleton O'Malley Knott will be the master in charge of the events for November.

DEMOCRATIC ORATORS EXPOUND ISSUES TO A GREAT THRONG OF VOTERS

CHAS. C. BLACK ADVOCATES EQUAL TAXATION

James E. Martine Arraigns Congressman Charles N. Fowler—Mr. Atterbury's Address—LaVere's Concert Band Added to the Enjoyment of the Evening.

Trenchant wit, sarcasm and cold logic, strong weapons when controlled by gifted men, were the effective instruments used by the galaxy of campaign orators who addressed the throng at the Democratic mass meeting in Reform Hall last night, commanding undivided respect and marked attention from the big crowd for three hours, though frequently interrupted by enthusiastic applause and uproarious laughter. Congressman John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, the minority leader of the House of Representatives; Charles C. Black, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, and James E. Martine, the party's nominee for Congress, brought home to the voters arguments favoring a restoration of Democratic rule in a telling manner. Poor management on the part of the city committee was the only shortcoming. The hall had been packed long before the appointed time and the crowd outside clamoring for admittance exceeded the numerical strength of the voters inside, but lacking forethought evidently no provision had been made for an overflow meeting and hundreds went away disappointed.

Chairman J. V. F. Dilts called the meeting to order, immediately introducing Albert H. Atterbury, the Democratic mayoralty candidate, as chairman of the evening. Mr. Atterbury made a twenty minute address in which he dwelt upon the fact that this is the first time in a decade that the party is united on its candidates and on its platform. He deplored the ten years of dissention, wasted effort and defeat, adding that the period was marked by strife, war, unjust tariff restrictions and enormous expenditures of public moneys. He declared that the expenditures per capita had been grossly increased since the Cleveland administration. Mr. Atterbury it was considered put himself on record as being opposed to the increase in the liquor license fees in this city although he said that he had no comment to make on the wisdom of the Common Council's action. He had been impressing upon his hearers that the burden of all taxation falls upon the consumer and said that if the saloonkeeper has to pay more for his license he will get it out of the customers. "There'll be more foam on the beer if the ordinance goes through," said he.

After LaVere's band had rendered a selection, Mr. Atterbury introduced Charles C. Black, who was greeted with a great ovation. Mr. Black showed plainly that he was under a great strain, overworked and worn out by continued campaigning and the expressions on his face during his talk resembled that of a six-day bicycle rider. The issue of the campaign, said he, is simply that the railroad property should be taxed at the same rate as that of an individual. Today, he declared, the railroads pay $5 per $1,000 on the main stem, which includes all property along the tracks within 100 feet, and the revenue derived goes to the State. Fifteen dollars per thousand is paid by the roads on all second class property which includes holdings outside of the main stem. People pays fixed rate of $35 per $1,000 on all property here. There is today, he said, $7,000,000 of taxable railroad property in Union County and $6,000,000 is main stem, the taxes going to the State instead of the district in which they are located. If the Democratic doctrine becomes law it will have the effect of bringing into Union County $200,000 more tax value. There are four miles of railroad in Plainfield and he showed how much richer the city would be if the Democratic idea was law.

The chief argument advanced by John Sharp Williams, who captivated the audience by his keen satire, enjoyable humor and eloquent arraignment of the Republican party, was that the Democratic party is a party of constructive policy and not one of criticism and constant opposition. After referring to the fact that the independent voter is the important factor in a campaign, he spoke of the Democratic candidate for President as one having reverence for the Constitution and not one continually playing to the galleries. At the mention of Judge Parker's name a storm of applause went up from the throng. "You nominated one of God's noblemen when you nominated Jim Martine for Congress," declared Congressman Williams, and then the crowd broke loose again. "By sending him to Congress you send a man in whom the people will have confidence and trust and who will not be in Vermont or Arizona when he should be in Washington." Scoring Mr. Fowler, the minority leader of the House declared that "public business is more important than private business and that is preeminently true of a sworn representative of the people." He ridiculed the Fowler banking bill as being a measure, which would make one more trust—the banks. "There would be two or three great banks in the country and all others would be branches. That sort of legislation would not be advocated by Jim Martine," said he.

Attacking the administration policy, Mr. Williams declared with emphasis that this is a country of peace and not of war and that a nation only has the right to take human life when an individual would under the same circumstances. Roosevelt's utterance, "Carry a big stick, speak softly and you'll go far," was condemned by him as un-American and contrary to the spirit of a Republic. He characterized the present foreign policy a "go backwardism" and the home policy a "stand-stillism," adding that the Republican policy towards the Philippines is the idea of George the Third. In concluding his speech, Mr. Williams bitterly scored Republican reciprocity as a sham, citing many instances and showing that the Democrats in Congress had been true to reciprocity. In closing he declared there are no good trusts whatever.

James E. Martine was given a characteristic reception when he arose to speak and after the applause subsided, the farmer-orator lost no time in impressing upon the voters that he fully expects to be their next congressman. He paid a tribute to Mr. Fowler, saying that he admired him as a gentleman and a scholar, but that he condemned him as a tardy representative, or as he put it a "non-representative." He declared that Congressman Fower had only attended four sittings of the National Legislature during the last session and had forfeited all claim on the people.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

READY REFERENCES FOR THE LOCAL ARGAIN SEEKERS.

O. M. Dunham, of Park avenue, conducts a store entirely for men. He sells furnishings of every description, of the best quality and his aim is to please every customer.

To those about to have a home erected, it is suggested that W. H. Kirch makes a specialty of house building. He is willing at any and all times to furnish estimates.

Fred Ivamy is the man you are looking for if you are considering a good dinner for Friday night. Friday is fish day. Every day is fish day at Ivamy's. His fish is always the best.

Men of good financial sense no longer look extensively for a good investment outside of this city. They put their money in the First National Bank. They will advise you to do the same.

John Wirth's baker shop is the king of Plainfield bakeries. Those who trade with him will endorse this statement. When you once become acquainted with Wirth, you will always be acquainted.

Your furnace may need attention before starting a fire in it, or you may need some plumbing or tinning work. J. J. Leahy, of Richmond street, is a responsible man for this work and his prices are right.

Can you find a better hotel than the Kensington? It is not only advantageous to the commuter, on account of its proximity to the station, but it is near, without being directly in the business section.

Putnam & DeGraw, of West Front street, would like to show you their line of fall and winter goods. The stock at this store is very complete and a selection is easy. Men's furnishings are also a feature.

James D. Fraser's livery is located on Somerset street, near Manning avenue. It is connected by telephone and rigs may be procured at any time for any purpose. The equipment is new and careful drivers are furnished upon request.

Whenever you are in doubt as to where to get a good meal stop at Timbo's restaurant on North avenue. His business men's lunch is very popular. It is noted for variety of best food and service, while the price is very reasonable.

Equipped in every department with the best of goods, Schreiner's pharmacy at Second street and Park avenue, is enabled to meet all demands for drugs, medicines, toilet articles and sick room necessities. The prescription work at Schreiner's is done by experts under the supervision of the proprietor.

L. W. Randolph, the West Front street druggist, is making a specialty of fine tooth brushes at prices to suit every one. It is no longer a question as to whether a person should use a brush for their teeth, it is an absolute necessity and Mr. Randolph makes it possible for all to secure the right kind of a brush at their own price. His store is also headquarters for the best medicines and drugs and soda water.

Still they come. What? Why! Special sales at the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company. They are startling in their cheapeness. All goods which in other places you would pay highly for an inferior variety, you can get at the tea company for less money, and better quality. See their special trading stamp offers. These offers are of a great advantage to those who are collecting trading stamps.

A poor quality of butter may spoil an entire dinner and for that reason care should be taken in the selection of this essential. Neuman Brothers, the Watchung avenue grocers, have handled the celebrated Rockdale print and creamery brands for several years and they have yet to hear any complaint from those to whom they have sold it. They guarantee it to be strictly as represented and that is first class in every respect. They are also agents for the well known Elgin creamery butter.

Y. M. C. A. CONFERENCE

subject "What We Are Here For." He stated the object of the conference, namely, to promote friendship among the delegates, to look into the work and methods of the various associations, and to advance the Kingdom of God throughout the State and throughout the world. He referred to the topic of the conference, "The Christian Soldier," and mentioned that fact that the meeting would be conducted throughout in a military manner. He also spoke of the appropriateness of the topic, and its application to Christian work.

At the summons of the bugle call "attention," by James Forney, of the United States Army, the boys assembled in the Trinity Reformed church for their first meeting of the conference. Martin B. Stutsman, of this city, presided. The call sounded at 7:30, and the song service opening the meeting began promptly. With the assistance of the State boys' orchestra, James Philipson, of Newark, lead the song service. The orchestra was comprised of the following: Theodore Gavett, Charles Eoff, M. B. Stutsman, Stuart Freeman, O. B. Leggett, Herbert Smith, Monroe Long, Ray Pugh, Charles F. Rothgeber, Herman Staehle, Harry O. Nolles, Fred W. Zwiedinger, Ennis W. Bachman, Albert W. Fiedler, J. Raymond Toppin, Robert D. Schenck, Roderick P. Schenck, Harold W. Danser, Ellis V. Bowers. The service opened with the singing of "Hark to the Sound of Voices."

At the conclusion of the song service after a short invocation by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, Chaplain Leslie R. Groves, of the United States Army, was introduced. His subject was the general topic of the conference, "The Christian Soldier." He spoke of the exceedingly good topic which has been chosen for the convention, of its value on account of the many parallels which may be drawn between the life of a real soldier and a soldier of the Cross. He referred to the essential points in a soldier's life, contrasting them with a Christian's struggle, and showing the similarity in respect to labor, test and hardship. The Chaplain spoke repeatedly of obedience as the chief attribute of a good soldier, while he quoted several passages from scripture which consider the subject of obedience. An inspiring as well as an interesting part of Chaplain Groves' talk was his description of the planting of the American flag on the Chinese wall by a thorough "Christian Soldier," Cadet Titus, president of the Y. M. C. A. of West Point.

In an address which described the pioneer efforts of the Y. M. C. A. in their footing in the United States and Canada, and even in the foreign lands, Edgar M. Robinson, International Secretary of Boys' Work, spoke on the topic, "Outposts on the Frontier." Mr. Robinson told of the founding of the various departments in the boys' work, of the original establishment of a boys' department and of the subsequent progress in the work. By way of concluding his address, the speaker said that not all the necessary frontier work has been accomplished, and there still remains for many in the present generation the duty and the privilege of furthering the pioneer efforts begun by the early Christian soldiers.

Randolph S. Merrill, of Paterson, read a paper on "Drill Regulations," which was a study made of the various methods of organizations in the boys' departments of this State, as well as large associations in other States.

He said the organization of boys' work in the Young Men's Christian Association is important for several reasons: First, it insures the best kind of work; second, it insures a greater amount of work; third, it insures a permanent work. A number of different plans of organization were suggested by the speaker; among others the committee scheme, the combination of committees and small clubs, and the plans which employ only the club idea.

W. B. Barr, Charleston, W. Va., writes, "Painted Frankenburg Block with L. & M., shows better than any buildings here have ever done; stand out as though varnished, and actual cost of paint was less than $1.20 per gallon. Wears and covers like gold."

In most of the associations with whom the speaker had corresponded before preparing his paper, the boys' work is divided in two or more sections, as the intermediate, employed, high school or grammar school groups. He then told what had been accomplished by the boys themselves through the various organizations, such as soliciting of funds for the local and foreign work, conducting meetings, securing speakers and music, arranging socials, teaching Bible classes and conducting outings.

In concluding his paper the speaker emphasized the need of permanent organization and suggested as a means to this and the organization in every association of a workers' training class. This paper was followed by a discussion conducted by W. Harold Burger, secretary of the Paterson Boys' Department.

Joseph H. Ake, of Newark, read an instructive paper on "Records." He first emphasized the importance of keeping accurate records of every department of the work, and illustrated his point by referring to the records the army department and business houses. The paper called attention to the manner in which various associations kept their membership record, including the card index plan and loose leaf system. A diary of daily events should be kept and a scrap book of newspaper clippings and printed matter. Mr. Ake also called attention to the best methods of keeping the records of the educational, gymnasium and Bible classes, also the committee meetings and libraries. Several books were exhibited to illustrate these plans.

Keeping a careful record of the doings in the department would be a history of the work and always acted as an incentive to greater activity, for each person should endeavor to make progress and do better than the year before.

A discussion also followed this paper in charge of Mr. Burger and much good will result from the presentation of this subject.

The meeting this morning opened with the bugle call "reveille," the delegates assembling in the association auditorium at 9 o'clock. J. Wheaton Chambers, of Freehold, made a very capable presiding officer. The morning devotions, under the title of "A Call to the Morning Watch," were conducted by Lieutenant Edward W. Hearne, of Newark, State secretary of the boys' department. The service was impressive and helpful. Lieutenant Hearne is a forceable, and a pleasant speaker, one whose words are not easily forgotten.

At the conclusion of these two well rendered and instructive papers, about fifteen minutes was devoted to the subject "Best Things from the Departments." The part of the programme was presided over by O. U. Robinson, of Trenton, and was a brief resume of the work which the various departments are doing. After a short period for the transaction of business, the mess call sounded and the boys adjourned to their homes for dinner.

LITERARY.

The Metropolitan Magazine for November is a special election number and contains two articles on the Presidential candidates. "Judge Parker, an Appreciation," is from the pen of the Honorable W. Bourke Cockran and is a strong presentation from a statesman's viewpoint of the qualities of leadership displayed by the Democratic candidate. Alfred Henry Lewis in his article, "Roosevelt or Parker," weighs the claims of the two candidates as he sees them and draws a very positive conclusion. His estimates of the two men and of the conditions under which they have become the leaders of the opposing parties are stated with the picturesque force which usually characterizes Mr. Lewis' writings.

Edna May, now again playing in New York after a three years' absence in London, has improved far beyond what most Americans believed to be her capacity. She is as pretty as ever, with that sweet, appearing beauty, all innocence and loveliness. She has learned many things and she possesses something that approaches animation and an interest in life. She has made one of the most remarkable successes ever won in England. She has wit enough to know it was not due to her voice or her acting, but simply to the fact that she was Edna May with a personality that appealed to English audiences. And she has the rare good sense to remain Edna May, without affectations or assumptions of any kind.—The Players, Everybody's Magazine for November.

—Election returns will be received at the Y. M. C. A., at the Star Course entertainment on Tuesday night, November 8.

—The concert of the Salvation Army, given at the headquarters Thursday night by the Staff Band, was largely attended. In addition to the local officers, Ensign Coyne, and Captain Clifford, of New York, who were formerly in charge of the Plainfield branch, were present.

Senator Fairbanks at St. Louis Mass Meeting.

GREATER VICTORIES AWAIT US.

Candidate Tells of Farreaching Effect of World's Fair and of Progress and Prosperity of the United States.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 29.—Senator Charles W. Fairbanks of Indiana, the Republican nominee for vice president, arrived here last night and addressed an immense audience in Lemp's hall. The meeting was presided over by Judge Leo Rassieur, and a speech also was made by former Senator William E. Mason of Chicago.

Senator Fairbanks spoke in part as follows:

"We find assembled at the Louisiana Purchase exposition the fruits of the genius, the energy and the enterprise of all nations. We learn here of the progress of the human race in the manifold avenues of human activity. It is fitting indeed that a great historic event so farreaching in its effect upon the welfare of the United States should be celebrated by the peoples of all countries.

"The exposition records the highest point reached in the world's progress. It marks the highest development of the people of the United States in all the vast field of their endeavor. Great as have been our past achievements, greater victories await us in the future if we but hold fast to the great policies under which we made such marvelous progress. The policies of the Republican party stimulate the activities of our people, and much of the advance in manufactures and much of the industrial progress which we witness in this great exposition are the fruit of Republican policies.

"We find about us upon every hand evidences of prosperity, progress and development. We should beware that we adopt no policies which will arrest them. The nations of the world whose representatives are gathered here have no distrust of the United States. The present Republican administration is an assurance to all nations that their rights shall be respected. Our diplomacy was never more exalted than it is today. It never made more for international peace than it is making now. It is respected by all.

"Our commercial and our social interests reach out into all quarters of the earth. We wish to expand our markets, and we are expanding them under Republican administration more rapidly than ever in all our history. It is of the utmost importance that we should win and hold the world's regard. We must do this through an exalted diplomacy, one which does not rest upon physical force, but upon principles founded in international righteousness. A continuance of the administration of Theodore Roosevelt is an assurance to the American people and the world that its exalted diplomacy will be continued. We must safeguard American interests in the orient, that vast field of future commercial achievements. The situation is one of great delicacy, yet no one doubts that the administration of President Roosevelt will successfully deal with it and that we shall be able to hold the privileges we now enjoy, not through an appeal to the sword, but through that wise diplomacy which has won us such signal victories in the past."

The senator's special train left at a late hour for Louisville, Ky., where it is expected he will speak today. In the evening he will speak at Cincinnati.

"Sunnyside Society" Was a Fraud.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—In a raid on the offices of the "charitable society," known as the "Sunnyside society," the police arrested Violet F. Shorbondy, the Chicago representative of the organization. The woman was charged with obtaining money by false representations. The police are now searching for fifteen women assistants who are said to have sold the society's publication, "Sunnyside," and to have solicited alms in the downtown district. The society claims to work among the poor children of the slums of great cities.

Dog Catcher Held For Assault.

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Charles G. Rohr, aged twenty-eight years, a glove worker of this city, was probably fatally wounded here in an altercation which is said to have occurred between him and Japhtha Johnston, employed by the city as a dog catcher. Johnston was arrested and will be held to await the result of Rohr's wounds.

American With Yellow Fever.

HAVANA, Oct. 29.—A telegram from the experts sent to the Cobre mines in the province of Santiago to diagnose the illness of a recently arrived American named Scott confirms the local diagnosis that it is a mild case of yellow fever, but says there is no probability of the disease spreading.

Mayor Collins Will Preside.

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 29.—It was announced at Democratic headquarters that Mayor Patrick Collins of Boston would probably preside at the meeting in the Hartford Opera House next Thursday evening, when Judge Parker will make an address.

Crushed to Death by Cable.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Lorete Desantis, twenty-three years old, was crushed to death in the New York Central yards here by being caught in the cable operating a plow on a gravel train.

JOLLY FIVE DEFEATED BY THE LOCAL Y. M. C. A.

SUTPHEN DOES SOME GOOD WORK ON THE ALLEYS.

Although handicapped by the absence of one of their players, a local bowling team known as the Jolly Five met the Y. M. C. A. team last night and put up an interesting game and some creditable scores.

Sutphen, of the Y. M. C. A. team, made the highest score and the highest average of the evening, 188 and 165 respectively. This gives the Y. M. C. A. team a record of eight games won out of a total of nine played. The following is the score of last evening's match:

Y. M. C. A.

HALLOWE'EN SOCIAL IN VINCENT CHAPEL

ENJOYABLE AFFAIR UNDER AUSPICES OF EPWORTH LEAGUE.

The members of the Epworth League, of the First M. E. church, held a unique Hallowe'en social in Vincent chapel, last evening, many novel features being introduced by the social committee which had charge. The chapel was decorated with autumn leaves, corn-stalks and pumpkins, typifying the season of the year. The five senses were used as a means to entertain those present, a separate room being devoted to smelling, hearing, tasting, seeing and feeling. The young people were given slips of paper and as they entered each room they were supposed to remember what they smelled, tasted, felt and saw. In all but one room they were allowed to remain ten minutes, but in the fifth room one minute was the limit.

They afterward returned to the main room where the hearing process was continued. Here all sorts of musical instruments were played behind a curtain and the audience was supposed to guess each one. Afterward the solutions were read off much to the amusement of all. Another feature was the distribution of apples all over the chapel, the young people being allowed as many as they could find. The refreshments served after the programme consisted of pumpkin pies and coffee. The affair was under the direction of the social committee of which Harry Gee was the chairman.

NORTH SEA INCIDENT

Britain and Russia to Settle by Arbitration.

RUSSIAN FLEET IS HELD AT VIGO.

A Commission Will Make Full Investigation at Spanish Port—Rojestvensky Claims His Ships Were Fired On.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 29.—The foreign office has notified the British embassy that Russia will consent to an immediate inquiry at Vigo.

This meets the diplomatic demand.

Russia's proposition, submitted to Great Britain through Ambassador Benkendorff, declares that the emperor, being desirous of shedding the fullest light on the North sea incident, proposes that the whole question be submitted to scrupulous investigation by an international tribunal. Foreign Minister Lamsdorff, after his audience with the emperor at Tsarkoe Selo, officially informed Ambassador Hardinge of the character of the Russian proposal, no direct reply being given to Great Britain's proposition.

It is simply a question now of which government will have the honor of offering a solution, the principle of which both have decided upon, the outcome of this appearing unimportant. The British proposal also provided for the representation of other powers besides Russia and Great Britain on the commission.

The admiralty is more crestfallen than it has been over any of the disasters of the war. The officers reluctantly admit that the Baltic fleet will be detained at Vigo pending an inquiry into the attack upon the English fishing fleet.

The Russian government has agreed to investigate the incident at Vigo, where the Baltic fleet will remain pending the conclusion of the inquiry.

Twenty days are to be allowed for the investigation.

In an interview with Admiral Rojestvensky at Vigo the admiral is quoted as saying that when the vessels of the Russian squadron found themselves surrounded by the fishing fleet the warships had to stop their engines continually so as not to get their screws entangled in the nets. The warships frequently gave way to the trawlers.

"The trawlers had their lights out. I need hardly affirm to you my absolute conviction in the presence of these torpedo boats. I am very sorry for what has occurred. I did not know of it until I arrived here. I sincerely hope the matter will be settled amicably."

The admiral added there were two men injured on his flagship. One, a priest, had a hand shot off. Six shots fired during the incident hit the Russian vessels. The Aurora was hit and has not been repaired.

All danger of war between Russia and Great Britain is now averted, and the settlement of the only points in dispute regarding the attack by the Russian Baltic squadron on British trawlers Oct. 21 has been referred to an international commission under The Hague convention.

London advices say that Premier Balfour, speaking at a meeting last night, said that the Russian ambassador has authorized a statement to the following effect: The Russian government on hearing of the North sea incident at once expressed its profound regret and also promised most liberal compensation, and the Russian government has now ordered the detention at Vigo of that part of the fleet which was concerned in the attack on the fishing fleet.

It is said that Admiral Sir Cyprian Bridge will be one of the British representatives on the commission to inquire into the North sea affair, which Premier Balfour has announced will sit at Vigo under neutral chairmanship. The Russian ships will anchor off Vigo, and Admiral Beresford has been ordered to station the channel squadron there during the sittings of the commission.

Bourke Cockran at Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 29.—W. Bourke Cockran of New York addressed an immense audience last night in English's Opera House. Meredith Nicholson, the author, presided. Mr. Cockran was escorted to the hall by a parade of Democratic clubs. Seated on the stage were National Chairman Taggart, State Chairman O'Brien and many other Indiana Democratic leaders. Mr. Cockran was greeted with great applause upon his appearance and during his speech.

Bryan Covering His Own State.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 29.—William J. Bryan has returned to Nebraska and will spend his time from now until election day making speeches in this state. His first address was at Arlington. He will visit the northwestern part of the state and will on Monday begin a week's tour in a special train, closing the campaign Monday evening, Nov. 7, at South Omaha.

Boston Wants Cheaper Gas.

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Mayor Patrick A. Collins of this city sent a communication to the state gas commissioners remonstrating against the present price of gas in Boston and asking that the price be reduced 10 per cent on every thousand cubic feet to the city of Boston and 20 per cent to all other consumers.

Local Option Upheld.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Oct. 29.—The supreme court handed down a decision upholding the constitutionality of the local option license law, but declaring void and in operative section 21 as giving to farmers and manufacturers of cider and native wines an immunity not granted to others.

FALL SPORTS.

Racing, Football and Athletics on Track and Field.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Champlain, with Travers up, won the Sayville selling stakes, one mile and a sixteenth, at Jamaica. Palette, a 60 to 1 shot, was second, with Garnish third. Palette made the running to the stretch, where Champlain moved out and won driving by one length. Mimosa was favorite in the first race. Falmouth, in the first race, ran away three miles and a half and was withdrawn.

Fleetwood at Elm Ridge.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 29.—The feature event at Elm Ridge, a handicap at six furlongs, went to Fleetwood, who won driving from Envoy and Capitanto. Golden Mineral, highly weighted, won the third race from Princess Tulane, the favorite. Harbor, the outsider in the betting, was third. Van Ness was the only winning favorite.

Heida All Around Champion.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 29.—At the American Athletic Union gymnastic championships, held in the stadium at the world's fair, the all around championship was won by Anton Heida, Philadelphia Turnverein. He was first in side horse and second in parallel bars long horse and horizontal bars.

Fireball at Latonia.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 29.—Fireball backed from 15 to 1 to 6 to 1, won the last event of the card at Latonia in a drive from the favorite, Bowling Bridge. Thorn Hedge, at 25 to 1, easily won the steeplechase. Don Ami fell at the fourth jump, and Jockey Bartley was seriously injured.

Racing at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 29.—Joe Lesser and Ollie Burnett were the winning favorites at Delmar. Gay Lizzette, second choice, won the feature of the card after a brush through the stretch with Maister.

Missouri Team Whitewashed.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 29.—In a football game on the world's fair stadium Purdue university defeated the University of Missouri by the score of 11 to 0.

Martius Won by a Neck.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—In a driving finish Martius defeated Jingler by a neck in the third and feature event at Worth. Tam O'Shanter was third.

PARKER'S PREDICTION.

Candidate Said, "If We Work Hard Enough, We Will Win."

ESOPUS, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Judge Parker has made his first public prediction as to the outcome of the election. In his speech to delegations composed largely of farmers from Orange and Rockland counties, N. Y., he interpolated the following:

"Before taking up the subject I wish to discuss I want to assure you that if we work hard enough, if we each do our part, we can win this fight. I have not felt like saying so until lately, but we are growing so rapidly that if our people do their best I do believe victory will be ours."

George F. Parker, chairman of the literary bureau of the Democratic national committee, visited Rosemount last night to confer with Judge Parker concerning arrangements for the candidate's speaking tour next week.

TENDER WHEEL BROKE.

Esopus Special on Erie Wrecked Near New Hampton.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Oct. 29.—A special train of six coaches returning with excursionists from Esopus on the Erie road was wrecked near New Hampton, four miles from this city, last night. The accident was caused by the breaking of a wheel under the tender of the engine.

The cars turned over upon their sides, and the track was torn up for a considerable distance. Former Alderman George Waldorf of this city was severely injured about the hip. The other passengers escaped with a slight shaking up. Many of them were compelled to climb through the car windows. Only two women were on the train.

Many Lives Lost In Mine Explosion

TRINIDAD, Colo., Oct. 29.—From thirty to sixty men have lost their lives in a terrific explosion which occurred at Mine No. 3 of the Rocky Mountain Fuel and Iron company at Tercio, forty miles west of Trinidad. The exact number of dead may never be known, as the mine is burning and in all likelihood the bodies will be cremated.

General Manager's Sudden Death.

LACROSSE, Wis., Oct. 29.—Cornelius M. Shields, general manager of the Lake Superior corporation, died suddenly yesterday at Sault St. Marie, Mich. He began his railroad career in this city in the early seventies as a telegraph operator for the old Southern Minnesota railroad, now a part of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road.

War Dance on Ocean Liner.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—William F. Cody returned to America on the Campania, accompanied by Chief Iron Tail and a band of Sioux Indians. At an entertainment on the steamer on Wednesday a feature of the programme was a war dance in which fifty of the Indians took part.

Killed His Brother In Deer Hunt.

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 29.—H. Stanley Wilson, son of Charles W. Wilson, a prominent farmer, was shot and instantly killed at Pushaw Lake by his brother, who mistook him for a deer. Stanley Wilson was seventeen years old.

FOR YOUNG PEOPLE.

Simplicity Is to Be the Keynote of Winter Fashions.

Just now is a busy time of the year for the mother of a young family, and the commencement of the cold season nearly always finds her unprepared to meet the demand for new gowns and coats. It is the child of ten or eleven who has an uncomfortable habit of outgrowing in a few months everything it possesses. Boys and girls are much alike in this respect, but as the boy's outfit is generally bought at a shop the girls are the hardest to provide with the necessary wardrobe.

Simplicity is the keynote of the small girl's gowns, and as children always look best and feel best in plain clothes mothers will be thankful for the present modes which approve of them.

Blue serge is a serviceable material from which to construct the small girl's everyday coat and skirt. Made up with a short box coat, with triple shoulder capes stitched or trimmed with black braid, the effect is always good. Any one of the charming designs shown in wash flannel will make a dainty accompanying blouse worn with a linen collar, black silk tie and leather belt.

A neat Breton sailor trimmed with a scarf and quill or a tricorne adorned with ribbon rosettes is a very suitable hat.

Plaids make up into wonderfully attractive and stylish gowns for a girl over eight, and the dress illustrated is of Scotch tartan in dull tones of greens and blues plaided with a line of red. The skirt is cut on the bias and laid in rather deep plaits at the waist, commencing with a box plait in the center of the front. The waist is plaited from the shoulder and blouses slightly over a belt of green velvet fastened with a dull gold buckle. The vest is of white cloth ornamented with tiny gold bullet buttons. The chemisette is of the cloth and has a Dutch neck effect.

SMALL THINGS OF FASHION.

A Few of the New Ideas In Fringes and Galloons.

Galloons and fringes are enjoying extended vogue, and the former are worked in several shades of a color with fine silver or gold thread cleverly concealed. Solid gold or silver strips of narrow braid produce the smart military effect which is so popular this season.

At the shops are to be found bands of matched embroideries running from one to six inches in width. These are often done by hand and show charming examples of artistic needlework. Flower foliage and small fruit are exactly reproduced. Gooseberries and maidenhair fern, with their delicate green shadings, are used on white or pink to trim dark gowns, while the richer tones are shown in cherries or currants embroidered on ecru or blue.

A new idea in fringe has the straight top band of heavy metal galloon, with silk fringe and an occasional brilliant thread to match the top. Others have bands of lace at the top and small medallions falling over the fringe at intervals.

The smart shirt blouse illustrated is of pale yellow faille adorned with stitched plaits and set on shoulder pieces. Box plaits border the front. Stitched straps are also on the waistcoat. The buttons are of steel. The crossed strap about the neck and the narrow turned back cuffs are edged with lilac velvet. The collar piece is of white lace. JUDIC CHOLLET.

By EMERSON HOUGH

Author of "The Story of the Cowboy."

...won princely fortunes and cast them away again. With the figure and the air of a prince, he gained greater reputation than any prince of Europe. Upon him were spent the blandishments of the fairest women of his time. Yet not this, not all this, served to steady his energies, now unbalanced, speeding without guidance. The gold, heaped high on the tables, was not enough to stupefy his mind, not enough though he doubled and trebled it, though he cast great golden markers to spare him trouble in the counting of his winnings. Still student, still mathematician, he sought at Amsterdam, at Paris, at Vienna, all new theories which offered in the science of banking and finance, even as at the same time he delved still further into the mysteries of recurrences and chance.

In this latter such was his success that losers made complaint, unjust but effectual, to the king, so that Law was obliged to leave Paris for a time. He had dwelt long enough in Paris, this double-natured man, this student and creator, this gambler and gallant, to win the friendship of Philippe of Orleans, later to be regent of France; and gay enough had been the life they two had led—so gay, so intimate, that Philippe gave promise that, should he ever hold in his own hands the government of France, he would end Law's banishment and give to him the opportunity he sought, of proving those theories of finance which constituted the absorbing ambition of his life.

Meantime Law, ever restless, had passed from one capital of Europe to another, dragging with him from hotel to hotel the young child whose life had been cast in such feverish and unnatural surroundings. He continued to challenge every hazard, fearless, reckless, contemptuous, and withal wretched, as one must be who, after years of effort, found that he could not banish from his mind the pictures of a dark-floored prison, and of a knife-stab in the dark, and of raging, awful waters, and of a girl beautiful, though with sealed lips and heart of ice. From time to time, as was well known, Law returned to England. He heard of the Lady Catharine Knollys, as might easily be done in London; heard of her as a young woman kind of heart, soft of speech, with tenderness for every little suffering thing; a beautiful woman, whose admirers listed scores; but who never yet, even according to the eagerest gossip of the capital, had found a suitor to whom she gave word or thought of love.

So now at last the arrogant selfishness of his heart began to yield. His heart was broken before it might soften, but soften at last it did. And so he built up in his soul the image of a grave, sweet saint, kindly and gentle-voiced, unapproachable, not to be profaned. To this image—ah, which of us has not had such a shrine!—he brought in secret the homage of his life, his confessions, his despairs, his hopes, his resolutions; guiding thereby all his life, as well as poor mortal man may do, failing ever of his own standards, as all men do, yet harking ever back to that secret sibyl, reckoning all things from her, for her, by her.

There came at length one chastened hour when they met in calmness, when there was no longer talk of love between them, when he stood before her as though indeed at the altar of some marble deity. Always her answer had been that the past had been a mistake; that she had professed to love a man, not knowing what that man was; that she had suffered, but that it was better so, since it had brought understanding. Now, in this calmer time, she begged of him knowledge of this child, regretting the wandering life which had been its portion, saying that for Mary Connynge she no longer felt horror and hatred. Thus it was that in a hasty moment Law had impulsively begged her to assume some sort of tutelage over that unfortunate child. It was to his own amazement that he heard Lady Catharine Knollys consent, stipulating that the child should be placed in a Paris convent for two years, and that for two years John Law should see neither his daughter nor herself. Obedient as a child himself he had promised.

"Now, go away," she then had said to him. "Go your own way. Drink, dice, game, and waste the talents God hath given you. You have made ruin enough for all of us. I would only that it may not run so far as to another generation."

So both had kept their promises; and now the two years were done, years spent by Law more manfully than any of his life. His fortune he had gathered together, amounting to more than a million livres. He had sent once more for his brother Will, and thus the two had lived for some time in company in lower Europe, the elder brother still curious as ever in his abstruse theories of banking and finance—theories then new, now outlived in great part, though fit to be called a portion of the great foundation of the commercial system of the world. It was a wiser and soberer and riper John Law, this man who had but recently received a summons from Philippe of Orleans to be present in Paris, for that the king was dying, and that all France, France the bankrupt and distracted, was on the brink of sudden and perhaps fateful change.

With a quick revival of all his highland superstition, Law hailed now as happy harbinger the fact that, upon his entry into Paris, the city once more of his hopes, he had met in such fashion this lady of his dreams, even at such time as the seal of silence was lifted from his lips. It was no wonder that his eye gleamed, that his voice took on the old vibrant tone, that every gesture, in thought or in spite of thought, assumed the tender deference of the lover.

For the Lady Catharine herself there had been also many changes. The death of her brother, the earl of Banbury, had wrought many shifts in the circumstances of a house apparently pursued by unkind fate. Left practically alone and caring little for the life of London, even after there had worn away the chill of suspicion which followed upon the popular knowledge of her connection with the escape of Law from London, Lady Catharine Knollys turned to a life and world suddenly grown vague and empty. Travel upon the continent with friends, occasional visits to the old family house in England, long journeys in this or the other city—such had been her life, quiet, sweet, reproachless and unreproaching. For the present she had taken an hotel in the older part of Paris, in connection with her friend, the countess of Warrington, sometime connected with the embassy of that Lord Stair who was later to act as spy for England in Paris, now so soon to know tumultuous scenes.

But now the carriage had arrived at the destination named by Lady Catharine. Law sprang out, hat in hand, and assisted Lady Catharine to the curb. A passing flower girl, gaily offering her wares, paused as the carriage drew up. Law turned quickly and caught from her as many roses as his hand could grasp, handing her in return half as much coin as her smaller palm could hold. He turned to the Lady Catharine, and bowed with that grace which was the talk of a world of gallants. In his hand he extended a flower.

"Madam, as before!" he said.

There was a sob in his voice. Their eyes met fairly, unmasked as they had not been for years. Tears came into the man's eyes, the first that had ever sat there; tears for the past, tears for that sweetness which once might have been.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

THE REGENT'S PROMISE.

"Tell me, then, Monsieur L'as, of this new America. I would fain have some information at first hand. There was rumor, I know not how exact, that you once traveled in those regions."

Thus spake his grace Philippe, duke of Orleans, regent of France, now, in effect, ruler of France. It was the audience which had been arranged for John Law, that opportunity for which he had waited all his life. Before him now, as he stood in the great council chamber, facing this man whose ambitions ended where his own began—at the convivial board and at the gaming table—he saw the path which led to the success that he had craved so long. He, Law of Lauriston, sometime adventurer and gambler, was now playing his last and greatest game.

"Your Grace," said he, "there be many who might better than I tell you of that America."

"There are many who should be able, and many who do," replied the regent. "By the body of the Lord! we get nothing but information regarding these provinces of New France, and each advice is worse than the one preceding it. The gist of it all is that my lord governor and my very good intendant can never agree, save upon one point or so. They want more money, and they want more soldiers—ah, yes, to be sure, they also want more women, though we sent them out a ship load of choice beauties not more than a six-month ago. But tell me, Monsieur L'as, is it indeed true that you have traveled in America?"

"For a short time."

"I have heard nothing regarding you from the intendant at Quebec."

"Your grace was not at that time caring for intendants. 'Twas many years ago, and I was not well known at Quebec by my own name."

"Eh bien? Some adventure, then, perhaps? A woman at the bottom of it, I warrant."

"Your grace is right."

"'Twas like you, for a fellow of good zest. May God bless all fair dames. And as to what you found in thus following—or was it in fleeing—your divinity?"

"I found many things. For one, that this America is the greatest country of the world. Neither England nor France is to be compared with it."

The regent fell back in his chair and laughed heartily.

"Monsieur, you are indeed, as I have ever found you, of most excellent wit. You please me enormously."

"But, your grace, I am entirely serious."

"Oh, come, spoil not so good a jest by qualifying, I beseech you! England or France indeed—ah, Monsieur L'as, Monsieur L'as!"

"Your own city of New Orleans, sire, will lie at the gate of a realm greater than all France. Your grace will hand to the young king, when he shall come of age, a realm excellently worth the ownership of any king."

"You say rich. In what way?" asked the regent. "We have not had so much of returns after all. Look at Crozat? Look at—"

"Oh fie, Crozat! Your grace, he solved not the first problem of real commerce. He never dreamed the real richness of America."

Philippe sat thoughtful, his finger tips together. "Why have we not heard of these things?" said he.

"Because of men like Crozat, of men like your governors and intendants at Quebec. Because, your grace, as you know very well, of the same reason which sent me once from Paris, and kept me so long from laying before you these very plans of which I now would speak."

"And that cause?"

"Maintenon."

"Oh, ah! Indeed—that is to say—"

"Louis would hear naught of me, of course. Maintenon took care that he should find I was but heretic."

"As for myself," said Philippe the regent, "heretic or not heretic makes but small figure. For us, 'tis most a question of how to keep the king in the saddle and France underneath."

"Precisely, your grace."

"Frankly, Monsieur L'as, I take it fittest now not so much to ponder over new worlds as over how to keep in touch with this old world yet awhile. France has danced, though for years she danced to the tune of Louis clad in black. Now France must pay for the music. My faith, I like not the look of things. The joyful France today is a hideous thing. These people laugh! I had sooner see a lion grin. Now to govern those given us by providence to govern," and the regent smiled grimly at the ancient fiction, "it is most meet that the governed should produce somewhat of funds in order that they may be governed."

"Yes, and the error has been in going too far," said Law. "These people have been taxed beyond the taxation point. Now they laugh."

"YOUR GRACE, I AM ENTIRELY SERIOUS."

"Yes, and by God, Monsieur L'as, when France laughs, beware!"

"Your grace admits that France has no further resources."

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,

14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL, IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

STOESSEL'S ADIEU

Russian Chief at Port Arthur Will Not Yield.

DEATH PREFERABLE TO SURRENDER

Japanese Shells Damage Ships In Harbor—Water Supply Cut Off. Besiegers Pressing Closer Daily.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—A Shanghai special says that the Japanese have occupied two forts to the northeast of Port Arthur, that a Russian battleship in the harbor has been sunk and that the Japanese attack on the fortress is becoming more furious day by day.

It is said that the Russian consulate at Chefu has a Marconi apparatus with which it communicates nightly with Port Arthur. The apparatus is placed on an island off Chefu.

A Shanghai report says that General Stoessel at Port Arthur has wired the Russian emperor and court recently: "I now bid you all goodby forever. Port Arthur is my grave."

General Stoessel has instilled the garrison of the beleaguered fortress with the spirit that to court a glorious death is preferable to capitulation.

The Japanese shells are inflicting great damage to the Russian fleet in the harbor and to the fortifications. The arsenal, with its contents of ammunition and small arms, has been destroyed, and preparations are being made for the last deadly struggle at close quarters. The water supply having been cut off, wells are being sunk. Provisions are scarce. Only tinned meats being left, the soldiers hold gala feasts on horses killed by the shells.

Certain troops included in the garrison have to be closely watched at present for fear of desertion or treachery.

The field and naval hospitals are crowded, and hygienic conditions are becoming desperate. The bombardment at times is so incessant that it is impossible to bury the dead to any depth. Over one-half of the original garrison is dead, wounded or sick.

The high angle at which their artillery fire is directed by the Japanese has practically destroyed the new town.

When the fleet attempted to break through the blockade some time ago the garrison was to have made a desperate sortie and inflict as much damage as possible and if necessary capitulate. The failure of the fleet to escape frustrated the plan.

The besiegers are pressing closer daily, and it is hard to say how long the garrison can hold out. When the end comes there will be a desperate fight and surprise. Thousands of the enemy will perish, as everything is mined.

Advices from Tokyo say that the Japanese opened a desperate general attack on the eastern forts of the Keekwan group, north of Port Arthur, during the morning of Oct. 26 and silenced the Russian batteries. A shell exploded the Russian magazines.

Simultaneously the Japanese attacked the forts on Rihiung mountain and Sunghohowian mountain, silenced the Russian batteries and stormed and occupied the forts in front of these mountains.

On the night of Oct. 26 there was a conflagration in old Port Arthur, and on Oct. 27 a shell hit the Russian battleship Sevastopol and two Russian steamers were sunk.

Japanese Get Shipload of Beef.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Oct. 29.—The Journal says: Intended for the use of the Russian soldiers fighting in the trenches of Manchuria, a shipload of 2,000,000 pounds of beef, one-fourth of which was shipped from the Sioux City plant of a local packing company, was captured by the Japanese off the coast of Japan. The order was received by the packing company from the Russian government late in the summer. The value of the cargo was close to $200,000. Undaunted by the fate of the first cargo, Russia has placed a second order for 2,500,000 pounds of beef, valued at $250,000.

Bryan to Parker.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 29.—William J. Bryan has sent this telegram to Judge Parker in reply to the latter's message of thanks: "I appreciate the generous expressions contained in your telegram. I am paying an installment on the debt I owe the American people by endeavoring to secure for them the reforms which your administration will bring."

Filipino Refused Suffrage.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 29.—The board of registration assembled here has announced that they refuse to recognize the right of Mr. Lagdameo, a Filipino, to vote. HOPE CHAPEL FIVE WINS FROM NEWARK TEAM

LOCAL AGGREGATION DEFEATS THE VISITORS BY SCORE OF 43 TO 17.

An easy prey to the Hope basket ball players, the team representing the Sacred Heart Club, of Newark, was defeated last evening on the Hope chapel floor by the score of 43 to 17. The visitors could not keep up with the speed of the Hope boys, being excelled in weight, team work, and individual excellency. At the end of the first half the score was 21 to 5, while in the second part of the game the Hope boys added 22 points to their opponents' 12.

The teams lined up as follows: Hope chapel—Duckworth and Dilts, forwards; Blimm, center; Porter and Roseberry, guards. Sacred Heart Club—Reilly and Garthwaite, forwards; Walsh, center; Seery and Boyne, guards. Goals from the field—Duckworth, 6; Dilts, 7; Roseberry, 5; Blimm 3; Boyne, 5; Reilly, Garthwaite, Seery. Goals from fouls—Duckworth, Reilly. Referee—Browning.

Child Badly Burned.

But for the timely assistance of her mother, Beatrice Overbaugh, of Richmond street, would have been seriously injured while playing around a bon-fire in the back yard yesterday afternoon. The child's thin dress caught in the flames as she was standing near, and she reached the door just as her mother was coming out. Mrs. Overbaugh wrapped the child in her skirt, smothering the flames. As it was, the mother was severely burned about the arms and hands, while the daughter's right arm and neck were badly scorched.

Organized Aid's Annual Session.

BOYS' CONFERENCE ENDS

Proceedings of Meetings Held Saturday and Sunday.

INTERESTING SPEECHES

Addresses Made by Lieut. Hearne, Mr. Kilborne and Others at Several Sessions.

Though last evening's meeting marked the concluding service of the State Boys' Conference for the year 1904, the helpful and far reaching effects of the convention will not be forgotten for years to come. Returning to their individual associations the delegates of this conference will take back the thoughts which have been gathered from their visit in Plainfield, and in their own lives, and in the lives of their departments, the influence for the good will be lasting, and helpful to all concerned.

The Saturday afternoon session was one of the most interesting and instructive in the conference. The presiding officer was Elmer J. Wals, of Camden. Lieutenant Hearne spoke after the bugle call, "drill," on the subject, "A Call to Individual Work." His remarks were characteristic with regard to impressiveness, and to strength, his speeches, and services being one of the most attractive features of the convention. He spoke plainly and firmly on the value of personal and individual work, stating the advantages both to the helper and to the one helped by such Christian influence. Throughout his remarks, Lieutenant Hearne kept up the figure of the soldier, struggling at times against disadvantages, but strong and confident in the leadership of his captain.

Frank P. Johnson, of Trenton, made a careful study of the educational work of the boys' departments during the past few weeks and presented his paper to the conference in good form. He first told of the work in New Jersey, calling attention to the efforts put forth for the school boys through short term educational classes, including classes in burnt wood, electricity, free hand drawing and other studies. He also referred to the numerous educational clubs. Among those mentioned were the stamp club, camera club and orchestra. Then he referred to the libraries and reading roooms of the associations, giving the names of some of the best books and periodicals. The excellent work accomplished by several city associations for the boys over fourteen years of age who are employed during the day was spoken of at length and the Trenton Night School was used as an illustration of how this work was appreciated by the boys of that city. Mr. Johnson gave a great many statistics which he had worked out carefully from his recent study. Besides telling of the work in this State, he gave many good thoughts which were gathered from correspondence with associations throughout the country.

The paper showed a careful study of the entire field, and many good suggestions were made.

Mr. Burger, of Paterson, then emphasized the need of this work, and conducted a live discussion, which was limited to the boys in attendance. The men present had to keep quiet and listen.

At the conclusion of this address, and discussion, the remainder of the afternoon session was taken up with the group conferences, which was another most delightful feature of the conference. The boys expressed themselves freely, and frankly on the social, athletic and club life of the various departments, and the others learned much from the facts presented in this part of the programme. The group conferences were in detail as follows:

High School students—Group one, W. H. Wones, Newark, presiding; special topic: Clubs; a, College Clubs; b, Student Club; c, Literary and De-

EXCISE BOARD POSSIBLE

Agitation May Lead to Establishment of a Commission.

INCREASED FEES SURE

If Saloon Limit is Made No Liquor Could be Sold in Third Ward.

Thus far no opposition of any considerable strength has developed against Councilman W. S. Tyler's amendment to the ordinance to license inns and taverns which provides for an increase to $1,000 a year for the retail liquor dealers, and it is not expected that there will be any when the ordinance is called up for final adoption.

Mr. Tyler will quite likely call up the ordinance at the next regular meeting, although there is no special haste about it. If adopted it would not go into effect before next year, and as the licenses are not granted until March, there is plenty of time.

A citizen who favors the high license, but who has his doubts as to the wisdom of increasing the fee to $1,000, remarked yesterday that it might lead to the establishment of an excise board. This he thought would be one of the worst things that could happen along this line. Providing Plainfield had such a board, it would be within its province to grant or reject as many applications as it saw fit and applications could be granted at any time of the year, instead of March, as at present. This board could also fix the license fee. Of course, the power would be invested in a much smaller body than at present and it would be an easy matter, perhaps, to elect a license board, one that would favor the granting of every application made and at the same reducing the fee to a nominal sum.

Although such a thing is possible, it is not probable, for it is the opinion of many that there are too many people in favor of a limited number of saloons with a moderately high fee, to permit the wholesale granting of applications with a low fee. Such a thing would be disastrous to the trade if permitted and even the saloon keepers themselves acknowledge the foolishness of such a scheme. It would only reduce their revenue and complicate the liquor business in more ways than one.

It is known that Councilman Tyler also desires to limit the district in which liquor can be sold and he will undoubtedly introduce an ordinance covering that point this year or the first of next. In case such an ordinance is adopted it would cut off all saloons outside of the business district, for it is understood that Mr. Tyler wants to confine the business to that section. This would keep saloons out of the Third ward, as well as the West End, where so many hard fights have been made to establish saloons and hotels. There is every reason to believe that strong opposition will be made to this ordinance, although if Mr. Tyler can count on the same votes that adopted the amendment to the liquor ordinance he can safely count on putting it through.

LAST DAY TO REGISTER IN CITY AND BOROUGH WILL BE TOMORROW.

WILLIAM D. CRAIG DIES AT HOME IN GRAHAM, TEX.

FORMER PLAINFIELDER, AGED 45, A SON OF DR. LEWIS CRAIG.

William D. Craig, for many years a resident of this city, is dead at his home in Graham, Texas. William Craig was the son of Dr. Lewis Craig, one of the oldest residents of the borough, and spent the early part of his life in Plainfield. He was forty-five years of age and was a graduate of the Plainfield High School. He spent three years at Princeton University.

Mr. Craig subsequently left for the south, where he went into cattle raising near Graham, Texas. He was an active member of the Presbyterian church of Graham.

Surviving him are a brother, George Craig, who lives on a ranch near Graham, and three children.

Hurt by a Fall.

William Bowman, aged seventy years, of West Front street, fell on West Front street Saturday night, receiving a lacerated wound over the left eye. He was taken to the hospital for treatment, after which he went home.

Mrs. W. H. Kirch, of Duer street, is ill with an attack of pneumonia.

HOUSE WRECKED BY BLAST

Northeastern Telephone Company Again in Trouble.

ITS POLES CUT DOWN

Jacob Wagner at Samptown Retaliates for Damaging Explosion in Front of His Place.

Inserting powder in a hole to blast out red shale, employes of the Northeastern Telephone Company damaged the home of Jacob Wagner on the main road between Samptown and New Market, to such an extent Saturday, that the concern faces a big damage suit from New York to Philadelphia. Huge pieces of rock were hurled against the Wagner residence, smashing weather boards and causing the ceilings to fall about the heads of the frightened occupants. They were badly frightened and several of them narrowly escaped injury from heavy pieces of plaster.

The company did not have permission to erect poles in front of the places and immediately after the explosion, Wagner hurried to this city and consulted Counsellor W. S. Angleman. He was advised to cut them down and he lost no time in making the deed square with the word. Taking an axe Saturday night he felled the three poles fronting his property, the erection of which caused the employes no end of bother and resulted in the explosion.

The construction gang reached the scene yesterday morning and it was a lucky thing for the company that they did. Across the street from Wagner's place are several houses occupied by Italian truck farmers in front of which poles had been erected without the consent of the owners. Witnessing Wagner's action and learning that he was acting under legal advice, they prepared to do the same thing last night but were frustrated. The construction gang divided itself into guards and the entire road has since been patrolled, the sight of an axe in a resident's hands being sufficient to call them together. A temporary shed was erected directly back of Wagner's home and the watchers took turns in wandering up and down in the frosty night air. To a Daily Press reporter yesterday the Italians declared they would lose no opportunity to cut the poles down and there is prospect of a pitched battle occurring at any time.

Wagner was seen by a Daily Press reporter yesterday and he declared that he would sue the company for heavy damages, having placed the facts of the case with Counsellor Angleman. He asserted that the company had no permission to place the poles in front of his place and he knew nothing of what was going on until the powder blast nearly demolished the house. His property is situated just over the Lehigh Valley crossing at what was formerly known as Dunham's corner beyond McDonough Brothers' ice houses.

The Northeastern people have also experienced a blockade at Samptown proper where John Keenan, a resident of New York, has forbid them to erect poles in front of property owned by him. It will require five poles to pass by and preparations had been completed to put them up when his agents appeared and stopped the work.

THIRTY-SIX INDICTMENTS FOUND BY GRAND JURY

JURYMEN MAKE A PRESENT TO THEIR FOREMAN.

Thirty-six indictments out of 178 cases considered by the Union County Grand Jury were presented to the court at Elisabeth, this morning. The jury was discharged. The presentments will probably be made on Wednesday. The foreman, R. A. Shirrefs, was presented with a silver and cut glass inkstand and a gold penholder and pen by his fellow jurymen. Charles A. Russ, chairman of the committee, to arrange for the gifts, made the presentation. John Farrell and E. A. Adams were the other members of the committee.

Congregational Church Celebration.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Congregational church will be appropriately observed at the church during the week commencing Sunday, November 13. An elaborate programme is being prepared.

Irving Hoagland, Assembly candidate on the Republican ticket from Somerset county, spent Saturday in the borough calling on voters.

VOTING MACHINE TRICK

Mr. Valiant Stirred by a Significant Act of Bosses.

BOROUGH SITUATION

Declares That Machine Should be Studied So That its Operation be Understood.

Editor, The Daily Press:

I notice in your issue of Saturday, an article signed "Republican Voter," making some statements which, if true, and their truth or falsity can be easily determined—that should stir the voters of the borough. The privilege of depositing a ballot, expressive of the wish of the voter, as to each candidate to be voted for, is one clear to each, and any attempt to make the fulfillment of such a wish difficult is to be deprecated, and most earnestly objected to; particularly when it does not bear equally upon all voters alike. If all of the voting of the borough and only a small part of that in other districts of the county is to be under the system of the voting machine, then it does seem as if "Republican Voter" is correct in his conclusions that the "powers that be" at Somerville have placed the machines in our two districts with a view of lessening the chances of a voter "splitting" his ticket, or of giving expression of his judgment as to who shall have his vote. It ought, however, with every independent man have the contrary effect to that the "power" evidently wish; the effect of leading the voter to study the machine before Election Day and becoming so thoroughly conversant with its intricacies as that voting machines or not the real expression of opinion of each voter will be duly registered.

Yours truly,
John Valiant.

BIG MEMORIAL SERVICE

Three Thousand Catholics Gather at Local Cemetery.

PROCESSION A FEATURE

Father Egan Makes an Address—Ceremony An Impressive One.

The second annual observance of Memorial day among the Roman Catholics in this city and adjoining towns was held yesterday afternoon at St. Mary's cemetery, where over three thousand persons of the faith gathered to participate in the impressive services. This observance was started a year ago by Father Egan, pastor of St. Mary's church, in accordance with the custom in France, Italy and Austria, and so far as known this is the only celebration of the kind held in this State.

Included among those present was Father Miller, and the Holy Name Society, of St. Joseph's church. Father Miller led his parishioners to the cemetery, and Father Egan led the procession of St. Mary's congregation.

In the services at the cemetery, Father Egan was the celebrant; Father Delehanty the deacon and Father Frederici the sub-deacon. Absolution was given at the graves after which the male choir from St. Mary's church sang the Benedictus and "Nearer, My God to Thee."

The address of the afternoon was by Father Egan who referred to the significance of the service in the remembrance of the dead, the manifestation of the Catholic faith in the hereafter and the communion of saints on sacred ground. He said that all could learn the lesson from this service and so live that when death comes they would be prepared for a happy hereafter. He dwelt briefly on the vanity of the world and urged all to put their minds and faith in spiritual things. The service was concluded with the address.

DON'T FORGET TOMORROW WILL BE THE LAST DAY TO REGISTER.

Report on Church Conference.

Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, who has just returned from the triennial conference of Congregational churches at Des Moines, Iowa, gave a talk concerning it at the morning service, yesterday. At the close of the service, William B. Wadsworth made an appeal to the congregation for subscriptions with which to pay for the new carpet and repairs to the church and parsonage. The sum of $600 was raised in less than twenty minutes.

CHAS. WADE LAID AT REST

All Scotch Plains Pays Tribute at His Bier.

THREE PASTORS SPEAK

Each One Eulogizes Young Man, Whose Loss the Community Keenly Feels.

In the Methodist church at Scotch Plains where he had been one of the leading figures in its social and religious welfare, funeral services were held yesterday afternoon over the remains of Charles E. Wade, who met a sudden death at Trenton Junction after attending the State Council of the Jr. O. U. A. M. as a delegate. The outpouring of relatives and friends was one of the largest the village has ever seen and many were unable to gain admittance to the structure. The attendance included nearly the entire membership of Twilight Council, of the Junior Order, Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company, of which he had been a member and Franklin and Somerset Councils, of this city.

Rev. C. C. Woodruff, of Roselle, a former pastor of the church, was in charge and he was assisted by Rev. Warren D. Coons, the present pastor and Rev. G. M. Shotts, of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, all of whom were in daily contact with the young man and who knew his inner nature as no one outside of the family did. Each departed from the customary form and spoke glowingly of his many noble attributes and devotion to the Master, Mr. Woodruff being especially eulogistic. He referred to the deceased as one of his "chums" and in calling him a Christian, asserted that it was the highest tribute that could be paid to any man. He declared his inability to preach a funeral sermon and devoted a considerable period to speaking in a reminiscent mood, at the same time drawing a lesson from the shock that had been thrust upon the community. Interspersing the remarks of the clergyman, two selections, "Nearer My God" and "Jesus Savior Pilot Me," were sung by a quartette from the Monroe Avenue church, of this city, composed of Rev. George Mooney, Lewis V. Taliamy, John Danb and Emanuel Gilbert.

The casket was draped with an American flag and the floral tributes were so numerous as to almost hide it from view. Set pieces were contributed by the two attending organizations, the Methodist church societies and by friends individually.

Quitting the church, the body was escorted to the Park avenue crossing where the Juniors and firemen quitted the cortage and were conveyed by special car to Hillside cemetery. At the graveside the Junior burial services was conducted by Harvey R. Thorn, of Franklin Council, this city. The pall bearers were members of Twilight Council as follows: Thomas S. Whitenack, Charles Fields, George A. Clark, Ernest Clark, John Mooney and I. Gager Walker.

PLANS FOR BUILDING ON WATCHUNG AVENUE

DESCRIPTION OF STRUCTURE TO BE ERECTED FOR C. H. HAND.

Architect W. H. Clum has completed the plans for the new building which Charles H. Hand proposes erecting at Watchung avenue and Second street and the work will commence as soon as the property can be cleared.

Although the building will practically be the same structure throughout it will be in three parts. On the corner will be one, three stories in height and intended for a store and flats. Adjoining it, running along Watchung avenue, will be a one story affair which will be divided into five stores. At the end will be another three story building the counterpart of the one on the corner. In this way the flats will receive the full benefit of light and air all the way around, making them very desirable apartments.

The combined structure will be ninety-seven feet in length and is to be of brick and stone.

Installed Church Officers.

Rev. Dr. Cornelius Sobenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, publicly installed these elders and deacons at the morning service, yesterday: Elders—George L. VanEmburgh, Robert Clark, Jr., H. E. Gayle. Deacons—W. F. Oliver, T. R. VanZandt, A. K. Willett.

SATURDAY ON THE LINKS

Many Enthusiasts Out at the Local Courses.

THE SCORES POSTED

H. F. Fox Wins First Honor at Hillside, With Julius E. Erickson, Second.

The Hillside Tennis and Golf Club was the scene of much activity Saturday afternoon, the course being well occupied with devotees of the game. While there were a number of entries in the scheduled events, this did not represent the attendance on the course, for many made the rounds and did not return scores. H. F. Fox, who has been greatly improving his game, won first honors for the Golf Committee cup, with a net score of 78. Julius E. Erickson finished second with a net score of 79, while Roger F. Murray came in third with a net score of 80.

These scores were returned for the cup:

H. F. Fox, 92, 14—78; Julius E. Erickson, 89, 10—79; Roger F. Murray, 86, 6—80; H. D. Hibbard, 88, 7—81; S. D. Lounsbery, 89, 8—81; J. Whitney Baker, 85, plus 1—86; D. H. Rowland, 99, 12—87; J. A. Tompkins, 99, 11—88. With a score of 95, plus 1—96, Harold Robert won three points for the Gaston cup. His was the only score posted.

While there was a larger attendance than usual at the Park Golf Club on Saturday, only three contestants returned their scores for the President's and Park Golf Club trophies. The course was in fine condition, and the day was ideal for the ancient game. The return of Charles W. McCutchen to the game was a feature of the play. These scores were posted for the two cups:

J. L. Watson, 114, 27—87; S. St. John McCutchen, 96, 8—88; Charles A. Reed, 105, 6—99.

The feature of the play at the Westfield Golf Club on Saturday was the performance of Marshall Whitlatch, who established a new amateur record for the course, making the eighteen holes in a 73. The event of the day was the semi-final play for the club championship with this result: Joseph Sherman, Jr., beat J. A. Worth, 10 up and 8 to go; Marshall Whitlatch beat W. J. Bogert, Jr., 8 up and 7 to go. The finals will be played between Joseph Sherman, Jr., and Marshall Whitlatch on Election Day at thirty-six holes.

In the evening there was a harvest dance at the clubhouse, everyone of the guests appearing in their field clothes. It was one of the most successful affairs ever given at the club, there being a large attendance of society folk from Westfield and nearby towns. The clubhouse was decorated in true autumn style.

SEE THAT YOUR NAME IS ON THE REGISTRY LIST TOMORROW.

OLD FOLKS SERVICE A UNIQUE GATHERING

SEVENTEEN HALF-CENTURY CHRISTIANS INCLUDED IN THE GATHERING.

Seventeen persons who have been Christians for more than fifty years, were included in the large congregation which attended the "old folks" service in Grace M. E. church yesterday morning. It was one of the most unique gatherings that have yet taken place in the pretty edifice and to Rev. A. C. Diffenderfer, who was in charge, it was highly gratifying. To the young people who were present it was an inspiring sight and many of them profitted by it spiritually.

On the platform with the pastor was Rev. J. R. Bryant, now "on the bright side of seventy," who was converted at the age of fourteen. He presented his testimony and in contrast with it and others from the gathering, recitations were given by two tots, Blanche Stout and Edith Mantz, in which they expressed pretty sentiments. The musical features were contributed by Miss Winifred Carroll, who rendered a solo effectively, accompanied by Miss Alice Carroll, and Dyckman Winckler, with violin selections. The congregation sang the old, familiar hymns and Mr. Diffenderfer gave a solo at the conclusion of his brief address.

Members of the congregation and those who wished to attend and could not on account of infirmity, were taken to the church in carriages.

FOOTBALL GAMES GALORE

Four Local Teams Participate in Contests.

ALIS IS VICTORIOUS

O. F. C. Defeats Somerville, But Other Plainfield Elevens Lose to Opponents.

With a clear sky and light wind, Saturday was an ideal day for football and all four of the local teams took advantage of it. In the morning the Plainfield High School and the Leal's teams were both defeated, the former being worsted by the Perth Amboy school, and the latter losing the league game with Pingry. Alis demonstrated its superiority to the Dunellen team in a well played game on Crescent Oval, while the Orange Field Club easily worsted Somerville.

A sensational run for the entire length of the field was the feature of the High School-Perth Amboy game on Hope Common in the morning. The run, which scored the first touchdown, was made by Barter, of the visiting team. A touchdown in the second half made the score 11 to 0.

The line up was as follows: P. H. S.—Taylor, fullback; J. Douglass, right half; W. Douglass, left half; Williams, quarterback; Rockwell, right end; Jones, left end; Jahn, right tackle; Bentley, left tackle; Shrager, right guard; Freeman, left guard; Bogart, center. Perth Amboy—Barter, fullback; Boos, right half; W. Hornsby, left half; Gillis, quarterback; Crowell, right end; Afflerback, left end; Hardiman, right tackle; Hanson, left tackle; J. Hornsby, right guard; Donahue, left guard; Wight, center.

Referee—Johnston; umpire, Best; time of halves, 20 and 15 minutes.

Leal's School met its defeat at Elizabeth, where the Pingry School piled up 17 points to their opponents' 0. All the scoring took place in the first half, and was largely the result of fumbling on the part of the Plainfield school, and good interference by the home team. Long gains through tackle, and equally long runs round the ends were frequent occurrences.

The line up of the local team was as follows: Manning, center; Smith, right guard; Guteries, right tackle; Suffern, right end; Lawrence, left guard; Curtis, left tackle; Glenney, left end; Wilcox, left half; Daniel, right half; Dallas, fullback; Reese, quarterback.

In the afternoon, Alis won from the Dunellen team by the score of 27 to 0. The game was played on Crescent Oval, and was a comparatively easy victory for the Alis eleven. Their line was stronger, and their backs faster, while they were far superior in interference. The touchdowns were made by the following: W. Moore 2; F. Moore 2; Guier 1; kicked goals, Phillips 2.

The two teams lined up as follows: Alis—Thayer, left end; Voorhees, left tackle; Guier, left guard; Prince, center; Derby, right guard; Egan, right tackle; W. Moore, right end; Phillips and Beard, quarterback; Cuming, left half; F. Moore, right half; McNaughton, fullback. Dunellen—Everett, left end; Guinn, left tackle; Fleming, left guard; Day, center; George, right guard; Hobbie, right tackle; Thomas, right end; Hamilton, quarterback; Johnston, left half; Matlsby, right half; Jones, fullback.

In a game which was uninteresting on account of its unevenness, the Orange Field Club, though outweighed, defeated the Somerville team by the score of 44 to 0. Twenty-two points were made in each half. The O. F. C. team had little difficulty in getting the ball down the field, and apparently scored at will.

The local eleven line-up was as follows: Emmons, left end; W. McCullough, left tackle; Banks, left guard; Hellyer, center; J. McCullough, right guard; Todd, right tackle; Shephard, right end; McVoy, quarterback; Smith, left half; Sherwin and Hamilton, right half; Tobin, fullback.

Referee, Phillips; time of halves, 20 and 15 minutes.

Residence Threated by Fire.

A still alarm was turned into headquarters yesterday afternoon for a dangerous fire from leaves which threatened the residence of S. A. Cruikshank on Belvidere avenue. Chief Doane and Captain Townley with No. 2 hose wagon responded and soon ended the trouble.

Rev. Dr. Zelie to Lecture.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will give an address on "The Situation in the Presbyterian church in Scotland," at the mid-week meeting Wednesday night.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—The Common Council will hold its next regular meeting on Monday night, November 7, the night before election. This session is usually not a lengthy one, as the members are engaged in other matters to some extent.

—Supervising Principal A. B. Meredith, of the Nutley schools, who was recently chosen county superintendent of Essex and was formerly an instructor in the Plainfield High School, in his monthly report to the Nutley Board of Education, made some pertinent comments on the matter of backward pupils and gave suggestions as to treating them. He also advocated the establishment of a physical culture course as a means for bettering the mental condition of all classes of pupils.

—Principal I. W. Travell, of the Plainfield High School, has announced that in addition to the names of the battalion officers, the names of the class officers at the present time will be placed in the corner stone of the new High School building. Those whose names are to be enrolled in this list of officers are as follows: Senior class, president, Harry G. Thompson; secretary and treasurer, Chester H. Briggs; colors, blue and white; junior class, president, Stuart Freeman; vice president, Joseph Gavett; secretary and treasurer, Jerome Cline, colors, orange and white; sophomore class, president, William Douglass; vice president, Jessica Hill; secretary and treasurer, Fred Smith; colors, crimson and gray; freshmen class, president, Ralph Taylor; vice president, Josephine Serrell; secretary and treasurer, Gladys Burt; colors, red and white.

LITERARY.

To be truly sympathetic we should be able so to identify ourselves with the interests of others that we can have a thorough appreciation of their point of view, and can understand their lives clearly, as they appear to themselves; but this we can never do if we are immersed in the fog—either of their personal selfishness or our own. By understanding others clearly we can talk in ways that are, and seem to them, rational, and gradually lead them to a higher standard.—Annie Payson Call, in Leslie's Monthly Magazine for November.

There are thirty-eight signal contributions in the November "Smart Set," and no magazine can offer a greater variety of stories and poems; certainly no standard is higher. The novelette which opens the issue is called "The Surrender," and is written by J. H. Twelly, Jr. It is a powerful study of divorce, presented with great insight and feeling. The scenes, many of which are dramatic to the extreme, are laid in Paris, and the author reveals an intimate knowledge of the French capital. A timely essay by the distinguished dramatist, Clyde Fitch, entitled "The Play and the Public," will be widely read and discussed. Mr. Fitch writes from the inside, and everything he says on a dramatic subject is spoken almost ex cathedra.

Independent Light Plant.

The Watchung Silk Company has decided to light its plant by electricity by its own plant, a new thirty-horse-power engine having been installed at the mill to be used as an auxiliary to the thirty-horse-power engine already at the mill. It is planned to used 250 electric lights and the engine room will be enlarged considerably. With the two engines, there will be no trouble in the future as one will always be ready in cases the other breaks down.

VIGO INQUIRY OPENS

Czar Wants Clearest Light on North Sea Incident.

QUEEN AND EMPRESS WORK FOR PEACE

Said That Delcasse, French Foreign Minister, Planned Settlement Between Britain and Russia Acceptable to Both Nations.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—A dispatch from Madrid says that the Russian inquiry into the North sea affair opened at Vigo yesterday.

St. Petersburg advices say that Foreign Minister Lamsdorff's telegram to Count Benkendorff, the Russian ambassador to Great Britain, and the ambassador's reply thereto has been published and is as follows:

"In a desire to bring everything that occurred in the North sea into the clearest light possible our monarch considers it beneficial to submit the affair to an international commission of inquiry, on the basis of The Hague convention, for thorough investigation. Your excellency is directed by imperial command to propose this means of settlement of the question to the British government."

To this Count Benkendorff replied: "I have communicated your excellency's telegram to Lord Lansdowne. The British government accepts the proposal to submit the North sea incident in all its extent to examination by an international commission, as provided for by The Hague convention."

A Tangier dispatch says that five Russian torpedo boat destroyers have put to sea from that port. The remainder of the fleet is coaling and provisioning there.

A Copenhagen report says that the North sea affair caused the deepest anxiety to King Christian of Denmark, who declared that should an Anglo-Russian war result it would be the cause of his death. The dowager empress of Russia promised her father, the king, to use her greatest efforts to prevent a conflict. It is stated that hundreds of dispatches were exchanged between the dowager empress and the queen of Great Britain during the week and that the two sisters rendered great service in the cause of peace.

The world will doubtless take particular satisfaction in according Emperor Nicholas, to whose initiative the Hague convention owed its existence, the honor and credit of having proposed an honorable solution of the North sea incident, which might have plunged Russia and Great Britain into war, by an appeal to its rules. Nevertheless it is learned on very high authority that this diplomatic triumph belongs to M. Delcasse, the French foreign minister.

The British cruiser Lancaster, which was at Vigo for some time on Saturday, departed in the evening after her commander had conferred with Vice Admiral Rojestvensky on board the Russian flagship Kniaz Souvaroff. She returned on Sunday, and there was another conference between the British and Russian naval commanders on board the flagship of the latter. Subsequently Admiral Rojestvensky went on board the Lancaster before she sailed for Villagarcia, where, it is supposed, the British channel fleet has assembled.

Gerald Balfour, president of the board of trade, has appointed Admiral Sir Cyprian Bridge and Butler Aspinall, barrister-at-law, who practices mainly in the admiralty court, to conduct the North sea inquiry at Hull.

There are five British warships cruising off Vigo, ostensibly keeping within observation of the Russian vessels there.

Naval reports show that British war vessels are so disposed as to keep a sharp watch on all movements along the proposed route of the Russian Baltic squadron, including the Canary Islands, where the Russians have prepared elaborate arrangements for coaling from German steamers. Admiral Rojestvensky's four battleships remain at Vigo; but, according to some reports, the firing in the North sea was done by Admiral Voelkersam's squadron, which is now at Tangier.

Czar and British Ambassador Talk.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 31.—The emperor has received in audience Sir Charles Hardinge, the British ambassador, at Tsarskoe Selo. The emperor and the ambassador had a long conversation. Sir Charles Hardinge also visited Foreign Minister Lamsdorff.

Mysterious Shooting of Banker.

DANVILLE, Va., Oct. 31.—S. H. Buchanan, a banker of Jonesboro, Ga., has been shot here and is in a critical condition. He was in the room of Mrs. W. T. White, at the latter's home at the time, and she has been arrested, charged with the crime. She declares, however, that it was a case of attempted suicide. Buchanan is said to have a wife living in Georgia. Mrs. White says she knew Buchanan in Georgia before coming to Virginia.

Altman Brothers Not Guilty.

FOLKSTON, Ga., Oct. 31.—At midnight a verdict of not guilty was brought in by the jury that was trying Hilliary and Charles Altman for the murder of Jackson Duncan. The jury had been out for hours. The Altman brothers were charged with having killed Jackson Duncan on a train going from Jacksonville to their home at Baxter, Fla., some weeks ago.

Eleven Dead at Wedding Feast.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 31.—At a fire following a wedding in the poorer part of St. Petersburg last night eleven of the guests were burned to death. Five others are missing, and it is feared that they also have perished.

HAGUE CONFERENCE.

President's Project Embraces General Peace Treaties.

ALL NATIONS IN ANTIWAR CONGRESS

Text of Secretary of State Hay's Note to Powers Made Public—Foreshadows Great Strides Toward Universal Peace.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—In a circular note Secretary of State Hay has carried out the president's instructions relative to proposing a second Hague conference. The note not only contemplates the reassembling of The Hague conference for the consideration of questions specifically mentioned by the original conference as demanding further attention, such as the rights and duties of neutrals, the inviolability of private property in naval warfare and the bombardment of ports by naval force, but goes further by practically indorsing the project of a general system of arbitration treaties and the establishment of an international congress to meet periodically in the interests of peace. The issue of the call while the present war is in progress is justified by the fact that the first Hague conference was called before our treaty of peace with Spain was concluded. The text of the note in part follows:

"The peace conference which assembled at The Hague on May 18, 1899, marked an epoch in the history of nations. Called by his majesty the emperor of Russia to discuss the problems of the maintenance of general peace, the regulation of the operations of war and the lessening of the burdens which preparedness for eventual war entails upon modern peoples, its labors resulted in the acceptance by the signatory powers of conventions for the peaceful adjustment of all international disputes.

"The annual conference of the Interparliamentary union was held this year at St. Louis in appropriate connection with the world's fair. Its deliberations were marked by the same noble devotion to the cause of peace and to the welfare of humanity which had inspired its former meetings.

"By the unanimous vote of delegates, active or retired members of the American congress and of every parliament in Europe, with two exceptions, the following resolution was adopted:

"'Whereas, enlightened public opinion and modern civilization alike demand that differences between nations should be adjudicated and settled in the same manner as disputes between individuals are adjudicated—namely, by the arbitrament of courts in accordance with recognized principles of law—this conference requests the several governments of the world to send delegates to an international conference to be held at a time and place to be agreed upon by them for the purpose of considering:

"'First.—The questions for the consideration of which the conference at The Hague expressed a wish that a future conference be called.

"'Second.—The negotiation of arbitration treaties between the nations represented at the conference to be convened.

"'Third.—The advisability of establishing an international congress to convene periodically for the discussion of international questions.

"'And this conference respectfully and cordially requests the president of the United States to invite all the nations to send representatives to such a conference.'

"On the 24th of September, ultimo, these resolutions were presented to the president by a numerous deputation of the Interparliamentary union. The president accepted the charge offered to him, feeling it to be most appropriate that the executive of the nation which had welcomed the conference to its hospitality should give voice to its impressive utterances in a cause which the American government and people hold dear.

"Finally, you will state the president's desire and hope that the undying memories which cling around The Hague as the cradle of the beneficent work which had its beginning in 1899 may be strengthened by holding the second peace conference in that historic city."

Fairbanks to Tour Indiana.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 31.—Senator Charles W. Fairbanks, Republican candidate for vice president, spent Sunday at home. He attended the Methodist church with Mrs. Fairbanks. He is in excellent health and said he was never more ready to endure a week's campaigning than now. Senator Fairbanks and party leave this morning for a six days' tour of Indiana.

Opposition to Amador Ends.

PANAMA, Oct. 31.—The resignation of Tomas Arias, secretary of state of the republic of Panama, apparently ends the division of political parties here. Pablo Arosemena, leader of the opposition, said, "Opposition to President Amador's government is impossible now." It is reported that Santiago Guardia, minister to Costa Rica, will replace Arias.

Bankrupt Under Arrest.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Oct. 31.—Arthur M. Felson, an involuntary bankrupt, formerly in business as a jeweler at Gouverneur, was arrested at Watertown and has been placed in jail here. He is charged with concealing his property.

Colliery Fire Put Out.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Oct. 31.—Officials of the Enterprise colliery, which caught fire three weeks ago, have stated that the fire caused over $100,000 damage, but has been extinguished.

WRECK AT TIPTON.

Missouri Pacific World's Fair Special In Collision.

FOUR KILLED, TEN HURT IN ONE CAR

Engine of Second Section Telescoped Sleeper of First Train, Splitting It and Killing or Wounding All Passengers.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 31.—Three persons were killed and twelve injured in a rear end collision between section No. 2 and section No. 1 of train No. 3 of the Missouri Pacific world's fair special at Tipton, Mo.

Train No. 3, on account of the heavy world's fair travel, was made up in two sections, the first leaving St. Louis for Kansas City at 10:10 p. m. The second section left a few minutes later, and when it reached Tipton section No. 1 was taking on passengers. According to Engineer Ramsey of section No. 2, a headlight in the yards blinded him, and he was unable to see section No. 1. He also says that his orders were "clear ahead." The second section was running about thirty miles an hour when the collision occurred. The end sleeper of section No. 1 was entirely demolished, and the second sleeper was overturned.

The dead are Mrs. Bright Walker, Lewisburg, Pa.; Mrs. Margaret Burke, Kansas City, and J. W. Bagby, address unknown.

Among the injured are W. J. Black, general passenger agent of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad, collarbone broken, wrenched back and bruised, and Mrs. W. J. Black, Topeka, ankle broken, head badly bruised. Nine other passengers were seriously hurt.

The engine of the second section struck the Pullman car Topaz squarely, splitting it for two-thirds of its length, and all of the fourteen passengers in the car were either killed or injured. There were twenty-two passengers in the next car ahead and, although all were badly shaken up by the collision and received a few scratches, only a few were injured seriously.

The blame, according to Superintendent W. J. McKee, who went at once to the scene of the wreck, rests with the engineer and conductor of the second section. They were running twenty-five miles an hour when, the superintendent said, they should have had their train under control.

NEW YORK HERALD FORECAST.

Republican Electoral Votes Put at Two Hundred and Fifty-seven.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The New York Herald's election forecast shows the following results:

It gives Roosevelt 257 electoral votes and Parker 159, with 18 additional votes probably Republican, 3 probably Democratic and New York, with 39 votes, doubtful.

Herrick's election as governor of New York is foreshadowed.

In the house of representatives there are indicated 210 Republicans, 164 Democrats and 12 doubtful members.

Connecticut, Idaho, Indiana, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Wisconsin are given as Republican and Colorado, Delaware, Montana and West Virginia as probably Republican.

John Somerfield Brayton Dead.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 31.—John Somerfield Brayton, one of the wealthiest and most prominent business men of this city, is dead here, aged seventy-eight years. Death was the result of general debility incident to old age. Mr. Brayton was president of the Fall River National bank, the B. N. C. Durfee Safe Deposit and Trust company, the Troy Cotton and Woolen Manufacturing company, the Border City Manufacturing company and the Fall River Gas Works company. He was a graduate of Brown university and the Harvard Law school and a trustee of the former institution.

New Haven to Get Western Road.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 31.—It is definitely announced that the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company at a meeting of its directors, all but two being present, voted with substantial unanimity to accept an option offered by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. on a majority of the Ontario and Western stock. The price paid is $45 a share, ex-dividend, and all the arrangements for the temporary financing extending over some months have been made.

Dr. Edwin Post Fell Unconscious.

GREENCASTLE, Ind., Oct. 31.—While attending services at the College Avenue Methodist Episcopal church yesterday Dr. Edwin Post, who is at the head of the Latin department in Depauw university, suffered an attack of apoplexy and fell to the floor unconscious. Dr. Post was carried to his residence, where he lies in a critical condition.

British Sailor Robbed and Murdered.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Oct. 31.—The body of William Morris, a seaman of the British steamer Kanawha, has been taken from the river here. Morris disappeared from the vessel ten days ago, and the captain reported the case to the police, believing that the sailor had been robbed and murdered. Morris is said to have relatives in Jersey City, N. J.

Mrs. Tevis to Marry Hart McKee.

Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 31, 1904.

Those who heard Charles C. Black, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, speak on the subject of taxation, should hear Edward C. Stokes, the Republican candidate, speak upon the same issue tonight.

The New York Herald, the most thorough and reliable vote canvasser, in its forecast yesterday predicted the election of Theodore Roosevelt by a large electoral majority. It also included Charles N. Fowler and Ira W. Wood, congressional candidates in the Fifth and Fourth districts, as members of the next House of Representatives.

THE FORUM.

Communications from readers of The Daily Press on all subjects of local interest are invited. All such communications must be stripped of personalities, and must be signed by the writer. His name will not necessarily be published. The editor is not responsible for views expressed in this column.

Mr. Atterbury Non-Committal.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Dear Sir—In your report of the Democratic meeting on Friday night you said that "it was considered he (Mr. Atterbury) put himself on record as being opposed to the increase in the liquor license fees in this city." I desire to state that I said nothing of the sort in my address, nor anything from which such an inference could be drawn. I used the proposed increase merely as an illustration of my argument that an increase of taxes almost always is paid by the consumer, and to avoid any misapprehension I distinctly said that I had nothing to say on the advisability of the increase in this particular case.

Yours truly,
Albert H. Atterbury.

The Daily Press report of the meeting stated "Mr. Atterbury IT WAS CONSIDERED put himself on record as being opposed to the increase in the liquor license fees in this city although he said that he had no comment to make on the wisdom of the Common Council's action. He had been impressing upon his hearers that the burden of all taxation falls upon the consumer and said that if the saloonkeeper has to pay more for his license he will get it out of the customers. 'There'll be more foam on the beer if the ordinance goes through,' said he."—Editor.

DOINGS OF THE LOCAL FRATERNAL ORDERS.

Regular communications of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 36, F. and A. M., will be held on Tuesdays, November 1 and 15. The entered apprentice degree will be conferred at the first communication and the Master Mason Degree at the second. The lodge contemplates amending the by-laws, increasing the degree fees from $30 to $50. The amendment was presented at the last communication and will be acted upon at the next communication.

Hunt Club's Run.

On Saturday afternoon fifteen members of the Watchung Hunt Club enjoyed an exhilerating chase after the hounds. The meet was near the Crescent Avenue church at 3:30. The drag was laid from a field north of Leland avenue over towards the mountain to Scotch Plains. From there the hounds led them through the field back of Mrs. Warren's Ackerman's place, where they circled and finished on Leland avenue, near the old railroad. There were twenty jumps and were all well taken. Among those who participated in the run were Miss Noe, Miss Weir, Miss Holly, Miss Cruikshank, George S. Ring, Charles D. Freeman, Eugene Smith and H. Duncan Bulkley. The honors at the finish were divided between Miss Cruikshank and Mr. Bellows, whose mounts took the last fence together.

SEEN AND HEARD IN PLAINFIELD'S INDUSTRIAL PLANTS.

"Bunchie" Griffin and Robert Hangliter are recent additions to the machine shop force at Pond's.

William Jukes has resigned his position at the Potter Press Works. "Bill" was one of the "old timers" at the shop and his absence has been noted by everyone.

The Patternmakers' Union, of Elizabeth, has reported to the Trades Council that its strike has been gained at Ball & Wood's plant and that only union men will be employed there hereafter.

The eighty-four inch planer, which the Pond shop has been building for the Russian government, was completed and shipped last Friday. It was gotten out in remarkably quick time but men had to be kept at work day and night to do it.

The Singer Manufacturing Company, of Elizabeth, which recently purchased the Henry Worthington plant on the bay front, is remodelling the building throughout. It is said the big concern intends making improvements in order to occupy it as an adjunct to the main factory.

John Dwyer, who has been foreman of the machine department at the Manganese Steel Safe Company's plant, resigned his position Saturday. He will be succeeded by Peter Peterson, who has been in the erecting gang. Dwyer has been one of the most popular employes at the plant and his leaving is greatly regretted.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. C. V. Kronimus' formerly of this city, but now of Brooklyn, has returned home after a visit with her mother, Mrs. Henness, of East Front street.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Garvin' who are stopping at the Hotel Kensington, contemplate going to Cuba, where Mr. Garvin has received an offer to play ball during the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Johnston, of Summit avenue, were among the Plainfielders who entertained delegates to the boys' conference. Their guests were former friends from Morristown.

Fred Dunavan, of L. W. Randolph's pharmacy, leaves today to spend a week in Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. While in the National Capitol he will endeavor to meet President Roosevelt and on his return will stop at Philadelphia to witness the U. of P. football game on Saturday.

—A number of Plainfield people will attend a Hallowe'en party to be held at the Middlebrook County Club, Bound Brook, tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Lake are spending a few days at Niagara Falls.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The new school building in district No. 2 was formally opened this morning, with a simple programme, no attempt being made by the Board of Education to make the event a memorial one. Speeches were made by Principal H. D. White, of school No. 1, also by members of the Board of Education who were present. The school has been divided into two classes. Miss Little, who has been a teacher in the old school for several years, has been appointed principal, her assistant is Miss Rose. The new school meets a long felt want in the lower end of the township and one that the residents at that end have been agitating for several years. The building is a modern one story structure pleasing to the eye and fitted with all the modern appliances for school work.

At the close of the morning service at the Baptist church yesterday, a short business meeting was held for the purpose of considering the resignation of Rev. G. M. Shott as pastor of the church. Rev. J. H. Parks, A. D. Beekon, David Hand and Dr. F. W. Westcott were appointed a committee to consider the matter and report at another church meeting to be held shortly.

The Board of Registry meets in the town rooms tomorrow. This is the last chance to get registered without an order from the court. If your name is not on the list better attend to it tomorrow.

On Saturday evening, the boys were assembled in the Seventh-Day Baptist church by the bugle, and after a song service, Edward H. Austin, the presiding officer, introduced Lieutenant Hearne, who spoke on the subject "A Call to United Effort." Lieutenant Hearne emphasized the value of united endeavor, the strength derived therefrom, and the influence of such effort. He spoke also in preparation for yesterday's services, giving the boys directions for the Sunday meetings. He was followed by E. T. Colton, International Secretary, who spoke on "Opportunities of an Older Boy for Public Christian Service." His address, though brief, was interesting and to the point. The session Saturday was a short one and taps sounded at about 9:30 o'clock.

Yesterday morning, the boys attended regular church service as there was no meeting of the conference until 3:30 in the afternoon. At that hour, the Christian boys of the delegation met with Charles R. Scott, State Secretary of Boys' Work, for a short preparatory service. The regular afternoon service took place at 4:15 in the church auditorium, when Rev. James A. Francis, of Boston, made an address to all the boys over twelve years of age. His talk was concise, and very plain. In many ways this service was the most important of the conference. It was impressive, and of great value to the boys throughout their whole lives, being a talk which they will long remember. He drew a parallel between the life of a Christian boy, and the life of a faithful soldier, representing the evil influences which may act upon that life and the resulting effect. The speaker illustrated his talk in a simple manner, and held the attention of the boys up to the last word. Before concluding the service an appeal was made to the youths to become Christian soldiers and to join the army of Christ. The result was very gratifying, and the number of boys who gave their names to Secretary Scott at the conclusion of the service, stating their desire to lead Christian lives, is a decided testimony in favor of the work which has been done by the convention during the last three days. Mr. Francis' remarks appealed to the conscience, not to the emotional nature, and the response was entirely voluntary.

Enthusiastic and inspiring was the service held in the First Presbyterian church last evening, when Charles T. Kilborne, of Orange, made the address. The church was crowded, every pew being filled with delegates, or with members of the regular congregation. Mr. Kilborne spoke of the progress which has been made since the convention met in this city five years ago, of the increase in membership of the various departments, and of the help which has been received from the Divine power in carrying on the work. He also illustrated, by use of a series of charts, the fact that the greatest change and the greatest influence is brought to bear on a boy's life between the ages of 12 and 16. Mr. Kilborne stated in addition that it is a well proven fact that these influences are the ones which have the most lasting effect on the man's life.

Following Mr. Kilborne's interesting address, the delegates met in the lecture room for the farewell meeting, which, as is always the case, was a most impressive service. After a short service of song, the boys were called upon to give their thoughts of the conference. The young men were frank in their statements, and testified to the vast amount of good which the meetings have accomplished. There were other addresses, all brief, by various officers of the State work, including Frederick H. Andrews, Charles R. Scott and Kenneth Robbie. Mr. Kilborne took for his text, Ephesians 6:11, "Put on the whole armor of God that ye may be able to stand against the whiles of the devil." At the conclusion of his address, the reports on the attendance were read, which showed that the total number of delegates was 272, an increase of thirty-six over the number at last year's conference. A resolution drawn up by the committee was read. Embodied in the words of the resolution were the thanks of the members of the conference to the grace of God for permitting the conference to be held another year; to the trustees and directors of the local Y. M. C. A., to the officers of the church, and the officials of the Y. M. C. A., for the privileges allowed to the delegates; to the ladies' auxiliary, and the people of the city for their kindness in entertaining the delegates; to the speakers at the conference, and to the local papers for the way in which they reported the proceedings of the convention.

As has been customary for several years, the conference for boys' work for the year 1904, was brought to a close, while, with hands joined, the delegates sang "Blest be the Tie that Binds."

The following are the chairmen of Plainfield committees: Reception, Dr. N. H. Probasco; entertainment, O. S. Rogers; usher, Harry Thompson; church, Philip Suffern advertising, Fred Smith; coat room, Webster Gavett; banquet, Edgar Freeman; decorating, Albert Codington.

The secretaries of conference were Preston Ackerman, of Passaic, and W. W. Miller, of Bloomfield.

The conference committees are as follows: Credential, Dr. N. H. Probasco, of Plainfield; Charles F. Rathgeber, of Newark; Haldane Johnson, of Montclair; resolutions, Winston Paul, of Jersey City; Arthur Livingston, of Orange, Rush VanSickle, of New Brunswick.

Mrs. Corrigan Buried.

The funeral of Mrs. Katherine Corrigan was held this morning from St. Mary's church, Father Delahany officiating. There was a large attendance. The pall bearers were James Fitzpatrick, John Strapp, John Simpson, Tom Coultar, Tim Cullinan and Thomas Flynn. The burial was at the St. Mary's cemetery.

U. S. CONSUL TO PRESIDE AT MASS-MEETING TONIGHT

REPUBLICAN GUBERNATORIAL CANDIDATE TO MAKE A SPEECH.

Rev. Walter T. Griffin, U. S. Consul to Limoges, France, who is now at his home here, has been chosen to preside at the Republican mass meeting to be held in Reform Hall tonight. E. C. Stokes, Gubernatorial candidate, will be the chief speaker of the evening.

Those who heard Charles C. Black, the Democratic candidate for Governor, last week, will be anxious to hear Mr. Stokes and see what arguments he will present against those offered by his opponent. Mr. Stokes is a fluent and interesting speaker and as this will be his first visit to Plainfield, no doubt a large crowd will be attracted.

There will be good music and seats will be reserved for women until 8:15 o'clock. Those in charge of the meeting have selected the following as vice-presidents:

R. A. Becker, Samuel Bingaman, M. S. Ackerman, J. W. Jackson, W. E. Hoyt, R. C. Treadwell, William H. Clark, E. B. Clark, B. O. Drake, C. M. Frost, F. L. Montgomery, C. E. Varian, M. M. Willard, Joseph Noonan, John W. Whitehead, Frank March, John Bowman, James Stewart, James Patterson, James Craig, Frank H. Randolph, George Leighs, John Traynor, Dr. Frank S. Wells, W. W. Moore, F. A. Weeks, D. W. Littell, Frank Whiting, T. W. Maxwell, R. D. Barnes, J. E. Douglass, Dr. Waldo, Phillip McIntyre, A. Aldrich.

Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis preached at the Seventh-Day Baptist church on Saturday for the pastor, Rev. G. B. Shaw, who has been absent from the city for several days.

LAST DAY TO REGISTER IN CITY AND BOROUGH WILL BE TOMORROW.

YALE'S GIANT TEAM.

Columbia Football Players Overwhelmed by Old Eli Players.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. — Crushed, beaten, battered almost to a pulp, until its stricken warriors, limp and almost lifeless, lined the field from goal post to goal post, Columbia's football eleven, fighting to the last gasp, went down to defeat by a score of 34 to 0, victims of the fearful weight and power of Yale's monster team.

Crushed and beaten, but far from disgraced, is the summary of the clash of 1904 between the two colleges.

Bull throated, hairy of chest and bulging with beef and muscle, old Eli's team came swaggering on the field of American League park. All over it looked the fearful engine of destruction it later proved to be. Beside it the Columbia team, generally supposed to be a fairly husky lot of lads, looked almost like pigmies.

It was in the second half that Yale's giants gave an exhibition of what they could do. The first half was chiefly devoted to getting the machine in working order, trying out the different portions of its mechanism. Then, convinced that it was all right, it was driven to its limit.

And what power there was in it! Like an enormous steam driven snow plow it plunged into the Columbia nine, scattering all before it, defying all obstacles, battling, grinding, crushing its way toward the goal.

One man in the light blue and white, keen, dangerous and heady to the last, made a splendid stand for Columbia, practically alone. This was Metzenthin, quarterback, whom Morley did not play in the first half of the game against Pennsylvania and who, though playing on a defeated eleven, must be honored henceforth in Columbia's football hall of fame side by side with Harold Weekes.

Barney Oldfield Wins.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Barney Oldfield has redeemed himself. At the Empire City track he competed against three of the most skillful automobile race drivers of two continents in speed machines of international fame with only reputation as a prize, and he won. Incidentally he set up a table of new records for competition from standing start and beat all track records for ten miles.

Lipton Has a Vacant Place.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Sir Thomas Lipton in visiting the cruiser Olympia of the United States European squadron here to thank the crew for the loving cup which they presented to him said he had received many trophies, and among them all this cup would occupy a prominent position; but, he added significantly, "There is one spot which I am keeping vacant."

Pennsylvania Humbled Crimson.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 31.—Pennsylvania humbled the crimson in the big Harvard stadium, easily outplaying the Cambridge men at every point, thereby furnishing another sensational milestone in an already sensational season. The Quakers are now the only big college eleven with a clean record, Yale, Princeton and Harvard having met defeat.

The XPNDC a Wonder.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Mr. Frank Croker's XPNDC won the long distance motor boat race, performing marvelously well, showing both speed and endurance not before attained by any craft of her type in American waters.

Fast Time on Motor Cycle.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—At Gaillon yesterday Lanfranchi on a motor cycle rode a kilometer in 29 3-5 seconds.

Both Shots Were Fatal.

LOWELL, Mass., Oct. 31.—Everett Eaton has shot and killed his wife and himself at North Chelmsford, where Eaton and his wife, who separated two weeks ago, had met by appointment. The two dined at the home of Eaton's sister, Mrs. William McClure, and later left the house together. On the street, and but a short distance from the McClure home, they were seen to stop and engage in an animated conversation. Suddenly Eaton drew a revolver and shot his wife and then himself. Both wounds were in the brain, and in each case death was instantaneous.

Fatal Fight Over Politics.

MASONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 31.—About midnight Clifford Hawley shot and instantly killed Simeon Donahoe and wounded William Mordow in the arm. Hawley and Donahoe, who had never met before, became engaged in a warm argument over politics, and Mordow stepped between them and ordered them to desist. For answer Hawley reached into his coat pocket and without withdrawing his hand from the pocket fired two shots, with the result given above. Hawley escaped.

Jacob W. Bunn Removed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—President Roosevelt has directed the removal from office of Jacob W. Bunn, finance clerk of the Philadelphia postoffice, for what he terms pernicious activity in collecting campaign funds from employees of that office. The charges against Bunn have been under investigation for some time by the civil service commission, which recommended that Bunn be dismissed.

Dunkard Preacher Dropped Dead.

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 31.—Rev. C. H. Hess, a Dunkard preacher, dropped dead in the Dunkard church at Wrightsville while delivering a funeral sermon. He was sixty-five years of age.

Rev. W. H. Mitchell Dropped Dead.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Oct. 31.—The Rev. William H. Mitchell of Portsmouth, Va., while preaching here last night dropped dead in the pulpit.

MODELS IN MILLINERY.

Ribbon Trimming on Headgear. The Season's Popular Colors.

Ribbon will play a prominent part as a trimming on hats and frocks. The soft messaline ribbons are manipulated into the daintiest little roses imaginable with which to adorn my lady's natty headgear or frock.

Large zibeline hats are very much the rage for dressy wear. They are trimmed with ostrich plumes and sweeping amazone feathers. Ribbon and embroidery are extensively used in their construction.

Jet bead trimming appears on some of the Paris model hats, but it is doubtful whether such garniture will be popular unless mingled with mousseline on theater toques. White chiffon is to be made up into stunning little evening toques, touched here and there with silver.

Chestnut brown mingled with bronze green tips falling off to golden amber and russet greens makes some remarkable studies in hat color schemes.

A high white felt directoire hat is embellished with a high crown of golden brown and green velvet foliage. An upstanding brown and amber amazone plume gracefully sweeps toward the back, and long brown velvet strings complete the picturesque whole.

The smart little hat illustrated is of soft gray felt, turned up on one side and in the back with shaded old rose ribbon flowers, the same trimming forming a semiwreath about the crown.

WRAPS A LA MODE.

A Long, Loose Mantle Is Now a Veritable Necessity.

This year the separate wrap takes an important place in the wardrobe, and three or four handsome wraps for different occasions must be found in a complete outfit. One for evening wear may be of fine chiffon cloth, velvet or satin, and if it is to be especially stunning the garment will be of velvet trimmed with fur and old lace; if of less expensive materials, any odd arrangement of color or design will bring it up to chic.

For serviceable wear there is a wrap which is made of cloth three-quarter length, with three deep capes, the longest reaching below the waist and set on from a flat, braid trimmed collar of some becoming color in velvet. It is double breasted in front and fastens with eight large buttons. This is a particularly comfortable wrap, as there are no sleeves to crumple the dainty gown worn under it.

Black satin directoire jackets, with their wide revers, enameled buttons and girdle of velvet, with long loops at one side, belting in the full jacket skirt, are very stunning. As a finish a jacket of this kind has the usual jabot and sleeve ruffles of lace.

The elegant wrap illustrated is of heliotrope pastel cloth, made with a pelerine of shirred ruffles, edged with bands of the same colored velvet. Two ruffles, similarly edged, are placed at the bottom of the wrap. The stole and cuffs are of ermine, and the lace at wrist and neck is of ecru alencon. This style admits of a much simpler makeup, and velvet could very successfully take the place of the ermine.

By EMERSON HOUGH

Author of "The Story of the Cowboy."

Assuredly."

"Then tax New France!" cried Law, his hand coming down hard upon the table, his eyes shining. "Mortgage where the security doubles every year, where the soil itself is security for wealth greater than all Europe ever owned."

"Oh, very well, monsieur; though later I must ask you to explain."

"You admit that no more money can be forced from the people of France."

"Ask the farmers of the taxes. Ask Chamillard of the treasury. My faith, look out of the window! Listen! Do I not tell you that France is laughing?"

"Very well. Let us also laugh. Let us all laugh together. There is money in France, more money in Europe. I assure you these people can be brought to give cheerfully all they have."

"It sounds well, Monsieur L'as, but let me ask you how?"

"France is bankrupt—this is brutal, but none the less true. France must repudiate her obligations unless something be swiftly done. It is not noble to repudiate, your grace. Yet, if we cancel and not repudiate, if we can obtain the gold of France, of Europe—"

"Body of God! but you speak large, my friend."

"Not so large. All subjects shrink as we come close to them by study. 'Tis easy to see that France has not money enough for her own business. If we had more money in France, we should have more production, and if we had more production, we might have taxes. Thereby we might have somewhat in our treasury wherewith to keep the king in the saddle, and not under foot."

"Then, if I follow you," said Philippe, leaning slightly forward and again placing his finger tips judicially together, "you would coin greater amounts of money. Then, I would ask you, where would you get your gold for the coinage?"

"It is not gold I would coin," said Law, "but credit."

"The kingdom hath been run on credit for these many years."

"No, 'tis not that kind of credit that I mean. I mean the credit which comes of confidence. It is fate, necessity, which demands a new system. The world has grown too much for every man to put his sixpence into the other man's hand, and carry away in a basket what he buys. We are no longer savages, to barter beads for hides. Yet we were as savages, did we not come to realize that this insufficient coin must be replaced, in the evolution of affairs, just as barter has long ago been replaced."

"And by what?"

"As I said, by credit."

"Do not annoy me by things too deep, but rather suggest some definite plan, if that may be."

"First of all, then, as I said to you years ago, we need a bank, a bank in which all the people of France shall have absolute confidence."

"You would, then, wish a charter of some sort?"

"Only provided your grace shall please. I have of my own funds a half million livres or more. This I would put into a bank of general nature, if your grace shall please. That should be some small guarantee of my good faith in these plans."

"Monsieur L'as would seem to have followed play to his good fortune."

"Never to so good fortune as when first I met your grace," replied Law. "I have given to games of chance the severest thought and study. Just as much more have I given thought and study to this enterprise which I propose now to lay before you."

"And you ask the patent of the crown for your bank?"

"It were better if the institution received that open indorsement."

A slow frown settled upon the face of the other. "That is, at the beginning, impossible, Monsieur L'as," said the regent. "It is you who must prove these things which you propose."

"Let it be so, then," said Law, with conviction. "I make no doubt I shall obtain subscriptions for the shares. Remember my words. Within a few months you shall see trebled the energies of France. Money is the only thing which we have not in France. Why, your grace, suppose the collectors of taxes in the south of France succeed in raising the king's levies. That specie must come by wheeled vehicle all the way to Paris. Consider what loss of time is there, and consider what hindrance to the trade of the provinces from which so much specie is taken bodily, and to which it can return later only a little at a time. Is it any wonder that usury is eating up France? There is not money enough—it is the one priceless thing; by which I mean only that there is not belief, not confidence, not credit enough in France. Now, given a bank which holds the confidence of the people, and I promise the king his taxes, even as I promise to abolish usury. You shall see money at work, money begetting money, and that begetting trade, and that producing comfort, and comfort making easier the collection of the king's taxes."

"By heaven! you begin to make it somewhat more plain to me."

"One thing I beg you to observe most carefully, your grace," said Law, "nor must it ever be forgotten in our understanding. The shares of this bank must have a fixed value in regard to the coin of the realm. There must be no altering of the value of our coin. Grant that the coin does not fluctuate, and I promise you that my bank actions, notes of the chief bank of Paris, shall soon be found better than gold or silver in the eyes of France. Moreover, given a greater safety to foreign gold, and I promise you that too shall pour into Paris in such fashion as has never yet been seen. Moreover, the people will follow their coin. Paris will be the greatest capital in Europe. This I promise you I can do."

"In effect," said the regent, smiling, "you promise me that you can build a new Paris, a new world! Yet much of this I can in part believe and understand. Let that be as it may. The immediate truth is that something must be done, and done at once."

"Obviously."

"Our public debt is twenty-six hundred millions of livres. Its annual interest is eighty millions of livres. We cannot pay this interest alone, not to speak of the principal. Obviously, as you say, the matter admits of no delay. Your bank—why, by heaven, let us have your bank! What can we do without your bank?"

CHAPTER XXXV.

A DAY OF MIRACLES.

The regent of France kept his promise to Law, and the latter in turn fulfilled his prophecy to the regent. The Banque Generale de La's et Compagnie was seized upon by the public, debtor and creditor alike, as the one new thing, and hence as the only salvation. As ever, it pleased Paris to be mystified. In some way the rumor spread about that Monsieur L'as was philosophique; that the Banque Generale was founded upon "philosophy." It was catch-word sufficient for the time.

"Vive Jean L'as, le philosophe—Monsieur L'as, he who has saved France!" So rang the cry of the shallow-witted people of an age splendid even in its contradictions. And meantime the new bank, crudely experimental as it was, flourished as though its master spirit had indeed in his possession the philosopher's stone, turning all things to gold.

One day, shortly after the beginning of that brilliant spectacular series of events destined so soon to make Paris the Mecca of the world, there sat at table, in a little, obscure cabaret of the gay city, a group of persons who seemed to have chosen that spot for purposes of privacy. Yet privacy was difficult where all the curious passers-by stared in amaze at the great coach near the door, half filling the narrow and unclean street—a vehicle bearing the arms of no less a person than that august and unscrupulous representative of the French nobility, the Prince de Conti. No less a person than the prince himself, thin-faced, aquiline and haughty, sat at this table, looking about him like any common criminal to note whether his speech might be overheard. Next to him sat a hook-nosed Jew from Austria, Fraslin by name, one of many of his kind gathered so quickly within the last few weeks in Paris, even as the scent of carrion fetches ravens to the feast. Another of the party was a man of middle age, of handsome, calm, patrician features and an unruffled mien—that De la Chaise, nephew of the confessor of Louis the Grand, who was later to represent the young king in the provinces of Louisiana.

Near by the latter, and indeed the central figure of this gathering, was one less distinguished than either of the above, evidently neither of churchly ancestry nor civic distinction—Henri Varenne, sometime clerk for the noted Paris Freres, farmers of the national revenues. Varenne, now serving but as clerk in the new bank of L'as et Compagnie, could have been called a man of not great standing; yet it was he whose presence had called hither these others to this unusual meeting. In point of fact, Varenne was a spy chosen by the jealous Paris Freres, to learn what he might of the internal mechanism of this new and startling institution which had sprung into such sudden prominence.

"As to the bank of these brothers L'as," said the Prince de Conti, rapping out emphasis with his sword hilt on the table, "it surely has much to commend it. Here is one of its notes, and witness what it says. 'The bank promises to pay to the bearer at sight the sum of fifty livres in coin of the weight and standard of this day.' That is to say, of this date which it bears. Following these, are the words 'value received.' Now, my notary tells me that these words make this absolutely safe, so that I know what it means in coin to me at this day, or a year from now. Is it not so, Monsieur Frasiin?"

The Jew reached out his hand, took the note, and peered over it in close scrutiny.

"'Tis no wonder, Monsieur le Prince," said he, presently, "that orders have been given by the government to receive this note without discount for the payment of the general taxes. Upon my reputation, I must say to you that these notes will pass current better than your uncertain coin. The specie of the king has been changed twice in value by the king's orders. Yet this bases itself upon a specie value which is not subject to any change. Therein lies its own value."

"It is indeed true," broke in Varenne. "Not a day goes by at this new bank but persons come to us and demand our notes rather than coin of the realm of France."

"Yes, yes," broke in the prince, "we are agreed as to all this, but there is much talk about further plans of this Monsieur L'as. He has the ear of his grace the regent, surely. Now, sir, tell us what you know of these future affairs."

"The rumor is, as I understand it," answered Varenne, "that he is to take over control of the Company of the West—to succeed, in short, to the shoes of Anthony Crozat. There come curious stories of this province of Louisiana."

"Of course," resumed the prince, with easy wisdom, "we all of us know of the voyage of L'Huillier, who, with his four ships, went up this great river Messasebe, and who, as is well known, found that river of Blue Earth, described by early writers as abounding in gold and gems."

"Aye, and there comes the strange part of it, and this is what I would lay before your lordships, as bearing upon the value of the shares of this new bank, since it is taking over the charter of the Company of the West. It is news not yet known upon the street. The story goes that the half has not been told of the wealth of these prov-

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark, 14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

OPERATION ON TAKAHIRA.

Japanese Envoy to Washington Seized With Appendicitis.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Mr. Kogoro Takahira, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary from Japan to the United States is at the Hotel Majestic in New York under the care of Dr. A. M. Shrady, where he was operated on for appendicitis yesterday. He went to New York for the purpose of negotiating for the purchase of a carriage for the use of the legation in this city. His trip was intended to be very brief, and as soon as he had completed his purchase the minister intended to return to Washington. The carriage which has been in use by the legation for some time was destroyed in a fire in a livery stable in this city several weeks ago.

In response to a telephone message from the Japanese consul at New York announcing the serious condition of the minister Mr. Masanao Hanihara, the third secretary of the legation, went over to New York and will remain with the minister.

There were many expressions of regret in Washington over the news of Mr. Takahira's illness. It is sincerely hoped that his recovery may be hastened, as Mr. Takahira is anxious to participate in the courtesies which are to be extended to Prince Fushimi, the adopted brother of the emperor, whose arrival at San Francisco is scheduled for the second week in November. Mr. Eki Hioki, the first secretary of the legation, has been designated to meet the prince on his arrival at San Francisco, but it is probable in view of the minister's illness that some one else may be designated to that duty, leaving Mr. Hioki in charge of the legation.

It was stated at the Japanese legation late last night that the operation had been successful and that the minister's condition was satisfactory.

MURDERED AT NEWPORT NEWS.

John Gardner, Found Unconscious, Died From Wounds.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Oct. 31.—John Gardner, who died in the Newport News hospital, was murdered, according to the belief of Coroner Gary, who has investigated the case.

Gardner was found unconscious on the beach by the police last Sunday. He was apparently sleeping soundly. His slumber, which ended in death, was unbroken for 128 hours, and the physicians diagnosed his case as diabetic coma.

A post mortem examination disclosed a clot of blood on the brain, caused by a heavy blow, evidently from a sand bag.

Gardner came here from Philadelphia, where he was employed by the Union News company. A brother is a Pennsylvania railroad conductor, and another brother was secretary of Charles Emory Smith, former postmaster general.

The coroner holds an inquest today. The police claim to have information which will lead to the arrest of the murderer.

KILLED HIS FARM HAND.

Ross Schafer Shot Former Employer Near Belmore, O.

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 31.—Ross Schafer, a farmer, aged sixty years, living near Belmore, called John Hann, aged thirty, who had been employed by him as a farm hand, from his residence and under cover of the night shot twice at Hann from a hiding place, letting go the contents of a double barreled shotgun.

Hann, not knowing what had happened, ran squarely into Schafer, and the third shot penetrated his stomach, producing almost instant death.

Hann had secured a judgment against Schafer for services rendered only the day before in court, and Schafer sought revenge. Schafer is held to answer to the charge of murder.

Simplicity Marked Funeral of Nash.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 31.—Extreme simplicity marked the last rites over the body of the late George Kilbon Nash, former governor of Ohio. The body lay in state in the Broad street Presbyterian church for more than an hour preceding the funeral. The Rev. S. S. Palmer, pastor of the church, read the burial service and offered prayer. "Nearer, My God, to Thee" was sung by the Columbus Glee club. The burial at Green Lawn cemetery was private.

Peter Visits Ferdinand.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 31.—King Peter of Servia arrived here yesterday and was cordially welcomed at the station by Prince Ferdinand. The day's ceremonies concluded with a dinner in honor of the royal guest, at which in offering a toast to King Peter Prince Ferdinand said the visit constituted an epoch in the life of the two peoples and was an expression of their sincere and mutual understanding.

Newfoundland Elections Today.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 31.—The legislative general elections are being held today. The campaign closed last night. It is the prevailing impression that the government will win, though by a smaller majority than four years ago. The struggle has been the fiercest in the political history of Newfoundland.

Reyes Cannot Control Congress.

PANAMA, Oct. 31.—Advices from Cauca report that there is great discontent there and throughout Colombia. Apparently President Reyes, with his political enemies in the majority in both houses of congress, cannot control the situation. Paper currency is being issued in unlimited amount.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair and warmer; north winds.

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

Christy Mathewson, of the New York Nationals, holds the strikeout record for the baseball season just passed. The Giants' star twirler pitched in forty-two games and struck out just 198 men. He wound up with a lead of seven strikeouts over Victor Willis, of the Bostons. Matty has made some good pitching records in games against semi-professional teams since the season ended, but Rube Waddell carried off first honors when he struck out twenty-two men in a game with Emlinton last week. At that Rube lost his game by one run.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

F. O. Ball, chairman of the bowling committee at the Park Club, is trying out material for a regular team. Practice games are bowled every Friday night.

POLITICAL CHAT.

A voting machine has been installed in the city clerk's office and demonstrations of its workings will be given evenings from 7 to 9 from the present time until election.

On account of the Democratic mass meeting at Reform Hall, Friday night, the local members of the county committee did not attend the meeting in Elizabeth. There was little business to be considered and members of the committee from other parts of the county attended the mass meeting later in the evening.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—All bills against the city must be in the hands of the clerk before tomorrow night.

—Owing to dissatisfaction over the Whittier School taking part in the High School dedication exercises, Dr. Maxson explained the Board's action to the High School pupils this morning. His reasons were accepted and it is thought matters are now satisfactory.

Mrs. Van Cleef's Funeral.

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Abram VanCleef were held from her late home on Elm place, yesterday afternoon, with a large gathering of relatives and friends in attendance. They were conducted by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, who spoke feelingly of the many lovable qualities and high character of the deceased. The floral tributes were numerous and were extended by sympathizing friends. Interment was made at Somerville, where one of her sons reside.

P. A. C. Franchise for $800.

The proposition to sell outright the franchise of the Plainfield Athletic Club was to have been considered at a meeting called for that purpose on Saturday night. The club fixed upon $800 as the selling price and an offer for that amount had been received from Lines Groo, of Westfield, but the offer was withdrawn. The president of the club was authorized to sell the franchise for the figures stated and it is believed that a sale will be consummated tonight.

Thistle Club's Social.

The Scotch Thistle Club held its annual Hallowe'en social in Perseverance hall, Saturday evening. Music, games and an old-fashioned supper made up the programme. The committee in charge consisted of Mr. and Mrs. William Gloak, Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. John Calder. President Robert Kenney presided.

Thrown Off Fast Trolley.

While standing on the rear platform of a local trolley car coming toward Plainfield, John Conway, of Plainfield avenue, was thrown off by a fast eastbound trolley, Saturday night at Westfield, while the cars were passing each other on a curve. Dr. Albert Pittis found there was but a slight abrasion over the eyebrows.

Charles Overbaugh Assaulted.

Former Councilman Jefferson Newman committed an assault upon Charles Overbaugh, inventor of the non-refillable bottle, in one of the local hotels Saturday night. Overbaugh stated today that it was entirely unprovoked and that he would take steps to have him haled to court.

"Klondyke" Stockholders to Meet.

Stockholders in the Aluminum Press Company will hold a meeting in the office of Frank H. Smiley, 280 Broadway, New York, this afternoon, to make some settlement of its disordered affairs. It is said the concern may be reorganized.

Black at Dunellen.

Gubernatorial Candidate Charles C. Black, accompanied by the Middlesex county candidates on the Democratic ticket, visited Dunellen and New Market this morning, where mass meetings were held.

DON'T FORGET TOMORROW WILL BE THE LAST DAY TO REGISTER.

WINNERS ON THE TRACK

Rex, Fancy Spot, Pilotina, Sphinx and Others.

SOME GOOD HEATS

List of Horses Finishing in First, Second and Third Positions.

Before a crowd of several hundred spectators, the third of the weekly matinee races was held at the Plainfield Driving Park Saturday. There were more entries than in the former races, and several of the events were split heats.

In spite of the fact that A. C. Blair's surrey broke down in the 2:30 race and lost him the first heat, he won the next three races, and his pacer "Rex" distanced the other entries with ease. In this class, Tom Brantingham's "Maryland Boy" won the second prize, and "Glitters Lad," owned by J. H. Green finished third. The time for the this race was 2:24, "Rex" making the first half in 1:09.

In the 2:27 class, Green's "Fancy Spot" won three out of the five heats run, "Ned Davis," owned by D. C. Smalley, taking the other two heats. "Butcher Girl," owned by Edward Kinsey, of Somerville, won the third prize in this race. The best time was 2:30.

Though a similar accident occurred to B. Carpender, of Woodbridge, in the 2:35 class, as the one which happened in the first race, "Pilotina Sphinx" won the three heats, and was awarded the first prize. The second went to "Sadie Smith," a horse owned by L. D. Wood, Jr., and the third to B. Thorn's horse, "Brightson."

The three minute race was won by J. H. Green's "Sadie Trevel," "Aloyetta" owned by M. Hodge, of Somerville, second, and "Grace," N. B. Smalley's horse, third.

In the running race, "Luctatson" owned by Huntington, of this city, finished first; "Mumey," owned by G. M. Campell, of Woodbridge, second and "Dark Night," owned by J. B. Rowden, third.

IN THE CHRISTIAN FIELD

WORK IN THE CHURCHES OF THE CITY AND BOROUGH.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will meet in the church on Wednesday afternoon.

A hallowe'en social will be held this evening at the home of W. E. VanCourt at Oak Tree for the benefit of Marconnier chapel.

The Thimble Club, of the First M. E. church, has resumed its work and regular meetings are now being held in Vincent chapel every Friday afternoon.

The local managers of the Baptist Home for the Aged will be at the First Baptist church on Thursday to receive donations to be placed in barrels to be sent to the Home at Roseville.

Miss Mabel Wilson will be the delegate from Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school to the New Jersey Sunday-school Association's State convention at Burlington November 15, 16 and 17.

The Woman's Society for Christian Work of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will meet in the parlors of the church Wednesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock for sewing. At 4 o'clock there will be a business meeting.

Miss Laura Gesswein, of East Fifth street, sang a solo, "O, God Be Merciful," during the offertory in Trinity Reformed church yesterday morning. Miss Gesswein has a pleasing soprano voice and her enunciation is excellent.

Barn Social.

Amid the usual festivities appropriate to Hallowe'en, about sixty members of the Young People's Society, of the First Baptist church, met in William Newcorn's barn Saturday night. The loft of the barn was decorated in autumn trimmings, and with jack-o'-lanterns, presented a very picturesque appearance. All sorts of games were played and the attendants at the social had a most enjoyable time. Refreshments were served.

Memorial Communion Table.

The communion table which has been placed in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church and which was used yesterday morning for the first time, was a gift of a member of the church in memory of her father.
